Davy & Clark, Druggists, Renfrew, dated June 3rd, write," Burdock Blood Bitters though comparatively a new preparation, has taken the lead in this locality as a blood purifier, our sales of it being equal to that of all other medicines used for the purpose during the last year." 18.

A Boston paper says Mrs. Langtry "is handsomer than any woman in Boston except four." The editor of that paper evidently has four grown-up females in his family.

Queerious that the Chinese men should have such long hair. Ladies, if you would have your hair as long as the Chinese and as beautiful as a Houri's, use Carboline, the deodorized petroleum hair renewer and dresser.

England seems a nest of typhoid fever, not only in the low but in the high places. The Duchess of Connaught has but just recovered from it, the Prince Consort died of it, the Prince of Wales just missed dying of it, and now Mr. Fawcett, the Postmaster-General, and his wife's cousin, are both down with it.

VEGETINE does not act as a cathartic to debilitate the bowels, but cleanses all the organs, enabling each to perform the functions devolving upon them.

"A. P." 108

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2, $4, $5, or $10 lots. By post pre-paid. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, V.S. Edin. Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION Co-operative Life Assurance. Provide for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON PAGE, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-street East. Business Agent and Valuer.

The following occurred at [illegible] bath school on Sunday: [illegible] what were given the [illegible] Moses?' Little boy—"[illegible] tables."

Testimonial from Mr. W. S. [illegible] Webber & Son, Manufacturers of [illegible] Instruments:—

Brantford, Ont., [illegible]
W. Sutherland, Esq.: Dear [illegible] pleasure in bearing testimony to the [illegible] your Rheumatine. Last spring I was [illegible] disabled with Rheumatism, and tried [illegible] remedies, baths, etc., and finally [illegible] cure. I purchased and used three [illegible] and it effected a complete cure, for I [illegible] had a return of the disease since. Yours truly, W. S. [illegible]

Vegetine

Neuralgia, Kidney Complaint and Rheumatism Yield to Vegetine.

BOWERY BEACH, Me., Nov. [illegible]
MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: For [illegible] my wife was a great sufferer from [illegible] and within that time has tried a [illegible] kinds of medicine, but received no [illegible] she took the Vegetine, and since taking [illegible] received so much benefit, she takes pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from Neuralgia or Kidney complaint.

For many years I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism, and have never found anything that gave me the relief that Vegetine has. Therefore I take great pleasure in recommending it to any one suffering from Rheumatism as being one of the best blood purifiers in use.

REV. A. COOK,
Member of the Maine Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rheumatism is a Disease of the Blood. To Cure Rheumatism it must be treated as a Blood Disease.

REV. WM. T. WORRALL

recommends Vegetine for Rheumatism and Sciatica.

Fall River, Mass., May [illegible]
Mr. H. R. Stevens:
Dear Sir—For some years I have been at times, much troubled with acute and chronic rheumatism. I especially suffered severely from sciatica. By the advice of friends who knew the benefits conferred by Vegetine, I began its use, and since that time [illegible] had no attack like those I previously suffered. For some time past I have had no return of the trouble, except occasionally a faint intimation which disappeared upon taking a few doses of the Vegetine. I also take pleasure in adding my testimony in favor of its excellent qualities in abating an inveterate salt rheum, and I consider it no small pleasure to have been thus relieved free. Respectfully,
WM. T. WORRALL,
Pastor First M.E. Church.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

TORONTO, March [illegible]
Mr. H. R. Stevens:
Dear Sir,—I was troubled with Rheumatism in my knee and hip joints for nearly a year. Tried a number of medicines to effect a cure, but none gave me any relief. A friend recommended me to try your Vegetine, which I did, and after taking two bottles of it I found relief. I took four more bottles, and the pain completely left me. I feel satisfied it is a cure for Rheumatism. Yours respectfully,
M. ALLEN,
6 Rossin House Block, Toronto.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

GENERAL STORE AND BUSINESS for sale in good village on T., G. & B. R.R., doing an easy trade of $15,000 per annum; about $6,000, which can be reduced; premises, $2,250; would exchange for Ontario property. MACKINTOSH AND PETERS, Toronto.

MERCHANT TAILORING BUSINESS in thriving western city—old established and doing a fine cash trade of $20,000 per annum; stock of tweeds and gents' furnishings, $6,000. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

MANUFACTURING BUSINESS, premises in Dundas for sale; staple article; yielding good profit; good opening for energetic working person; premises and plant, $500. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

WORM [illegible]
Are pleasant to take Purgative [illegible] destroyer of worms in Children or Adults

Ontario Pulmonary Institute

135 Church-st., Toronto, Ont.

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.
PROPRIETOR.

Over 40,000 cases successfully treated during the past 17 years for some form of bronchial and lung trouble.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved medicated inhalation combined with proper constitutional treatment. Consultation free.

If impossible to call personally at the Institute for an examination, write for List of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

ONTARIO PULMONARY INSTITUTE,
135 Church Street, Toronto, Ont.

The Auxiliary Publishing Co.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

PAPER DEALERS

IN STOCK:

No. 3 Printing Papers, (all the standards)
Cards, Bill Heads.
Printing Inks,
Roller Composition,
Wooden & Metal Rules,
and all kinds of Printers' Supplies.

Estimates promptly furnished for all kinds of newspaper printing. Our facilities for turning out first-class work are unrivalled. Compare prices before ordering elsewhere.

We have advertising space reserved in one hundred and ten of the best weekly papers in Canada, published in towns and villages. The total circulation of these papers is [illegible] copies per week. Rates very low. Send us a list of what you wish to advertise and we will promptly return you an estimate of the cost for one time or one year's insertion in our [illegible] list. Our list is suitable for almost every kind of advertising, such as "Farms for Sale," "Business Chances," specialties of all kinds, merchandise of every sort; in fact, anything which goes either direct or indirect to the consumer. Address,

S. Frank Wilson,
Proprietor Auxiliary Publishing Co.,
33 & 35 Adelaide-Street, W., Toronto.

Appeal Poem.

I am an advertiser great!
In letters bold and big and round
The praises of my wares I sound—
Prosperity is my estate.
The people come,
The people go
In one continuous,
Surging flow—
They buy my goods and come again,
And I'm the happiest of men;
And this the reason I relate—
I am an advertiser great.

There is a shop across the way
Where ne'er is heard a human trend—
Where trade is paralyzed and dead—
With ne'er a customer a day.
The people come,
The people go,
But never there—
They do not know
There's such a shop beneath the skies,
Because he does not advertise;
While I with pleasure contemplate
That I am an advertiser great.

The secret of my fortune lies
In one small fact which I may state
Too many tradesmen learn too late—
If I have goods I advertise!
Then people come
And people go
In constant streams,
For people know
That he who has good wares to sell
Will surely advertise them well;
And proudly I reiterate
I am an advertiser great!

HIS SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XVI.—CONTINUED.

And that word he would not say. Never should Muriel know that the man she loved and with whom she had been so happy, the man who was the father of her boy, was not her husband. He had said that no pain or sorrow should every come to her through him—he should keep his word; he had vowed that it should be the work of his life to keep her in ignorance of the grief and misery that darkens the lives of many of the children of men—and he would keep his vow. Because of his love for her—his great, noble, unselfish, almost divine love for her—he would give up name, home, wife, everything; he would buy her happiness at the cost of all that made his life worth the living. Was greater sacrifice than this ever asked of any man? Does history record any braver, more heroic act than this? I do not think so.

But on, the struggle, the terrible struggle, even the strong spirit and the quivering form the great soul and the stricken heart. How he writhed in his agony, clasping in his despair, while upon his burning forehead gathered the icy drops of death.

"Muriel, Muriel, I cannot give you up!"

That was the cry that went up from the breaking heart.

Many memory went back to that day when in the little cabin he had found Muriel's picture tightly clasped in Arundel's fever-hot hand, he remembered the thought that had crept over him as he listened to his brother's wild ravings about the beautiful face with its soft brown eyes.

That had been the beginning of it. How he had begged him to tell him of it, and how earnestly he had listened to the most detail about her life. He saw it all now. Arundel had learned to love Muriel before he ever saw her, and when he believed him, Russel, to be dying, the thought came to go back in his stead, to exchange this lonely, desolate, loveless life for one of love and rest, and luxury. Ah, if it had been a fearful temptation, Arundel Anthon had never had the strength to withstand temptation in any form.

Through the long hours of that terrible night Russel Anthon crouched there, busy with those torturing thoughts, unconscious of the darkness, feeling neither hunger, thirst, or fatigue. The grey light of the dawn creeping through the curtained window startled him, and he staggered to his feet.

He stood in the centre of the apartment before the sight of his own face in a mirror, and a low exclamation escaped him; it was changed so, his face, in one night. Then he went nearer until he stood in front of the large sheet of glass, and then looked steadily at his own reflected image.

"Old, gray, lame," he muttered "no wonder for her in her youth and beauty; she could love me when I was strong and upright, she would not love me now. No, no, God sees as it is, and so long as she is happy can bear it—the agony, the loneliness, the despair.

In this weak state, the long night watch, the sleepless hours spent in a passion of anguish, the lack of food, was beginning to tell upon him. The reaction was setting in, the overtaxed brain was commencing to reel, the brave heart was growing faint.

"I wonder what is the use of my living," he thought; "it would be better for them all, it seems to me, if I was dead. There is nothing for me to do in the world. I have no part; Arundel has my place. God must have forgotten me."

Suddenly he drew from his pocket a silver-mounted revolver; it was one Henry Glenmore had given him. He had given him many things—that dead friend of his—but he had found that the Indians had robbed him of everything.

Gazing the deadly weapon in his hand, he looked down at it. It was loaded, there were seven bullets in it; one of them in his head would be enough to put an end to this misery. He put his finger upon the trigger and grasped it back; slowly he raised the pistol, placing the cold steel against his temple; another moment and Russel Anthon would have been dead by his own hand.

"Dear old friend, I leave my boy to you; I have no one else in all the world but you to care for him."

It was Henry Glenmore rise out of his grave to stay his friend from dying the death of a coward, for, plainly, as though they had been spoken close to his ear, Russel Anthon heard these words.

The hand that held the revolver dropped suddenly at his side, a gleam of recollection came into the fixed staring eyes.

"Mr. Henmore's boy," he muttered. "I had forgotten about him, and I promised my dying father that I would take care of him."

When little Roy Glenmore's mother was dying, she had felt that she could not go and leave her baby behind her; "Oh, my God, let me take him with me now!" she had prayed, and God, in His great, far-sighted mercy, had thought it best not to answer that prayer; it had been His will that little Roy should live. And surely that innocent baby-life had not been lived in vain, for, but for the thought of that little fatherless, motherless child, Russel Anthon would, in his terrible despair, have taken his own life.

For the sake of that little lonely child, for the sake of the promise he had made to his dead friend, Russel Anthon resolved to live.

"And a little child shall lead them."

Did you ever stop to think of the many poor, despairing creatures who have been led by a little child out of misery, away from sin? Clinging baby fingers have been strong enough to raise many a life out of the dust; hearts bowed down with grief, or throbbing with fierce passions, have been comforted and calmed by the soft touch of a baby hand.

Russel Anthon never knew how he lived through the twenty-four hours that followed that long night of agony. For the first time he found himself brought face to face with the stern necessities of life. He had not a dollar in the world that he could call his own; all the money that had once been his belonged now to that false Russel Anthon, who had everything that had once been his.

Henry Glenmore had said that if the time should ever come when he needed money to use what he had left just as if it had been his own—and the time had come. He would use a little of the dead man's wealth until he could earn some money for himself, for that he must do; life for him meant work. He felt that he could not remain in New York; he must go away somewhere, where he did not yet know; but first he would go and find little Roy.

It was a beautiful October day that he arrived at the little cottage among the hills of New Hampshire, which had being the child's home since his babyhood. He introduced himself to the kindly faced woman who was the mistress of the house as Henry Glenmore's friend; then, when he had told her of his death, she went away to fetch Roy into the room. She soon returned bringing the little boy with her. He was a beautiful child with great lustrous brown eyes, and golden hair that lay in soft rings all over his pretty head, and he went fearlessly to Russel's side, laying one tiny hand upon his knee, as he said in a sweet, clear, childish voice:

"Where is my papa?"

Gently the answer came.

"He is dead, Roy."

The innocent brown eyes were raised to his with a solemn, earnest look in them.

"But I don't want my papa to be dead; de odder 'ittle childwen have papas and mammas—Roy neber had any mamma; mamma dead they tell him, dat means gone away far off, where Roy can't go; now papa dead too."

The little lip quivered pitifully, and with a deep tenderness rising in the desolate heart, Russel drew the child closer to him.

They were alone together in the old-fashioned little parlor; Roy's nurse had bustled out into the kitchen to prepare a dainty lunch for her unexpected guest.

"I will take care of you, Roy."

It seemed to comfort him a little in his great misery to know he had something to care for.

Roy nestled closer to him.

"Roy will be a velly good boy," he murmured, shaking his golden head earnestly, then suddenly, "have you any 'ittle childwen like me?"

How cruelly the innocent question hurt him; the agony was surging over him again.

"No, Roy, no; I am all alone."

A glad smile broke over the child's face.

"Then you can be my papa, an' I will be your 'ittle boy," he said gleefully.

Through all his agony, Russel Anthon had not shed one tear; but the tears fell now, as, clasping Roy tightly in his arms, he buried his face in the child's soft hair.

"You shall be my little boy, Roy—and I shall not be utterly alone!"

CHAPTER XVII.

It wanted but a few moments to the hour for closing, and the many clerks in the large wholesale house of R. P. Morehead & Co., were preparing to leave the building. It had been a busy day, most of them had worked hard, but none of them appeared to be very much fatigued. Here and there well-dressed young men, in groups of two and three, were standing, talking and laughing together, telling each other their plans for the evening's amusement, giving their respective opinions upon the merits and personal attractions of a celebrated transatlantic actress, who was at that time drawing large audiences at one of the fashionable theatres, while the older men were also talking together; but more quietly and seriously, the subjects of their conversation being politics, business, and affairs in Wall street.

"Mr. Fay, has Mr. Brandon come down stairs yet?"

The question was asked one of the salesmen by a tall, handsome man about fifty years of age, who had walked quietly down the centre aisle of the store, and as he passed near them, a group of young men hushed their laughter into respectful silence, for the tall man was their employer, the head of the firm—Mr. Robert Morehead. The salesman addressed raised his head deferentially.

"No, Mr. Morehead, Mr. Brandon has not yet come down; shall I send up stairs for him?"

"Yes, I would like to see him in my office."

So saying, Mr. Morehead turned and went back into his private office, where a moment later he was joined by the man who was called Richard Brandon—the man who had taken that name because he had been robbed of his own—the man who had been wronged as cruelly as ever man had been wronged before in this world—Russel Anthon. A year had gone by since that day, when, standing in the darkened parlor of his own house, he had heard the words which, simple and few as they had been, had swept joy and gladness, hope and faith, forever out of his life, and he had lived—lived through that long year of agony and ceaseless pain.

"Sit down, Brandon," said Mr. Morehead, pushing forward a chair. "I want to talk to you a little business first," laughing as he spoke, "pleasure afterward."

As the two men sat there together in the little office, the gaslight falling full upon the face of both, any one would have supposed, reasonably too, that the one who called himself Richard Brandon was as old certainly, perhaps a year or two older, than his companion. The grayish tinge that had fallen upon Russel Anthon's face, during that night of fierce, intolerable agony when the full realization of his own horrible misery had come upon him, had never left it, neither had the drawn look upon the mouth and eyes; his hair and heavy beard were grey as Mr. Morehead's, his tall figure bent, would any one have believed him if he had told them that he would be thirty-four years old his next birthday?—no, they would have said, "It cannot be."

That sorrow and mental pain can make a man old long before his time had been well proven in Russel Anthon's case.

You ask how it happens that since, when a year ago, Russel Anthon gave up for the sake of the love he bore his wife, home and friends, as well as name and wealth, he is sitting now in Mr. Morehead's private office, the honored friend and trusted employee of a man whose name is well known in the highest social and business circles in the city! In this wise it happened, and it was one of those dispensations of Providence which show us that God does not forget His children.

For a day he had remained with little Roy Glenmore among the breezy New Hampshire hills; then, with the child's kisses upon his lips—the warm, innocent kisses, but for which the noble, stricken heart might have turned to ice—he went back to New-York to look for work, by the proceeds of which he could support life, which, without any warning, had suddenly grown so utterly dark.

But even in the great busy city was so hard to get work of any description; if he applied for any position the first question which was asked him was, "What are your references—who are your friends?" and what answer could he make them? Only this: that he had neither friends nor references—he, whose friends a year before had been so innumerable.

It was terrible to be brought thus face to face with the harsh necessities of life, but perhaps it was best for Russel Anthon that it was so, for had there been nothing for him to do but sit down and brood over his own misery, his brain surely would have reeled, reason would have deserted him, the brave heart would have fainted. As it was, if he lived—and for little Roy's sake he had determined now to live—he must work; for he would not use for his own support any of the money Henry Glenmore had left; he had kept strict account of every penny he had been forced to spend of it: before he died he would pay it all back to Roy.

One morning he was walking slowly and wearily along Broadway, wondering sadly what he should find to do. It was a cold, cloudy morning; it had rained during the night, and the cross-walks were black with slippery, slimy mud. As he was crossing a wide street a gentleman in front of him slipped, lost his balance, and fell heavily to the ground, at the very feet of a huge pair of horses which, harnessed to a heavily-laden truck, were being driven rapidly along. Another instant and those iron-shod hoofs would have beaten out the brains of the prostrate man; but in that instant Russel Anthon had seized the plunging horses by their bridle. With an almost superhuman effort, and at the risk of his own life, he turned them out of their course, and held them, rearing as they were, until some one had raised the fallen man, who was no other than Robert Morehead, and the danger was passed. It was all over in a second; yet, if in that second Russel Anthon had not acted as he had done, Robert Morehead would have been picked up a crushed, mangled mass of quivering flesh instead of a living man. And Mr. Morehead knew this; as long as he lived he remembered it. He was not seriously injured—only bruised and jarred by his fall—and when some one offered to assist him to his home he said, quietly, "I want the man who saved my life at the risk of his own to go home with me."

So Russel Anthon had gone with him to his beautiful home, and had been introduced to his wife and family, as Richard Brandon, for that was the name he had decided to bear through life in place of the one which had been stolen from him.

From the very first Robert Morehead had been attracted toward the sad-faced man whose deep, mournful eyes had told so plainly that his life held a bitter, hopeless sorrow. When Russel told him that his name was Brandon, he had asked in his quick way, "Any relative of the Boston Brandons?" and he never forgot the look of agony that had swept over the worn face as Russel had answered, "I have no relatives, I have no friends, I am alone."

"I don't know anything about his life, perhaps I may never know," Mr. Morehead said to his wife, "and if I never know anything more about him than I do now, it will not make any difference to me; this I do know, that he is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and I feel sure that he has known a terrible sorrow. However it may be, I like him; he saved my life, and as long as I live he shall be my friend."

So in his great misery and desolation, Russel Anthon was not utterly alone, he had the love of an innocent child, and the friendship of a true-hearted man.

When Robert Morehead found that his new friend wanted work, it did not take him long to find him a place in one of the departments of his own large business.

"But I have no references, Mr. Morehead," Russel had said, bitterly, when the position was offered him, and Robert Morehead had answered, "I want no references other than your own face, Richard Brandon, I can trust you."

When the misery of his life had first come upon him, Russel Anthon had thought that he could not remain in New York, but afterward, when the mad, convulsive agony had settled down into quiet, hopeless, unalterable, unceasing pain, he had decided that it would be easier to stay where he could sometimes see Muriel.

"Ah, if I knew that she was happy—happier with him than she could ever have been with me—life would not be so hard," he said to himself, his pale face growing luminous with an unselfishness divine. "If through my suffering Muriel has gained happiness, then I am content to suffer."

But the spirit, brave and strong as it was, was clothed in flesh, and there were times when that poor, quivering flesh cried out in such bitter agony that the angels in heaven must have wept to hear it. Many were the nights, when, alone in his room, Russel Anthon moaned out in agony:

"I cannot bear it, I cannot live without Muriel, I must go and tell her the fearful wrong Arundel has done me. Even if she dies, it will be better than knowing that she is living in Arundel's arms, giving him her love, sleeping with her head upon his breast."

And then always the thought of the child—Muriel's child and Arundel's—would come to him, and he would whisper brokenly, while great drops of water stood thick upon his forehead:

"No, never through me shall shame and sorrow come upon her."

No man in Robert Morehead's employ had worked harder than he had done during the year he had been there. He had made the interests of his friend and employer his own; he had brought to bear upon that branch of the business under his control, all the magnificent business abilities which he had inherited from his father; he had astonished even Mr. Morehead. Early and late he toiled, always at his place, and there was not a man, young or old, in the house who did not respect and honor Richard Brandon, for, though he was grave and silent, he was gentle and tender, kind and courteous with every one with whom he came in contact.

Scarcely a day passed that he did not see either in the streets or in the store some one of his many former friends, and only God knew how bitter it was to have men who had taken him by the hand, who had sat at his table in the old happy time gone by, pass him now without a sign of recognition. He had seen Graham Trowbridge many times; it was with him just as it was with all the rest; how could any one see any resemblance between this old, gray, lame, bent man and the one they had once known! Besides, everybody knew that Russel Anthon was still abroad with his beautiful young wife.

Though he longed unutterably to see Muriel's face again, he shivered, and grew faint and sick, when he thought how terrible it would be to have her eyes rest upon him as upon a stranger; he wondered would he could possibly bear that. He knew they were still abroad, Muriel and Arundel, for many times he had passed the house—the house which had once been his home—and it was still tightly closed; he tried to think of Muriel with a baby in her arms—Arundel's child—but the thought brought with it agony which completely unmanned him.

Little Roy was still with his old nurse among the New Hampshire hills; every month or so he went to see him, feeling instinctively that the love the child gave him so freely kept him from sinking into despair. How he grew to love the pretty boy whose brown eyes were so like his dead father's, and he spent hours sometimes, planning out the future. He had read with the greatest astonishment the letters and papers Henry Glenmore had left to his care; truly they were of the utmost importance; he would guard them well; he knew now the story of Henry Glenmore's life—it was a strange story, but the time had not yet come, it might never come, when it would be his solemn duty to tell it to Roy. With the exception of the Morehead family, he had no friends, their house was the only one he visited. So the first year of the life of self-sacrifice which, for the sake of the love he bore his wife, Russel Anthon had taken upon himself, had passed.

For a few moments Mr. Morehead talked earnestly about some matters relative to his business, then he said in his hearty way, "There! so much for business, now for pleasure. Brandon, I want you to go home with me and dine with us to-night. My married daughter has just returned from Europe and I want you to meet her and her husband; oh, you must come, I shan't take no for an answer; besides, Mrs. Morehead expects you, and you must not disappoint her, you know."

So Russel went and met for the first time Mr. and Mrs. Disbrow, Mr. Morehead's daughter and son-in-law. Just as her father had been, Mrs. Disbrow was attracted toward the grave man, whose refined face, with its expression of sorrow and pain, interested her deeply, and sitting beside him at dinner she had talked with him in her own graceful way, telling him of her trip abroad, when she found that he had visited every part of Europe.

Dessert had been placed upon the table when Mr. Disbrow said:

"I have a box at Wallack's for to-night, and we are all going; yes, Mr. Brandon, you too," and Russel shook his head, "you certainly will not refuse the first invitation I have had the opportunity to extend to you."

"No, indeed," said Mrs. Disbrow, smiling; "that would never do; you will go with us, will you not, Mr. Brandon?"

He could not very well refuse, yet how he shrank from going. The last time he had gone to the theatre it had been to Wallack's, and Muriel had been with him; how lovely she had looked that night in her rich dress of blue velvet with a great cluster of deep red roses at her waist, and she had been so interested in the play she had cried at one part of it—she was so tender-hearted, his little Muriel, she could not bear even the sight of mimic grief and misery.

"Brandon, of course, you will go with us," said Mr. Morehead.

With a shiver he came back to the present; mechanically he bowed his head, he could not speak, for whenever these thoughts of Muriel came sweeping over him, those iron fingers seemed to clutch his throat, depriving him for a moment of the power of speech.

The theatre was well filled with people when the Disbrow party entered their box; all the other boxes were occupied, with the exception of the one directly opposite theirs across the stage.

Seated beside Mrs. Disbrow, Russel listened to the music of the orchestra, thinking of that other night when he sat in that very theatre, only then Muriel had been sitting by his side; he had felt her warm breath upon his face, had listened to her while she talked—now where was she, his darling?

A sudden exclamation from Mrs. Disbrow aroused him, his eyes followed hers across the stage, and then it seemed as if the blood around her heart was turning to ice; for standing in the opposite box, the crimson draperies falling about her graceful figure, her wonderful hair gleaming like molten gold in the gaslight, he saw Muriel.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Bermuda's Coral Reefs.

"There's hills and mountains down there, sir," said an old sailor to me one day as we were scudding in toward the sound; "and fields and forests, all made of coral. Of a clear day eight or ten miles outside, sir, with my water-glass, I've seen things as you could hardly believe if I told you. Mighty big trees, and places like grass plots and onion fields, bigger'n any in Bermuda: groves like palmettos, and buildin's and churches—cathedrals, I believe you call 'em—like they have in London, with heaps of steeple and big fish going to meetin'!"

"No fairy tale, now, Captain?"

"No sir; all fact, except 'bout the meetin'. Fish hain't got much feelin', specially sharks, and marays, and gray-snappers, you know."

The coral reefs on which the Bermuda Islands are built extend a distance of from ten to twenty miles beyond the land west, north and east, much of the intermediate space being dotted with islands and darkened by innumerable shoals that are of endless torment to sailors. The shores are with little exception rugged, broken, made up of overhanging cliffs and peculiar terrace like layers of rock. In places the ceaseless action of the waves has made deep caverns, bored holes, carved fantastic shapes and made decorations that resemble stucco work. Sea moss carpets many of these weird looking structures, and hangs in long wreathes from escarpment and cornice, where mermaids and mermen can go to housekeeping and find all sorts of beautiful and æsthetic articles to embellish their interiors. Hermit crabs scramble awkwardly along the ledges near the water, lookin; like criminals trying to hide, scudding for an untenanted periwinkle or vacant conch shell when pressed for time, while here and there, in natural aquaria, little tanks and bowls of water in the rocks, you can see pretty small fry that seem to have concluded to drop in there and rest till the tide comes up again and enables them to rejoin their congeners in the deep green sea.

Persian Characteristics.

The great charms of the Persians is their manliness and heartiness. These qualities in the Afghan are linked with blood-thirsty treachery and greed, but the Persians are not blood-thirsty or cruel by nature, and one need fear no violation of the laws of hospitality under a Persian roof. Again, whatever may be the rule in Ozarbaijan and Khorassau, a Persian in the part where I travelled has no objection to eat with a European or to smoke from the same palyan, unless he believes some one of the stricter school among his countrymen is present. I need hardly say what an element of attractiveness lies in this one fact as a contrast to the caste exclusiveness of India. In other respects also the Persians have an admirable freedom from prejudices. They are quick witted and ingenious people, highly imitative and ready to adopt the manners of western nations. "You English have been 100 years in India," said a Persian to me, "and you have not yet taught the people to drink out of glass. If you were governing Persia in twenty years the whole population would be wearing European clothes and eating with a knife and fork." This was perhaps an exaggerated way of putting the truth. Certainly Persia presents no deep-rooted obstacle to the influx of European thoughts and manners, even of European fashions, if they could but reach the women. A nation which has produced so many free thinking poets can never relapse into bigotry. The influence Hafiz is greater in the long run than that of all the moullahs, and one sees at once that the Mohammedanism of Persia is very different from that of India. Another instance of that freedom from prejudice which distinguishes Persians is their love of travel. The one redeeming point in a Persian servant is his uncomplaining endurance of long marches, and the cheerful curiosity with which he confronts the prospect of an excursion into some half-starved region among the savage hills—"Six Months in Persia."

A Forgotten Translation.

Prof. Francis Bowen of Harvard brings to notice an almost forgotten translation of the Bible by Charles Thompson who was Secretary of the Continental Congress, and published his work in 1808. Thompson was a distinguished teacher of Latin and Greek in Philadelphia, and he spent the better part of twenty-eight years on his version of the scriptures. Prof. Bowen has been examing the book, and it is his deliberate judgment that, in many respects, it is better than the revision of 1881. Thomson anticipated some of the changes recently made. He printed the texts in paragraphs, and the songs and poetical citations as poetry in lines of an unequal length. He also omits the passage in the first epistle of John, concerning the "three that bear record in heaven," and he prints in brackets the doxology at the close of the Lord's Prayer, mentioning in "many ancient manuscripts" it it not found.

Wagner, the composer, as is well known, ran away with the wife of Hans von Bulow, the eminent pianist, with whom he was then on terms of intimate friendship. Von Bulow's wife and two daughters now live with Wagner, as though legitimately the latter's wife and daughters. This singular arrangement does not seem to cause much difficulty by dissension in the respective families, and it is reported that Von Bulow's mother, who is very wealthy, has just made a will bequeathing 550,000 marks (about $120,000) to each of the granddaughters whom Wagner has cared for.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, JAN. 18TH, 1883.

AGRICULTURAL.

The various township Agricultural Societies' annual meeting were held on Thursday last, and as far as we can learn, the interests taken by members and others in the prosperity of the various societies is growing. There is a question that has been discussed more or less at those meetings to which we draw attention, and solicit discussion through the Standard. The question is, whether it is for the best interests of a township society to allow outsiders (non-residents of the township) to compete for prizes or not, Our leading Agriculturists are divided on the question, and a friendly discussion from them through the press would no doubt be interesting and profitable at this season of the year while those matters are fresh in their minds. We are not prepared at the present time to take a very strong stand on either side the question, neither is it an easy matter to advance any particular mode of action which would work satisfactory in all cases. For instance, one society may have its place for holding their show fair in the centre of their municipality, while another may have theirs on the boundary of two or more townships. Glenelg Society's grounds are, about on the corner of four townships, and is generously supported by farmers from each, while Euphrasia show ground is located in the centre of that township. Our opinion is that a township society should be confined to the township when at all practicable. It is a well known fact that when a man comes a long distance to become a member, it is his intention to make it pay. We have often seen it the case where a society secured three or four dollars from parties at a distance, those few were fully prepared, and succeeded in carrying off the half of the entire prize money. Then some one says had it not been for the exhibit of those outsiders we would have a very small show. True, yet if your local men who support the society knew that outsiders were not allowed to exibit, they would bring out what they have, and a spirit of rivalry would spring up, where otherwise very few had the courage and means to compete successfully with a few who make it a business of attending all the Agricultural show fairs within perhaps 20 miles round. We will refer to this matter again ; in the mean time solicit the views of our Agricultural friends, get your ideas into as short a space as possible.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Artemesia Agricultural Society was held in Flesherton, on Tuesday the 11th inst. There was a large attendance of the present members. This society is in splendid working order, with a balance on hand of $66.89. This, with a present membership of fifty, is a great improvement from last year at which time the society was about dead. The following are the officers elected for the current year, viz : Robert Oliver, President ; James Brodie, Vice Pres.

DIRECTORS—M. Akitt, A. Stewart, J. Assum, H. King, D. Harrow, J. Stewart, R. Plant, D. McMillan, A. Down. A. R. Fawcett, Auditor ; Wm. Clayton, Auditor.

A motion was put to the meeting and carried, leaving the selection of where the exhibition will be held to the directors.

After the business of the public meeting was concluded the directors met together and elected J. Brodie as their Sec. Treas.

The next meeting of the Directors will be held in Flesherton on the 31st of July.—COM.

GRANGE DISTRICT MEETING.

At the regular meeting of the Loyal Orange Lodge of Artemesia, held in the Lodge Room of No. 244, Sydenham road, on Tuesday, Jan. 9th, the following District Officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Lodge No. 1118, Bro. J. Brodie, re-elected District Master; No. 509, Bro. Wm. Wright, D.D.M. ; No. 1118, Bro. T. Grandy, D. Chap. ; No. 429 Bro. T. H. Firth, D. Secy ; No. 1045, Bro. J. Elliott, re-elected Treas. : No. 244, Bro. J. Blakely, D. D. of C.

As Bro. J. Brodie, District Master, was absent at the burial of one of his children, a resolution of condolence, here to appended, was passed, and a copy sent to the bereaved Bro. J. Brodie, as follows:—

To the Worshipful District Master:

Dear Sir and Bro.—As it has pleased the Grand Master of the universe, in Himvsterious Providrnce, to summon your daughter from her home on earth, and we desire to express our unfeigned sorrow at her death, and your sore affliction. we rejoice in your confidence that she joined that home not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. We desire to express our regret that at her death you lost an affectionate member of your family. Although you will miss her in your family circle yet her memory will ever be green in the recesses of your heart. We desire, as a lodge, to tender you our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, in this your sore affliction. May He who quieted the troubled waters, send peace and consolation to your sorrowing heart. We feel that you sorrow not as those who have no hope, but that, after a short separation, you and yours may rejoin amid that blest throng and in what happy home where parting is no more.

Signed on on behalf of the District-Orange Lodge, Artemesia.

Jas. Elliott. John Boland, and T.H. Firth, Chairman of Com.

THE CARNIVAL.

The following are the names of those who took prizes at the Carnival on the 12th.

Best Lady and Gent, Miss Lyons and J. Sproule. Best Comic, W. J. Benson. Best Lady, Miss McNea. Best Gent, J. McDougall. Best Costume, W. J. Galbraith.

Nearly 100 spectators were present, and an enjoyable evening spent. The next Carnival will take place on the 30th when $25 worth of prizes will be given. See large posters.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

We understand that intoxicating liquor is being dealt out at the billiard parlor. Now, sir, this should not be allowed ; the billiard department itself is said to be without license, and the liquor business should not be tolerated, It appears strange that the law can be set at defiance so glaringly in our midst.

A CITIZEN.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF GLENELG AG. SOC. FOR 1882.

Your Directors in presenting their annual report take great pleasure in congratulating the members on the success of the fall exhibition, taking into consideration the expense incurred by purchasing the ground, fencing, building hall, and other outlays.

The members will no doubt be satisfied that this was sufficient cause for the low prizes which the directors were obliged to offer.

During the past year we have managed to pay out nearly six hundred dollars (exclusive of borrowed money paid for ground) in prizes and substantial improvements made in Society's grounds by building fencing, etc. These improvements being made we can now hope for a good and prosperous future for the Society.

As it always takes members to make a Society, we sincerely hope that the agriculturalists in the surrounding country will become members and take a deep interest in the prosperity of the Society, by so doing they would undoubtedly experience the great pleasure of seeing this Society one of the best in the County if not in the Province.

All agricultural societies have for their object a grand motive—the advancement of our interests—and they have already done a great work in introducing thorough-bred stock and seed grain, yet there is a great work for them to do.

We respectfully submit these remarks for your consideration.

WM. DOUGLAS, President.

ON OUR TABLE.

"Letters to a young Merchant." A book of 120 pages. Every clerk should read it; cant fail to prove interesting and valuable. Published by the Toronto News Company at 30cts.

Wilford's Microcosm No. 6, Vol 2, is before us. This valuable monthly is deeply interesting and cannot fail to arrest the interest and draw out the minds of its readers. $1 per. annum, published by Hall & Co., 28 Park Row, New York.

Holland council minuter and Black Creek Grange crowded out this week, will appear next.

THEY SAY.

Barney O'Hare's wife says Mrs. Fiddlesticks told her that she heard Caswell's wife say that Bob Ingersoll's wife told her that Granny Dundalk heard that it was no doubt that the widow Barsell said that John Richards wife thought Charlie Brown's wife believed that old Mrs. Gifford declared positively that Ned Hanlan had told Wallace Ross that his Aunt declared to the world that it was generally believed that Charlie Biggar had told in plain terms that he heard Boyne Water Flesherton say that Hilly Priceville was known to have said that Waterfall Eugenia told her that W. J. McFarland had publicly declared without fear of contradiction that he imports direct, sells more tea than any two houses in the county of Grey, and stands head and shoulders above all competitors. A visit to his Mammoth establishment will convince any and all as to quality and price.

WHAT WE WOULD LIKE TO SEE.

The Auditors Report for Markdale village for the year 1882.

The Minutes of their last meeting.

A general genuine January thaw.

Business continue brisk.

A large quantity of stave timber is now on hand for the Markdale stave factory.

A fearful fire broke out last week in Milwaukee, Mich., in which Newhall was burned; 82 persons perished in the flames.

The Toronto safe works of J. & J. Taylor were burned on Tuesday night. The loss amounting to $40,000 is covered by insurance.

MAPLE WANTED.—A large quantity of clean maple in bolts or logs wanted for which a good price will be paid in cash. Apply to M. & W. ARMSTRONG.

NOTICE.—The parties that took the buffalo robe out of Vogan's shed on the night of the 15th will please return it as they were seen taking it, and save further trouble,

WM. VOGAN,
Holland Centre.

ANNUAL SOIREE—L. O. L. No. 1383. will hold their annual tea-meeting on Friday the 26th inst., at Kell's corners. Tea will be served from 5 to 6 30 p. m., after which the following Rev. gentlemen and others are expected to give addresses, viz ; J. S. Corcoran, A. Wilson, N. A. McDiarmid, and R. W. Tindall. Admission 25cts. The members will endeavor to make it an enjoyable affair.

At the annual meeting of Glenelg Agricultural Society held in Markdale on the 11th inst., the following named gentlemen were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year :— Wm. Douglas, President; Edw. Rutledge, Vice do.; Directors—John Boland, Edw. Davis, Robt. Walker, B. Coleman, A. Shiel, F. Burton, Hugh McKee, S. Boyce, Jas. Lauder. Auditors—Wm. McLaughrey and C. W. Rutledge. Secretary-Treasurer, A. Turner.

LADIES YOU CAN BUY $5 ALL WOOL Shawls for $3.85 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY $4 CAP FOR $3 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY A BEAUTIFUL set of China for $5 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY A $1.25 Shawl for 90 cents at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY A $3.25 Shawl for $2.50 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY A PAIR OF $5 Kid Boots for $4.50 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY BLACK CASHmere, worth 60 cents, for 40 cents per yard at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES, YOU CAN BUY 9 YARDS splendid Wincey for $1 at Reynolds & Son.

LADIES' CRETONS OF THE VERY latest novelty, very low in price, at Reynold & Son.

FULL CLOTH, WORTH 60 CTS. FOR 45 cts., at Reynolds & Son.

GENTLEMEN, YOU CAN BUY A $2.50 Cap for $1.75 at Reynolds & Son.

BOOTS AND SHOES AT AWAY DOWN prices; best value in town, at Reynolds & Son.

AS WE ARE GOING TO SELL THE balance of our Winter stock without reserve you may expect great bargains.—Reynolds & Son.

DIED.

BRODIE—In Artemesia, on Monday, Jan. 8th Henrietta Melvina Alberta, beloved daughter of Mr. James Brodie, aged 8 years, 2 mon., and 17 days.

BIRTHS.

DOUDLE—In Glenelg, on the 14th inst., the wife of Mr. Richard Doudle, of a son.

GENOE—In Artemesia, on the 22th Nov., the wife of Mr. Richard Genoe, of a daughter.

GENOE In Willoby, Ohio, on the 29th Nov., the wife of Mr. Thomas Genoe, of a son.

The above brothers were married to two sisters on the same day a year ago (20th Jan.) being daughters of Adam Hislop, Esq., of Artemesia. And the above births took place the same hour.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows :

GOING NTH. Read Down. A.M.	P.M.		GOING SOUTH Read Up. A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	10 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	9 0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.80 to $0.85; Spring $0.82 to $0 88 Barley, 55c; Peas, 68t; Oats, 34c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $10.00 ; Pork, 7.75 to 8.15.

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.78 to $0.82; Spring, $0.80 to $0.84 Barley, 40c; Peas, 68c; Oats, 34c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $9.00; Pork, $7.00 to $7 65

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.90 to $0.95; Spring, $0.90 to $0.95; Barley, 48c to 70c; Oats, 40c to 41c Peas, 69c to 71c; Hogs, $8.20 to $8.30; Potatoes, per bag, 60c to 65c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs 26c to 28c.

PROPERTIES For SALE

South half of Lot 5, con. 9, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres, 4 acres cleared balance good hardwood, bush situated 4 miles from Markdale on good road; also a village lot with comfortable house thereon, on Mill Street, Markdale. For further particulars apply to G. S. Bowes or Wm Armstrong executors of the estate of late Mark Armstrong. Esq. 122-124

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

ALL THE NEWS FOR A CENT.

THE

Toronto Daily World,

THE ONLY ONE-CENT MORNING PAPER IN CANADA.

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR!
25 CENTS A MONTH!!
ONE CENT A COPY!!

Less than Half the Cost of any other Morning Paper.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY by canvassing for the World. Agents and Canvasseers wanted everywhere. Send postcard for terms and

SAMPLE COPY FREE.

WORLD PRINTING CO.

No. 18 King street east, Toronto.

Auction Sale

OF VALUABLE.

F'rm Property

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage made by Richard Taylor, default having been made in payment thereof, will be sold by public auction at Tuck's Hotel, Village of Maxwell, on

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY THE 1ST, 1883

at 1 o'clock p. m., the following property :

Lots Nos. 18 and 19 in the 7th Concession of Osprey, County of Grey. About 100 acres cleared and in a fair state of cultivation. balance of 100 acres timbered with hardwood. The above property is well situated as to roads and markets, being on gravel road, and 1 and one-half miles from Maxwell. The above property is well watered ; good buildings ; young orchard, and in a very desirable locality.

TERMS.—The purchaser shall pay a deposit of $200 at the time of sale, the balance of one-third of the purchase money in two weeks thereafter ; the remaining two-thirds in cash or secured by a mortgage payable in from one to five years at the option of the purchaser

For further particulars, apply to

CREERAR & MUIR,
Vendors' Solicitors, Hamilton.

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

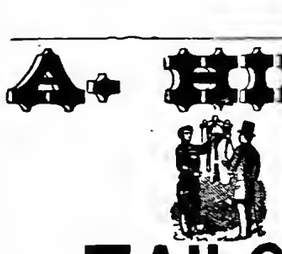
All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and at Hours from

GEO. GRANT

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of



FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. all at prices.

J. W. FORD

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILL

A. HILL

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store

MARKDALE.

Special attention to Cutting

If you want a Perfect Fit your Order with

A. HILL

September 20th 1882.

JNO. MONTGOMERY

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to all that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cakes

Bread, Buns and Confectionery in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, who has had a fruit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Balls and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882.

W. H. CAMPAIGN

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

SUFFOLK BOAR

A WELL BRED Suffolk Boar will stand on Lot 6, Concession 7, Glenelg. Also a Poland China Boar. Charges either $1 at time of service.

P. MCKAY.

Dec. 16th, 1882.

J. P. MARSHALL,

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO UNIVERSITY of Dentistry, will be at the Commercial Hotel, Markdale, on the third Tuesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

January 9th, 1883.

Doll & Brown

As Mr. Doll is leaving Markdale to go into the Wholesale Jewellery Business in Toronto, (and not wishing to leave Markdale altogether,) he has entered into partnership with Mr. W. A. BROWN, late of Flesherton, who is a practical watchmaker and jeweller of over 15 years experience, and comes with the best of recommendations from some of the leading watchmakers in the Dominion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the business in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will be done in a workmanlike manner.

All work will be guaranteed, and all goods sold will be found as represented, or money refunded at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers,

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

Local Items.

At the Glenelg council on Monday, J. S. Black, Esq., was appointed assessor, and Messrs Moffat and Firth Auditors.

L. O. District Lodge of Holland met at Holland Centre in the Lodge room of 740 on the 9th of January. All the Lodges in the district being well represented when the following officers were elected and duely installed :—George Fleming, D. M., re-elected; Michail R. Howey, D. D. M. ; Walter Crawford, Chaplain, re-elected ; John McCann, Treasurer ; John Gellespie, Secretary ; Wm. Patchard, D. of C.

Artemesia 4th line L. O. L. 1132 held their annual December meeting at which the following brethern were elected officers for the year 1883 :—James Fisher, W. M. ; James Rehill, D. M. ; W. T. McKee, Sec. ; J. McKee, Sec. Treas.; R. J. McKee, Chaplain ; J. Carson, D. C. ; W. R. Simmons, 1st Com ; 2nd W. Fisher, 3rd W. Cooper, 4th G. Blackburne, 5th J. Jamison.

The Berkeley Blazing Star L. O. L. No. 176 met in their lodge room on the 19th December, 1882, when the following brethern were elected office-bearers for the year 1883: —George Fleming, W. M., re-elected ; John Gallespie, D. M., re-elected ; Rev. J. S. Corcoran, Chaplain ; Andrew Walker, Treasurer, re-elected ; Walter Crawford, Secretary, re-elected ; Edward Brown, jr., D. of C. Committee—1st John Middleton, 2nd A. Ritchie, 3rd George Ritchie, 4th R. J. Boyd, 5th Wm. Virtue, Tyler, James Gallespie. Berkeley L. O. L. meets on the first Tuesday on or before the full moon in each month.

HORSE TRAINING.—A horse trainer, Mr. D. M. Bristol, of Michigan, was in town last Thursday, and gave a familiar talk upon his methods and an exhibition of their effects upon his own horse, to an admiring crowd. It certainly was most interesting to see the intelligent animal turn to right and left at a motion of the whip or of the head of the "professor" in the cutter behind—stop, back, or trot smartly forward, and all without lines, bridle, or bit. Mr. Bristol seems to touch the right chord in advocating all training by kindness, tempered with firmness, without any of the irritating rope fastenings or mouth-rending safety-bits so often used.

The Journal of Commerce says :—One of the leading merchants of Owen Sound, Ont., who has devoted much of his time recently to the developement of the shipping interests of that harbor and the Northern lakes, is about to sell out his hardware business, with the view of applying himself exclusively for the future to the shipping trade. Mr. W. Kough the gentleman referred to, is also secretary and treasurer of the Owen Sound Dry Dock and Shipbuilding Co. The dry dock opened in 1877, is the only one in Canadian waters west of the Welland Canal. This dock is pronounced by competent captains and insurance men to have no superior on the lakes, either in American or Canadian ports. The total length of 304 feet ; width, 75 feet ; Depth 16 feet, with 12 feet of water on the mitre sill. The gate is 50 feet wide. This is a clean dock, being lined with square timber. Owen Sound Harbor is safe and commodious, and a good port for wintering. No winds affect it ; no ice jams or freshets; any depth of water, with soft bottom, and no boulders.

Mr. Blyth, candidate for the local legislature for South Grey, was in town this week.

The Mt. Forest Advocate has changed hands and shape and presents a creditable appearance.

Mr. Edward Sargent is about starting a shingle mill between Berkeley and Williamsford.

Water is fearfully scarce, creeks are lower than at any time in the history of the oldest settler.

Mr. Brown, Dentist and Jeweller, has arrived, and become a citizen. We extend to him the right hand.

We are pleased to be able to state that Mr. Geo. Beatty, who was stabbed, is now able to attend to business, and is getting quite strong.

Our correspondents will please send in their copy early in the week in order to insure insertion the same week, it is necessary to reach us by Tuesday's mail.

A heavy snowstorm raged on Saturday and Sunday. The Saturday express train was 22 hours late getting through. The roads are generally in a bad condition.

At the Artemesia council on Monday Mr. Elliott was elected Deputy Reeve, and Mr. Whitby Assessor. This is the eighth year in succession for Mr. Whitby as assessor.

Will the parties indebted to me kindly call and pay there accounts and save the unpleasent duty of dunning them for the same.

A McINTYRE.

The Monetary Times says :—A shipment of tea was made from Toronto the other day to Mr. W. McFarland of Markdale, consisting of 130 half-chests, which is said to be the largest which has ever gone over the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway at one time to a retail merchent.

NEW STAGE FARE.—Since our worthy friend T. Saunders has commenced running the 'bus to the station he has reduced the single fare to 15 cts. ; and to the Station and return 25cts. No doubt the public will appreciate Tom's liberality. He now runs the Stage from here to Durham on quick time, and comfortable conveyence.—Adrance.

The building operations at Winnipeg during the past years amounted to nearly six million dollars. The Canada Pacific Railway have spent half a millon in the city, and the corporations nearly the same in civic improvements. The assessment has increased from one to thirty million dollars, and the population from twelve to thirty thousand.

The pitiful wails that are arising in mournful chorus from the Ontario press on Christmas weather endured in that favored land, where the blizzard is unknown and the thermometer is so steady in its habits, are calculated to make the average Winnipegger pat himself on the back and thank God that this city is not as other places are. The weather here during the past month has been everything that could be desired at this season. Clear, calm, sunshiny days, the best of sleighing and a temperature just sufficiently cool to make walking pleasent, without being uncomfortable for driving. During the past week it has been particularly mild but without any accompanying slush that is making life in the East a burden. Those who are in search of a comfortable winter climate had better move up here. We have an occasional cold snap, not causing any discomfort, but our average weather is fully equal to that of any part of Canada. We challenge contradiction by any "trustworthy" or "resident correspondent." —Manitoba Free Press.

Judgement was given at Goode Hall last week by Hon. Justice Proudfoot in the long pending suits between the Grand Trunk and the Toronto Grey & Bruce. Our readers will remember that in June, 1881, a meeting of shareholders of the T. G. & B. R. was held to ratify the agreement for leasing to the Grand Trunk, at which certain bondholders who claimed a right to vote were excluded, and the agreement was declared ratified by the necessary two-thirds majority. Mr. Hendrie at once brought suit to have it declared that the agreement was not properly ratified, as the bond holders were improperly excluded ; while the Grand Trunk brought across suit to compel specific performances of the agreement. After numerous delays, the cases were at length heard about a month ago, and yesterday Justice Pronufoot gave his decision, finding that the bondholders ought to have been permitted to vote, and giving judgment with costs against the Grand Trunk in both suits. We hear it stated that the Grand Trunk will appeal, and it this is done, there is no telling when the end will be reached.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for prepairing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 75-127

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Nassau stree New York. 20

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 11, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Just Arrived !

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 122 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

Health is Wealth !

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars ; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner &Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West &Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 140 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A. bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 120-tf.

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c., it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES. PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences, Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN-FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful ; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 75-127

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 75-127 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold Great chance to make money. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. Any one can do the work properly from the first start. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money rapidly You can devote your whole time in the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Addres. STINSON & Co., Portland Maine. 71-126

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

$500 Reward !

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto, Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner &Co. Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it ; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you, at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats !

on hand, at the Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—

If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficien proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END

Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

Harness Establishment !

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED, from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

Nothing Like Leather.

M. M. M'LEOD,

MARKDALE.

NOT TO BE BEATEN !

All those who may have had the misfortune to have been born barefooted will bear in mind that we have just received the largest and best stock of leather ever before brought into Markdale, consisting of Spanish Sole, French Kip and Calf, and are now prepared to manufacture Ladies, Gents, Youths and Misses boots and shoes, from the stoga to the finest Kid and prunella.

Sewed Work a Specialty.

All work warranted. Invisible patching also done here.

M. M. McLEOD.

Markdale, Sept. 19th, 1881.

A French Detective's Exploit.

Even as the great clown, Grimaldi, was the prince and father of his imitators, so was the great Parisian detective Vidocq the prince of detectives.

The phenomenal alacrity which he exhibited in penetrating the motives and methods of caimes, and in unearthing criminals, has never been equalled.

In boyhood a gamin of the docks, he became a dialect performer in the concert halls of Paris, and gained a livelihood in a hundred different grades of employment before he turned his attention to the detection of crime.

At the time of his greatest fame as a detective, one Moirellet exercised the duplex functions of sexton and chanter of the fashionable church of Livry in the suburbs of Paris.

He was a shrewd, and, to all seeming, a very pious man.

When those northern pillagers, the cossacks, were expected in Paris, the people of the city and suburbs bethought themselves to conceal their most valuable effects.

The curate of Livry was anxious to remove the church plate and his own to a place of safety, and, being an imbecile old man, intrusted his valuables to Moirellet to be secreted.

M. Senart, a friend of the cure and a jeweller of Paris, becoming advised of the curate's action, also entrusted one hundred thousand crowns' value of precious stones to Moirellet, that they might be buried secretly and securely in the forest of Bondy.

A fortnight later Moirellet appeared before the cure, pale and distracted, to announce that the Cossacks had certainly passed through the wood and dug up the precius deposit.

So good was the man's reputation, so sorrowful his protestations, and so honest the method of his tale, that the old cure believed him at once; but M. Senart called to his counting room Vidocq.

"What kind of a man is this Moirellet?" asked the dectective.

"He enjoys a great reputation in all the neighborhood as a man of great piety, sagacity and prudence."

"Is he married?"

"Yes."

"Wife handsome—dressy?"

"She is very pretty and fond of dress."

"A native of Paris?"

"She was born and dwelt in her maidenhood in the suburb of Andrea."

"Good. Moirellet shall be called aside from the church to-morrow morning and quietly conveyed to prison. I will at once set forth to Andrea and learn what I can of his wife's family and her early life."

"But there is absolutely no proof warranting the arrest of Moirellet!"

"It is my business to find proof."

* * * * *

That afternoon Moirellet was stripped and put to the "pump," that a confession might be extorted from him.

The "pump" was a water-tight cell in the yard of the prison, into which a stream of water constantly flowed, which could only be discharged through the pump.

The only means by which the unfortunate inmate could prevent drowning was by working incessantly at the pump.

For three hours Moirellet endured the enforced labor, when at length the water was turned off, and he was removed from the cell in an exhausted state, he still protested his entire innocence.

That night, a coarsely-dressed German youth, vulgarly inebriated, was thrust into the apartment of the prison in which Moirellet was confined—much to Moirellet's disgust.

The German, however, dropped in one corner of the cell, and slept soundly all night, only at times muttering as if in his dreams such sentences as: "Vot I care no-how." "I got dot gold sure." "Vot could dey prove?" "Schmidt, shake hands mit myself—you vas all right."

In the morning Moirellet gave the turnkey a piece of silver and requested that he be furnished a veal cutlet for breakfast, "done well brown."

"And gif me also a preakfast of veal cutlet done well Schmidt," said the German, also giving the money.

"What do you mean by a veal cutlet done well, Schmidt?" demanded the amused turnkey.

"Vas dot not right? Dis shentleman he asked for a veal cutlet vell done brown, und I ask for one well done Schmidt? Vas you not haf gif dot name ven you sends de order?"

Moirellet and the turnkey laughed at the German's stupidity, but soon after, when the prisoners were eating their food alone, the German said:

"You laugh at me—but I vos dot man vat should laugh. Dond dink I vas a fool because I vas Dutch. You vas a shentleman, und I vas a tief. I robs a Brussian officer of a l his money. I got it. I go—hush!—dis very night, get it—go quick away from Vrance."

"How do you mean?" asked Moirellet, for the first time looking toward the boor without disdain.

"Hush! I vas a tief, I tole you. I knows all de tiefs—all der brisons—look here!"

And the Dutchman with a sly wink removed a neatly hidden slide in the sole of his heavy shoe, disclo ing three ingeniously wrought skeleton keys and a small vial.

"And do you mean, Schmidt, to break prison?"

"You shall see. I git my gold safe—I git safe out of Vrance. Dey vould not catch me ne , but I vas trunk."

"Then if you will aid me, away with you, I know of a vast treasure buried in the Forest of Bondy. A third of it shall be yours."

At midnight the German began work. Openi g the cell door with one of his keys, he peered forth into the dimly lighted corridor.

A turnkey was sitting near the door in a doze.

Saturating the handkerchief with the fluid from the vial, he soon had rendered that functionary insensible to noise.

Taking the keys that hung in his belt, he opened the door leaning to the main hallway of the prison.

Passing swiftly to the prison's front door he opened it.

Waiting and listening until the gendarme had passed upon his beat, the two men suddenly darted from the prison, crossed the dark street and escaped.

The German led the way through roundabout streets to the suburbs of Paris, and ere day break they had arrived at the Forest of Bondy.

It was a dark night, but Moirellet readily found the spot where the treasure was buried and, using sharpened sticks, the men soon unearthed the two large tin boxes containing it.

As they did so, a rustling in the forest leaves caused them to look up.

A score of gendarmes, with swords drawn stood in a circle about them, flashing the glare of their dark lanterns in their faces.

"Pierre Moirellet, you are my prisoner," said the German, placing his hand upon Moirellet's shoulder.

"And you are—"

"Vidocq."

"Heavens," cried the terrified culprit, "who would have thought it—you looked so clownish."

The prisoner was sentenced to six years close confinement. Vidocq was overloaded with compliments by M. Senart and the cure, who presented him with 5,000 francs for having so deftly recovered their lost treasures.

WEARY OF WAITING.

Probably the Oldest Person in the World Kills Himself.

Aneeo Largo, or Long Hide, burned himself to death at the Real de Castillo, lower California, on Thursday night, Dec. 14. For some hime the old Indian had been feeble and unable to walk. During the recent heavy rains that fell in that region the old man sought refuge in a cabin near by. Last week he crawled up to the house of Senor Francisco Parma, and told him he was very hungry. The latter gave him a good dinner, besides furnishing provisions for future emergencies, and then instructed the other Indians at the rancheria to care for him. They replied that they had always done so, as they entertained unusual reverence for the old man on account of his age. Thursday, the day in question, wae a cool day in lower California, and Long Hide was given an extra blanket by his dusky friends. This he soon tore into strips, put them on a fire, and soon his tepee was all ablaze. When this had been accomplished he plunged headlong into the burning mass. A stout young Indian, near by seized him and tried to draw him out of danger, but the old man grabbed a stake in the ground near by, held himself in the fire, and, before other help could come, was roasted alive, dying within a few hour after the occurrence mentioned.

Long Hide was married and the father of several children when the Mission of San Diego was built, 120 years ago, and from what he told parties who visited him he must have been not less than 30 years of age at the time. Three or four years go he lost a son who could remember when the mission was first built by Franciscan friars. The son must have been not less than 120 years of age. Long Hide told of the first settlement of Old Town years before the mission was built; of the coming of ships for water at Russian springs, and many things of great interest in the past history of San Diego and vicinity. Juan Melendrez, who lives near the Real de Castillo, says he knew Long Hide fifty years ago. and that he appeared as old then as he did the week before he died. He says the old man frequently beat the best horses owned in the country on trips to San Diego, 100 hundred miles distant from the Real, and then he often ceased deer until they gave up with fatigue. He would then capture them after they had laid down to rest. Until a year ago he was able to walk about and travel quite well. Since then he has been obliged to crawl about on all fours, like a cat or dog. He retained his sight perfectly, and all the faculties of mind up to the day he died.—San Diego (Cal) Sun.

Egyptian Knitting.

The Egyptians of the present—Kopts as well as Arab—run about with bare feet. The ancient Egyptians, on the contrary, who are now only to be seen in a dried condition in museums, possessed a very good method of knitting stockings, as is shown in the collection at the Louvre, in Paris. In the grave of a mummy there were found a pair of knitted stockings, which gave the surprising evidence, firstly, that short stockings, resembling socks, were worn by the ancient Egyptians; and secondly, that the art of knitting stockings had already attained great perfection in ancient Egypt. These curious stockings are knitted in a very clever manner, and the material, fine wool of sheep, that might once have been white, is now brown with age. The needles with which the work was done must have been a little thicker than we should choose for the same purpose, and the knitting is loose and easy. The stocking is begun just as we make the design, only in the simplest manner, with single thread; but in the continuation of the work it is not simply plain, but fanciful. The usual border of the stocking which prevents the rolling up of the work is narrow, consisting of a row of turned loops; and the circle, the nicely shaped heel, which is a little different from our method, show a very skillful hand. But in the point of the stocking there is a characteristic difference between the Egyptian stockings and our modern socks. While ours end in a rounded point the Egyptian stockings run out in two long tubes of equal width, like the fingers of a glove. This strange shape is made to suit the sandals, which are furnished with a strap, fastened about the middle of the sandal; and as the strap has to be laid over the stocking the division is needed.—Textile Manufacturer.

The Baron de Kendal, German Ambassador and music composer, has made Queen Margherita an admirer of Wagner and Mendelssohn. Her majesty is devoted to literature and the arts; Signor Masnari, a journalist, Signor Bonghi, a Greek scholar and translator of Plato, Senator Prat, a poet, and the Princess Trigano, an American celebrated for her talent as well as her beauty, are among the chief frequenters of her place.

A Race for a Kiss.

A butter peddler from Honey Lake relates with great glee how a neighbor of his was cured of too frequently tipping the gin bottle. This neighbor married a young, handsome and spirited lady, and for a month or two all went well in the house and about the farm: then the husband fell back into his old tricks. The wife remonstrated, and for a time the husband reformed. Presently, however, she became satisfied that the "bottle tipping" was again going on. When she spoke to her husband about the matter he swore that the "aroma" she detected was that of a colic medicine he was taking, he having developed a most intractable colic, for the relief of which he had brought home and paraded a bottle of medicine.

The wife was confident that there was kept somewhere about the premises a considerable store of a very different kind of medicine. She kept her own counsel and at the same time strict watch. In a day or two she discovered under a manger in the barn the secret hoard. She said nothing of the discovery to her husband.

Soon after the husband had business at a neighbor's, some two miles away. On his return home he was somewhat surprised at seeing a note pinned upon his front door. Hastily advancing he read as follows:

BEN—You will find the key of the house where you keep your colic medicine. I have taken Kitty and gone home to my mother. Father and brother Bob will come to-morrow for the trunk in which I have packed my things. NELLIE.

The husband rushed to the barn. At a glance he saw that Kitty, his wife's mare, and the side-saddle were gone. Darting to the manger he hauled off his corpulent demijohn of gin, and suspended from its neck found the key of his house.

Securing the key he sent the demijohn whizzing and crashing against a post of the barn. Bounding forth he ran to and mounted the horse he had left standing in front of his house.

Away he dashed. It was ten miles to the house of his father-in-law, and he was determined to overtake his wife before she could reach it, or kill the horse in the attempt.

Said the butter-man: "Now, I see'd Ben's wife come over the hill, half a mile south of my house on her little mare, Kitty, and begin to perform some queer abolution. After she'd got over the brow o' the hill she paced up and down the road for a time then she rid up and looked over the ridge for a while. After looking a bit she turned about and rid up and down the road a few times, and went up to the brow o' the hill again. So she kept doin' and once or twice she got off and led Kitty up to the top of the hill.

"I was puzzled as to whether she was waitin' for somebody or had lost something while on the way to her father's place, some four miles beyond my house. I was just about to walk out that way when I see'd her wheel Kitty round from the brow o' the hill and begin to ply her whip.

"In half a minute she was flyin' past my place like a wild woman. I stood at my door gate by the roadside, ready to holler out at her to know what was up, but bless you, she never looked to'ards me. Her eyes seemed set in her head, her face was pale, and at every jump she let into Kitty with her whip. I swar, her ridin' skirt fairly cracked as she bounded past me!

Jist then I heard a tremendous clatter behind me. Turnin' about, I see'd Ben acomin' over the pitch of the hill on his big black hoss like a wild Comanche. He was ridin' with loose reins, leanin away for'ard, and diggin his big spurs into his horse like he'd rip his insides out.

"He passed by with his hair and coat-tails sailin' back in the wind, and never turnin' his head to right nor left I thought I seed murder in his eye. I tell you, a million thoughts ran through my brain in a second. All the stories I ever heerd about jealous husbands and insane husbands went through my head in a lump, an' I do believe if I'd had my gun in my hand I'd have taken a wing shot at him on suspicion.

"I see'd Nell look back once, and then lay the whip to Kitty hott'rn ever. Ben was goin' like the wind. I know'd Nell was headed for her father's, and I see'd plain as day that Ben would get her 'fore she was safe landed.

"At last he was upon her. It was then neck and neck for a time, with Ben reachin' out for Kitty's bridle. At last he got it, and the two horses gradually slowed up till they finally stopped. I mounted my gatepost all of a tremble, expectin' to see somethin' dreadful happen.

"They stopped in the road talkin' nigh onto half an hour; then I seed Ben lean over and Nell lean over, till thar two heads came together.

"What the mischief!' says I, 'kissin' instead of killin'.' Well, that sort of fracas gits me!'

"After the head-bumpin', the pair turned about and came slowly joggin' along back

"As they passed me I called out to Ben to know what in the living jingo it meant. Ben began to stammer something 'bout half of which never got out through his big beard; when Nell sings out to me, 'Only a race for a kiss!' and givin' Kitty a cut that made her bound ten feet, she called out to Ben, 'Come on! a race to the top of the hill for another!' and away they both went.

"That was five year ago, and I never knowed the true meanin' of that wild, harum-scarum ride til about three months ago when the story 'bout the 'colic medicine,' leaked out among the wimmen folks. For a good while after the ride howsumever, I remember one of the neighboring men wonderin' what had come over Ben that he had shut down on his gin all of a sudden, and wouldn't so much as take a glass of Oregon cider.

"To this day, no doubt, Ben thinks that he had a desperate chase after Nell, and a narrow escape of her getting into the home den 'lone with her big brother, her father and his mother-in-law: and I've never said a word to him 'bout how she fooled 'long under the brow o' the hill."—Virginia Chronicle.

The Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise entertained Madame Nils on at dinner the other day in San Francisco.

FLOODED EUROPE.

Stories of the Great Inundations in Germany and Austria.

BERLIN, January 12.—Between Christmas and New Year's the note of alarm was sounded in Central Europe that the headwaters of the Rhine, the Maine, the Danube, the Inn, the Moldau, the Vistula, the Oder, the Elbe, the Theiss and the Weser were rising owing to the melting snow on the Alps. Under violent southerly winds there was a heavy rainfall. Soon afterward the worst fears were realized. The districts bordering on these streams were inundated, and the floods which overflowed the banks laid the fields, vineyards and dwellings for miles under water, causing more destruction than the deluge of a month since.

Throughout Upper and Lower Austria and Bohemia the thawing of the deep snow was very sudden, and numerous avalanches fell in Styria, blocking the railways. The Danube immediately commenced to rise. The city authorities hastened to take measures to check the flood. Engineers and workmen were busy strengthening and repairing the bridges and dikes. News of danger came from hundreds of villages along the banks as the tributaries continued to bear immense masses of water into the main stream. By New Year's the Danube had overflowed its right bank, flooding the railway and station and driving the officials into the upper floors and offices. The Danube Navigation Company had boats and sailors ready and detachments of pontooners on duty in the Prater. The water flooded the engine which drove the electric light of the Karl Theatre and the audience had to leave.

In some towns deer took refuge among the houses and quantities of game, roebuck, pheasants, hares and partridges drifted down the river. There is scarcely any abatement as yet, the water standing 500 centimetres higher than its normal evel in Vienna, 668 in Pesth and 673 in Presburg. It is hoped that if the dikes hold out the worst is past. Linz and Pesth have suffered most among the larger towns, 75,000 acres of cultivated land lying south of the latter being submerged. The country folk saved their herds with difficulty, but left their houses to the mercy of the waters. The damage to property is serious everywhere, but the loss of life is not as large as might be expected, owing to the precautions taken in good time.

ON THE RHINE.

In Germany, especially in the Rhine provinces, the inundations were more destructive than for many years. The city of Mayence is in a critical position, the waters having advanced close to the walls and flooded the railways. The entire plain between Mannheim and Worms is one great lake ten feet deep. Five villages were destroyed and 250 houses have fallen in. In the Ried district, near Worms, twelve villages were nealy destroyed and 600 houses collapsed.

Ten thousand people are completely destitute. At Mannheim the whole district presents a melancholy aspect. Nothing is visible from the observatory but a sea of water, with a few trees and roofs emerging from the flood. The burgomasters of Worms and Mannheim left in boats. A number of lives were lost. At Heidelberg both lines of railway were destroyed. The water has risen to the ceilings in the lower parts of the town. Everywhere churches and public buildings have been opened to shelter the roofless sufferers. The public authorities are supplying food from Worms to Bodenheim and Lampertheim. At Bergstrasse the Rhine burst through the dams and swept away houses and herds.

All the streets of Cologne adjacent to the wharves are under water. The suburbs form an extensive lake. Five hundred people are houseless. From the warehouses the remaining goods are being moved away. The police and fire brigade are laying trestle walks to facilitate the escape of residents, while boats laden with household effects assist in the work of conveying merchants to their offices, into which they creep through the windows. Below Cologne the little towns of Mulheimer, Welde and Warrington are entirely under water. In Friesenheim houses have fallen and furniture is floating about. The inhabitants in many cases are prisoners in their half submerged dwellings, and are there threatened with famine. The Rhine is now begining to fall slowly, after remaining at its highest point for twenty-four hours. The Grand Dukes of Hesse and Baden are busying themselves with relieving the distress. Berlin and other towns have opened subscriptions but the damage done and the misery caused is so enormous that public and private charity will be taxed to the uttermost. To thousands upon thousands of Germans and Austrians this has been a sad and terrible Christmas and New Year.—N. Y. Herald.

ado Cheaply and Paid for Dearly.

To show the enormous profits made by gas companies the following figures have been ascertained from a scientific gentleman who has for several years been interested in gas production;

"You will be surprised to learn, perhaps, that the coal used by the larger companies costs them nothing, that is to say, their profits are so large that they entirely wipe out the original cost of the coal.

Let me give you outside figures; One ton of coal costs, say $5, which leaves a liberal margin on the actual figure paid for it. Add cost of converting it into gas, $2. This makes a total outlay of $7.

Now, from this ton there is given on an average 9,000 feet of gas, which at $2 25 per 1,000 will realize $20 25. To this amount add the proceeds of a caldron of coke (usually it is a caldron and a half), say $3, which with the value of the tar, worth about seventy-five cents, brings the total receipts from one ton of coal up to $24. Deduct from this the cost of the ton and the labor of converting it into gal, and you have a total profit of $17. So that actually the coal costs the gas companies merely the cost of conversion.

"Of course there must be an allowance made for wear and tear, but as the plant and other apparatus have long ago been paid for out of past profits, I have not included them in my calculation."—N. Y. Journal.

The late Duke of Sermonata was a Dantean scholar, a clever painter, sculptor, and carver in wood, a skillful goldsmith, and a friend of Sir Walter Scott in his youth.

Great souls are always loyally submissive to what is over them; only mean souls do otherwise.

The greatest pleasure of life is love; the greatest treasure, contentment; the greatest possession, health; the greatest ease, sleep; and the greatest medicine, a true friend.

Sound economy is a sound understanding brought into action; it is calculation realised; it is the doctrine of proportion reduced to practice; it is the foreseeing contingencies and providing against them; it is expecting contingencies and being prepared for them.

The desire to rise in life is universal. In some form or other it is the mainspring of human activity. It encourages industry, inspires enthusiasm, develops power, kindles energy. Thus it is not merely a legitimate desire, to be simply tolerated, but a necessary one, to be fully recognized and stimulated. Without it the man would be less a man, the woman less a woman, and society by so much the loser.

The rendering of kindness, sympathy and goodwill, the extension of unsought favors, the service of love, the unlooked-for errand of mercy, or comfort, or good cheer, are among the offices that cannot be claimed of us, and that therefore we feel somewhat at liberty to do or to leave undone according to our pleasure. Thus it comes to be an easy matter to postpone the kind action to a more convenient season; and in many cases it results in the entire abandonment of our benevolent intentions.

BACKBONE AND "GRIT."—In the ever-widening paths of commerce there open up before the young men of the nation large opportunities to win wealth and fortune. In agricultural, mining, industrial, and mercantile pursuits like avenues to attain distinction are presented. But fortune will not come by chance or distinction by hazard; both must be won by strong heroic endeavour. Backbone is vital to the achievement of lofty aims, and nerve and "grit" are essential requisites in the battle of life. A man, to triumph, must have faith in his enterprise and reliance in his ability.

Pinching the Toes.

A shoe dealer said to a reporter last evening that the majority of mothers exhibited more vanity than judgment in the selection of shoes for their young children. "One will bring her baby in here," he continued, "and ask me to try a pair of shoes on it that will look 'real sweet.' I know what that means, but I'm always sorry for the baby who is usually in its first short dress, and as skittish as any old maid about having its feet meddled with. I don't say that I'm going to put a shoe on it a size larger than the foot seems to be, but I do; at least I get it on as well as any one could fit a foot operated by a perpetual motion power. Then I trust to the mother's sense for results. If it's her first baby she will be indignant and say that she doesn't want the 'treasure' to 'look sloppy in its shoes.' They must fit exactly or she won't take them. I insist that the child's weight will push the foot out at least a fourth of an inch and that the shoe is just right. If she objects again I give in and find what she wants. The foot is squeezed into a tight shoe and the baby protests by squalling. Says the seraph is teething or colicky or hasn't had its usual nap and she shakes it up vigorously, while declaring the shoes are 'just lovely' and that its papa will be delighted."

"The chances are that when she wants another pair she will leave the baby at home and bring down its shoe literally burst out at the toe. She wants several pairs to take home for trial, and I notice that the only ones I considered unsuitable are the very pair she prefers. Children would have better looking feet if they had wiser mothers and the fault lies in the first shoes worn. One pair too short will ruin the feet, no matter how loose subsequent ones may be."

"Yes, but after the little people have laid a foundation for corns and bunion. I know many children between the ages of two and three years who have both these afflictions because their mothers wanted them to look cute, as they term this phase of foot squeezing."

"Is there no change in the shape of children's shoes.

"None. There can't well be because the sole must be sufficiently broad to stand the wear and tear. Square toes are preferred to round because they allow freer development of the toes. The spring heel, which was introduced nearly two years ago, is worn as early as two years of age, and has recently become fashionable for girls in their teens. It is nothing but a slip of leather inserted between the sole and that part of the shoe pressed by the wearer's heel. It is made that a smaller than No. 8 is made with a regular heel, and that is on the common sense plan, low and broad. These and the larger sizes have a higher top than has been usual for several years."

"Tell me something about baby shoes. How high are they numbered?"

"No 4 is the first shoe out of baby-hood. No. 0 has a soft sole of white kid and pasteboard, and is the successor of the little knit wool boots that are sold for babies in long dresses. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 have what is called the turned sole, sewed together on the wrong side and turned out. There are from four to five buttons on the side and a black tassel is now fastened at the top in front. The latest is to have a vamp of French kid with calf uppers; or what is still better, a half-boxed round toe tipped with patent leather."

The Italian Maiden.

A letter from Italy says: "The Italian girl from the cradle is cultured in expression, in words, by action and by looks. Her entire features, gestures and motions are highly expressive of what language frequently fails convey. Her words are soft and suggestive; her vacious lip-service, the sweetness of intonation and her grace of never desert her. Perfectly unaffected, she is not French, and completely graceful, she is not American. Hovering between Juno and Venus, she is proud, palpitating, passionate and pretty. Next to Spain, this is the country of emotional hands, shoulders and, perhaps, feet!"

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic, and Westerm Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

Notice has been given of 74 applications for dominion Parliament at the next session for private bills.

The annual convention of the Eastern Dairymen's Association will be opened at Brockville on the 31st inst.

Principal Grant, of Kingston, gives it as his opinion that it is a disgrace to any city to employ cheap school teachers.

There was a cocking main in Kingston a few days ago. Many birds were slaughtered, and some of the sports lost large sums.

There is a scheme afoot by a number of citizens of Quebec to build a new City Hall in connection with the new courthouse.

A prominent young Kingstonian has been operating in Winnipeg real estate, and has lost $30,000. Several citizens will suffer.

It appears a day or two ago that Mr. C. J. Bridges was likely to become general manager of the C. P. R. was not without foundation.

Archibald Gorman, the well-known G. T. R. conductor, was thrown from a train on the Victoria Bridge recently, and is in a critical condition.

Magnificent specimens of metallic ore have been taken out of the Glendover mine, Eardley. One large piece weighs 1,200 pounds.

Spencer, the New York forger, has rendered his former determination and returned voluntarily to New York with the detectives from Montreal.

It is stated that the royal commission now investigating the management of the public schools in Montreal is beginning to elicit startling facts about extravagant expenditure.

Serious troubles at Metlakatla cause considerable alarm, as there is no British man-of-war now on this station. The British Columbia Government have notified the United States Government.

A man, named Piquant on the Kingston & Pembroke Railway, was carrying a powder cartridge from a box to the hole where it was to be placed when it exploded, blowing off two off his fingers and injuring him.

UNITED STATES.

Ex-defaulting treasurer of Tennessee arrested from Texas in custody.

Thirteen policy shops were raided in Chicago. The paraphernalia was seized.

Snowdrifts in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are causing serious loss and disaster.

Wm. Bucknell has given the Baptist theological seminary at Lewisburg a hundred thousand dollars.

A project is on foot for rendering the Mississippi navigable for ocean steamers at a cost of twenty millions.

An earthquake shock was recently felt, lasting five minutes. No damage.

The President has signed the bill permitting grain brought by Canadian farmers to be ground in Mills in the United States.

The Niagara Falls, N. Y., post-office was robbed on Wednesday night and several hundred dollars in money and stamps taken.

The public building committee of the house of representatives has agreed to a bill for the purchase of the house in which Lincoln died, for $15,000.

The Chicago and Alton Railroad is discharging its conductors. It is claimed they have been giving the company only a third the cash fares collected.

GENERAL.

Cholera prevails in Sumatra.

Cetewayo has met with a cold reception from his chiefs.

The British barque Astoria, Captain Hammond, has been burned at Pisagua.

Mons. Michel Ernens, the distinguished Belgian army officer and publicist, is dead.

The entire village of Patahaza, in Germany, has been washed away by the floods.

Spain will abolish the suppression of newspapers, leaving suspension the highest press penalty.

An investigation into the rise and progress of Socialism in France will be demanded.

The new steel steamer Ionic, of the White Star Line, was safely launched at Belfast recently.

Mr. Sexton departs immediately for the United States in response to the request of Mr. Parnell.

The new Spanish Minister of Justice announces his intention of abolishing the execution of women.

A correspondent of the Times foreshadows conflict between Stanley and De Brazza on the Congo River.

A Dublin despatch intimates that the O'Gorman Don will be appointed Under Secretary for Ireland.

A gang of forty men has been arrested at Pesth. They were provided with arms and contemplated highway robbery.

The Russian authorities are ignorant of the reported discovery of two men of the Greely, mentioned in the letter of the arctic west.

Mr. Colvin, the English controller-general, and Mr. Ornstein, private secretary to the Control have resigned, and the Khedive has accepted their resignations.

A lively correspondence is again in progress between Mr. Egan and Mr. Pigott concerning the Land League funds, Mr. Pigott declares that £100,000 have not been accounted for.

Mr. Harrington, secretary of the Organization Committee of the National League, and Sullingar, convicted of using intimidating language at a meeting has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

Meets the "Old Man" and Talks Over Old Times and Old Ways.

"Dis-in' de past week," began the old man as the stove grew red hot and the lamps cast the brightest light, "I have noticed [illegible] I war too hard on [illegible] required [illegible] sayin' dat I didn't [illegible] hard stuff. Let us go ober de case agin.

"Who makes our state laws? The Legislachur. Who runs the Legislachur? De lawyers. Not a bill of any importance passes House or Senate widout some lawyer has a han' in it. If he has an ole suit on his hands he has a law passed to fit it. If a sartin law am an obstruction to some big case on han' he has it amended. If he finds a law which he can't jump ober or dodge aroun' he sets to work to tinker it up. We haven't a law on de statute books of Michigan which means what it reads, and which cannot be made to read so as to mean moas' anything. Dat's de work of lawyers.

"For ebery murderer convicted three go clear, eben when de evidence am just as strong. Dat's de work of lawyers.

"For ebery thief sent to prison for a year six thieves walk out of de court room free men. Dat's de work of lawyers.

"Out of ebery fifty arrests made by de police fur State Prison offenses mo' dan thirty escape punishment. Dat's de work of lawyers.

"De lawyer advises divorce fur de sake of de fee. He incites relatives to fight a dead man's will bekase he can clutch some of de money. He will turn son agin father or husban' agin wife for a twenty-dollar bill. Let his own mother's body be stolen from de grave by a ghoul, an' he would feel bad bekase public opinion wouldn't let him rake in $50 or $75 an' secure a verdict of not guilty.

"All de money on airth couldn't hire me to raise my han' agin ole Sir Isaac Walpole ober dar', who picked cotton an' hoed cane wid me in slavery days. A lawyer will sue his own brudder fur a debt of $10. He will turn friend agin friend, relative agin relative, an' break up de happiest household, ar de oldest church congregashun at very low figgers, an' wid promptness an' dispatch.

"De lawyer claims to represent de law. In case he does, he am some poo' half-starved prosecutin' attorn y who was placed in the office bekase he didn't know much, an' could be twisted 'round de fingers of lawyers defendin' aw-breakers. De real law represents —not de law, but de crimes of a community. He am de headlight of de burglar. He am a shinin' sun in de horizon of a thief. He am de bright star in de pathway of a husban' who wants to put his wife in a lunatic asylum—de cashier who wants to rob de bank—de son who wants to send de ole folks to de poo'-house an' take possesshun of de farm. De smart lawyer am de one who clears de moos' criminals. If a lawyer can't pull honest laws to pieces, insult witnesses, lead juries astray an' clear eight crimin ls out of ten, he nebber gets rich. Dar' am not a single day's work in dis kentry fur an absolutely honest lawyer. But fur dat perfershun we wouldn't have one crime whar' we now have fifty—o e public scandal whar' we now have scores. Let us now purseed to bizness."—Detroit Free Press.

In the Arms of a Star Fish—The Experience of a Pearl Diver.

"I was once a pearl diver—and hard business it was," said the Captain of a Spanish brig to a reporter. "We worked off the Mexican and Panama coasts, principally on the Pacific side. Sometimes we worked alone, but generally on shares, and sometimes for pay. We went to the grounds in small sailing vessels; then we took to small boats and covered as much gr und as possible. Each man had a basket, a weight, and a knife. For sharks? Yes: but it is a poor defence, for it is almost impossible to swing the arm with any force under water. The best weapon is a short spear. When you reach the grou d you strip, put your feet in a big sinker, take the basket that has a rope for hoisting, drop over, and soon find yourself at the bo tom. Then your business is to knock off as many oysters as you can, and p le them into the basket before you lose your wind. It is a terrible strain, but I could stand it in those days for six minutes, and I have known some men who could stay down ten; but it is sure death in the long run. If the ground is well stocked you can get twenty or mor shells, but it is all luck. When the basket is full it is hauled up, and after you come up for your wind down you go again, the sink being hauled up with a small cord for that purpose.

It was on one of these that I ran afoul of the animal that gave me a lasting fright. You will smile when I say it was only a star fish, but that it really was. I went down sixty feet with a rush, and landing on the edge of a big branch of coral, swung off into a kind of basin. The basket went ahead of me, and as I swung off to reach the bottom, something seemed to spring up all around me, and I was in the arms of some kind of a monster that coiled about my body, arms, and legs. I tried to scream, forgetting that I was in the water, and lost my wind. It was just as if the plant had sprouted under me and then thrown its vines and tendrils about me. There were thousands of them, coiling and writhing, and I thought I had landed in a nest of sea snakes. I gave the signal as soon as I could, and made a break upward, part of the creature clinging to me, while the rest, I could see, was dropping to pieces. They hauled me into the boat when I reached the surface, and pulled the main part of the animal from me. It was oval, about three feet across, and the five arms seemed to divide into thousands of others. I probably landed on top of that one, which at that time was the largest I had ever seen, I afterward saw the body of one that was washed ashore on the Isthmus that must have had a spread of thirty-five feet. Their power of grasping is considerable, but touch them in a certain way and they throw off their arms in a regular shower, and are soon reduced to an oval body.—California Times.

A New Fashion in Hair.

There are unmistakable signs in the sky of fashion that a boom in red hair is gathering for a decent upon us—not the sort of red hair which is orange-hued and too utterly Milesian, but that other and softer kind, suggestive of very ripe corn "and the crimson tinge which makes the waving harvest field so beautiful."

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

HAMILTON, Mo., June 14, 1881.

B. J. KENDALL & Co.,—Gents:—This is to certify that I have used Kendall's Spavin Cure, and have found it to be all that it is recommended to be and in fact more too; I have removed by using the above: Callous Bone Spavins, Ring-bone, Splints, and can cheerfully testify and recommend it to be the best thing for any bony substance I have ever used, and have tried many as I have made that my study for years.

Respectfully yours,
P. V. CRIST.

FROM

Col. T. L. Foster,

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 10, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—I had a very valuable Hambletonian colt that I prized very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one joint and a small one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express. I determined at once to try it, and got our druggist here to send for it, they ordered three bottles; I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial, I used it according to directions and the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame and the lumps have disappeared. I used but one bottle and the colt's limbs are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles who are now using it.

Very respectfully,
L. T. FOSTER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

WINGHAM, Ont., Jan. 17, 1882.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—This is to certify that I have used Kendall's Spavin Cure, bought from C. E Williams, druggist, Wingham, Ont., and do without hesitation pronounce it to be an invaluable remedy for the cure of Spavins, Ringbones, or Curbs. I used it on a bone spavin of several years growth which it completely removed, and I can safely say it will remove any Spavin, Curb or Ringbone it properly used. I have also recommended it to use it, who have done so with perfect success. I gladly make this public, and will answer any questions or letters sent me.

Yours &c.
GEORGE BRYCE.

Kendall's Spavin Cure

ON HUMAN FLESH.

WEST ENOSBURGH, Vt., Feb. 15, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—Several months ago I injured my knee joint which caused an enlargement to grow the size of a walnut and caused me very severe pain all the time for four or five weeks, when I began to use Kendall's Spavin Cure with the most satisfactory results. It has entirely removed the enlargement and stopped the lameness and pain. I have long known it to be excellent for horses but now I know it to be the best liniment for human flesh that I am acquainted with.

Yours truly,
T. P. LAWRENCE.

ST. JOHN, P Q Oct. 27, 1881.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—I have used your Spavin Cure with great success on spavins, curbs and splints. I know it to be a good remedy for ringbones, bone spavins' cuts, galls and all kinds of lameness and other difficulties about the horse. One of my men sprained his ankle very badly. I applied Kendall's Spavin Cure and I never saw anything work like it, he was well in a few days. I know it to be good for man as well as beast. I procured one of your Treatise on the Horse, by mail for 25cts. and I think it was the means of saving me $100 on one horse that I treated according to the directions given in your book for displaced stifle.

Yours truly,
WM. J. PEARSON.

Send address for Illustrated Circular, which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

Sold by all Druggists.

LYMAN, SONS & CO., Montreal, P. Q. Wholesale Agents

GEORGE NOBLE,
INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies:
CITIZENS', of Montreal,
AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and
TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale. also Village Lots.

Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate. Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

To neglect a cough or cold, is but to invite consumption, that destroyer of the human race. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the cough and allay all irritation of the bronchial tubes and lungs, and effectually remedy all pulmonary complaints, such as Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, &c.

FAT

The boys in one of our grammar schools call their schoolma'am "Experience," because she is a dear teacher.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other class hotel in the city.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East. Portraits in oil life size.

DR. WILD. Life size portrait just published; best ever taken; 25c. post paid. Agents wanted. J. S. ROBERTSON & Bros., Publishers, Toronto.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLARD, 3 King St. E., Toronto

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manuf'r of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS 4 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 13 Yonge Street, Toronto.

MEDICAL PRACTICE FOR SALE—PEEL county; worth $2,000 per annum; no opposition. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

ONE BISCUIT MACHINE AND PREPARER for sale cheap; also four cutters complete running order. WILLIAM SUTTON Windham Mills, Simcoe.

RESIDENCE OF A MEDICAL MAN FOR sale or lease in city of Hamilton—has been a physician's residence for the last 7 years. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

ILLUSTRATED RELIGIOUS WEEKLY story paper—containing Spurgeon's and Talmage's sermons—$1.50 per year; specimens free. Box 383, Port Hope.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface, heavy and very touch. Send for new price list. J. G. WOODLAND & CO., Printers Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

CANAL SCHOONER FOR SALE—IN GOOD repair; class A 2½, valued at $10,000 by Inland Lloyds; capacity, 24,000 bushels wheat and 21,000 oak timber. Apply to J. C. GRAHAM, St. Catharines Ont.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR FARM property in the village of Port Sydney, excellent business stand, with lots; also convenient, improved farm of three hundred acres, with frame buildings. Address Box 46, Port Sydney.

FARM FOR SALE—400 ACRES—45 cleared; good land; large house; stable; timber hewed for frame barn 30 x 50, and for a hewed log building 18 x 24; price $1,600 cash; clear title. Address, MRS. C. LEVENS, Utterson P.O., Muskoka, Ontario.

WANTED PARTIES OWNING A PORTABLE Saw Mill to tender for sawing the lumber off 200 acres of bush land. For particulars address, AUTHORS & COX, Manufacturers of Artificial Limbs, 91 Church street, Toronto

QU'APPELLE LAND COMPANY OFFER Free Homesteads and Pre-emptions (Government terms) on east side of Long Lake, near Regina; loam soil, rolling prairie; good opening for merchants, &c. For particulars address W. H. GIBBS, Pres., Oshawa, or W. H. GIBBS, JR., Managing Director, Regina, N. W. T.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT 106 Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Holland Landing 212 acres, Northern R. R. Station situated on corner of this Lot, the land is high rolling clay loam Brick house frame Bank Barn. J. W. G WHITNEY, Estate Agent-25 Toronto-st. Toronto.

SOMETHING NEW.—AGENTS WANTED to sell a new

PATENT CIGAR

Every cigar has its own holder. $5 to $10 per day can be made by good agents. Samples sent for 25 cents. Address, H. BLOOM, No. 73 Queen Street, West, Toronto.

$6.25 FOR 39 CTS.

Any person sending me 39 cents and the addresses of 10 acquaintances will receive by return mail goods (not recipes) that net $6.25 This is an honest offer to introduce staple goods If you want a fortune, act now. J. D. HENRY P. O. Box 127, Buffalo, N.Y.

SEEDS

MY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FOR 1883 containing description and prices of the choicest kinds of Field, Garden, and Flower Seeds mailed free to all intending purchasers upon application. It is the handsomest Catalogue published in Canada, and is invaluable to all who wish to buy PURE FRESH SEEDS. Special attention given to preparing MIXED GRASSES for PERMANENT PASTURE.
Prices and full particulars will be found in Catalogue.
WM. RENNIE, Seedsman, TORONTO

Important to Users of Check Books.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE, CHANCERY DIVISION.
Grip Printing and Publishing Co., versus H. E. Butterfield.

We hereby give notice to all users of check books that an injunction has this day been granted in the above suit against the defendant to restrain him from the manufacture and sale of his infringement of the PARAGON BLACK-LEAF COUNTER CHECK BOOK.

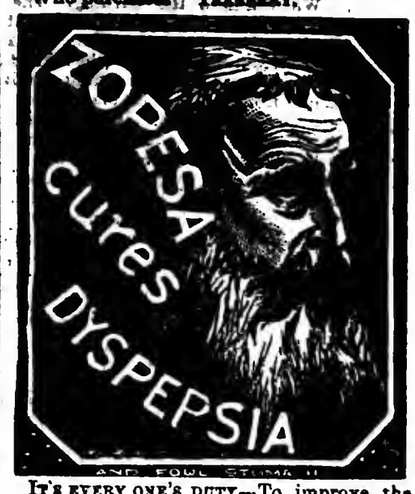
Parties are hereby warned from ordering, receiving, or using the same, or any colourable imitation thereof, as by doing so they will be liable to action for damages.

The Paragon Black-Leaf Counter Check Book is acknowledged by hundreds of users to be the best check book in the market. Read the following testimonials to its worth:—

Scott & Paisley, Dry Goods Merchants, Brandon, Manitoba, write:—"Permit us to say that the PARAGON Check Books you printed for us are the best class of check books we ever saw or used. There is no need of soiling the fingers with the black-leaf, and further we are not annoyed with the loss of the black-leaf as we were in other books."

F. McAlister, Dry Goods Merchant, Napanee, writes:—"The PARAGON Check Book is a vast improvement on any I have ever used, and certainly ahead of anything of the kind manufactured in Canada at the present time. I have great pleasure in recommending it to the trade."

McKay Bros., Dry Goods Merchants, Hamilton, write:—"We have used the PARAGON Check Book for about two months, and find them as convenient and satisfactory a book as we ever used."



We have scores of others of similar value, the originals of which can be seen at our office.

Now is the time to order.

☞ Orders by mail or telegram promptly executed.

Grip Printing & Publishing Co.
SOLE PATENTEES OF THE Paragon Black-Leaf Counter Check Book

To set off lips of cherry;
A fragrant Breath for the boy and girl
Who purchases "TEABERRY."

IT'S EVERY ONE'S DUTY—To improve the opportunities presented for health, cheerfulness, and comfort. See to it, that ZOPESA is used in your family for Dyspepsia and Biliousness, It is guaranteed to remove them.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARMING and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 14 Adelaide-st East, Toronto. Send for list

DYSPEPSIA!

And the severer forms of INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on the above most distressing maladies and their complete cures, post free, 5 cents in stamps. By R. KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, Royal Navy, England.

Apply to RICHARD KING, Box 346, Windsor, Ont.

SHORTHAND. — The necessity of the age to every young man, a delightful accompliahment to every young lady; successfully taught by post, or complete set of books for self-instruction free by mail on receipt of one dollar.

McNabb & McIntyre, Box 531, Toronto.

SUTHERLAND'S
TRADE MARK

RHEUMATINE

THE GREAT CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature,

RHEUMATINE is not a sovereign remedy for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature,

IT IS A SURE CURE.

Sold by all druggists. The Rheumatine Manufacturing Co., St. Catherines, Ont. Messrs. Northrop & Lyman, Wholesale Agts., Toronto

Burdock Blood Bitters

MILLINERY

—AND—

FANCY DRY GOODS

WHOLESALE.

D. McCall & Co'y,

51 & 55 YONGE ST., TORONTO,

PORTAGE AVE., WINNIPEG.

Trimmed Millinery

A SPECIALTY.

Silks, Ribbons, Laces, Flowers, Feathers, Straw Goods,

IN ENDLESS VARIETY.

D. McCall & Co'y

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.—Mr. C. Littlejohns, living two miles south of Markdale, has a fine bred Berkshire boar for service on his farm this season. 75 cts. cash, $1 if not so paid. 118-123

DYSPEPSIA & LIVER COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use according'y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

We have a speedy and positive cure, for Catarah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in SHHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal Iujector free with each bottle Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

For Sale or to trade for wood—1 open Buggy, nearly new; 1 Platform Spring Democrat, nearly new; 1 Trotting Sulkey; 2 sets Harness, nearly new.—W. F. DOLL.

A GENERAL STAMPEDE.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at A. Turner &Co's for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons affected with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

During a circus performance at Berdilschaff, Russian Poland, last week, the building caught fire and was destroyed. Three hundred spectators perished.

TRUE TO HER TRUST.

Too much cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleaning, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, a malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by A. Turner.

The Dominion Parliment is summoned to meet on the 8th February.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.

Millions of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by the wonderful medicine. Call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Our station yard, which was cleared of wood a few months ago, is now becoming well filled again.

A POWER IN THE HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT.

Conspicuous among the influential men of the Dominion is Mr. J. H Metcalf, Member of Parliament from the city of Kingston. Commencing life as a school teacher, he has steadfastly worked his way upward to the honored position in business and politics he now holds. Coming to a personal matter we would mention that, Mr. Metcalf was formerly subject to extreme soreness of the chest, for which, as he himself says "I could find no remedy but St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy." In the following letter Mr. Metcalf gives evidence of his appreciation. "Itake great pleasure in stating that I used St. Jacobs Oil for extreme soreness of the chest, and found it to be an excellent remedy. I would not be without it for ten times its selling price, as a family remedy it certainly has no equal"

The Wiarton Echo comes to us this week on tinted paper.

HAPPINESS IN THE ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.

In a recent conversation with Mr. Connor, Royal Opera House, (Toronto), he spoke as follows to a representative of a prominent journal in reply to a question concerning his health: "During the early part of last October I had a severe attack in my right knee, of what my physicians pronounced acute rheumatism. I used many so-called rheumatic remedies without having any apparent benefit. Observing that St. Jacobs Oil was being constantly recommended by many of the leading members of our profession, I decided to give it a trial. Accordingly I purchased a bottle of the article and applied it as directed. From the first application I commenced to improve, and before I used two-thirds of a bottle, I was entirely cured, and have experienced no return of my ailment."

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

AN IMMENSE STOCK OF BOOTS & SHOES

JUST ARRIVED AT THE

TORONTO HOUSE

BEST QUALITY AND LOWEST PRICE.

STOCK COMPLETE IN

Dry Goods and Groceries!

PRICES ALWAYS RIGHT.

OUR THIRTY CENT TEA

Is the wonder of the day. A trial solicited.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Oct. 11th, 1882

GROCERIES.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first-class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th, 1881. 37-tf

GENERAL

Blacksmithing

Flesherton Station.

The subscriber begs to announce to the inhabitants of Flesherton, Markdale and Priceville, and surrounding country, that he has commenced business at Flesherton Station, where he hopes by satisfactory work and moderate rates to secure a share of public patronage.

HORSE-SHOEING A SPECIALTY.

And guaranteed that in a case of interfereing horses he will cure the defect in two shoeings or no charge will be made for the second shoeing.

A TRIAL SOLICITED.

HENRY WHITE.

Flesherton Station, Oct. 17, 1882. 110

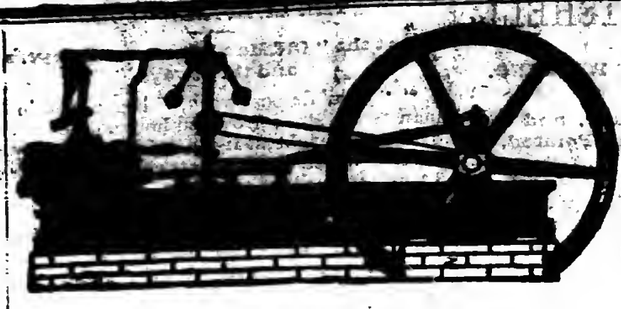
NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mill



UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Gristing and Chopping done every working day. Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."

October 28th 1882. 113-126

MOFFAT BROS.

M'rkdale

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shafting

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Wheels, Shingle Jointers, &c, Also all Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIALTY.

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, PITLARS--IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photographer,

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good style.

FRAMES and FRAME FIXINGS

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULMER.

TORONTO HOUSE,

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. Unusually Large

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPEST

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRACTIVE

Variety and Value Unsurpassed.

DRY GOODS DEPARMENT.

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goods, comprising in part Cashmeres in all colors. Worsted Wool Goods in endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my stock is unusually large from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have laid in the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trowserings, and Overcoatings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in this department buyers will find it to their advantage to call before purchasing elsewhere.

Millinery Department.

Under the able management of a first-class milliner, with plenty of assistance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most fashionable, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it would pay you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department.

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the lowest possible price.

I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Farm Produce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest price in cash for any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially ask farmers to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROULE.

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factory

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PUMPS, FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found in the fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in Markdale in the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's Hotel,

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 20. MARKDALE, ONT., JAN. 25, 1883. No. 124.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

$1 Per Annum

IN ADVANCE

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

DRILLER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

Ghent, M.D., M.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Pricevide, Graduate of University, Viet. College, " New York, and " of the same, " Anatomical Medical Institute. " Ophthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND

Special attention given to the preservation of natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month.

D. Cameron, M.D., & L.R.C.P. & S., Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Store, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 129-tf

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale, Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

Alfred Frost, J. W. Frost, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.

Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Market St.; and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE:

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

W. CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Auctions, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate. Price reasonable.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First-class accommodation for commercial travellers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connection.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly repainted and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brands of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.

J. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114.

Miscellaneous.

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate.

Markdale. A. BUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c. attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

MISS LAMB,

DRESS-MAKER. UP-STAIRS IN Douglas' Block. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.

Markdale, Nov. 15th. 1882. 114-3m.

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees. Vines. Agricultural Implements, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

T. E. DAVIS.

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). After completing 13 buildings his season is still on the track and is still prepared to do all kinds of stone and brick work, plastering and tuck pointing. Those who contemplate building will find it to their advantage to give him a call.

Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Stetes. MARKDALE. 16-y

MISS WELSH,

Dress & Mantlemaker. Charges moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Hill's Block, Sydenham street.

Markdale, Nov. 6th, 1882. 113-126

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 76, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, Feb. 5th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND.

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

$66 a week in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Everything new. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay. Reader, if you want a business at which you can make great pay all the time you work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 71-126

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD, RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT.

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

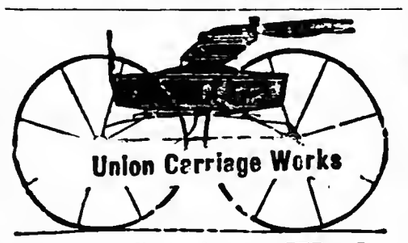
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith,

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-1y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Best business now before the public. You can make money faster at work for us than at anything else. Capital not needed. We will start you. $12 a day and upwards made at home by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. You can work in spare time only or give your whole time to the business. You can live at home and do the work. No other business will pay you nearly as well. No one can fail to make enormous pay by engaging at once. Costly outfit and terms free. Money made fast, easily and honorably. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine. 71-126

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

Brown's Household Panacea has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixer or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 75-127

EARS FOR THE MILLION

HOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARE'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

PROPERTIES For SALE

South half of Lot 5, con. 9, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres, 4 acres cleared balance good hardwood, bush situated 4 miles from Markdale on good road; also a village lot with comfortable house thereon, on Mill Street, Markdale. For further particulars apply to G. S. Bowes or Wm Armstrong executors of the estate of late Mark Armstrong Esq. 122-124

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

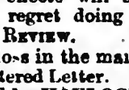
Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!



—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

BUTCHER!

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

$2 Warren. steam winders $1.00. White metal Hunting Cases $5. Imitation gold $6. Solid gold $12. Cheapest and best for your own use or speculative purposes. Valuable catalogue free. THOMPSON & CO., 102 Nassau St., New York.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

INTERESTING ITEMS GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES AND OTHERWISE FOR THE READERS OF THE "STANDARD."

Epping.

Mr. R. H. Stinson, of this village, has rented his blacksmith shop to Mr. Thos. Morrison, and goes to reside on a farm recently purchased by him on the 9th line of Euphrasia, three miles from Markdale. Prior to Mr. Stinson's departure, the brethren of L. O. L. No. 899, Epping, testified to the esteem in which he is held by entertaining him to any oyster supper. He has the good wishes of the whole neighborhood in his new home.

Flesherton.

Mr. Roger Lever has purchased Mr. Wm. Cullen's farm for $3,000.

Mr. M. Richardson intends building a brick block on the corner where the Drug Store stands.

EAST GREY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The above society met in the Town Hall, Flesherton, yesterday, Wednesday afternoon. There was a fair attendance. Some matter of particular interest to the farming community were discussed in a very able manner. The question of most importance (in our opinion) discussed at the meeting, was that in reference to the advisability of farmers changing their seed grain periodically, and the best method of accomplishing so desirable an end. The matter was discussed very thoroughly by Messrs. T. Kells, R. J. Sproule, S. Damude, J. Abbott and others. A motion by the president, Mr. Thos. Kells, seconded by Mr. M. Akitt, instructing the secretary to correspond with the secretaries of the various Agricultural Societies in Saugeen District, asking them to co-operate with this (East Grey) Society in endeavoring to obtain assistance from the Government to introduce seed grain in large quantities into the localities interested, and dispose of it in the usual manner, was put and carried unanimously. In our opinion, the Society deserves great credit for their prompt action in this important question. Thousands of dollars are annualy lost in the county, through the inability of a great number of the farmers to change their seed.

Suggestions for certain changes in the prize list were then made, which will no doubt meet with due consideration at the hands of the directors.

The following were elected officers of the said society for current year:—Thos. Kells, President; J. Abbott, Vice-President; D. R. Ellis, 2nd Vice President; R. J. Sproule, J. I. Graham, Auditors. S. Damude, Geo. Wright, J. Cameron, R. Oliver, R. Ruthven, S. Stocks, A. Munshaw, T. Ellis, A. McGirr, Directors. At a meeting of the Directors, Mr. S. Damude was re-elected Sec. Treasurer. A better man it would be hard to find. —Advance.

Chatsworth.

A few mornings ago one of the railway trains ran over a fox a short distance north of the station. A fox should have been too cunning for that.

At the annual meeting of the Holland Agricultural Society on Thursday last the following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, John Marquis; Vice, W. Robinson; Directors, John Cameron, James Galbraith, A. McArthur, W. Foster, John Deavitt, W. Norton, G. Lee, Dan. Taylor; Sec. Treas., W. G. Murray; Auditors, John McDonald, and Alexander Campbell. The auditors report showed some $13 on hand. It was decided to limit the show to members of the township and exclude outsiders. This step is being variously criticised, and is by no means approved of in this section of the township. It will certainly injure the show, which has always been looked on as one of the best in the county, and if the object of the change is to remove it to Holland Centre, as it would appear to be, there is reason to fear that it will kill it out altogether.

A communication from "A Farmer," on Agricultural matters, left over for next week.

OUR DAILY BREAD.

Work Being Done by Dr. Ellis, Public Analyst, Toronto.

Twenty-Five Per Cent. Adulterated.

There is no subject of more vital importance to the community at large than that of obtaining food and med cines pure and unadulterated. Thanks to modern science and the greed of manufacturers and dealers, adulteration has been reduced almost to an art, and in many cases it is impossible to obtain certain articles in their purity. Our forefathers drank champagne and knew it was the pure fermented juice of the grape. Their sons drink an article under the same name which is often nothing more than a mixture of native cider, cheap French wine, sugar, brandy, and a little lemon or tartaric acid. Again, French brandy, which at one time was really what its name indicated, is now largely made from spirits obtained from molasses, beetroot, and potatoes, and more particularly cheap whiskey, which in sent from Canada and the United States in large quantities to come back brandy. Burnt sugar gives the desired colour, and the fine flavor is made to suit the taste by skilful admixture of essential oils and distilled murk, which is the refuse skin and pips of the grape left after the wine is expressed. Indeed, some wines are made up entirely of ingredients wholly foreign to the country which produces the genuine article. The substances added with a view of preserving wines are often nothing better than poisons, lead and copper both being used, the former in the state of litharge. The favorite port wine in England is thus most shamefully treated, besides being manufactured on a very large scale after a variety of very curious receipts from thousands of pipes of spoiled cider imported for the purpose, bad brandy, and infusions of logwood and other dye stuffs. The above are only a few illustrations out of thousands that might be given. Even children's candies are adulterated with virulent mineral poisons by the unprincipled manufacturers, and the cup that "cheers but not inebriates' often contains a poison worse than alcohol. This black art is carried even into the chamber of the sick, and their drugs and medicines adulterated as ruthlessly as anything else. To show the extent to which adulteration has been carried in Canada it is only necessary to state that out of the one thousand and forty-one samples examined by the Dominion analysts in 1881, two hundred and sixty, or nearly twenty-five per cent., were adulterated, and thirty-eight returned as doubtful.

WORK OF DR. ELLIS, IN TORONTO.

Following is a list of the principal articles submitted to Dr. Ellis, public analyst in Toronto, for his examination, namely:—Flour, cocoa, coffee, tea, sugar, butter, milk, canned fruits, vegetables, and meats, together with the following spices and condiments: Allspice, cloves, cinnamon, cassia, ginger, mace, mustard, nutmeg, pepper, vinegar, and syrups.

Generally speaking, the samples of flour submitted to Dr. Ellis for examination have been found pure. Bakers, however, sometimes add rice, flour, potatoes, bean flour, and pea flour to their bread, and among mineral adulterations, alum, borax, sulphate of copper, sulphate of zinc, chalk, and carbonate of magnesia. The influence of alum on health in the small quanties in which it is usually added to bread is very problematical, and rests more upon theory than observation. But notwithstanding the obscurity of its action on the economy, there can be no difference of opinion that it is a serious adulteration and not to be permitted. Alum may be suspected in bread which appears unnaturally white. It requires, however, delicate tests, which can only be properly applied by a chemist, to discover it. It will be unnecessary to treat the different articles mentioned above, and a few of the principal ones only will therefore be mentioned.

COCOA.

The cocoa of commerce is made from the roasted seeds of a tree, whole forests of which exist in Demerara. It is also found, more or less extensively, in Central America, Brazil, and some of the West India islands. The principal kinds in commerce are known under the names of Coraccas, Surinam, Trinidad, Grenada, Jamaica, Dominica, Guayaquil, Venezuela, Bahia, Brazil, and St. Lucia. The consumption of cocoa is on the increase. Chocolate is prepared by grinding the cocoa nibs in a mill, the rollers of which are heated so as to soften the cocoa-butter, and in this way a paste is formed, which is mixed with refined sugar, and very often other substances, and pressed into moulds. The adulteration usually found in cocoa are: Sugar, starches, venetian red, brick dust, and peroxide of iron. Some of these sophistications, such as the starches, may be detected by a microscopical examination. The ordinary chemical examination consists in the extraction of the fat, the estimation of the percentage of ash and its contents of phosphoric acid. By a simple examination of the fat and the chief constituents of the ash supplemented by the use of the microscope all known adulterations can be detected.

Chocolate is often adulterated with oil of almonds, cocoa oil, beef and mutton fat, starches, cinnabar, chalk, and various other substances.

COFFEE.

is so well known that a description of it is wholly unnecessary. It has in all probability suffered more from adulteration than any other article in daily use. Its adulteration was at one time a regularly organized industry, and twelve years ago there existed in France two manufactories for the express purpose of mixing coffee with burnt cereals and the scorched outer covering of cocoa. The principal adulteration is chicory, which has sometimes been added to the extent of 75 per cent. It influences the composition of coffee as follows:—(1) By decreasing the amount of gum, which in chicory seldom rises to more than 15 per cent, while in coffee it has not been found less than 21 up to 28 per cent. (2) It increases the sugar, roasted coffee having seldom so much as 2 per cent, while chicory, when roasted, usually has at least 8 or 9 per cent. (3) It decreases the fatty matter, the fat of chicory ranging from 1 to over 2 per cent., that of coffee from about 14 to over 20 per cent. (4) It decreases the tannin and coffee tannin acids, chicory being destitute of tannin. (5) It decreases the caffeine, chicory possessing no alkaloid. (6) It modifies the constitution of the ash, especially by introducing silica, which is not a component of coffee ash.

So far as chicory is concerned, any housekeeper can detect its presence in coffee by a very simple expedient. Take a tumbler and half fill it with water. If the ground coffee be sprinkled upon this, the whole of it floats; if chicory be present, it separates and sinks to the bottom, imparting a ground color to the liquid. The portions which sink to the bottom of the glass are always soft to the touch, and very different from the hard, gritty feeling of coffee particles.

TEA.

The varieties of tea brought into Canada are very numerous, but seldom does anyone of them reach the customer unmixed. The wholesale merchants carefully "improve" their teas by blending. The most common sorts are gunpowder, Hyson, Congou, Capers, and Indian tea. Besides these there are a number of special teas, some of a very high price, and imported in a state of great purity, but they are used almost exclusively for blending. The names by which the teas of commerce are most familiar to the public are simply "green" and "black." The most frequent adulterations are the addition of sand generally strongly impregnated with iron, the addition of foreign and exhausted leaves, together with astringent substances such as catechu. All these adulterations must take place abroad, as there is no evidence of a single chest having been tampered with in Canada. The "facing," or coloring of green tea is rapidly disappearing. The facing in nearly every instance is done with Prussian blue, a virulent poison, but the quantity used is so small that it can hardly be called an adulteration. A small addition of such a substance as catechu to impart astringency is probably frequent, and difficult of detection. Soluble iron salts, alkaline, carbonates, and other substances are stated to be occasionally added, but no conviction relative to these appears to be on record.

SUGAR.

The usual adulterations found in sugar are sand, moisture, and glucose. White crystalized sugar is pure, the browns, however, contains various amounts of glucose. It is very seldom that sand has been found in any of the samples submitted to Dr. Ellis for analysis.

BUTTER.

The principal adulterations are an excess of water, salt, and foreign fats. The latter, however, are seldom found in Canadian butter. The analysis is usually divided in two parts, (1) the general examination and analysis, and (2) the investigation of the fat. The principal constituents of butter are milk fat, with a small and variable quantity of water, caseine, and ash, the latter consisting chiefly, but not entirely, of the salt added. By far the most important process in the analysis of this article is the examination of fat. Oleomargarine is one of the substances used as an adulteration. The data by which the analyst judges whether a butter consists of foreign fats entirely or partly are derived from (1) the melting point, (2) the specific gravity, (3) the relative proportions of the soluble and insoluble fatty acids. Good butter should contain not less than 80 per cent of fat. Anything less is evidence of adulteration. There is no regular standard with regard to the percentage of water. In those cases in which the fat is below 80 per cent. the deficiency of fat is usually from excess of water. Good butter should contain about 9 per cent. of water, and 4 per cent. of salt, but in the adulterated article these quantities are often nearly doubled.

MILK.

Perhaps there is no other article of consumption more generally adulterated, especially in large cities, than milk. The cardinal point on which the analysis of milk depends is its fairly constant composition. Milk may be divided into "solids, not fat," which includes the albuminoid principles, the ash, and the sugar, and "fat," the main constituent of the cream, which is practically the same as butter fat. Mr. Wauklyn in his treatise on "Milk Analysis," published in 1874, showed that the "fat" varied within somewhat wide limits, whilst the "solids not fat," in healthy, fairly milked cows never fell below 9 per cent., the average being somewhere between 9 and 10 per cent. This standard of the amount of solids was afterwards adopted by the Society of Analysts in England, who resolved to consider all milk sold as new milk adulterated which contained less than 9 per cent. of solids, not fat, and 25 per cent of milk fat. The amount of water in pure milk averages between 86 and 87 per cent, the total solids 13 per cent. and the fat 3.5 per cent. If in the analysis the sample under examination fall much below this limit it is safe to say the milk is adulterated. A very common practice is to skim the night milk and add it to that of the morning.

SPICES AND CONDIMENTS.

The experience of Dr. Ellis, in the analysis of the above is that the generality of ground spices are adulterated. The adulteration generally consists of farinaceous substances. Whole cloves are often adulterated with stalks, and in New York it is a regular custom to keep materials constantantly on hand for adulterating pepper.

CANNED FRUITS.

Vegetables and meat are never adulterated, but the natural juices act upon the tin of the cans, forming poisonous compounds. In old samples the taste of the tin can often be detected. All such preparations should be carefully examined before being placed on the table.

Something should be done to prevent the use of tin for canning these articles. Glass, though more expensive, is far preferable to anything else for this purpose.

So much, therefore, for the adulteration of food. The work of Dr. Ellis in bringing to light the various schemes of unprincipled dealers is deserving of every encouragement, and the prosecution of a few of the most notorious would no doubt have a beneficial effect on others.—Toronto Mail.

From the deposit discovered in 1872 on the Appomatox River at Bermudy, Va., there are now taken 1,000 annually or about a third of the fine ochres used in the United States.

A Wise Motto.

"A stitch in time saves nine," not only in making garments, but also in mending health. If Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam were used in the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs, many a "stitch in the side" and many a case of torn lungs might be avoided, that neglected, rapidly develope into irreparable Consumption. 21.

It was a thoughtless Michigan physician who laughed while eating catsup, and so got some of it into his windpipe, where it choked him to death.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Cape Breton is almost peopled with members of the Highland race. Gaelic is commonly spoken in the country parts. Early in the century one Scottish laird alone, Maclean of Coil, removed to Cape Breton at his own expence 300 persons.

Testimonial from Mr. W. S. Wisner, of J. O. Wisner & Son, Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements:—

Brantford, Ont., July 28th, 1880.

J. N. Sutherland, Esq.: Dear Sir,—I take pleasure in bearing testimony to the efficacy of your Rheumatine. Last spring I was completely disabled with Rheumatism, and tried various remedies, baths, &c., and finally heard of your cure. I purchased and used three bottles of it, and it effected a complete cure, for I have not had a return of the disease since.

Yours truly, W. S. WISNER.

Great Britain's champion chimney (Townsend's, Glasgow) is 446 feet high.

Keep it in your family. The best remedy for accidents and emergencies, for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Soreness, Sore Throat, Croup, Rheumatism, Chilblains, and Pain or Soreness of all kinds, is that marvellous healing remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 19.

So completely have many of the old Scotch strongholds been razed that there are bowling greens on their sites.

A Sure Thing

In the treatment of Chronic disease with that great system renovator and restorative. Burdock Blood Bitters, there is no uncertainty as to its action, its curative powers are speedily manifest by its marked effect upon the Liver, the Bowels and the Kidneys. Every dose performing its work in a perceptible manner. 24.

London is at present paying for fire insurance over $6,000,000 a year—40 per cent. more than the cost of maintaining 11,000 metropolitan police.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing regulator and purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your druggist for proof. 20.

The Tuileries clock, which was not much damaged, and which stopped at half past 9 when the palace was burned, has been purchased by an Englishman for $1,000.

W. T. Bray, Pharmacist, Wingham, Ont., writes that the sale of Burdock Blood Bitters has very largely increased in that locality, and adds that he hears very favorable opinions expressed regarding it, and, if time permited, could send many names of benefitted parties, 22.

Happily for the Chinese, says Dr. Young, lately of Hong Kong, nearly all their medicines are inert, such as pearls, tiger's bones, rhinoceros horns, fossil bones and other articles having no medicinal value.

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil taken internally and applied according to the special directions, this is the great household panacea for Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Pain Inflammation &c. 23.

England has a new Field Marshal—a rare event—in Lord Napier of Magdala.

Electric Oil not Eclectric Oil.

The two words have very different significations, as will be seen by references to Webster. The Eclectric Oil has no claim to Electric properties only by the picture on the wrapper, which looks like begging the question. The popularity of Briggs' Electric Oil is such as to induce unprincipled persons to appropriate all the law will allow them to do. The proprietors of the original Electric Oil have no claim to the words Eclectric or Thomas; but to the words Briggs' Electric they do lay claim by right as they have made them of value to themselves.

Muscular exercise is generally the best preventive measure against "a cold."

The Natural Outlet.

In these days of construction and combination it requires an active mind to keep track of the doings of the railways, and no little amount of vexation and annoyance is occasioned travellers by their own neglect to read and understand the proper routes to select for certain destinations. The railroads are usually very liberal in the matter of printed folders and books of information as to their peculiar advantages, but often they cloud the mind, instead of enlightening, by their word-twisting to produce the impression that they are always the "short line" and the "quick line" to all points, no matter how divergent the points may be. To Chicago, and all points reached through Chicago, however, there can be no doubt that the Michigan Central is the natural outlet from Canada, as its road runs direct from Buffalo and Niagara Falls through the southern portion of Ontario and via Detroit to Chicago. At Detroit it connects in Union Depot with the Great Western, and Grand Trunk, and at St. Thomas with the Credit Valley and tributary lines, making practically no change of cars through to Chicago. The folders and other printed matter of the Michigan Central can be found in almost every hotel and depot in the Dominion, and may be positively relied upon for accuracy and truthfulness, as the determination of its managers is to have the Michigan Central perfectly reliable in its promises, as it is in its time and superior accomodations.

King Humbert, it is said, is falling into a confirmed melancholy, and does not speak to anybody.

Could I but see Carboline made,
And view the process o'er,
No bald head pate would make afraid,
Nor gray hairs fright me more.
As now improved and perfected,
No oil was ere so sure,
All skin disease, of limb or head,
It never fails to cure.

During the year just closed in England there were reported 28 mining explosions, 15 of which were fatal, the number of deaths reaching 241, exactly the average for the past 32 years.

Farmers, Look to Your Flocks.

Leicesstershire Tick and Vermin Destroyer will kill Ticks on sheep, lice and grubs on cattle and hors s. Safe to use and sure to give satisfaction. Sold by druggists.

IMPURE BLOOD.—In morbid conditions of the blood are many diseases such as salt rheum, ring-worm, boils, carbuncles, sores, ulcers and pimples. In this condition of the blood try the VEGETINE, and cure these affections. As a blood purifier it has no equal. Its effects are wonderful.

The Prince of Wales has been sporting with Mr. Hammond, a big Norfolk Squire, whose mother was the child of Mary Chaworth, of whom Byron wrote that "it had its mother's eyes."

The Source of Much Ill Temper.

When your husband comes home in bad humor, jerks off his boots, and appears to be generally miserable, do not attribute it to business cares or hard times, but to its real cause—those terrible corns constantly annoying him. A word to the wise will be sufficient—buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. His corns will be quickly and painlessly removed, and his gratitude will be unbounded. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor sold everywhere.

A.P. 109

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
Relieves and cures
RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumbago,
BACKACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE,
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELLINGS,
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Bruises,
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCALDS,
And all other bodily aches and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.
The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.)
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East, Toronto. Portraits in oil life size.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX, 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLABEY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manuf'r of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED FOR "STEPS HEAVENWARD," by Dr. Punshon. A. H. HOVEY, Publisher, Toronto.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 113 Yonge Street, Toronto.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2, $4, $5, or $10 lots. By post pre-paid. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of outside and inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices. Oakville, Ont.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface, heavy and very tough. Send for new price list. J. G. WOODLAND & CO; Steam Printers, Toronto.

ONE BISCUIT MACHINE AND PREPARER for sale cheap; also four cutters; complete running order. WILLIAM SUTTON, Windham Mills, Simcoe.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, S., V. Edin., Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION. Co-operative Life Assurance. Provide for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON PAGE, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

CANAL SCHOONER FOR SALE—IN GOOD repair; class A 2½, valued at $10,000 by Inland Loyds; capacity, 24,000 bushels wheat and 21,000 oak timber. Apply to J. C. GRAHAM St. Catharines, Ont.

WANTED PARTIES OWNING A PORTABLE Saw Mill to tender for sawing the lumber off 200 acres of bush land. For particulars address, AUTHORS & COX, Manufacturers of Artificial Limbs, 91 Church street, Toronto.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-street East. Business Agent and Valuer.

OWNERS OF FARM LANDS, CITY AND Town Properties, desiring to realize, will find purchasers by sending me full descriptions, lowest prices, and terms of payment. J. W. G. WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto street, Toronto.

GENERAL BUSINESS FOR SALE—IN live place of 1,700 population, Huron County—doing cash business of $16,000 per annum; stock about $4,000; favourable price and terms. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

MERCHANT TAILORING BUSINESS IN thriving western city—old established and doing a fine cash trade of $20,000 per annum; stock of tweeds and gents furnishings about $6,000. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

A THREE-RUN FLOUR AND GRIST MILL for sale—in Western town of 6,000 population; all the latest improved machinery nearly new; good water power; gristing 30,00 bushels annually; large local trade; price $10,000; convenient terms. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

The Auxiliary Publishing Co.,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
PAPER DEALERS.

IN STOCK:

No. 3 Printing Papers, (all the standard sizes.
Cards, Bill Heads,
Printing Inks,
Roller Composition,
Wooden & Metal Quoins,
and all kinds of Printers' Supplies.

Estimates promptly furnished for all classes of newspaper printing. Our facilities for turning out first-class work are unrivalled. Get our prices before ordering elsewhere.

We have advertising space reserved in one hundred and ten of the best weekly papers in Canada, published in towns and villages. The total circulation of these papers is 114,828 copies per week. Rates very low. Send copy of what you wish to advertise and we will promptly return you an estimate of the cost for one time or one year's insertion in our entire list. Our list is suitable for almost every class of advertising, such as "Farms for Sale," "Business Chances," specialties of all kinds, merchandise of every sort; in fact, anything which goes either direct or indirect to the consumer. Address,

S. Frank Wilson,
Proprietor Auxiliary Publishing Co.,
33 & 35 Adelaide st., W., Toronto.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN
The most successful ever discovered, as it is certain and does not blister. READ P...

Kendall's Spavin
HAMILTON, Mo., J...
B. J. KENDALL & Co.,—G... to certify that I have used Ke... Cure, and have found it to b... recommended to be and in fa... I have removed by using the ab... Bone Spavins, Ring-bone, Sp... cheerfully testify and recom... the best thing for any bony sub... ever used, and have tried m... made that my study for years.
Respectfully...

FROM
Col. T. L. F...
YOUNGSTOWN, Chic, M...
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., G... very valuable Hambletonian col... very highly, he had a large bo... one joint and a small one on th... made him very lame; I had h... charge of two veterinary surge... ed to cure him. I was one da... advertisement of Kendall's Sp... the Chicago Express. I decid... to try it, and got our druggist... for it, they ordered three bottles... all and thought I would give... trial, I used it according to dir... fourth day the colt ceased t... the lumps have disappeared. I... bottle and the colt's limbs are... lumps and as smooth as any... state. He is entirely cured. It... so remarkable that I let two of m... have the remaining two bottles... using it.
Very respectfully,
L. I...

Kendall's Spavin
WINGHAM, Ont., Ju...
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., G... to certify that I have used Ke... Cure, bought from C. E. Will... Wingham, Ont., and do with... pronounce it to be an invalu... the cure of Spavin, Ringbone... used it on a bone spavin of... growth which it completely re... can safely say it will remo... Curb or Ringbone it properly... also recommended friends to t... done so with perfect success. I... this public, and will answer a... letters sent me.
Yours &c...
GEO...

Kendall's Spavin
ON HUMAN FLE...
WEST ENOSBURGH, Vt., Fe...
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., G... months ago I injured my kn... caused an enlargement to grow... a walnut and caused me very s... the time for four or five weeks... to use Kendall's Spavin Cure w... satisfactory results. It has ent... ed the enlargement and stopped... and pain. I have long known it... lent for horses but now I know... best liniment for human flesh... quainted with.
Yours truly...
T. P. L...
ST. JOHN, P. Q. (C...
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., G... used your Spavin Cure with gr... spavins, curbs and splints. I... a good remedy for ringbones, s... cuts, galls and all kinds of lam... difficulties about the horse. O... sprained his ankle very badly... Kendall's Spavin Cure and I... thing work like it, he was well... I know it to be good for man a... I procured one of your Treatise... by mail for 25cts. and I thi... means of saving me $100 or m... I treated according to the dir... your book for displaced stifle...
Yours truly,
Wm. ...
Send address for Illustrated... we think gives positive proof... No remedy has ever met with s... ed success to our knowledge, fo... as man.
Price $1 per bottle, or six b... All druggists have it or can g... or it will be sent to any address... price by the proprietors. Dr. B. J... & Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.
Sold by all Dru...
LYMAN, SONS & CO., Mo...
Wholesale Agents

GEORGE NOBL...
INSURANCE AND LAN...
LICENSED AUCTIO...
For the County of...
AGENT for the following reliable...
CITIZENS', of Montreal,
AGRICULTURAL, of W...
TRADE & COMMER... of Toronto.
A number of Choice Farms...
Village Lots.
Auction Sales conducted in a... try on Shortest Notice. Cheq... Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps...
GEO. ...

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

LL'S SPAVIN st successful ed, as it is certain blister. READ Proo
l's Spavin
HAMILTON, Mo., Jun
DALL & Co.,—Gen
at I have used Kend ave found it to be l to be and in fact ed by using the abo s, Ring-bone, Splin stify and recomme for any bony subst nd have tried man study for years.
Respectfully yo
P. V
FROM
T. L. Fo
NGSTOWN, Ohio, May KENDALL & Co., Gent
Hambletonian colt
he had a large bone
a small one on the y time; I had hi veterinary surgeons
m. I was one day
t of Kendall's Spav Express. I determi
d got our druggist
dered three bottles;
ght I would give it
t according to direct he colt ceased to ve disappeared. I e colt's limbs are s smooth as any entirely cured. Th that I let two of m ining two bottles
Very respectfully,
L. T. l's Spavin
VINGHAM, Ont., Jan.
KENDALL & Co., Gen
t I have used Kend from C. E. William it, and do without o be an invaluable
avin. Ringbones, bone spavin of it completely rem v it will remove one it properly nded friends to use perfect success. I d will answer any e.
Yours &c.
GEORGE
's Spavin
HUMAN FLES
NOSBURGH, Vt., Feb
ENDALL & Co., Gent
I injured my knee irgement to grow cau- d me very se
our or five weeks,
l's Spavin Cure
sults. It has enti
ment and stopped ave long known i but now I know for human flesh
Yours truly,
T. P. LA
ST. JOHN, P Q Oct
ENDALL & Co., Gen
vin Cure with gre and splints. I y for ringbones, b all kinds of lame ut the horse. On ankle very badly in Cure and I n e it, he was well i good for man as of your Treatise 5cts. and I think ing me $100 on on ding to the direct llisplaced stifle.
Yours truly,
WM. J. P
s for Illustrated Ci es positive proof o s ever met with su ur knowledge, for r bottle, or six b have it or can nt to any addres oprietors. DR. B rgh Falls, Vt.
y all Dru
ONS & CO., Mon
nts
ORGE NOBL
E AND LAN
SED AUCTIO he County of G following reliable f Montreal,
LTURAL, of Wa
DE & COMMER
of Toronto.
Choice Farms
s conducted in t Notice. Char otes, and Stamps
GEO.

S SACRIFICE:

OR,

or Love of Her.

CHAPTER XVIII.

d had been pretty always; she had retty child, a pretty girl, but she e than pretty now in her happy hood, she was beautiful. Mother-d deepened the light in the lustrous d laid upon the lovely face the ex-of tenderness which had been the g it had lacked, had crowned the round head with gentle dignity. Even e marriage there had been a childish-incompleteness about her beauty d struck the critical observer rather antly; but the childishness, the ineness was all gone now, travel, soci-e meeting of many new faces, resid-one of the gayest cities in Europe, e away with all that; she was a now, well versed in all the arts of ll, never ill at ease, never embarrass-ceful, womanly, always. As she there in the box, one small gloved esting lightly upon the velvet-covered e other holding a dainty ivory and era-glass, many lorgnettes were d at her, many people whispered ad-ly,
's beautiful woman."
dress was a marvellous combination et satin and glistening jet, all black, contrast, the pure, creamy complex-ied dazzlingly fair, and her quaintly Parisian bonnet, the work of one of most celebrated French milliners, showed rontage the wavy masses of shining there were diamonds flashing in her and at her throat, the diamonds Russel ven her upon their wedding day—they been his mother's before her—and at ast she wore—it was a strange coinci-
—a cluster of deep red roses.
—a moment she stood there, her eyes wancarelessly over the house, then sink-own into a chair, she turned her head o speak to a gentleman who, coming the back of the box, seated himself be-her, and taking her opera glass proto scan the house.
fixed eyes Russel Anthon had looked his wife's face, eyes which were filled the most passionate longing, with the intense anguish; but when those ng, agonized eyes fell upon the man had seated himself by her side, there into them an expression made up of ness, despair and fierce anger. Little ew that it was so, for Muriel's companwas his brother—the false, black-hearted her, who had robbed him of everything had held dear in the world.
ow strikingly handsome Arundel was in faultless evening dress. There was not low upon his face, with its clear-cut, n features, there was no cloud of soror remorse in his long-lashed dark eyes, e looking at him would have thought e was guilty of a sin as black and ss as any ever committed by man, that e sake of a woman's love he had sold
l. Wealth, ease, luxury, and above he passionate love which Muriel poured upon him like water, had wrought mar-ous changes in Arundel Anthon; he had en younger instead of older since that l hour; when, with Muriel's arms nd him, her heart beating close to his,
had yielded to temptation.
doubt very much if many men love wo-as he loved Muriel; it was more than it was idolatry, worship; his world n and ended in her; she was his all, her sake he had given up every chance of ven. Like the lotos eaters of old he had thought of any future, no hope of any after; he spent no time in vain regrets id not look shudderingly before him, he ed only in the present, and the pre ent Muriel; in his love for her he drown-conscience, stifled remorse. He was ctually in the same state that an opium er is when under the effects of that dead-ing, his moral sensibilities were dreedthe soul had lost all power over the body; was not possible to imagine a man in a ore condition mentally than he was,
this was what Muriel's love had done for ne year and a half spent abroad had e as much for him as it had done for rself. There was not a man in the thea-that night whose manners were so easy, so charming, whose tastes were more ined and refined, who e conversational wers were more varied and brilliant. Peosaid of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Anthon, ey are the most charming couple, and perfectly suited to each other."

But the desolate man, watching them
, said so too with a breaking heart, ile the fierce anger died out of his eyes to replaced by the old agony. He noticed w Muriel nestled closer to the man who beside her, and who had thrown one m over the back of her chair, and she ked now and then into his face, her own radiant with perfect happiness, every of hers unconsciously betraying the great e she felt for the man she firmly believed be her lawful husband. And Russel saw all, knew now that Muriel was happier th Arundel than he could ever have made
; that she had given his brother the love had never given him, and seeing and owing it he said to himself:
"My sacrifice has not been in vain.
riel is happy—happier with him than ever was or ever would have been with
, and knowing that I am content to suf-
."
"Herbert," murmured Mrs. Disbrow, lay-down her opera-glass and leaning toward husband, "there are the Anthons in opposite box; don't you remember they d us, the last time we saw them in Paris, y thought they would go home some e in October? How lovely Muriel Anthon ks to-night; don't you think she is very tty, Mr. Brandon, the lady in the box posite to us?"
With a terrible effort he brought himself answer the question put to him, dering if Mrs. Disbrow would not ice the hollow ring in his low voice as he
."
She is very beautiful; you have met her, ave you not, Mrs. Disbrow?"
There was a roaring sound in his louder than the clash of the orchestra, mist was before his eyes which shut out everything save those two—Muriel and Arundel.

"Oh, yes," answered Mrs. Disbrow, her eyes still resting upon the Anthons' box: "my husband and I met them over a year ago in Germany; Mrs. Anthon's parents were then with them, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Trowbridge, such very pleasant people, and we all travelled together through Germany, and into France; we had such a delightful time, and I"—laughing lightly as she spoke—"fell in love with Mrs. Anthon—she is so very sweet and lovely; I am not surprised nor is any one who has met her, that her husband idolizes her. They are certainly the most devoted couple I ever saw; if he idolizes her, she fairly worships him, and that is not strange either, for he is one of the most agreeable men I ever met, and so very fine looking too; they are perfectly suited to each other in every way, those two, they certainly must have been made for each other. There, the curtain is going up!"

All through that first act Russel Anthon sat there as totally unconscious of what was being said and done upon the stage as if he had been miles away from the theatre. He wondered vaguely if his strength would last him until the play was finished, it seemed to be slowly ebbing away from him, and his agony was growing almost unendurable.

The drop-curtain fell upon the first act. The house was again brilliant with gaslight, filled with soft murmur of many voices. Looking across the stage Muriel recognized her friends, bowed smiled, and beckoned them to come to her.

"Go round and tell her I will come at the close of the next act, Herbert," said Mrs. Disbrow, and when her husband had left the box to do her bidding, she seated herself in her chair, looking over her programme, and fanning herself with her painted fan.

"You were telling me about your friend, Mrs. Disbrow," said Russel, after moment's silence.

"Ah, so I was." Then suddenly, "Why, Mr. Brandon, are you ill, you are so ghastly pale!"

He passed one hand over his throbbing temples.

"It is very warm in here, and heat always affects me," he answered, quietly.

"What was I telling you about Muriel?" said Mrs. Disbrow, musingly. "Ah, I remember now; I was saying how dearly she loved her husband. I am afraid you will think me a sad gossip; Mr. Brandon, but you would not think, would you, to look at them now, that when Mrs. Anthon married her husband she did not love him."

For a second he paused, while the roar in his ears grew louder, the mist before his eyes more blinding. The orchestra was playing a brilliant valse. Mrs. Disbrow did not notice his changed voice as he said:

"Why did she marry him if she did not love him?"

"To please him as well as her father. Mr. Anthon knew that she did not love him, yet he was content to marry her and wait until love came."

Ah, God in heaven! there had been a mistake somewhere.

"I would never have married her if I had known she did not love me," the man sitting beside Mrs, Disbrow moaned to himself.

"And when—did she begin to love—her husband?"

The voice faltered as the question was asked.

Mrs. Disbrow laughed.

"She told me all about it herself, and it only goes to show that we women do not always know the state of our own hearts. They had not been married quite a year when Mr. Anthon was obliged to go to Mexico, I believe, on business, and it was not until after his return that Mrs. Anthon made the astonishing discovery that she loved her own husband; quite romantic, was it not? She certainly has every reason now to be the happy woman she is, for beside her devoted husband, she has one child, the most beautiful little baby girl I ever saw. Really, Mr. Brandon, you look very ill, don't you think if you went out and walked up and down the corridor you would feel better?"

If she could have looked into the rent heart and seen the misery there, she would have wondered how he could live and suffer as he was suffering.

Slowly the words came from the ashen lips.

"Yes, Mrs. Disbrow, perhaps I would—at least, I will try it. It is so very warm in here."

But the poor heart had yet more pain to suffer that night.

When at the close of the second act her husband had not yet returned to her, Mrs. Disbrow began to grow a little impatient, Mr. and Mrs. Morehead were talking together earnestly, and not caring to disturb her father, she asked Mr. Brandon, who, after pacing up and down the cool corridor until the fever in his brain had somewhat subsided, and resumed his seat by her side, if he would escort her to the Anthons' box.

"For I am afraid my husband has forgotten me, she murmuerd, "and I am very anxious to see Mrs. Anthon."

"Certainly, I will go with you, Mr. Brandon answered, "only, Mrs. Disbrow, I cannot go into the box, for I am not feeling well, I do not feel able to talk with—strangers."

Oh, the mockery of it! strangers, yet they were his wife and his twin brother!

He stood at the box door an instant after Mrs. Disbrow had gone in, he heard Arundel's musical voice and Muriel's rippling laugh.

It was terrible to stand there with only a door between him and the woman who was bound to him by the most solemn of all earthly ties; a wild desire came upon him to rush in and strike Arundel down like a dog, to fold Muriel to his aching heart and claim her as his wife. Then suddenly he turned away, a great choking sob rising in his throat—Muriel had never loved him, never, never, and she loved Arundel, she was the mother of his child.

It seemed to him as if the play would never come to an end that night, but at last the great green curtain descended, the large audience dispersed; Russel lingered long enough to see Arundel fold Muriel's cloak tenderly about her figure, then, almost staggering, he went out into the night air.

"You must pardon me," he murmured, when his party urged him to accompany them to Delmonico's to have supper. "I am not feeling well: I must go home."

His face, white as ashes, with heavy purple shadows underneath his eyes, told plainly that he was indeed suffering.

"Take care of yourself, Brandon," said Mr. Morehead anxiously, "and unless you are all right in the morning, don't think of going down to the stores"

Russel Anthon managed to reach his room in the house where he boarded; but he had only just crossed the threshold when the last remnant of his terribly tried strength gave way, and he sank down, fainting for the first time in his life. After awhile he came to himself; then he dragged himself to the bed, and lying there in the darkness he vowed that Muriel should never know that the father of her child was not her husband.

The next morning a strange longing came upon him to go by his former home to see it once more, now that it was bright again with Muriel's presence. He looked up at the window as he passed the house; they were draped with snowy curtains just as they had been when he had lived there with Muriel; Slowly he walked down the street. Suddenly there was a short, glad bark at his side, a dog's nose was thrust into his hand, and, looking down, he saw Leo. Involuntarily he laid one hand upon the dog's head.

"Leo, old boy, do you know me!" he whispered.

The beautiful animal gave another short bark, and putting his front paws upon his arm, tried to lick his face. No matter what the rest had done, Leo had not forgotten his master.

"Leo, Leo!"

As the well remembered voice rang out clearly, Russel turned. Muriel was standing upon the stoop of her house, her soft hair ruffled by the wind, her blue cashmere morning-robe falling in graceful folds about her. Just as Russel had passed the house, she had stepped out upon the stoop, wondering if the day would be a pleasant one, and Leo had followed her. What was her astonishment when, instead of remaining quietly by her side as was his usual custom, the dog suddenly dashed down the step and along the pavement until he reached a lame stranger who was walking slowly and wearily along. Leo had never done such a thing before in all the years Muriel had owned him, and she was reasonably greatly surprised.

"Leo, come!"

Again she called to him, and patting the dog's head Russel murmured,

"Leo, you must go back to Muriel."

But the intelligent animal only looked at him with an imploring look in his great, expressive eyes, still licking his hand, deaf to the call of his beloved mistress.

The third time Muriel called; this time there was a ring of anxiety in her voice.

"Leo, dear old fellow, you must go," said Russel, sorrowfully. "Go back, Leo, go back to Muriel!"

Slowly the dog crept away from him up the steps, then when he had reached Muriel's side he looked up into her face, his eyes filled with dumb entreaty.

"What is the matter with you, Leo?" she said, laying her hand upon him. "Come, we must go into the house."

The animal turned, looked after Russel's retreating figure, then lifting his tawny head, he gave a long, mournful howl.

And Russel, going about the street, remembered the day when half seriously, half in jest, he had asked Leo not to forget him. And the dog had not forgotten him; the instincts of the animal had been truer than those of the woman who had called him husband, and of one of the men who had called him friend.

CHAPTER XIX.

A day in May. A fair, lovely day, the cloudless sky above the city was as blue, the golden sunshine as bright, as though it had been a day in June. It was between four and five o'clock in the afternoon—the fashionable hour for driving—and the avenue was crowded with perfectly appointed carriages of every description rolling along on their way to the Park; not so much because their occupants cared anything about the Park—its smooth-shaven lawns, its beds of bright flowers, its lakes, trees and statuary—but because in New York the Park is the fashionable place in which to drive.

In front of a very handsome house situated a few blocks below the Park, upon the same wide avenue which, this sunshiny spring afternoon was thronged with carriages, a dog-cart was standing—a dog-cart as perfect in its way as it is possible for a dog-cart to be, with gleaming red wheels and a crest upon its polished sides. The horses were magnificent animals, jet black, their glossy coats and gold-mounted harness glistening in the sunshine, and they were shaking their handsome heads as though they did not at all approve of the idea of standing; beside them stood the groom, a look of complacency upon his face, as if he fully realized the importance of being part and parcel of such an aristocratic looking turnout.

Upon the high front seat, holding the cream-colored reins closely in his gloved hands, sat the man who eighteen years before had sold his soul for a woman's kiss, the man who had sinned against his God, his brother, and himself—Arundel Anthon.

Yes, eighteen years had passed since that June day when he had pressed his lips upon Muriel's, and by that little act had renounced his hopes of heaven; he had lived eighteen years of intoxicating happiness of luxury and ease, and wrath of God had not fallen upon him, and yet "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord." Would the vengeance of his Creator ever overtake Arundel Anthon?

However sin may distort and disfigure the spiritual body, this thing is quite certain, it does not always affect the natural one. On the contrary, Nature seems to take a fiendish delight in clothing the horribly deformed soul in the most beautiful flesh, just as we find the richest and brightest tints in the flowers whose juices are poison: and we all know that the deadliest serpents have the most exquisitely marked and mottled skins.

Nothing in Arundel's face or form betrayed the fact that his soul was deformed and sin-blackened. You might walk from one end of Fifth Avenue to the other, and not see a man whose face was so strikingly handsome, whose figure was so stately and admirably proportioned, whose tout-ensemble was more distinguished. The years sat so lightly upon him; the gray that was mingled with the dark brown of the wavy hair and silky moustache only added to the proud dignity of the high-bred face.

There is an old saying, "The devil helps his own." Now, whether or no his Satanic majesty does assist those who give themselves over into his hands, I do not pretend to say, but certainly Arundel Anthon had been marvellously successful through all the years that had elapsed since he had been false to every principle of truth and honour within him. He had doubled and trebled the fortune that had been Russel's, he had given full scope to his natural powers and genius, had developed and perfected the abilities and talent with which nature had endowed him. Where others had lost, he had won; where other men had been unsuccessful, he had been wonderfully successful. His business friends said of him, "He has as clear a head, as much forethought and far-sightedness as any man could have," and they said truly.

That rare power of personal fascination had served him well; it had made him hosts of warm, true friends—friends who were enthusiastic in their praise of him. His family relations were of the very happiest, he had wealth to gratify every whim, however extravagant, the passionate love of the woman who was so dear to him—would the day of reckoning ever come!

Five years before, Mr, Trowbridge, who was very proud of his son-in-law, had given him the lot on Fifth Avenue. It was one of those very lots of which he had thought and which he had hated to think of sacrificing, that night so many years ago when Russel had told him of his love for Muriel; and upon that lot Arundel had built a house which was absolutely perfect in its appointments, whose furnishings and decorations were exquisite.

He had never liked that other house, the house which had been Russel's wedding present to Muriel, everything about it reminded him of the brother whose name and place he had taken, and he was glad and thankful when it passed into the hands of strangers. As he sat there in his handsome dog-cart, the sunshine falling over him, he looked the personification of wealth, ease and happiness; the sky above his head was not more cloudless or serene than his face.

Was he thinking, do you ask, of another afternoon when the sunshine had fallen hot and bright upon the plains, and he had ridden away, far in advance of the dark forms outlined so clear against the sky, leaving a dying man to die alone? Not at all, he was thinking that his horses were looking remarkably well, and that it was a perfect dad for driving.

Suddenly the massive vestibule door swung open, down the stone steps came Muriel, looking so young and lovely in her carriage dress of sapphire blue silk and velvet that no one would have supposed she was a day over thirty. The years had dealt very lovingly with Muriel Anthon, the satin-like skin was as delicately tinted, the velvety eyes as lustrous, the coils of gleaming hair as thick and soft as they had been in her girlhood: this much Arundel had done, he had made her perfectly happy, he had kept every shade of care and pain out of her life.

A great tenderness broke over his face now at sight of her. Throwing down the reins he sprang down from his seat, and lifted her into the carriage, tucking in her dress, drawing the lap-robe over her, doing it all lovingly, tenderly, then resting himself beside her, he took up the reins, while the groom, leaving his place at the horses' heads, climbed to his seat, and folding his arms sat with his back to his master, as motionless as though he had been carved out of marble; another instant and the handsome dog-cart was rolling swiftly along up the avenue.

In one of the lace-draped windows of the second story a girl was standing who watched the dog-cart and its occupants until it was out of sight, watched it with eyes that were misty as though with unshed tears.

"How dearly he loves mamma," she said to herself, while her wistful eyes wandered from the crowded avenue below her, up to the blue sky, that arched over the city. "I think he worships her: to her he is always the same, always loving to me"—the small hands clasped themselves together, the beautiful lips quivered pitifully, and great tears stood in the tender brown eyes and clung to the long lashes as Louie Anthon asked herself the question she had asked herself so many times before.

"Why is it papa has never, never loved me?"

It did seem hard to understand how any one who was brought into daily contact with her could help loving her—she was so fair and sweet, this only child of Muriel Anthon's.

She was just eighteen now, and in many respects was very much what her mother had been at that age. She had the same petite, daintily rounded graceful figure, the same small, haughtily poised head, and masses of curly bronze gold hair; but the low, broad, intelligent forehead, the beautiful, truthful, tender brown eyes, the expressive mouth with the tinge of hauteur about the sensitive lips, and the firm chin—these were not Muriel's—no, no. Winsome, loving, charming, full of generous impulse, sympathetic, true-hearted, there was more strength and firmness in Louie Anthon's nature than she was herself aware of.

For a few moments she stood there in the window with that sorrowful look upon her face, wondering sadly why her handsome father had always been so cold and indifferent to her. It had always been so, as long as she could remember; he had never given her unasked a single caress or kiss. When she was a child, and used to run to meet him, he would put her aside coolly. Other girls had fathers who took an interest in them—were proud of them; he seemed to feel neither pride nor interest in her. And she had tried so hard to make him love her, and had been always so thoughtful of his comfort, so tenderly attentive—all to no purpose.

"Is it because he loves mamma so dearly that he has no love to spare even me—his only child?" she thought, sorrowfully. "It seems to me God meant that love should deepen and broaden people's hearts, making them more thoughtful and tender for every one around them."

With a little quivering sigh she sank down into a chair and took up the book she had been reading: but she only read a few paragraphs. Then the lovely, wistful eyes strayed from the page up again to the clear, blue sky, and their owner was fast drifting into a reverie, when there came a knock at the door. A sweet musical voice said, "May I come in, Lenie?" and, with a little exclamation of delight, Louie rose to meet a tall, graceful girl who came into the room.

A great many people considered Aline Brentwood the most beautiful girl in her "set." Certainly she was very beautiful, whether most beautiful would be decided, of course, by a person's individual preference for light or dark beauty, for Aline was a brunette of the most pronounced type. An oval face, with a warm olive complexion, masses of dusky hair growing low upon a broad forehead, a mouth with a short, curved upper lip and a full lower one, and rows of small, white, even teeth, and eyes that would have glorified any face: large, dark, and velvety they were, with long, thick curly lashes and delicately penciled brows. The eyes and mouth told plainly that there was a depth of passion in the girls nature; they told that love would be no trifling thing to Aline Brentwood, that it would make or mar her happiness for life. She was just above middle height, and the curves of the exquisitely proportioned figure were rich almost to voluptuousness.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Mummy Flowers.

Several of the royal mummies discovered last year at Deir-el-Bahari were, it will be remembered, found garlanded with flowers, these flowers being for the most part in wonderful preservation. M. Arthur Rhone, in a recent letter to Le Temps, has described the extremely curious ways in which these garlands are woven. They consist of the petals and sepals of various flowers, detached from their stems, and enclosed each in a folded leaf of either the Egyptian willow (Salix salsaf) or the Mimumsops Kummel Bruce. The floral ornaments thus devised were then arranged in rows—the points being all set one way—and connected by means of a thread of date-leaf fibre woven in a kind of chain stitch. The whole resembles a coarse "edging" of vegetable lace work. Among the flowers thus preserved, are the bright blue blossom of the Delphinium orientalis, or larkspur; the blue lotus, or Nymphæa cerulæa; the white of Nymphæa lotus, with pink-tipped sepals; the blossoms of the Sesbania Ægyptiaca, and the orange-hued flower of the Carthamus tinctorius, or safflower, so largely employed as a dye by the ancient inhabitants of the Nile Valley. The dried fruit, as well as the dried yellow blossom of the Acacia Nilotica is likewise present; and mention is also made of the blossom of a species of water melon now extinct. The foregoing are all interwoven in the garlands in which the mummy of Amenhotep I. was elaborately swathed. With others of the royal mummies were found fine detached specimens of both kinds of lotus, the blue and the white, with stems, blossoms, and seed-pods complete. Still more interesting is it to learn that upon the mummy of the priest Nebsoohi, maternal grandfather of the King Pinotem I., (twenty first dynasty,) there were found a specimen of the lichen known to botanists as the Parmelia furfuracea. This plant is indigenous to the island of the Greek Archipelago, whence it must have been brought to Egypt at or before the period of the Her-Hor dynasty, (1100 or 1200 B.C.) Under the Arabic name of "Kheba" it is sold by the native druggists in Cairo to this day. These frail relics of many a vanished Spring have been arranged for the Boolak Museum with exquisite skill by that eminent traveller and botanist Dr. Schweinfurth. Classified, mounted, and, so to say, illustrated by modern examples of the same flowers and plants, they fill elevan es—a collection absolutely unique, and likely ever to remain so. The hues of these old world flowers are said to be as brilliant as those of their modern prototypes; and, but for the labels which show them to be 3,000 years apart, no ordinary observer could distinguish between those which were buried with the Pharaohs and those which were gathered and dried only a few months ago.—Chambers' Journal.

A "Missing Link."

Mr. Farini is now exhibiting at the Royal Aquarium in London a strange hairy little creature named Krao. Krao is described as a very bright-looking, intelligent girl of about 7 years of age. She was caught, according to the account given of her by Mr. Farini, in the forest near Laos, in south-eastern Asia, and brought to England by Mr. Carl Bock, a Norwegian. Hearing in various quarters of the existence of a race of hairy tailed men similar in appearance to a family kept at the court of Mandalay, he offered a reward for the capture of a specimen. A man was caught, and with him the child now exhibited, and a woman of similar appearance then allowed herself to be taken. When the little one attempted to wander her parents called her back with a plaintive cry, "Kra-o," and the call has been adopted as her name. The father died at Laos of cholera, and the King refused to let the mother go; but Mr. Bock succeeded in getting the child to Bangkok, and obtained permission from the King of Siam to take her to England. The eyes of the child are large, dark, and lustrous; the nose is flattened, the nostrils scarcely showing; the cheeks are fat and pouch-like, the lower lip only rather thicker than is usual in Europeans; but the chief peculiarity is the strong and abundant hair. On the head it is black, thick, and straight, and grows over the forehead down to the heavy eyebrows, and is continued in whisker-like locks down the cheeks. The rest of the face is covered with a fine, dark, downy hair, and the shoulders and arms have a covering of hairs from an inch to an inch and a half long. There is, it is said, a slight lengthening of the lower vertebræ, suggestive of caudal protuberance, and there are points in the muscular conformation and otherwise which will provoke discussion. Krao has already picked up a few words of English. She is said to be of a frank, affectionate disposition, and shows truly feminine delight in her clothes, jewellery, and ribbons. Mr. Farini exhibits her as "the missing link."

The Standard.

MARKDALE, JAN. 25TH, 1883.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We beg to return thanks to the many who have renewed their subscriptions so promptly, and for expressions of good will and words of encouragement which we are receiving daily. Many of our patrons have done nobly in encouraging their neighbors to subscribe for the STANDARD, thereby increasing its circulation on all sides.

While nearly all of our old subscribers have either renewed or signified their intention of doing so, we have had a large addition of new names, and are adding to our list almost daily. We would say to those who have not yet renewed that they will do us a favor by doing so as soon as convenient. We pay cash for all our material and are depending on the odd dollars to meet the demands. We used over a ton and a half of paper last year, and a greater quantity will be required for this.

The STANDARD is still growing in popularity, and our best efforts will be made to make it indispensible in every family within 15 miles around.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

The following are the results of the recent examination for entrance to the High School. There were 73 candidates—20 from Owen Sound and 53 from other parts. Of this number 28 have been provisionally admitted—8 of whom are from Owen Sound.

1. McLoughrey, Robert.....325
2. Brown, Lyman.....317
3. Rae, Janet Graham.....310
4. Walker, Edward.....309
5. Bell, Kate.....307
6. Greenless, Maggie.....307
7. Coulson, Kate.....306
8. Douglass, Janet.....304
9. Rutherford, George.....304
10. Ford, Ettie.....303
11. Davis, Susan.....301
12. Keogh, Alice B.....299
13. Kennedy, David John.....297
14. Robertson, William.....295
15. Evans, Jennie.....293
16. Radcliffe, Ann Jane.....287
17. Ireton, Martha Jane.....286
18. Middlebrough, William Sora....281
19. Murray, Alexander.....280
20. Noble, Henrietta.....279
21. Kelly, Maggie.....279
22. Telford, John.....279
23. Farley, James.....276
24. Kelbourn, John Macready.....275
25. Keogh, Lucius Richard.....274
26. Neelands, Margaret Jane.....273
27. Anderson, Geo. A.....271
28. Moran, James.....263

The first 19 have complied with the requirement of taking one third in each subject and one half of the whole marks. The last nine have not obtained one half of the whole—but their papers being generally of a fair character their admission is recommended. —They may however, be disallowed.—Times.

ARTEMESIA COUNCIL.

The newly-elected council for the year 1883 met in the town hall, Flesherton, on 15th Jan., 1883

Present—W. S. Christoe, M. D., Reeve; John McArthur, (Ward No. 1;) A. Elliott, (Ward No. 2;) T. Wright, (Ward No. 3;) W. T. McKee, (Ward No. 4,) Councillors.

After each member had taken the necessary declaration of qualification and office they took their seats.

The next business was reading the minutes of December session, which were read and confirmed. Then the election of a Deputy-Reeve.

Wright, McArthur—That Mr. A. Elliott be Deputy-Reeve for the current year, which motion was carried unanimously.

A letter from Mr. Webster, Priceville, re contract let to Chas. Ryan, was presented and read.

A petition from John McAlear re board and burial of James Lyons, an indigent, was presented and read, which could not be entertained.

Report and award of arbitrators on the drains from Melancthon, presented and read.

Accounts as follows presented, read and ordered to be paid :—H. Hooper, coffin for D. Smith, an indigent, $5 50; S. Kingston, digging grave for same, $1.50; A. R. Fawcett, printing, $4; Robt. Carruthers, holding poll Ward No. 4, $5; W. J. Bellamy, quarter salary, &c., $42; Thos. Quigg, kindling for hall, $2.20; T. Hutchinson, repairing bridge, $1.50; T. Wright, attending arbitration re Melancthon drains, $3; Jerry Thompson, error in school assessment, $1.60; Alex. McIntyre, for arrears of taxes paid in error, $2.

Mr. Wm. Brown, of Markdale, was selected by the Reeve as his choice for auditor, and Mr. C. C. James, of Priceville, as the choice of the Council. Mr. John Whithy was appointed assessor, and by-laws were passed confirming above appointments.

Council adjourned to meet on the first Monday in February, 1883.

W. J. BELLAMY, CLERK.

GLENELG COUNCIL.

The newly elected council met at the town hall on 15th inst. pursuant to statute.

All the members present. Each member made and subscribed the declaration of qualification and office.

The Reeve appointed John Moffat an auditor, and the Council appointed C. Firth.

John S. Black was appointed assessor.

A by-law was passed confirming these appointments.

Davis, Mullarky—That Deputy Returning Officers at the municipal election be paid $4 each and doorkeepers $1.50 each, and that $4 be paid for each polling place—carried.

Dunsmoor, Mullarky—That Mrs. Tuohy be refunded taxes which she paid in error for the year 1879, amounting to $9.25, and that Mrs. Priel be refunded her taxes for 1882, amounting to $6.05—carried.

Mullarky, McMillan—That the Reeve, Mr. Davis and Mr. Dunsmoor be appointed a committee to report on the Treasurer's sureties—carried.

McMillan, Dunsmoor—That the Clerk be instructed to furnish a list of road deviations at next meeting, showing titles if any—carried.

McMillan, Mullarky—That the following accounts be paid :—

J. Townsend, printing, $6.50; Rowswell & Hutchison, election blanks $5.50—carried.

Road Commissioners were appointed as follows :—Ward No. 1, T. Davis; Ward No. 2, J. A. McMillan; Ward No, 3, P. Mullarky; Ward No. 4, N. Dunsmoor.

Dunsmoor, Davis—That $3 be paid T. & J Brown fer repairing road scrapers, per order of John McInnis, pathmaster—carried.

Dunsmoor, Davis—That John S Black be authorized to repair the windows of the town hall and paint the sash, the cost not to exceed $2 50 and the work to be completed before the 12th of February next—carried Council adjourned to meet at the same place on 12th Feb. next.

JAS. BROWN, Clerk.

HOLLAND COUNCIL.

The first meeting of Council was held on Jan. 15th.

The Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Councillors took their declaration of office and qualification and took their seats.

Minutes of former meeting read and confirmed.

Deavitt, McKinnet—That James Page get an order for $4.40, for road work performed by him.

Deputy-Reeve, Galbraith—That G. Little get an order for $10, being balance of school taxes coming to S. S. No. 2.

Deputy-Reeve, Deavitt—That the requisition of Andrew Pryle regarding changing pathmaster be laid over for further consideration.

Deputy-Reeve, McKinnett—That Mark Abby be appointed poundkeeper in place of James Wright.

Deavitt, Galbraith—That the acct. of C. W. Rutledge be paid.

Deputy-Reeve, Deavitt—That Ed. Hannah get an order for 90c., being taxes overpaid.

The Reeve appointed John Sutherland and the Council appointed John Murphy as auditors.

The petition of Gilbert Coolridge and others asking this council to break up section No. 2, Holland and Euphrasia, and attach it to other sections.

Deavitt, McKinnet—That the Clerk notify the Trustees of sections concerned in the above petition to appear at the next sitting on Feb. 14th.

Deputy-Reeve, Galbraith—That G. Little be assessor at a salary of $60.

Deputy-Reeve, Galbraith—That the Reeve and Clerk draw up a memorial of condolence to Mrs. McGregor and accompany the same with $25.

Shute, Deavitt—That the following widows be exempted from taxes :—Widows Cæsar, Graham, McDiarmid, Chambers, Matthews, McGregor, Jackson, and James Robinson.

Council adjourned until Feb. 14th, then to meet at Vogan's hall.

CARSON PRICE, Clerk.

Hopeville.

A new Orange Lodge has been organized at Hopeville, with the following list of officers :—Joseph McArdle, W. M.; J. Harvey, D. M.; J. A. Goheen, Chap; N. A. McDonald, Treas.; D. K. McArthur, Sec.; Wm. Howey, D. of C.; Geo. Weir, 1st Com.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County Council met on Tuesday, the 23rd inst. The following are the Reeves and Deputies :—

Artemesia, Dr. Christoe, Reeve; A. Elliott, Deputy-Reeve. Bentinck, D. McNichol, Reeve; J. Messenger, 1st Dep. Reeve; J. McCallum, 2nd Dep. Reeve. Collingwood, Neil McColman, Reeve; — Campbell, 1st Deputy-Reeve; — Hewgill, 2nd Dep. Reeve. Derby, R. A. Stark, Reeve; Wm. Brian, Dep. Reeve. Euphrasia, R. Myles, Reeve; James Erskine, Dep. Reeve. Egremont, J. Murdoch, Reeve; Jas. Paul, Dep. Reeve. Glenelg, F. MacRae, Reeve; T. Mullarky, Dep. Reeve. Holland, John Cameron, Reeve; A. Shute, Deputy-Reeve. Keppel, Wm. Totten, Reeve; John Clark, Dep. Reeve. Normanby, J. Blyth, Reeve; G. E. Schenk, 1st Dep. Reeve; C. Fischer, 2nd Dep. Reeve. Osprey, A. McGirr, Reeve; A. McIntyre, Dep. Reeve. Proton, J. Agnew, Dep. Reeve. Sullivan, Jos. Dunnington, Reeve; Jas. Vassey, Dep. Reeve. St. Vincent, Jas. Bowes, Jr., Reev; Nicholas Reed, Dep. Reeve. Sydenham, Wm. Lang, Reeve. Sarawak, R. McNaught, Reeve. Town of Durham, G. McKechnie, Reeve. Town of Meaford, Chas. Watt, Reeve. Town of Owen Sound. J. Chisholm, Reeve; J. W. Frost, 1st Dep. Reeve; J. C. Miller, 2nd Dep. Reeve.

D. Nichol, Esq., Reeve of Bentinck, was elected Warden.

Osprey.

Times are rather dull in Osprey just now. Stormy weather and bad roads are the order of the day.

Mr. J. T. Galloway has sold his farm, lot 3, con. 9, Osprey, for $1,400, and is moving to Nottawasaga.

Business dull in Maxwell.

We acknowledge receipt of $1 from R. H. Whitby, Orangeville; A. Melton, Long Rapids, Mich; Thos. Grey, Kingston, Mich.; Wm. Crawford, Millbank, and Shelton Knight, New Westminster, B. C., being subscription to the STANDARD for 1883.

The Quarterly Meeting in the C. M. Church, Markdale, is postponed until the second Sabbath in February. The voting on the union of the different Methodist bodies will take place by the members of the Quarterly Official Board on Monday, the 12th Feb.

IN MEMORY

OF HATTIE E., BELOVED DAUGHTER OF JOHN AND MARY ANN BOLAND.

She came to bind affections ties,
To light our load of care,
To win us by her soft blue eyes,
Sweet pearl surpassing fair;
But soon the earthly bond was riven
She went to lead our hearts to heaven.

The lily hands upon her breast
Are folded still and white;
No song to hush her babe to rest
The mother sings to-night.
But there's no sorrow on His heart
Where sheltered now, dear lamb, thou art.

Summer will come again to touch
Its blossom, blade and tree;
But ah! sweet blossom loved so much
It comes not back to thee.
And yet, oh child, of many a prayer,
Eternal summer awaits thee there.

Oh! hearts that ache o'er parted ties,
'Twas hard to give her up,
To hide your tears from human eyes,
Yet drink the bitter cup
'Twas hard to kiss the cold, white brow
And lay her where she's sleeping now.

Oh, for the faith that upward springs
Through darkness, doubt and gloom,
That hears the song a seraph sings
And lights the lonely tomb.
A little while to watch and weep,
There's calm beneath the troubled deep.

We lay them down with tears to rest,
The tender and the fair,
We hush the sorrow in the breast
And lift our hands in prayer.
He hears our bitter, mournful cry.
The answer cometh—bye and bye.

The tear in many a lonely hour
As memory's couch may start.
But time will fall with soothing power
And love bind up the heart.
A little while to weep at best.
Then home, and heaven, and endless rest.

I. G.

BIRTHS.

IRWIN—On Monday, 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Joseph Irwin, of a daughter.

PATTERSON—On Friday, 8th inst., the wife of W. J. Patterson, teacher, Maxwell, of a son.

KERR—On Friday, 8th inst. the wife of B. S. Kerr, M. D., Maxwell, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

BEST—WILEY—On the 18th inst., at the residence of the brides father, by Rev. J. S. Corcoran, Mr. Wm. H. Best to Miss Margaret A. Wiley, all of Euphrasia.

SAMPLE—SAMPLE—By the Rev. T Grandy, on the 11th inst., at the C. M. Parsonage, Eugenia, Mr Audrew Sample, to Miss Elizabeth Sample, all of Artemesia.

DIED.

MITCHELL—On Thursday morning, the 11th inst., the youngest daughter of Mr. Wm. Mitchell, Flesherton Station.

FOSTER—In Holland, on the 18th inst., Mr. Henry Foster, aged 78 years.

REID—At Dundalk, Jan. 18th, 1883. James L. Reid, aged 76 years.

MCCORMIC—In Glenelg, on the 20th, Mr. John McCormic, aged 56 years.

ROBERTSON—In Osprey, on the 14th inst., infant son of Alexander and Mary Ann Robertson, aged 1 year, 3 months.

The conservatives claim a large majority in the Manitoba elections which came off on Tuesday.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows :

GOING NTH. Read Down. A.M.	P.M.		GOING SOUTH Read Up. A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO.....	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CALDWELL JCN.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER....	5 10	2 45
11 50	0	FLESHERTON....	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.80 to $0.92; Spring $0.82 to $0 92; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $0.00; Pork, 7.5C to 8.15; Flour, $4.25 to $4.50; Grass Seed, $1.75.

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.85 to $0.90; Spring, $0.88 to $0.90; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68c; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $9.00; Pork, $7.50 to $8 00

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.93 to $0.97; Spring, $0.94 to $0.98; Barley, 55 to 73c; Oats, 41c to 43c Peas, 70c to 72c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.37; Potatoes, per bag, 75c to 85c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs 30c to 32c.

W. C. RICHARDS,

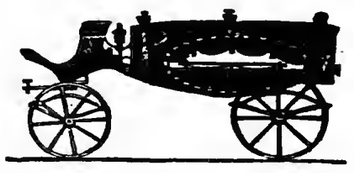
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

THE GREAT MICHIGAN PAPER.

THE DETROIT WEEKLY

POST AND TRIBUNE



Only $1.00 per Year.

Contains all the news of the week from all parts of the world. As a newspaper it has no superior on the continent, in the quality and character of news it furnishes every number giving valuable information worth 10 times the subscription price.

MANITOBA news is a feature alone that will make it interesting to all Dominion readers. We want 10,000 subscribers this year in Canada, and as a premium to all who subscribe we send a copy of KENDALL'S Treatise on the Horse. This book is not a humbug or worthless affair, but is "worth its weight in gold" to every man who owns a horse. It was first published at 50 cents, and contains nearly 100 engravings. Recollect the book and paper both one year for $1. Sample copy of paper sent free. Address

THE POST & TRIBUNE.
124-4w. DETROIT, MICH.

Undertaking.

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Cloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and at All Hours from

GEO. GRANT,

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality, all at moderate prices. 119tf.

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 122 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 130-tf.

Flesherton Station

—IN A—

STATE of EXCITEMENT

IS IT A CASE OF ROBBERY?

Do They Steal their Stock?

Or Do They Buy It?

Is a question which greatly agitates the minds of the inhabitants of Flesherton Station and surrounding country. As

Trimble & Wright

have now opened a branch store opposite Hannah's hotel and are slaughtering goods at tremendously low prices, and will continue to slash goods right and left for the

NEXT 30 DAYS

Don't be deceived. Such chances of procuring goods are seldom if ever offered. Don't fail to go and see them before purchasing elsewhere. Thousands of samples of the motor goods given away free of charge.

DECISION

—OF THE—

GRAND JURY.

One of the most independent juries that ever sat on a case of the most respectable farmers and merchants of the townships of Glenelg, Artemesia, Euphrasia and Holland, have decided unanimously that TRIMBLE & WRIGHT'S

NOTORIOUS [illegible] TRADE

IS YET [illegible]

and that it richly deserves to hold first place which it has occupied so long.

Fresh Arrivals!

We have this week received a large consignment of new goods which will be sold off at great reduction on old prices. We will also offer the balance of our Winter stock at prices far below wholesale.

OUR STOCK OF

Furs, Millinery,
Mantles and Mantle Cloths,
Tweeds,
Overcoats, and Clothing

Also a large assortment of

BOOTS AND SHOES,

purchased at Thos. Walls & Sons, will be sold regardless of cost, as they must be cleared out.

TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

oll & Brown

s Mr. Doll is leaving Mark- to go into the Wholesale ckery Business in Toronto, cool wishing to leave Mark- altogether,) he has entered partnership with Mr. W. BROWN, late of Flesherton, is a practical watchmaker weller of over 15 years ex- ence, and comes with the best commendations from some of leading watchmakers in the inion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the ess in Markdale.

work entrusted to him will e in a workmanlike man-work will be guaranteed, all goods sold will be found ented, or money refund-

oll & Brown's,

Doll' Watchmakers & Jewellers,

Hall's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

Local Items.

condition of Mr. Gladstone's health is e serious alarm.

ners and others desiring a genteel, lu- agency business, by which $5 to $20 a can be earned, send address at once, on to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and Front Street, New York. 121-6m land express train broke loose at and ran down a steep grade, the and other cars rolling down an em- ent, and catching fire were burned. ten or eighteen persons were roasted th in the ruins.

MAPLE WANTED.—A large quantity ar maple in bolts or logs wanted ich a good price will be paid in Apply to M. & W. Armstrong.

DAD ACCIDENT.—A painful and severe ent occurred on Monday to Mr. Robert ulth, 1st c. St. Vincent, whereby his g was broken in two places—above e the knee. He was engaged chop- a tree as it fell glanced from an- and struck Mr. James on the leg with sad result. Dr. Maclean attended fractures. Mirror.

COUNTIES.—The Stayner Sun sug- the following as the municipalities to ed into a new county:—"The town- of Tay, Flos, Sunnidale, Nottawasaga, rton and Osprey, the village of Stayner own of Collingwood;" and of course, it must so stated, Stayner should be new town! Orillia is also agitating her county with itself as capital.

$1.00 A YEAR.—One of the leading of the United States, the Detroit Post Tribune, inserts an advertisement to-day and they offer their large eight page for $1.00 per year, and as a premium valuable book treating on the horse diseases. This paper claims to stand head of the list of great American in all departments of news and ial intelligence. Sample copies are free. POST AND TRIBUNE, Detroit, Mich.

NEBRASIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The meeting of the agricultural society of ownship of Euphrasia was held at Rock- on Thursday, 11th inst. The following elected officers and directors:—Presi- nt, S. McKnight; Vice-President, Mr. Connell; Directors—Messrs. J. D. , R. H. Stinson, C. Kelly, J. C. Pat- Eaton, James Arthur, D. R. Ellis, Wright and James Myles. Auditors— Boyle and R. Clark. Secretary easurer, Mr. T. Abercrombie.

DOOR, SASH AND DOOR FACTORY.—This factory is established eight years. It is a few rods south of the railway on Mill street, and is driven and steam. Of late years the proprie- McNeal has received his chief sup- of lumber from the North Shore. Year he manufactured, dressed and hundred and twenty thousand feet besides over eighty thousand feet work, and manufactured nine thousand shingles. He has now for the coming season over three hun- doors and a large quantity of thoroughly seasoned, and his machine cutting at the rate of ten shingles per day. Lath is also hand in large quantities. From a knowledge of the business and attention to the same Mr. McNeal has a business which is a credit to the Fine all Wool Blankets, only $4.35, at McFarland's.

Mr. Hall, of the Dundalk Herald, gave us a call on Friday.

McFarland & Hull want 1,500 cords stave bolts for their factory.

Mark & Wm. Armstrong are building a factory to be run by steam as a wood turning manufactory.

Proton Agricultural Society are taking steps towards the establishment of a cheese factory. Sensible idea.

The burning out of two chimneys on Saturday caused quite an excitement for a short time. No harm done however.

Time & Tide wait for no man. Take your watch and have it properly repaired at Doll & Brown's, the jewellers, Markdale.

$7.00 Overcoats for $5.00, at McFarland's.

Several thermometers became a total wreck on Monday in Markdale, not being strong enough to bear the pressure.

Kay & Thomas have gone into the harvest glove manufacturing. They took orders for over $300 worth in two days last week.

Moffat Bros' are making a specialty of the manufacture of steam engines, (about 10 horse power.) They are first class machinists, and their work gives good satisfaction.

Ladies Fine Wool Squares, only 50 cents each, at McFarland's.

A public auction sale will take place at the Revere House, on Saturday, the 27th, at one o'clock, when Stock, Implements, Carriages, Buffalo Robes, Harness &c., &c., will be sold without reserve. See bills: Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

The cold snap of this week has been general, the thermometer ranging from zero to 24 below, while a gale of wind prevailed throughout Ontario. In Winnipeg the thermometer ranged from 40 to 46 below zero for three days without wind.

An item in our Priceville correspondence last week savors of slander on the character of a worthy and respected citizen of that village. We hope our correspondent did not intend injuring the personal interests of the gentleman, as the language used would lead one to suppose.

According to the report of the minutes of Proton council, the newly elected Reeve refused to take the necessary declaration of qualification, hence a new election will be necessary. It is an imposition on a township for a man to seek an office for which he cannot qualify.

Mr. Wm. McLonghery has just finished getting out timber for a bank barn 52x70, the stone work of which he built last season. W. G. Richards, builder and contractor, has the contract for the erection of the above, which is a sufficient guarantee that a good job will be done, as Richards cannot be excelled.

The cable despatches this morning convey the news of the loss of the steamer Cimbria, Hamburg for New York, which was sunk in collision during a fog in the North Sea on Friday morning. Three hundred persons are reported lost, the majority being German emigrants for Canada and the United States. Numerous other disasters at sea are reported.

Mr. Doll is making preparations for a monster carnival on Tuesday, the 30th inst, when over $40 will be given in prizes. Mr. W. J. Crane, of Owen Sound, is expected to give an exhibition on the ice the same evening. Good music will be provided and a jolly time is expected. Admission 15cts, Maskers free. The ice open to all after 9 o'clock.

At the last meeting of the Royal Scarlet Chapter of Artemesia, held in the lodge room of L. O. L. No. 429, Bro. T. H. Firth, W. M., of L. O. L. No. 429, and Bro. J. Blakely, W. M. of L. O. L. No. 284, were raised to the exalted degree and took their places as Junior Knights. The following Sir Knights are the officers of this Chapter for the year 1883: James Brodie, W. C. C.; W. Wright, E. C. C.; John Hales, Chap.; Thos Elliott, C. Scribe; Wm. Rutledge, C. Treas.; J. Field, Sir H. Knight at Arms; T H. Firth, I. H.; A. Row, O. H.

BLACK CREEK GRANGE No 786.—The following is the list of Officers for the year 1883:—Wm. Glencross, Master; Wm. Williamson, Overseer; Geo. Lamb, Secretary; T. Townsend, Treasurer; Wm. Sparrow, Lecturer; Thos. Murray, Chaplain; Arch. Mcdougall, Stewart; Thos. Sack. Ast. Stewart; John Bell, Gate Keeper; Mrs. Thos. Murray, Pomona; Mrs, John Bell, Flora; Mrs G. Lamb, Ceres; Mrs. James Bell, L. A. Stewart. Angus McInnis, Geo. Stoddart, and John Duncan to be Ex. Committee. Wm. Glencross, Geo. Lamb, and Thos. Townsend delegates to Division Grange.

Men's Heavy Undershirts 40 cents, at McFarland's.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING.

I'm head and shoulders above all my competitors in bussness—W. J. McF.

We're the bankrupt kings—Trimble & Wright.

I'm all their daddies at baking—J. Montgomery.

Lay it their again, me boy—J. Richards.

I cant understand why so many are stopping their paper—Ed. Advance.

I'm the biggest bankrupt king—William Wright, Flesherton.

Markdale is the smartest place we strike—Commercial Travellers.

The STANDARD is a credit to the place—The People.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for prepairing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 75-127

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Naussau stree New York. 20

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 80 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner &Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West &Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

J. W. FORD.

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILLS

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES, PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences, Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN-FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 75-127

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN.

75-127 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold Great chance to make money. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. Any one can do the work properly from the first start. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money rapidly. You can devote your whole time in the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address, STINSON & Co., Portland Maine. 71-126

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto, Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner &Co. Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

McKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficien proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

HarnesS EstablishmenT!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

Auction Sale

OF VALUABLE.

F'rm Property

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage made by Richard Taylor, default having been made in payment thereof, will be sold by public auction at Tuck's Hotel, Village of Maxwell, on

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY THE 1ST, 1883

at 1 o'clock p. m., the following property:

Lots Nos. 18 and 19 in the 7th Concession of Osprey, County of Grey. About 100 acres cleared and in a fair state of cultivation. balance of 100 acres timbered with hardwood. The above property is well situated as to roads and markets, being on gravel road, and 1 and one-half miles from Maxwell. The above property is well watered good buildings; young orchard, and in a very desirable locality.

TERMS.—The purchaser shall pay a deposit of $200 at the time of sale, the balance of one-third of the purchase money in two weeks thereafter; the remaining two-thirds in cash or secured by a mortgage payable in from one to five years at the option of the purchaser

For further particulars, apply to

CREAR & MUIR,
Vendors' Solicitors, Hamilton

SUFFOLK BOAR.

A WELL BRED Suffolk Boar for service on Lot 6, Concession 7, Euphrasia. Also a Poland China Boar. Charges for either $1 at time of service.

D. R. ELLIS.

Dec. 16th, 1882. 1-6 ow.

LATEST NEWS NOTES.

QUEBEC.

Two or three horses have died with pink eye at Ayer's Flat, and others are coming down with the disease.

Six team of horses, engaged in the shanties, are reported to have been drowned recently up the Desert while crossing on bad ice.

According to the return of the dog tax collected, there are only thirty-three dogs in Waterloo fortunate enough to have owners. That leaves a hundred canines more or less that are homeless, friendless and disowned.

Mrs. Mary Hall, whose death occurred quite recently at the advanced age of eighty-nine, was the last survivor of the pioneer band of settlers of Eaton, having accompanied her parents, a little girl of seven, when they settled here in 1799 or 1800. She died while on a visit to her sister in the old house built by her father.

The amount of exports to the United States as exhibited by the books of the U. S. Consul at this port, for the three months ending 31st December, 1882, was $132,275. The amount for the preceding quarter, ending September 30th, was $137,406, making a total of $269,681 for the six months. From the above we are led to believe that more goods are exported to the United States from the port of Sherbrooke than any other port in the Province, not excepting Montreal, the number of invoices exceeding that of the last mentioned port. — Sherbrooke Gazette.

ONTARIO.

A team owned by Mr. W. B. Allin, Newcastle, drew 144 bushels, 15 lbs. of wheat in one load from his farm to the harbor the other day.

Twenty-four persons of the name of Livingston dined together on Christmas day at the residence of Mr. James Livingston, Fularton, near Mitchell.

The miners at the Bethlehem iron mines, Wilbur, have come to terms and will accept the reduction of 25 cents per day in their wages until the optning of navigation. The company have paid off the ringleaders and discharged them.

Mr. Glod Reaume, of Jeanette's Creek, delivered 3,420 muskrat skins, and 153 racoon and other furs, a few days ago, to a firm in Chatham. This young man (Mr. Reaume), is quite a successful trapper, and 300 of the muskrats were of his own trapping.

Five farmers of Westbrooke brought to Kingston as many loads of barley, which were bought by regular buyers. When the bags were emptied it was found the loads were docorated, No. 1 barley being put on top in each bag. The farmers were glad to get off with the price for No. 2.

Mr. Stablschmidt, of Preston, breeder of pure bred poultry, shipped ten white and brown Leghorn fewls to the late Chicago Poultry Show, and was awarded a prize for every bird—securing 92 to 95 points. This is another of the many honors Cannucks invariably carry off when they compete at Yankee shows.

A man named Piquan—one of the Gaspe emigrants—employed on the K. & P. Railway near Calabogic Lake, met with a serious accident a short time ago. He was carrying a dynamite cartridge from the box to the hole in which it was to be placed, when in some incomprehensible manner the cartridge exploded, blowing off two of his fingers and the thumb, a portion of which was blown into his nose.

The St. Thomas Times says: Complaint are made by farmers of the rapidity with which wild rabbits multiply in this section. and the nuisance bids fair to be more serious in its effects than the presence of the English sparrows. Hundreds of the pests have been slaughtered this season and have marketed so freely that quotations have ruled in St. Thomas market this year at less than one-half what they were a year or two since.

Thomas Tompkins and Archibald Bain were engaged "tamping" a blast on the Pacific Railway, Sharbot Lake. The dualine was struck by mistake, and it exploded with terrible force. Rock and sand flew in all directions. Bain was thrown over a ledge eight feet high, his little finger blown off, his hand split down the centre, and his face filled with sand and splinters of rock. Tompkins fared worse, for he received the full effects of the discharge in the face. Both eyes are injured. The doctor thinks one can be saved, but the sight of the other will be lost.

The London Fire Brigade.

The London Fire Brigade has but fifty steam engines and 500 firemen. The estimated value of the property to be protected is $6,000,000,000. and Londoners pay an insurance premium of 120th part of 1 per cent. Ten years ago Capt. Shaw asked in vain for an annual appropriation of $600,000, which is only $100,000 more than he gets to-day. Yet, this very insufficient fire service notwithstanding, the losses in London are comparitively very small against those here, and a chief reason is that a rigorous building law requires the party wall, dividing one house from another, to be carried upseveral feet above the roof. Consequently a house is frequently burned out without its neighbor being in any wise injured. The roofs are slate or tile, and usually entirely devoid of wood cornices.

No one ever supposed the prairie dog towns to be of any value in the West until a Yankee besieged one and began to capture the animals for their skins, which, it is said, can be made into gloves that rival the finest kid

Mr. Bryne, Q C., sat on the 27th December to investigate at Ballinrobe, Mayo, claims for compensation under the Crimes act. The Macdermott, Q C., appeared for Lady Mount Morres, whose case was adjourned. The Macdermott, or more properly the Macdermott Roe, is one of the half doz n Irish cheftains who bear their ancient style. The others are the Knight of Kerry, the Knight of Glyn, the O'Conor Don, the Mac Gillicuddy of the Reeks, the O'Donoghue. The O'Gorman-Mahon's claim is denied in Clare.

The Modified Instincts of a Blind Cat.

The family favorite whose misfortunes have afforded an opportunity to observe the workings of instinct under difficulties is a noble specimen of the genus Felis. "Dido" is his name—given for simple euphony, without regard to gender. During the four years of his life he has never known to do anything wrong, unless it be to fight most desperately against all feline intruders. In some one of his many encounters, Dido met with an injury to one of his feet that made a surgical operation necessary, from which he recovered, but shortly afterward went totally blind, A cataract was formed over each eye, by which, as repeated experiment proved, vision was thoroughly obscured.

This calamity came on suddenly, and placed the cat in circumstances not provided for by the ordinary gifts of instinct. What to do with himself was plainly a problem hard to be solved. He would sit and mew most piteously, as if bemoaning his condition; and when he attempted to move about, he met with all the mishaps that the reader will be likely to imagine. He ran against the walls, fell down stairs, stumbled over sticks, and when once on the top rail of the fence he would traverse its entire length seeking in vain for a safe jumping off place, On being called, he would run about bewildered, as if not knowing whence the voice came nor whither he should go to find the one calling. In short, Dido's life seemed hardly worth living, and we were seriously plotting his death, when the cat himself clearly concluded that he must make his other senses atone for the loss of sight.

It was very curious to watch his experiments. One of the first of these was concerning the art of going down stairs. Instead of pawing the air, as he had been doing on reaching the top step, he went to one side till he felt the banisters touch his whiskers, and then, guided thus, he would descend safely and at full speed, turning into the hall on gaining the last step. One by one he made each familiar path a study, determined the exact location of each door, explored anew all his old haunts, and seemed bravely resolved to begin life over again. The result was so unexpectedly successful that we were deceived into the notion that sight had been restored. But by placing any obstacle in the path, and then calling him eagerly to his customary feeding place, it was evidant that he was entirely blind, for he would run with full force against the box or other obstruction, and then, for some time afterward, he would proceed with renewed caution.

Dido's "voice is still for war," and his blindness does not make him any less successful in his duels with intruders. He even goes abroad in quest of adventures, and comes safely home again.

His value as a mouser does not seem to be in the least diminished. One of my experiments as to his capacity in this direction came near costing me dear. I had heard the gnawing of a rat in an old closet where there lay a quantity of newspapers. Here it was decided to leave Dido over night, and while arranging the papers for that purpose, my hand was suddenly caught by the claws and teeth of what at the moment seemed like a small tiger. Poor Dido! He really looked ashamed of his blunder in mistaking my hand for his anticipated victim. Fortunately the papers served as a shield, or the injury inflicted might have been more serious. I may add that, on opening the closet next morning. there was Dido mounting guard over a slain rat as big as ever spoiled good provisions or tried a housekeeper's temper.

It is well known that the house-cat will find its way back from distant places to which it has been carried blindfolded; and how it performs such feats naturalists have never satisfactorly explained. The theory accepted by some of them is that the animal takes note of the successive odors encountered on the way, that these leave as distinct a series of images as those we should receive by the sense of sight, and that, by taking them in the inverse order from that in which they were received, he traces his homeward route.

But, in the cat now described, the sense of smell is by no means acute, as has been proved by a variety of methods; and moreover, although, as one might say, perpetually blindfolded, he quite uniformly chooses the shortest road home, without reference to the path he may have taken on leaving the house. Curious to see how far this homing instinct would extend, I took advantage of a fall of snow that wrapped under its mantle every familiar object, concealed all the paths, and deadened every odor and sound. Taking Dido to a considerable distance from the house, and making a number of turns to bewilder him, I tossed him upon a drift and quietly awaited results. The poor creature turned his sightless orbs this way and that, and mewed pitcously for help. Finding, at length, that he was thrown entirely on his own resources, he stood motionless for about one minute, and then, to my amazement, made his way directly through the untrodden snow to the house door—which, it is needless to add, was promptly opened for the shivering martyr to scientific investigation, to whom consolation was forthwith offered in a brimming bowl of new milk.

My conclusion, therefore, is that Wallace's ingenious theory of accounting for orientation by what he calls "brain registration," will not explain what has been described; but that the mysterious homing faculty is probably independent of such methods of gaining knowledge as have been ordinarily observed, and is analogous to the migratory instinct controlling the long flights of some species of birds.

A Temperance Reformer.

Bishop Ireland of Minnesota is an ardent temperance reformer, but not of a kind to find favor with most total abstinence advocates. He is making earnest efforts on the platform, but condemns all laws which aim to regulate men's habits as to drink. He enjoins temperance because of its own great benefits, not only to individuals, but also to communities and the State. "Temperance is a religious obligation, due by all persons also, a social and moral obligation, from which no man can escape without injury to himself and others." As for total abstinence, which he personally practices, he recommends it as a safeguard for those who adhere to it and as a good example to those who do not. The Bishop is a notably eloquent speaker, and is drawing crowded audiences in the West.

ON FIRE AT SEA.

The Imminent Peril of Those on Board the Steamer Donau on Her recent Voyage from Southampton to New York.

The steamer Donau, of the Bremen line, reached New York Monday morning after a thirteen days' passage from Southampton. She had on board 356 passengers who had been exposed to imminent peril from a fire which broke out in the cargo on Wednesday last from some undiscovered cause, but which was extinguished with no damage to human life. The narrative of the occurrence, as gathered from the officers, takes the following shape:

It was near midnight on Wednesday and the passengers had nearly all retired to their berths when a smell of burning material began to pervade the cabin. The watch also noticed smoke curling up through the timbers, and by the time the carpenter had been summoned and set to work hunting up the cause of it a volume was rolling through the passages below deck. For a while it was difficult to locate the fire. The smoke was issuing from several vents, but soon it came pouring up through the ventilating shaft running to the steerage deck, and then the carpenter found that it came from a compartment where the cargo was stored. The alarm was at once given, but extreme caution had to be used. There were 356 passengers on the vessel. Some were in the cabin, but the steerage was fairly filled with immigrants, mostly Hungarian peasants, unused to the sea, and liable to take fright and precipitate a panic. They were mostly asleep. But soon the smoke would fill their cabin, and in the alarm of their awakening no end of dreadful contingencies were to be anticipated. Capt. Ringk thought of them early and took precautions to preserve order and insure temporary safety. But first the fire had to be ferreted out and its extent ascertained. This was not easy. The funnel of the ventilating shaft, which indicated that it was on the steerage deck revealed no more. It was only after tumbling about through heaps of merchandise below, and in a stifling atmosphere, that it was found to be in the heart of the cargo itself that the fire was raging and that it was burning most fiercely at a point amidships. Several attemps were made to reach it, but they were soon shown to be impracticable, and it became evident that the upper decks must be toru away.

The smoke was now rolling in upon the startled immigrants, and measures to control them were put in operation. They were quietly aroused and conducted in squads to the deck. At first they had no intimation of the real nature of the danger. Unacquainted with the sea and its perils, they attributed the smoke and the hubbub to some of the ordinary incidents of the passage. But gradually the importance of what was going on forced itself upon them. The smoke became thicker below. The orders of officers and the scurrying of the crew were easily interpreted. Then the frightened people crowded together like sheep and looked with scared faces in the direction of the clamor. Whether it was that fear paralyzed them or the doubt of what was going on prevented them being fairly aware of the danger the officers do not know, but they agree that the whole throng behaved better than could be expected under the circumstances, and made no such demonstration as was to be feared. There was little uproar among them. The women even refrained from crying.

"Indeed," said the first officer, speaking of it afterwards, "I only noticed one person making any hubbub at all, and that was a little fellow of about fourteen."

Care was taken to hurry these immigrants above at once. Their berths were on the same deck as the fire, and it had to be fought in that quarter while an attempt would be made to reach it from overhead. The men went to work to smash in the confining timbers. The crew were recruited by the more available of the passengers. But it was slow work. The iron sheathing of the decks, ordinarily a precaution for safety, was now an obstacle to it. It turned the blows of axes. Saws were useless on it. The pumps were rigged and ready, but the water was spilled at random. In this dilemma a heavy assault was ordered on the unyielding metal by utensils rarely called into use on shipboard. Big mallets were hauled out, bars of iron were procured, and with might and main all hands pounded at the decks till they yielded in places and then sank in and opened a way to the burning cargo. The berths in the immigrants' compartment had, meantime, been demolished and a way broken into the place where the merchandise was stored. Then, while the pumps flooded it from above, the men tumbled bales and boxes out into the vacant place and struggled bravely to reach the flames. The immigrants here rendered good service, working well and obeying orders more or less, which were unintelligible to them.

At this point another danger had to be considered. Running as the vessel was, the wind would be violent and likely to fan the fire wherever it appeared; so she was put about and the danger was averted at an expenditure of time, which accounts for the length of her passage. Soon the efforts of all were repaid. The volume of smoke rising from below lessened. The flames were less frequently visible. The burning packages hauled out from among the cargo and thrown overboard became fewer. But all night long till after sunrise the excitement lasted. It was seven o'clock before an examination made it clear that the fire was fairly out. From the cargo some of the debris was cleared away and then the immigrants' quarters were refitted and they were turned in. Such an investigation as could be made revealed no apparent cause for the fire. It began amidships in the heart of a great heap of merchandise, which was quite inaccessible. The spontaneous combustion of some material stowed away there is the only theory advanced to account for it. What the damage to property is has not been ascertained. The cargo was of a miscellaneous nature, and will first have to be removed and examined. The Donau reached the bar yesterday morning at 5 o'clock and came up to the company's docks at Hoboken, where the passengers landed and the unloading began. Beyond the smashing of the decks the ships sustained no injury.—New York Herald.

A strike among the printers of Montreal newspaper offices is said to be on the tapis.

NORTHWEST NOTES.

Incidents of Interest in the Northwest Territories.

Battleford, Edmonton, Prince Albert, and Broadview.

BATTLEFORD.

The work of removing the bridge was begun on the 26th ult., the river having become sufficiently strong to bear the traffic. The bridge will be replaced in the spring when the ice has run out.

News has been received by the Indian Department of the destruction by fire at the Piegan reservation, near Fort Macleod, of the building in which the Indian supplies were stored, with a loss of seven hundred sacks of flour. The Indians will not suffer seriously, as they have surplus potatoes equivalent to the flour destroyed.

Most of the disaffected Indians who returned from Qu'Appelle to Fort Walsh last fall, concluded on reaching there to accept their annuities. "Long Lodge," with ten lodges of his band, got on their dignity and went to Fort Belknay, Montana, where they arrived in a state of starvation and ten others were expected to die from the same cause.

An application has been made for a license for a ferry to be put on the South Branch at the Elbow. When established, this will open a new route for freight between this place and the railway, which will probably be struck somewhere about Old Wives' Lake. The distance between these places by this route will be less than two hundred miles, and when once opened will prove a strong competing line to the steamers. The round trip with carts will only take from three to four weeks.

Quite an extensive business is being done here in gathering saw logs that broke away from the upper country and lodged on the sandbars and islands.

A steam saw mill is in course of erection on Turtle River, about twelve miles from Battleford, and a grist mill will also be built during the next summer.

One day last week Messrs. Wyld and Bourke captured four wolves that had come to feast on the carcase of a calf that had met with an untimely end. Cornelius Pruden also killed one with an axe.

An Indian named Victoria a week or two ago came on a band of five moose and shot them all within half an hour, killing three without moving from his tracks. Another Indian came across a band of ten and killed two of them.

Mr. Norris passed for Edmonton on the 21st with sixteen sleighs laden with general merchandise. This consignment was shipped from Qu'Appelle last summer and abandoned at Eagle Hills by the freighters who had it in hand. Mr. Norris brought horses from Edmonton to take it home.

The experiment of sheep raising in the Edmonton District has proved highly successful, the animals standing both summer and winter well. S. Taber, of Fort Saskatchewan, is wintering eighteen ewes and proposes bringing in a large flock from Montana in the spring. There is nothing to hinder their doing well here.

What has gone wrong with the weather? The winter so far has not been as severe as usual, the thermometer frequently ranging as high as forty degrees above zero, and on the 10th and 22nd ult. smart showers of rain fell. One venerable missionary of thirty-five years' residence in the country says he never saw this phenomena before. During the past week the prevailing warm winds cut away the snow considerably, and by baring the hill side overcame the disadvantage to running stock caused by the crust on the snow. A couple of weeks ago there were wild ducks on the open creeks running into Turtle Lake, and during the present week frogs have been sporting in the open springs along the bottom of the hills near town.

EDMONTON.

There are indications of a limestone quarry at Fort Saskatchewan.

About 30,000 bushels of grain have been threshed out so far this season.

The Hudson Bay Company are having a coal limit laid out on the Saskatchewan.

Word from the various fishing reserves in the district state that the catch will be very much under the average, and fears of destitution among the Indians are entertained.

The cut of saw-logs this winter will be very small as compared with last year's operations. Jobbers cannot get permits from the timber officer without reference to Ottawa, and this is impossible, owing to the slow mail service.

The surveys of the different town plots in this district have been finished and the lot placed on the market. Prices range from $25 to $250. A great many have been sold, and the balance will be placed on the Winnipeg market at once.

The Edmonton Bulletin of 2nd again says that the telegraph line is down between Battleford and Grizzly Bear, and only works when the weather is very cold. It also states that the poles are burned down at Willow Hills, where the wire is bedded in ice.

Two years ago Ketowayo, the Cree chief at Carlton, went south to hunt buffalo, and in his travels had his best horses and rifles taken from him; and not getting any satisfaction from the authorities on either side of the line he determined to go to stealing horses on his own account, but before he had time to do anything every horse he had was taken from him.

PRINCE ALBERT.

The Hudson's Bay Company's mill is running night and day.

Over 100 buildings have been put up during the past season in Prince Albert.

A subscription amounting to $1,000 has been raised towards paying for the telegraph poles between Humboldt and Prince Albert.

Several ptarmigan, or white geese, as they are called in the north of Scotland, have been recently shot in this neighborhood. They are but rarely found in this district, although plentiful further to the north, and their presence here is an indication of a severe winter.

The fall of snow this winter has been unprecedented in the annals of Prince Albert. Between three and four feet has fallen on the average, and every other day or so more is added to it. This comes hard on the cattle, and there are already several instances of their dying of starvation.

Notwithstanding the delays and inconvenience caused by the early closing of the navigation of the river last autumn, there is a larger stock and greater variety of goods in Prince Albert this winter than was ever known before. Some of the stocks are very valuable, ranging from $25,000 to $50,000.

The curlers have been taking advantage of the fine weather and good ice the last few days, to indulge in their favorite sport. The rinks have been cleared of snow on the Saskatchewan, opposite Mr. Johnston's, and every fine day the knights of the broom may be seen enjoying themselves in the mysteries of the "roarin' game."

In reply to a circular from the Post Office Department, the postmaster here returns the following statistics, as regards the town of Prince Albert:—Population of town, 1,500; number of churches of all denominations, 4; schools, 3, and Emmanuel College; saw mills, 2, steam; flour mills, 3, 2 steam and 1 water; stores, 23; hotels, 6, including boarding house; value of real and personal estate, about $2,600,000.

BROADVIEW.

Business keeps brisk, and buildings are being proceeded with. Lots are selling freely, and the lookout promises well for the spring.

A strong effort is being made to raise the needful amount required to build a school and church. Already half the amount is subscribed, and fortnightly entertainments are projected, to consist of music, readings, and so forth, for the purpose of providing the balance.

The cold stormy weather lately has been hard on engines, and sundry dead ones have been picked up east and west. The foreman is making great efforts to get one half the round house fitted up to receive engines, as it is a cold and profitless job to clean and put life into the frozen monsters out in the open air.

Strange to say, though there are over two hundred people residing in Broadview, no Sunday services have been held since September last.

Bret Harte.

Francis Bret Harte was born in Albany N.Y., in 1839. From his parents he inherited English, German, and Hebrew blood. His father, a man of some culture and ability was a Professor in the Albany Female College. Some years after his birth his father died, and in 1854 the family moved to California. Living in the rude mining settlements of the interior, and mingling with the rough characters that peopled them, the boy absorbed from actual experience many of the incidents which afterward grew under his magic touch into the now familiar idyls of the embattled diggings, the lawless life and the immortal bar. The first three years of his life in California he had all the misfortunes of a pioneer, and tried his hand at many means of livelihood. For a time he was a compositor in a newspaper office in Eureka; then he mined for himself without largely increasing his fortune. As a school teacher he was able to indulge more liberally the literary taste awakened by his work as a printer. These latter experiences afterward grew, with all their natural color and textures, into the delicate study entitled "M'liss." A year's work as express messenger gave him the clear cut pictures of Yuba Bill and other knights of the road. In 1857 Mr. Harte came to San Francisco, taking his place as a compositor in the office of the Golden Era. A few Bohemian sketches written as copy brought him under the favorable notice of the editor, and he was at once translated from the case to the desk. Those were busy days, and much of the matter ground out in that time of probation is as pregnant with genius and bright wit as any he has seen fit to retain in the complete edition. It was in 1863 that his first sketch appeared in the East. Jessie Benton Fremont, in those days one of the most cultivated women in California, took a great interest in the young author, and it was on her recommendation that the Atlantic published the "Legend of Monte Diablo," a piece of work that shows what Bret Harte might have accomplished as a reporter if his tastes had not carried him into fiction.—The Overland Monthly.

Mohammedans in India.

The Mohammedans in India comprise about one-fifth of the whole population, and have a full share of whatever resolution, capacity, or vivacity may pertain to the people at large. They certainly have religious convictions of the most definite character. They believe in God, in a future state, in a judgment for blessing or for condemnation, in Mohammed as the Prophet of God, in the Koran as a divine revelation, in the Caliphs as successors of the Prophet, and in many saints. They believe, too, in the coming of an earthly Messiah in the person of the Iman Mehadi, who is to be the seventh and last of the Imauns, six having already appeared in historic times. The Imam Mehdi is to inaugurate an era when Islam now militant is to be finally triumphant, not only in India, but in other regions besides. This belief is an active principle, and allusion is made to it periodically whenever any trouble is in the air. It is broached abroad explicitly on the average once, perhaps twice in every decade, and in a less explicit manner it is mentioned frequently. According to that religious conviction the Indian Mohammedans would be their own masters and would be lords of the land they live in.—The Fortnightly Review.

Explosive mixtures are often prescribed by doctors not well informed in matters medica. Chlorate of potash, permanganate of potash, and glycerine is one of them. A pomade of chloride of lime, sulphur, and other substances will detonate when rubbed in a mortar. Hppophosphite of lime or soda when triturated alone, sometimes explodes. Pills of oxide of silver are apt to decompose with a tremendous explosion. Tincture of iodine and ammonia form the iodide of nitrogen — a violently explosive substance which, agitated with water, is nearly certain to detonate. Chlorate of potash and sugar are likely to act in the same way. A prescription containing chlorate of potash and quinine has been known to explode a month.

y other day or so more comes hard on the e already several inof starvation.

he delays and incone early closing of the er last autumn, there nd greater variety of t this winter than was Some of the stocks are ing from $25,000 to een taking advantage d good ice the last few heir favorite sport. The ed of snow on the Sas-

Mr. Johnston's, and ights of the broom may nselves in the mysteries
."

lar from the Post Office stmaster here returns es, as regards the town
—Population of town, urches of all denomina-
nd Emmanuel College;
flour mills, 3, 2 steam 23; hotels, 6, includ-
: value of real and $2,600,000.

IEW.

isa, and buildings are . Lots are selling free-promises well for the eing made to raise the red to build a school half the amount is ightly entertainments ist of music, readings, purpose of providing eather lately has been nd sundry dead ones east and west. The great efforts to get one fitted up to receive l and profitless job to the frozen monsters

ugh there are over two ing in Broadview, no e been held since Sep-

Harte.

was born in Albany,
his parents he inherited Hebrew blood. His culture and ability,
Albany Female Coler his birth his father family moved to Cali-rude mining settle-and mingling with the t peopled them, the tual experience many afterward grew under the now familar idyls
ings, the lawless flat.
The first three years
he had all the mixed and tried his hand at ihood. For a time he a newspaper office in ed for himself without tortune. As a school-indulge more liberally akened by his work as er experiences aftereir natural color and heate study entitled work as express mesclear cut pictures of knights of the stage.
ine to San Francisco,
ompositor in the office
w Bohemian sketches ught him under the editor, an I he was a the case to the desk
, and much of the hat time of probation nius and bright with r fit to retain in his was in 1863 that he in the East. Jessie these days one of the n in California, too young author, and ation that the Atlantic l of Monte Diablo" ows what Bret Harte ned as a reporter if he l him into fiction ans in India.

s in India comprewhole population, and whatever resolution may pertain to y certainly have he most definite cha in God, in a future
r blessing or for co ned as the Prophet
a divine revelation, ssors of the Prophet
They believe, too,
y Messiah in the pe
, who is to be t
. Imams, six have historic times. T igurate an era wh to be finally triumph
but in other regio
s an active principl it periodically wh
he air. It is brui
e average once, P eade, and in a less entioned frequent igious conviction would be their o lords of the land t y Review.

re often prescrib informed in mate potash, permangan
e is one of them.
lime, sulphur, etonate when rub sphite of lime or so sometimes explo are apt to decomp plosion. Tincture
m the iodide of ni plosive substance ra r, is nearly cer of potash and t same way. A d te of potash and n to explode in

KICKING HORSE PASS.

A Free Press Reporter Interviews Major Rogers.

Interesting Description of the C. P. R. Route Through the Rockies.

Major Rogers, who has had charge of the C. P. R. surveys in the Rockies, having again returned to the city, a Free Press reporter took advantage of an opportunity offered on Sunday evening, of interviewing him regarding the proposed route which he has discovered by taking the Canadian Pacific Railway through the Rocky Mountains.

"I will be very glad," said Major Rogers, "to give you any infoamrtion you desire."

A DESCRIPTION OF THE ROUTE.

"What is the route after leaving Fort Calgarry?"

"It follows up the valley of the Bow River—entering the mountains about 55 miles from Calgarry—about 115 miles, thence westerly four miles along Bath Creek; thence southerly one mile to the summit of the Rockies; thence northwesterly down the Kicking Horse River 47 miles to the valley of the Columbia, which it follows about 30 miles to the east crossing; thence southerly 16 miles up the Beaver; thence westerly and southerly about seven miles to the summit of the Selkirks; thence west down the east branch of the Ille-cille-waut to its main stream, 20 miles, which it follows 20 miles further to the west crossing of the Columbia; then west through the Eagle Pass 45 miles to Shuswap Lakes; thence via the Lakes and the South Thompson to Kamloops—about 100 miles—and along the road being constructed by the Dominion Government at Savona's Ferry—a total distance of about 430 miles.

"Was any portion of this road ever proposed to be adopted by the Government?"

"Yes; if the route via Howse and Eagle Passes had been adopted they would have used about twenty miles of this route in the Columbia Valley, and identically the same route from the west crossing of the Columbia to Kamloops."

"What is the location of the Howse Pass relative to your crossing of the Rockies?"

"About fifty miles north."

"What altitudes have the summits?"

"The highest, that is the Rokies, is not to exceed 5,500 feet above the sea, and that in the Selkirks not to exceed 4,500 feet."

CHARACTER OF THE COUNTRY.

"Is the country adapted to cultivation or mining?"

"Very little between the eastern base of the mountains and the Shuswap Lakes is adapted to cultivation, but some of it furnishes excellent grazing, especially at the sources of the Columbia and along the Valley of the Kootenay. Around Columbia Lakes bands of cattle are wintered without any grain or shelter."

MINING PROSPECTS.

"What are the prospects for a development of the mining interest?"

"They are excellent. Mines are already opened and operated to advantage in several portions of the Province of British Columbia, and the Selkirks are said by mineralogists to promise the better yields of gold of any range on the continent. All efforts at mining are necessarily confined to placer mining, as until railroads are built it will be impossible to transport the necessary machinery for milling. Prospecting for ore in the mountains is also limited in extent, for the reason that, as it is impossible to get horses there until trails are cut, on account of the immense amount of fallen timber, the prospector must carry on his back—not only his provisions, but also his pick, shovel, wash-pan, blankets, cooking utensils and clothing, if he is tidy enough to carray a change with him. His field of operations must necessarily be limited."

GRAND SCENERY.

"What about the scenery, Major Rogers?"

"It is the finest, both for grandeur and beauty I ever saw, and I do not think it can be equaled on the continent. The prettiest scenery lies in the Rockies—and the coast scenery of British Columbia is the grandest I have seen on either coast."

"Do you experience much difficulty in getting in supplies?"

"Yes that is our greatest difficulty. Supplies are bought in Oregon and Washington Territory, and taken by rail to Pend d'Oreille Lake; thence packed upon horses about 250 miles to a point on the Columbia, where we can take them in canoes. We will be greatly relieved in this when the railroad reaches the summit of the Rockies."

THE PACIFIC TO BE REACHED IN THREE YEARS.

"How long do you think it will take to complete the construction to the Pacific?"

"About three years. The work on the Western portion can be prosecuted with more facility than on the Eastern, as supplies can be moved by steamer on the Western Columbia, and also all along the Thompson River and the Shuswap Lakes."

"Do you find many Indians in the mountains?"

"None are there, excepting occasionally a few go to hunt. Four or five families lives at Columbia Lake, about 100 miles south of the line. There are none between Morleyville (fifteen miles east of the mountains) and Shuswap Lakes."

MOUNTAIN GAME.

"What sort of game do you find?"

"In the Rockies are goats and sheep, with occasionally bears. In the Selkirks and Gold Krange are cariboo and bears in plenty. The streams are generally well stocked with mountain trout."

"Do you entertain any doubts of the entire feasibility of the route selected?"

"Not in the least. Some one has evidently drawn on his imagination in giving the papers information on the subject, as not one of those who returned with me ever saw Selkirks, except at a distance, and this is the first information I have given to the papers here. Our heaviest grades will not exceed those on any Pacific Road now built or being built, and they will be much shorter, and I fully believe that when built the road will be easier to operate than any other crossing the Continent. —Manitoba Free Press.

TOPICS FOR WOMEN.

BEFORE MARRIAGE.

The sweetheart relation should be guarded very carefully, because when once formed there is such a glamour upon the eyes that they cannot see things as they are. After marriage it is too late. It is a difficult thing for the young lady to believe that the young man of her choice has bad habits. If any one has the frankness to tell her of them, she either thinks there is some mistake about it, or that her informant is actuated by malicious motives; or that her betrothed will now lay them aside. Some heroic maidens say: "Well, I will marry him despite his bad habits, I will marry him and reform him." There may be a few cases of reformation, but in nine cases out of ten the young man goes to the dogs and takes the devoted young women along with him. If she had known at the outset the style of man he was, she would not have suffered her heart to become interested in him; but afterward she had not the moral strength to conquer her attachment.

SWEET-MINDED WOMAN.

So great is the influence of a sweet-minded woman on those around, that it is almost boundless. It is to her that friends come in seasons of sorrow and sickness for help and comfort; one soothing touch of her kindly hand works wonders in the feverish child; a few words let fall from her lips in the ear of a sorrowing sister does much to raise the load of grief that is bowing its victim down to the dust in anguish. The husband comes home, worn out with the pressure of business and feeling irritable with the world in general; but when he enters the cosy sitting room, and sees the blaze of the bright fire, and meets his wife's smiling face, he succumbs in a moment to the soothing influences which act as the balm of Gilead to his wounded spirits that are wearied with combating with the stern realities of life. The rough schoolboy flies in a rage from the taunts of his companions to find solace in his mother's smile; the little one, full of grief with its own large trouble, finds a haven of rest on its mother's breast. And so one might go on with instance after instance of the influence that a sweet-minded woman has in the social life with which it is connected. Beauty is an insignificant power when compared with hers.

A PRETTY HOME.

Now that so many pretty things may be bought at moderate cost, the poorest woman can save a room from being meagre in its appointments. She can avoid horse-hair sofas and violet carpets, and vulgar prints on the walls. Good engravings, a little cretonne, some knick-knacks made by herself, a few grasses, a growing plant, and an open fire, are all that are needed to make a room pleasant and refined. What a pity it is that in a country covered with wood a wood-fire should be an expensive luxury, for there is nothing like it to make home attractive. It burns up many a quarrel and morbid speculation, rights many a wrong, and promotes peace. No picture is so utterly cheerful as that of the family gathering round it as evening falls. No conversations are so fresh as those which go up with the sparks. No companion is so lively and invigorating to the invalid, the recluse, the mourner, or the aged, as a wood-fire. It is the most healthful of all ventilators. the most picturesque picture, the most enlivening suggestion of energy and thrift. And yet comparatively few homes possess this rare attraction. In the cities, however, we can make cannel coal take the place of wood in a measure, and still rejoice in our open fire.

WAR WITH WOLVES.

The Result of a Lively Hunt at Stonewall.

A correspondent furnishes us with the following details of a wolf hunt in the vicinity of Stonewall:—

For some time past the wolves in this district have been prowling about in formidable numbers. As many as eight were seen last week ensconced among some hay stacks. A party of farmers with a view to have a little sport, as well as to read the Riot Act among these forest marauders who carry away lambs and poultry from farm yards, arranged to have a field day on Christmas last. According to arrangement the meet was at 10 a. m. The huntsmen, well equipped with saddled horses and sleighs, and armed to the teeth with weapons ancient and modern, proceeded to the hunting ground in a highly accoutred state for a campaign, Mr. Hickey working the oracle. Owing to the fog considerable reconnoitering and skirmishing had to be gone through, till at length they were successful in coming across two large male wolves. I need not say the stampede was vigorous, lively and exciting. Messrs. Good and Bell, relying on the speed and endurance of their horses, went off at a dashing pace, and after a hard run of some four miles succeeded in running down, and ending the combat, carrying away a brush each as trophies of the day.

Another capital run was made by that noble steed Charlie, a champion in the show yards, as well as invulnerable in the hunting field. He is the property of Mr. Hickey, and was ridden by Frank, an Englishman of great pluck and enthusiastic in the chase. Frank was told off to reconnoitre the ground about the habitat of the wolves. While on this scouting expedition, he espied through the mist some object at a distance. On closer acquaintanceship, it proved to be a live wolf going through a series of evolutions. Abruptly heading for the North-West, affording a vigorous ride for some three miles at a break-neck pace, Frank neared his quarry. The wolf evidently thought things were taking a serious turn, so he gave a skip over the Grassmere ditch, while the horse and rider plunged forward, but only to get submerged in six feet of snow. After remounting the chase was vigorously resumed. Soon the animal escaped to John Bowler's bush, where he is now probably enjoying peace and safety unmolested, and thus ended one of the hardest and severest trials the wolf family has experienced for many a day. Meantime, we would strongly advise John to secure his hen roost till the hunt meets again. —Manitoba Free Press.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

An attempt was recently made by parties unknown to break the vault at the Napanee cemetery.

A movement is on foot to form a joint stock company to remove the show grounds at Kingston nearer the city.

At the annual meeting of the Hamilton Agricultural Society, E. VanAllen was elected President.

Harvey Brown, a brakeman on the G. T. R., fell between two cars after leaving Tyeninaga station and was badly cut up.

The Allan line mail service, it is said, is to be withdrawn between Boston and Liverpool, to be replaced by a fortnightly line of steamers.

Pros. Wiggins claims the storm of yesterday as a verification of his October prediction. The second storm is fixed for the 9th of February.

Wm. Wallace, who was shot by Roderick Howell in a row at Mapleque, Prince Edward Island, has died of his wound. Howell is seventy years of age.

On a farm a short distance north of London East, it is said that a fine white clay has been found in large quantities. It has been found to burnish metal to the brightest hue.

The ex-Mayor of Kingston recently met the sheriff and asked him, if he had made a certain assertion. The sheriff said he had, and a disgraceful scene occurred. The set-to will be tried in the police court.

UNITED STATES.

The Garrett-Bennett independent cable is understood to have been abandened.

The barque Hattie Bangs, of Boston, was recently picked up abandoned off Cape Lookout.

John O'Brien, aged 80, of Philadelphia, was choked to death by a piece of meat a few days since.

The Illinois Central has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent. payable March 1.

The Michigan State Senate, on Wednesday, passed a bill repealing the laws which forbid the marriage of white persons to negroes.

At St. Lewis recently Elihu Palmer, printer, dragged his wife into an alley and shot her in the neck and then put a ball in his own head.

The hundred and first anniversary of the birth of Daniel Webster was celebrated by the Webster Historical Society of Boston recently.

The verdict of the coroner's jury rendered recently hold the Troy & Boston Railroad, its officials and employees, responsible the loss of life by the disaster near Melrose on the 10th ult.

John True, aged 14, was found dead in the woods at Salisbury Plains, Mass. It was supposed that he had accidently shot himself. Fred Pettingill, aged 13, now confesses that he shot True.

The Schiedam lowered a lifeboat and rescued from the wrecked steamer of the British ship Endymion water-logged in mid-ocean, numbering twenty all told and brought them to New York.

GENERAL.

The Czar speaks confidently of his early coronation at Moscow.

Renewed shocks of earthquake were experienced at Murcia recently.

The Zulu chief, Catewayo, was enthusiastically received on his way to Ulundi.

The publication of the St. Petersburgh Strana has been suspended for four months.

The strike of railway employees it Scotland is spreading, and threatens to become general.

The patriotic party in Bulgaria are making a brave struggle against Russian dominance.

The German Reichstag has commenced a discussion on the subject of a tax on Bourse transactions.

The Porte is endeavoring to obtain a modification of the English proposals for reform in Egypt.

Five hundred applications have been made to the Board of Guardians at Galway for assisted emigration.

The Duke of Edinburgh was received as a member to the Order of the Black Eagle at the Royal Castle, Berlin.

The Russian Government finally authorizes the removal of the remains of Captain DeLong and his comrades by Irkutsk or Okhotsk.

A mechanic, who recently died in the Dublin lunatic asylum while in delirium, constantly spoke of the men he murdered It is supposed he was one of the Phœnix Park assassins.

The Tall Sycamore of the Wabash.

The special correspondent of the Indianapolis (Ind.) Journal, embodied in a recent communication the following from Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees: I consider St. Jacobs Oil a splendid remedy, I suffered from an affection of the back and kidneys, with some rheumatism—in fact, it was rheumatism of the back. I used St Jacobs Oil, and found it very efficacious. It gave me instantaneous, relief and finally cured me completely Cooper, Hall & Co., merchants and bankers, of London, have failed; liabilities, £400,000. The failure is due to the large lockup of capital and liabilities on railway contracts in Brazil and Canada.

Mrs. D. Morrison, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writing about Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, says: George Bell used it on his son, and it cured him of rheumatism with only a few applications. The balance of the bottle was used by an old gentleman for Asthma, with the best results. It acts like a charm.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces tht greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anæmia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat disease, spitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you are a sufferer from thin, poor blood employ Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which enriches the blood and cures these grave affections. Is more nutritive than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. By druggists.

It is proposed to stop female labor in the chain and nail shops in the Black Country, England. A child was starved to death while its mother was working

As a tonic and nervine for debilitated women nothing surpasses Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." By druggists.

A sporting English clergyman, the Rev. Jack Russell, now in his 89th year, has sold his well-known pack of harriers to Mr. Baring of Membland Hall.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

Mr. R. McKinstry of Hudson, N. Y., owns the largest apple orchard in the world—30,000 trees on 300 acres.

Vegetine

SUPERIOR BLOOD PURIFIER.

TONIC FOR THE STOMACH.

Thorold, Ont., Jan. 13, 1880.

H. R. Stevens, Esq.:

I have great pleasure in certifying to the great benefits which myself and family have derived from the use of your excellent medicine—Vegetine. I consider it a superior blood purifier and tonic for the stomach.

Yours truly
J. H. SIMPSON,
Master West Side Public Schools.

Improved from the first.

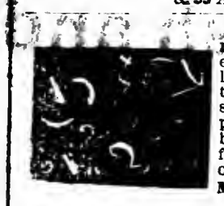
Montreal, P. Q., Jan. 31, 1880.

Mr. H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—Some six months since I wrote you telling how your Vegetine had restored me from a very bad attack of Rheumatism, when I had been confined to the house for about six months. I now write to say that I have not had any more trouble with my old complaint. I also wish to add that our daughter about 13 years old has been troubled for some time. She was always sick and complaining. We had tried several remedies and they had done her no good. We gave her the Vegetine, and are more than satisfied with the result. She commenced to improve almost from the first and at the present time, she never was in better health. We think there is nothing like your Vegetine. Yours truly,
WM. MYERT, 112 Canning Street.

I have much pleasure in Testifying to its Efficacy.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 23, 1880.

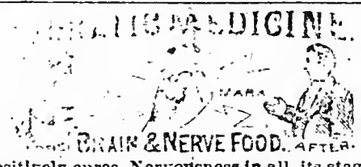


Mr. H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—I have much pleasure in testifying to the efficacy to your Vegetine for the cure of Rheumatism. Having been persuaded by a friend to try it, I took four bottles, from which I derived great benefit, and strongly recommend any person suffering from the same afflicting malady to try a course of Vegetine.

Yours resp'y,
JOSIAH GREEN, Chemist,
694 Queen St. and Cooksville, Ont.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists



MUSIC. THREE SONGS—The latest and best things out. Immensely popular. In full size sheet music form for FIVE CENTS per copy or the three for ten cents. S. FRANK WILSON, "TRUTH" Office, 33 & 35 Adelaide St. W. Toronto.

SHORTHAND.—The necessity of the age to every young man, a delightful accomplishment to every young lady; successfully taught by post, or complete set of books for self-instruction free by mail on receipt of one dollar.
McNabb & McIntyre,
Box 531, Toronto.

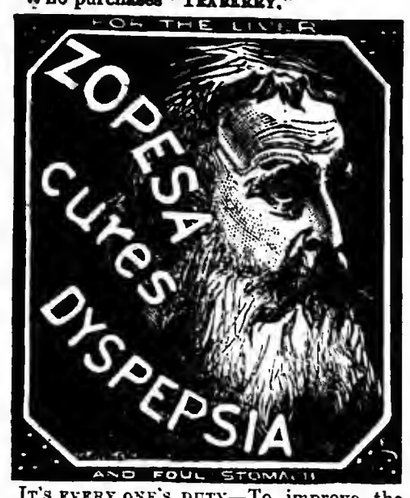
$6.25 FOR 39 CTS

Any person sending me 39 cts and the addresses of 10 acquaintances will receive by return mail goods (no recipes) that net $6.25 This is an honest offer to introduce staple goods. If you want a fortune, act now. J. D. HENRY, P. O. Box 127, Buffalo, N. Y.

Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages, Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Night Sweats, Barrenness, Weakness and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, rejuvenates the Jaded Intellect, strengthens the Enfeebled Brain and restores surprising tone and vigor to the Exhausted Generative Organs in either sex. ☞ With each order for Twelve packages, accompanied with five dollars, we will send our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. It is the Cheapest and Best Medicine in the market. Pamphlet sent free by mail to any address.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold by druggists at 50 cents per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, or will be mailed free of postage, on receipt of money, by addressing Mack's Magnetic Medicine Co., Windsor, Ont., Canada. Sold by all druggists in Canada.

Ontario Pulmonary Institute,
135 Church-st., Toronto, Ont.
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.O.,
PROPRIETOR.



Over 40,000 cases successfully treated during the past 17 years for some form of head, throat and lung trouble.

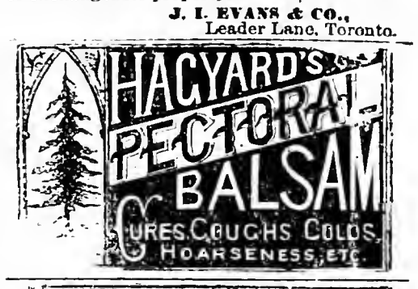
All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved medicated inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Consultation free.

If impossible to call personally at the Institute for an examination, write for list of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

Ontario Pulmonary Institute,
135 Church Street, Toronto, Ont.

Come all who wish white Teeth of pearl,
To set off lips of cherry;
A fragrant Breath for the boy and girl
Who purchases "TEABERRY."

IT'S EVERY ONE'S DUTY—To improve the opportunities presented for health, cheerfulness, and comfort. See to it, that ZOPESA is used in your family for Dyspepsia and Biliousness. It is guaranteed to remove them.



QU'APPELLE LAND COMPANY OFFER Free Homesteads and Pre-emptions (Government terms) on east side of Long Lake, near Regina: loam soil, rolling prairie; good opening for merchants, &c. For particulars address W. H. GIBBS, Pres., Oshawa; or W. H. GIBBS, JR., Managing Director, Regina, N. W. T.

YORK FARMERS COLONY, N. W. T.—Free Homesteads with preemptions added now open in this fertile tract. For list of present settlers, improvements now going on, and full information address Head Office, 10 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers wanted as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director.

General & Financial Agency.

Sums of from $200 to $50,000 to invest in Patent Rights, Business Chances, Manufactures, Hotels, Saloons, and any kind of merchantable or exchangeable property.

J. I. EVANS & CO.,
Leader Lane, Toronto.

THE GREAT CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature,

RHEUMATINE is not a sovereign remedy for "all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature.

IT IS A SURE CURE

Sol by all druggists. The Rheumatine Manufacturing Co., St. Catharines, Ont. Messrs. Northrop & Lyman Wholesale Agts., Toronto.

MILLINERY

—AND—

FANCY DRY GOODS

WHOLESALE.

D. McCall & Co'y,

51 & 55 YONGE ST., TORONTO.

PORTAGE AVE., WINNIPEG.

Trimmed Millinery

A SPECIALTY.

Silks, Ribbons, Laces, Flowers, Feathers, Straw Goods,

IN ENDLESS VARIETY.

D. McCall & Co'y.

—AN ENGLISH VETERINARY SURGEON AND CHEMIST, now traveling in this country, says that most of the Horse and Cattle Powders sold here are worthless trash. He says that Sheridan's Condition Powders are absolutely pure and immensely valuable. Nothing on earth will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powders. Dose, one teaspoonful to one pint food. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter-stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, Mass.

MAKE HENS LAY

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

Wm. Lucas & Co. bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.—Mr. C. Littlejohns, living two miles south of Markdale, has a fine bred Berkshire boar for service on his farm this season. 75 cts. cash, $1 if not so paid. 118-123

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10cts, 50 cts, and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest, or Back, Lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale

"Pa, what is an employment agent?" "Why, my son, he is a man who is very anxious to get work for others to do. He himself doesn't want any."

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truely a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Billiousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach Liver and Kidney Complaints even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Ezch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by A. Turner & Co.

"Yes," said the man with the curled moustache, "Charley is a good fellow, but he is so eccentric, you know. Why, he asked me to day for a five I borrowed from him last summer!"

FREE OF COST.

All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-size bottle will do.

An exchange prints the marriage of Mr. Slaughter to Miss Lamb. The item might have been headed "Another Lamb led to the Slaughter."

GIVEN AWAY.

We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. You are requsted to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle free of cost, if you are suffering with Consumption, Severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Loss of Voice, Hoarseness, or any affection of the Throat or Lungs. It will positively cure you.

The skilled burglar may not be wealthy, but he takes things easy.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

It is with some mothers in the treatment of their children as with fireworks. First the rock it and then the stick.

THE SUPERINTENDENT IN LOVE

Supt. E. J. O'Neill, of the Dominion Police Force, Ottawa, Canada, thus spoke to a representative of one of Ottawa's leading journals; "I am actually in love with that wonderful medicine St Jacobs Oil. I keep it at home and likewise here in my office; and though my duty should call me hence in an hour to journy a thousand miles, St. Jacobs Oil would surely be my companion. It is the most wonderful medicine in the world without any exception, I beleive. My entire family have been cured by it. We have used it for twent different ailments, and found it worth half a dozen doctors My men here on the Dominion Police Force, use it right along and very justly think that there is nothing like it. I believe it is the long sought Elizir Vitæ and possesses the power of making the old, young again. I know it often enlivens me, and although I am past fifty years of age, I am, thanks to that wonderful agent, a lively man yet.

There is no doubt a lean man can enjoy a fat legacy.

A WELL "CURED" EDITOR.

At No. 80 King Street, East Toronto, Ont., are the editorial rooms of the Sunday School Manual, edited by Mr. Withrow, of 249 Jarvis street, in the same city. Conversing recently with several gentlemen,—one of them the representative of the largest advertisers in the world.—Mr. Withrow remarked; "As to advertising, I consider St. Jacobs Oil the best advertised article by far. It is a splendid remedy too. Besides the many cases of rheumatism it has cured right amongst us, it has rendered me most efficient service in curing a severe soreness of the chest and an obstinate headache. It does its work satisfactorily."

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

BOOTS & SHOES

JUST ARRIVED AT THE

TORONTO HOUSE

BEST QUALITY AND LOWEST PRICE.

STOCK COMPLETE IN

Dry Goods and Groceries!

PRICES ALWAYS RIGHT.

OUR THIRTY CENT TEA

Is the wonder of the day. A trial solicited.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Oct. 11th, 1882

GROCERIES.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th. 1881. 37-tf

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

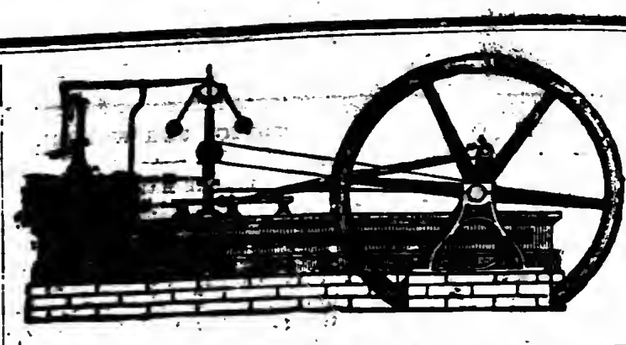
NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mill



UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Gristing and Chopping done every working day. Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."

October 28th 1882. 113-126

MOFFAT

M'rkda

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shaftin

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Wheels. Shingle Jointers, &c, Als Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIALT

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, PITLARS--IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photographe

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good sty

FRAMES and FRAME FIXING

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULMER.

TORONTO HOUSE

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. ☞ Unusually Lar

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPEST

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRACTIV

Variety and Value Unsurpassed.

DRY GOODS DEPARMENT.

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goods, comprising in part Cashmeres in all colors. Worsted Wool Goods in endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my stock is unusually large from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have laid the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trowserings, and Overings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in this partment buyers will find it to their advantage to call before purchasing elsewhere.

Millinery Department.

Under the able management of a first-class milliner, with plenty of assistance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most fashionable, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it would you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department.

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the lowest possible price

☞ I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Farm Produce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest price in cash any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially ask farmers to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROULE.

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factory

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PUMPS, FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found in the fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in Markdale the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's H

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--NO. 21. MARKDALE, ONT., FEB. 1, 1883. No. 125.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY MORNING,

At Markdale

$1 Per Annum

paid till continued at the refusing they;

TERMS OF A column one year $50 00

do. do. 27 50
do. do. 15 00
do. do. 8 00
do. do. 4 00
ten lines, first insertion 1
each subsequent insertion 3

The number of lines to an inch by the measurement rule is reckoned solid measure. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All changes in advertisements must be in the office of publication by 10 o'clock on the Wednesday preceding each publication.

JOB PRINTING

Of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

Ghent, M.D., M. C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University. Vict. College. New York. and Graduate, of the same, Aylelth Medical Institute. Ophthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND

Every attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

A. Cameron, M.D., & L.F.P. & S. Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

J.P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 122-tf

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Flesherton, Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

ALFRED FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT. Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57.1y

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

T. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First class accommodation for commercial travelers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connection.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c. attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

MISS LAMB,

DRESS-MAKER. UP-STAIRS IN Douglas' Block. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.

Markdale, Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

R. H. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implements, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

MISS WELSH,

Dress & Mantlemaker. Charges moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Hill's Block, Sydenham street.

Markdale, Nov. 6th, 1882. 113-126

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDAE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, Feb 5th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND.

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

$66 a week in your own town: $5 outfit free. No risk. Everything new. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay. Reader, if you want a business at which you can make great pay all the time you work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 71-126

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT.

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!

From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith.

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-1y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Best business now before the public. You can make money faster at work for us than at anything else. Capital not needed. We will start you. $12 a day and upwards made at home by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. You can work in spare time only or give your whole time to the business. You can live at home and do the work. No other business will pay you nearly as well. No one can fail to make enormous pay by engaging at once. Costly outfit and terms free. Money made fast, easily and honorably. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine. 71-126

BEST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

Brown's Household Panacea

has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixer or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 75-127

EARS FOR THE MILLION

HOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.
I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.
I have been greatly benefited.
My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, inclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

PROPERTIES For SALE

South half of Lot 5, con. 9, Euphrasia, containing 100 acres, 4 acres cleared balance good hardwood, bush situated 4 miles from Markdale on good road; also a village lot with comfortable house thereon, on Mill Street, Markdale. For further particulars apply to G. S. Bowes or Wm Armstrong executors of the estate of late Mark Armstrong Esq. 122-124

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

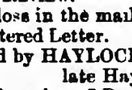
Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!



—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 8 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

$2

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

INTERESTING ITEMS GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES AND OTHERWISE FOR THE READERS OF THE "STANDARD."

Eugenia.

A flock of ten wild geese passed over here on the afternoon of the 23rd, heading to the North East. There is a chance for all ye weather wise to speculate on.

Scarlet fever still prevalent in the vicinity of Vandeleur.

Diphtheria is said to be raging at and near Maxwell. Three funerals at one time on the 16th of this month.

A scarcity of water in wells is yet being complained of.

It is beginning to leak out that quite a number of votes were paid for at last municipal contest in Eugenia ward.

Weather during last week stormy. Roads badly drifted and blocked up. The thermometer ten below zero.

Dundalk.

The Office of Wm. Lucas & Co has been removed into Hanbury's new brick block.

ELECTION OF REEVE.—We have been informed that Mr. Fennel, Reeve elected for Proton has put in the hands of the clerk a disclaimer, and Mr. McGregor has taken the declaration of office. There is no doubt Mr. Fennel would have served the township very satisfactorly, but seeing that there were difficulties in the way, it was certainly the wisest course to do as he has, and thus save the township the trouble and expense of a new election.—Herald.

Mr. J. Munro of Proton lost a valuable horse on Sunday night last. The horse was placed in the stable at night and the following morning was missing. There is no other way for accounting for his disappearance, only by coming to the conclusion that he was stolen. Just as we go to press word reaches us that the horse has been found dead in a swamp near the place. The snow around was much beaten as if the animal had died in great pain.—Herald.

Priceville.

On Thursday evening last the Presbyterians held their annual congregational Tea-meeting. The weather being favourable there was a very large and most respectable crowd out. A substantial repast was served by a number of the ladies and gentlemen belonging to the congregation in Rileys Hall after which all adjourned to the church. Order being called, Wm. Ferguson, Esq., P. S. I. was voted to the chair, the duties of which he discharged with his usual tact and good humour. Cards and letters of apology from several absentee speakers were read The chairman then called on the choir, and an excellent piece of music well executed was the result. The first speaker called was Mr. Meldrum, it being the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the Scottish bard, the speeker took this as his subject which brought Burns sweet song off, "After Water" by the choir, and "Scots Wha Hae by Mr. Robertson. Mr. Robertson gave a very interesting and forcible address on "Opinions and Principles," showing how frequently Opinions are substituted for and take the place of principles; Mr. Black, teacher gave a comic recitation which kept the whole audience in a laughter for a few minutes; Rev. Mr. McLeod was the last speaker, his subject was "Rites and Ceremonies" with the church showing the origin and abuse of them and how easy it was to slide into a sensuous ritual and even in many cases to believe it worship. The Bunesson choir under their careful leader Mr. Geo. Binnie, rendered many choice pieces during the evening, and gave striking proof of successful and delightful singing without the aid of an instrument. This was one of the pleasantest evenings it has been our lot to enjoy in the Tea-meeting line. The proceedings were brought to a close by the benediction

TOPICS FOR WOMEN.

A Scarcity of First-Class Terpsichorean Artists.

"Oh," said Mlle. Augusta Sohlke, the once favorite danseuse of the Empress Eugenie, now a director of the ballet at a Philadelphia theatre: "It has been so long since I learned to dance that I have forgotten when I took my first lesson. Lucille Grahn, one of the most famous dancers in Europe, was my teacher. My father did not like danseuses very much, but I was bound to learn, and as mother made no opposition I received my lessons in private. Five, six and seven hours practice every day. Think of it!" and she raised her hands and eyed her toes as if recalling the suffering they had caused her.

"That was work, my dear sir. Girls won't do it now. That is the reason there are so few great dancers American girls would make the most superb dancers in the world, but they are lazy." The experienced premiere shuddered over the laziness of novices in this country. "They practice an hour and then come to you with tears in their eyes and say: 'Oh, madame, my feet are killing me!' A dancer's aching feet never killed her," added Mlle. Sohlke, in a way that admitted no contradiction.

"Then they complain that their legs ache. To be sure they ache, but that is what developes them and makes them beautiful. Poor ninnies, they never think of that. Oh, these have too many other things on their minds. They have sweethearts and all that sort of thing, and they forget their art.

"English girls are fully as lazy as Americans, but they have such tender toes. A dancer's toes should never get tired if she loves her art. No one ever hears that the fingers of a great piano player are stiff and sore, that he is unable to play, do they?" Well, a dancer's toes should be like a piano player's fingers. German girls are, as a rule awkward and lazy. The Italian and French make the best dancers. The French are not afraid to work and they are generally graceful.

"Are dancers long lived?" said Mlle. Sohlke, repeating the question and laughing before she answered. "Certainly they are; notedly so. To be a good dancer one must be temperate and have good habits. Having plenty of exercise, their appetites are good and they must take rest or they could not dance. Taglioni, the father of the famous dancer Marie, was the ballet master at the Grand Opera House in Berlin when he was ninety years of age. Oh, you may depend upon it, dancers live to a ripe old age if they take care of themselves."—Philadelphia Record.

The Origin of Bangs.

Various stories are told of the sources from which the present fashion of wearing the hair banged is derived. Off-color ladies of China are credited with starting the style, and more than one authority has traced it to the Duchess of Portsmouth, the favorite of Charles II. of England. If pictures are be depended upon, however, Charless II. himself started the fashion long before he was old enough to know anything about the fair lady he admired, for there in his portrait still, in some feminine garb, he is shown with his hair cut short in front, as ladies now wear their bangs.

Let us not be too severe upon bangs, nor the girls who wear them. They are the tribute from youth to age, for while bangs prevail, no one need ever be bald. Look at any oldtime engraving where boys are represented, and you will see them with their hair cut straight across the front, or if you have ever seen an Irish gossoon, you will find he, too, wears his hair banged.

Indeed, banging the hair is an Irish fashion, and goes as far back as the struggle of the Irish of the pale in the time of James I. of England. Short hair in front and long locks behind was the distinctive mark of nationality, and identified with the adherents of the old religion. When traits of dress were swept away by the advancing enlightenment, the bangs survived in the lower orders, and in the grooming of dogs and horses. The lady-love of an English sporting gentleman borrowed the fashion from one of his favorite horses, noticing that the shading of the face by the hair gave the animal's eyes a softer expression, and so its echoes roll from pole to pole. It is alleged that banging the hair and wearing it over the forehead has a decidedly hygienic influence, preventing cold setting in the head, and averting the pains of neuralgia.

Marriage.

Marriage is, of all earthly unions, almost the only one permitting of no change but that of death. It is that engagement in which man exerts his most awful and solemn power—the power of responsibility which belongs to him as one that shall give account—the power of abnegating the right to change, the power of parting with his freedom, the power of doing that which in this world can never be reversed. And yet it is that relationship which is spoken of most frivolously and entered into most carelessly and wantonly. It is not a union merely between two creatures, it is a union between two spirits; and the intention of that bond is to perfect the nature of both, by supplementing their character with the force of contrast, giving to each sex those excellencies in which it is naturally deficient; to the one strength of character and firmness of moral will, to the other sympathy, meekness, tenderness. And just so solemn, and just so glorious as these ends are for which the union was contemplated and intended, just so terrible are the consequences if it be perverted and abused; for there is no earthly relationship which has so much power to enoble and exalt.

Preaching at Women.

There is no fear of women not going to church to hear themselves preached at, as in the case of men. No matter how faithfully the preacher puts the points on the is, they will flock to listen to him. They like it. The harder he hits, the more they will go. They all have consciences, and it produces a sort of pleasurable pain to have them rudely shaken. An able disquisition on dress would attract crowds. The preacher might discourse on tourneurs, denounce the fashion of san manches, and enter even into more minute details of underclothing, suggesting additions, and so forth, with the best possible effect. He should make himself acquainted with their especial vanities, with the ruses to which they resort to attract men, with their envyings and jealousies, with the uses they make of one another as decoys, with the schemes of match-making mammas, with their methods of obtaining social distinction and securing admiration, and expose them mercilessly. The only trouble is, they would all end by adoring him; that is why it is essential that he should be old, and have a wife and large family.

CURIOUS FEATURES OF ACTUAL LIFE.

An Englishman Nailed to a Flagstaff and Exposed to a Tropical Sun.

A story that has just reached this country from the Niger illustrates the cruelty and lawlessness which prevailed in that region and we fear also in other West African rivers not under the government of any civilized State. It appears that Mr. U. H. Bennett, who is described as an intelligent and educated native of Sierra Leone, acted as the representative of a French house at a place called Loko, where he had purchased large quantities of ivory from the natives, and carried on other profitable business.

The general agent for the French firm on the Niger, M. Mattei, is also the French Consul on that river. It is said that he entertained some suspicion as to the existence of irregularities in Mr. Bennet's mode of conducting business. He was of course perfectly entitled to inquire into the proceedings of the sub-agent, and if he thought fit, to prosecute him in the consular courts.

But, according to the Lagos Times, Bennett was arrested by a party of four French men armed with revolvers, and in a state of semi-nudity beaten and carried on board a French ship where he was handcuffed and made fast to one of the masts. On the arrival of the unfortunate man at the town of Lokoja he was lashed to a flagstaff. His handcuffs were not removed, and his sufferings under the fierce heat of a tropical sun were so great that, in the language of an eye-witness, "all who saw pitied him, and not a few of the natives wept."

The Mohammedan Governor of the town was so moved by indignation that he compelled the Frenchmen to remove their prisoner to a shed, where, however, he was denied the protection of a mosquito net which a friendly native desired to place at his disposal. It furthers appears that, although these events occurred during the first days of October, six weeks later he still remained a prisoner, without having undergone either examination or trial. For years past there have been many complaints of lawlessness on the part of Europeans trading in the Niger, and of a disposition to punish prisoners first and try them afterward.

It is, however, unfortunately, very seldom that the public receive so clear and connected a statement of the facts as is forthcoming in the present instance.

Devon Cattle.

COL. M. C. WELD writes as follows in American Agriculturist for February:

One who sees a herd of Devons for the first time is struck with their extraordinary beauty and uniformity, and sees at once that they differ from every other breed, or stock of cattle with which he is acquainted. They are of a brilliant, rich mahogany red, without white upon the body, but with white switches to their tails, and frequently with white udders. Though heavy in carcass they are light-limbed and the older cows low-set. Their heads are small and clean-cut, elegantly placed and carried high, while they are adorned with long, light, tapering white horns, curving upward and outward. Their throats are clean; withers thin; necks free from dewlaps; chests very wide, and briskets projecting and hung low. In girth they are large for their height; very thick through the heart, and unequalled in the crops, which point carries the fullness of the shoulders back to the ribs without perceptible depression. The backs are very level from the withers to the setting of the tails, which are long and delicately tapered. The loins are wide and muscular; the hips wide apart, the back long to the rump, while the thighs are long to the hocks, and in the twist well let down, yet in the lower parts they are thin, giving room between them for capacious udders. The soft flanks are usually very low, giving the barrels a cylindrical, level look upon the under line. Devons are commonly heavily coated, and the air is wavy, if not positively curly, in many cases. The skin is plastic and mellow under the touch, even when the animal is in low condition, but when in good order it is typically fine, not thin and papery, but elastic and yielding under the pressure of the finger tips, and offering a mobile, unctuous handful if grasped over the ribs. The skin color varies, but not a few show a rich cream color, inclining to orange under the fore-arm, and in the ears. Add to this description that the legs are short, small-boned and clean, that the whole carriage and style are elastic and graceful, with a promptness and energy rarely seen in neat cattle, while the large, lively yet placid and fearless eye, indicates at once intelligence, confidence and repose, and we have a picture of a high-bred, beautiful and useful race of cattle, such as has no equal anywhere. The oxen are much trained, very quick in their movements, fast walkers and untiring workers. The cows are deep milkers.

A Wild Cat Riding a Deer.

One night recently a hunter residing near Custer was aroused by an unusual noise near his cabin. Taking his gun he went out to see what the trouble was, and noticed a deer at full speed with a wild cat perched on its back, and making frantic efforts to cut the deer's throat with its sharp teeth. The hunter raised his gun and fired. The wild cat instantly jumped off the deer's back and made for its assailant. The man reloaded his rifle, and when the animal was within twelve or fifteen feet of him he again fired and killed the brute. Just as he fired the first shot the deer fell dead but a few paces from where the hunter first saw it. Examination revealed that the man's first shot had wounded the wild cat in the belly, while the second hit it squarely in the head, and that the deer had died from the effects of the biting received from its strange rider.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

Hon. George Couture has been for the eleventh time elected Mayor of Levis.

The anniversary meetings of Protestant societies have been in progress in Montreal.

A fire occurred in Lawry's packing-house, Hamilton, caused by overheating.

Mr. George Gosnel, residing near Highgate, was killed by a falling tree.

Damage to the value of $500 was done to the lower town market at Ottawa, by fire.

Three men employed in the Lindsay Paper Mill have been seriously scalded.

Thomas Brady, tinsmith, has been arrested at Hamilton for committing a burglary at the Ontario Canning Works.

John Newton, for embezzling from H. H. Date, of Hamilton, while working for him as a clerk, has been arrested.

The market-house, J. W. Barry's hide and tallow shop, and the fire hall at Bradford, have been burned.

No traces of Mrs. Daken, who mysteriously disappeared at Annapolis, N.S., have been discovered.

A Scotch forger in Edinburgh, having absconded, is being searched for at Montreal. His name is Peddie, and his forgeries amount to $22,000.

Mrs. F. L. Barnfather, of Hamilton, was using a crochet hook, and by some unaccountable means the hook went in between the finger and thumb, causing lockjaw.

A delegation of two members of the Meliste tribe of Indians, of New Brunswick, have arrived in Ottawa on business connected with the interests of their people.

The medical faculties of Montreal are about to petition the Government to enforce the existing laws so as to compel the hospital authorities to give up unclaimed corpses for dissection.

As Francis McCarthy, of Beeton, was felling a tree it lodged in a smaller one, splintering it, and causing it to fly back and strike him, severing one of his arms, and pinning him to the ground.

UNITED STATES.

McFerron and McIntosh, Pittsburgers, have arranged a prize fight for $500 a side.

U. S. Minister Logan's recall from Peru is expected, because of his letter written to Montero.

Dr. Louis Schade, of Buffalo, was for a number of years surgeon on the steamship Cimbria, recently sunk

The Marquis of Lorne, and party, arrived at Washington last night over the Alexandria and Fredericksburg railroad.

Considerable excitement has been caused at Bayview, Wis., by the discovery that a drug clerk has been selling aconite for whiskey.

H. M. S. Dido, 12 guns, 2,520 tons, Capt. Domville, sailed from Charleston, S. C., for Bermuda, bearing the Princess Louise.

At Big Rapids Turnkey Shaw was summoned to a part of the jail containing three desperadoes, when they turned on him, beat him, and escaped.

A teamster named Charles Bardwell was driving across the Grand Trunk railway track at Port Huron, when a Detroit passenger train dashed into his waggon. He was killed.

GENERAL.

Flotow, the composer, is dead.

Lord Greville is dead, aged 62. He was a Liberal.

Richard Deasy, Lord Justice of Appeal in Ireland, is dangerously ill.

Dora Henninger, the singer, reported lost on the Cimbria, is at Paris.

The Porte has again promised the introduction of the much needed reforms in Armenia.

The burgomaster of Versa, who arrested Overdank, is constantly receiving threatening letters.

The president of the German Reichstag has received 42,000 marks from the New Yoak brewers.

The Austrian Emperor granted a private audience to De Giers, Russian Foreign Minister.

A hurricane at Limerick caused serious damage. Houses were blown down, and shipping suffered.

The British troops were recently engaged in manœuvres at Alexandria, in imitation of a seige of Cairo.

Important evidence has been obtained regarding the perpetration of outrages for the last two years in the west of Ireland.

The police are guarding the house of the informer Farrel, in Dublin, in consequence of threats of violence against his mother and sister.

Over three thousand congratulatory letters and telegrams were received by the Crown Prince and Princess, on the occasion of their silver wedding.

The Porte has sent a note to the Powers pointing out that the English note concerning Egypt is at variance with Turkey's admitted rights over Egypt.

The Brazilian loan of four million pounds at four and a half per cent. put on the London market by Rothschild at 89 has been more than subscribed.

The Irish police anticipate capturing all the members of the organization which promoted crimes, and also the persons concerned in the murder of Lord Mountmorris.

A Misguided Showman.

A foolish Showman once Advertised for the Following Curiosities: A Printer who carried Tobacco, a Negro Minstrel who Did not wear a Plug Hat, a Woman who did not Wash her Face with a Rag, an Editor who Had Ten dollars in his Pocket, a Dog whose Hind legs were in Plumb with his Front Legs, a Business Manager who did not Consider the Editors Robbers, and a Pair of Shoes that were too Small for the Lady who Wore them. The foolish Showman Died a Death of Bitter Disappointment.—Denver Tribune.

The Lacquer Industry of Japan.

Our knowledge of this important Chinese industry, says the British Trade Journal, has hitherto been so limited that special interest attaches to the lengthy report of Vice-Consul Quin, of Hakodato, upon the subject. The lacquer business is one in which the Japanese have always excelled but respecting which the greatest secrecy has been observed. It appears that the various kinds of lacquer are procured by tapping the lacquer tree (Rhus vernicifera), which is abundant all over the main island, and is also met with in Kiushiu and Shikoku. Special tools are used for the purpose, and it is said to need a certain "knack" to secure the exuding juice in a pure and proper condition. In its crude state the lacquer is priced at 90 to a 100 yen, or, at the present low rate of exchange, equal to between 12*l.* and 13*l.* per tub of about 4 gallons. The manufactured articles undergoes many transformations, mixtures being prepared and sold in which seaweed-jelly, grated sweet potatoes, soot, charcoal, iron filings boiled in rice vinegar, ground sea-shells, turpentine, whetstone water, camphor, oils, oxide of iron, gold, silver, or tin powder and sundry other ingredients are incorporated. Mr. Quin mentions a very remarkable property of lacquer. He says:—

"If crude lacquer, which is originally of the color and consiste cy of cream, is exposed to the sun for a few days without adding water, it loses its creamy color and becomes quite black, or nearly so, but also becomes thinner and transparent, or rather translucent. as can be seen when it is smeared ou a white board. It will not now, however, dry if applied to an article, even it kept a month or more in the damp press. But if water is mixed with the lacquer which has thus been exposed and become black it at once loses the black color and its transparency, and becomes again of a creamy color, though slightly darker, as if some coffee had been added, than at first. After evaporating the water, it can then be used like any ordinary lacquer, either alone or in mixtures, and will dry in the damp press, during which process it agains turns black.

Lacquer will not dry or harden properly in the open air, It must have a damp, close atmosphere to do so, otherwise it would run and remain sticky. The Japanese use a cave or an underground cellar, where practicable, or, in default, an air-tight case of wood, with rough, unplaned planks inside. These are thoroughly wetted before the lacquered article is put in to dry; the process occupying a period of from six to 50 hours, according to the time of the year and the sort of lacquer used. The business is one evidently requiring patience, care, and cheap labor, seeing that Mr. Quin enumerates 33 different processes in applying the lacquer, with periods of drying or rest between many of them of from 12 to 40 hours. The tools, brushes, smoothers, &c., are different for the various sorts of lacquers, as well as for the articles to which they are applied, gold lacquering, flat or raised, appearing to be the highest form of the art. So far as the particulars given by Mr. Quin enable us to judge, it seems likely that the Japanese will be allowed to retain a monopoly of this, to them, important industry.

An Incident in Virginia.

Our old friend, Mr. Wm, Claughton, of Heathsville, sheriff of Northumberland Co., Va., says, "We have many good medicines in our parts, but nothing which equals St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. My family keep the Oil in the house at all times and use it for almost everything that a medicine can be used for. They claim that it is unequaled for rheumatism and all bodily pains.—Tappahannock, (Va.,) Tide Water Index.

The toothless man ought to be a sweet talker, for all his words must of necessity be gum drops.

Extract from a letter just received (December, 1882) by Mrs. Thos. Murray, from her husband, Mr. Thos. Murray, who was for many years' Bridge Conductor for the Great Western Railway at Niagara Falls, afterwards one of the contractors on the enlarged Welland Canal (section 12), and is now in Northern Michigan, looking after his timber interests in that country. He writes:

"Tell Sutherland I am now starting for the woods with 36 men, where I will be all winter, and that I am now without ache or pain in either my knees or arms (something I have not known for years), thanks to the two bottles of Rheumatine which I procured from him before leaving St. Catharines.

The Vicar of Holy Trinity at Stratford-upon-Avon, the church in which lie buried the remains of William Shakespeare, has been fined £1 12s. and sent to jail for a day for assaulting one of the choir boys.

BRIGGS' GENUINE ELECTRIC OIL.

Electricity feeds the brain and muscles: in a word, it is Nature's food,

The Electric Oil possesses all the qualities that it is possible to combine in a medicine, thereby giving it a wide range of application as an internal remedy for man and beast. The happiest results follow its use and in Nervous Diseases, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia and kindred diseases, it has no equal.

For Throat and Lung Diseases, Bowel Complaints, Etc.,

It is truly a marvel. The Oil, besides exciting appetite, promoting digestion and checking fermentation on the stomach, antidotes or counteracts the effect of uric acid, which produces rheumatism by destroying the oxolate and phosphate of lime in the bones, and the membranes inclosing the joints.

Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists. (Eclectric is not Electric.)

In the township of Richmond, a contest was avoided in the recent municipal elections by two of the candidates tossing up a copper, "head or tails." This method of deciding an election is free from those abuses which often accompany the use of the ballot.

VEGETINE is nourishing and strengthening: purifies the blood; regulates the bowels; quiets the nervous system, acts directly upon the secretions, and arouses the whole system to action.

A New York plumber has died from overwork. It is suspected that he attempted to make out a dozen bills in one week.

The successful man has many imitators in his peculiar line of business, but still there is only one originator. So, also, the great petroleum hair renewer, Carboline, as now improved and perfected, holds the palm against all imitators as a genuine article of merit. Try it.

A boy of 8 years died in England, poisoned by the action of a substance used in dyeing his stockings. Sir John Humphrey testified that several striking proofs had come under his notice of the danger of wearing many of the dyed stockings offered for sale.

Davy & Clark, Druggists, Reading, of June 3rd, write," Burdock Blood Bitters has taken the lead in this locality, though comparatively a new purifier, our sales of it being equal to all other medicines used for the past during the last year." 18.

According to the Lancet two-thirds of the total quantity of medicines consumed in the United States are sold in the form of nostrums.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York save Baggage Expressage and Carriage hire, stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, Opposite Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elegant Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

The Birmingham Medical Review recommends for chilblains equal parts of diluted nitric acid and peppermint, to be applied daily at first, and then every other day.

An Admonition.

To neglect a cough or cold, is to invite consumption, that destroyer of the human race. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the cough and allay all irritation of the bronchial tubes and lungs, and as a remedy all pulmonary complaints, such as Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, etc. 17

An unexpected and delightful marriage to a Michigan girl brought on a fatal attack of heart disease.

The Very Latest News.

"Have you heard the latest news?" asked a city swell of another. "No, do tell me what it is." "Well, I have at last got rid of my cough by one trial of Putnam's Painless Expectorator, and I know yours were worse than mine were, I couldn't pass without telling you to get a bottle at your druggist's and guarantee it will fix 'em completely." It is prompt and painless, taking the cough at once. Sold everywhere. Beware of worthless and imitations.

A young man who wanted to locate in Kansas could not tell horizontal from perpendicular, but the committee decided that as the members had been themselves.

A Secret.

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood, good health, without the one the other is impossible. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the doors and opens the avenue to health by purifying and regulating all the organs to healthy action. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, purifies the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Complexion and brings the bloom of health to the cheek. 14

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth heavy and very tough new price list. J.G. WOOD & CO., Printers, Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE, MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR CITY property in the village of Port Stanley, excellent business stand, with lots, convenient, improved farm of three hundred acres with frame buildings. Address Box 2, Port Stanley, Sydney.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send circulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 Adelaide-st. East. Business Agent and Valuer.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; 25, 50, $5, or $10 lots. By post, 10c. extra. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter any time or remember until January. PROF. SMITH, F.R.C.V.S., Edin. Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION, Co-operative Life Assurance. For families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT 19, Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Newmarket. Landing 212 acres, Northern R.R. Situated on corner of this Lot, the land rolling clay loam Brick house Frame Barn. J. W. G WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto-st. Toronto.

LADIES! BEWARE of frail sets. corsets will not break, or lose their shape corsets made by Crompton Co. Toronto.

General & Financial Agency.

Sums of from $200 to $50,000 to invest. Patent Rights, Business Chances, Mortgages, Hotels, Saloons, and any kind of investments or exchangeable property.

J. I. EVANS & CO., Leader Lane.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS

Are pleasant to take. Contain no Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

S SACRIFICE:

OR,

or Love of Her.

CHAPTER XIX.—(CONTINUED.)

had been friends at school, she and Anthon; and after the school-days her, and both had entered society, the friendship had deepened into a warm se intimacy. Scarcely a day had that they did not see each other, and felt as much at home in the Brentmansion as she did in her own house. approved of and encouraged the intithe Brentwoods moved in the same ple of society that the Anthons did; entwood was a very wealthy man; entwood name was an honored and ent one. Had it been otherwise, would have long ago found ways and to break off the intimacy between and Aline; she had lived too long in ionable world not to have become ably inoculated with the idea of social kissed Louie rapturously, Aline her down upon the velvet couch. thought I would come right up stairs, she said. "Jackson told me you were alone. Oh, Louie, I have something y, guess what it is?"

annot guess," laughed Louie. "It is ning pleasant, I know, because your re shining like stars, Aline."

eed it is pleasant, and if everything just as I want it to come, it will ly lovely," said Aline, enthusi"Louie, it was decided this morn- breakfast table, that we are to go to spend the summer."

perfectly lovely," said Louie earand then suddenly, "Oh, Aline, I wish going with you."

that is what I am determined you ," said Aline, triumphantly. "Mamma and I planned it all out this morning, are both quite sure your father and will consent to your going with us. sail the second week in June, and until October, and only think, what charming times we will have; go everywhere, promenade Paris, the Alps, run through the Tyrol, go don, Vienna, and"—and Aline paused breath.

would certainly be charming," murLouie, her lovely eyes brightening at very thought. "I wonder will they be to have me go."

am positive that they will," answered compulsively. "It never seems to make difference where you are to your , and your mother generally thinks as see, you know."

shook her pretty head sorrowfully. Yes, I know," she said mournfully. Aline, I wish it did make more differ to papa."

warm-hearted Aline, who knew the of Louie's sorrow, and who had seen ersely the cold indifference with which Anthon treated his only child, made to comfort her, saying:

this only his way, Louie, he loves you ly, I know, for how could he help it? at earthly reason has he for not loving None at all; it is only his way."

ilim her own heart Alice Brentwood very thankful that her own affectionate, onstrative father had no such cold unural way.

Speak to them to-night about it, Louie, come round to-morrow morning and tell what they think of our plan," she continued, "and use all your eloquence to plead cause."

And then sitting there in the large, exisitely furnished room while the soft May crept in through the open windows kissed their face, the two young, fair s planned out a summer as bright as any were ever spent—a summer all flowers sunshine. They did not either of them up to think that there never was a summer yet without its storms of thunder and of black clouds and lightning flashes.

CHAPTER XX.

It was not until after dinner that Louie reached the subject of the trip to Europe her mother. Mr. Anthon had gone into sanctum for his usual after-dinner moke, and mother and daughter were alone together in the magnificent library with its panelled walls, antique furniture, and curiously wrought window and door draperies, any stranger seeing them together would have taken them for sisters rather than mother and daughter, for Muriel, in her trailing dinner-dress of pearly gray silk and violet velvet, the rare old creamy lace about her neck, leaving exposed a portion of her round, full throat; and a great cluster of purple and gold pansies in her wonderful hair, was no less lovely and but little older looking than Louie.

Drawing a Turkish ottoman to her mother's feet, Louie dropped down upon it, and with her small hands clasped tightly, her face a little flushed with eagerness, proceeded to speak of the Brentwoods' anticipated trip abroad, and of her desire to accompany them. They made such a perfect picture sitting there. The beautiful mother, in her velvet and silk and diamonds, the look upon her face that told she had realized all the happiness earth can give, that there was with her nothing more to be desired, and the fair young girl, her white cashmere dress falling in soft folds about her figure,—the expression in her eyes half eager, half dreamy, that showed she had life's greatest pleasures yet in anticipation.

Sinking back upon the satin cushions of her low chair, Muriel listened as Louie told her of the bright plans she and Aline Brentwood had that day made, growing eloquent and earnest as she spoke of the places they meant to visit and the things they meant to see.

"Oh, mamma, I am so anxious to go," she pleaded.

"I don't know," murmured Muriel, thoughtfully. "I do not quite like the idea of having you go so far away from me."

"But, mamma, you know I have always wanted to travel through Europe, and it seems too bad when I was born in France that I have no personal knowledge even of the country which was my birthplace. Then it is such a nice opportunity for me to go; Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood have been all over Europe, and they know all the best and most interesting places to visit."

"Yes, that is so," said Muriel, "and I could trust you implicitly with them. They are such charming people, and Mrs. Brentwood is as particular as I am, and thinks as I do about—well, about a great many things. But I should be very lonely without you, Louie."

"You will have papa," said the girl, almost bitterly.

Muriel's eyes grew golden with deep tenderness.

"Yes, I will have him," she murmured, dreamily; "and so long as I have him, I can never be lonely or unhappy."

She had spoken truly. Never could she be sorrowful or miserable so long as her life was passed by the side of the man whom she firmly believed to be her lawfully wedded husband. All other passions—even her love for her child, that great mother-love—were swallowed up by the deep, intense, absorbing love which Arundel Anthon's first kiss had awakened in her, and which all these years had been steadily increasing.

For a moment Louie was silent; then she asked, abruptly:

"Mamma, have you always loved papa as you do now?"

Muriel's face flushed at the sudden question. Taking Louie's hands in her own white, jewelled ones, she looked down into the frank, truthful, brown eyes.

"I have not told you, dear, but I did not love your father when I married him."

A puzzled, astonished look leaped into the brown eyes, there was a shade of reproach in the clear sweet voice as Louie said:

"You did not love him? Then, mamma, how could you have married him?"

"Because it was his wish as well as your grandfather's. I respected and honored him, and he, knowing that, was content to make me his wife, and to wait until love for him grew up in my heart. There is no surer foundation for love, Louie, than honor and respect, and after awhile love came. Is there any happier woman than I am to-day? is there any wife who loves her husband more dearly than I do? No; and the reason for it is that the love which comes after marriage, and which is built upon honor and respect, is ineffably deeper, truer, and more lasting than the love which, having attained its greatest height before marriage, is sadly apt to burn itself out after a few years of married life."

Though the argument was undeniably a clear one, though Muriel had spoken very earnestly, Louie was not convinced. Still she did not give voice to her own thoughts and opinions upon the subject, she only said, quietly:

"How long was it, mamma, after you were married, that you began to love papa?"

"A little over a year," answered Muriel, musingly, idly playing with one of Louie's soft, gold-brown curls, winding the tress of sunshiny hair round and round her slender fingers, and thinking of that wild March night when the rain had dashed against the windows, and the wind had moaned about the house, and Russel had told her the story of his reckless sinning brother's life, and showed her Arundel's pitiful appealing letter, and then had asked her if she was willing he should go to him in Mexico.

"We had been married about ten months when he was obliged to go away from me—to go away into Mexico, where he had every reason to suppose he might be detained for some time. Louie," and Muriel's eyes began to darken with earnestness, "it would break my heart to have him go away from me now to remain for an indefinite period; I could not bear it. Then I felt differently; the thought of his leaving me did not fill me with passionate sorrow and pain. Still I missed him very much when he had gone, the house seemed very lonely without him, and I resolved that when he returned he should find me more loving and devoted than I had ever been. He was detained longer even than he had expected to be. It was March when he went away, it was June when he came home to me—and how well I remember that day! I had no idea he was on his way back; I had grown weary and heartsick waiting for a letter to come to me telling me when I might expect him; yet I did not blame him for not writing; I knew that was impossible, for the business which had called him to Mexico led him out upon the plains, far away from any post-town. I had been lying down and waked out of a sound sleep to hear that my husband was in the house, and just as I was, in my peignoir, I went to meet him. And when I felt his arms around me, his kisses on my lips, when after so many days my eyes met his, love for my husband was born in my heart, strong and mighty even at the very hour of its birth. I have never ceased to love him from that time."

Years afterward, every word of what her mother had just said, came back to Louie with bitter, terrible distinctness.

She had listened intently, her dimpled chin in the pink palm of one little hand, a dreamy, far-away look in her velvety brown eyes. When Muriel had finished speaking she was silent a moment, as though her thoughts were very busy, then she said simply:

"You must have been very glad when you found you loved papa; I cannot imagine anything more terrible than to be married to a man and not love him."

"It is not so terrible, Louie, if a woman has all honor and respect for her husband."

Louie clasped her hands impetuously.

"Honor and respect," she said passionately, two bright scarlet spots coming upon her cheeks, "what are they in comparison to the love God meant husband and wife should have for each other? He did not mean that for honor and respect alone two people should take each other for better, for worse, until death should part them. No. He meant that they should be bound together by the deepest, purest love, and it seems to me that a marriage without that love cannot be a true one in the sight of Heaven. There can be honor and respect without love, mamma, but there cannot be deep, pure, true love without honor and respect."

Rather anxiously Muriel looked into the earnest eyes, wondering if that love of which Louie had spoken had yet stirred the young heart.

"Louie, have you ever seen any one for whom you think you might feel this deep love?" she asked.

The truthful eyes met hers unflinchingly, there was no shadow of deceit in them.

"No, mamma, I have never met any one to whom I could give this love."

"I am very glad," she murmured. "That is the chief reason why I shrink from having you go to Europe with the Brentwoods; travelling about from place to place as you would do, you would necessarily meet many strangers, and you are so young, Louie, you have seen so little of the world, you do not know how much falsity and unfaith there is in it, how many black hearts are hidden under fair exteriors, and I am so afraid you might bestow your love upon some one all unworthy of it."

"You need not be afraid, mamma, I do not think I am very impressionable. Anyway I should never marry any man unless both you and papa liked him, and gave your full and unconditional consent.

"And yet, Louie, you might not love a man whom your father and I considered in every respect suitable for you.

"Then I should never marry him," said the girl firmly, a little determined look settling about her mouth. "Nothing in this world would tempt me to become the wife of a man I did not love with my whole heart."

Muriel was rather unpleasantly surprised. She had never thoroughly analyzed Louie's nature; now for the first time she discovered that there was in it a depth, and strength, and firmness such as she had never thought of.

"But, mamma, you have not told me whether I can go abroad with the Brentwoods, and I promised Aline I should see her in the morning and give her your answer. Oh, mamma, please say yes."

It was very hard indeed to resist the pleading expression upon the lovely upturned face, the sweet coaxing voice, and Muriel said, as she pressed her lips on the low, white forehead:

"It shall be as papa says; if he is willing, then, Louie, I will say yes!"

Louie sprang to her feet.

"I will go and ask him now," she said gleefully, and in another instant the heavy portiere had fallen over the white-clad figure and Muriel was alone.

In his luxuriously fitted-up smoking-room—a room whose furnishings and decorations betrayed the highly cultured and æsthetic tastes of its owner, Arundel Anthon was sitting. The evening paper lay upon his knees, but he was not reading. With his handsome head thrown back upon the cushions of his chair, he was watching the feathery rings of cigar smoke, which from time to time he blew from his lips, float away up toward the ceiling. A frown darkened his face as the sound of light, rapid footsteps fell upon his ears—he knew to whom those light footsteps belonged.

"Would to Heaven the girl was where I could never see her!" he muttered. "But for her I could crush down this horrible remorse which of late has arisen so often within me. His eyes look out at me from her face; every gesture and posture of hers reminds me of him. I shall never be able to rid myself of the idea that through her—his child—will punishment come upon me."

"Come in," he said, in answer to the low, half-timid knock upon the door.

"What is it?" he asked coldly, as Louie stepped into the room.

Going nearer to him, standing with her hand resting upon the carved table in the centre of the room, Louie made known her request, finishing with, "And mamma says, if you are perfectly willing that I should go, then she will give her consent."

He drew a long breath of satisfaction. Nothing would please him better than that the girl should take herself out of his sight. She was the bitter drop in his cup of happiness; when she was not by, he could stifle the voice of conscience, crush down the bitter remembrance of his deadly sin.

"I think it would be a very nice opportunity for you to go," he said, more friendly than he was apt to speak to her, "and since you are so anxious to go, I willingly give my consent. When do the Brentwoods sail, Louie?"

"The second week in June, papa."

"To remain how long?"

"About four months, papa."

"Very good. You can do a great deal of travelling in that time, and I have no doubt but that you will enjoy every moment of it. You shall have all the money you want, Louie. I believe young ladies of the present day have a decided weakness for Worth toilets and Parisian bonnets, and I shall place at your disposal a sum sufficiently large to enable you to indulge that weakness.

The lovely face flashed with happiness.

"Oh! papa, you are so kind and good, and I thank you so very much," Louie said, touched and made happy by her father's unwonted tenderness.

Arundel shuddered as he met the lustrous brown eyes; just at that moment they were so terribly like the eyes of the man he had left to die alone out on the plains of Mexico, that it made him sick and faint to look into them.

Mechanically he took up his paper, and, thinking she had interrupted his reading, Louie turned to leave the rooms.

"Again I thank you, dear papa," she murmured.

He drew a long, quivering sigh when she had left him.

"Great God! what a mockery it is!" he muttered. "She calls me father—what would she call me if she knew? Strange her eyes unman me as they do; it seems always as if Russel was looking at me through them."

Rising from his chair, he poured out, with unsteady hand, a glass of brandy. It was not the first time Arundel Anthon had taken brandy to quiet and steady his nerves.

The tenth of June the Brentwoods, with Louie Anthon, sailed for Europe, and among her many friends there was not one who wished Louie "bon voyage" with more seeming tenderness and sincerity than the man whom all the world believed to be her own father.

CHAPTER XXI.

"I am not at all surprised that the people love their beautiful Rhine," murmured Louie Anthon to herself, looking down at the river which was glistening and gleaming in the bright sunshine of a hot August afternoon. "It is such a beautiful river, and the country about it is so lovely. I believe I would like to live here, or at least remain for some time, it seems so quiet and peaceful." And then her attention was caught by the picturesque dresses of two peasant women who were walking slowly along up the shaded street; and as she watched them, she fell to wondering whether the rosy faced, stolid-looking peasants were ever sorrowful and unhappy.

"I do not believe they ever are," she thought, "for they always look so contented and happy, as though they were perfectly satisfied with life."

She was sitting in one of the open windows of her room in the little inn in the quaint Swiss town of Schaffhausen, on the Rhine, looking out with that wondering curiosity which Americans cannot fail to feel when they visit for the first time the many quaint little towns scattered through Switzerland, and notice the odd customs and manners of their inhabitants.

Far away beyond the walls of the town stretched the wooded hills, and by turning her head Louie could see the old castle—a veritable castle on the Rhine—which for so many years has overlooked the town; and over all the landscape fell the golden afternoon and sunshine.

How much she had enjoyed it—this trip abroad, and not alone to her, but to the Brentwoods as well, had the trip so far been a most enjoyable one. The voyage across the Atlantic had been a charming one, the weather had been very favorable, not one of the party had suffered from sickness—the bane of ocean travel—longer than a few hours.

"Just enough to let us know what real seasickness is," Louie had said laughingly, to Aline Brentwood.

"People who have never been across the water do not really know what sea-sickness is, but we know now, don't we Aline?"

They had stopped in London and Paris long enough to get a very fair idea of those great cities, had wandered through France and Germany visiting all the places most frequented by tourists, then into Switzerland, where, after spending a few days at Interlachen, Lake Constance, and Zurich, they had come directly from the last mentioned place to Schaffhausen, for Mr. Brentwood, who had been there before, wanted them to see the famous falls of Schaffhausen, three miles below the town. They had only been there a day, and in forty-eight hours time expected to leave it.

That morning Louie, who had been out strolling about the town with Mr. Brentwood and Aline, had gotten very tired, so tired that after dinner a dull headache had come on and she had remained at home while the others went for a walk, thinking that the rest and quiet would do more for her than any amount of medicine. For an hour or more she sat there in the open window watching the afternoon shadows beginning to fall upon the distant hills, and thinking dreamily, wondering if her mother at Newport was enjoying the beautiful summer days half as much as he was. She had not been a bit homesick; the greater part of her life had been spent at boarding-school, and she had not really been at home enough to make it seem strange or unnatural for her now to be away from it. Still, though she had never been very much with her, she loved her beautiful mother very dearly, and a sudden longing to see her came over her as she sat there alone. One cannot help feeling a little lonely when one remembers that the great ocean rolls between them and their nearest and dearest ones. Her reverie was broken up by the entrance of Aline Brentwood into the room, Aline, her beautiful dark face flushed with exercise, her dusky hair a little disordered by her walk, her wide-brimmed chip hat adorned with bunches of edelweis.

"Is your headache better, Louie?" she asked. "Yes? I am so glad, I guess it is just as well that you did not go with us, for, though we took a lovely walk, it was a long one, and it so warm this afternoon. Oh, I am so tired!" and Aline sank down upon the bed and lay there fanning herself with her straw hat.

"We met some very nice people this afternoon, Louie," she continued after a moment's silence, "a party from Boston, and we are all going down to the falls to-morrow morning. I am quite anxious to see those falls—I think it is lovely here in Switzerland, don't you, Louie?"

And then the two girls fell into conversation, talking about the various places they had visited, the things they had seen, the people they had met; talking and laughing as only two young, carelessly happy girl-friends can talk and laugh.

"Neither of us have lost our hearts," said Aline, merrily, at last.

"Don't brag," laughed Louie, "you may lose yours, Aline, sooner than you think."

Ah, Aline Brentwood was to lose her heart, very much sooner than she had any idea of.

The next morning came bright, clear, and beautiful, and at quite an early hour they started for the Schaffhausen falls. The Boston people proved a most agreeable addition to the party. They consisted of pater and materfamilias, their married daughter and her husband, and two younger children, a girl about sixteen and a young gentleman of one or two-and-twenty, who from the very moment he was introduced to her, remained steadfastly at Louie's side.

They were all very enthusiastic over the falls, as well they might be, for the Rhine, at that place about three hundred feet wide, descends a height of more than seventy feet.

After they had looked at and expatiated over the falls to their hearts' content, they strolled away in groups of two and three—Louie and her devoted friend wandering off by themselves into the woods to look for ferns and wild flowers. Interested in their conversation, the two went deeper into the woods than they supposed, until suddenly Louie discovered that she was a little fatigued, and sat down upon a rock to rest.

"But I have not half enough ferns," she said, as her companion, of whom to tell the truth, she was a trifle weary, would have seated himself by her side, "And there are so many lovely ones around here; would you mind getting me a few more?"

The young Bostonian would have much preferred to sit down beside her, for he considered her to be one of the prettiest and most agreeable girls he had ever met; but in his case, "To hear was to obey."

"Most happy, I am sure," he said, and the "most happy" was only one of the little deceits which are practiced daily and hourly in society.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Many a man who wears glossy boots shines at the wrong extremity.

IRISH INFORMERS' STORIES.

Revelations Made by a Fenian Prisoner.

DUBLIN, Jan. 23.—Twenty-one persons recently arrested here were before the Police Court charged with conspiracy to murder Government officers. The court-room was crowded. Great discrimination was exercised in the admission of citizens. There was a large crowd outside. During the progress of the hearing startling revelations were made. An informer swore that several of the prisoners, including Mr. Carey, a member of the municipality, were present at a Fenian meeting, where the informer was asked to join the inner circle formed for the assassination of officers. The name of the informer is Farrell. He acknowledged having taken part in the attempt to assassinate a juror. He swore that one of the prisoners, named Hanlon, informed him that he had taken part in the attempt to murder Field; that Brady stabbed Field, and that Kelly also participated in the affair. Farrell also testified that each Fenian contributed 3d. weekly to purchase arms; that the city had been marked into districts, and military inspections were held occasionally, at which most of the accused men were present. At one of these meetings, John Devoy, who said he came from America presided. The organization, he said, had existed for several years. Farrell said picked men formed an assassination committee. They were ignorant of each other. Daniel Curley gave him (Farrell) a revolver, and told him to stop Mr. Forster's carriage opposite Ellis Quay, when Jim Kelly and Joe Brady would do the remainder. The plot failed through a mistake. Farrell identified Kelly, Brady, Curley, Maloney, Dwyer, and Boyle, all of whom were present in the prisoners' dock as having been present on Ellis Quay when the attempt was made. Curley was very much vexed at the failure. Farrell said that Brady, Kelly and Rankin, the last of whom is now in Limerick, followed Mr. Forster's carriage in a cab on another occasion, and that MacMahon, who was lately accidentally shot, was assisting by watching on foot. All the prisoners were remanded for a week.

Miles Kavanagh, who is an informer, swore that he drove the car on which Field's assailants escaped. He is now in custody. Immediately after the Phœnix Park murders he was apprehended and detained two days on suspicion of having driven the car on which the assassins of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke escaped. It is reported that six of the prisoners who were in the dock offered to become approvers, but up to the present time the authorities have accepted only one of them, who will be examined at the next hearing. It is said that there are three other informers. The name of Poole, Bevine and Delaney are mentioned. The Detective Department is besieged with persons offering to give information. Several suspected persons left Dublin during the week. A detective is in pursuit of one important individual. The purchase of the revolver that Devine had when Detective Cox was murdered will be proved; also the purchase of knives found near the residence of one of the prisoners. Evidence will be given of the issuing of summonses in the handwriting of Joseph Mullet for meetings of the "centres." The appearance of three of the men arraigned exactly corresponds with the description of the three murders of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke. The Police intend making five more arrests. Mullet, the alleged leader of the assassination committee, is a hunchback. The Crown is confident of success in the prosecution of the prisoners. Curley is one of the "centres."

Tasmania.

Some statistics just issued by the Government of Tasmania are interesting, as showing the increase in the use of agricultural machinery in the colony during 1881. Last harvest the acreage of wheat reaped by machinery was 29,081, and by hand 22,671. Ten years ago only 2,389 acres were reaped by machinery, as against 60,051 reaped by hand. Lift and force pumps have increased to a very great extent., viz, from 15 in 1874 to 175 in 1881; and all other agricultural machines and appliances, with the single exception of clod-crushers. Thus chaff-cutters, which in 1862 were 67, last year were 494, the number worked by steam being 4 and 28 respectively; cultivators were 48 in 1872 and 168 in 1881. Of corn-crushers only one was reported as being in the colony in 1872, but there were 126 last year. The use of hay-elevators has fluctuated very considerably, but, on the whole, it has been in favour of the later years; while hay-rakes (horse) increased from 103 to 229. Horse-shoes, grubbers, and scarifiers were 631 in 1881, compared with 858 in 1872; subsoil ploughs 236 last year, against 28 in 1872—an increase of 743 per cent. Double-furrow poughs, of which there were none in 1872, and only 4 in 1873, increased to 450 in 1881, and in the latter year 11 treble-furrow ploughs were also returned. Reaping machines increased in the ten years from 66 to 140; reapers and mowers combined, from 35 to 357: strippers, from 2 to 9. The combined reaper and binder was introduced into the colony in 1879-80. The number then returned was 47, whereas in 1881-82 as many as 130 were found to be in use. Canadian manufacturers should make a note of these facts.

The Importance of Reading Before Signing

An amusing anecdote reaches us from a village in the Indre et Loire, where a quarrel has been raging between the Mayor and the local schoolmaster. The latter was recently summoned to appear before the Prefect of the department, to whom he complained of the Mayor's negligence.

In proof of this he showed an official report written by himself and containing the following passage: "We have no case of hydrophobia or madness to report, unless it be the Mayor and corporation, who are idiots and raving madmen." The Mayor signed and stamped the document without reading it, little dreaming that it would be used as evidence against himself with the Prefect.

A free baking school has been at work in St. John's the last week, and was largely patronized by the ladies.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, FEB. 1st 1883.

CARNIVAL.

The Carnival on Tuesday evening was the most successful ever held in Markd le, both in number of maskers, beauty of costumes and number of spectators. The prize winners are as follows: "Indian Chief," C. Richards; "Washerwoman," T. Benson; "Nun," Millie Lyons; "Carpenter," Rudd Mathews; "Winter," Maggie McNea; "Jockey," Tom Benson; "Little Girl," Minnie McNea: "Irishman," A. McFarland; "Dutchman," J. McDougall; "Highlander," Ab. Richardson; "Best lady a d gents costume," Mr. Albert Richardson and Miss Jennie Lyons; "Dead-beat," Bob Sproule; "Best skater," James Sproule; "Worst skater," J. Galbraith. The competition for most of the prizes was keen, this made the judging tedious. The most beautiful costume on the rink was that of Miss Minnie Cornwall, for which unfortunately their was no prize on the list. Messrs Copeland, Wilson and Smith furnished the music. Judges—Messrs A. McIntyre, Geo. Haskett and Dr. Armstrong.

Correspondence.

Notice.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—I think your remarks the other week on agricultural shows were oppertune. Now is the time for farmers to speak their minds on this important subject. You have noticed no doubt last fall that London, Brampton and Hamilton held their agricultural fairs on the same day. I think that is as it should be; and I also think that if our township shows were all held on the same day there would be ten head of sheep and pigs to the one now exhibited. There are several members of Glenelg agricultural show that have expended considerable money in buying what is called thoroughbred stock, and have done sc several years ago so now they could show splendid grades if they thought they had their equals to contend against. But these men do not bring their stock from home on those days. Why? Because there are a few men that feed, blanket, wash and comb a few of the best of their stock and make up their minds to make it pay. When they leave home they do not intend to return as long as there is a show within twenty miles of them, and I know as well as my brother farmers that it would not pay me to go to so much trouble and expense with our stock, for one show or two, experience ought to teach us. The first and second show held in Markdale there was good competition in all kinds of cattle, sheep and pigs. How is it now lots of empty pens two or three filled I must say with first class stock. When I ask any of my neighbours are you going to show this or that animal the answer is no it would be no use those breeders will be there and I could have no chance. If our directors must have those travellers let them have special prizes for them, and have other prizes for us, then we all can compete. Some will say we want this stock brought amongst us so we can buy from them and improve our stock. Very true, but those farmers that want to buy seldom, buy at township shows they generally buy at county shows because there is a greater variety to choose from and more honour attached to the animal that takes a county prize than a township one. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for giving me space for the above remarks, I remain A FARMER.

LETTER FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

DEAR SIR,—When we arrived here, over three years ago, there could not have been a more home-sick family who wished themselves back in Ontario than ourselves. But time, the healer of all heart sores, and having seen more of this wonderful country with its delightful climate and natural resorces we have been led to change our minds Although there is many privileges that we are deprived of there is no doubt but what we will have them, all in good time. The winters since our arrival here, commence about Christmas or the first of the new-year; spring about the first of March. There is a good deal of rain during the summer but it is generally fine for haying. Farm lands are very limited, and in a good many cases there is not enough of it together to form a settlement, but produces large crops. I have seen from two to four tons of timothy hay cut to the acre, and from sixty to eighty bushels of barley and oats threshed to the acre. In roots, well perhaps I had not better say anything about the quantity, but what would you think of turnips weighing 50 lbs., and other root crops in proportion. But, Sir, don't think there is no poor land. There is plenty of that here too. There is one blessing that we enjoy at any rate—there is no potato bugs here. Any one coming here, not afraid of work and willing to rough it a little, can do well; but they must make up their minds to bring their sweet hearts or wives with them as females are in great demand here.

SHELTON KNIGHT.

New Westminster, B. C.

EUPHRASIA COUNCIL.

The members elected of the municipal council of the township of Euphrasia for the year 1883.

Robert Myles, Esq., Reeve; Jas. Erskine, Esq., Deputy Reeve; D. R. Ellis, James Boyd, and James C. Paterson, Esquires—Councillors.

The said members elected having assembled at the hall of said township at 11 o'clock a. m. on the 15th day of January, made and subscribed their declarations of qualification and of office in due form, filed the same with the clerk, and took their seats at the council board.

Minutes of last session of council read and confirmed.

J. B. Winter on behalf of the council and W. H. Dodson, on motion of the Reeve were appointed auditors and a by-law passed accordingly.

The Reeve and Deputy Reeve were appointed to enquire into the validity of the Treasurer's securities, and report at next meeting of the council.

Joseph Boyd was appointed assessor at a salary of $80, and a By-law passed accordingly; James Falls was appointed janitor of the township hall at a salary of $10.

The Treasurer was ordered to remit to the following named gentlemen, the amounts hereinafter placed opposite their respective names as remuneration for their services as Deputy returning, and that of their poll clerks, and constables at the last municipal elections; viz, J. Struthers, Esq., $7.50; Geo. Wilson, jr., $7.10; Nathaniel Curry, $6.70; William H. Manary, $7.70; Jas. Yelland $7.00; Thomas Abercrombie, $7.00.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay to the trustees of School Sections as payment for the use of School house used at last municipal election as follows; viz, Union S. S. No. 4 $2 00; S. S. No. 14, $2.00; S. S. No. 15, $2.00; S. S. No. 9, $2.00, also to pay to John Hurlburt for the use of the Orange Hall at Kimberely for the same purpose, $2.00.

The Reeve's order was issued on the Treasurer in favour of Robert Dunlop for $20.00 being for special services connected with the last municipal election.

The Treasurer was instructed to remit to J. Farewell the sum of $13.00 for printing ballot papers for last election.

The Reeve's order was issued on the Treasurer in favour of George Crabtree for $10.00 being for coffin furnished for interment Isaac Garrett and also 50 cents for repairing door and windows of town hall.

The Treasurer was ordered to remit to Joseph Shaw of Thornbury, the sum of $4.30 being taxes paid in error.

The Reeve and Deputy Reeve were appointed to obtain information regarding a suit pending between John Kerr and this corporation, regarding a job on the road.

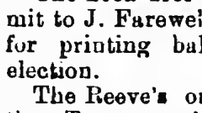
On motion being made and seconded the council adjourned until the first day of Fberuary next.

ROBERT DUNLOP, Clerk.

BIRTHS.

HOGG—At Flesherton Station, on the 24th January, the wife of Mr. Wm. Hogg, (Merchant,) of a son.

MARRIAGES.



IRVINE—HOLLINGSHEAD—At the residence of the bride's mother, Markdale, by Rev. J. Ward, on the 26th Jan., Mr. R. D. Irvine (teacher.) to Miss. Josephine Hollingshead.

DIED.

DAVIS—On the 26th December, Wesley, only son of John M. Davis, aged 2 yrs. 8 mon.

WRIGHT—In Euphrasia; on the 26th Jan'y, George C., only son of Mr. Samuel Wright, aged 16 years, 10 months, 26 days.

FOR SALE.

A BRICK DWELLING with garden. This is a very desirable residence, will be sold cheap for cash or on reasonable terms.

A. TURNER & Co.
Medical Hall

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

HAMILTON, Mo., June 14, 1881.

B. J. KENDALL & Co.—Gents:—This is to certify that I have used Kendall's Spavin Cure, and have found it to be all that it is recommended to be and in fact more too; I have removed by using the above: Callous Bone Spavins, Ring-bone, Splints, and can cheerfully testify and recommend it to be the best thing for any bony substance I have ever used, and have tried many as I have made that my study for years.

Respectfully yours,
P. V. CRIST.

FROM

Col. T. L. Foster.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 10, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—I had a very valuable Hambletonian colt that I prized very highly, he had a large bone spavin on one joint and a small one on the other which made him very lame; I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express. I determined at once to try it, and got our druggist here to send for it, they ordered three bottles; I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial, I used it according to direction and the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame and the lumps have disappeared. I used but one bottle and the colt's limbs are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles who are now using it.

Very respectfully,
L. T FOSTER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

WINGHAM, Ont., Jan. 17, 1882.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—This is to certify that I have used Kendall's Spavin Cure, bought from C. E William: druggist, Wingham, Ont., and do without hesitation pronounce it to be an invaluable remedy for the cure of Spavins, Ringbones, or Curbs. I used it on a bone spavin of several years growth which it completely removed, and I can safely say it will remove any Spavin, Curb or Ringbone if properly used. I have also recommended friends to use it, who have done so with perfect success. I gladly make this public, and will answer any questions or letters sent me.

Yours &c.
GEORGE BRYCE.

Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

Sold by all Druggists

LYMAN, SONS & CO., Montreal, P. Q. Wholesale Agents

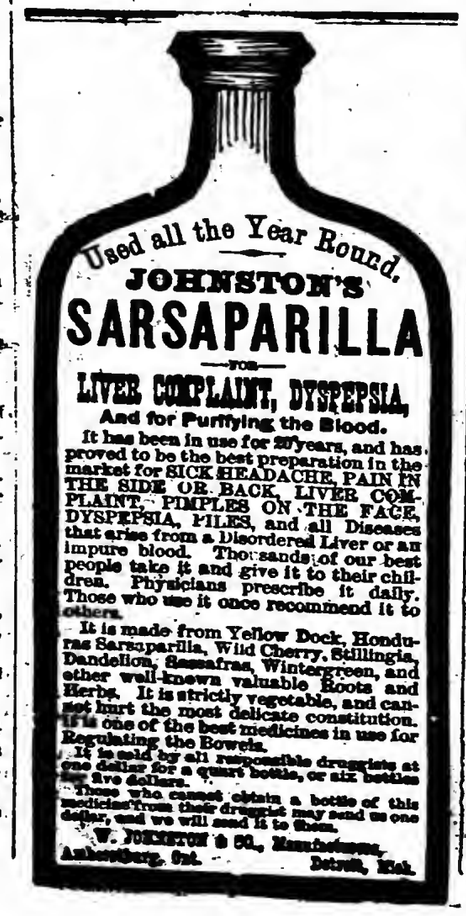
GEORGE NOBLE,

INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies: CITIZENS', of Montreal,



AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and

TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale, also Village Lots

Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate, Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

It has been in use for 20 years, and has proved to be the best preparation in the market for SICK HEADACHE, PAIN IN THE SIDE OR BACK, LIVER COMPLAINT, PIMPLES ON THE FACE, DYSPEPSIA, PILES, and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver or an impure blood. Thousands of our best people take it and give it to their children. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

It is made from Yellow Dock, Honduras Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Stillingia, Dandelion, Sassafras, Wintergreen, and other well-known valuable Roots and Herbs. It is strictly vegetable, and cannot hurt the most delicate constitution. It is one of the best medicines in use for Regulating the Bowels.

It is sold by all responsible druggists at one dollar for a quart bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

Those who cannot obtain a bottle of this medicine from their druggist may send us one dollar, and we will send it to them.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Manufacturers,
Amherstburg, Ont. Detroit, Mich.

Horse For Sale,

A GOOD GENERAL PURPOSE HORSE 7 years old warranted sound. For sale by the undersigned will be sold cheap for cash. Apply to

JAMES KELLY,
Opposite the Irish Lake, Artemesia.
125-129.

WANTED

—AT—

The Eclipse Mill.

100,000 ft. Cherry, 500,000 ft. Hemlock. 100,000 ft. Baswood, also elm and maple sawlogs, and 800 cords cedar bolts 4 feet 8 inches long for which the Highest price will be paid.

Sparling Brothers, Proprietors.
125 129

Flesherton Station

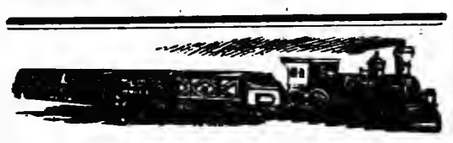
STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,

—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—



CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.
125-151.

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). After completing 13 buildings his season is still on the track and is still prepared to do all kinds of stone and brick work, plastering and tuck pointing. Those who contemplate building will find it to their advantage to give him a call.

Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Stetes, MARKDALE. 16-y

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

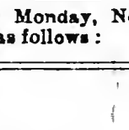
GOING NORTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
13 50	0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. — EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.80 to $0.92; Spring $0.82 to $0 92; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $0.00; Pork, 7.5C to 8.15; Flour, $4.25 to Grass Seed, $1.75.



FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.85 to $0.90; Spring, $0.88 to $0.90; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68c; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $9.00; Pork, $7.50 to $8.00

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.93 to $0.97; Spring, $0.94 to $0.98; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 41c to 43c Peas, 70c to 72c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.37; Potatoes, per bag, 75c to 85c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs 30c to 32c.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store, MARKDALE.

Special attention to Cutting.

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

ALL THE NEWS

THE Toronto Daily

THE ONLY ONE-CENT PER IN CA

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR 25 CENTS A MONTH ONE CENT

Less than Half any other Morning

YOU CAN MAKE canvassing for the World vasseers wanted every card for terms and

SAMPLE COPY

WORLD PRINTING No. 18 King st.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead

UNDER THE OLD FLOUR

Gristing and Chopping done day. Farmers from a distance their stuff home with them

All orders for Flour and Feed filled.

W. J. ROWE.

October 28th 1882.

W. G. RICHARDSON

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR AND ARCHITECT.—Residence on Main dale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883.

THE GREAT MICHIGAN

THE DETROIT WEEKLY

POST AND TRIBUNE

Only $1.00 per year.

Contains all the news of the parts of the world. As a newspaper superior on the continent. In character of news it furnishes giving valuable information the subscription price.

MANITOBA Now is it interesting to all Dominion want 10,000 subscribers this and as a premium to all we send a copy of KENDALL'S book is not a humbug or worthless is "worth its weight in gold" who owns a horse. It was first 50 cents, and contains nearly Recollect the book and paper for $1. Sample copy of Address

THE POST & TRIBUNE

124-4w.

Undertaking

Coffins, Caskets, Burial Robes, Gloves, Crepe

—AND—

All Furnishings for

May be had on Shortest Notice Hours from

GEO. GRAHAM

MARKDALE

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. All prices.

TO SELL OR RENT

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND acres, 100 cleared, good log on. Terms easy. Apply to Postmaster, near the premises, M. S. KELLOW.

November 14th, 1882.

FARM FOR SALE

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD. 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, el, good orchard bearing good barn. Situated 2 half miles worth. A bargain will be above property, for particulars Noble, Markdale, or the

Doll & Brown

As Mr. Doll is leaving Markdale to go into the Wholesale Jewellery Business in Toronto, and not wishing to leave Markdale altogether,) he has entered into partnership with Mr W. H. BROWN, late of Flesherton, who is a practical watchmaker and jeweiler of over 15 years experience, and comes with the best of recommendations from some of the leading watchmakers in the Dominion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the business in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will be done in a workmanlike manner.

All work will be guaranteed, and all goods sold will be found as represented, or money refunded at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers,

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

Local Items.

This is the 1st February.

The 14th is St. Valentines day.

The ice crop is now being housed.

Flour has gone up 25 cents per brl. this week.

The 28th is the last, the month gone and very little done.

Wheat is on the rise lately and a very large quantity coming to market.

Our railway has made good time lately considering the severe storm.

We are pleased to see Mr. Geo. Sewell out again after a severe attack of inflamation on the lungs.

Flesherton Station people are considering the advisability of having a new school section organized in that place.

Mr. Wm Best has rented his farm, lot 10, con. 5 Euphrasia, and has purchased 200 acre near Woodford, where he is removing.

The Flesherton Station grist mill is now kept busy, and is giving general satisfaction. It is driven by steam hence no lack of power for want of water.

The Thornbury Standard is advocating a spring show at the hands of the East Grey Agricultural Society, to be held at Roeklyn or Clarksburg. A good idea.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m

MAPLE WANTED.—A large quantity of clear maple in bolts or logs wanted for which a good price will be paid in cash. Apply to M. & W. Armstrong.

SCOOPED IN.—Denny Jennings, assistant hostler at the Markdale House, was sent to Owen Sound gaol on a charge of stealing clothing from the proprietor, Mr. A. Rutledge. "Pas-rate."

OUR LITTLE ONES.—This gem of childrens Magazines is on our table for February. The illustrations are the best of any number we have yet received, and the reading matter is just what is required for children. We cheerfully recommend it to every family. Address the Russell Pub. Co, 36 Bronfield St., Boston. $1.50 per year.

NARROW ESCAPE.—On Thursday last while Mr. John M. Davis and Thos. Hutchinson were falling timber on the farm of the former, when a limb fell from the tree they were chopping and struck Davis burying him in the snow. Had it not been for the great depth of snow the result would have been more serious, it is not we believe of a serious nature.

Hugging parties are becoming the rage among certain benovetent societies. The hugs are sold as follows: Girls under 15 years, 25 cents; From 16 to 20 years 50 cents; from 20 to 25 years, 75 cents: another man's wife $1; widows, according to looks, 10 cents to $2; grass widows, few offered, but in active demand; old maids, 3 cents, or two for a nickle. What next?

JUVENILE THIEVES.—Last Friday evening a gentleman, after paying for some goods he had purchased in McFarland's store, left his purse on the counter. On looking for it shortly afterwards it was missing. Three young boys who were in the store at the time were suspected. Search was at once made for them, and when caught the money was found upon them. On account of their youth they were allowed to go.

The local parliament is to be prorogued to day and the elections is expected to come off in about five weeks.

Money to loan on real estate, low rates and terms to suit borrowers, apply to M. Richardson, Flesherton.

VALENTINES.—A splendid assortment, comic and sentimental, all new styles, at the Medical Hall,

A. TURNER & Co.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen Society is becoming very popular, embracing leading men in the various towns and cities were organized. Our Markdale lodge is making rapid progress, many new names being added recently.

Richardson's sale of Boots & Shoes commences to day. It is a clearing sale of regular stock, and good boots may be had at very low prices.

A credit auction sale will be held on lot 11, con. 5 Osprey, near Max well, on Monday, the 12th of February, when a large stock together with implements, household furniture, &c., will be sold without reserve. I. H. Perigoe, Auctioneer.

A communication of a very interesting nature, is left over for next week.

ORANGE SOIREE.— As announced in your colum is last week, a soiree was held in the Orange Hall at Kells corners on Friday evening last and was in every respect a success. The refreshments were served in the house of Mr. T Kells, and were not the least enjoyable part of the entertainment. We seldom see as rich and plenteous a repast on such occasions, after all had fully satisfied the cravings of appetite, they repaired to the hall, which is a few rods from the house. Mr. Kells was voted to the chair. Your correspondent arrived too late to hear the speeches of Rev. Tindale and Mc. Diarmid but understand they were appropriate and to the point. A dialogue by the Misses Stinson was well rendered. The choir discoursed choice selections of music; a dialogue by the Misses Veysey and J. Shears entitled "Jedithans trowserloons" brought down the house. Rev. A. Wilson gave an interesting and instructive address which was listened to with deep interest. Good order prevailed throughout, proceeds $34. Our sleigh with about a dozen occupants were capsized a few times on our way from Markdale and of course added very much to the enjoyment of all concerned.

Men's long boots $1.25, Youths boots $1.00, Womens Stout Cathee boots 75 cents, Misses and childrens down to 25 cents at M. Richardson's.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE—Mr. J. Broderick has purchased property on Main Street lately owned by Mr. W. L. Marshall for $2400. He intends to fit it up for an hotel. He has also bought a quarter of an acre at the rear from A. G. Hunter to erect sheds on for $200.—Herald.

Farm for Sale.

That well-know farm, known by the name of "Mount Royal Farm," lots 117 and 118, containing 100 acres, on the 2nd concession north-east of the Toronto and Sydenham gravel road, in the township of Artemesia, county of Grey, 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale on the T. G. & B. railway; 5½ miles from the flourishing village of Flesherton, on the same line of railway. Good roads all around, and plenty of grist and saw mills in the immediate vicinity. Soil—clay loam; very little stone on the place, and what stones there was are nearly all taken ont and utilized in fences. Nearly all the fences are first class cedar, stone underneath to keep them off the ground This is the best laid out farm in the county. There is a lane two rods wide right in the centre leading from the road to the bush. There is a row of ten acre fields on each side of the lane; good new gates and bars on all the fields; 80 acres under cultivation; 20 acres good hardwood bush. It is all good dry workable land, just rolling enough for good drainage; 60 acres is fit for all sorts of machinery, and 20 acres is stumpy land. Ten acres of fall wheat in the ground, well summer fallowed, 15 acres seeded last spring with clover and timothy for meadow, ten acres of pasture, ten acres of good rich sod to break up for summer fallow this season the rest of the clearing is well plowed for spring crop. This farm is in the best state of cultivation and guaranteed to be free from all wild stuff such as wild oats, wild mustard, cockle, chess or wild grass, and very few thistles. This is a good place for all kinds of grain and grass. Last season (1882) I had 600 bushels of wheat off 20 acres—10 acres of fall and 10 of spring wheat. Other grain and roots in proportion. All good frame buildings on the premises; good frame house well finished off, good stone cellar all underneath barn, and cattle stable 48x72 feet all on stone foundation, shed 20x48 feet, the cattle stable is the neatest in the county, good driving house 34x39 feet, also a good well on the place. This place took the bronze medal for being the best managed farm in East Grey in 1882. This is a very rare chance for any live, tasty and particular man that wants a neat farm and good home. Possession can be given this spring. Satisfactory reasons can be given for selling. Haven't got the Manitoba craze and not going there to be frozen to death. For further particulars apply to John Ford, occupant and proprietor, on the premises, or by letter with 3 cent postage stamp enclosed.

JOHN FORD,
"Mount Royal Farm"
Markdale P. O., Ont.

Markdale, Jan. 29th, 1883. 121 3t

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for prepairing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 75-127

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Nassau stree New York. 20

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 14, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Grierville P. O. 117-tf.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

J. W. FORD.

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILLS

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Bride Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-6m

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost. &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson.

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

Special Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES PEARS. PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences. Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON.

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the receipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN-FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 75-127

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 75-127 42 Cedar St., New York.

Gold.

Great chance to make money. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. Any one can do the work properly from the first start. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money rapidly. You can devote your whole time in the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Addres. STINSON & Co., Portland Maine. 71-126

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto, Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23. 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

Harness Establishment!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

Auction Sale

OF VALUABLE.

Farm Property

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage made by Richard Taylor, default having been made in payment thereof, will be sold by public auction at Tuck's Hotel, Village of Maxwell, on

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY THE 1ST, 1883

at 1 o'clock p. m., the following property:

Lots Nos. 18 and 19 in the 7th Concession of Osprey, County of Grey. About 100 acres cleared and in a fair state of cultivation, balance of 100 acres timbered with hardwood. The above property is well situated as to roads and markets, being on gravel road, and 1 and one-half miles from Maxwell. The above property is well watered; good buildings; young orchard, and in a very desirable locality.

TERMS.—The purchaser shall pay a deposit of $200 at the time of sale, the balance of one-third of the purchase money in two weeks thereafter; the remaining two-thirds in cash or secured by a mortgage payable in from one to five years at the option of the purchaser

For further particulars, apply to

CREERAR & MUIR,
Vendor's Solicitors, Hamilton.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

CANADIAN NEWS.

QUEBEC.

A Bolton hunter has caught forty foxes this season,

An East Bolton man has sold 900 pounds of hops at $1 per lb.

ONTARIO.

The number of tramps passing the country is quite large. The Mayor of Whitby is constantly besieged for passes.

On the road between Ingersoll and Woodstock there were to be seen recently fields of corn remaining unhusked.

Frank Lockerty, son of a Belleville tobacconist, has been arrested on a charge of setting fire to several buildings in that city.

Since the introduction of the Shedden carters at Kingston, the local carters have not been earning the cost of their horse feed.

The measles are raging in the neighborhood of Dunsford. Very few families, if any, escaped them. No cases as yet, however, have proved fatal.

Wiarton has a population of over 1,250, and no fire protection. Would not the extra premium paid for insurance maintain a fire engine?

Mr. George Smith, of McKillop, shot an enormous wild cat the other day in the big swamp on the 13th concession. The animal had killed a deer and had half of it eaten.

The Cochrane Manufacturing Company in St. Thomas have lately received orders from Winnipeg for 200 hay rakes, 200 mowers, 100 land rollers, and 200 Minneapolis cord binders.

John A. Howie, of the township of Dawn, has been convicted of stealing a mare from Charles Smith, of the same township, before Judge Robinson, of Sarnia, and sentenced to one month in gaol.

The parades of the Salvation Army at Toronto are accompanied by a band, a lady having presented the army with eight fine brass instruments. It is probable that a band will be organized in Kingston.

Some person or persons, who disgrace civilization, entered the barn yard of Mr. McCulloch, a mile and a half from Ourford village, and cut and otherwise mutilated the tails of three cows. Mr. McCulloch offers $25 reward to any person who will give such information as will lead to the discovery of the party or parties.

Mr. P. Irving of Drumbo, has shipped to Buffalo this season, so far, over 23,000 bushels of turnips, and will ship at least many more. At ten cents per bushel turnips will pay the grower better than wheat or barley David Guthrie, of Ayr, sold about 5,000 bushels which brought him $400.

Elma can boast of one individual who can justly lay claim to giant proportions. This young man—he is only twenty years of age—stands seven feet one inch high and weighs 227 pounds. At present he is employed with a threshing machine, and we are not going to dispute his right to be considered an excellent thrasher.

William Fuller, of London, has machinery on the ground near the tannery for manufacturing "print" rollers, for use in the print and cotton factories of England. The rollers are made from the best hard maple, an abundance of which grows in this vicinity. Mr. Fuller informs us that he expects to keep his machinery running steady all winter.

There is a clause in the school law, preventing a school house being erected near an orchard. In a certain section in East Zorra orchards are being set out so thickly that it will soon be impossible to find a spot that will not have one within a few yards of it. This is certainly an original and comical method of keeping the school-house away from one's premises.

A cry of righteous indignation is heard from Mattawa and way stations against the inhuman cruelty practised by the C. P. R. in shipping horses from Ottawa and other points to the woods. The poor animals are put into open cars, which admit of currents of air passing through the car continually, and when put in motion the cold is intense. Now these horses remain on board from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, without either food or water, and when taken off they are so nearly exhausted that it is with difficulty that they can walk to the stables. We are told, indeed, that some were so nearly perished that they could not eat for hours after being taken off, although every effort was made to restore them by rubbing with hot liquors, &c. Now, either the association for the prevention of cruelty to animals are ignorant of these facts, or else they are grossly negligent in doing their duty. We hope some action will be taken to prevent further perpetration of such barbarism. Pembroke Standard.

Some Refinements of Cruelty.

The public learns from the Russian Official Messenger that the Czar has commuted to hard labor for life a sentence of death pronounced on revolutionists; but nothing transpires either of the trial, or of the crimes imputed to the condemned. Nay, even the last consolation of those condemned to death, the consolation of dying publicly, was taken away. Hanging will now be done secretly within the walls of the fortress, in the presence of none from the world without. The reason is, that when Ryssakoff was brought out to the gallows he showed the crowd his mutilated hands, and shouted, louder than the drums, that he had been tortured after trial. His words were heard by a group of "Liberals," who, repudiating any sympathy with the Terrorists, yet held it their duty to publish the facts of the case in a clandestine proclamation, and to call attention to this flagrant offence against the laws of humanity. Now nothing will be known of what happens in the casements of the fortress of Paul and Peter after the trial and before the execution. At least, the Government think so, after having sent to hard labor the son of a jailor and a dozen soldiers accused of letter-carrying between prisoners and their friends in the town. But we know—and I have not the slightest hesitation in asserting the fact—that at least two revolutionists, Adrian Mikhailoff and Ryssakoff, were submitted to torture by electricity.—Prince Krapotkine, in the Nineteenth Century.

A Ceremonial of the Zuni Sun Festival.

Mr. Cushing's second paperon "My Adventures in Zuni," is a strong illustrated feature of the February Century, and contains a minute account of the Zuni Sun festival, one scene of which is described as follows:

Toward midnight my "brother" explained to me that, in each new room and sacred house of Zuni, the twelve "medicine" orders of the tribe were to meet, and that, as he was a priest of one of them, I could go with him, if I would sit very quiet in one corner, and not move, sleep, nor speak during the entire night.

As we entered the closely crowded, spacious room into which the first party of dancers had retired, a space was being cleared lengthwise through the centre, from the altar down toward the opposite end. With many a hasty admonition, the Governor placed me in a corner so near the hearth that, for a long time, controlled by his directions, I was nearly suffocated by the heat. Along the northern side of the room were the dancers, their masks now laid aside. Conspicuous among them were the two priests, who were engaged in a long, rhythmical prayer, chant, or ritual, over eight or ten nearly prostrate Indians who squatted on the floor at their feet. As soon as this prayer was ended, great steaming bowls of meat, trays of paper-bread, and baskets of melons were placed in rows along the cleared space. A loud prayer was uttered over them by an old pries , who held in his hands a bow, some arrows, and a war-club, and who wore over one shoulder a strange badge of buckskin ornamented with sea-shells and flint arrow-heads. He was followed by the Priest of the Sun, from the other end of the room. The little fire-god then passed along the array of vituals, waving his torch over them, with which the feast was pronounced ready.

Many of the dishes were placed before the dancers and priests and a group of singers whose nearly nude bodies were grotesquely painted with streaks and daubs of white. They were gathered, rattles in hand, around an immense earthen kettle-drum at the left side of the altar, opposite the now crouching monster. As soon as the feast was concluded, many of the women bore away on their heads, in huge bowls, such of the food as remained.

The singers then drawing closely around the drum, facing one another, struck up a loud chant, which, accompanied by the drumming and the rattles, filled the whole apartment with a reverberating din, to me almost unendurable. Two by two the dancers would rise, step rapidly and high from one foot to the other, until, covered with perspiration and almost exhausted, they were relieved by others. At the close of each verse in the endless chant, the great figure by the altar would start up from its half-sitting posture, until its head nearly touched the ceiling, and, with a startling series of reports, would clap its long beak and roll its protruding eyes in time with the music.

When the little fire-god took his place in the centre of the room, no one relieved him for more than an hour and a half, and I feared momentarily that he would drop from sheer exhaustion. But I learned later that this was a trial ceremonial, and that it was one of the series of preparations which he had to pass through before becoming a priest, to which rank his birth rendered him eligible.

Just as the morning star was rising, the music ceased, the congregation became silent, and the chief dancer was led to the centre of the room, where he was elaborately costumed. Then the Priest of the Sun took him up the ladder to the roof, where, facing the east, he pronounced in measured, solemn tones a long prayer to the waning Sun of the Old Year. Descending, he pronounced before the multitude (signalizing the end of each sentence with a clang of his rattles) a metrical ritual of even greater length. Then the spectators gathered around the altar, and hastily said their prayers, the sound of which reminded me of a recitation in concert in a large school-room. The sun rose, and they dispersed to their various homes.

Resurrection of a Prehistoric Race.

About ten miles from Cincinnnati, along the Little Miami River, is a locality which has long been known to the country people as the "Pottery-Field." The ground was strewed with fragments of pottery, bones, arrow-points and other remains of like character, and the place was generally considered to be the site of an ancient workshop. In 1878, Dr. Chas. Mitz and other gentlemen interested in archæology commenced a systematic exploration of the country thereabouts, and during the four years that the excavations had been carried on, between 650 and 700 skeletons have been brought to light. Many of them are in an advanced state of decay and tumble to pieces on the slightest touch, while others, again, are in a very good state of preservation. It can, therefore, hardly be inferred that, because some of the skeletons are much decayed, they are necessarily very old; for, though we have well preserved remains of bones of Babylon, Nineveh and Egypt, which are certainly 2,500 or 3,000 years old, still the cases are exceptional in which they are found in good condition after the lapse of many years. Different kinds of soil and differences in climate have much to do with the matter; for, in a dry and equable climate, bones may resist for a long time the influences which would cause their decay, while, in a moist climate, and with sudden and extreme changes of temperature, such as we have here, any bone, unless buried in peat, or subject constantly to heavy pressure, so as to become partially fossilized, is liable to so on decay.—Joseph F. James.

Thrashing the Mashers.

A new kind of lynching is being practised in St. Louis. It seems that snobs in that city when they cannot induce young women to flirt with them in the streets, do not take the repulse as final in all cases, but sometimes accost the objects of their admiration. The chief of the Fire Department, who is old but muscular, witnessed one of these deliberate insults, and thrashed the offender on the spot. This feat was rewarded by a formal presentation of a silver mounted whip. Naturally other men of pugilistic ability sought the same way to glory. Several "mashers" have since then been brutelly punished, in one instance by a mob.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

Transatlantic.

Spanish troops have occupied the coast of the Island of Taritavi, off the coast of Barneo.

An order has been made in London for the voluntary winding up of the Honduras Interoceanic Railway Company.

The German ship "Cleopatra," from New York, in London, lost three men on the passage. She is leaky.

The King of Spain has received from Prince Louis Ferdinand of Bavaria a formal demand for the hand of the Infanta Marie della Pase.

Noleriani, who threw a stone at the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to the Vatican, has been sentenced to imprisonment for three years.

Requiem services for Prince Charles were held in the palace, in Berlin, on Tuesday evening. The Emperor and Empress, the royal family, and several foreign princes were present. The funeral oration was delivered at the Cathedral.

All the steamers sent in search for the "Cimbria's" boats have returned, and report no trace of the survivors. Twenty-five thousand pounds have been demanded as surety for the steamer "Sultan."

A Hamburg despatch says no more persons have been landed from the "Cimbria." Sailing vessels passing westward may have picked up some. Four of the steamers have not yet returned.

There is considerable excitement in Matlow in connection with the approaching election for member of Parliament. Three hundred policemen and a detachment of artillery have arrived to keep order.

The St. Petersburg newspapers state the bodies of two members of the Chipps party have been found in Chateau Bay. Probably the report has the same origin as the statement of the finding of two corpses of members of the party published in New York recently and discredited.

The Times says there can be little doubt if statesmen continue to be wanting the French Republic will go headlong to ruin. That the French people are aware of this is an explanation of the panics caused by the difficulties of a Minister so little resembling indispensable genius as M. Duclerc.

In the Hungarian Lower House recently, Herr Jokay energetically advocated the placing of Jews on complete equality with the adherents of other creeds. His remarks were cheered. Herr Tisze, President of the Council, said the prejudice against the Jewish race would expire through social influence only. If society showed itself unequal to the task, then exceptional legislation would become necessary.

Carey, Town Councillor, now in Kilmainham, was charged before the Governor of the gaol recently with not keeping his cell clean. He made a rush at the Governor and struck him with his fists. The wardens with difficulty restrained him. Carey has been sentenced to three days' solitary confinement or his offence.

THE PANIC IN FRANCE.

The police searched the office of the Petite Caporal for the manuscript of an article published in that paper, urging the Imperialists to be active and pressing in proclaiming Prince Victor Emperor.

The result of the elections in the Bureau of the French Chamber of Deputies for members of the Committees on the bills dealing with the pretenders to the throne is four in favor of the Government bills with certain restrictions, six in favor of M. Flouquet's and one in favor of M. Ballue's. Eighty votes were given for members favoring the Government bills and a hundred and twenty for those favoring M. Flouquet's bills. The ministers have decided at a recent sitting of the committee elected on Tuesday they will explain their policy regarding pretenders.

A Paris despatch says it is hardly possible to overate the dangerous character the Ministerial critics has assumed. There were three Cabinet councils the other day. When the news came that the special committee showed a majority against the Government, the Minister of War and the Minister of Marine again resigned, President Grevy urged them not to resign. He said: "You are a soldier, and you are a sailor; I am quite sure yon would never desert your posts under fire, and if you retire now and leave me without a cabinet that would be desertion."

Another Paris despatch says: It is certain that a Ministerial crisis is imminent. The differences in the Cabinet arises from the discussion of the clause in the Government bill allowing the Government to place the Orleans Princes on the retired list. It is understood that M. Billot, Minister of War, refuses his adhesion, while the other members favor M. Ballue's more stringent amendment, decreeing the immediate cashiering of the Princess. The latter is a stumbling block over which the Ministry promises to break up.

The Standard's Paris despatch says the Duclerc Cabinet is virtually defunct. The political panic is unabated, and the fund holders are throwing their stocks on the market. The want of a guiding star is universally felt. The possibility of a military pronunciamento is freely talked of. Throughout the burgeois class there is a reaction against the regime of doctors and journalists and a yearning for a saving sword. Gambetta's death has thrown the whole working machinery out of gear.

The ex-Empress Eugenie announces that she ignores the Republic and comes to display her sympathy with Prince Jerome in his incarceration. Her adherents claim that her presence means a demonstration in behalf of the name and family of Napoleon. She has not appeared in public, but is known to be surrounded by active and pronounced Bonapartists. Some regard her visit as inopportune. In many quarters fear is felt for the safety of the Republic. Measures have been taken is Paris to repress any demonstration. There has been no popular approval of Eugenie's visit. It is said she was cognizant of Jerome's manifesto. She is staying at the Hotel du Rhin in the apartments occupied by Napoleon before his election as President. To an interviewer she said: "I have come to France, using my right to testify to Napoleon as a prisoner, my sympathy and forgetfulness of all past discords. I also come to comfort the Princess Mathilde. What I am doing is only a family affair. I will make no political manifestations in the presence of a Government of which I know nothing. Many leading Bonapartists are flocking to the hotel. It is reported that Eugenie and the Princess Mathilde have received hints that they would do well to betake themselves out of the country.

AMERICAN.

Dr. Edward H. Knight, of Bellefontaine, O., author of the American Mechanical Dictionary and other literary works, died on Monday night.

The charge of murder against Frank James in Kansas City was withdrawn on Tuesday. In the robbery case bail was fixed at $35,000.

The Texas Legislature has re-elected Mr. Coke as United States Senator. Mr. Plumb was elected Senator from Kansas.

AMERICAN FABLES.

A Fox who was being Pursued by the Hounds came upon a Hare sitting in the bushes and called out:

"If anybody inquires for me please say that you haven't seen me for a month Past."

"Oh, I couldn't do that," replied the Hare—"that would be Lying."

"Very well, then, suppose you take run across to yonder fence and back an tell me if there is any snow on the other side?"

"With pleasure," answered the Hare, and away she sailed.

The Hounds got sight of her as she sped along, and directly the whole pack were hard at her heels.

"That comes of being too good," chuckled the Fox as he saw her finally overtaken. "The skin of a Hare who died for Truth isn't half as valuable as the pelt of a Fox who lives to Lie."

SO KIND!

A Bear which had been caught in a Trap was moaning and sighing and wondering if every cloud had a Silver Lining, when along came a Cow and asked what particular ward caucus that was and who had been elected chairman.

"I'm caught in a Trap," moaned the Bear.

"Can't you get away?"

"No, indeed."

"Have you been here long?"

"Yes; for five or six hours."

"And you must suffer dreadfully?"

"I certainly do."

"Well, as there is no chance to escape, and you must continue to suffer until released, I will at once go and inform my master and let him come at once and knock you on the head."

THE OLD LION'S ESCAPE.

A Wolf who had grown old and gray and could no longer move about like a Farmer's Boy in front of a Bumble-bee, saw with Regret and Sorrow that his Son looked upon him as a Burden and wished him Bounced from the Cabinet. He was one day wiping his Tearful Eyes on a Sheepskin when the Son entered the Cave and remarked:

"Dear Father, how would you like to take a walk with me this fine day?"

"Do you really want me to?"

"Of course I do. Your health is very dear to me, and I have been Pained for some days to see how pale and careworn you looked."

The Old Man felt as tickled as a hired man with the Boss gone and both oxen too lame to Work, and the pair set out with smiles galloping across their faces. When they had penetrated the Forest a long distance a Lion suddenly appeared, and the Son called out:

"King of Beasts, I have brought you a Dinner! Eat him and tally one for me!"

"Stay!" roared the Lion. "This chap seems old and tough, and I am not the sort to eat poor meat when better can be had. You are the dinner I want to get hold of!"

"Well, well!" mused the Old Wolf as he trotted homewards alone, "if it is sad to be old and tough, it is likewise dangerous to be young and tender, and after all I will make the best of my lot. William Henry didn't get more than a rod ahead of me on that deal—not if I can see straight!"

Pius the Ninth's Yacht.

About twenty-four years ago Pope Pius the IX., after his return to Rome from Gaeta, determined to have his own steam yacht, to be kept in readiness should he find it necessary to again quit the Vatican. Accordingly a Commission of officers was sent over to London to obtain the assistance of the British Admiralty; and under their guidance a handsome, strong steam yacht, the Immacolata Concezione, about 600 tons, was built by Messrs. Mare & Co. The vessel was equipped as a corvette of war, with eight large rifled brass guns, with a full equipment of small arms. No expense was spared in fitting out the vessel in the best style at a total cost of about £50,000. In due time the corvette arrived at Civita Vecchia, where she was received by the Pope and duly blessed and anointed. Afterward she remained in the harbor there in daily readiness for his Holiness for about twenty years, with a full staff of officers and men. After the fall of the temporal power the corvette was removed to the Mediterranean, and recently to the Thames, where she was, a few days since, with all her fittings, sold by public auction in the Admiralty Court.

Advantages of a Thick Skull.

In a Dayton negro dive Clark McClung incurred the displeasure of a negro named Martin McCowen, and McCowen shot at him from behind. The first shot missed its mark, but the second struck McClung squarely in the back of the head. Notwithstanding the fact that the ball was fired from a 44-calibre revolver and that the two men were only about five feet from each other, McClung's skull was not penetrated, and the flattened, battered bullet was subsequently found on the floor near where the shooting occurred. The negro, who is almost a giant in size, fell to the floor, only to spring to his feet in an instant again, and he gave his assailant a whipping.

The Creole Revolution in L

It was the fate of the Creole[s] to be slack-handed latory. Month after month fo[r] October uprising without one of [the] dents that would have succeeded i[n a] tory of an earnest people. In Marc[h] Foucault covertly deserted his [post] and denounced them, by letter, [to] French cabinet. In April the Sp[an]ate sailed from New Orleans. Th[e] pid men (Loyola, Gayarre, and [R]the governmental staff which Ulloa in the province, still remained, [un]Not a fort was taken, though it [was] bable not one could have withstood Not a spade was struck into the [soil] or an obstruction planted, at any point.

At length the project of forcing lic was revived and was given d[ue] and advocacy. But priceless time thrown away, the opportune mo[ment] passed, an overwhelming Spanish fleet was approaching, and the spi[rit] people was paralyzed. The revol[t] the injustice and oppression of powers at once, by the first Fr[ench] lony that entertained the idea of ing her independence," was virtu[ally] end.

It was the misfortunes of the C[reole] be wanting in habits of mature thoug[ht] self-control. They had not made [the] of reciprocal justice and natural which becomes men who would [be] ny. They lacked the steady purpose daily toil. With these qualities, [the] rection of 1768 might have been [the] tion for the overthrow of French misrule and the establishment and tenance of the right of self-governm[ent].

The Creoles are valorous but [unre]They had the spirit of freedom, but profound principles of right which comes the duty of revolutionists and struggle for. They arose against a confusion of real and fan[ci]ances, sought to be ungoverned rat[her] self-governed, and, following [dis]leaders, became a warning in the[ir] sided short-sightedness, and [an] only in their audacicus courage.

They had now only to pay the [pe]and it was by an entire inversion [of] first intentions that they at length in the struggle which brought to birth that American nation of w[hich] finally became part.—G. W. February Century.

HINTS TO FARMERS.

Chemistry of the Farm and G[arden]

Dr. R. D. Halstead gives some facts in agricultural chemistry in can Agriculturist for February, [from] we clip the following:

About half the weight of the [sub]stance of ordinary plants consists This element, when in a free state, lid. It is familiar to us as [in] thracite coal, black-lead, lamp-[black] diamond. The presence of carbon is made known by a process of burning, as in the preparation of Carbon, in its pure and uncombined is very indestructible, excepting posed to a high heat; then it with oxygen, and forms carbonic This is the familiar gas of soda-[water] ains. It is produced by decay tion, given off the breath of [man] is the deadly choke damp of [mines] Carbonic acid gas forms, on [an] about four-hundredths of one (.04 °) of the atmosphere. The [ne]cessary for the production of growth of vegetation is derived carbonic acid gas of the atmosphere supply of this gas to the air [is] kept up by the decay and burning In this way the same particles of be taken up by a vegetable, and [af]decayed, pass into the structure of plant, and so on through an endless ber of ages. The carbonic gas [en]leaves through multitudes of small called stomata, or breathing pores microscope discloses more than a thousand of these pores upon square inch of leaf surface. Only portion of the leaves, and under [the] ence of sunlight, have the power of posing the carbonic acid gas, [and] carbon to produce organic [com]become a part of the plant, while gen set free passes again into the phere. There are some plants that chlorophyll or leaf green, and [are] able to decompose carbonic acid. called parasites, and absorb the need in the forms of organic [matter] that have been produced in the [soil] of true working plants.

Street Car Statistics.

Some interesting statistics of business were brought out at a held in Boston last week to form association of street car officers. now doing business in this country ada 515 street railways, employing 35,000 men. They run 18,000 more than 100,000 horses are [in] Calculating that the average life in street railway service is four makes the consumption of horses year. To feed this vast number requires annually 150,000 tons [of] 11,000,000 bushels of grain. panies own and operate over 3,0[00] track. The whole number of carried annually is over 1,212,400 amount of capital invested exceeds 000,000.

Malaria.

The general statement that most abundantly generated in fresh or salt water, and in low, [flat] is not invalidated by the fact that also prevail in mountainous regions places where the soil is superficially loose surface soil, overlying an stratum of clay or rock, permits penetrate to this stratum, where which accumulates after a rain retained in depressions, and we all the conditions necessary for tion of the vegetable matter which present in the soil, and for the [ex]malaria.—George M. Sternberg.

JOURNALISM ABROAD.

Contrast between the French and British Press.

...e of the curious differences between ...sh and French journalism is that the ...h press gives to sport and stocks about ...me space that the Gallic journals ac... to art and literature. A week or two ...don makes an American who has been ... in Paris wonder why the English do ...e as much interest in their great ...s daily doings as in the movements on ...-course. The other day, when James ...ce popular novelist, died, the Stand... ...ve him two lines, but bestowed a ...n and a half of solid print on the ...ities attending the awarding of some ... after a horse-race. Mr. Anthony ...e received a half column in most of ...ing journals the other day, but he ...e before he could achieve this dis... A blackguard who striks some... ...in the eye and then kicks the policeman ...ers him has his exploits chronicled ...e by narrative. His remarks before ...ed judge," as the English report... ...arily call the magistrate, are set ... with Boswellian fidelity, and the ...arance of the person is described as ...ely as if he had done a good rather ... bad deed. But of the charming, ... the whole, quite permissible person... ...about contemporary novelists, editors, ...ers, etchers, engravers, publishers, ...ians, preachers, and poets which one ...n such profusion in the Paris an press, ...s little, or nothing, in the London, ...ers. The British ce ebrity pretends that ...ld be horrified at the free and easy ...sion of his mental attributes and his ...al appearance which is considered ...le in France and America. But I ...ere to say that there is a very large ...n of the reading public in the British ... which would be delighted to know ...e about the human and less of the equine ...ities of their country.

...When a new comedy is brought out in ...on, the papers indulge in one article of ...moderate length about the piece and ...uthor, and then they drop both, as if ...editors had said in concert, "Thank ...en! that's over: now we can return to ...e and cricket: or, we can dish up a ...ified stew of Irish and Afghan politics—...the thing for these gloomy winter morn...." For a good old-fashioned, ghastly ...ter, the editors are ready to give up ...eal columns, and to have "one account," ...ther account," "account from a relative ...e deceased," etc. It does not seem to ...r to the editorial mind that by bringing ...e the public all the picturesque and ...ssing members of the liberal guilds, ...ancy and grace are added to journalism, ...eople are taught to think about some... ...besides the most grim an unpleasant ...ts of life. But no! The World, Truth, ...other weekly papers of that ilk, which ...e started for the express purpose of ...lying the deficiency already remarked ...e daily press, are looked askance at by the ...ed society. Perhaps this is because ...e pioneers in this kind of journalism, ...erefore unused in England, have not yet ...ed exactly where to "draw the line." ...France it is understood, and the law ...es up the understanding—that to enter ...details of the private life of a celebrat... ...man or woman is forbidden, unless the ...son becomes outrageously conspicuous. ...everything about a public career is con...ered fit subject for public gossip. The ...t is that—given two persons of equal ...t—both meriting distinction—one an ...glishman in England—the other a French... ...n France—and the Frenchman at 40 ...have a national reputation, and will be ...familiar and celebrated figure wherever he ...es, while the Englishman will be known ...y to his readers, and to the members of ...e social circles in which he moves. When ...wife was alive, especially in the five or six ...ars preceding his death, the daily French ...ess was never tired of printing columns ...bout him—his methods of work—his nurc... ...ishing industry—his speculative philoso...y—his combat with the church, etc. ...How often does one see an article in the ...rench daily press about Mr. Herbert Spen...er, describing the man so that the nation ...e look down upon him—sympathise with ...m in his toil—watch the progress of his ...ideas, and learn to admire and love him? ...Not very frequently; now and then the ...Englishman is mentioned in an editorial, but ...it is only incidentally, and as if the editor ...owed an apology for bringing him out ...of obscurity. If he were a horse—or a ...prize man of celebrity—he would fare ...better.

...When one reflects how mighty the intel...ectual movement in London is, with its ...hundreds of publishing houses, its dozens of ...theatres, its operas, its salons crowded ...with witty and brilliant folk from all the ...parts of the earth, its academies and muse...ums and studios, one can not help consider... ...it phenomenal that so little reflection of ...this higher life is seen in the daily press. ...It would seem as if the newspaper publish... ...had voluntarily closed the most attract... ...es of all the fields against their readers. I ...will venture to say that a foreigner who ...reads Labouchere's Truth in weekly instal... ...ments for one year will get a clearer and more ...comprehensive idea of life in London and ...the British Islands than he will by perusing ...the daily issues of The Times during the ...same period. But Labouchere, in his clever ...weekly, perpetually offends upper-class ...British prejudice against publicity.—Boston Journal.

English Franchise Statistics.

As we are likely to have before long an ...xtension of household franchise to the ...counties, a few statistics from the census of ...1881 may prove interesting. The boroughs ...of England and Wales contain 2,100,000 ...houses and give a total of 1,600,000 voters. ...The counties, excluding boroughs, contain ...1,700,000 houses and give a total of 740,000 ...voters, exclusive of 87,000 voters who have ...county qualifications within boroughs. An ...assimilating the county with the borough ...franchise would add 1,260,000 to the county ...votes. The numbers would consequently ...be: County voters 2,000,000; borough ...voters, 1,600,000. But if there were no re...distribution of seats the 2,000,000 county ...voters would return 187 members and the ...1,600,000 borough voters would return 297 ...members.

A fashion writer says the "leg-of-mut...on sleeves has not proved successful." An ...opinion got started that they looked sheep.

Manitoba and the North-west

Pithy Paragraphs and Newsy Notes, Carefully Collated for our Readers' Perusal.

Gold has been discovered at Minnedosa.

A vigorous effort is to be made to have the next Provincial Exhibition held in Winnipeg.

Messrs. Balfour & Fraser, of West Lynne will start their saw mill running in a couple of weeks.

The Portage la Prairie town council will petition the local government to appoint a police magistrate for that town.

The County of Brandon has purchased lots at the south of the town, (on the Vivian estate) for the purpose of erecting substantial County Buildings.

The fuel question has been an important one during the recent cold snap, and owing to a scarcity wood sold as high as $9 a cord at Emerson.

Over thirty mining companies are likely to be engaged in gold mining operations in the North-west before the close of the present year.

The question of the location of the C. P. R. bridge across the Red River at Emerson, is not definitely settled, but is in a fair way of being so.

It is reported, although not generally believed, that a branch bank will be opened shortly at Rat Portage. It is now an absolute necessity.

J. H. Kenning, Inspector of Inland Revenue, was in West Lynne on Friday, accompanied by Frank Bonletter, who succeeds J. Henry at that place.

P. Killer, a former resident of Emerson, has returned to fill the position of book-keeper for J. Robinson, who recently purchased the business of Ashdown & Co. in Emerson.

The Minnedosa Star is confident the Portage, Westborne and N. W. Railway will reach that place by the 1st of June, as the intention of the new company is to push the road 360 or 400 miles during the coming season.

It is reported that the Dominion Government will next season erect a new post-office and custom house in Winnipeg. The post office will cost $120,000, and will be put up on the present stand. The new custom house will cost over $100,000.

Considerable change is being made in the freight offices of the C. P. R. at Brandon. They are being enlarged, as the present accommodation is far too limited for the number of clerks required to do the work.

Mr. J. S. Armitage has closed a contract with parties in Winnipeg, to deliver either at Minnedosa or Brandon 30,000 ties. Messers. John and Alexander Cameron have left with their gangs for Mr. Armitage's limits for the purpose of erecting shanties and stables.

There have been some statements circulated recently that the movers in the E. & N.-W. railway charter were actuated by personal motives, and that now their enthusiasm is very low. The fact that the line is now superfluous will account better for the present apathy.

News has been received by the Indian Department of the destruction by fire at the Piegan reservation, near Fort MacLeod, of the building in which the Indian supplies were stored, with a loss of seven hundred sacks of flour. The Indians will not suffer seriously, as they have surplus potatoes equivalent to the flour destroyed.

Mr. J. Heney, Inland Revenue officer at West Lynne, leaves for Winnipeg on Monday next to take a position in the head office. The Times says: Since Mr. Heney's short stay with us he has by his genial manners attracted a number of warm friends towards him, who deeply regret his departure from among us.

A young man by the name of McLean, left his home, near Newdale, several weeks ago to go to Portage la Prairie, intending to be absent but a few days, since then nothing has been heard of him. His father telegraphed to the Portage and received an answer stating that his son had not been seen in that place. His parents are very anxious as to his whereabouts.

The Brandon Club has got into temporary trouble, and a number of parties with claims against the proprietors, are pressing for payment; the money, however, will be forthcoming, as one of the owners is wealthy and intends sparing no pains in making the institution a success. At the present time, however, the merchants seem somewhat uneasy on account of the large amount of the liabilities. Several Winnipeg wine dealers are interested to a considerable extent.

The fact that the Souris and Rocky Mountain Railroad are to push their line through Auburn early in the spring has already induced many to invest in lots for building purposes. This town site is situated on section twenty seven, township twelve, range fifteen, being about the centre of the fine farming district known as the Big Plain. Messrs. Roris brothers now have their large grist mill running night and day, and under the able management of Mr. Robinson are turning out some of the best flour in the country. There are now two general stores here, Mr. Muckle having moved his business from Creeford.

The Perturbed Thermometer.

A Thermometer was observed in a State of Excessive Agitation. "Why, my friend," inquired the Eight-day Clock, "why are you so Perturbed?" "Because," replied the thermometer, "I apprehend that I am no Longer Capable of Performing my Functions. At the present Moment I am Registering forty degrees above Zero, when I should be Several degrees Below." "Oh, no, I guess Not," said the Eight-day Clock. "Yes, I am Confident of it," persisted the Thermometer, "for from my Position in the Window I just Overheard a policeman Decline Drink, and it must be a Cold Day when such a Phenomenon Occurs."

"Oo."

The conversation relates to a plaid hanging at the shop door. Customer (inquiring of the material)—Oo? (wool?) Shopkeeper—Ay, oo, (yes; of wool.) Customer—"A" oo? (all wool?) Shopkeeper—Ay, a' oo, (yes; all wool.) Customer—A' ae oo? (all the same wool?) Shopkeeper—'Ay,' a' ae oo, (yes; all the same wool.)—Dean Ramsey.

ALL IN JEST.

The question which excites the drivers of public carriages is: "Does a hack or a coupe beat?"

A trapeze performer is at the height of his popularity when his head touches the circus canvas at the top.

To stand on one's head is the most difficult feat one can perform on ice, and yet the new skater always trys to do it.

If you can't trust a man for the full amount let him skip. This trying to get an average on honesty has always been a failure.

Everybody goes to Saratoga to drink the water, but that doesn't explain why bartenders there are paid $200 a month, and it is hard to get them at that.

"What can I do for you to induce you to go to bed now?" asked a mamma of her 5-year old boy. "You can let me stay up a little longer," was the youngster's response.

A philosopher says: "In the economy of nature nothing is lost. The inside of an orange may refresh one man, while the outside of the same fruit may serve as a medium for breaking another man's leg."

We are told that "a seismologist is a man who investigates earthquakes for the purpose of ascertaining the laws that govern them." Think of that, my boy! When you tell the bartender to mix you an earthquake you're a seismologist.

Queen's county, New York, is afflicted with blind hogs. We are not informed whether they are of the same breed which are to be found in horse-cars, but probably they are not, as these latter are blind only when somebody wants one of the two or three seats they are occupying so artistically.

In some of the mining towns of Nevada a common house cat sells for $10 in gold, and the supply is always short. A Navada man who would bootjack a cat would not be allowed to live twenty-four hours. But it doesn't do any good to post a notice to this effect in a back-yard, as cats can't read.

Fuller Wenham is a very objectionable person. They were talking in his presence of a septuagenarian millionaire. "The state of his health," said one of his nearest and dearest relations, "causes us all the gravest anxiety." "Probably," remarked Fuller Wenham, "but the state of his illness wouldn't."

A street railroad convention has recently been held in Boston. It was not decided whether conductors should continue to gaze at the blue vault of heaven when a man is hastening along through mud two feet deep to catch the car. But the conclusion was arrived at that under no circumstance should a car carry more than 141 passengers at the same time, or stop for any one to get off unless the track was blocked by a freight car.

The old French banker, Pont, was by no means lacking in presence of mind, as indicated by the following anecdote. Once upon a time, in a crowded church, he felt someone brush against him and then missed his watch. Knowing that the thief could not be gone very far, he contented himself by remarking aloud: "Well if that isn't the first time I ever knew one of our fellows to rob another one of the gang." His confidence was not misplaced, for as he was going out a well-dressed gentleman slipped the timepiece into his hand, with the words: "Excuse me, sir! I didn't know you belonged to the perfesh!"

A hunter fired at a bird as it flew over the door-yard of an Arkansas residence. A boy that was playing around was struck by a couple of shot, and his cries brought his father to the scene. "What have you done?" he demanded of the hunter, drawing a revolver. "I beg ten thousands pardons," exclaimed the hunter. "In my eagerness to secure the bird I fired thoughtlessly, and I fear I have seriously wounded your son." "Son!" said the old man. "I thought you had hit my dog. Mind how you shoot around here, for if you put a shot into that dog I'll cut off both your ears."

Stock Company Wanted.

He sat behind a show-window full of specimens of silver ore and received his first customer with a bland smile.

"Is that silver ore?" asked the man.

"Of course."

"Any silver in it?"

"Certainly."

"Dig it up around Toledo here?"

"No, sir; those specimens came from Colorado."

"Buy 'em of some quarry?"

"They came from my mine, sir."

"Any more left?"

"Thousands of tons."

"Going to use 'em to pave streets?"

"No, sir; I am here to sell stock in the mine."

"Is the ore worth anything?"

"It assays at $1,200 to the ton."

"Only $1,200?"

"Only? Why it is the richest mine in Colorado."

"What's the whole mine worth?"

"At least $1,000,000."

"Is that all? I did think of investing, but I don't care for small speculations. If you want a dollar bill for those specimens I'll send a boy and a cart around here. Reckon they might come handy for chinking up the smoke-house or throwing at cats."

Delicate Charity.

Dr. Romanes, of England, tells a charming story of the father of the late Charles Darwin. For the benefit of the district in which he lived, Dr. Darwin offered to dispense medicines gratis to any one who applied and was not able to pay. He was surprised to find that very few of the sick poor availed themselves of his offer, and, guessing that the reason must have been a dislike to become a recipient of charity, he devised a plan to neutralize the feeling. Whenever any poor persons applied for medical aid, he told them that he would supply the medicine, but they must pay for the bottles. This little distinction made all the difference, and ever afterwards the poor used to flock to the doctor's house for relief as a matter of right.

Every sensible man in Chicago who has seen Mrs. Langtry has gone home and said to his wife: "Well, well; if she's good-looking I wonder what they'd call you?" Some wives take it as a compliment.

"Accept our Gratitude."

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—Your "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured my boy of a fever sore of two years' standing. Please accept our gratitude.

Yours truly, HENRY WHITING, Boston, Mass.

The true test of civilization is not the census, nor the size of cities, nor the crops—no, but the kind of man the country turns out.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is not extolled as a "cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent specific in those chronic weaknesses peculiar to women. Particulars in Dr. Pierce's pamphlet treatise on Diseases Peculiar to Women, 96 pages, sent for three stamps. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

The bore is usually considered a harmless creature: or of that class of irrational bipeds who hurt only themselves.

Dr. Pierce's "Pellets"—little liver pills (sugar-coated)—purify the blood, speedily correct all disorders of the liver, stomach, and bowels. By druggists.

God's livery is a very plain one; but its wearers have good reason to be content. If it have not so much gold lace about it as Satan's, it keeps out foul weather better, and is besides a great deal cheaper.

Immense demand for Vegetine

We are not at all surprised to learn that the demand of the people everywhere for that famous medicine, Vegetine, is constantly becoming more and more extended. It has long been in demand all over our own country, and had some time ago made its way into various foreign lands. At the present time the esteemed proprietor, Mr. H. R. Stevens, of Boston, is sending it to order to some of the remotest foreign countries: and it seems now evident that Vegetine is to become a universal medicine. It is a "patent medicine," but it has gained its fame and made its way everywhere on its own intrinsic merits. Such were the unmistakable and undeniable results of the use of this astonishing, and, at this day, world-renowned medicine, in speedily effecting cures of the very numerous diseases or ills for which it was declared to be a remedy, that people everywhere were open and decided in expressing their opinion that this "patent medicine" must not only be ranked equal with, but altogether superior to, all the regular "doctors' stuff" that had ever been given in sickess.

There was and there could be no dispute about the astonishing cures effected by the medicine. The doctors could not deny them—especially as many of such cures had been effected in the most respectable, wealthy and well-known families, where the suffering invalids had obtained and taken the Vegetine as a last resort, after the regular physicians had utterly failed to do them any good.

Moreover, testimonial letters from perfectly well-known persons in high standing and of undoubted character and veracity began to pour in upon Mr. H. R. Stevens, the proprietor, in abundance, declaring, and often with the deepest gratitude, the surprising cures wrought by the great medicine.

Such testimonials have continued to flow in upon Mr. Stevens, from first to last, until he has enough to make volumes were he to print them all. But he don't publish even in the newspapers, only a small fraction of them. Is it any wonder, then, that the sale of Vegetine is now increasingly at a surprising rapid rate?—Providence (R. I.) Gazette.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East. Portraits in oil life size.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLABEY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manuf'r of Masonic and other Society Jewels. 151 King E., Toronto

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS. 4 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 13 Yonge Street. Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete. C. POTTER. 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

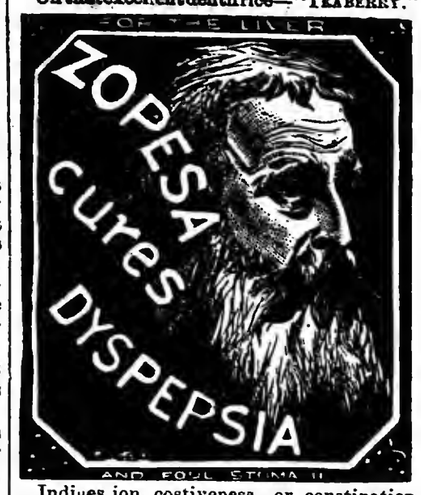
DRUG BUSINESS FOR SALE—IN GOOD sized village, Middlesex county; thickly populated district; no opposition; stock about $500: can do about $10 per day. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

FOR SALE—SAW MILL MACHINERY, including oscillating stock and stabbing gangs of steel and iron, with Pitmans iron pulleys, fly wheels and shaft complete. H. B. RATHBUN & SON. Deseronto, Ont.

YORK FARMERS' COLONY, N. W. T. Free Homesteads with preemptions added now open in this fertile tract. For list of present settlers, improvements now going on and full information address Head Office, 1 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers wanted as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director.

BOOK AND STATIONERY BUSINESS, with telegraph office, for sale in live Western village of 1,200 population—thickly settled district; doing a nice cash business; stock about $1,400. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

GENERAL BUSINESS FOR SALE IN THE best town on N. & N. W. R.: store 23 x 89 plate glass windows; rent $150 per an.; stock about $1,000; doing cash trade principally. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.



HARDWARE STOCK FOR SALE AT 60C. on dollar—(shelf goods) in excellent shape; inventories $3,500; the stand can be leased and is one of the best in a thriving manufacturing town, 5,000 population; but one opposition store. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

FLOUR AND GRIST MILL FOR SALE—close to town of 7,000 population, York county; 3 run stones, all necessary modern improvements; good water power; gristing 24,000 bushels per annum; no other gristing mill within 5 miles; price $7,000, ½ cash, balance convenient. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

SEEDS

MY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FOR 1883 containing description and prices of the choicest kinds of Field, Garden, and Flower Seeds mailed free to all intending purchasers upon application. It is the handsomest Catalogue published in Canada, and is invaluable to all who wish to buy PURE FRESH SEEDS. Special attention given to preparing MIXED GRASSES for PERMANENT PASTURE. Prices and full particulars will be found in Catalogue.
WM. RENNIE, Seedsman, TORONTO

To have fragrant Breath and Teeth like snow,
Foolish and careless you'd be very,
If you didn't at once a trial bestow
On that excellent dentifrice—"TEABERRY."

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA. It stimulates, and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate.

CANAL SCHOONER FOR SALE—IN GOOD repair; class A 2½, valued at $10,000 by Inland Loyds; capacity, 24,000 bushels wheat and 21,000 oak timber. Apply to J. C. GRAHAM, St. Catharines Ont.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARMING and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 14 Adelaide-st East, Toronto. Send for list

Burdock Blood Bitters

Ontario Pulmonary Institute

135 Church-st., Toronto, Ont.

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.O., PROPRIETOR,

Over 40,000 cases successfully treated during the past 17 years for some form of head, throat and lung trouble.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved medicated inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Consultation free,

If impossible to call personally at the Institute for an examination, write for List of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

ONTARIO PULMONARY INSTITUTE,
135 Church Street, Toronto, Ont.

DRINK LAWSON'S TEAS!

Which will be sent to your own home at prices considerably lower than what you pay at your town. Send for our price list, choose No. and enclose price in registered letter, and Tea will be sent to your Express Office free of charge.

☞ Don't miss this opportunity to get a Caddy of Pure Tea.

EDWARD LAWSON,
Victoria Tea Warehouse,
93 KING STREET, EAST, TORONTO.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine.

Brain and Nerve Food

Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages, Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Night Sweats, Barrenness, Weakness and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, rejuvenates the Jaded Intellect, strengthens the Enfeebled Brain and restores surprising tone and vigor to the Exhausted Generative Organs in either sex. ☞ With each order for Twelve packages, accompanied with five dollars, we will send our written Guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. It is the Cheapest and Best Medicine in the market. Pamphlet sent free by mail to any address.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold by druggists at 50 cents per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, or will be mailed free of postage, on receipt of money, by addressing Mack's Magnetic Medicine Co., Windsor, Ont., Canada. Sold by all druggists in Canada.

SUTHERLAND'S RHEUMATINE

THE GREAT CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature,

RHEUMATINE is not a sovereign remedy for "all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature,

IT IS A SURE CURE.

Sold by all druggists. The Rheumatine Manufacturing Co., St. Catherines, Ont. Messrs Northrop & Lyman, Wholesale Agts., Toronto

DIPHTHERIA

CROUP, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, NEURALGIA.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment (for Internal and External Use) will instantaneously relieve these terrible diseases, and will positively cure nine cases out of ten. Information that will save many lives, sent free by mail. Don't delay a moment. Prevention is better than cure. L. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, MASS.

DYSPEPSIA & LIV .R COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use according'y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm Brown's General Store, Markdale.

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Mr. T. E. Davis (builder and contractor) has removed to Oshawa, where he has the contract of building a mill for Alex. Webster, Esq., of Priceville.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of 50cts. to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

G. J. Blyth, of Owen Sound, was in town this week.

We have a speedy and positive cure, for Catarah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in SHHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal Injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

Mr. S. Wardell, well digger and driller, is now working in the neighbourhood of Harkaway and is having his usual success in procuring water.

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.

Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgement in taking care of the health of your self and family. If you are Bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—Tribune. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

A number of farmers and others are having their address and name of their farm printed on their envelopes. We do them for a trifle over the cost of the bare envelope. Call an see samples and have some done.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend in deed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with diseases, more particularly those complaints and weakness so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are Woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

SAD.—Mr. Samuel Wright of the 9th line Euphrasia, lost his only son last week, a boy of 16 years, and one month previous a daughter aged 22 years, both with scarlet fever. We sincerely sympathise with the parents in their sad affliction.

NEVER GIVE UP.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery wil cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by A. Turner & Co., Markdale.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Wm. Lucas & Co. bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

BREVITY IN SPEECH—SWEETNESS IN MUSIC.

Some one has said hat short speeches are most impressive, and simple, sweet music the most touching. If there be anything in the idea, certainly the following from C. C. De Zouche, of De Zouche & Co., Piano and Organ Dealers, 233 St. James street, Montreal, is to the point and convincing: "St. Jacobs Oil has proved of incalculable value to me in a case of rheumatism, having given me almost instant relief." In the same strain of expressive brevity writes Mr. John Fleming, editor in chief of the Montreal Post: "I have much pleasure in stating that, from the use of St. Jacobs Oil, I find it excellent and I think it a good medicine."

At the county council last weeek the following were appointed Co. valuators—R. Myles, Reeve of Euphrasia; J. Murdock, Reeve of Egremont; H. Reid of Sydenham, which will necessitate a new election in the two former townships.

EFFECTIVE WORK.

The following specific information, imparted by thoroughly reliable people will convey a clearer idea than any amount of abstract reference, how certain desirable results are being accomplished. Mr. Alexander McKechnie, Rochesterville, Ottawa, Ont., says: "I was a perfect cripple with rheumatism in my arms and feet for more than two weeks, when I was advised to try St. Jacobs Oil. I did so; in two days I went to work, and at the end of a week I was as well as ever. I consider St. Jacobs Oil a "dead sure" cure for rheumatism in every form." Mr. James Dempsey, Cobourgh street, Ottawa, is pleased to remark: "Having suffered for some time past with rheumatism in the back, I am gratified to say that I have been completely cured after a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, and can confidently recommend it to any one suffering in like manner."

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

AN IMMENSE STOCK OF BOOTS & SHOES

JUST ARRIVED AT THE

TORONTO HOUSE

BEST QUALITY AND LOWEST PRICE.

STOCK COMPLETE IN

Dry Goods and Groceries!

PRICES ALWAYS RIGHT.

OUR THIRTY CENT TEA

Is the wonder of the day. A trial solicited.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Oct. 11th, 1882

GROCERIES

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars. Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee. Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork. Pork. Pork

McINTYRE'S Teas. Teas.

And ever ythin g kept n in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first-class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th, 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

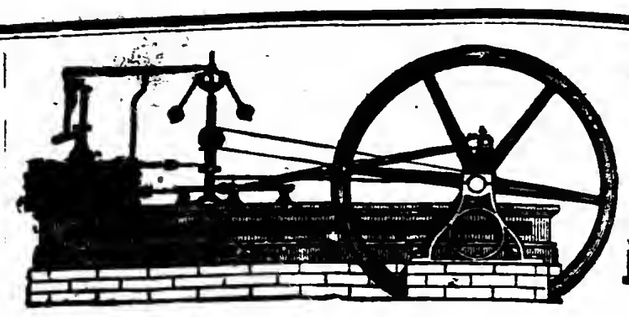
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.



My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

MOFFAT M'fk

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shaft

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Wheels, Shingle Jointers, &c. Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIAL

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, PITLARS--IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photograph

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good

FRAMES and FRAME FIXIN

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULM

TORONTO HOUS

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. Unusually L

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPE

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRA

Variety and Value Unsurpassed

DRY GOODS DEPARMEN

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goo prising in part Cashmeres in all colors Worsted Wool Good endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my sto.k is unusu from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trowserings, and ings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in partment buyers will find it to their advantage to call before pu elsewhere.

Millinery Department.

Under the able managem nt of a first-class milliner, with plenty of ance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most able, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the low sible p ice

I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Pro duce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest price in any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially ask to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROUL

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factor

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PU FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is fo fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in M the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledg

Sydenham Street, Markdale

Markdale Standard

Vol. 3. No. 22. MARKDALE, ONT., FEB. 8, 1883. No. 126.

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
F. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First class accommodation for commercial travelers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connection.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE
(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)
CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout besides making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms, Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's. THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald.
CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c. attended to promptly, accurately neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

MISS LAMB,

DRESS-MAKER. UP-STAIRS IN Douglas' Block. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.
Markdale, Nov. 25th, 1882. 11-3m.

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees. Vines. Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.
Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

MISS WELSH,

Dress & Mantlemaker. Charges moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed. Hill's Block, Sydenham street.
Markdale Nov. 6th, 1882. 113 136

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,
Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, Feb 5th, at eight o'clock p m.
108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

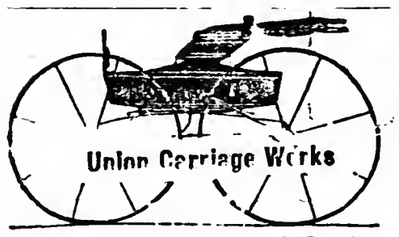
EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND.

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.



$66 a week in your own town. $5 outfit free. No risk. Everything new. Capital not required. We will furnish you everything. Many are making fortunes. Ladies make as much as men, and boys and girls make great pay. Reader, if you want a business at which you can make great pay all the time you work, write for particulars to H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine. 71-126

ROBT. ASKIN,
MARKDALE,
Has opened out a First-Class
Furniture!
—AND—
UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,
And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.
COFFINS,
CASKETS, SHROUDS,
and all
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,
supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE
From the Common to the Best and Latest Styles,
in everything in the line.
Call and see for yourse ves.
ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from
FIRST CLASS MATERIAL
In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs
will receive prompt attention.
All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.
GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.
Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside
D. J. SHANAHAN,
Proprietor.
Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING
By T. D. Smith.

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.
☞ Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE,
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSESHOEING
A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKERS,

Money Loaned
IN large amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.
Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.
W.M. LUCAS,
Manager.
September 23, 1880. 2-1y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILDREN will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.
D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.
Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Best business now before the public. You can make money faster at work for us than at anything else. Capital not needed. We will start you. $12 a day and upwards made at home by the industrious. Men, women, boys and girls wanted everywhere to work for us. Now is the time. You can work in spare time only or give your whole time to the business. You can live at home and do the work. No other business will pay you nearly as well. No one can fail to make enormous pay by engaging at once. Costly outfit and terms free. Money made fast, easily and honorably. Address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine. 71-126

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING
Brown's Household Panacea
has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixer or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 75-127

EARS FOR THE MILLION

KOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so unmerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:
It has performed a miracle in my case.
I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.
I have been greatly benefited.
My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.
Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.
☞ To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.
Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,
Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK
93-145.

PROPERTIES For SALE

South half of Lot 5, con. 9, Euphrasia containing 100 acres, 4 acres cleared balance good hardwood, bush situated 4 miles from Markdale on good road; also a village lot with comfortable house thereon on Mill Street, Markdale. For further particulars apply to G. S. Bowes or Wm Armstrong executors of the estate of late Mark Armstrong Esq. 122-124

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet If you want to Guard Against Sickness!
Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your BOOTS!
—FROM—
KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,
Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED, from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.
Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

$2 Warrant, some worthless $5.00 White metal Stem Winding [illegible] Imitation gold [illegible] Diamond [illegible] for your own use or [illegible] presents. [illegible] rule elsewhere. [illegible]

Local Items.

Dr. Sproule M. P., leaves for Ottawa today.

A wild duck was seen last Friday on the Flesherton mill pond.

McIntyre has just received a large and varied stock of candies.

If your constitution is run down join it up by drinking McFarland's famous Tea.

It is rumored that Sir Garnet Wolsley is likely to be our next Governor General.

WANTED.—A cabinet-maker, one who can run a turning lathe. Apply to G. N. Pereira, Williamsford.

Mr. James O'Brien, a farmer in Artemesia, sold 2,000 bushels of barley to W. J. McFarland last week.

The way to keep warm—Buy McFarland's Blankets at 15 per cent. discount.

Sparling's saw mill, Vandeleur, will commence sawing this week, and a big push will be made this season.

Mr. R. Myles is a candidate for M. P. P. at the coming elections, and his chances seem good for success.

A report of the oyster supper tendered to Mr. W. F. Doll has been unavoidably crowded out this week will appear in next.

After an official count of ballots the election of Mayor for Toronto Mr. Boswell has been declared elected by a majority of 12.

A Conversazione will be held in the Presbyterian church, Markdale, on Wednesday evening, the 14th inst., when a rich treat is promised. Admission 15c.

The annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of South Grey was held in Markdale on Tuesday, 6th inst. There was a large attendance. Full report next week.

We thought we had a pretty good snowstorm last week, but the Captain says it will take just fifty of them to make a Manitoba blizzard. Who wouldn't go to Manitoba.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once. on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m

In our report last week of the prize winners at the carnival we gave credit to A. McFarland for the best Irish character, he and J. L. Browne were ties, and they tossed up for who would have it. and Mc. won.

METHODIST UNION.—The voting on the proposed basis of union is now going on by the various bodies concerned and we may now consider the union a foregone conclusion, the majority so far being over 20 for to one against.

The Ball Family Jubilee Singers are coming. They will give a concert in the Methodist church, Markdale, on Thursday evening the 15th inst. This troupe, consisting of eight, have the reputation of being the best Canadian one travelling. Concert at 8 p.m, Admission 25c.

Lillian Leishman, the chief actress in the Brantford scandal, has skipped. The Mail's account of her history having placed her in a very uneviable position before the public, she no doubt deemed it wise to disappear. Mr. Beatty will have the sympathy of the public.

..Clouds at cost..Shawls at cost..Overcoats at cost..Mantles at cost..Where?.. Why at McFarland's

The following are appointed Licence Commissioners for the county of Grey:—South Riding—Archibald Davidson, James Brown and Thos. Smith: North Riding—George Price, David R. Dobie and James Stewart; East Riding—Thos. Tyson, W. J. Marsh and Wm. Brown.

OLDER STILL.—A week or two ago we gave a paragraph in reference to an old bible of 1630. It should have read Mr. Edwin Bone instead of Wm. Mr. F. McRae of this town, has a bible of the date of 1599 or 284 years old, It is in good order and printed in Roman type.—Review.

A fortune teller has been in our midst: one who claims a little descent from Meg Merrilie. She did not stir the cauldron like witches in Macbeth, but stirred the cards—to save expense—and forestold destinies. Those whose prospects seemed favourable said she was wonderful, and the others said she was an old plug.

NOTICE.—Will the parties indebted to me call and pay there accounts and save me the trouble of dunning them for the same ANGUS MCINTYRE.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 122 tf

Legal.

Frost & Frost,
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale, Office open every Thursday, as before.
F. Frost, J. W. FROST, LL. B.
County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,
BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.
MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.
Office—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block 2nd St. and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y

Creasor & Morrison,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.
Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolfe's Store and in MARKDALE;
over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday of each Friday of each week.
Funds to lend on reasonable terms.
O. CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON
Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers' Sales, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,
LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of South Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.
Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

Cameron & Knight,
DENTAL SURGEONS,
Over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, 2nd St., OWEN SOUND
Attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.
Office at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month.
D. A. Cameron, M.D., C.M. Glasgow, C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Dental Surgeons, Ont.

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

Beauty vr. Talent—The Women of Tunis —Origin of "Lady."

Small Talk for the Ladies.

Origin of the Term "Lady."

The title of "lady" is derived from the Saxon hlæfdian, contracted into lafdy, and then into lady. Laf, or hlaf, or loaf, means food or bread, and dian means to serve, so that the title "lady," means bread-server. The feudal lord supplied the food for the guests, or the poor, and the ladies used to carve and distribute it.

A Remarkable Faculty.

In the plantation of Oakfield, Aroostock county, Me., there is a girl who possesses the faculty of spelling difficult words backward without hesitation. Her name is Hattie M. Drew, just past her twelfth birthday and residing with her parents in Oakfield, who are people of moderate education, living upon a farm in a rural community. While this little girl is bright and smart as the average of her mates, she never attracted any particular attention until, a little more than a year ago, it was accidentally discovered that she posseesed the singular gift of spelling any word with which she was acquainted backward and without hesitation. At a spelling match recently held in the school which she attends, without any warning, she stood before the audience for some ten minutes, spelling words selected at random, some for their difficulty of combination, but without any previous knowledge of what they were to be, rapidly and correctly, except one or two which she could not spell in the proper way, and when prompted in the correct spelling would immediately reverse it. Among the words which she spelled were these: Galaxy, syzygy, astronomy, phonography, difficulty, attendance, indivisible, etc, and many other words of equal length and difficulty. All of these were spelled as rapidly as the eye could follow, without a single misplacement of a letter. Has any other person without any training been able to do this or similar feats? In addition, it may be said, upon the testimony of the girl, that "she can see the words in her mind and knows no reason why she should not read the letters backwards as in the usual way."

Beauty vs. Talent.

All women, even the ugliest, says London Society, feel that beauty is a weapon on their side in the battle of life; like to see it exert a force, and when it is great, and, so to speak, beyond criticism, admire it with genuine heartiness—heartiness as real as that which men show in their admiration for strength manifested in any conspicuous way. Let anyone of the thousand cynics now lounging in London ask himself whether an English prince who madea mesalliance for money or for beauty would be sooner forgiven, or whether the love match of Napoleon III. was not one main cause of that popularity with English women which outlasted everything but his surrender. They thought he should have performed the impossibility of "cutting his way through."

To this very hour the deep feeling of English women for the French Empress, though founded, of course, on pity, is greatly assisted by the recollection among the middle-aged of a triumph so conspicuous and so visibly owing to personal charm. This kind of female interest is universal, and exten ls in a more languid degree to the men, who find in any natural appreciation of beauty not only the charms which spring from any kind-ness in toss, but an excuse for a secret impotency, a powerlessness in presence of the attraction, which they all resent and feel. We wonder if, besides all this, there is any resistance of the old Greek feeling that beauty was a clear good in itself, a harmonious something which indicated that the gods of nature were essentially and at heart hostile to man.

The next prince who ascends a throne or weds will have his praises and qualities rained on the European wires, but if he were an Apollo or a Jove, the bulletin-makers would feel instinctively that to say so would be regarded not as an adulation but an insult. It is for women to be beautiful, for men to be dignified—the latter a credit coming from a different order of ideas, the idea of harmony between place and appearance in the world. We should doubt if beauty were admired in the abstract very copiously, but that the interest excited by beautiful women rivals that excited by beautiful scenery, and this among those who never see either, except in pictures, we have no doubt whatever.

The Women of Tunis.

Women are kept much stricter at Tunis says Baron von Wartegg, the husband of Minnie Hauk, in a book on the east, than in Egypt or Turkey. Moorish ladies of high standing never show themselves in the street; and there are thousands of them whose only walk during their whole lives has been from the house of their parents to that of their husband. Poor women have to go out to make their purchases, and also to go to public baths, as they have none in their own houses; but they are veiled to such a degree, and enveloped in so many shawls, that you can scarcely see the tips of their fingers. The women of the middle classes also wear a dark, heavy silk handkerchief, and you only see their feet clothed in little slippers, either embroidered with gold or of patent leather, and perhaps a little bit of the calf, dressed in a snow-white stocking, ornamented with silver or golden clasps, which clink at every step like spurs. Woe be to the European who, in the presence of men, were to stare at a Moorish woman or accost her! The Moors are, both in respect of their religion and the women, the greatest fanatics; and to pursue a woman, or to enter a mosque, may cost one's life to this day.

The "beyess" sits on a sofa; with crossed legs, and salutes us ceremoniously as we enter. She is a fat old woman with an insignificant face, by the side of which her short hair falls over the ears. Neck, arms, legs and fingers are literally covered with costly jewellery, bracelets and rings. She wears a sort of blouse of red silk, and white linen pantaloons, which get tighter near the feet and end in silk socks. All doors and recesses are occupied bywomen of the harem who eye curiously the toilets and manners of the European ladies. At last permission is asked to see the bedroom. The "beyess" rises, crosses her hands on her back, and walks carelessly toward a room at the back part of the drawing-room. The bedroom which we enter is furnished quite in the European style. A four-poster of palisander wood, a chest of drawers with large looking glass, and easy chairs. On the wall hangs a life-size portrait of the bey, her consort, and we hasten to congratulate her on his beauty. "Oh, yes," she says, "he is handsome. He comes to see me every evening." We are silent, for we know that Mohammed es Sadok for years past has visited the palace every afternoon only for appearance's sake, without ever seeing her.

CHIT-CHAT.

A young lady of Hamilton, being asked the time last Sunday evening replied, "Five minutes of Smith."

When a woman wants to get rid of her husband for an hour she sends him up-stairs to get something from the pocket of one of her dresses.

A Philadelphia boarding-house keeper won't take any but pretty girls and susceptible young men. Those who fall in love are seated together at the table, and of course lose their appetites. She is getting rich.

A Georgia couple waited over four years for a good opportunity to elope, and just as it came the girl's father took the young man by the hand and said: "Speak up to her, Thomas! I know she loves you, and I'd be tickled to death to have you for a son-in-law."

Oliver Wendell Holmes says that there is nothing in the world tenderer than the pity a kind-hearted young girl has for a young man who feels lonely. Any young man is willing to feel lonely simply for the sake of being an object of pity to a kind-hearted young girl.

"Ah! George, isn't it delightful that we are to be married so soon? To be sure, we are not rich in this world's goods, but with such love as ours we can almost live on bread and water, can't we, dear?" "Easily," said George, with great emotion. "You furnish the bread, love, and I will skirmish around and find the water."

Annie was 6 years old, and was going to school with a sister of 9. One afternoon, when school was near its close, her uncle came by and proposed to carry them home. The elder girl was at the head of her class and would not leave, but Annie said: 'All right, Uncle Buck! I'll go. I am foot, and can't get any footer."

Bella; "So you were engaged to both of us at once. Very honourable, I am sure; and as for me——" Augustus: "Oh! well what's the use of making a scene? Father says our house is going to suspend payment before March, and I knew one of you, at least, would break off with me then, and things would have been all right again."

"My mother's awful fickle," said little Edith to Mrs. Smith, who was making a call. "When she saw you coming up the street she said: "There's that horrid Miss Smith; I hope she isn't coming here," and a minute after she told you she was glad to see you. Mother says I'm fickle, but I guess I don't change my mind as quick as that."

The Cat in Egypt.

The domestic cat, so far as Europe is concerned, is generally supposed to be somewhat of an upstart. In Egypt its cultus has existed for ages before our ancestors dreamed of paying it that species of worship which at present appears to connect it with the tutelary genius of the hearth. We have the authority of Herodotus for the fact that when a cat died in an Egyptian home the members of the bereaved family shaved off their eyebrows, and that of Diodorus for the touching statement that although Egyptians have been known to eat their fellow-creatures during famines, no instance of cat-eating was ever heard of. If an Egyptian should happen to find a dead cat, says the Sicilian historian, he was careful not to approach it closely, for fear of being suspected of its murder. Standing at a distance, he made the sad loss known by cries of distress. During conflagrations, according to Herodotus, the Egyptian spectators allowed the flames to rage unchecked, devoting their attention to saving the cats belonging to the burning houses. A Roman happened one day to kill a cat by accident. The melancholy event took place at a time when the Egyptian Government was very anxious to conciliate Rome. But in spite of the exertions of the King and his Ministers the mob broke into the Roman's dwelling and intentionally did to him what he had accidentally done to the cat. Of this act of popular vengeance Diodorus says he was a spectator. According to Lenormant, the cat does not appear on Egyptian sculptures earlier than the twelfth dynasty (2020 B.C.,) and therefore the credit of its domestication is due to the inhabitants of the Upper Nile. That process, remarks Hehn, must have taken a long time, but it was thoroughly successful in the end. The domestic cat very rarely deserts civilization in favor of savage freedom, its character offering in this respect a strong contrast to that of its fellow Oriental, the gypsy. How the tame cat made its way into Europe remains uncertain, although it is reported to have travelled from Egypt by way of Cyprus. The period of its arrival, also, is shrouded in mystery. It does not seem to have been known in classic times, and the early centuries of our era appear to have been unaware of its existence. In so catless a period the arrival of such a beneficent beast as that which has kept Whittington's memory green might well be hailed with acclamation. It is easy to believe that the progress of the cat was rapid when it had once shown itself. Silently but irresistibly it seems to have subjugated the European hearth. It is terrible to think of how much pleasure as well as profit the world would have been deprived if the cat's career had been cut prematurely short. Most fortunate was it, as Hehn remarks, that its introduction preceded those epochs in which its associations with idolatry might have caused it to fall a victim to the fanaticism of Islam or the asceticism of Christianity. —The Nineteenth Century.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

In Case of Fire.

In view of the recent disastrous conflagrations in different parts of the country the Committee on Personal Safety of the Lime-Kiln Club have recommended as follows:

No member of the Club will be allowed to scratch a match on his leg in Paradise Hall.

No smoking within ten feet of the wood-box, which hasn't been cleared out in three years.

All clay pipes must have a brass cover with a hinge, and all cigars must be smoked over an open tin pail.

In case of a fire during a session of the club the janitor will consult with the guard in the ante-room and ascertain if all escape has been cut aff by the stairway. If not he will quietly move that the meeting adjourn to witness a dog-fight in the alley. If the stairway is one solid sheet of flame, which will probably be the case, the janitor will calmly proceed to raise all the alley windows and inform the meeting that there is no particular hurry about leaving.

In case the members have to leave the hall by way of the windows, the safe will be thrown out first, followed by Elder Toots, old Man Jackson, Gum Arabic Smith and Bless Me Taylor. Brother Gardner will by this time have a soft spot to strike on, and he will be followed by the other officers in regular order.

In case there are any broken legs the victims will be carried into the nearest grocery for temporary treatment and to be interviewed by the reporters. Each one will claim that Paradise Hall was a roaring sea of flames before he would consent to leave it.

In case Samuel Shin attempts to crowd his way to the window before his turn comes, Giveadam Jones will be prepared to stretch him lifeless by a blow from a sand club.

If a fire takes place in the hall outside of a meeting, the members will be expected to make their way there with all possible dispatch, and use every exertion to save the valuable books and relics and works of art.

It was further recommended that the hall be insured for six times its value, so that the club would stand some show of securing actual damages in case of a fire.

Also, that the janitor remain for thirty minutes after the close of each meeting and hunt around for sparks. In case he smells anything like burning cotton or old felt hat he must remain until he discovers that the plumber next door is trying to kill the smell of sewer-gas in his own house. The number of barrels of water in the ante-room was increased to twelve, and the janitor was instructed to enter into experimonts to see if a fire extinguisher for the lodge room could not be constructed from a nail keg, three feet of penstock hose and a pound package of chloride of lime.

The Elephant who did not see the Joke.

The Rev. Mr. Watson gives a very curious story in illustration of this animal's wonderful long memory of a wrong suffered. One of those pests of society, "a practical-joker," visited a caravan in a west of England fair and tried his stupid tricks upon an elephant there. He first doled out to it, one by one, some gingerbread nuts, and when the grateful animal was thrown off its guard he suddenly proffered it a large parcel wrapped in paper. The unsuspicious creature accepted and swallowed the lump, but immediately began to exhibit signs of intense suffering, and snatching up a bucket handed it to the keeper for water. This being given to it, it eagerly swallowed quantities of the fluid. "Ha!" cried the delighted joker, "I guess those nuts ware a trifle hot, old fellow." "You had better be off," exclaimed the keeper, "unless you wish the bucket at your head." The fool took the hint only just in time, for the enraged animal, having finished the sixth bucketful, hurled the bucket after its tormentor with such force that had he lingered a moment longer his life might have been forfeited. The affair had not, however, yet concluded. The following year the show revisited the same town, and the foolish joker, like men of his genus, unable to profit by experience, thought to repeat the stupid trick on the elephant. He took two lots of nuts into the show with him—sweet nuts in one pocket and hot in the other. The elephant had not forgotten the jest played upon him, and therefore accepted the cakes very cautiously. At last the joker proffered a hot one; but no sooner had the injured creature discovered its pungency than it seized hold of its prosecutor by the coat-tails, hoisted him up by them, and held him until they gave way, when he fell to the ground. The elephant now inspected the severed coat-tails, which, after he had discovered and eaten all the sweet nuts, he tore to rags and flung after their discomfited owner. —Chambers' Journal.

The late Louis Blanc, the French agitator, has bequeathed the sum of 20,000 francs to Parisian children who have been deserted by their parents—abandonnés moralement. The money is to be laid out at interest, and the most deserving of each year are to receive savings bank books with 100 francs to their credit. The direction of the Assistance Publique, to which the legacy has been intrusted, is also authorized by Louis Blanc to give these children his name if it think proper.

Many testators have left their money for the dissemination of various forms of religious and irreligious opinions, and for the distribution af other people's books. But few have ever carried their testamentary caprice so far as the testator in a case before Mr. Justice Pearson in London a few days since, who left £2,000 to be devoted to the publication of a manuscript work of his own on religion and morals. The book was to be called "The Ethics of the Future," and the proceeds were to be divided between a nephew and a hospital at Oxford. The manuscript was reported on by the chief clerk as "having a tendency to promote religion and morality generally," and accordingly £400 was allowed for the expenses of a first edition. The work saw the light in 1876. Twenty-one copies were sold the first year; one copy has been sold since. The hospital now generously waived its claim to a moiety of the profits, and an order was made for the distribution of the sixteen hundred pounds remaining to the relatives.

A Fireman's Fortune.

The San Francisco (Cal.) Chronicle, in an article on the Fire Department of San Francisco gives the following from Asst. Chief Engineer Matthew Brady; "I have been subject to an aggravating pain in my chest for over four years. I resorted to various modes of treatment to obtain relief. I have had my chest terribly blistered. No physician could tell what was the matter with me. Two weeks ago I commenced using St. Jacobs Oil. It has cured me."

The market is flooded with worthless and vile compounds for the rejuvination of the hair, but Carboline, the great petroleum hair renewer and dressing, as now improved and perfected, still takes the front rank as the best preparation ever offered to the public.

It's the assignee in bankruptcy who has painful recollections.

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Dr. Malcolm would remind the Canadian public that in the year 1863 he first introduced into Canada the practice of treating diseases of the respiratory organs by the inhalation of vapourised remedies and that there are to-day many thousands throughout the entire Dominion of Canada who are living witnesses to the success which has attended his treatment. So great has been Dr. Malcolm's success in the cure of Throat and Lung Diseases, even in the very advanced stages, that many others have tried to imitate his system of treatment; but as Inhalation is the only method of administering the remedies, it is unnecessary to remind the public that it is only by a long and extensive experience in the various forms of those diseases and the particular remedies adapted to each peculiarity of those diseases that the greatest results may be obtained.

Dr. Malcolm has re-opened his city office at 35 Simcoe Street, Toronto, where he can be consulted personally or by letter from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Consultation free.

Patients unable to visit Toronto can receive treatment at their own homes by sending a full statement of their case by mail or otherwise.

Patients from a distance can readily find the office, as the western end of the Union Station opens on Simcoe Street, and No. 35 is only a few doors from the Station

Dr. Malcolm's book, descriptive of pulmonary diseases and their treatment by inhalation, will be mailed to any address on application.

The fairest overcoat may have a ragged lining.

NOTICE.

Each bottle of BRIGGS' ELECTRIC OIL will hereafter be accompanied by a corkscrew, as it is important that the cork should be preserved and the bottle well corked when not in use to retain the strength of the medicine. It cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney Complaints or of the Urinary Organs; cures complaints arising from Colds, such as Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Diptheria, Cough, Asthma and Difficult Breathing.

The proper place for a corner in coal—down the cellar.

A Sure Thing

In the treatment of Chronic disease with that great system renovator and restorative, Burdock Blood Bitters, there is no uncertainty as to its action, its curative powers are speedily manifest by its marked effect upon the Liver, the Bowels and the Kidneys. Every dose performing its work in a perceptible manner. 24.

A musician can't wipe out old scores by uttering false notes.

The Source of Much Ill Temper.

When your husband comes home in bad humor, jerks off his boots, and appears to be generally miserable, do not attribute it to business cares or hard times, but to its real cause—those terrible corns constantly annoying him. A word to the wise will be sufficient—buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. His corns will be quickly and painlessly removed, and his gratitude will be unbounded. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor sold everywhere.

When a man's constitution is run down, he can never wind it up with a whis-key!

Extract from a letter just received (December, 1882,) by Mrs. Thos. Murray, from her husband, Mr. Thos. Murray, who was for many years' Bridge Conductor for the Great Western Railway at Niagara Falls, afterwards one of the contractors on the enlarged Welland Canal (Section 12), and is now in Northern Michigan, looking after his timber interests in that country. He writes:

"Tell Sutherland I am now starting for the woods with 36 men, where I will be all winter, and that I am now without ache or pain in either my knees or arms (something I have not known for years), thanks to the two bottles of Rheumatine which I procured from him before leaving St. Catharines."

A drunkard said he was only out of his teens; he, of course, meant his canteens.

Keep it in your family. The best remedy for accidents and emergencies, for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Soreness, Sore Throat, Croup, Rheumatism, Chilblains, and Pain or Soreness of all kinds, is that marvellous healing remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 19.

A wicked man is not in to any great extent when his evil deeds find him out.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing regulator and purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your druggist for proof. 20.

The success of an architect's plans depend very much upon what construction you put upon them.

W. T. Bray, Pharmacist, Wingham, Ont., writes that the sale of Burdock Blood Bitters has very largely increased in that locality, and adds that he bears very favorable opinions expressed regarding it, and, if time permited, could send many names of benefitted parties, 22.

The presiding officer of a caucus is called the chair, because everybody likes to sit down on him.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

A St. Louis hatter advertises in the Post-Despatch "the Gebhard cap." It cannot be a percussion cap.—N. Y. Journal. Why not? Gebhard went off. Detroit Free Press. Yes, and caused no small explosion. —Toronto Truth.

ELECTRIC OIL NOT ECLECTIC.

The two words have very different tions, as will be seen by references to The Ecleotric Oil has no claim to perties only by the picture on which looks like begging the popularity of Briggs' Electric Oil induce unprincipled persons to the law will allow them to do. tors of the Electric Oil have no words Eclectric or Thomas; but Briggs' Electric they do lay claim they have made them of value to

How did they use to keep co mometers were known?

If we could only get along with ing our debts, what a happy would be?

A Cure for Croup. There is remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Oil taken internally and applied to the special directions, this is household panacea for Rheumatism Joints, Pain Inflammation &c. 20.

A Wise Miss.

"A stitch in time saves nine," making garments, but also in medicine. If Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam were the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs "stitch in the side" and many a case lungs might be avoided, that rapidly develope into irreparable ution. 21.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR PAIN
Relieves and cures
RHEUMATISM
Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago
BACKACHE, HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE
SORE THROAT, QUINSY, SWELLINGS SPRAINS, BRUISES
Soreness, Cuts, Burns, Scalds
FROSTBITES, BURNS, SCALDS
And all other bodily aches and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in all languages.
The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. Vogeler & Co.)
Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

SETTLERS
Guide to Manitoba, the Great North-West, California, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska
Can get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets (enclosing 3 cent stamp) describing the country they wish to settle in.
Department of Immigration,
34 York Street, Toronto.
W. R. CALLAWAY, Manager.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio 4 King-st. East, Toronto. Portraits in oil.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLADEY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufacturer of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweller, 113 Yonge Street, Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete. C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in 1 lot $5, or $10 lots. By post prepaid. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED $10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. E. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland.

THE REJUVENATOR, THE GREAT BAL Remedy, 25c. per package post-paid. By mail. Box 17, Bronte, Ont. Agents Wanted.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of outside and inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices. Oakville, Ont.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface, heavy and very tough. Send for new price list. J. G. WOMERSLEY & CO.; Steam Printers, Toronto.

CANAL SCHOONER FOR SALE—In good repair; class A 2, valued at $ Inland Loyds; capacity, 21,000 bushels and 21,000 oak timber. Apply to J. C. GIBSON, St. Catharines, Ont.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Student's can enter from time to time until January. PROF. SMITH, M.R.C.V.S., Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION, Co-operative Life Assurance. Provides for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON, Manager and Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents Wanted.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARM AND other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WESTERN AGENCY COMPANY, 11 Adelaide-st. East, Toronto. Send for list.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-st. East. Business Agent and Valuer.

OWNERS OF FARM LANDS, CITY AND Town Properties, desiring to realize, will find purchasers by sending me full descriptions, lowest prices, and terms of payment. J. W. WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto street, Toronto.

FOR SALE—SAW MILL MACHINERY including oscillating stock and stabbing gangs of steel and iron, with Pitman's iron pulleys, fly wheels, and shafts complete. H. RATHBUN & SON. Deseronto, Ont.

JOHN J. STEVENS, GALT, ONTARIO. Draughts-man, pattern and model maker, designer of special machinery; special attention to gears, valves, etc. Inventors assisted; confidential.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE. The powerful tug Jessie, in good order, the schooner Josephine: the schooner Mary Upper; also a number of improved farms. Apply to L. McCALLUM, Stromness P. O., Ont.

YORK FARMERS COLONY, N. W. T. Free Homesteads with preemptions adjoining now open in this fertile tract. For list of present settlers, improvements now going on, and full information address Head Office, 24 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers wanted as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Manager and Director.

RUSSIAN MULBERRY—INTRODUCED from Russia: perfectly hardy throughout Ontario; bears when two years old, and may be densely as to exclude the leaves; price, postpaid and delivered at railroad station—2 feet high, 60 cents; 3 to 4 feet, 75 cents; supply limited; orders booked in rotation as received; also grapevines, both old and new varieties, at very low rates. Send for price list. J. W. JOHNSTON, Campbellford Nuserics and Vineyards, Ontario.

OIL NOT ECLECTRIC ds have very different seen by reference to il has no claim to the picture on the ke begging the question riggs' Electric Oil is pled persons to approv ow them to do. The tric Oil have no claim or Thomas; but to the they do lay claim by them of value to use to keep cool before known?
nly get along without what a happy world roup. There is no up than Hagyard's ally and applied irections, this is the nea for Rheumatism,
ammation &c. 23.
Wise Ma
time saves many s but also in mending ctorial Balsam were of Colds and Coughs, lic" and many a case of avoided, that neglected into irreparable Co
A. P.
THE GREAT GER REMEDY
FOR PA
Relieves and RHEUMAT
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumba
BACKACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTH
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELL
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Br
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCAL
And all other bodily and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOT
Sold by all Druggists
Dealers. Direction languages.
The Charles A. Vogel
(Successors to A. VOGELER
Baltimore, Md., U.
TLERS
(The Great North-W ron, British Columbi
Manitoba, or Nebraska,
Descriptive Pamphlets FRE
Particulars. Address, of Emigration,
York Street, Toron Manager.
ESSIONAL.
RTIST, HAS RETURN and opened a Studio
o. Portraits in oil life
LANEOUS.
—ADDRESS R. H. CO
Toronto. Agents wan
Trade work a spec
EY, 8 King St. E., Toron
D. Manufr of Masonic
154 King E., Toron
SHOW CARDS, WI
N west designs, Se
AMS, 4 King E., Toron for free illustrated ca te to RYRIE, the Jewel onto.
WORKING MODE
line, with lamp comple
St., East, Toronto. and Easter; in $1, $
nts. By post pre-pa
BROS., Toronto.
ND—IMPROVE
talogues free. H.
sburgh, Maryland, U.
R. THE GREAT HE
per package post-pa
Ont. Agents Wante
OAKVILLE—MAN of outside and insi Mouldings. Send f smooth surfac very tough. Send
J. G. WOODLAN
Toronto.
FOR SALE—IN GO
valued at $10,000 t 21,000 bushels whe
to J. C. GRAHA NEY COLLEGE, T
ence from October
TH, S. V. Edi
AND ASSOCIATI assurance. Provide f
V. PEMBERTON Pau
ario. Agents wante
TH OF FARMIN
other property in On NADA WEST LAN
11 Adelaide-st. Eas TO DISPOSE OF O s of any description in uild call or send part 53 and 55 King-street
nd Valuer.
LANDS, CITY AN
iring to realize, wil me full descriptions,
of payment. J. W. G.
nt, 25 Toronto street.
ILL MACHINERY,
g stock and stabbing
ith Pitman's iron pu afts complete. H. R. eronto, Ont.
GALT, ONTARIO
rn and model maker
inery; special atte
Inventors assisted RTY FOR SALE—
Jessie, in good order;
the schooner M. C. improved farms. Ap romness P. O., Ont.
OLONY, N. W. T. ith preemptions ad
e tract. For list of ments now going on ress Head Office, 1 ending settlers wan
STRONG, Managing
EY—INTRODUCED
ly hardy throughout o years old, and so eaves; price, packed station—2 feet high.
ts; supply limited;
n as received; also ew varieties, at very list. J. W. JOHN rics and Vineyard,

A Song for the Baby.

Sway the bauble and the bib,
Sweep out the pillows in the crib,
Shake out the down
Softly on the down
Lay the baby's crown.
Warm around its feet
Tuck the little sheet—
As a pea in a pod.
With a yawn and a gap,
And a dreamy little nap,
We will go, we will go.
Hie away, away-pandy
Noddy-oddy-poddy,
To the Landy-andy-pand
Or Noddy-pod.

In the shadow maker's tent,
At the twilight's soft descent,
We'll lie down to dreams
Of milk in flowing streams;
And the shadow maker's baby
Will lie down with us, may be,
On the soft, mossy pillow of the sod.
In a drowse and a doze,
All asleep from head to toes,
We will lie, we will lie,
Hie Landy-andy pandy
Noddy-oddy-poddy,
To the Landy-andy-pand
Of the Noddy-pod.

S SACRIFICE:

OR,

for Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXI. (CONTINUED).

"I am glad he is gone," said here' herself, when the trees had hid- from sight. "He is so very tire- his talk about Boston and his relatives, his friends, his horses; boys at that age are very apt to stool."

ng up her flowers and ferns she be- arrange and sort them, not taking sideration the fact that the boy in was nearly four years older than a few moments she felt rested, and up, began to hunt for little delicate singing half-aloud, and half to her- ing as the birds sang, from sheer e went feeling also aimlessly through s, heard the sound of the sweet ing, and because he had nothing to, and having a faint curiosity to the singer was, he followed the the voice as it came to him the trees. Louie could not tell ex- w it happened, but in clambering ook her foot was caught in a cre- e tried to dislodge it, failed, slip- the smooth rock and fell heavily, wrenching and spraining her ery of pain broke involuntarily lips. Bending foreward she tried her small foot out of the crack in into which it had slipped, tried, ly.

ld not do something to assist you?" a violent start Louie looked up; ance reassured her: the young man beside her was a gentleman—of e was not the slightest doubt.

as a very handsome gentleman too. chestnut hair lay soft and wavy well-shaped forehead, the shaded a mouth which ly beautiful but eyes of the chin, and the eyes what anxiously upon Louie were expressive, deep gray ones: in figure tall and well built, with a certain grace about him which made his seem better and finer than was. It was only a travelling suit, could have gone into a parlor with and would have looked better than men in their dress suits.

"I am afraid you have hurt yourself," he gently.

"I am afraid so too," answered Louie, resolute, though the cruel pain was all the color out of her face. "I caught my foot—see, and I cannot it out."

knelt down and tried as she had done bridge it, but tender as he was, the gentle touch hurt her so that she ed

"I cannot bear that."

It is so swollen I could not pull it out ut hurting you terribly," he said. "I ase off your shoe—cut it off if needs

It was a very embarrassing position to be in. Louie's white face flushed pain- but there was no help for it. She as well as he did that her foot was every instant, that it must be out of the crevice; which had proved as any trap.

treated the matter just as though it an every day occurence to find a young lady with her foot caught in and his manner helped her through awkward predicament. Unbut- the tiny buttoned boot, he managed it off. Then taking the little stock- foot in his hands, he pulled it sudhurt her terribly, two great tears drop- from the long lashes and rolled over the face blanched with pain; and look- imploringly into the sweet face with its wet eyes and quivering lips, an almost controllable impulse rose within the hand- stranger to take the little figure in his and kiss away the tears, as he could, would have done to a child. But he re- himself.

"You have been very brave," he said, ly. "And now I will tell you me. It is Evringham, Percy Evring-

CHAPTER XXII.

Evringham. Clearly and distinct- the fatal name fell upon Louie Anthon's and she heard it calmly and all unmov- The fair young face did not blanch with horror, no look of quick anguish into the sweet eyes. The name held terrible significance for her, the men- it did not awaken bitter memories, heard it now for the first time—it was as the name of any stranger would been. She had never heard the story father's brother's sin. It was best, had thought, that she should not the stain that darkened the Anthon so Louie had grown to womanhood unconscious of the sorrow and shame had laid her grandparents on her fa- side in their graves.

knew that her father once had a bro- —a brother who, before she was born, had died out on the plains of Mexico; but of the life that brother had led she knew nothing.

"And mine is Louie Anthon," she said, looking up at him.

He heard the name as she had his, thinking only that it was a pretty name and one that suited the lovely patrician face. He had been kept in ignorance of his father's tragic death, he did not know how closely the Evringham and Anthon names had once been connected. He had been brought up by his grandparents, who idolized him, who life-labor it had been to keep sorrow and care ont of his life.

"Not until he has grown to manhood shall he know how his father died!" Howard Evringham had said, "for that knowledge would sadden and darken his life!"

But Percy had grown to manhood, and his grandfather still shrunk from telling him.

"Time enough," he said to himself; "the boy is happy now, care and pain will come soon enough, and I will let him enjoy life's sunshine while it is brightest."

"And now that we have introduced ourselves, let me thank you, Mr. Evringham for your assistance," said Louie, the color coming back into her face; for, though her wounded foot still throbbed painfully, the sharp agony had subsided since her new friend had succeeded in extricating it from the crevice in the rock.

"I am sure I don't know what I should have done without you," she continued, frankly, "for I seemed to be powerless to help myself, and I think in another moment I should have fainted from pain."

"I think so myself," he answered. "I am afraid, Miss Anthon, that your foot is badly hurt. Can you bear your weight upon it?"

"Oh, yes, I think so!" she said, confidently; but when she had risen from her rocky seat and attempted to take a step forward, she found, to her great dismay, that the sprained ankle and swollen foot refused to bear her weight.

"I do not know what I shall do," she murmured, helplessly, rather appaled by the situation. "How shall I ever get back to Schaffhausen?"

"You are stopping there?" he asked.

"Yes, we were all anxious to take the trip down the Rhine. I came abroad with some friends—a family of Brentwoods."

The handsome face brightened.

"The Brentwoods?" he exclaimed. "Mr. and Mrs. William Brentwood, of New York?"

"Yes, the very same," she answered. "Are you acquainted with them?"

"I met them two or three winters ago at Aiken, South Carolina," he said, "and I liked them so very much, I shall be very glad to meet them again."

"I am very glad you have met them," said Louie. "Ah, here comes my friend! How surprised he will be, Mr. Evringham, to see you here, and me in this predicament!"

The young Bostonian was certainly very much surprised—unpleasantly so, too—when, emerging from the bushes, his hands filled with ferns and wild flowers, he found the young lady, whom he considered the most charming creature he had ever met, and with whom he had already imagined himself deep in love, seated upon a rock, conversing easily with a stranger, who was—he was forced to acknowledge to himself—as graceful and as aristocratic looking as he was handsome.

"Where in the devil did he come from?" he muttered to himself, savagely, for it was anything but soothing and comfortable to know that while he had been clambering up slippery rocks for wild flowers, venturing into damp and marshy places for ferns, and altogether putting himself to an infinite amount of trouble and inconvenience merely for the sake of winning a smile from his fair companion, some one else had been sitting beside her in this romantic and picturesque spot, talking with her, positively sunning himself in her smiles.

Louie noticed the grave expression upon his face, and she smiled a little mischievously as she introduced the two gentlemen.

"I have never met Mr. Evringham before," said the Bostonian, stiffly.

"Neither did I until a few moments ago," said Louie, quietly. "Don't look so horrified, Mr. Wentworth; I met with quite a serious accident, and I do not know what I should have done without Mr. Evringham's timely assistance." And then she went on to relate the details of the casualty which had been the means of bringing Percy Evringham into her life.

"I am awfully sorry," said Mr. Wentworth, mournfully, wondering why fate had been so unkind to him as to allow the handsome stranger to have introduced himself in such a romantic and novel-like manner.

"I did not want to go and leave you here alone, Miss Anthon; I did not think it was safe. I am afraid Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood will never trust you with me again."

"Oh! Mr. Wentworth, it was no fault of yours," said Louie; "it was only my misfortune, or rather misstep. But the question is, how am I to get back to Schaffhausen?"

"I think with my assistance, that can be accompolished without any difficulty," said the Bostonian quickly.

"Mr. Evringham has already offered me his; I think with the help of both of you, I shall be able to get along, said Louie, and Percy Evringham thanked her with a grateful glance from his expressive eyes.

Between them both, she did get along very well, and at last they came up with the rest of the party, who were surprised and pained to hear of Louie's accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood recognized Mr. Evringham at once, and were glad to see him again; their manner showed plainly that they liked him, and Percy appreciated and was sincerely grateful for their warm and cordial greeting.

Like them, he was travelling down the Rhine. He had come abroad with some college friends of his, and, while they remained in Paris, he had left them and gone into Switzerland, resolving to see a little more of Europe than they seemed to care to see. To tell the truth, he had been rather disgusted with the actions and doings of his companions. They were all well-educated, well-born and bred men; but, out of the sight of friends and relatives, away from the restraining influences of home, they had given themselves up unreservedly to the deceits of the world, of the flesh, and the devil, and had conducted themselves in a manner which certainly did not speak very well for their moral and religious training.

Percy Evringham was not a saint by any means; the blood in his veins was hot, passionate, Southern blood; he was quick tempered, impulsive, apt to do his thinking after the deed was done; he had done a great many things in the twenty-three years of his life which he would have been very glad indeed to be able to forget, things which brought a flush of shame upon his face, when he thought of them. He had seen more of the world then many men twice his age; he had made friends of men older than himself. No, Percy Evringham's moral record was not a stainless one, yet he was a better man than most of the men in his set; no one but himself had ever suffered because of any act of his, no man or woman had ever endured sorrow or shame through him. Still, quick and impulsive as he was, he had too much self-respect, too much manly pride, to calmly allow himself to sink into depths of moral filth; and when he found that his friends had evidently forgotten that they had an higher purpose to accomplish in life than the gratification of their earthly desires, he told them that he was going to leave them for awhile, and leave them he did, though they begged him to remain with them. When Mr. Brentwood found that he was travelling in the same direction as they were he invited him to remain with his party, and Percy accepted the invitation! It seemed to him there could be nothing pleasanter on earth than the trip down the beautiful Rhine in company with Louie Anthon.

The condition of Louie's foot made it impossible for the Brentwood party to leave Schaffhausen for several days, but this was no very heavy cross to any of them. The Wentworths who had not the time to remain in the little town, went on their way, to the great sorrow of Louie's ardent admirer, who went away very sad and angry to think he must leave handsome Percy at Miss Anthon's side.

"I would be willing to bet that they will go home engaged to be married," he said to himself, moodily, and then he fell to wondering if ever, in the classic city of Boston, he should meet a young lady who would in any way compare with Louie Anthon.

"I know I never will," he groaned in spirit, as visions of sundry Beacon street maidens of his acquaintance rose coldly before him; "they are all so æsthetic and intellectual, and I can't bear æstheticism and intellectuality,"

Very quickly and pleasantly passed the sunshiny summer days spent at Schaffhausen. Certainly Percy Evringham proved a most agreeable travelling companion; in a day or two all feeling of strangeness had worn away, and he seemed like an intimate and long-known friend. Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood had always been very particular regarding the people with whom their daughter came in contact; having Louie Anthon in their charge made them, if anything still more particular, and handsome and agreeable as Percy Evringham was, he would not have been allowed to join the party had they not known who he was and all about him.

When two winters previous they had met him at Aiken, South Carolina, he had been stopping at one of the large hotels there with his grandparents — proud, stately, Howard Evringham and his sweet silver-haired wife, whose gentleness and loveliness of character had won Mrs. Brentwood's heart. So it was that neither Mr. Brentwood nor his wife had any fears with regard to the bon camaraderie which in such a short time sprang up between Percy, Aline, and Louie.

A casual observer, almost any one in fact, would have said Mr. Evringham preferred Miss Brentwood to Miss Anthon. He laughed and talked so gayly with Aline, they practiced all the latest waltz steps in the quaint little parlor of the inn, they played duets and sang together; but Percy's dark-gray eyes had not the tenderness in them when they rested upon Aline's beautiful dusky face that was in them when they fell upon Louie. But Aline did not notice it. A new light had come into her velvet eyes, a new look about her red mouth. Never had any gone-by summer seemed so beautiful as this one to Aline Brentwood, never had life seemed so fair and sweet, and she had not yet asked herself the reason.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Somebody once said to me: "If you want to know a person just travel in the same party with them, and in two weeks' time you will have a truer idea of that person's character than you could have gained in a whole year's social intercourse," and I have had occasion to realize the truth of that statement. Let a party of people travel together, and they are thrown into daily contact with each other, their interest for the time being are the same, they share the same experiences, and, as a natural consequence, formality, reserve and restraint are, to a great extent, put aside. They see each other as they really are, they act out unconsciously their true natures, and sometimes totally unsuspected qualities, good as well as bad, are brought to light.

Travelling has its unpleasant as well as its pleasant side. It has a tendency to bring out all the impatience and ill humor latent in any one's disposition.

It sounds very charming when your friend who has just returned from Europe describes his trip, tells of the places he has visited, the sights he saw, grows eloquent over the grandeur of the snow-crowned Alps, expatiates upon the beauty of Italian sunsets; but he does not speak, nor do you, the interested listener, think of the deathly seasickness during the voyage over and back, the headaches produced by too much sight-seeing, the aching-limbs which were the results of mountain climbing, the patience-trying endeavors to make the waiters understand, the wearisome ride in the diligences. All these are things which are speedily forgotten, but at the time they dealt heavy blows to patience and good temper.

By the time the Brentwood party reached Cologne they understood each other perfectly, knew all each other's little failings and weakness, and liked each other all the better because they did. Their companionship, close as it had been, had not discovered any glaring faults or disagreeable traits of character. Percy knew that easy-going as Mr. Brentwood was it aroused his wrath to have a waiter bring him a piece of tough, leathery, overdone meat, and then stand by solemnly and persistently declaring that it was "rare ros bief," that it disturbed lovely Mrs. Brentwood's equanimity to be obliged to sleep in a little, cramped, close room, and that both the young ladies, charming as they were, had little tempers of their own; and they, in their turn, were all perfectly well aware that handsome, graceful Percy was very quick-tempered and impulsive.

Not by word or deed did Percy Evringham betrayed to any one of the party—not even to the girl herself—that the feelings he entertained for Louie Anthon were deep and warmer than those of mere friendship, yet so it was, when he first had seen her, crouched on the rocks in the Rhine woods, her face white with pain, the tears she could not force back clinging to her long lashes, her lips quivering like those of a grieved child, a tenderness such as he had never felt before for any human being had risen in his heart—that tenderness was the forerunner of love.

He could scarcely realize it himself when he found it was so.

He had played at being in love a good many times, had handsome Percy, but no woman's face had ever held a charm for him that Louie Anthon's did, no woman's hand as it lay in his had ever quickened his pulse as did the slightest touch of Louie's little fingers. But he had no intention, as yet, of speaking his love. Percy was proud; he had always said he would never ask a woman to be his wife until he was quite sure what her answer would be, and he was not at all sure now as to what Louie's answer would be. He knew by the way she treated him, by the way the frank brown eyes met his, that as yet her feelings for him were only those of a warm and sincere friendship; but he fondly hoped and trusted that in time that friendship would give place to love; he had not a doubt but what it would; she liked him, there was no reason why she should not love him, he must try and be content to wait.

I dare say it was egotistical to him to think as he did, but then it was scarcely Percy Evringham's fault that he had come to think that the woman he should honor with his love, should be proud and happy to accept it. His gentle grandmother had almost succeeded in spoiling him, women had petted him ever since his babyhood, and it was a perfect wonder thit he was not ten times more egotistical that he really was.

He very soon discovered that he could not devote himself to Louie as he would have liked to do, without betraying himself; he could not give himself up to perilously sweet conversations with her, because he knew he was not strong enough to keep the love in his heart from rushing to his lips; so it came about that he talked more with Aline Brentwood than he did with her, never dreaming that beautiful, proud Aline had for him the same feelings that he felt for Louie, for so it was.

It was love that had brought the new light into Aline's eyes, the new look about her lips, that made this summer seem brighter, and sunnier than any that had gone before, that made life seem so fair and sweet to her—love for Percy Evringham.

About a year previous an old friend of Mr. Brentwood's had made him a visit, and had seen Aline for the first time since she was a little girl. He was a grave thoughtful man, one who had seen much of the world, and who had made a study of men and women; and reading the passion in Aline's eyes and mouth, he had quietly said to Mr. Brentwood, "Take care to whom your daughter gives her heart; love will be more to her than it is to many woman, it will either mane or mar her life."

And what was Aline's love to do for her—was it to make or mar her fair young life?

She had not asked herself whence came the brightness that had flashed so suddenly into her life, she had not looked into her own heart and seen who she already had enshrined there. She was dreaming a bright beautiful dream—ah, so many of us have dreamed those dreams, and the awakenings are always so bitterly hard and cruel.

Aline's awakening came in this wise. It was while they were in Cologne; they were wondering through the famous cathedral one morning, Louie had gone ahead with Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood, Percy and Aline were sauntering along together, pausing to look at the pictures, the painted windows, and to read the inscriptions on the monuments, talking earnestly, as they always talked, for though Percy had never thought of loving Aline, he admired her greatly; he liked to converse with her, to watch the color come and go in the beautiful face, the ever-varying expression of the lustrous eyes. Walking so slowly they lost sight of Mr. and Mrs. Brentwood and Louie, but as they entered one of the side chapels Aline saw them.

"There they are!" she exclaimed. "I thought we would find them here. Oh, Mr. Evringham," she said, impulsively, "doesn't Louie look lovely with that red light falling over her?"

With her small ungloved hands loosely clasped together, her head raised a little, Louie Anthon was standing before the monument of the archbishop of Cologne. The sunlight, streaming through a gorgeously painted window, fell full upon her, bathing face and figure in a flood of crimson light, turning the wavy gold brown hair into a mass of molten gold, tinging the pure complexion with rose; upon the lovely face rested an expression half dreamy, half reverent, the soft eyes had a far-away look in them as though their owner's thoughts were wandering far back into the past—no pictured Madonna's face was ever purer, sweeter, fairer.

Percy Evringham stood motionless, his eyes fastened upon her, while slowly there came over his face an expression made up of the deepest, tenderest, the most absorbing love. Suddenly Louie moved from the place where she had been standing—the spell was broken. With a quivering sigh he turned to his companion.

"Miss Brentwood, I think your friend is the most beautiful girl I ever met."

Something in the tones of the low voice made Aline look up at him quickly. She saw the look of love and tenderness upon his face, the light in his eyes. In an instant she had read his heart and her own—it was as though a lightning flash had revealed them both to her—he loved Louie, and she, Aline, loved him.

It came upon her so suddenly, that for a moment she was half stunned, unable to quite understand the misery that had come upon her. It seemed as though the earth had fallen from under her feet; as if the worth and brightness of life had gone out, leaving her in cold and darkness. She shivered, and clasped her hands so tightly together, that the stones in her rings wounded the delicate flesh, wondering if she could keep down the moan of pain that was forcing itself to her lips.

[TO BE CONTINUED.

Waists.

Women, especially those of the upper classes, who are not obliged to keep themselves in condition by work, lose after middle age (sometimes earlier) a considerable amount of their height, not by stooping, as men do, but by actual collapse, sinking down, mainly to be attributed to the perishing of the muscles that support the frame, in consequence of habitual and constant pressure of stays, and dependence upon the artificial support by them afforded. Every girl that wears stays that press upon these muscles, and restrict the free development of the fibres that form them, relieving them from their natural duty of supporting the spine, indeed incapacitating them from so doing, may feel sure she is preparing herself to be a dummy woman. A great pity! Failure of health among women when the vigor of youth passes away is but too patent, and but too commonly caused by this practice. Let the man who admires the piece of pipe that does duty for a human body picture to himself the waisted form and seamed skin. Most women, from long custom of wearing these stays, are really unaware how much they are hampered and restricted. A girl of 20, intended by nature to be one of her finest specimens, gravely assures one that her stays are not tight, being exactly the same size as those she was first put into, not perceiving her condemnation in the fact that she has since grown five inches and two in shoulder-breadth. Her stays are not too tight, because the constant pressure has prevented the natural development of heart and lung space. The dainty waists of the poets is precisely that flexible slimness that is destroyed by stays. The form resulting from them are not slim, but a piece of pipe, and as inflexible. But while endeavoring to make clear the outrage upon practical good sense and sense of beauty, it is necessary to understand and admit the whole state of the case. A reason, if not a necessity, for some sort of corset may be found when the form is very redundant; this, however, cannot be with the very young and slight, but all that necessity could demand, and that practical good sense and fitness would concede, could be found in a strong elastic kind of jersey, sufficiently strong, and even stiff, under the bust to support it, and sufficiently elastic at the sides and back to injuae no organs and impede no functions. Even in the case of the young and slight an elastic bond under the false ribs would not be injurious, but perhaps the contrary, serving as a constant hint to keep the chest well forward and the shoulders back; but very stiff unyielding machines, crushing the ribs and destroying the fibre of muscle, will be fatal to health, to freedom of movement, and to beauty; it is scarcely too much to say that the wearing of such amounts to stupidity in those who do not know the consequences (for over and over again warning has been given) and to wickedness in those who do.—The Nineteenth Century.

How Good Country Roads Pay.

Very few persons take a correct view of the actual profit to farmers of good roads, or of how much they can afford to pay for them. Our daily telegrams from the West supply one hint. All along in Autumn, and not unfrequently during the winter, we can read between the lines of these dispatches that business is active, the markets brisk, everybody cheerful and hopeful in all departments of trade, manufactures, agriculture, etc., or the reverse of all this, according to the state of the country roads generally. It is a fact that in some years for months together, the whole traffic of the country, and the activity and prosperity of all classes, are largely diminished, and the losses incurred amouunt to very many millions of dollars, because the condition of the roads stops general intercourse, and practically prevents the marketing of grain and other crops at the proper season.

Another view. Take, for illustration, say the 700,000 farms in Illinois, Iowa, and Indiana. Suppose that, on the average, from one-half of them there are ten loads of grain and other products to be hauled to market, and of fuel to be brought back, a distance of ten miles on the average—we include only half the farms. Call the cost per load only $2 for man, team, and wear of vehicles, when the wagonning is good. If the prairie and other roads are soft, wet, and miry, only half a load can be taken—often the team can barely draw the empty waggon. If from the condition of the roads the number of loads must be doubled, the aggregate increased cost amounts to $7,000,000—or enough to make fourteen thousand miles of good roads at an average outlay of $500 on each mile.

Another illustration. Take a township of the regular size, six miles square. A road along each section, or square mile, east and west, or north and south, would require 36 miles. Suppose the town voted to expend $200 per mile on these roads, and that this sum would make them fairly available at all seasons. This, if paid down, would amount to $7,200, or 13½ cents per acre for the township. Will anyone question that with good roads, available at all seasons for marketing and bring home fuel, for town and church going and other travel, all the land in the region would be worth on the average at least one dollar an acre more, or three times the assessment? On a farm of 100 acres, the tax would be $31.25—not a third of the cost of an extra horse, to say nothing of his keeping. In fact, would it not pay well to expend $500 per mile on all the leading roads, amounting to $1 an acre? The annual interest on this would be but $6 or $7 for each 100 acre farm, and who would not pay that to have good roads always?—American Agriculturist.

Scene in a chemistry recitation: "Professor—Mr.——, please give the non-atomic list? Mr.—— Mercury, Cadmium, Zinc, and—and—(faint whisper from a fellow-student, "Barrium"). Mr.——, (triumphantly)—"Bay-rum."

COUNTY COUNCIL.

(Continued)

Mr. McNichol, on being introduced as Warden, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the Council for the honor conferred upon him in electing him Warden of this large county, and said it would be his endeavour to act in fairness to the best of his ability.

Mr Cameron also thanked the Council for the large vote given him, considering that he had only been in the field two hours.

On motion of Mr. Christoe, seconded by Chisholm, a committee of five members was balloted for to strike the standing committee for the year—Messrs. Christoe, McColman, Murdock, Myles, and Cameron being chosen.

The Council then adjourned till two o'clock on Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY.

Council met at 2 p. m. The Warden named Robt. Edgar as Auditor on his behalf, and John Abbey was announced on the part of the Council.

The special Committee appointed to draft standing committees for the year reported as follows:

FINANCE—Messrs. Christoe, Messenger, McColman, Stark, Murdock, Myles, McRea, Cameron, Totten, Blyth, McGirr, McGregor, Bowes, Gordon, Dunnington, McNaught, Watt, McKechnie, Chisholm,—McKechnie, chairman.

ROADS AND BRIDGES—Cameron, McIntyre, Schenk, Elliott, Mullarky, Paul, Clark, Campbell, McCallum, Vasey, Agnew—Cameron, chairman.

COUNTY PROPERTY.—Christoe, Road, Frost, Lang, Clark, Watt, Blyth—Christoe, chairman.

EDUCATION.—Miller, Myles, Shute, Hewgill, Heming, Elliott, Erskine—Hewgill, chairman.

PRINTING.—McRea, Frost, Fisher, Road, Dunnington—Frost, chairman.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON COMMUNICATIONS AND MEMORIALS FROM OTHER COUNTY COUNCILS, &c.,—Chisholm, Christoe, McRea, McColman, Murdoch—MacRae, chairman.

By-law appointing Auditors and fixing their salaries at $50, and By-law appointing Geo. Ingils, Esq., High School Trustee, were introduced and filled up in committee of the whole.

The Reeve of Proton entered and filed his certificate.

On the motion for appointing of committee to examine into validity of the Treasurer's securities, some discussion elicited by the statement of Mr. MacRae that the committee had never felt justified in going to the expense of making due searches in the registry office—several members asserting that they understood full information had always been obtained. The matter was finally dropped on the understanding that the special committee appointed for this purpose already possess full powers to get information at the expense of this Council, according to statute.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The Council met at 2 p. m.—The Warden in the chair.

By-law 311, appointing County Auditors, and By law 312 appointing a High School Trustee, were read a third time and passed.

On motion of Mr. Murdock, seconded by Mr. McRae, Messrs. J. Cameron and A. M. Stephens were appointed members of the Board of Audit.

Mr. McKechnie presented report of Finance Committee, recommending: 1st—That a special grant of $20 be made to the Prisoner's Aid Association of Toronto; 2nd—that the Non Resident Land List, showing receipts and payments for each municipality, be printed with the minutes: 3rd—that the necessary steps be taken to appoint County Valuators; 4th—that a grant of $50 be made for contingencies to the Clerk of the peace, in answer to his communication, for that purpose, in consideration of which he is to furnish free information to County Constables, Coroners and Magistrates on the duties of their office; 5th—recommending payment of a number of accounts amounting in all to $65.65.—Report adopted.

McKechnie, McGregor—That a committee be appointed to consider the propriety of establishing a House of Industry, and make full enquiries as to probable cost, &c., also that the Reeve of each municipality furnish a statement at the June session as to the amounts paid for charities in the several municipalities during the year 1882.

Mr. McKechnie thought that if each Reeve would furnish such a statement of payments for charity, there would be a basis on which to form an estimate more likely to be satisfactory than any they had before.

Mr. Blyth thought that these statements would not form a fair basis for estimate, because many recipients of charity only receive help now and then, while the charities of a House of Industry would be a permanent expense.

Mr. Frost hoped the resolution would pass, and read extracts from report of committees of previous County Councils, showing that these committees looked with some favour on the idea, but that any such establishment as this county would need should be much less costly than estimates considered by those committees.

The motion was then put and lost.

McColman, Cameron—That the clause of the report of committee defining the duties of county valuators, (of the June session) be rescinded—carried.

The motion was made simply to obviate the restriction in regard to time of concluding the labors of the valuators. The whole matters of county valuation, was in the form of a By-law which had passed its first and second readings in June last.

The council then went into committee of the whole on the By law—Mr. Chisholm in the chair;—when a dead lock resulted as to the effect of rescinding the report above mentioned, which formed the basis of the preamble of the By-law.

The By-law was accordingly pronounced dead by advise of the County Solicitor, and the committee rose.

McRae, McGirr—the County Solicitor was instructed to draft a By-law for the appointment of county valuators. A By-law was accordingly introduced, and read a first and second time.

Mr. McGregor, Reeve of Proton, presented a petition for the establishment of a monthly fair in the village of Hopeville.

On motion a By-law was passed establishing such fair.

THURSDAY EVENING.

The Council met at 7 p. m.

By-law No. 335 was read to amend By-laws establishing fairs at Walter's Falls, Markdale, Meaford and Holstein, in reference to certain limitations respecting auction sales, horse racing, &c.

By-law 313 to appoint county valuators was taken up in committee of the whole

Clause 1 to nominate valuators, was opposed by Messrs. McRae and Totten, on the ground that no three men could equalize our assessment better than the Reeves and Deputy Reeves themselves,

Mr McColman declared that the only way for all the townships to get fair play to have valuators.

Mr. Dunnington was strongly in favor of valuators, because it required personal inspection of the land by all the valuators, and for this Council to attempt the equalization would be to work in the dark.

Mr McRae thought it fair enough to appoint members of this Council as valuators—he felt quite easy in leaving his own constituency to their valuation.

Mr. McIntyre did not care to be Valuator, but wanted the matter referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. McKechnie thought that the council was satisfied with the equalization made eight years ago; but the mistake of that equalization was that no account was taken of the greater value of certain townships by reason of the large villages they contained, and also that no proper account was taken of the personal property in the villages—hence the need of another equalization.

Mr. Elliott asked to be definitely informed as to the Solicitor's opinion. He was strongly in favour of Valuators, but was against appointing members of this Council.

Mr. Bowes had been in favour of Finance Committee doing the work, but after hearing his opinions he was decidedly in favor of appointing Valuators. He also was opposed to appointing members of the Council to the position.

Mr. McRae suggested that the matter be settled by the members from each riding nominating one man they had confidence in.

Clark, Bowes—That there be three Valuators appointed, and that they be appointed separately. The mover detailed the unsatisfactory result of the attempt of the Finance Committee to settle the matter last June.

Mr. McGirr pointed out the desirability of having among the valuators some man who thoroughly understands the value of town property as well as farming land,

The committee rose without deciding the matter, and it was understood that the County Solicitor be questioned again as to legality of appointing members of this Council as Valuators.

Report no 2 of Finance Committee was presented, recommending payment of a small account for telegraphing; and that the salary of John Mills, chief constable for the county, be raised to $150.

The report was passed, and the Council adjourned till 10 a. m. on Friday.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The Council met at 10 a. m.

The yeas and nays being called for on the clause of the report of Finance Committee passed last night, recommending an extra $50 to Mr. Mills as Chief Constable, showed that it was carried with only Messrs. McRae and McGirr dissenting.

By-law 314 was read a third time and passed.

The County Solicitor gave his opinion on the disputed point as to whether the Council could legally appoint some of its own members as County Valuators, to the effect that it would not be legal to appoint them while they remained members, but that he thought they might resign their membership before the By law should take effect. He pointed out as a certainty legal course that the By law might be filled out with the names of the gentlemen now, if they thought fit, and leave the third reading and final passing of the By-law till the June session and meantime the gentlemen appointed could resign.

Council went again into committee of the whole on the By-law to appoint County Valuators—Mr. Frost in the chair.

Mr. Stark moved that Messrs. Myles, Murdoch and Hugh Reid be County Valuators.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Reid, seconded by Mr. McGirr, that the names be voted on separately.

Dr. Christoe who had been absent during yesterday's sessions, rose to oppose strongly the appointment of members of the County Council, on the ground that the spirit of law would prohibit the Council from even naming a member for the position, and taking the initiatory steps to appoint him County Valuator. He further thought it would be the best plan to leave the whole matter to the Finance Committee. He pointed out that if the Valuators took 300 days, that would only leave fifteen days to examine each municipality.

Mr. Blyth supported Mr. Murdoch for the position, because he believed him to be the best man for it, saying that good men were scarce.

The amendment to appoint the Valuators separately was carried.

The following nominations were then made: Mr. Jas. Gardiner was then proposed by Messrs. Read and Bowes; Mr. Murdoch by Messrs. Blyth and Schenck; Mr. W. Bull, of Wiarton, by Messrs. Clark and Totten; Mr. R Myles by Messrs. Stark and Hewgill; Mr. Hugh Reid by Messrs. McColman and McGirr; Mr. A. M. Stephens by Messrs. Chisholm and Miller.

Mr. Jas. Murdoch was elected as first Valuator; Mr. Robt. Myles as second; Mr. Hugh Reid as third valuator, in terms of the By-law.

The committee arose and reported progress, and the Council adjourned till 3 p. m.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Mr. Hewgill presented report of Educational Committee recommending that report of School Inspector for South Grey be printed; and also recommending payment of Examiners for attendance at examinations.

Some discussion took place on the first clause of the report, Messrs. Cameron, McIntyre, and Elliott being of the opinion that the particulars of the Inspector's visits to the different schools were not of sufficient importance to warrant the expense of printing;—while Mr. Blyth thought the report should be printed, as it was very convenient to refer to at annual meetings. It was finally decided to print the Inspector's communication, omitting the detailed account of his visits; and the report was passed as amended.

Mr. Cameron presented report of Road and Bridge Committee, stating that in reference to a claim of Wm. Jackson for keeping up fences on a road allowance in Glenelg, the committee could make no recommendation, as they had neither facts nor estimates to go upon. Report adopted.

On motion, the Treasurer's statement, showing balance due by municipalities, and also the amounts to the credit of the municipalities down to the latest date; also the Auditor's report for 1882, were ordered to be printed with the minutes of January session.

Dr. Christoe presented report of County Property committee, recommending payment of a number of accounts; and that a cupboard be provided in accordance with request of

(Continued on 5th page.)

Horse For Sale,

A GOOD GENERAL PURPOSE HORSE 7 years old, warranted sound. For sale by the undersigned will be sold cheap for cash. Apply to

JAMES KELLY,

Opposite the Irish Lake, Artemesia.
125-129.

WANTED

—AT—

The Eclipse Mill.

100,000 ft. Cherry, 500,000 ft. Hemlock, 100,000 ft. Baswood, also elm and maple sawlogs, and 800 cords cedar bolts 4 feet 8 inches long for which the Highest price will be paid.

Sparling Brothers, Proprietors.
125-129

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

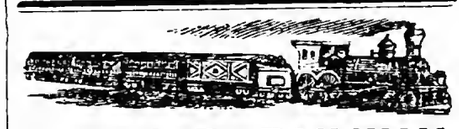
Is now giving General Satisfaction,

—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.



GEO. MOORHOUSE.
125 151.

FOR SALE.

A BRICK DWELLING with garden. This is a very desirable residence, will be sold cheap for cash or on reasonable terms.

A. TURNER & Co.
Medical Hall

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NORTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.				Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
1 50	0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. — EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.90 to $0.94; Spring $0.90 to $0 94; Barley, 5-c; Peas, 68; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $0.00; Pork, 7.5C to 8 15; Flour, $4.25 to $5 00; GrassSeed, $1.75.

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.85 to $0.93; Spring, $0.88 to $0.93; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68c; Oats, 36c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $9.00; Pork, $7.50 to $8.00

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.99 to $1.01; Spring, $0.99 to $1 03; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 41c to 43c Peas, 70c to 72c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.37; Potatoes, per bag. 75c to 85c; Butter, dairy. 17c to 20c; eggs 30c to 32c.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store, MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

ALL THE NEWS FOR

Toronto Daily

THE ONLY ONE-CENT EVENING PAPER IN

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR
25 CENTS A MONTH
ONE CENT

☞ Less than Half the price of any other Morning Paper

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY canvassing for it; agents wanted in all towns and villages; write for terms and sample copy.

WORLD OFFICE, TORONTO.

NOTICE TO BUSINESS MEN.

W. J. ROWE

Barrhead

UNDER THE OLD PLACE

Gristing and Chopping done every day. Farmers from a distance can get their stuff home with them.

All orders for Flour and Feed filled.

W. J. ROWE.

October 28th 1882.

W. C. RICHARDSON

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, &c.—Residence on Main St., Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883.

THE GREAT MICHIGAN

THE DETROIT WEEKLY

POST AND TRIBUNE

Only $1.00 per Year

Contains all the news of the world from all parts of the world. As a newspaper it is superior on the continent, in the character of news it furnishes, and in giving valuable information worth the subscription price.

MANITOBA News alone is worth it interesting to all. Post pays. Want 10,000 subscribers this year, and as a premium to all we send a copy of KENDALL'S The book is not a humbug or worthless, is "worth its weight in gold" to who owns a horse. It was first 50 cents, and contains nearly Recollect the book and paper for $1. Sample copy of paper Address

THE POST & TRIBUNE
124-4w.

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,
—AND—
All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, at Hours from

GEO. GRANT

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality, all at prices.

TO SELL OR RENT

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 100 acres, 100 cleared, good building on. Terms easy. Apply to James Postmaster, near the premises, or to M. S. KELLOW, Tara.

November 14th, 1882.

FARM FOR SALE

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well ed, good orchard bearing good log house barn. Situated 2 half miles from worth. A bargain will be given. above property, for particulars apply Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. Eisenbarne.

Supplement to the "Standard."

Correspondence.

—We wish it distinctly understood not hold ourselves responsible for expressed by our correspondents

Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—Having attended some of the agricultural meetings I have heard topics discussed. One above all the farmers seem to have their minds upon, viz: A change of seed grain change, and that this change should be periodically. But when the matter further discussed as to how this should be brought about so that all avail themselves of the benefits, the seemed to terminate rather abruptly it became evident that a large sum of money would be required for a purpose which is not available. Some look our Provincial Government should render assistance. Others thought it very hard to reach them, for you know, Sir, government benches are very high a great deal of climbing is required to, and farmers are slow at making their wants known at headquarters. therefore Government has not been made aware of the matter referred to, (change of seed grain a necessity in the Province.) Therefore, they having no practical knowledge of our wants we cannot. strictly speaking blame them until they refuse. But judging from one act of theirs, viz., the establishing of the so called Model Farm, now called Experimental Farm, we believe they must have been wrongly advised, or at least have not acted in the best interests of the farming community in expending such very large sums of the public money in maintaining the institution referred to, as those holding office are annually realizing their thousands, and a few others a great number of whom are foreigners, are the principal parties benefitted. And verily had the farmers of Ontario been consulted prior to the establishing of this Model Experimental Farm ninety-nine out of every hundred would have said "away with another uncalled for expenditure is the Government Creameries. Now, how these institutions will be carried on in the interests of even a majority of the agriculturists of the Province seems to me impossible. If there be but three or four in the Province how will they be reached by the majority of the people, or even suppose there were in each electoral district what good would they be? Now suppose one of these creameries established at Flesherton for East Grey, how can you imagine the whole Riding would be benefitted. Consider the distance to be travelled and the class of goods to be carried. One man, say on a Spring morning milks his cows in Shelburne and another at Thornbury, ask yourselves what state the milk would be in for straining by the time it would reach Flesherton. We think it would require Mr. Wood to have more experience than he has yet had at the Model Farm, even admitting that he has no superior at churning, before he could make the gild edge butter he talks of. But suppose there be one established in each municipality all would not avail themselves of it. To a great many it would be of no use to go, as on the success of good butter making a great deal depends on the facilities afforded those who have the butter to make. All have not as yet, as you well know, the same facilities. I could point to some butter makers who are almost invariably prize winners at our exhibitions. They have their stone or brick milk houses, the floors being laid with stone, excellent spring water to use, and good clear spring water almost in every pasture field for their cattle to drink. Others have not these facilities within their reach, therefore they cannot compete with those who have. Of course I am free to admit some butter makers lack in experience and, perhaps too proud to learn, while a great many to say the least are careless. But will a Government Creamery remedy this? We think not; and further it is well known and admitted that the success of butter making, both in quantity and quality, greatly depends on the breed of cattle and the food supplied. Can the Government supply this? We think not. It is quite evident there are too many circumstances to be taken into consideration in connection with butter making for any such institution to be of general service, and if Mr. Wood does happen to come on with a staff of salaried officers, one carrying a thermometer, and another a lactometer, and a third a barometer, and a fourth carrying a specific gravity bottle, together with a large Government churn and two large Newfoundland dogs to do the tramping, to the butter makers of this part of the country it would appear more ridiculous than otherwise, and would be a wasteful expenditure of public money, no good resulting therefrom.

Now, what the farmers of Ontario is in need of is a renewal of seed grain, especially Spring wheat and barley. The matter has been well discussed at some of our annual agricultural meetings, all agreeing, and judging from experience that a change from a distance would warrant an increase in yield of about five bushels to the acres. Now, in order that we may have some idea of what this increase of five bushels per acre meant it becomes necessary to use figures which I shall give without exaggeration. Say each municipality in the county of Grey has 400 farmers raising on an average 10 acres of Spring wheat averaging 15 bushels per acre, this would be for each township 60,000 bushels by sowing new seed; the yield would be increased say 2½ bushels to the acre. This would be, as you can readily see. 10,000 bushels gained to each township or 170,000 bushels gained for the county of Grey, and for the Province of Ontario a gain of 833,000 bushels in Spring wheat, not speaking of seed barley which on change of seed would be equally profitable. Now I am positive that all farmers who know whaat change of seed grain means will agree with me that I have made a very low calculation regarding the profits which might be expected from the change of seed grain referred to. I ask is not the matter well worthy the consideration of any Government if they could see their way clear to let the farmers' wives make the butter and they to work and import good seed grain. Sir John would throw off the duty, railroads, no doubt. in Canada would carry at low rates and seed could be supplied to farmers at a reasonable cost. The agriculturalists by this act would at once derive a great benefit. It would contribute largely to the prosperity of our country. In two or three months the Government would get back their money with the assurance that they had done a good deed and nobody hurt.

THOS. KELLS.

SHILOH'S CATARRHEMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

Two passengers went to the station last week. One said "Let us put some crape on the door.' The other wanted to know what for. "For the late train."

MAPLE WANTED.—A large quantity of clear maple in bolts or logs wanted for which a good price will be paid in cash. Apply to M. & W. Armstrong.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION C

This is beyond question the most ful Cough Medicine we have ever doses invariably cure the worst Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, wonderful success in the cure of tion is without a parallel in the medicine. Since its first discovery been sold on a guarantee, a test other medicine can stand. If you Cough we earnestly ask you to try it 10cts, 50 cts. and $1.00. If your s re, Chest, or Back, Lame, use Porous Plaster. Sold by Wm. Brown's Store Markdale.

A crustic wit, in speaking of ecunious friend, said—"He his debts just like clockwork tick, tick."

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend Medicines, but when we know of really is a public benefactor, and does tively cure, then we consider it our impart that information to all. Electers are truely a most valuable medi will surely cure Billiousness, Fever Stomach Liver and Kidney Com even when all other remedies know whereof we speak, and can commend them to all.—Ezch.—Sold cents a bottle, by A. Turner & Co.

The fool goeth out in a when he doesn't know a boom breaker: but the wise man pebbles on the shore and flirts the girl in the pink dress.

FREE OF COST.

All persons wishing to test the great remedy—one that will positively Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma chitis, or any affection of the Throat Lungs—are requested to call at A. T Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle King's New Discovery for Consumption of cost, which will show you what a dollar-size bottle will do.

To be sure of good weight the barber shop on Saturday night

GIVEN AWAY.

We cannot help noticing the liberal made to all invalids and sufferers King's New Discovery for Consumption You are requsted to call at A. Turner Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle cost, if you are suffering with Coughs Severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bron Hay Fever, Loss of Voice, Hoarseness any affection of the Throat or Lungs will positively cure you.

Woman's inhumanity to woman outbalanced by her insane devotion man.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. Price cents per box. For sale by A. Turner

(Continued from 4th page.)

Ingis, Esq. Report was adopt-e Council again went into com of the whole on by-law to apt County Valuators, and consider ndry clauses, as follows:

se 2, providing that Valuators
d procure proper books to record
gress of their labours; clause 3, ying the time when they should nce their work (fixed up with Feb. 15th;) clause 4, instruct em to ascertain the relative val-eal property in each municipal-use 5, that they should note neral character of the diff rent of each township—swamps, and, good land, &c.; clause 6,
y should fix the average value municipality to the best of judgment, with due reference to mount of cleared land, facilities rts, &c.; clause 7, that the sevns and villages should be spe-taken into consideration in g up their valuation; clause 8, any other matter they may con-of importance to this Council, be included in their reports;
9, that they should report un-th to the Council when through ir work; clause 10, that their muneration should be $3 per day, ing expenses, stationery, &c.
additional clause was moved by McColman, that this By-law come force on Feb. 15th next, which, the previous clauses, was passed mittee of the whole.
e Council adjourned till 9 o'clock aturday morning.

SATURDAY MORNING.

ved by Messrs. Chisholm and , that the Warden and Clerk be rized to sign a petition for the ishment of a direct mail by boat g from Owen Sound to the up-ports, and to request Goverun-to grant a subsidy to such line s for this purpose—carried.
motion to read By-law 313, to County Valuators, a third
Mr. Chisholm moved in amend-seconded by Mr. Clark, that e of Wm. Brown, one of the s and Sound assessors, be sub-for the name of Hugh Reid, ator.
mover explained that he had no objection to Mr. Reid, but it not doing justice to the towns lages not to place at least one on the Board of Valuators who ly understood the value of town illage property. He personally ught Mr. Reid to be the only legal-pointed Valuator, but he was the e from the North Riding, so he ved to substitute Mr. Brown's
e. e amendment was lost by 10 to oved further in amendment by Christoe, seconded by Mr. —— it is not expedient, or in accord-with law or right, to appoint bers of this Council as Valuators, therefore that the By-law receive six months hoist.

Mr. Christoe went on to detail the ion of equalizing the assessment ch had been attempted by the Fi-Committee, showing how reasble and fair it seemed, and thought matter should be referred back to Finance Committee. What was use of passing a By-law which ld bring such a large expense upon unty, and which might be quash-causing the expense to go for ing? He had no objection to men themselves who were appoint-but it was not right, it was not to their constituents, it was not at they were sent here to do, to oint members of their own body to erative position. He declared the law not worth the paper it was ten on, and if he chose, he could kmate the Council within twenty-hours if this By-law passed, by ing a writ to the Warden to stop eedings under the By-law.
Mr. Chisholm further strongly sup-ted the same views.
Mr. McRae supported the By-law challenged Dr. Christoe to point the clause of any yet which made appointment illegal.
Mr. McColman thought the By-law
ite enough, and said the Council ght to do what is right whether it s law or not. He thought the ing against the By-law now was gely because no Valuator lived right the town of Owen Sound, and said Myles was a practical man who derstood the value of houses as well farming land.
Mr. Chisholm disavowed any such ish motive, and depreciated such air action as trying to raise a feel-against the towns by attributing h motives. He called upon the ncil to vote in accordance with ir convictions of right and justice.
Mr. Gordon said it could not be ex-ted that the Valuators would examine every piece of farm or village property in the country, or they could not get through their work in five years; he thought work should be done by examining in a more general way, and then revising the assessment roll of each municipality.

Mr. Blyth supported the By-law and said the legal question was of small account. He thought it was not at all necessary to have a towns man as valuator, as an intelligent experienced farmer could estimate the value of tow property. He declared the impossibility of the Finance Committee settling the matter fairly—how could a man 50 miles away give an intellegent vote on the value of the township when the Reeves and Deputy Reeves of that township and the next one would dispute the value to the exient of $8 or $10 an acre?

Mr. Bowes thought Messrs. Myles, Reid and Murdock were just as good men as could be appointed, but he would certainly oppose what appeared the illegal action of appointing Council members as Valuators.

Mr. Dunnington was against the By-law because of its illegality, but criticised the action of Messrs Chisholm and Christoe is appearing willing to swallow the illegal point if they only got their man appointed instead of one of the names on the By-law.

Mr. Stark said that if the By-law were quashed, it would only cost a two days' session to meet and re-enact it. He thought they should go ahead.

Mr. McKechnie wanted to see Messrs. Myles and Murdock act as Valuators; but he wanted to see the appointment made legally, and so would oppose the third reading at this session. He still thought some man should be Valuator who understood thoroughly the value of town property. He would oppose Dr. Christoe's amendment.

Mr. McIntyre wished the matter could be settled by the Finance Committee—if there were only honesty enough in the Council to decide fairly.

Mr. Frost thought that the Valuators might go too far in examining each lot by itself—the main thing was to grasp an idea of the value of the lad as a whole. Reporting under oath did not seem to him a guarantee of even and fair justice, because men were naturally prejudiced in favor of the townships that they had represented and worked for so long, even if they desired to do justice to all. They would probably expect to be elected again when the work was done, and they would want to do work that would give satisfaction to their own constituents. If they really acted fairly, they would be likely to be defeated—such things had occurred in the past, and might again.

The amendment was then put and lost by 14 to 21.

Mr. McKechnie moved, seconded by Mr.——, That the third reading of the By-law be deferred till the next meeting of the Council.

Messrs. McRae and Christoe supported Mr. McKechnie's amendment, because the appointments could be legally made at the next meeting, and the council could not expect the Valuator's report by the June session any way, so that this Council would lose nothing by deferring the matter.

Mr. Blyth said just the same arguments were being gone over now that were advanced yesterday, and the only object of those who supported the present amendment, was to put it off altogether.

Mr. McKecnie's amendment was then put and lost.

Totten,. Clark—That Wm. Bull's name be substituted for Mr. Reid's as Valuator—lost.

The motion for the third reading of the By-law was then carried by a vote of 22 to 13.

The yeas and nays being called for, stood as follows: Yeas—Messrs. Elliott, Messenger, McCallum, McColman, Campbell, Hewgill, Stark, Lang, Paul, Watt, Erskine, McRae, Mullarky, Cameron, Shute, Blyth, Schenock, Fisher, Clark, McGirr, McIntyre, McGregor—22.

Nays—Christoe, Totten, Agnew, Bowes, Read, Gordon, Dunnington, Vasey, McNaught, McKechnie, Chisholm, Frost, Miller—13.

Chisholm, Miller—That the County Property Committee be instructed to consider the cost of procuring a safe for the protection of valuable documents in the office of the Clerk of the County Court, and report to the Council—lost.

Mr. Frost presented report of the Printing Committee, recommending payment of the account of J. Bumerford for $26.00; that tenders be asked for printing 1000 copies of Minutes; and that the committee have power to call and accept tenders for printing before the June session—Report adopted.

(Continued on 8th page.)

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for prepairing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 75-127

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Naussau stree New York. 20

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 14, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P O. 117-tf.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

J. W. FORD.

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILLS

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Goderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences, Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN-FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 75-127

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN.

75-127 42 Cedar St., New York.

Cold Great chance to make money. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. Any one can do the work properly from the first start. The business will pay more than ten times ordinary wages. Expensive outfit furnished free. No one who engages fails to make money rapidly You can devote your whole time in the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address. STINSON & Co., Portland Maine. 71-126

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and imitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—

If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They gusrantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficien proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

Harness Establishmen!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

Doll & Brown

As Mr. Doll is leaving Markdale to go into the Wholesale Jewellery Business in Toronto, (and not wishing to leave Markdale altogether,) he has entered into partnership with Mr. W. A. BROWN, late of Flesherton, who is a practical watchmaker and jeweller of over 15 years experience, and comes with the best of recommendations from some of the leading watchmakers in the Dominion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the business in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will be done in a workmanlike manner.

All work will be guaranteed, and all goods sold will be found as represented, or money refunded at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers.

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

A new daily paper is to be published at Ottawa.

There is a strike among the employees of the Perth car works.

The total majority of Mr. Gagnon in Kamouraska is 59.

At Bracebridge, the steamer Flora Barnes was burned to the level of the ice.

Another instance of friends having to ransom bodies stolen by Montreal medical students is reported.

At Kingston a party of eight women were immersed recently by a sleigh breaking through the ice.

A man named Simpson was scalped by a falling brick at the new public building at Hamilton.

The Canadian Pacific have just secured a large space at the Amsterdam exhibition, which opens next May.

Timothy Milloy, murderer of Mr. Nesbitt, at Longue Point, was committed for trial at the March Assizes.

Quite a scene occurred at the recent annual meeting of the Royal Canadian Insurance Company.

H. F. Depsard's block at West Lynne, containing $20,000 worth of general merchandise, was destroyed by fire.

It is expected that the services of the extra staff employed on the census will be dispensed with after next June.

Carl Oslen, the interpreter at the immigration agency, Ottawa, missing for about two weeks, is said to be in Chicago.

The late Bishop Pinsonneault was buried with much solemnity and little pomp, his will forbidding it.

Otto S. Weeks, Q C., a leading barrister of Nova Scotia, and M.P.P. for Guysboro', has been arrested for wife beating.

At Moncton, N. B., the gymnasium building belonging to Sackville Collegiate Institute was burned down recently.

The second officer in command of this year's artillery team at Shoeburyness will be selected from "A" or "B" battery.

Miss Hermanie Letellier, the youngest daughter of the late Lieut.-Govenor Letellier, was reported dying on Thursday last.

Miss Costigan, daughter of Hon. John Costigan, has been married to Mr. Walter Armstrong of Frand Falls, N.B.

Messrs. Gobier & Co.'s dry-good store, Montreal, has been damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars by fire.

Charles Smith, a colored man, made a dash for liberty, out of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, but was re-captured.

Hy. Bulmer has been asked to be a candidate for the mayoralty of Montreal. Three thousand names were signed to his requisition.

A painter named George Baker, living with his stop-daughter at No. 63 Dalhousie street, Ottawa, tumbled down stairs and killed himself.

A Kingston lady, for a second time, has relapsed into a sort of trance, having little feeling, and dreamy appearance, and the condition of utter helplessness.

A man named John H. Hill, of Turtle Mountain, formerly of Milton, Ont., where he has a family, attempted to cut his throat near Waukapa.

The Federal bank is suing J. H. Blumenthal, at Montreal, for $1,567, part of the paper deposited by the absconder, Louis Lewis, Blumenthal's son-in-law.

Captain Abbie Thompson says they have come to Kingston to stay; that at Kingston the Salvation Army will be found when the angel Gabriel blows his trumpet.

The Lunenburg, U. S. bank, was robbed of $5,000, by a young man named Guy, who when arrested disclosed the hiding place, and the whole amount was recovered.

As Alf. Ailworth, clerk in Smart's Bank, Kingsville, was locking the bank door he was pounced upon by three masked men, gagged, and dragged into the bank, and witnessed the cleaning out of the safe.

UNITED STATES.

Night watchman Lynch was badly burned at the New York dock fire.

The Newhall House inquest is closed. The verdict is not yet made known.

There is much ill-feeling existing among the students of Hillside College.

The decrees of the United States public debt for January was $13,636,883.

The ship Black Hawk, from New York, lost seven of her crew on the passage.

Sam Wakefield (colored), ex-state senator suicided by shooting at New Orleans.

An extensive salt producing field has been discovered at Warsaw, New York State.

It is rumoured Secretary Frelinghuysen proposes to resign on account of ill-health.

Congress has voted by two to one not to put a duty of ten per cent on quinine.

The House Ways and Means Committee has decided to report a bill preventing the importation of adulterated tea.

Henry A. Bewen was indicted for corruptly endeavouring to influence the juror Dickson in the star route case.

Foreman's gas building at Dayton, O., a $100,000 structure, was destroyed by an explosion of coal gas. One man was killed.

A Port Colborne. Ont., boy, sued his late master, a Buffalo druggist, for discharging him and throwing him through a window. He got $1,000.

Mrs. Green, widow of a member of the chamber of commerce, New York, has donated $57,000 to the chamber for the benefit of unsuccessful merchants.

Young Carlile, the murderer, was lynched at Kansas. He confessed he was influenced to the committal of the murder by reading of the exploits of Jesse James.

At Erie, Pa., Geo. Riddle was discovered with a terrible gash in his skull above the eye, and upon regaining consciousness made oath that he was set upon by three sons of Jos. Bettolini, an old Corsican, whom Riddle slew in that city thirty years ago

GENERAL.

The murders of Lord Mountmorris have been arrested.

At Alexandria great distress prevails among the poorer Europeans.

Bismark is indisposed, and will probably be confined to bed for several days.

The St. Petersburg banking house of Jacobson is reported to have suspended.

Information relating to crimes committed in Ireland, continues to come up freely.

The British gunboat Foster has gone to the Isle of Sky to over-awe the crofters.

The Czar and Czarina will proceed about the middle of April to Moscow for coronation in May.

A number of warrants are still out in Ireland against the members of the secret organizations.

The German Progressist party's attacks on the army have greatly irritated the Government.

A steamer and two other vessels were wrecked off Lundy Island. The crews of all three were drowned.

No agreement has been arrived at between Austria and Roumania in regard to the Danubian question.

German officers in the employ of the Porte have drawn up a plan for the reorganization of the Turkish army.

Members of the criminal societies in Ireland are becaming terrified, and are offering to turn informers.

At Bombay twenty-three persons have been killed and twenty-eight injured during a panic in a wool factory.

Mr. Chamberlin, speaking at Swansea, said the next session of Parliament would be interesting, but not exciting.

The bill proposing a loan or 76,155,000 marks for railway purpose has been introduced into the Prussian Diet.

The barque Eliza, from Burges, Nfld. has arrived at the Island of Jersey. Her commander, Capt. Cox, is dead.

The cantonal Government of Neuschatel has issued a proclamation condemning the recent attack upon the Salvation Army.

John Kynaston Cross, member of Parliament, says the Indian cotton trade is proving that England may well stand by her own strength.

An injunction was applied for in London at the suit of the Cunard Steamship Company, restraining David MacIver from trading under the name of Burns & MacIver.

Absurdities of Men's Dress.

"Knee-breeches are coming into use in Boston," said a fashionable Blank street tailor.

"For every-day wear?"

"No, not yet; but that will come soon enough. I mean for evening parties. I am making a pair of knee-breeches for a young man to wear evenings when he goes in full dress. Several of our 'toniest' young men are wearing them at dinners and at parties. In New York a number of young men moving in the best circles have resolved to wear knee-breeches with full dress."

"One result of Oscar Wilde's example and preaching, I suppose?" ventured the inquiring newspaper man.

"Oh, no; Wilde didn't start it. Haven't you heard of Gotch? Don't you know that Gotch says that men are comfortably and conveniently dressed, but that beauty is conspicuously absent in their attire?"

It appears, observes the Boston Herald, that this rival of Oscar had put his ideas regarding men's dress into print. Trousers are not economical, inasmuch they get baggy at the knee long before they are worn out, and they are always getting dirty at the ankles. They are not specially adapted either for cold or wet. On a wet day it is the part from the knee downward that catches the rain and necessitates the changing of the whole garment. Indeed, it is the way in which they ignore the knee-joint which renders trousers so practically objectionable. It is at this joint they drag, and not only spoil their own shape, but inflict a sense of tightness over the whole body by means of the braces.

Why are buttons placed on the back of a coat? Mr. Gotch remarks that the tailors say that they are there to "mark the waist." But why should the waist be marked? As a matter of fact, the only reason for the existence of these two buttons is that they are a survival from the time when they were of use, when men buttoned back the long flaps of their coats to walk more freely, or found them useful in sustaining the sword-belt. Another rudimentary organ may be found at the end of the sleeve. There is always a cuff marked generally by a double row of stitches, which performs no useful service, unless it is to remind us that our forefathers had facing to their sleeves, and that the little buttons which still appear at the end were of real use when the sleeves were tight at the wrist. Another inevitable feature of the coat is the collar. In old times this collar was of some service; it was large and turned up well in inclement weather; in order to allow of its buttoning properly around the neck, a nick was necessary. But, though we hardly ever think of turning up an ordinary coat-collar, and find it of little use if we do, we still preserve both it and the nicks as survivals. The stove-pipe hat, too, is only the carcass on which our ancestors were wont to display ribbons and knots and other gauds. In itself it is both ugly and uncomfortable. Then we wear absurd neckties that do not tie and pins that do not pin.

Sunlight in Stables.

All barns, stables, sheds and other buildings intended for the shelter of domestic animals should be so arranged as to command all the sunlight possible. For this purpose invariably place the stalls on the eastern and southern sides of the building. The windows should be large and sufficiently numerous. There is no fear of too much sun light, either in the house or in the barn. We have no right to deprive our animals, any more than our children, of that which has been diffused so liberally.

A DAY IN A COFFIN.

A Girl's Remarkable Story of How She Was Saved From Premature Burial.

"Here is a young woman who has had as curious an experience, I think, as any you ever heard of," said a Greenpoint lady to the reporter. "Clara, show him the plate."

Miss Clara Munce, who was sewing upon a dress for the lady who spoke, laid aside her work, and, going to a drawer in the sideboard, took out a silver coffin plate, which she offered for inspection. It bore the inscription:

CLARA MUNCE,
Died June 3, 1864,
Aged 16 Years.

"Why, to whom does this refer?" asked the reporter.

"It refers to me," replied Miss Munce quietly. "It was on my coffin—at least I suppose I may call it my coffin, though I was not buried in it. I occupied it, however, for some hours, and had it not been for the intelligence of a lady who came to attend my funeral I should have been in it now. My uncle took it to his home in Chicago, where he is fond of showing it to his friends and telling my story. I kept the plate, which I seldom allow any one to see, for the recollections it awakens are not pleasant.

"When I was a young girl I was in very delicate health. I used to fall into trances, in which I knew all that was going on around me and heard every word said in the room where I lay, but I could not speak or make the slightest sign of life. My body grew gradually colder, but ordinarily I aroused myself with a start within ten or fifteen minutes. The doctor said it was a form of epilepsy, and warned me that some day or other an attack might be prolonged and mistaken for death. It always affected me under the same conditions. After sleeping, as consciousness slowly returned, I found myself wide awake, but unable to speak or move.

"After the doctor's caution I began to grow afraid of myself. It was a horrible sensation. I dreaded to go to sleep at night, and, though drowsiness overpowered me at last, I awoke unrefreshed. During the day I was langnid and tired, but I dared not lie down, for I knew by experience that if I slept by daylight I was almost certain to fall into a trance on awaking. As a consequence of all this mental disturbance I became seriously ill, and I was ordered to the country; but before arrangements could be made for me to go I was stricken down with brain fever, and my life was despaired of.

"Now, before the fever attacked me, and while I was confined to my bed by the sickness brought on by anxiety about my condition, the trances seemed to disappear. When I slept I was refreshed, and awoke at once to full vigor, and not, as formerly, by slow degrees, to wretched helplessness and immobility. I think I should have escaped the brain fever had it not been for the doctor. He told me that the epilepsy was only mustering its forces for an attack more vigorous than any I had yet experienced—as a storm sometimes lulls before it sweeps everything before it. He frightened me terribly, and my brain gave way.

"The brain fever was conquered, but I was very weak—so weak that I did not rally. The doctor, always cheerful, said I never would. I lay for days neither asleep nor awake, but not in a trance, for I could move and speak feebly. 'She may go out like the snuff of a candle any minute,' said the doctor in my hearing, and I never verified his prediction by going out at once.

"One day—it was June 2, 1864—I felt that I was really improving. Life seemed to be coming back to me. The doctor had not noticed it, but I knew by the unwonted distinctness with which the rumble of the Greenpoint waggons struck upon my ear that I was gathering new strength. At last I grew tired, and, for the first time in several weeks, I slept soundly and healthily.

"I awoke slowly, with the rigor of limb that I knew so well. An unutterable horror took possession of me as I felt that I was in a trance and remembered the good doctor's capacity for blundering. My fears were well founded, for half an hour later, when the nurse came to look at me, I heard her utter a quick exclamation of alarm, and hurrying away, she called my mother and sisters. The doctor was summoned, and arrived when all my relatives in the house were around my bed. He felt my pulse, put his hand upon my forehead, forced open one of my eyes, and examined the pupil, little thinking that I saw him as plainly as he saw me, and sorrowfully remarked:

"'I feared it. She is going fast!'

"Oh, the misery of that day and the night following! On the morning of June 3 my body was cold and stiff, and, while my mind was as active as ever I knew that I looked like a corpse. My friends thought me dead, and when the doctor came they stood aside, silent and weeping, and made way for him to approach the bed. He looked at me steadily for a few seconds, and then said reverentially:

"'Yes, poor creature, she is gone!' and he covered my face with the sheet.

"And this was the man who had first told me that an epileptic fit might be so prolonged as to be mistaken for death. My indignation at that moment absolutely overpowered my fear. Otherwise, I believe I should have died on the spot.

"For more than two days I lay motionless on the bed. Tuberoses were strewn over me. Friends came to see me, and reminded each other of good qualities in me that neither by myself or others had ever before been suspected. I heard it all. Nobody spoke of me except as a corpse; none noticed, what I am sure must have been apparent, that my face had not lost the color of life, and on the night of June 4 I lay beside my open coffin! On the morning of the 5th I was put into it, for I was to be buried that day.

"I had heard the inscription on the plate read aloud, over and over again: 'Clara Munce. Aged 16 years. Poor girl. So young to be carried away. But she was always delicate!' Oh, why could I not speak? I could not even try to speak or move. All volition seemed to have died in me, and I could only pray silently that I might die too before the last rites were performed, but I felt that there was little chance of that, because I was full of life.

"The undertaker's men were in the room, waiting to fasten down the coffin lid. Kisses innumerable had been pressed upon my face, and I had given up all hope of life, when an old lady, worth all the rest of the visitors put together, elbowed the others out of her way, and stood beside the coffin. She was my Aunt Jane, and she had come from Albany to see her favorite niece for the last time. Her presence seemed to calm me, for we loved each other so well that I could not think it possible that she would allow me to be buried alive. She was stooping to kiss me when she suddenly started back with the very simple and homely remark:

"'Why, her nose is bleeding!'

"It was perfectly true, though up to that time nobody had noticed it. My mental agony had made my nose bleed.

"Now, the doctor knew quite enough about his business to be very much startled at seeing fresh blood flowing from a body that had been dead two days. He examined my face and said hastily, as he for the first time noticed the color, "Take her back to bed."

"The suddenness and immensity of the relief restored all my faculties, and as the men took me up I said, with hardly an effort, and in perfect natural tones:

"'Thank you, doctor. How are you, Auntie?'

"I think I have told you nearly the whole story. I recovered very quickly, and have never had a trance since. The doctor still practices medicine in Greenpoint, and is considered one of its best authorities on diseases of children, and whenever he sees me he tells me confidentially that from the first he had a 'latent suspicion that the vital spark lingered somewhere,' but I do him the justice to discredit the statement."
—New York Sun.

A Touching Incident.

Three persons stood together under a gas light. A few doors adjacent was a saloon, and through its half open door came snatches of coarse laughter and licentious song, interjected with occasional oaths. Of the three figures standing near at hand one was a man apparently of middle age, well-formed, and bearing upon his bleared and rum-suffused countenance memories of better days. The other two were females, apparently his wife and daughter. The face of the elder woman was pale and anxious, while that of the younger was pitiful and sad. Only fragments of their conversation could be heard, but it was clearly evident the wife was eagerly imploring the partially imbruted husband to go home with them, but he refused, and tried, in a maudlin way, to induce them to leave him alone.

Just then there came merrily trooping around a corner close at hand a group of young people of both sexes, who were evidently returning from some festival or entertainment. As the party came into High street, they commenced singing, crossing the street. Their voices, well blended, poured forth a flood of harmony upon the still night air, and as the group of singers gradually disappeared in the distance, snatches of melody came floating back upon the ears of the listeners, including the group of three before referred to. They ceased talking and listened. The stolid rum-blotched features of the man worked convulsively as the sweet cadences wafted back to his ear from the increasing distance, growing fainter, then merging in echoes, and finally ceasing altogether.

What was he thinking of? What hidden chord of memory had been thus evoked within him—even through the blinding daze of drink, which held him mind and body fast within its clutch? Were the memories of the old times, purer, better days, when he sat with mother, wife and child at his own and their fireside a sober, trusted, self-reliant man? God knoweth—He and the man himself; but as the fragments of melody rolled back upon his awakening senses they awoke other echoes within his soul, echoes of the past—as he beheld himself now in contrast with what he had been; and without a word of further parleying he allowed the two waiting ones to slip their arms within his own, and quiet as a lamb he went with his own flesh to their home; and the three disappeared into the shadowy night, he walking uncertain, but uttering no word. What had moved him thus? What was it that had thus touched his heart as with a magician's wand, causing the unseen tears to surge up within his soul as they had not before, perhaps, for years? It was not much, but it was enough; for the merry group was singing "Home, Sweet Home."

A Sub-Marine Treasure.

In 1780 the British man-of-war Hussar was wrecked in Hell Gate, having on board about $5,000,000 in guineas. In 1794 an expedition was sent out from England, and for two seasons attempted to raise the wreck, but was forbidden to work longer by the United States Government. In 1819 another attempt was made by an English company with a diving bell, but with no success. Since then a number of companies have organized only to meet with failure. Within the past five years a new company has been at work, using the latest sub-marine armor and appliances. A sloop firmly anchored about 100 yards from the New York side of the East River, three-quarters of a mile above Ward's Island, is the company's headquarters, and marks the spot where the Hussar sank, with her bows pointing to the north. The stock is divided into 48,000 shares of $100 each. Cannon, cannon balls, manacles, gun flints, silver plate and bones have been found. One day a brass box was brought to the surface. It was full of jewels, with a necklace of brilliants. It was left for a moment on the deck, and disappeared, never to be seen on board again. A lump of silver, made of various coins agglomerated by the action of the water, has been found, together with scattering gold coins. But the main treasure remains yet to be found.

Table tipping—Feeing the restaurant waiter. The best chest protector—A dollar to the baggage man. The small boy is fond of the pantomine at the theatre, but objects to "slippered pantaloon" at home. The prudent man picks up a pin, and the imprudent boy picks up pins all night in the tenpin alley, and does not make much either.

TOPICS FOR WOMEN.

WALKING.

It would be money in the pocket as well as sweetness to the heart, and sedative to the nerves of the great American people—especially the women kind—if they knew how to walk, and how to enjoy walking. The average American race physically; if they had races, is dying out. Their bones and blood in their [illegible] did not labor under the delusion that a breach of good manners for [illegible] professing to belong to a social life. [illegible] more than a hundred and twenty-five pounds. They have good heads and fine [illegible] when the prevalent spasm for [illegible] over and allows you to see them [illegible] tedency of both brains and body [illegible] length without breadth or thickness [illegible] mount high, but go neither boldly [illegible] enough. They are full of new [illegible] gropings and graspings; they are [illegible] inventions and innovations; but [illegible] thought necessary to amalgamate [illegible] brilliancies and vagaries in [illegible] and make practical wisdom come [illegible] what we most need. And walking [illegible] by a natural doctrine of evolution [illegible] ing doth beget healthy appetite [illegible] for food, and food makes blood, [illegible] left to itself develops brawn and [illegible] When the shoulders widen—every [illegible] being equal—the mental process [illegible] also. This is a fact in mental [illegible]

WOMAN'S WORK, AGAIN.

An exchange asks why women [illegible] rather clerk in stores on starvation [illegible] than do household work for which [illegible] would be well paid. There is no [illegible] about it. The young lady who [illegible] house-work or domestic service, [illegible] termed, is to a certain extent [illegible] tracised. The one that clerks in a [illegible] writes in an office receives some [illegible] recognition. A young society [illegible] may escort her to the opera house [illegible] social gathering without violating [illegible] good society, but let him escort [illegible] hired cook to a fashionable party, [illegible] his sisters would not know her. [illegible] it will be said that society has various [illegible] grades and that while a young lady [illegible] in place and take a high position [illegible] grade, she might be very much out of [illegible] another. This is all very true, but [illegible] spirited young lady wants to get [illegible] highest grade, and she well knows [illegible] through the kitchens of others as a [illegible] servant, is not the road that leads [illegible] Let society recognize the dignity [illegible] Let the honest working girl feel [illegible] she hires out she has not forfeited [illegible] to social recognition. Let them [illegible] virtue and culture, and not silk [illegible] are the passport to good society.

IDEAL WOMEN.

"I try to do my best: but I fear [illegible] so far from reaching my ideal." A [illegible] girl said this the other day at the [illegible] Congress after listening several days [illegible] many able papers and [illegible] speeches.

"From reaching your ideal [illegible] asked an older woman.

"My ideal of true womanhood.

"But no one woman can expect [illegible] her ideal of all womanhood!"

"No I suppose not," admitted [illegible] thoughtfully. "I suppose I ought [illegible] something, though, better than [illegible] reached." The crowd drifted [illegible] ing with it the wistful, earnest [illegible] the dropped conversation was not [illegible]

But suggestions awaken thought [illegible] man-hood, as a whole, can be [illegible] than ideal. This grand abstraction [illegible] present much to a lofty mind; [illegible] thin, poor, weak and low in the [illegible] thought of another. This fragile [illegible] woman was holding in the clear [illegible] her mental vision all the strong [illegible] the score or more of exceptional [illegible] who have been discussing some of [illegible] est questions of the day. Mrs. How [illegible] sight, Mrs. Livermore's eloquence, [illegible] Stone's concentrated purpose, Abby [illegible] incisive power of statement—in a word [illegible] special excellence of each speaker [illegible] taken part in these long sessions of [illegible] work, successively noted for [illegible] No wonder she found her tired hopes [illegible] into a minor key. A crocus may [illegible] bloom in a light snow drift; but a [illegible] snow-bank hurled upon it in an [illegible] is simply crushing. It blooms at the [illegible] warmth of spring; but is hopelessly [illegible] by the heat of a July sun.

My young friend is carrying with [illegible] plaint some of the sadly heavy [illegible] which nowadays fall unpitying [illegible] girlish shoulders. I hear of her as [illegible] ing, uncompromising, faithful to the [illegible] trusts; yet moving on as one looking [illegible] patiently for firmer foothold and an [illegible] pathway on a toilsome road, and I ask [illegible] self: Is not she nearer to her own [illegible] ideal self than many of these whom [illegible] world better knows and more freely [illegible]

A SHIFTING BOG.

The shifting bog which is threatening [illegible] overwhelm a part of the town of Castlerea [illegible] in Ireland, is a very interesting phenomenon [illegible] on, and one of the most singular results [illegible] the heavy rain which have of late prevailed [illegible] in various parts of Europe. Thousands [illegible] acres of land have already been overwhelmed [illegible] ed by the bog, and several farm houses [illegible] been destroyed. To those who think of a bog [illegible] only as a low, swampy piece of ground [illegible] may seem strange that it can change [illegible] place and move across the country. Bogs [illegible] however, are not necessarily low or level [illegible] some of those of Ireland present a hilly [illegible] pearance. They grow by the accumulation [illegible] of vegetable matter, and when softened [illegible] in this case, by long continued rains [illegible] encroach upon the neighboring ground [illegible] It is to be hoped that some means will [illegible] found to stop the advance of the bog [illegible] Castlerea.

Lily's Prayer.

Not long since Lily, a little girl of [illegible] after saying her evening prayers, began [illegible] indulge in an original petition of her [illegible] varying it according to her moods. She [illegible] aware that she had not been particularly [illegible] good on a certain day, and her evening [illegible] prayers were thus supplemented: "I pray [illegible] the Lord to make Lily a good little girl [illegible] and if at first you don't succeed, try [illegible] again."

...E NEWS NOTES

...stle has been seriously damaged

...has been reinstated King of

...ed that the cholera has broken

...ed that the French ambassadors ... Vienna have resigned.

...olet's correspondence, found in ... Jones, contained nothing of ...

...the New Quarterly was ... Vienna because the paper criticised ... income tax.

...ch of the Hon. Speaker Blanchard ... placed in position in the Eastern ... House of Commons.

...directors have decided to hold ... Exhibition at Rome every ... also a national Exhibition ... in one of the chief towns of ...

...ship has driven out to sea ... which were ice-bound in the ... The fate of the vessels is un-...

...The Rector, having recovered ... has been informed of the ... made to the Newhall House, Mil-...

...ceremony of elevating the Most Rev. ... Archbishop of Canterbury, ... place near the Canterbury Ca-...

...The official Gazette publishes a ... Khedive prolonging the powers ... International Tribunals to February, ...

...Cairoli (Radical) has introduced ... Italian Chamber of Deputies to ... Garibaldian campaign of 1867 ... national campaigns.

...Times announces that the result of ... of opinions with the German, ... Italian Foreign Ministers is ... and tends to the preservation of ...

...Reichstag, Herr Windthorst ... in consideration of the Em... to the Pope the Clerical party ... the impending motion against ... laws.

...friendly tone of the Russian press ... toward Austria. The Golos and ... admits that, despite the Austro-... friendship between Russia ... is possible.

...Rev. Richard Roskell, D. D., ... Bishop of Nottingham ... 1874, is dead. In 1874 he sent ... nation of his bishopric, which ... by the Holy See.

...meeting of the Royal Geographical ... London the chairman announced ... Smith has presented £1,000 ... in recognition of the interest ... in his polar expidition.

...German Gazette points out that ... William's recent letter to the ... countersigned by Prince Bismark, ... that the letter was not simply ... but a document of political ...

...has rejected the naturalization ... by the United States, ac... which nationality is forfeited by ... certain period abroad, on the ... this clause of the treaty is con... law.

...Russian decree ordering youths born ... subjects now residing in ... enter the Prussian army or ... causes intense indigna... country. Denmark pro... breach of treaty obli...

...dispatch says: The Mon... was at Cuira, but were ... were killed on both sides. ... and Cunaco Garcia, the ... were killed. The Mon... will again attack the ...

...Brooklyn, has sued ... New York Illustrated ... damages each, for ... published articles stating ... whipped by a ... college he en...

...Miss Kelly, Mrs. Miller ... the appointment of ... Governor for the ... reservation at ... protest 'the ... make the bo...

...Orleans Princess ... protesting against ... and declaring ... their personal in... It is stated should the ... publish a manifesto ...

...Berlin attempt to discuss ... collisions at sea. ... & Co., electric light con... the advantages of light... by electricity, instancing the ... "Faraday" by this ... laying cables.

...strengthening the fortification ... by General Von Moltke, in... construction of a circle of sixteen ... the port and dockyard one ... in existence, and the com... strategic railway establishing un... communication along the Baltic ...

...man, who noticed the Phœnix ... drivers driving in the park on the ... the crime was committed, has se... Kavanagh's car from a number in ... coal yard as the one in ... assassins rode. He also identified ... murders among the twenty pris...

...arrival of the Dublin train in Cork ... evening detectives arrested a ... who stated that he knew Kavanagh, ... person on suspicion of being one of ... Park murderers. The jarvey ... possession a ticket for passage to ... When arrested he called upon the ... to cheer for Councillor Carey.

...meeting held recently to devise ... the relief of the distress in Ire... Justin McCarthy said he anticipated ... of the famine will be felt in Feb...

...ruary and March. Mr. O'Donnell, M. P., violently attacked the Government, which he said had millions to spare for bayonetting Egyptians, but none to spare for relief works.

A committee of the Massachusetts Legislature recently heard the argument on the expediency of furnishing a bounty for the destruction of the English sparrow. It was asserted that the bird is causing a great and increasing damage to the corps. Nearly half the apple crop was last year destroyed by it. If the bird should become common in the west, it would, as a grain centre, be a great nuisance.

Messrs. McCarthy, O'Donnell and Callan, Irish members of Parliament, addressed a meeting in London recently, to devise means to relieve the distress in Ireland. Mr. McCarthy appealed to the English people to assist the starving Irish famers and laborers. Resolutions were passed appealing to the Government for aid. A deputation was appointed to wait on the Lord Mayor and ask him to open a relief fund.

The Provost of Greenock recently entertained Sir Alexander Galt, High Commissioner to Canada, at a luncheon, during which he spoke in words of compliment of Sir Alexander's service and also made flattering allusion to the charming pictures of Scottish life given in the writings of Sir Alexander's father, the late John Galt. The Provost's words of praise were echoed by other persons present. Sir Alexander thanked the company for their kind expressions. Referring to the British colonies he said they offered the best field of investment for the surplus capital and labor of England.

American Fables.

A couple of Rats who were prowling around a strange house came upon a Jar of N. O. Molasses which could be reached from a shelf. One of them at once leaped into the sweet substance, and after a brief struggle to get out again he sank out of sight.

"Really, now," mused the other, as he hastened away from the dangerous neighborhood, "the person who left the cover off that Jar should be prosecuted for criminal neglect."

MORAL:

Of course the Cook didn't discover the Rat until she was pouring out the last of the Molasses.

THE PHILOSOPHER'S ADVICE.

A Merchant who found that he must either increase his sales or close his doors and beat his Creditors, hunted up a Philosopher and asked him what course he would Pursue.

"Have you lived long in the Town?" asked the old man.

"Yes, for years."

"And you know everybody?"

"Every man, woman and child."

"Are the people all at peace with each other."

"They are, oh! wise man. There has not been a word between families for years."

"Then you must return home and slyly provoke quarrels and hard feelings. Do as I say and your trade will increase fourfold."

The Merchant wonderingly obeyed the injunction, and in a week there were scarcely two families in the Town on speaking terms. Mrs. A. gave a card party and did not invite that stub-nosed Mrs. B., and Mrs. B. gave a coffee and left Mrs. A, to drink cold tea at home along with her monkey-faced daughter. Mrs. C. suddenly ceased to lend to Mrs. D., and Mrs. D. discovered that Mrs. E. was wearing dresses sent her by a rich sister in Boston.

The result was as the Philosopher had predicted. There was a sudden demand upon the merchant's stock for coffee-mills, flat-irons, fluters, axes, shovels, groceries and other things, and one woman ordered a set of cups and saucers, an eight-day clock and $10 worth of knives and spoons with the explanation:

"Being that one of my neighbors has started the story that I had to hire my husband to marry me, and the other has affirmed that we are so stingy that we starve a dog to death every six months, I will now show my independence by neither borrowing nor leneing. You may also send me some quilting frames, a new teapot, two stove kettles, a steamer, a dozen fruit jars and a dishpan."

Then the merchant had to hire two extra clerks, build an addition and speculate in mining stocks to get rid of some of his money, and drummers travelled hundreds of miles to see him, and the Commercial Agencies rated him good for a million.

MORAL:

The howl of a neighbor's dog is unnoticed until the neighbor refuses to lend his wheelbarrow.

Digestion in Germany.

There seems to be something in the air and life of Germany extraordinary favorable to the digestion. Bismarck has thriven on mixtures of champagne and porter, washing down meals at the description of which the American trembles, but he does no more than the other most famous ruler of his country, Frederick the Great. Here is what Dr. Zimmermann saw him devour when a septuagenarian invalid: "A very large quantity of soup, of the strongest and most highly spiced ingredients, yet, spiced as it already was, he added to each plate of it a large spoonful of powdered ginger and mace; then a good piece of bœuf a la Russe—beef steeped in half a pint of brandy. Next he took a great quantity of an Italian dish, half Indian corn, half Parmesan cheese; to this the juice of garlic is added, and the whole is baked in butter until there arises a hard rind as thick as a finger. This, one of the King's most darling dishes, is called Polenta. At last, the King having expressed his satisfaction at the excellent appetite which the dandeloin gave him, closed the scene with a whole plateful of eel pie, so hot and fiery it seemed as if it had been baked in hell! At other times he would eat a large quantity of chilling and unwholesome fruits, especially melons, and then again a vast number of sweetmeats."

A woman may do many questionable things during her lifetime, but when it comes to her wedding she always stands up for the rite.

AN ENGLISH GHOST.

The Gentleman in the Yellow Dressing-Gown.

A contributor to Notes and Queries writes: The following is not, so far as I am concerned, a first hand ghost story, and, therefore, it will not do for the Physical Research society's new volume. But it came to me from a lady who had herself seen the ghost. The lady, who is an old friend of my family was living with her father, Mr. A., some forty years ago, in an ancient country-house—not his own house, but rented to him from Miss B., an elderly heiress. The house was haunted, as Mr. A. and his daughter soon found. Strange noises were heard from time to time in the dining-room at night; a mysterious black cat used to appear in the entrance-hall of an evening, and scamper straight up the main stair-case—not ascending it in the manner of mortal cats, but by winding itself in and out of the balustrade in a decidedly uncanny and preter-natural way; and, worst of all, an old gentleman, in black skull-cap, yellow dressing gown, and red slippers, would come at midnight out of a certain door, cross the hall, go upstairs (in a dignified manner, and not as the cat did), and vanish into an empty bedroom on the first floor. All the household, Mr. A. and his daughter included, used to hear the noises and see the old gentleman whenever they were awake and downstairs at midnight. As to that tortuous cat, it was vouched for by the servants, and duly recorded by my friend; but I am not sure that she herself saw it. At length Mr. A. finding the situation unpleasant, and being a courageous man, determined to address to the old gentleman a practical and straightforward remonstrance. He therefore, on a certain night, posted his men servants, to the number of about four, on the stair-case, at the head of the first flight of stairs, having arranged that they should stop the intruder if they could, while their master, with a loaded pistol, should follow him and cut off his retreat. All this implies, of course, that the visitor was supposed to be a substantial, or, at any rate, a vulnerable person. Well, at midnight, Mr. A., from his post in the hall, beheld the venerable, but superfluous, senior emerging from his accustomed door. "Here he is!" cried the master of the house: and the men on the staircase held their ground (I think it much to their credit) while they beheld the old gentleman silently approaching, and apparently unconscious of their presence. He came close up to the dauntless four, and, then, to their amazement, he passed straight through them and reappeared on the other side. Turning round, they saw him calmly gliding up the second flight of stairs, above that on which they were posted. Mr. A., calling on them to follow, pursued, and fired his ball, which the old gentleman received without emotion, and immediately entered the empty bedroom, as usual through its closed door. His pursuers, less fortunate, had to open the door before they could follow him; but they did follow him, and found, of course, that the room was as empty as ever. Notwithstanding, Mr. A., bent on finishing the job at once, had the room thoroughly ransacked there and then—wainscot sounded, chimney explored closets broken open: and in one closet he found a box containing old deeds and old money. In the morning he wrote to Miss B., and told her, not about the ghost, but about the deed-box. He ended his letter by inquiring, on some pretext of interest in the house, whether any of her relatives had been noted for any peculiarity of dress. "My grandfather," she replied, "used always to wear, when he was at home and in his study, a black skull-cap, a yellow dressing-gown, and red slippers."

Our friend Miss A., in relating the story, used to add (and I fully believe her) that the money and the deeds were interesting and not unimportant to Miss B., and that the old gentleman never troubled her father's household again.

A. J. M.

P. S.—I wish I could say what became of the cat; but I can't.

Measuring England.

In 1692 Edmund Halley, the celebrated astronomer, was consulted by a friend as to the acreage of England and Wales. His process was very original. He took the best map of England which he could get, cut out the part which represented the land, weighed it, and compared the weight with that of an inch taken from the middle of the map, the centre of which was a point equidistant from King's Lynn and the mouth of the Severn. He found that the land, with the islands of Wight, Anglesey, and Man, was four times the weight of his circle. His calculation gave him 38,000,000 acres. He then in the same manner cut out and weighed the several counties. He found, after carefully drying the pieces—the humidity of the air was the great difficulty in his calculation—that 40,000,000 acres weighed a grain. The above note is a singular illustration of the manner in which, before a proper survey, an able mathematician tried to solve a difficult problem. The actual acreage is, excluding the Isle of Man, 37,319,221, and Halley pleads that he should be licensed to the extent of a million acres or so, especially as he had to include rivers and roads.—Notes and Queries.

A Foundry Filled with Poisonous Vapor.

A singular and remarkable occurrence is reported from the Reading (Pa.) Hardware Company. The foundry windows were tightly closed against the inclement weather without, and about ninety men were at work. Suddenly a large volume of sulphurous gas poured out of the opening in the cupola and flooded the foundry. Ten men became deathly sick, and dropped to the floor at once. The others commenced vomiting, and complained of severe pains in the stomach and the head. Two were perfectly unconscious, and remained in that condition for some time, having to be taken to their homes in carriages. The foundry presented the appearance of a huge hospital, with men lying in every direction. About seventy were affected, and the foundry was obliged to suspend operations for some days.

Muscular Christianity is well represented by the rector of St George's Church, New York city, Rev. W. S. Rainsford, who is six feet four in his stockings, was in the Cambridge University eight, and pulled in the winning boat in a College race.

To Consumptives.

Reader do you believe that the creator afflicts one-third of mankind with a disease for which there is no remedy? Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured hundreds of cases of consumption, and men are living to-day—healthy, robust men—whom physicians pronounced incurable, because one lung was almost gone. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on Consumption and Kindred Affections. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Hills that look as if they might fall over have probably been tipped by the golden sunlight.

Young or middle aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send three stamps for Part VII of Dime Series pamphlets. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Tomato red is the fashionable shade of hair. Some people can't bear it, while others can. Tin can.

"Now Well and Strong."

SHIPMAN, Illinois.

DR. R V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I wish to state that my daughter, aged 18, was pronounced incurable and was fast failing as the doctors thought, with consumption. I obtained a half dozen bottles of your "Golden Medical Discovery" for her and she commenced improving at once, and is now well and strong.

Very truly yours.

REV ISAAC N. AUGUSTIN.

"Discovery" sold by druggists.

The Czar's favorite game is high-spy.

Vegetine

SUPERIOR BLOOD PURIFIER.

TONIC FOR THE STOMACH.

Thorold, Ont., Jan. 13, 1880.

H. R. Stevens, Esq.:

I have great pleasure in certifying to the great benefits which myself and family have derived from the use of your excellent medicine—Vegetine. I consider it a superior blood purifier and tonic for the stomach.

Yours truly

J. H. SIMPSON

Master West Side Public Schools.

Improved from the first.

Montreal, P. Q., Jan. 31, 1880.

Mr. H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—Some six months since I wrote you telling how your Vegetine had restored me from a very bad attack of Rheumatism, when I had been confined to the house for about six months. I now write to say that I have not had any more trouble with my old complaint. I also wish to add that our daughter about 13 years old has been troubled for some time. She was always sick and complaining. We had tried several remedies and they had done her no good. We gave her the Vegetine, and are more than satisfied with the result. She commenced to improve almost from the first and at the present time, she never was in better health. We think there is nothing like your Vegetine. Yours truly,

WM. MYERT, 112 Canning Street.

I have much pleasure in Testifying to its Efficacy.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 23, 1880.

Mr. H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—I have much pleasure in testifying to the efficacy to your Vegetine for the cure of Rheumatism. Having been persuaded by a friend to try it, I took four bottles, from which I derived great benefit, and strongly recommend any person suffering from the same afflicting malady to try a course of Vegetine.

Yours resp'y,

JOSIAH GREEN, Chemist.

601 Queen St. and Cooksville, Ont.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists

CONSUMPTION,

BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, ASTHMA, DISEASES of the EYE & EAR.

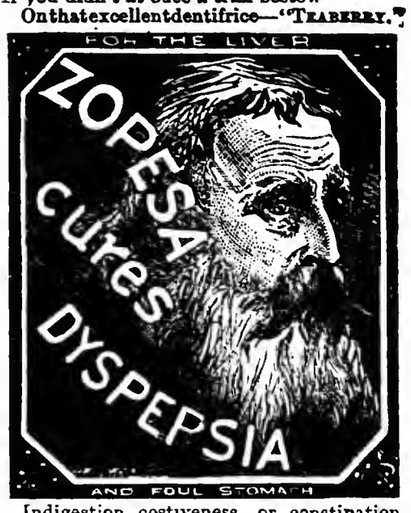
CAN BE CURED.

INHALATIONS.

"TORONTO PULMONARIUM."

S. L. NASH, M.D., M.C.P.S.O. has an experience of 20 years' practice in Ontario.

Read the following Letter which speaks for itself.



Toronto, 4 Argyle-St., Dec. 11th, 1882.

S. L. NASH, M.D.:—Dear Dr.,—I take great pleasure in saying your treatment of my wife by inhalations, for an affection of the bronchial tubes, has proved most satisfactory. After being treated by several of the most prominent physicians of Toronto, I almost despaired of her being relieved of the distressing cough, which clung to her in spite of the best efforts put forth by skilled men to relieve her, and pronounced by some as incurable. Now, after a lapse of almost nine months since discontinuing your treatment, she has passed the fall weather without any signs of her old complaint returning. Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH POWELL.

A personal examination is preferable, after which you can be treated at home. If impossible to call, write for Questions and Circular. "Consultation free. Fees Moderate." Address "TORONTO PULMONARIUM." 123 Church-St., Toronto, Ontario.

To have fragrant Breath and Teeth like snow
Foolish and careless you'd be, very,
If you didn't at once a trial bestow
On that excellent dentifrice—"TEABERRY."

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver, It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate.

CORALINE

CORSETS unequalled for health, comfort and durability. Manufactured by the CROMPTON CORSET CO., Toronto.

General & Financial Agency.

Sums of from $200 to $50,000 to invest in Patent Rights, Business Chances, Manufactures, Hotels, Saloons, and any kind of merchantable or exchangeable property.

J. I. EVANS & CO.,
Leader Lane, Toronto.

DYSPEPSIA!

And the severer forms of INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on the above most distressing maladies and their complete cures, post free, 5 cents in stamps. By R. KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, Royal Navy, England.

Apply to RICHARD KING, Box 346, Windsor, Ont

CONSUMPTION!

Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, with diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart, successfully treated at the Ontario Pulmonary Institute, 135 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario.

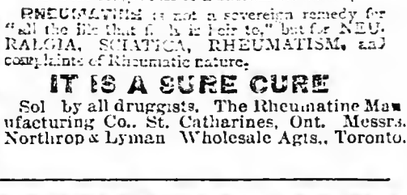
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M.C.P.S.O., PROPRIETOR.



Our system of practice is by Medicated Inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Over 40,000 cases treated during the past 17 years.

If impossible to call personally for an examination, write for list of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

Ontario Pulmonary Institute,

135 Church st., Toronto, Ont.

MAGNETIC MEDICINE.

Positively cures Nervousness in all its stages. Weak Memory, Loss of Brain Power, Night Sweats, Barrenness, Weakness and General Loss of Power. It repairs Nervous Waste, rejuvenates the Jaded Intellect, strengthens the Enfeebled Brain and restores surprising tone and vigor to the Exhausted Generative Organs in either sex. ☞ With each order for Twelve packages, accompanied with five dollars, we will send our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. It is the Cheapest and Best Medicine in the market. Pamphlet sent free by mail to any address.

Mack's Magnetic Medicine is sold by druggists at 50 cents per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, or will be mailed free of postage, on receipt of money, by addressing Mack's Magnetic Medicine Co., Windsor, Ont., Canada. Sold by all druggists in Canada.

THE GREAT CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature.

RHEUMATINE is not a sovereign remedy for "all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature.

IT IS A SURE CURE

Sold by all druggists. The Rheumatine Manufacturing Co., St. Catharines, Ont. Messrs. Northrop & Lyman Wholesale Agts., Toronto.

AN ENGLISH VETERINARY SURGEON AND CHEMIST, now traveling in this country, says that most of the Horse and Cattle Powders sold here are worthless trash. He says that Sheridan's Condition Powders are absolutely pure and immensely valuable. Nothing on earth MAKE HENS LAY will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powders. Dose, one teaspoonful to one pint food. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter-stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, MASS.

GURNEY & WARE'S

STANDARD SCALES,

For Railroads, Rolling Mills, Grist Mills and Elevators.

Scales for everything—Hay, Coal and stock. All sizes of Warehouse Scales. Counter Scales of all kinds.

DAIRY & FARMERS SCALES.

Fish, Pork and Wool Scales, Butchers' Scales. Scales and Beams for Pedlars' Waggons. All sizes of Railroad and Warehouse Trucks, and Alarm Money Drawers.

Every Scale warranted. All makes promptly repaired.

☞ Send for illustrated catalogue to

GURNEY & WARE,
HAMILTON.

(Continued from 5th page.)

Mr. McRae presented report of Committee on Treasurer's Securities, which on account of some informality in wording was referred back to committee.

Council adjourned till the 4th Monday in June at 7 o'clock p. m.—O. S. Temes.

Meaford Road.

Very cold and stormy weather.

Road almost blocked up

A large number of the citizens of the Valley were out at the last meeting of the council about another valley road. Every man wants a road to his own farm. It would be cheaper for the council to buy out the whole concern and make a hunting ground of this portion of the township.

There has not been, as far as heard from, any wild ducks passing over here yet, but there has been lots of feathers.

Our enterprising saw-miller, Mr James Sparling, is busy stocking his mill-yard with logs and shingle timber to meet next Summer's wants.

Quite a rush in Club No. 13.

Scarlet fever has made sad ravages among children here lately. Quite a number of families having to mourn the loss of one or more of their little ones.

The Rev. Mr McDowell preached a memorial sermon in the Wesley church in commemoration of the children who have died here lately.

Osprey.

About seven inches of snow fell on the 2nd inst., and the storm still continues. Roads almost impassible.

A splendid entertainment was held in the Feversham school house on Friday evening, under the management of Miss A M. McKinnon, teacher. Although the evening was rough there was a large attendance. There was a rich programme, consisting of music speeches, readings, recitations, and dialogues, some of which would do credit to professionals. We would like to see more of our teachers follow Miss McKinnon's example and thus develop some of our local talent. Proceeds to procure prizes for the children.

Mr. Ira H. Perigoe now carries the mail between Maxwell and Flesherton; also between Maxwell and Feversham.

Dundalk.

Building operations are likely to be extensive the coming season. Mr. S. McCullough has let the contract for the erection and completion of a large brick hotel. Mr. Reid will have his fine new hotel veneered with brick. Mr. G R. Middleton and a Mr. Barclay, of Toronto, are preparing to erect an oat mill.

Chatsworth.

The Oddfellows' Supper in Matthews' Hall on Thursday night of last week was a decided success considering the very unfavourable weather. About fifty couples sat down to an excellent spread, after which a few hours' dancing was indulged in, for which very excellent music was provided by Mr. D. Ross on the violin accompanied by Mr. W. Roberts on the organ. Previous to the supper a very few pleasant hours were spent in singing, for which Miss Campbell accompanied on the organ, and in giving readings and recitations. On the whole the Oddfellows have reason to congratulate themselves on the success of their first entertainment.

The Ball family of Jubilee singers will give an entertainment at Williamsford, on the 16th inst., and at massie on the 17th.

Mr. W. F. Doll leaves Markdale to day

BIRTHS.

STEELE—In Williamsford, on the 1st inst., the wife of Mr. M. Steele, (merchant,) of twins, boy and girl

MARRIAGES.

MCMULLEN—KELLS.—At the residence of the bride's father, on Feb. 1st, 1883, Mr. Jas. McMullen to Miss Catherine Alice Kells, both of Artemesia.

DIED.

REID—In Holland on the 31st January, Wm. H., only child of Mr Wm. H. Reid, aged 1 year, 6 months.

McLEOD—On the 28th ult., at her residence on con. 3, N. D. R., Artemesia, Amabel, relict of the late Roderick McLeod, in her 62nd year, universally respected by all who had the pleasure of he acquaintance.r

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-1y.

Robt. S Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE ASSORTMENT OF

FISH

JUST TO HAND IN Barrels

CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

GROCERIES. GROCERIES.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH,

DOORS,

BLINDS

MOULDINGS,

HOLLOW BATTONS,

FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th, 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

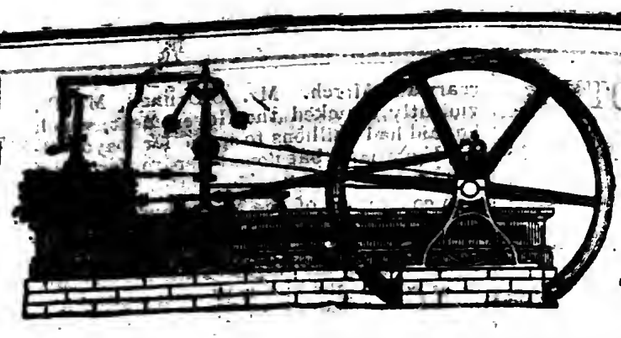
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.



My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

MOFFAT

M'rkd

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shaftin

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Woeels. Shingle Jointers, &c, All Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIAL

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, PITLARS--IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photograph

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,

Do Copying and Enlarging in good s

FRAMES and FRAME FIXING

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULMER

TORONTO HOUS

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. Unusually L

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPE

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRACT

Variety and Value Unsurpassed.

DRY GOODS DEPARMENT

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goods, comprising in part Cashmeres in all colors Worsted Wool Goods in endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my stock is unusually from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trowserings, and Overings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in this partment buyers will find it to their advantage to call before pur elsewhere.

Millinery Department.

Under the able management of a first-class milliner, with plenty of assistance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most fashionable, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it would you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department.

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the lowest possible price

I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Farm Produce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest market price in any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially request to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROULE

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factory

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PUMPS, FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found in the fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in Markdale in the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's Hotel

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 23. MARKDALE, ONT., FEB. 15, 1883. No. 127.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

Per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

If not paid within six months, $2 if not paid till the end of the year. No paper discontinued until arrears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing to take papers or giving up will be held responsible for the years subscriptions until they settle with the publisher according to the rules.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

One column per year	$50 00
Half do. do.	27 50
Quarter do. do.	15 00
Eighth do. do.	8 00
Sixteenth do. do.	4 00
Agate lines, first insertion per line	8
Each subsequent insertion	3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid Agate. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office or publication will not be ensured on the Wednesday proceeding publication.

JOB PRINTING

Every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

[illegible], M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University, Viet. College.
" New York, and " Graduate, of the same,
" Ayleth Medical Institute.
" Ophthalmic Hospital, N.Y.
Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND.

Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

At Markdale the last Tuesday in each month.

D. Cameron, M.D., L.R.C.P. & S., Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

---

MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. March 8th, 1883. 122-74

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c. Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale. Office open every Thursday, as usual.

J. W. FROST, LL. B.
Clerk Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT. Office—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block over Sid. Smith's Store, and in Markdale, over McFarlane's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y

---

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over F. Wolff's Store and in over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday of each day of each week.

MARKDALE;

Money to lend on reasonable terms.

CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Owen Sound, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Farm and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

---

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

T. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First class accommodation for commercial travelers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connection.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

---

MISS LAMB,

DRESS-MAKER. UP-STAIRS IN Douglas' Block. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.

Markdale, Nov. 25th, 1882. 114-3m.

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th. 1883. 126-1y.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate so charity.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

No. 78, I. O. F. No. 78. will meet in their hall on Monday evening, Feb 19th, at eight o'clock p m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

EUCENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND.

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

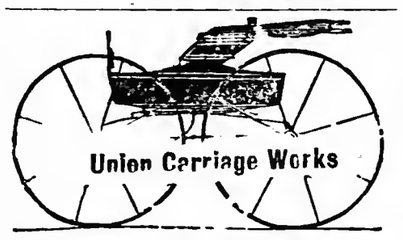
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and firished with English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale. Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith.

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-1y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILDREN will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

Brown's Household Panacea has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixer or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 75-127

EARS FOR THE MILLION

HOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1110. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 800 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93 145.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 4

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

BUTCHER!

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED, from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale. Oct. 25th, 1881

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

IT HAS ENTERED THE CAPITOL BUILDINGS.

It has finally gained his point and no less a personage than the Sergeant-at Arms of the House of Commons, Mr. D. W. McDonnell, Ottawa, thus indorses the Great German Remedy: St. Jacobs Oil is a splendit remedy. I used it on my left arm and wrist for rheumatism, and found it all that it is claimed to be. Mrs. McDonell used it for a most severely sprained ankle; by the steady use of the article for a few days a complete cure was effected. St. Jacobs Oil does its work very satisfactorily and also rapidly; such at least is my opinion.

METHODIST UNION.

It may be matter of surprise to some persons that the proposed union of the Methodist Churches of this country is the subject of such profound and widespread interest beyond the bounds of the denomination. To some it may appear that this is a matter which belongs exclusively to the bodies immediately concerned, and with which the general public has nothing to do. Only a little consideration, however, ought to be sufficient to convince any intelligent and thoughtful person that this is entirely mistaken view of the subject. The churches of the country are public institutions in which the entire community is deeply interested. These are the great moral forces which are at work forming the character of the people and shaping our civilization. They, more than anything else, have made us what we are, and in the great emergencies which may arise in the future, what President Lincoln affirmed of his own country in the dark day of the civil war may be true here in Canada, that our hope, under GOD, will be in the Churches.

Williamsford.

Mr. R. Mylea held a political meeting here on Tuesday evening which was well attended. It is said that he will poll a large vote in Holland... The quarterly board voted on the basis of union of the Methodist bodies; it was carried by 9 to 1... Council meeting on Wednesday. C. W Rutledge of the STANDARD got the printing. Auditor's Report received School matters re union school section No. 2, Holland and Euphrasia, was a chief part of the day's business. That section is now broken up. Mr. Cameron, the Reeve, had to leave at noon owing to sickness in his family.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

We did not fully appreciate the convenience of our rail road while deprived of its use for a week. The anxiety displayed by all showed there was no desire to return to the old days of stages, with one or two mails a week.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

Previous to stock taking on the first of March we will offer our entire stock of winter goods, consisting of Tweeds, Cloths, Clothing, Mantles, Mantle Cloths, Hats, Caps, Furs and Wool Goods of every description, at 20 per cent. below wholesale prices.—TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127 40.

There fine afternoons Mill Street looks quite animated. Nearly every horse and cutter worthy the name has been trotted out the past few days, but the horses are allowed to move a little too swift, and several times ladies and children have been compelled to make quick tracks into a snow bank or get run over. Go slow.

A SAINT AT THE ZOO.

Capt. Harry Piper, Alderman and Superintendent of the Zoological Garden, lately communicated the following facts to a reporter of one of Toronto's most influental papers: "Some time ago we purchased from the collection of animals at Central Park, New York, a monstrous Russian bear, which we have named 'Peter the Great,' on account of his tremendous size. Not long after 'Peter' arrived we found that he was suffering from the rheumatism, and in a pretty bad state. Pete was not the only one in the 'Zoo' which had a touch of that delicious torture; the lion likewise had it, and infact I was just being cured of a bad case of the rheumatism, myself, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I found St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy, for it cured me in a short while, and my case was a very aggravated one. I argued that if it cured men it must be good for animals as well.

HIS SACRIFICE:

OR.

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXIII.—(CONTINUED.)

Just then Louie caught sight of them, and with her face all bright with smiles beckoned them to come to her.

"You go," Aline said, in a voice that sounded strained and unnatural even to herself; "I want to look at something."

She could not talk to any of them yet; she must be alone for a little while. So she went back into the cathedral, and there, in a gloomy corner of that great church which for centuries has been building, and which is yet unfinished, Aline Brentwood fought her battle. There was no anger or bitterness in her heart toward Louie—she was too noble for that. There was only the agony, the despair of knowing that she loved Percy—would love him as long as her life lasted, and that he would never, never love her. She was so young—life without love seemed so terrible to her; she shuddered as she thought she might live thirty, forty years, perhaps longer, and those years would be so very wearisome.

"I never thought I should love in vain," she moaned, bowing her small, proud head upon her hands. "I have always thought that must be so terrible—to love and not be loved—now I know that there is nothing more bitter in life."

"She was tired," she said, wearily, when she joined the rest of the party, and they noticed and spoke of her white face, the purple shadows under the great dusky eyes. Poor Aline! she was tired—tired almost of living, she was too passionate, her nature was too strong, to allow her to suffer calmly; every nerve and fibre in her body quivered and throbbed with pain.

That afternoon Mrs. Brentwood going into Louie's room found her busily writing.

"I am writing to mamma," she said, looking up from her paper. "Shall I tell her, Mrs. Brentwood, what a trouble I am to you?" laughing merrily as she spoke.

"You can tell her how much we all love you," replied Mrs. Brentwood, affectionately, "Have you told her about Mr. Evringham?"

"Oh, yes," answered Louie; "I am just writing about him now, telling her where and how we met him, how pleasant and agreeable he is, and how much we all like him; and to set dear mamma's heart at rest I have told her too all about his family, of the high social position the Evringhams have always held, for you know, Mrs. Brentwood, mamma is very particular about those things."

"So am I," said Mrs. Brentwood; "one can't be too particular nowadays; but certainly no one can find any fault with Percy Evringham. And now, dear, I will go, and let you finish your letter."

So Louie wrote until her letter was completed, and the next day it started on its way across the sea, bearing to Muriel the news that her daughter had met Percy Evringham.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The summer had passed very pleasantly and happily to Muriel. Newport had never been gayer or livelier: her most intimate friends had cottages there, she had met hosts of charming people, every day had brought its pleasures. Muriel knew she was greatly admired, that she was considered one of the most beautiful married ladies at Newport, that the society of herself and husband was openly sought. Any entertainment at her house was sure to be attended by the best people, for Mr. Anthon was as agreeable and entertaining a host as his lovely wife was a charming and graceful hostess. No woman in Newport had a more perfectly-appointed house, a handsomer or more devoted husband, a prettier phaeton, a fairer reputation, or more exquisite toilets than Muriel Anthon. Certainly there was no reason why she should not be perfectly happy.

She had missed Louie of course, but not nearly so much as many mothers would have missed an only child. Louie had spent a number of years at boarding-school, Muriel had grown accustomed to living without her, consequently her absence now did not seem at all strange or unusual.

It was one lovely afternoon that Louie's letter came to her—the letter in which the girl had written of Percy Evringham.

She was alone in her pretty room, lying upon a silken couch drawn up in front of one of the long windows. Her father and mother were visiting her; they had gone to drive with Arundel, while she, contrary to her usual custom, had remained at home; they were all going to attend a reception that evening, and she had a slight headache which she thought a little quiet rest in her own room would banish. She had been reading, but her book had not proved very interesting, and she had let it slip to the floor, and lying there in dreamy idleness, the wind from the sea lifting the soft waves of hair from her forehead, stirring the foaming laces of her snowy peignoir, she had been thinking what a happy life hers had been. It had been all sunshine, all brightness. Two lines from a little poem that was a favorite with her came into her mind:

Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

No rain had fallen into her life, she had never known any dark and dreary days, and she smiled—a little half grave, half-tender smile, as she said to herself:

"Perhaps the dear poet did not know what I know so well; that there can be love strong and warm and bright enough to keep the rain of bitter pain, the darkness and dreariness of sorrow and grief out of life; for it is my husband's love that has made my life so bright and sunshiny."

It was true. False, treacherous, as Arundel had been, untrue to every principle of honor and truth within him, he had made Muriel happy; happier than Russel could have ever made her!

The entrance of her maid with Louie's letter roused her from her happy reverie. Rising from her couch she looked down at the envelope with its post-mark, Cologne, a very happy smile upon her face.

"Dear child," she murmured, "she never forgets to write to me, and her letters are always so bright and entertaining; she has the rare faculty of writing just as she talks; when I read her letters I forget they are letters, it seems as though she was sitting in her old place—on an ottoman at my feet, looking up into my face, and talking to me."

Muriel's always did enjoy Louie's letters: they were such pretty, original letters, with little flashes of humor breaking out here and there in them, for Louie had a keen sense of the ridiculous. Stepping out through one of the long windows upon a little balcony, cool and shady at this hour of the day, for the afternoon sun did not shine upon it, Muriel sank down on a low wicker chair, and tearing open the envelope, took out the closely-written sheets of thin foreign notepaper it contained.

The sea lay shimmering in the bright sunshine, dotted here and there with gleaming sails, the blue, cloudless sky bent tenderly over it, a few sea-gulls were wheeling in the air. For a moment Muriel's eyes rested upon the scene before her—she had an artist's eye for beauty—then settling herself comfortably in her chair, she began Louie's letter.

She had read the first two or three pages when suddenly she sat upright in her chair, the look of pleased interest upon her face gave place to an expression of startled horror, her eyes began to grow dark with suppressed excitement, her breath came quick and fast, as rapidly, and with painfully intense eagerness, she read over the remaining pages; then, with a low cry, she clasped her hands together almost despairingly.

"Percy Evringham! The little boy who was five years old when Russel told me that terrible story—the little boy who never saw his father—the child of the man my husband's brother murdered!"

The color all faded out of her face, her lips were trembling, her hands were cold.

"Why is it he and Louie have been brought together?" she continued. "Surely they ought never to have known each other—she, the niece of the man who murdered his father. Ah, heaven, think of it! It seems so terrible to think that after all these years the Evringham and Anthon names are again connected. And how is it that Percy Evringham does not hate Louie because she bears the same name that the man who made him fatherless and motherless bore? Can it be that he has been kept in ignorance of the manner of his father's death, that he does not know that an Anthon killed him? It must be so; just as I have kept from Louie the fatal truth that there is a stain of blood upon the proud old Anthon name, so, perhaps, have the Evringhams kept from Percy the knowledge of how his father died."

She shuddered as she repeated the name, Percy Evringham. How plainly it all came back to her, the memory of that night so long ago when she had heard it for the first time; she remembered the white agony upon Russel's face when he had spoken of the little five-year-old boy whom his sinning, wayward, reckless brother had made fatherless, and her own feelings for Arundel—feelings of mingled condemnation and pity, horror for his sin, compassion for his miserable, lonely, weary life.

As the years had rolled by she had though less and less of the shadow that darkened the Anthon name. Long ago, when Louie was a tiny baby, the subject had been fresh in her mind, and often she had spoken of it as we all speak of matters that rest heavily upon our thoughts, but whenever she spoke of it her husband's face turned so ashy pale, it seemed to be such a bitterly painful subject to him, that after a while she ceased to speak of him about it, and it came about that Arundel and his sin were rarely, if ever, mentioned. Once she had said:

"Arundel is dead, we will let his sin die with him, we will not speak of it."

And he had answered hoarsely:

"Yes, Muriel, Arundel is dead—dead; we will not speak of him."

But now, after all these years, the time had come when she must speak to him about it, speak long, and earnestly, and seriously; she needed his advice, he must decide for her whether or no Louie should be allowed to remain in ignorance of the red link between the Evringhams and the Anthons. Would he be startled and horror-stricken as she was, when she told him of the strange and inexplicable fate which had brought Louie and Percy together?

She had no idea how long she sat there. The sun sank lower and lower toward the horizon, great masses of rose-color and gold banked themselves in the west, overhead the clear blue sky was flecked with spots of pink and amethyst, far away from the land a grey mist was creeping over the sea.

Suddenly she started to her feet. He was coming—her husband—she heard his footsteps.

Arundel had caught a glimpse of Muriel's white draperies. Through the open window he came, a smile upon his handsome, high-bred face.

"Is your headache better, my darling?" he asked, tenderly. "I hope so. Why, Muriel, what is it?"

For she had raised her face to his. He had seen the troubled, anxious, worried look upon it, the trace of sorrowful thoughts about the quivering lips, the pain in the wistful eyes.

She laid her hands upon his arm, dropping her head upon his breast with a long, trembling sigh.

"I am so glad you have come, Russel; I wanted you so much, I am so troubled, so worried about something."

He put his arm caressingly around her.

"Troubled and worried? About what, darling?"

"Oh, Russel, I have had a letter from Louie. She has met—he is travelling with them—Percy Evringham—Howard Evringham's grandchild, the son of that other Percy Evringham."

"Muriel!"

It was a gasping moan, that was all; and it was as though the grey mist creeping over the sea had settled upon Arundel's face.

"It seems so terrible, does it not?" continued Muriel, "to think that Louie and he have met each other, that they are good friends, that they laugh and talk together, and neither of them knows that she is the niece of the man who murdered his father."

"Muriel, for God's sake stop!"

She wound her arms around him.

"I know it hurts you to have me talk about it, Russel, we must both talk about it just as we talked about it that night before you went to Mexico. You remember it, don't you? how you told me all about Arundel and his wild, sinful, reckless life, how we spoke of the poor little boy who was motherless and fatherless. Yes, we must speak of it again now, for our daughter and Percy Evringham's son have met each other; again the Anthons and the Evringhams have come together, and we must decide what to do."

"Muriel, I cannot decide now, I must think."

His voice was strained and hoarse with agony, his face was white and tense. This was terrible, almost more than he could bear. It was like taking murdered Percy Evringham out of the grave where he had lain so long, and holding the dead form, with the cruel wound in the head, up before him. Every detail of that fearful night came back to him; the game of cards, the angry words, the swift blow, the blood upon his hands as he raised the fallen man, the horror, the agony, the remorse—he lived it all over again.

"And Russel," said Muriel, too busy with her own disturbing, harrassing thoughts, to pay much attention to his strange manner, "Louie writes as though she liked him, and he liked her; suppose they should grow to love each other, should want to marry? Oh, Russel, what could we do? Surely, an Anthon should not marry an Evringham."

"Mrs. Anthon, it is growing late; shall I not arrange your hair for the evening?"

It was her maid who spoke. By a mighty effort Arundel regained his composure.

"She is right, it is growing late. We will talk this all over to-night, perhaps. Go, now, Muriel, and make your toilet."

He stood calm and motionless until she had left him, then he sank down upon the low wicker chair, and bent his head until it rested upon the light rail of the balcony.

"Vengeance is mine," saith the Lord.

CHAPTER XXV.

A feeling of fear, vague yet terrible, was upon Arundel Anthon as he sat there on the balcony. It had come upon him, when Muriel had mentioned the name—the fatal name, Percy Evringham. A fear of dread and tribulation was coming, that sooner or later vengeance would fall crushing upon him, that this was the beginning of the end. Eighteen years had he succeeded in stifling conscience, keeping down remorse; he failed to do either now. Conscience lifted its voice, not still and small, but as loud and strong that it penetrated the farthest recesses of his heart and brain; remorse, like a swollen river torrent, swept over him.

Percy Evringham. That name, like a key, opened the long-closed doors of the storehouse of memory, and let loose a legion of remembrances. His false, sinful life rose up before him, he saw the black deed he had committed in all their foul nakedness, murderer, adulterer, thief—he was all of these. He loathed himself with unutterable loathing.

But the wild rush of remorse, the loud crying out of conscience, was only momentary. It did not take Arundel Anthon's thoughts long to travel down from the night when he held Percy Evringham's dead body in his arms to the present hour, though every detail of those gone by years was touched. Back into oblivion went the terrible memories, hushed was the voice of conscience, stemmed the tide of remorse; the past, with its sins and falsities was gone; the present required thought and action, and defiantly Arundel Anthon raised his head, an expression upon his face as though within the last second he had resolved to control the present and the future, to challenge even fate itself. Once, twice, he walked the length of the little balcony, then sat down again to take counsel with the evil spirit, to whom years ago he had surrendered himself.

Percy Evringham, the son of the man whose life he had unintentionally taken, and Louie, the girl whom all the world believed to be his own daughter, had met each other. What was to be the result of that meeting? Fate had brought them together—for what purpose? Arundel asked himself these questions. Finding he could not answer them, he did not stop to ponder them, to fret himself with thoughts and conjectures of what might be. The nervous trembling, the fear and dread, was gone now; he was again his cool, calm, collected self. After all, there was nothing unnaturally strange in the fact that Louie and Percy had been brought together; it did not necessarily go to show that evil was coming upon him.

He fetched a long breath of relief, and leaned back in his chair. He had been weak and childish to allow himself to be so disturbed by the mention of the name, Percy Evringham.

The western sky was all one blaze of crimson and gold now—the day was dying fast, and while the purple twilight crept over the sea, Arundel sat there thinking—thinking seriously and earnestly, until Muriel's voice interrupted his thoughts.

"Russel, dear, had you not better make your toilet for the evening?"

He was unusually bright and gay that evening at dinner.

Muriel, seeing no shadow upon his face, swept the little cloud of worrying thought from her own, saying to herself:

"He does not think there is anything very strange or terrible in the fact that Louie and dead Percy Evringham's son have been brought together. He has thought it all over, and though I do not yet know at what conclusion he has arrived, I am quite sure that he does not think there is anything in it over which we need trouble ourselves."

He had never looked handsomer than on that evening of Mrs. Earle's reception, never had his conversation been more entertaining and witty, his manners more graceful and easy. Not one in that brilliant company suspected that a few hours before he had suffered as he had not suffered for years, no one would have dreamed that this handsome, stately man with the clear eyes and smiling mouth, had a past so fearful, that he himself, turned faint and sick when he looked back upon it.

He and Mr. Trowbridge went into the smoking-room to have a cigar after they reached home; and Muriel, after a little conversation with her mother, went into her room, and after changing her white silk evening-dress for a loose white wrapper, dismissed her maid, and sat down by her open window to wait until her husband should come up stairs.

She could not help it, try as she would; the contents of the letter she had that day received from Louie worried and troubled her. She had a vague feeling that this coming of Percy Evringham into their lives was in some way to affect them: how, she knew not, that only the future would show. Perhaps, after all these years, dead Percy Evringham was to be avenged, but it would not be right or just—surely God would not permit her innocent Louie to suffer in any way because of her dead brother's sin, and Muriel sighed heavily as she said to herself:

"Little did I think that night, when Russel told me the name of the man his brother killed, that when again I heard and spoke the name, Percy Evringham, it would be in connection with my own child."

"I have been waiting for you, Russel," she said simply, when the door opened and Arundel came into the room. "Come and sit by me, I want to talk to you."

He seated himself beside her on the low couch, and looking lovingly, tenderly at her. The moonlight streaming through the open windows fell upon her; how wondrously beautiful the pure perfect face was in the silvery light—it was something to have sinned for love of such a face as that. With a sudden impulse he folded the lovely white clad figure in his arms, and pressed his lips to the soft, sweet ones which had never, since the day he had first kissed them, refused to meet his.

"My darling," he murmured passionately, "I think for love of you almost any man would sin."

She nestled closer to him.

"I think sins that are committed for love's sake are the saddest of all sins," she said. "It has always seemed to me that it is easier for God to forgive such sins than any others."

Under his breath he whispered:

"Heaven grant it so," while she continued, with a little tender smile:

"Even for love of me there has never been occasion for you to sin; not in the slightest way."

He caught his breath chokingly.

"Muriel, it is only a supposition, darling—but suppose, for love of you, solely for love of you, I had sinned deeply, terribly, blackened my very soul, lost every chance of heaven, been false to every instinct of truth and honor within me—would you, could you, love me, Muriel, or would you hate me?"

He hid his face upon her hair while the waited for her answer, that she might not see the look of agonized intensity which he knew had come upon it.

Just an instant she was silent, then she threw her arms around him

"You could do nothing that would make me hate you," she said, passionately. "If, as you say, you had sinned for love of me, I would love you just the same, though that sin might have been as foul and black as ever man committed. My love for you is more than love—it is idolatry, it is worship; I could not live without you."

The form within his arms was trembling in every limb, the face upon his breast was deathly white in the moonlight. One long, deep-drawn breath escaped him; he was satisfied. Even if the worst that could be should come, it would matter little. Nothing would matter so long as Muriel loved him, and she did love, would love, him always. He could not speak. He could only kiss again and again the soft lips, the little hands, the pure forehead, and Muriel looked up wonderingly, as she felt hot tears upon her face.

"What is it, dear?" she asked.

And he answered, finding a voice at last:

"My heart is so full of love for you, Muriel, that it overflows in glad tears."

For a few moments they were both silent, those two who were bound together by a love as strong and deep as any that had ever existed between a man and woman. In every life there are moments of perfect happiness, of rest from all pain, of forgetfulness of all sorrow that make up for years of weariness and pain—moments when the beating and throbbing of the great fevered heart of the world is hushed, when the swift rush of life's river is calmed. But those moments are only moments. Perhaps it is because our earth-natures are not strong enough to bear such an excess of happiness for a longer period of time. Muriel's thoughts were the first to come back to earth.

"And now, Russel, tell me what you think about this meeting of Percy Evringham's son and our Louie," she murmured.

He had prepared himself for this conversation which he knew would come sooner or later. Had thought it over sitting on the balcony that evening, so he answered calmly:

"I think there is nothing strange or startling in it, dear. It was simply a chance meeting, that is all."

"But Russel, you do not think that this young Percy knows that Louie is the niece of his father's murderer?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Babylonian Silver.

The British Museum has just acquired an interesting collection of 39 silver objects which give an insight into the daily life of the Babylonians, and reminds us of the find of the bird-dealer's shop at Pompeii. These objects, which were all found together on the site of Babylon, consist of fragments of silver dishes, the broken handle of a vase, and coins, most of the latter being defaced and clipped. It is easy to see that all have been broken purposely by a practiced hand, with the view of using the metal again, and we may fairly conclude that the collection is the remains of a silversmith's or coiner's shop. Among the coins is a Lycian one in good preservation. So far as can be judged from the vase-handle and dishes, the art is distinctly Babylonian under Persian influence, and the workshop may date from the conquest of Alexander.—The Academy.

"Mary Jane" said Dickey, "isn't this weather too cold for potatoes?" "Dickey," said Mary Jane, "it isn't cold that takes off the potatoes; its consumption." "Oh," said Dickey, "I never lived on a farm."

INTERESTING ITEMS

A Georgia man broke his neck sneeze.

During the first half of June locations of quartz mining were Montana.

Mr. Freeman, the historian, collect into a volume his "United States," which have various magazines.

A Minnesota farmer advertised man who had run off with his children, and $500 would return the he might keep the money and

During the recent cold snap formed across the straits of so firmly as to resist the efforts company to blast a channel for their boats.

The Paris Figaro, which alone Prince Napoleon's manifesto, copies that day. Very late in the police seized about a dozen that were left at the newspaper

The French settlers in notched sticks for keeping making various kinds of notches edges of an octagonal stick a farmer can record all his money a year.

When the books of the Post Office Savings Bank were first the public the Emperor claimed book for himself, and deposited sum, signing his name at the long list of participators in the taking.

The post of Governor-General Lorraine will shortly become recall of Gen. Manteuffel. This ribbon of the German Governments, being worth $45,000 a palace and various allowances. marck's gross emoluments do $20,000.

A trustworthy person from the Comte de Chambord passes shooting pigeons, states that the caused a great sensation in his The Comte now entertains hopes establishing his claims shortly, poleon's imprudence having destroyed all the chances of the ists.

The latest novelty in bonnets wash leather. The London and Draper's Journal expresses the twine trimming which was some time ago will be revived with. There would not then be bad stock. The shapes could clean windows with, and the trimmings in for tying up parcels.

A rejected lover was very Zanseville, Ohio, and his friends him in an attempt to kill himself was taken to revival meetings, that religion would comfort him. couraged them by becoming a tive convert; but having assured salvation, as he thought, he got stack, ignited it, and was burned

A number of the California was asleep when the vote began on an important bill, and, half the call of his name, he gave an ate grunt, which the Clerk recorded as "Yea." He slumbered when he finally awoke, the news over the wires to his constituents had turned traitor to the cause been elected to champion.

The dangers of the European ment cars have had a fresh illustration Germany. A couple were travelling Berlin on their wedding tour. The Italian were the sole occupants of On entering a tunnel the Italian a pistol and demanded the German's There was a desperate struggle, the German wrenched away the was cut five times with a stiletto.

The neighborhood of Cork, in in a state of panic, owing to the of rabies among the dogs in the This has arisen from one of the the Barrymore kennel having state of madness. After being time it returned to the kennel number of the other dogs there. thorities have issued an order all dogs found at large and not per control will be disposed of ed within five days, and that will be fined.

A movement is on foot in Texas plish what far-seeing men have as an agricultural necessity of It is to put an end to the absorption farms into large ones. Smaller in the working ability of the and more of them, is the reform farmers of Harrison county, Texas to divide their large plantations farms, and to offer them to actual on the installment plan, believing tion will soon convert idle lands able farms and fill up the county thrifty taxpayers.

A gentleman calls the attention London Times to the peculiar London sparrows. He says: "I passing through the Temple between 5 o'clock p.m. would be much astonishing noise made by the sparrows p'ane tree at the corner of Paper just as they are going to roost for I noticed a similar display of loquacity tree in Stationers' Hall court. know whether naturalists have this peculiarity in London sparrows is certainly a habit which is not by their congeners in the country.

Newspapers in Russia.

Newspapers in considerable continue to live in Russia and prosper in spite of the dangers tions that beset their paths. that there is a total in the country of which 197 are published at burgh and 76 at Moscow. publications 249 are printed in in three languages—Russian, French; 1 in two languages—German: 9 in German, 4 in Latin, 2 in Hebrew, 1 in English, 1 in Finnish, and 1 in are 19 daily newspapers, 15 monthly publication in St. 12 daily newspapers, 6 monthly publications in largest circulation of any paper 000; the next largest is 25,000.

A BURNING COAL MINE.

...ting Cavings-in at Albion Lines, Nova Scotia.

...e folks living in the back row of houses ...e edge pit got a great fright recently. ...many yards from the house a noise, as ...n explosion was heard. It was at once ...vered that a heavy fall-in had taken ..., and the earth had opened out like ...jaws of some huge monster. Suddenly ...es burst forth, shooting up in the air as ...h as forty feet, it is said, and passing ...e to and over Mr. Reid's barn. The ...nts in the row were greatly alarmed and ...nce commenced preparations for flight. ...niture of all kinds were unceremonious- ...smiled out of doors and conveyed to a ...of houses luckily for them unoccupied ...unfinished) at the time. On Wednes- ...the flames had subsided but not the ...s of the people, and they did not return, ...luckily for them they did not. On Fri- ...afternoon a large cave-in took place imme- ...ately under the houses rending them ...mber. They are now a lot of ruins being ...ported in all shapes. The kitchen at- ...ched to the house occupied by Mr. Hood, ...s bodily out of sight. Mr. Hood los- ...a valuable cupboard and some ten bush- ...of potatoes, and other articles. We had ...ep into the house, but didn't presume ...much farther than the threshold, as ...ground from the centre of the house to ...e had been carried down. Before us ...a yawning gulf; we peered into it but ...not see a vestige of either the house, ...upboard, or the potatoes. They were ...in the capacious maw. Looking across ...hole one could see that the ground was ...ormer times the places where the surface ...contact. A frozen crust about a foot ...stretched from one side to the other ...which would likely have given way had ...we been rash enough to step upon it. ...or eight heavy falls have occurred in ...Out of only two, however, did either ...flame or black smoke issue. The fire ...well under on Friday, the operation of ...ing up the apertures, which gave it vent, ...having been prosecuted vigorously and suc- ...cessfully. The railway for about a dis- ...ce of one hundred and fifty feet sunk ...twelve to five feet, and double that dis- ...ce settled a little. On Tuesday the rails ...were torn up and the work of raising the ...rk was at once begun. The work was ...energetically proceeded with, and the ...laying of rails commenced on Saturday. ...It was speedy work, considering the earth ...filling up, being frozen, had to be blast- ...ed. The track has been raised higher than ...needful, to make allowance in case it ...should settle a little more. On Sabbath the ...scene of the fire was visited by a large num- ...ber of people. Fresh smoke had begun to ...issue from a fall to the west of the one ...which had emitted the most flame. Evi- ...dently the current of air had changed, the ...former outlet acting as an inlet and feeding ...the flames. Here any one with nerve ...might have an opportunity of seeing how ...fire acted. While the ground had fall- ...en on either side a pillar about seven or ...eight feet square remained, forming a bridge ...across the chasm. By venturing on the ...edge one could hear the flames below roar- ...ing and looking down could see away be- ...low the immense furnace blazing and spark- ...ling. Large pieces of coal loosened by the ...fire were constantly dropping from the ...mass and roof and feeding the flames. It ...is generally believed that the fire is confined ...to the working nearest the crop out or sur- ...face.—Boston Trades' Journal.

The Price of a Burglar's Kit.

...Bank burglars' tools are generally of a ...very superior order, gathered with care and ...deemed until the kit is made up. A full ...set of the best order is worth $2,000. This ...may all go in the event of a failure of a job ...disturbance, and generally does go when ...a successful piece of work is accomplished, ...the booty is heavy enough to carry away ...itself, so that tools are left behind. Me- ...mbers of a superior class exist in larger ...cities who make a specialty of fashioning ...burglars' tools. In the absence of such a ...man the tools are collected in parts, ...as this is a risky way of obtaining them. ...It is avoided if possible. ...Sets of tobyman's tools are kept on hand ...for hire, and a good collection can be ob- ...tained in the centres of business for from ...$100 to $200. These tool renters are gener- ...ally tool makers also, but often the fence ...has them on hand, and it is part of the busi- ...ness of the old cracksmen to keep them. ...Fifty per cent. of the noted burglars are ...practical smiths, and thoroughly understand ...the temper and capacity of their own tools. ...Sometimes a gang, each owning implements ...of various kinds, pool their possessions, and ...thus make a full "kit." The tool makers ...have their specialties. Some are famous ...for drills, others for punches and jimmies. ...Some makers made a national reputation ...for a kind of lead and copper that entirely ...deadened that formerly used of steel, be- ...ing of the drill, almost noiseless, blow it ...struck.

Public Letter-writers.

...One street-sight that interests me special- ...ly is the public letter-writer, who still plies ...his trade as in the old, old days of which I ...have said so long ago. I had quite forgotten ...that there were such people, but one morning, ...as we were trying to find a short cut to the ...Pantheon, we came suddenly into a quiet ...little open square round which were estab- ...lished seven men, each with his table and ...writing materials, waiting for customers. ...Of course I insisted on waiting to see whe- ...ther people did really engage in this vica- ...rious style of correspondence, and I was ...quickly gratified by the arrival at one ...table of an aged woman, and at another of ...a young girl who gave the scribe their senti- ...ments and their soldi, and sat watching ...the slow moving fingers with evident satis- ...faction.

Not In.

"Is your father in?" asked an Austin landlord in search of back rent. The little boy who was sitting on the steps devasting a large slice of bread and butter, replied be- tween bites:

"No, he ain't in town."

"Suppose you go in and ask him if he ain't in?"

"He ain't awake yet."

PITHY PARAGRAPHS.

Twenty years ago a man moved away from Philadelphia, leaving $650 on deposit in a savings bank. Some time afterward his brother-in-law swore that he was dead, procured letters of administration, and drew the money. Now the original depositor turns up and wants to close up the account for himself.

According to a return issued a few days ago, the value of the Irish harvest last year was nearly six million of pounds sterling less than that of the crops of 1881, four-fifths of the depreciation being caused by the failure in the potato crop. The harvest of 1882 was, however, nearly six millions more than that of 1879, which was the worst season since the famine year.

Mr. Sherman and Mr. Hazard own handsome adjoining grounds at Newport, and they quarrelled about a boundary fence. Mr. Hazard set to work to destroy it with a crowbar. Mr. Sherman hastily got out a hose, and threw a stream of cold water on his foe. A crow of spectators gathered, and Mr. Hazard was encouraged to complete the job despite the drenching.

A man in St. Louis became convinced that his soul's salvation depended on abstaining from food forty days, and he at once began the fast, but after five days of total abstinence from food and water the police carried him to a hospital, where sustenance was forced upon him. He declares that the responsibility is all transferred to his captors, who will be doomed to eternal torment in his stead.

Mrs. Augustus Smith of St. Louis is one of the lightest of sleepers. She is awake twenty-two hours out of every day on the average, and when she does slumber it is scarcely more than a doze during which she is partially conscious of all that is going on around her. She is strong and healthy, with a good appetite, and not particularly nervous. The physicians are unable to bring on sleepiness except with drugs.

A military man and a civil official fell out, at Rosenberg, West Prussia, and the former issued a challenge for a duel, but the latter replied: "As you are expert with weapons and I am not, I shall doubtless be killed. Still, I will fight you if you will bind yourself to pay my family $1,500 a year during their lives, that being the income which would cease at my death." These terms were pronounced reasonable by the seconds, but the challenger would not agree to them, and so there was no duel.

A Maine man has perfected an invention for starting the kitchen fire in the morning without getting out of bed. Before retiring he empties a hod of coal into the range, and then closes the dampers, so that there will be just draught enough to keep the fire from dying out. By an ingenious contrivance a wire connects with the dampers and runs along the walls up through the floor to the sleeping room. When the man wakes he gives the wire a jerk, the dampers fly open, and in half an hour a brisk coal fire is burning.

The white cliffs on which Dover Castle stands are the last objects which the traveller loses sight of on his way to Calais, and the first object which his eyes discover on his return journey homeward. The buildings themselves are a standing witness of every change in English history, from the occupation by the Romans to the present reign. Both cliff and castle, it might have been confidently prophesied, would last as long as the English nation itself, but the cliffs are now being undermined by the action of the sea. The waves have for many years been gradually washing away the coast line on both sides of Shakespeare's Cliff, and they now threaten to carry away the base of the Castle of Dover.

Irish Wit.

An Irish priest was standing at the corner of a square about the hour of dinner, when one of his countrymen, observing the worthy father in perplexity, thus addressed him:

"Oh, Father O'Leary, how is your rivirence?"

"Mightily put out, Pat," was the reply.

"Put out! Who'd put out your rivirence?"

"Ah, you don't understand. This is just it: I am invited to dine at one of the houses in the square, and I have forgotten the name, and I never looked at the number, and now it's seven o'clock."

"Oh, is that all?" was the cry. "Just now be aisy, your rivirence; I'll settle that for you."

So saying, away flew the good-natured Irishman round the square, glancing at the kitchens, and when he discovered a fire that denoted hospitality, he thundered at the door and enquired:

"Is Father O'Leary here?"

As might be expected, again and again he was repulsed. At length an angry footman exclaimed:

"No; bother on Father O'Leary. He is not here, but he has to dine here to-day, and the cook is in a rage and says the dinner will be spoiled. All is waiting for Father O'Leary."

Paddy, leaping from the door as if the steps had been on fire, rushed up to the astonished pastor and cried:

"All right, your rivirence, you dine at 43, and a mighty good dinner you'll get."

"Oh, Pat," said the grateful pastor, "the blessings of a hungry man be upon you."

"Long life and happiness to your rivirence. I have got your malady. I only wish I had your cure," returned Pat.

The World's Railroads.

Of the 249,590 miles of railroads at the close of 1881, North and South America are credited with 133,186 miles; Europe, 108,002; Asia, 10,674 Australia and adjacent islands, 5,481; Africa, 3,147. The United States led all other countries many fold, it having at that time 104,831 miles of completed road. The second country in extent of railroad is Germany, which had 21,446; Great Britian comes next, with 18,281, Russia has 14,779 miles. The United States at the close of 1881 had within 4 000 miles as much railroad as all of Europe. The total toting for the year will be not less than 12,00 miles. In less than three years there will be as many or more miles of railroad in the United States, as in all the rest of the world besides.

SANITARY SCHOOL HOUSES.

New Conclusions of a German Medical Commission.

A medical commission, which was appointed not long ago in Germany to study certain questions relating to the construction of school buildings, has made an interesting report, a step in advance in that branch of science. In the matter of ventilation we find that the members of the commission agree with all the other experts who have investigated the subject, in increasing the quantity of fresh air which is to be regarded as essential to health. It is but a short time since a thousand feet of air per hour for each pupil was regarded as an extremely liberal theoretical allowance for healthy children, and in practice in this country, at least, a room in which a hundred and fifty or two hundred feet per hour is actually supplied to each person is regarded as admirably ventilated. Now, however, those who have long submitted to be accused of foolish extravagance in insisting that this is an inadequate allowance may cite the authority of the German doctors, who set two thousand one hundred and twenty cubic feet per hour for each pupil as the minimum quantity of fresh air to be supplied. In the best arranged ventilated shafts, of metal, fitted with gas flames, stoves, or other artificial means for promoting the draught, the upward current will occasionally reach a velocity of a thousand feet per minute in cold weather, although the average is rarely more than five hundred feet and generally much less; so that a room containing sixty pupils shoul have an outlet shaft of four square feet or more in sectional area to be even capable of such ventilation as pronounced essential. In regard to lighting, the new commission totally denies and rejects the famous theory of unilateral illumination, following in this respect the French authorities, who began to call it in question a year or so ago. In the language of the report, it is practically impossible, even with lofty and narrow rooms, to obtain sufficient light by this method. In cases where openings can only be made in one wall, the report requires that the width of of the piers between the windows shall not exceed three-fourths of that of the windows themselves, and that the width of the room shall not be more than five feet greater than the heighth of the windows, which would restrict it in such cases to about eighteen feet as a maximum. Lighting from two sides being then required under all ordinary circumstances, it is advised that the windows should be in the opposite walls, on the right and left of the pupils as seated. Light from the rear is admissible, but it is not recommended, and windows facing the pupils are prohibited. Walls of neighboring buildings painted white and reflecting the sunshine into the schoolroom are very injurious, and the owners should be persuaded or obliged to paint them a dark color. The inside face of the walls of the school-room itself is to be painted pale blue or bluish white, and the ceiling pure white. Artificial light should be used without hesitation on dark or short days, it is more dangerous to work by insufficient daylight than by gaslight. Argand burners are preferable, as giving a steadier light, and ground-glass globes are objectionable on account of the large proportion of light which they absorb.—American Architect.

Three Women Caught by One Trap.

At the residence of one of our highly respectable families, a trap had been set on a remote shelf some time ago, for the purpose of catching an intruding cat which was in the habit of visiting that locality, and had been entirely forgotten. The mistress of the house, wishing something which was supposed to be on that shelf, reached up, and immediately the trap closed upon her fingers. She made an effort to extricate them, but to no avail, and the pain was so intense that she was obliged to scream for help. A servant immediately appeared, and in her endeavors to extricate her mistress's hand accidentally enclosed her own fingers, causing the two to scream for help. A younger member of the house, hearing the screams, rushed to the place, seized the trap, made a desperate attempt to extricate the fingers of the other two, when her own hand accidentally slid into the trap, and all three were fast. Their united voices called to their aid a gentleman who opened the trap.—Utica Observer.

A Juror's Excuse.

In the Court of Queen's Bench, in London, the other day, before Mr. Justice Manisty and a common jury, the court was after lunch delayed for a short time waiting for a missing juryman. His lordship had to proceed with only eleven jurors. On the juryman arriving in court his lordship asked him why he had delayed the business by his absence for half an hour, to which he replied, "I lost myself, my lord, in the corridors." [Laughter.] His lordship having pointed out the inconvenience caused by the delay, the juryman replied, I can do no more than apologize, my lord." His lordship rejoined that he hoped it would not happen again.

Important Proclamation.

The Hon. Peter Bowe is Sheriff of the City and County of New York. Recently, in conversation with one of our reporters, Mr. Bowe proclaimed the following fact: "I consider St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy, and one that ought certainly to find its way into every household. Mrs. Bowe always has a bottle of it there, and makes a family remedy of it."—New York Evening Telegram.

An Illinois butcher slaughtered a cow that had swallowed a bundle of Greenbacks, and for several days afterward he was subjected to great torture in consequence of being asked by almost every person he met as to what was likely to be the effect of legal tenders on tenderloin.

Extract from a letter just received (December. 1882.) by Mrs. Thos. Murray, from her husband, Mr. Thos. Murray, who was for many years' Bridge Conductor for the Great Western Railway at Niagara Falls, afterwards one of the contractors on the enlarged Welland Canal (section 12), and is now in Northern Michigan, looking after his timber interests in that country. He writes:

"Tell Sutherland I am now starting for the woods with 36 men, where I will be all winter, and that I am now without ache or pain in either my knees or arms (something I have not known for years), thanks to the two bottles of Rheumatine which I procured from him before leaving St. Catharines.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

ONE-SET WOOLLEN MILL FOR SALE—water and steam power, in Wentworth county; building of stone; everything in good order; price $5,000; $1,500 cash, balance convenient. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

A CONTRACTOR WITH AMPLE CAPITAL having large planing mill in thriving western city, wants a practical managing partner with not less than $3,000, to extend the business in the manufacturing of furniture, for which there is a fine opening. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

General & Financial Agency

Sums of from $200 to $50,000 to invest in Patent Rights, Business Chances, Manufactures, Hotels, Saloons, and any kind of merchantable or exchangeable property.

J. I. EVANS & CO.,
Leader Lane, Toronto.

$6.25 FOR 39 CTS.

Any person sending me 39 cents and the addresses of 10 acquaintances will receive by return mail goods (not recipes) that net $6.25 This is an honest offer to introduce staple goods If you want a fortune, act now. J. D. HENRY P. O. Box 127, Buffalo, N.Y.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

AUTHORS & COX, 91 CHURCH STREET Toronto. Manufacturers of our celebrated Raw Hide, Willow and Leather Legs. The best and cheapest made in Canada. First prize 15 years in succession. Send for reduced price list.

"RELIABLE" SEEDS

It will pay purchasers of seeds to send for my descriptive and priced annual catalogue or a "Cultivator's Guide" for 1883, sent free on application. Address,

J. A. SIMMERS,
RELIABLE SEED HOUSE,
147 King Street East, Toronto

Burdock Blood Bitters

CONSUMPTION,

BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, ASTHMA — DISEASES of the EYE & EAR.

CAN BE CURED.

INHALATIONS.

"TORONTO PULMONARIUM."

S. L. NASH, M. D., M. C. P. S. O., has an experience of 20 years' practice in Ontario.

Read the following Letter which speaks for itself.

Toronto, 4 Argyle-St., Dec. 11th, 1882.

S. L. NASH, M. D.:—Dear Dr.,—I take great pleasure in saying your treatment of my wife by inhalations, for an affection of the bronchial tubes, has proved most satisfactory. After being treated by several of the most prominent physicians of Toronto, I almost despaired of her being relieved of the distressing cough, which clung to her in spite of the best efforts put forth by skilled men to relieve her, and pronounced by some as incurable. Now, after a lapse of almost nine months since discontinuing your treatment, she has passed the fall weather without any signs of her old complaint returning. Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH POWELL.

A personal examination is preferable, after which you can be treated at home. If impossible to call, write for Question and Circular. "Consultation free. Fees Moderate." Address "TORONTO PULMONARIUM," 123 Church-St., Toronto, Ontario.

To have fragrant Breath and Teeth like snow
Foolish and careless you'd be very,
If you didn't at once a trial bestow
On that excellent dentifrice—"FEARERY.

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA. It stimulates, and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving juices of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate.

DYSPEPSIA!

And the severer forms of INDIGESTION. A small pamphlet on the above most distressing maladies and their complete cures, post free, 5 cents in stamps. By R. KING, Esq., Staff Surgeon, Royal Navy, England.

Apply to RICHARD KING, Box 346, Windsor, Ont

SEEDS

MY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FOR 1883 containing description and prices of the choicest kinds of Field, Garden, and Flower Seeds mailed free to all intending purchasers upon application. It is the handsomest Catalogue published in Canada, and is invaluable to all who wish to buy PURE FRESH SEEDS. Special attention given to preparing MIXED GRASSES for PERMANENT PASTURE.

Prices and full particulars will be found in Catalogue.

WM. RENNIE, Seedsman, TORONTO

CONSUMPTION!

Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, with diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart successfully treated at the Ontario Pulmonary Institute, 135 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario.

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M.C.P.S.O
PROPRIETOR.

Our system of practice is by Medicated Inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Over 40,000 cases treated during the past 17 years.

If impossible to call personally for an examination, write for List of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

Ontario Pulmonary Institute,
135 Church-St., Toronto, Ont.

SUTHERLAND'S

RHEUMATINE

THE GREAT CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature,

RHEUMATINE is not a sovereign remedy for "all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature,

IT IS A SURE CURE.

Sold by all druggists. The Rheumatine Manufacturing Co., St. Catherines, Ont. Messrs Northron & Lyman, Wholesale Agts., Toronto

WHY do a great many ladies still pay from two to four dollars per year for high priced American fashion papers when they can get the Ladies' Journal one year for fifty cents? The Ladies' Journal is a 16-page monthly fashion paper, containing the sum and substance of all the latest American high priced fashion magazines. Large full page illustrations of all the newest styles, useful household hints, short stories, poetry, miscellaneous selections, and lots of other interesting matter, also one full sized piece of sheet music in each number, always the latest and most popular thing out. To every person who sends me fifty cents for one years' subscription I'll mail postpaid at once an Elegant Silver Plated Butter Knife ordinarily retailed at one dollar. Don't forget to tell your friends that the Ladies' Journal contains besides the fashion illustrations, &c., at least three to five dollars' worth of new music in the course of the year, and fifty cents will pay for one year's subscription and one dollar will pay for three years, and an elegant silver-plated butter-knife with either one or three years' subscription. Up to the present I have only been able to give a butter knife to the getter up of a club of three. I now offer that elegant butter-knife to every yearly subscriber who sends fifty cents. S. FRANK WILSON, 33 and 35 Adelaide Street, West, Toronto.

DIPHTHERIA

CROUP, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, NEURALGIA.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment (for Internal and External Use) will instantaneously relieve these terrible diseases, and will positively cure nine cases out of ten. Information that will save many lives, sent free by mail. Don't delay a moment. Prevention is better than cure. L. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, MASS.

SCALES.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES,

For Railroads, Rolling Mills, Grist Mills and Elevators.

Scales for everything—Hay, Coal and Stock. All sizes of Warehouse Scales. Counter Scale of all kinds.

DAIRY & FARMERS' SCALES.

Fish, Pork and Wool Scales. Butchers Scales. Scales and Beams for Pedlars Waggons. All sizes of Railroad and Warehouse Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers.

Every Scale warranted. All makes promptly repaired.

☞ Send for illustrated catalogue.

GURNEY & WARE

HAMILTON.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, FEB. 15TH, 1883.

THE STORM.

For quantity of snow and duration of stormy weather the present winter is unprecedented, there being almost an entire blockade in traffic by rail and otherwise. The morning train from Toronto got as far as Orangeville on Thursday and was unable to proceed further. A snow plow left that place early in the morning but became snow-bound within three miles of Shelburne, where it remained fast until Monday. The morning train on Thursday left Owen Sound and was unable to proceed but a short distance south of Markdale. The passengers and many of the citizens turned out and shovelled, determined to make way for the iron horse to proceed, but all in vain as the wind proved more than a match for them, it filling up the canal as fast as they could dig it. Dr. Sproule, M. P., had started on this ill fated train for Ottawa, and proved himself one of the best shovellers of the volunteer gang, but of course had to return and bide his time until Tuesday. After hours of toil endeavoring to break the "universal bank" a dispatch came over the wires with orders to retreat until storm would subside, which was not until Saturday morning, when all the help that could be secured was sent on the line and continued shoveling until Monday night when the track was again clear, and the Toronto mails of four days arrived at a late hour. Trains are now running regular, but the depth of snow along the line is something terrible, in many places being higher than the tops of the coaches.

ORANGE COUNTY LODGE OF SOUTH GREY.

At the annual meeting of the Loyal Orange County Lodge of South Grey, which was held in the Orange Hall, Markdale, on the 6th inst.—after the completion of the general business—the following brethren were duly elected officers for the present year:—

Bro. J. Brodie, W. C M.
" R. Aligoe, W. D. C. M.
" R. Fennel, D. Chap.
" J. Elliott, C. R. Sec.
" T. Jones, C. F. Sec.
" W. A. Anderson, C. Treas.
" G. Rutherford, C. D. of C.
" I. O. Armstrong, C. Lecturer

Notwithstanding the severity of the weather, and bad state of the roads, there was a large number of the delegates from the various local and district lodges present. The reports from the district lodges showed the order in South Grey to be in a very healthy and progressive state. Two new lodges were organized in this county during the past year.

Prior to adjournment, Allan Park was fixed upon as the place for holding the semi annual meeting; and Durham as the next place for holding the annual meeting of this County Lodge.

EUPHRASIA ELECTION.

Mr Myles, Reeve of Euphrasia, has been appointed County Valuator, and in consequence resigned the Reeveship. A new election took place on Monday, the 12th inst., and resulted in a victory for Mr. Gilray. The voting in the various polling divisions was as follows:

	Fawcett.	Gilray.	Kerr.
Ward No. 1	22	32	4
" 2	34	46	3
" 3	25	75	1
" 4	4	26	4
" 5	4	23	0
" 6	8	19	2
Total	92	221	14

Hon. John McMurrich, an old and respected citizen of Toronto, died at his residence on Tuesday last, aged 78 years.

Mr. McBride will have a consignment of herring, trout, and white fish at R. Cook's, Flesherton Station, to-day, (the 15th)

SCHOOL BOOKS.—All the authorised text books for common schools for sale at the Medical Hall.—A. Turner & Co. 127 28

The Presbyterian Conversazione held last evening in the church was poorly attended, but a very pleasant evening was spent. Mr. Bewes was voted to the chair, and a lengthy program me was gone thr ugh, comprising readings, recitations, mu ic, &c.

Almost a Fire.—At an early hour yesterday morning smoke was discovered issuing from the rear of the Mansion House, owned by Mr. C. Reynolds, and occupied by Mr. W. Kay. Upon entering the building it was found that a box containing a quantity of rubbish was on fire, but was immediately extinguished. Had it not been noticed at the time it was there is no doubt but that we would have had to chronicle the worst fire that has ever taken place here, as the buildings adjoining it are all frame. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Correspondence.

Notice.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

A LETTER FROM MANITOBA.

[The following we glean, by request, from a letter written by John B. Robinson, formerly an employee on the T. G. & B. railway, and recently on the H & N W. railway but now on the C. P. railway. Manitoba.—Ed.]

Regina, N.W.T., Dec. 27th, 1882.

Mr. Clark,

Dear Sir.—We are all in the best of health and spirits, the family being agreeably surprised at the weather we have had this winter. We have had finer winter weather so far than you ever saw in Ontario, much colder of course, but no snow to speak of, and a pure, dry kind of frost.

The day before Christmas I was 573 miles west of Winnipeg, and neither overcoats nor mitts were necessary, and no snow on the ground or signs of any. I am writing this in the largest city in the world for its age, and a finer day I never saw in my life, mild and pleasant.

As for liking the country, I like it well and would not go back to Ontario on any account, as I have great confidence in the future of the country. I have been out in worse storms along the T. G. & B. railway than we have had here as yet, but report says that March is stormy.

I intend to get a farm next Summer in what is called the Bow River Region, at the foot of the Rocky Mountains. Cattle live out doors all the year round and no snow ever falls.

People comes out here as far as Winnipeg or Brandon, and not finding things as pleasant as they expected, they go back to Ontario, and give others to understand that they know all about the North-West, while they know little about it. Either a capitalist or a working man will succeed out here as no man gets less than $2 per day, and living is very little higher than in the East. Section men get $2 per day and pay $4.50 per week for board; we pay 25c. for a meal, and I paid 20c. on the H. & N. W. railway. I got $1.75 for 100 miles there and I get $3.15 here.

I make $3 every day in the month, and have a good time as well, and I am at home half my time. We have a free house in Broadview, and fuel is not one cent dearer than in Toronto or Hamilton. Our house is frame, with a lining of thick brown paper inside and black tar paper outside, and is warmer than thousands of houses in the cities of Ontario. The thermometer registers a degree of cold that would freeze you as dead as a nail in Ontario, but the air is so dry here we do not feel it the same. Twenty degrees below zero out here is no worse than 5 below zero 100 miles east of here. Some people think this is a cold, dreary and barren region, but please believe when I say that they make a great big mistake, as it is a bright, cheerful country and every one is happy and comfortable.

Through Ontario one often meets with people in poor circumstances and living in poverty the year round. Out here it is different, as everyone seems to prosper, and all are confident of doing well. Of course there are a class of people who are too shiftless to get along in any country. I have worn the very same clothes this winter that I did last and have been just as comfortable.

We are as comfortable here as we were in Hamilton, and have the consciousness of knowing that we are in a good country, and feel confident of securing a competency in a few years, which we would perhaps never get in Ontario.

I beg to remain your devoted and affectionate son-in-law,

John B. Robinson.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

Markdale, Feb. 12th, 1883.

To J. Cæsar, Esq., Agent T. G. & B. Railway.

Dear Sir.—We, the undersigned, considering the extreme kindness displayed by you during the past week, whilst we have been delayed by the unprecedented storm of snow, request your acceptance of the enclosed.

Should at any time the vicissitudes of unfavorable weather compel us to locate here for such a length of time, your kindness will ever be remembered.

Had it not been for the despatches so kindly forwarded by you over the wires, our stay would have been rendered simply unbearable.

Trusting you may be advanced to some more honorable position in the T. G. & B. Railway at an early date, and that happiness and prosperity ever favor you and yours,

We are yours, faithfully,

W. Dundas,
A. Duncan & Co., Hamilton.
T. P. Hayes,
Ogilvy & Co., Toronto
Jno. Rogerson,
Alex. Harvey & Co., Hamilton.
Thos. Duncan,
P. O. Dept., Belleville.

The above was tendered to our esteemed Station Agent, together with a valuable present, by the above travellers, accompanied by a few of our leading business men, on Monday last. Mr. Cæsar was taken entirely by surprise yet gave a suitable reply.

Don't forget the great stock taking sale at Tr mble & Wright's

BIRTHS.

Firth.—In Flesherton, on the 15th inst., the wife of Mr. T. H. Firth, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

Walker—Calvert—At Christ C. urch, Markdale, on the 6th inst., by Rev. J. Ward, Mr. W. R. Walker, (tinsmith,) of Cookstown, to Miss Mary, eldest daughter of John Calvert, Esq., of Sydenham

DIED.

Hogan.—In Markdale, on the 13th inst., Mr. Matthew Hogan, aged 92 years

McArthur—In Glenelg, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. Hugh McArthur, aged 24 years

McCann—In Holland, on the 9th inst., George, son of Mr. Francis McCann, aged 24 years

Notice to Debtors.

ALL PERSONS INDEBTED TO ME are requested to call and settle with Mr. Turner, of the Medical Hall, or with Dr. Armstrong, and save trouble. A receipt from either of the above will be acknowledged by me 127-29. T. S. SPROULE, M. D.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES—being Lot 20, Con. 10, Glenelg. This farm is three miles from Markdale, with about 40 acres cleared, balance, hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing the place It is well watered with never failing stream of spring water. Young orchard, log house, and stables. Clear deed can be given. For price and terms apply to MRS. MITE, on the premises. Markdale P. O.—Also a farm waggon and fanning mill for sale 127-tf

LOOK OUT FOR

MANITOBA!

PARTIES INTENDING TO REMOVE to Manitoba should see me on Wednesday, Feb. 20th, at A. McIntyre's store, in Markdale, and get a bargain of good land—class No. 1. You need not grub at stones and stumps for years. You need not go 200 or 300 miles beyond civilization. You need not take land that has been culled over from the Government. You need not pay the high price to the C P. R. company they now hold their lands at, when you can come and purchase from me at half the price four or five good blocks for sale in well settled localities. Don't forget Wednesday, the 20th, in Markdale.

127 ARCH. SPEERS, Sens.

TO THE

Electors of East Riding

OF THE

COUNTY OF GREY.

Gentlemen,—

Having been solicited by a large number of the Electors of this Riding to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages, for the representation of this Riding, in the House of Assembly of Ontario, at the approaching election, I have consented to become a candidate for the following reasons:

1. There is a growing feeling in this constituency that it should be represented by a resident farmer, and not, as at present, by a Toronto lawyer whose interests (owing to his profession and location) cannot be identical with yours.

2. I am a farmer, and have been a resident of this County for thirty-six years. Having represented the Township of Euphrasia in the County Council for ten years I flatter myself that I am well acquainted with your wants and requirements and will, if elected, use my utmost endeavors to further your interests.

I may state that I have been identified with the Liberal Conservative party, although always advocating independent principles—refusing on all occasions to accept the errors in Legislation of my own party, as wise and useful, or to denounce the best acts of my opponents to be injurious and "corrupt," as at present practised by party politicians.

If elected I will vote and act for the best interests of my constituents and the Province of Ontario, irrespective of party—I will support "measures and not party."

I will use my best and most earnest endeavors to have the jurisdiction of the Division Court extended from $200, as at present, to $400; and also to have our Municipal Assessment and Line Fence Acts amended so that many of our local differences can be settled at home, without the aid of Lawyers and expensive litigation.

Believing the time has come when Farmers, independent of party cries, will assert their independence by electing one of themselves. I confidently solicit your vote and influence at the approaching election.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Yours ob'd. Servant,
ROBERT MYLES.

Euphrasia, Feb. 12, 1883.

FOR SALE.

A BRICK DWELLING with garden. This is a very desirable residence, will be sold cheap for cash or on reasonable terms.

A. TURNER & Co.
Medical Hall

T. G. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NTH. Read Down. A.M.	P.M.		GOING SOUTH Read Up. A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	Toronto	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	Cardwell Junc.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	Orangeville...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	Mount Forest..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	Markdale.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	Teeswater	5 00	2 45
11 50	0	Flesherton	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	Owen Sound....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNicoll, Gen. Pass. Agt. — Edmund Wragge, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $1.00; Spring $0.96 to $1 00; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68; Oats, 37c; Butter, 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $0.00; Pork, 7.25 to 7.65; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; GrassSeed, $1.75.to.$2.00

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.93 to $0.98; Spring, $0.95 to $0.99; Barley, 55c; Peas, 68c; Oats, 36c; Butter. 17c; Eggs, 20c; Potatoes.40 c; Hay, $9.00; Pork, $7.25 to $7 60

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.99 to $1.02; Spring, $1.03 to $1 05; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 41c to 43c Peas, 70c to 75c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag. 75c to 85c; Butter, dairy. 17c to 20c; eggs, 30c to 32c.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

Special attention to Cutting.

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with.

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

Farm for Sale.

That well-know farm, known by the name of "Mount Royal Farm," lots 117 and 118, containing 100 acres, on the 2nd concession north-east of the Toronto and Sydenham gravel road, in the township of Artemesia county of Grey, 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale on the T. G. & B. railway; 5½ miles from the flourishing village of Flesherton, on the same line of railway. Good roads all around, and plenty of grist and saw mills in the immediate vicinity. Soil—clay loam; very little stone on the place, and what stones there was are nearly all taken out and utilized in fences, Nearly all the fences are first class cedar, stone underneath to keep them off the ground This is the best laid out farm in the county. There is a lane two rods wide right in the centre leading from the road to the bush. There is a row of ten acre fields on each side of the lane; good new gates and bars on all the fields; 80 acres under cultivation; 20 acres good hardwood bush. It is all good dry workable land, just rolling enough for good drainage; 60 acres is fit for all sorts of machinery, and 20 acres is stumpy land Ten acres of fall wheat in the ground, well summer fallowed, 15 acres seeded last spring with clover and timothy for meadow, ten acres of pasture, ten acres of good rich sod to break up for summer fallow this season, the rest of the clearing is well plowed for spring crop. This farm is in the best state of cultivation and guaranteed to be free from all wild stuff such as wild oats, wild mustard, cockle, chess or wild grass, and very few thistles. This is a good place for all kinds of grain and grass. Last season (1882) I had 600 bushels of wheat off 20 acres—10 acres of fall and 10 of spring wheat. Other grain and roots in proportion. All good frame buildings on the premises; good frame house well finished off, good stone cellar all underneath barn, and cattle stable 48x72 feet all on stone foundation, shed 20x48 feet, the cattle stable is the neatest in the county, good driving house 34x39 feet, also a good well on the place. This place took the bronze medal for being the best managed farm in East Grey in 1882. This is a very rare chance to any live, tasty and particular man that wants a neat farm and good home. Possession can be given this spring. Satisfactory reasons can be given for selling. Haven't got the Manitoba craze and not going there to be frozen to death. For further particulars apply to John Ford, occupant and proprietor, on the premises, or by letter with 3 cent postage stamp enclosed.

JOHN FORD,
"Mount Royal Farm"
Markdale P. O., Ont.

Markdale, Jan. 29th, 1882. 125 3t

ALL THE NEWS FROM THE

Toronto Daily

THE ONLY ONE-CENT PAPER IN CANADA

THREE DOLLARS A YEAR
25 CENTS A MONTH
ONE CENT

Less than Half the price of any other Morning Paper

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY canvassing for the World. Canvasseers wanted everywhere. Send card for terms and

SAMPLE COPY FREE

WORLD PRINTING CO.
No. 1 King street

Horse For Sale

A GOOD GENERAL PURPOSE 7 years old warranted sound by the undersigned will be sold cash. Apply to

JAMES
Opposite the Irish Line

Flesherton Steam Grist Mill

Is now giving Good Satisfaction

—o—

Chopping done
Working day

—o—

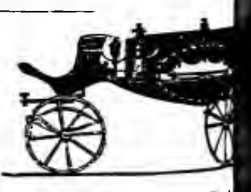
CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST THE SAME DAY

GEO. MOORE

THE GREAT MICHIGAN

THE DETROIT WEEKLY

POST AND TRIBUNE



Only $1.00 per Year

Contains all the news of the world from all parts of the world As a newspaper it is superior on the continent, in the character of news it furnishes, giving valuable information worth the subscription price.

MANITOBA News alone is interesting to all Dominion want 10,000 subscribers this year and as a premium to all who we send a copy of KENDALL'S The book is not a humbug or worthless is "worth its weight in gold" to who owns a horse It was first 50 cents, and contains nearly Recollect the book and paper for $1. Sample copy of paper Address

THE POST & TRIBUNE
124-4w. Detroit

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,
—AND—
All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice. Hours from

GEO. GRAHAM

MARKDALE

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. All at prices.

FARM FOR SALE

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD. 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, good orchard bearing good fruit, barn. Situated 2 half miles from worth. A bargain will be given above property, for particulars apply Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. Thurburne.

STARTLING DISCOVERY

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED

A victim of youthful imprudence and future Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood having tried in vain every known remedy discovered a simple self cure, which he will to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

Doll & Brown

As Mr. Doll is leaving Markdale to go into the Wholesale Jewellery Business in Toronto, and not wishing to leave Markdale altogether,) he has entered into partnership with Mr. W. BROWN, late of Flesherton, who is a practical watchmaker and jeweller of over 15 years experience, and comes with the best recommendations from some of the leading watchmakers in the Dominion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the business in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will be done in a workmanlike manner.

All work will be guaranteed, and all goods sold will be found as represented, or money refunded.

Call at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

Local and Other Items.

Beautiful weather.

Mr. Doll left for Toronto on Tuesday.

The sidewalks are safe from wear and tear.

Read the address of Robt. Myles, Esq., in this issue.

Don't forget to attend the Ball Family Jubilee Singers in the Methodist Church to night. Admission 25c.

A Masquerade will be give on the Markdale rink, on Friday the 23rd, when a number of prizes will be given and a good time is expected.

A political meeting will be held tonight in the Orange Hall, Markdale, by J. H. Hunter, M. P. P. Mr. Blyth, the Conservative candidate, will be present.

Mr. A. Speers, Senr., of Winnipeg, advertises property for sale in the North West in this week's issue. He may be consulted at Mr. McIntyre's store, on the 20th inst.

Mrs Wyvill will sell by public auction on the 1st March, on Lot 4, con. 10, Euphrasia, a quantity of farm stock implements, &c. 8 months credit will be given on good notes. Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

AUCTION SALE.--On Tuesday, Mar. 4th, on the premises of Mr. Edmund Williams, Lot 14, con. 1, West T. & S. Road, a quantity of farm stock, implements and household furniture, will be sold without reserve. Ten months credit on approved notes. R. M. Galbraith, Auctioneer.

FINE FINISH.—If you would like to see fine finished pictures take a look through our studio. New samples just turned out that will surprise you. Not a man in the business has made such vast improvements in the art in such a short time as J. L. Browne Markdale, over the STANDARD Office.

Two hundred and fifty-four Methodist Church boards have so far reported as having voted on the union question. Of this number two hundred and thirty four declared themselves in favour of the scheme, and twenty against it. This makes an aggregate of 2,959 votes for the basis, and 482 against it.

ACCIDENT.—A young man named John Graham, whose parents resided in Osprey township, whilst chopping cordwood for the Messrs. Nelson, a few miles from Dundalk, received a severe cut on the right foot on Tuesday morning, by which two of the toes were severed therefrom. He was brought to Dundalk where medical aid was procured, and he is now doing as well as can be expected.—Herald.

COLLINGWOOD COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—Owing to the trouble in Simcoe last July an Intermediate examination was held just before Christmas. The following among others from this County, passed as follows :—Grade B—J. J. Bulmer, Flesherton ; Elsie Inster, Feversham ; Neil Kennedy, Priceville ; Mary McIntyre, of McIntyre, Osprey ; John Parks, Feversham ; B. W. Rooney, Horning's Mills ; L. V. Rorke, Heathcote. Grade C—Annie McIntyre, of McIntyre. Mr. John Dargavel failed by only a few marks in one subject.

Prepare for sugar making.

Dr. Sproule left for Ottawa on Tuesday.

Miss Mullen, milliner, left for Toronto on Tuesday.

Wild ducks were on the flume at Ford's mill last week.

D. J. Shanahan is building 75 rigs for the coming summer.

Nomination on the 20th, and polling on the 27th for M. P. P. election.

Miss Minnie Rorke left for Toronto on Tuesday. She will return in a week.

Flesherton skating rink has collapsed with the weight of snow—Shelburne rink likewise.

Moffat Bros. are building a 15 horse power engine for Armstrong Bros. turning factory.

Mrs. Mite advertises her farm for sale. A description of it may be seen in another column.

Mr. Arch. Speers, Senr., arrived from Winnipeg on Tuesday. He looks hale and hearty.

Mason & McKenna are making preparations for the Summer by building a large number of wheeled rigs.

Mr. Benson of the B lfast House is endeavoring to ferret out that Baltimore legacy. We hope he may succeed.

Mr. Fred Sarjeant returned this week from Barrie where he has been visiting friends. He was snow-bound four days on his way home.

At the quarterly business meeting of the Canada Methodist Church, Markdale, held last Monday, the basis of union was passed by 21 to 2.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m

Mr. J. H. O. Marling, a clerk in the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Owen Sound, accidentally shot himself in the arm on Monday.

"Mrs. McCarthy, will ye have an inion?" "Och, no, I thank ye, I never ates fruit ; but I'll tumble to a cup of Thrimble & Wright's tay, if ye'll pass it up."

It is reported that Mr. Gurney, manager of the Bank of Commerce, Durham, has decamped leaving a shortage of from $15,000 to $25,000.

The Presbyterians of Flesherton have fully decided to build a church the coming Summer. The edifice will be white brick with stone foundation.

We understand that the auditors of the Police Trustees accounts have completed their work. If so the ratepayers would like to see their report published.

Gibson & McMillan, builders and contractors, are prepared to take contracts in stone or brick for the coming season. They are practical men and good mechanics.

It was a jolly party that was snow bound here. At the Markdale House they kept the music going all the time and converted their enforced imprisonment into a little Sing-Sing.

"The proof of the pudding is the chewing of the string." We are informed by reliable parties that never in one case has any of that famous 28c. tea been returned to Trimble & Wright, although every pound is warranted to be represented or money refunded.

Skating is the chief amusement, and the rink is well patronized in this place. R. Montgomery, the manager, keeps good order and is very attentive to the wants of the patrons and visitors for which he deserves credit.

A young lady of London, Ont., swallowed a lizzard while drinking from a water-works tap. A young man in the same neighborhood got a fish into his stomach from the same source. They, however, got rid of them.

A. W. Lauder, M. P. P., will hold meetings as follows:—Rocklyn, Mar. 15th; Markdale, 16th; Dundalk, 19th; Maxwell, 21st; Williamsford, 22nd. Meetings to commence at 7 p. m., and at Flesherton on the 20th, nomination day.

WILFORD'S MICROCOSM for February is before us. It is as usual deeply interesting in religious and scientific matters. It cannot fail to arrest the attention of the reader and prove a valuable instructor. Price $1 per annum. Hall & Co., publishers, 23 Park Row, N. Y.

AUCTION SALE.—Mr. N. A. McLean, Co. Auctioneer, has been favored with instructions from Wm. Milne, Esq., to sell by public auction on lot 20, con. 4, Osprey, on the 6th March, his farm stock, implements, &c. Mr. Milne has a fine, well-bred stock, which is worthy the attention of those in need of such. The farm will be offered for sale at the same time, if not sold will be rented. 11 months' credit on good paper. See large posters for particulars.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for prepairing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 75-127

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Nassau stree New York. 20

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars ; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

J. W. FORD.

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILLS

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with other plain or iced and ornamented. Also Bride' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns, and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL ! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES. PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences. Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN-FRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful ; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandelf & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 75-127

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from NERVOUS DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN.
75-127 42 Cedar St., New York.

WANTED

—AT—

The Eclipse Mill.

100,000 ft. Cherry, 500,000 ft. Hemlock. 100,000 ft. Baswood, also elm and maple sawlogs, and 800 cords cedar bolts 4 feet 8 inches long for which the Highest price will be paid.

Sparling Brothers,
Proprietors.
125-129

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife ; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co,.
P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York
110-62.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers !

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it ; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23. 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Waggons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On ... Street opposite to Semple's Hotel.

MCKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

Harness Establishment!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 322 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to

M. S. KELLOW, Talma P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

A Heroic Princess — Canadian Belles — Two Kinds of Ladies— Chatter.

Two Kinds of Ladies.

A writer on the New Haven Evening Register relates an incident which bears a lesson with it. As a young lady walked hurriedly down State street upon a bleak winter day, her attention was attracted to a deformed boy coming toward her carrying several bundles. He was thinly clad, twisted his limbs most strangely as he walked, and looked before him with a vacant stare. Just before the cripple reached the brisk pedestrian he tumbled, thus dropping one bundle, which broke and emptied a string of sausages on the sidewalk. The richly-dressed ladies (?) near by held back their silken skirts and whispered quite audibly, "How horrid!" while several passed by who, amused by the boy's look of dismay, gave vent to their feelings in a half-suppressed laugh, and then went on without taking further interest. All this increased the boy's embarrassment. He stooped to pick up the sausages only to let fall another parcel, when in despair, he stood and looked at his lost spoils. In an instant the bright-faced stranger stepped to the boy's side, and said in a tone of thorough kindness, "Let me hold these other bundles while you pick up what you have lost." In dumb astonishment the cripple handed all he had to the young Samaritan, and devoted himself to securing his cherished sausages. When these were again strongly tied in the coarse, torn paper, her skilful hands replaced the parcels on his sprawny arms, as she bestowed on him a smile of encouragement, and said: "I hope you haven't far to go." The poor fellow seemed scarcely to hear the girl's pleasant words, but looking at her with the same vacant stare: "Be you a lady?" "I hope so; I try to be," was the surprised response. "I was kind of hoping you wasn't." "Why," asked the listener, with curiosity quite aroused. "'Cause I've seen such as called themselves ladies, but they never spoke kind and pleasant like 'cepting to grand uns; I guess there's two kinds—them as think they are ladies and isn't and them as what tries to be and is."

A Heroic Princess.

The several current press notices of the royal order of Kapiolani, recently presented to the author of "Kalani of Oahu" by King Kalakaua, failing to describe the religio-romantic incident which imparts intrinsic value to the name, a correspondent to the Boston Courier sends a brief epitome of the story for publication. The literal meaning of Kapiolani is "overcomer of heaven." Princess Kapiolani of Hawaii was daughter of the King of Hilo and among the first converts of the missionaries. When first seen by the white clergy Kapiolani was in a nude state, publicly anointing herself with cocoanut oil, while undergoing some heathen rite of her tabu creed. From this state of pagan degradation the beautiful princess soon became one of the most devout Christian converts, glowing with pious zeal to accomplish something which might break through the superstitions of her people. Twenty-six thousand idols had been destroyed by fire by order of King Liholiho and the high priest, Hewahewa, and yet the degrading tabu remained unbroken. It was time some other overt act to be thought of. In a state of drunken frenzy Liholiho had broken the tabu by eating with the women. A brave act for a young king, but not of sufficient importance to affect the tabu.

Kapiolani now came to the rescue, and, with a moral heroism equal to any act of her sex, she determined to brave Pele in her own fiery stronghold of Kilauea, testing the divine power of her new-found God by defying the goddess and breaking her tabu in presence of a multitude. News of her intended sacrilege was proclaimed all over the island, creating a feeling of consternation, not only for the welfare of the Princess, but lest the very island should be destroyed. Many came to plead that she would abandon the rash act; and none were more terrified for her safety than Naihe, her warrior-husband.

Followed by eighty of her terror-stricken friend, Kapiolani walked a hundred miles through the mountain wilderness on her pilgrimage of terror. Approaching the seething crater, Kapiolani was met by a shriveled old priestess of Pele, bearing a fiery malediction from Pele—hot from the dread Halimaumau (house of everlasting fire)—in which Pele threatened not only death to all comers but destruction to the island.

The multitude stood appalled, and begged the princess to desist from her rash act; but, quoting some new-learned passages from scripture to the Kahuna wahine (woman priest) Kapiolani walked calmly and resolutely to the crater's verge, where the sea of molten lava raged like a storm-lashed ocean, demonstrating the rage of Pele. Gathering a handful of sacred ohelo berries, ever consecrated to Pele, she ate them in derision of the tabu rite, instead of casting them into the crater as a peace offered to the goddess. Gathering up stones, she threw them into the fiery flood instead of the accustomed berries. Standing there in the presence of the most awful natural phenomena on earth, confronting the most terrible conception of a pagan deity, Kapiolani calmly addressed the multitude as they stood appalled at their own fears:

"Behold! my people, the gods of Hawaii are vain gods. Great is Jehovah, my God. He kindles these fires. Fear not Pele; she is powerless. Should I perish, then fear her power. Should God preserve me, then break your tabu, knowing there is but one God, Jehovah." In commemoration of this brave act of Kapiolani Ke Nui (the great) the king's present wife was named, and his royal order of Kapiolani was proclaimed, for the "recompense of distinguished merit to the state, for humanity, genius, science and art, services rendered to ourselves or our successors."

Canadian Belles.

To one who has heard the beauties of Baltimore, Brooklyn and Murray Hill girls rated beyond comparison, the Montreal girls and those from the other Canadian cities, says a correspondent writing of the recent winter carnival at Montreal, proves as interesting as anything where each object he looked at was novel. No woman would dare go into the street painted so much or with such a pronounced red as superabundant health and spirits has dyed every pair of girlish cheeks. It is not likely that any drug could produce the flush and sparkle one sees in every pair of girlish eyes, for the young women here get the charms they boast of by skating side by side with their brothers, racing on snowshoes with the men, tobogganing, wherever tobogganing can be practised, walking like Indians, and running like deer. A group of them is of as many bright colors as a bunch of garden flowers, and one gets the impression that they dress loudly, but this comes of a habit they have of tying a bright-colored worsted comforter over their heads and around their necks whenever they go out of doors in cold weather. The other day, at the snowshoe race, the tobogganing hills, and in the sleighs, the woman from the United States shivered under their seal-skin sacques, while the Montreal girls stood knee-deep in snow, sat on snow-banks, or stood on the hilltops half an hour at a stretch. "I must tell you how these girls dress," said a New York woman to her husband. "First, they start with flannel from head to foot—and such flannel! Why, it's an eighth of an inch thick. Then they go on like other women, except that they put on more skirts, and usually a quilted one that's as warm as a wood fire. Then they put on a dress, and over that a chamois jacket that fits like a shoe in the mud. Then they put ribbed-woollen stockings over their stockings, and arctics over their shoes. They don't care any more about the looks of their feet than the St Louis women do. They they put on knit wristers, then gloves, then a fur or cloth dolman, then a fur cap, and finally a coil of worsted comforters. When they are dressed, if they are hurled at a speed of a mile a minute from a toboggan they are unhurt. If they fall through the ice, they are not hurt. If the thermometer drops to 15 below, they read of it next day and wish they had known it at the time.

CHATTER.

A wife may be a blessing, but a dumb wife is an unspeakable blessing.

Any girl will tell you that gold bangles are warmer than worsted wristlets.

A New Jersey man has patented a stove that explodes at 10 o'clock at night. He has four daughters.

Silas Card was married the other day, and on his wedding notices were the words, "No cards." But he doesn't know what might happen.

Kate Field did not succeed as the boss of a dry-goods store. Women shines best as a boss when workmen come to make repairs on her house.

A man who has happened to have a good deal of experience says, "Stand anywhere but four feet to the left of a woman when she hurls an old bottle at a hen."

A New York lover stabbed a girl because she rejected him. This should warn the girls that the safest way to reject a man is to leave town and send him a postal-card.

Overheard in the cloak-room: "Did she marry well?" "Yes, indeed. He's worth over a million, and drinks so hard that he never can go into society; so she's not bothered with him."

A man always looks through his pockets four times before handing his coat to his wife to have a button sewed on, and even then he is filled with a nameless fear until the job is completed.

One cause of poverty and distress among fellows who marry before they can raise a moustache is that they generally become fathers of twins before they are proprietors of two pairs of pants.

A female physician in a New York town is charged with commencing a post-mortem examination before the patient was dead. She is entitled to the medal as the most inquisitive woman on record.

Earnest Spinster—"Since you sympathize so much with the Blue Ribbon army, why don't you join us, Miss Masham?" Frivolous Ditto—"So I would only the ribbon is really such a very dreadful blue!"

A New York doctor says that small feet signify a quick temper and an evil tongue. Now everybody will be staring at his wife to see whether her feet or large or small, and no matter which way the verdict is she won't be pleased.

The young lady who made seven hundred words out of "conservatory," last fall, has eloped. We feel sorry for the young man; it is bad enough where one word brings on another, but just think of one word bringing on seven hundred.

A 6-year-old boy at Belfast, Me., has very advanced ideas. He has a doll which he call his wife. Recently he was telling his wife his future plans, and remarked: "By and bye I shall become a mason, and then you won't see me till 12 o'clock at night."

"William, my son," says an economical mother to her son, "for mercy's sake don't keep tramping upand down the floor in that manner, you'll wear out your new boots. (He sits down.) There you go—sitting down! Now you'll wear out you new trousers! I declare I never seen such a boy!"

Lady: "But, professor, how came you to offend Mrs. Smith?" Professor: "Ah, I vill tell you. Mme. Smit she come to me, I do vant my daughter to sing so high as Mees Brown; and she fly in one rage, and say as dhere is nosing low in her fa-milly, ven I say Mees Smit she haf a low voice!"

Clara Bell says that a cigarette young woman, when asked how she would like a gentleman, upon kissing her, to taste tobacco on her lips, replied sharply to the sister who questioned her: "How many men did you ever kiss on whose lips or mustache you did not taste tobacco?" And the conversation flagged.

An exchange says a robber entered the sleeping-room of a young lady at Milford, Pa., the other night, and stole a fine growth of hair from her head, but it does not explain why the young lady did not hang her hair on the back of a chair before retiring. She must have come in late from a party and been in a hurry to go to bed.

Plain Woman—How shall you be able to increase the attractiveness of your face and person without the use of cosmetics or other artificial means? Easy enough; get invited on to Washington, and appear at one of the receptions there. The papers of the entire country will next day gloat over your ravishing beauty.

A keen student of human nature must have written the following: "When you see a young man sailing down street shortly after midnight with his collar mashed down his neck, you can make up your mind there's a girl crawling up stairs not far distant with her shoes under her arm and an extinguished lamp in her hands."

A young lady was curling her back locks recently when suddenly she threw up her hands, gave vent to a double decker, forty-two ohm yell, which electrified the household, and began to dance a remarkable new style of double shuffle on the floor, begging in vociferous tones that someone would open the back of her dress. After the performance was over, and calmness restored, it was discovered that she had dropped the hot slate pencil, with which she had been curling her hair, down her back. Slate pencils were made to write with, not to cool or heat.

A Train in a Sandstorm.

The Southerland overland train which should have reached this city on Monday afternoon only arrived at 8.10 last night, having been delayed at Sumner by a terrific sandstorm that raged through the Mojavo Desert and spread out over a portion of the surrounding country. The storm began in the early morning, and when the train reached Sumner, in Kern County, had become a regular simoom. The wind swept across the sandy wastes with such violence that the train swayed and rocked under the violence of the blasts, and seemed ready to plunge from the track. The moon had become overcast in the early part of the night, and the journey was continued in a darkness that rapidly increased until the day began in Stygian gloom. The passengers, who had been aroused from their sleep by the fierce assaults of the wind and the dashing of the sand against the windows of the train, looked anxiously for the appearance of the sun, but no gleam of light relieved the forbidding darkness of the east. Night maintained her sway, and the blackness of the heavens grew intense with the morning, until the strong headlight of the locomotive almost failed to pierce it. The small portion of the desert which was exposed by the engine's lights only served to discourage the travellers. The track was lost under the billows of sand that were being tossed across the rails by the angry storm. The desert moved like a sea, and when the waves of sand struck the shivering sides of the train they scattered like spray and filled the air with a dust which made free breathing impossible.

The travellers' fears of being stopped by a sand drift were soon realized. After leaving Sumner, which was 314 miles from San Francisco, the train moved cautiously for 10 miles through the shifting waste and then stopped with a crash. The alarmed passengers hardly dared to face the driving storm to learn the cause of the unpleasant halt. The few intrepid persons who ventured into the blinding simoom found that their express train had run into a freight train which had stopped in an impassable sand drift. The slow rate at which the express was moving enabled the engineer to stop the train in time to prevent a serious accident, and the collision was only sufficient to cast the locomotive from the track. The passenger cars remained on the rails. It was then ten o'clock, so slowly had the express train proceeded through the blinding storm after leaving Sumner. The darkness of the night had only increased, and nothing was visible except within the focus of the train's lights. For five weary hours the passengers were compelled to remain on the detatched train while relief was being obtained from Sumner. Assistance having arrived, the track was cleared of sand sufficiently to enable a relief engine to pull the express train back to Sumner, where the passengers found slim accomodation until the storm blew over. Toward five o'clock in the afternoon the darkness began to disappear, but the simoom maintained its vigor until nightfall. Yesterday morning the unfortunate passengers proceeded on their journey the remainder of which was made without sensational incident, as gangs of Chinese had been at work all night and had cleared the track of the accumulated sand drift.—San Francisco Examiner.

Opium in China.

Tobacco came to China early in the seventeenth century, and tobacco-smoking originated opium-smoking in the islands of Java and Formosa. From this last island opium-smoking spread as a popular habit into China about the year 1720. The first prohibitory edict issued at Peking was in 1729. From that time the habit went on quietly as a social disease, insidiously extending itself without much attention being paid to it till the end of the eighteenth century, when viceroys began to show alarm. From that time this great scourge of China forced itself into history, and became every year an evil more uncontrollable till the present time. The use of the poppy capsules and of opium continued to be a part of practical medicine in China from the fifteenth century till the edict was issued, after which the use of opium was omitted in medical books, but that of the capsule was continued. The poppy therefore was still grown to supply druggists with capsules; but opium was only made surreptitiously when the imported article could not be had.

A similar light might be thrown on the history of Arabian medicine, in regard to products of distillation, and the principles of medicine, from the Chinese side. The Chinese physicians learned from the Arabs, and the Arabs in their turn from the Chinese. China taught them alchemy and perhaps some points in medical theory. They taught China distillation, and sent her several drugs.

Travellers in Szechwen and in Rajputana agree in stating that the men in those provinces, though addicted to the use of opium are vigorous and tall, and do not seem to look worse on account of indulging in this vice. The fact is that three or four in ten smokers are men who smoke without losing the glow of health from their countenances. Some say than two in ten are such. They perform every duty. They look exceedingly well. When conversing with them, it may be noticed that they smoke. Yet they may for all that have been smoking for twenty years.

Young and middle-aged men, suffering from nervous debility and kindred affections, as loss of memory and hypochondria, should inclose three stamps for Part VII of world's Dispensary Dime Series of pamphlets. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

In Signor Berti's plan for re-foresting Italy about $9,000,000 is apportioned among the provinces.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is not only a sovereign remedy for consumption, but also for consumptive night-sweats, bronchitis, coughs, influenza, spitting of blood, weak lungs, shortness of breath, and kindred affections of the throat and chest. By Druggists.

Liberalism is creeping into all churches: but the poor preachers notice that it has not yet struck the contribution-box.

Beautiful Women

are made pallid and unattractive by functional irregularities, which Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will infallibly cure. Thousands of testimonials. By druggists.

It is reported that the remaining vacancies in the Senate will be filled within a few days.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?—If so, you can testify to its marvellous powers of healing, and recommend it to your friends. We refer to Briggs' Magic Relief, the grand specific for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, dysentry, cramps, colic, sickness of the stomach, and bowel complaints.

A special tax is to be placed on drugs in Japan, in lieu of the ordinary trade tax. Large revenue is expected.

Many sink into an early grave by not giving immediate attention to a slight cough which could be stopped in time by the use of a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Wistar's Pulmonic Syrup.

Russia had last year 776 periodical publications, including newspapers. The largest circulation was 70,000.

A RUN FOR LIFE.—Sixteen miles were covered in two hours and ten minutes by a lad sent for a bottle of Briggs' Electric Oil. Good time, but poor policy to be so far from a drug store without it.

If you would be perfectly sure that your evil deeds will not be found out the best way is not to do any.

Carboline, a natural hair restorer and dressing, as now improved and perfected, is pronounced by competent authority to be the best article ever invented to restore the vitality of youth to diseased and faded hair. Try it. Sold by all druggists.

AN exchange wants to know: "What are our young men coming to?" Coming to see our girls of course.

Teacher Questions Small boy: Which is the most delicate of senses? Small boy—The sense of touch. Teacher—give class an example. Boy settles down on teacher's corns and exclaims—You can feel them, but we cannot see them. Grand transformation scene. This occurred before the introduction of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, that positive remedy for corns. Putnam's Corn Extractor acts only upon the part affected, makes no cavities in the flesh, leaves no ulcers, and is satisfactory in every respect. N. C. Polson & Co., props, Kingston.

A Secret

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health, without the one the other is impossible. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the secretions, opens the avenue to health by purifying and regulating all the organs to a proper action. It curesall Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the pallid cheek. 14

Bill Nye is not a Mormon. He gives out as his platform: "One country, one flag and one wife." Billy says he "has never pined to make the marriage-register of his family Bible look like a hotel register."

VEGETINE is nourishing and trengtheningss purifies the blood; regulates the bowels; quiets the nervous system, acts directly upon the secretions, and arouses the whole sytem to action.

Competition is lively among the merchants of Manchester, N. H. One advertise that he is making three-cent postages stamps down to two cents, in view of the probable reduction in postage rates by the Government, though he thoughtfully stipulates that only a single stamp shall be sold to one person.

An Admonition.

To neglect a cough or cold, is but to invite consumption, that destroyer of the human race. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the cough and allay all irritation of the bronchial tubes and lungs, and effectually remedy all pulmonary complaints, such as Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, &c. 17

"A. P." 112

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,
Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

SETTLERS

Going to Manitoba, the Great North-West, California, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska,

Can get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets FREE by enclosing a 3 cent stamp, and stating of what part of the country they wish Particulars. Address,

Department of Emigration,
33 York Street, Toronto,
W. R. CALLAWAY, Manager.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East Portraits in oil life size.

Davy & Clark, Druggists, [illegible] of June 3rd, write," Burdock Blood Bitters though comparatively a new [illegible] has taken the lead in this locality purifier, our sales of it being [illegible] of all other medicines used for the during the last year." 18.

Herbert Spencer says the coming can is to be very powerful. The American will certainly have to powerful if he is to earn enough to coming American taxes.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York Baggage Expressage and Carriage stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to upwards per day. European plan. Restaurant supplied with the best cars, stages and elevated railroads to pots. Families can live better for less at the Grand Union Hotel than at any first-class hotel in the city.

A San Francisco grocer had a girl prosecuted for theft, though she was old, and what she stole was a box of snuff, worth three cents.

Immense demand for Vegetine

We are not at all surprised to learn of demand of the people everywhere for famous medicine, Vegetine, is coming more and more extended. It has been in demand all over our own country had some time ago made its way into foreign lands. At the present time the ed proprietor, Mr. H. R. Stevens, of sending it to order to some of the reign countries: and it seems now even Vegetine is to become a universal is a "patent medicine," but it has fame and made its way everywhere intrinsic merits. Such were the unsolicited and undeniable results of the use of ishing, and, at this day, world-renowned cine, in speedily effecting cures of numerous diseases or ills for which it clared to be a remedy, that people were open and decided in expressing ion that this "patent medicine" must be ranked equal with, but altogether all the regular "doctors' stuff" that been given in sickess.

There was and there could be about the astonishing cures effected medicine. The doctors could not deny especially as many of such cures effected in the most respectable, well-known families, where the sufferers had obtained and taken the as a last resort, after the regular had utterly failed to do them any good.

Moreover, testimonial letters from well-known persons in high standing undoubted character and veracity pour in upon Mr. H. R. Stevens, testifying, in abundance, declaring, and the deepest gratitude, the surprising wrought by the great medicine.

Such testimonials have continued upon Mr. Stevens, from first to last, has enough to make volumes were them all. But he don't publish newspapers, only a small fraction of it any wonder, then, that the sale of is now increasingly at a surprising Providence (R. I.) Gazette.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS [illegible] 4 King St. East, Toronto.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work by A. BALLARD, 8 King St. E.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufacturer other Society Jewels, 151 King E.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS DOW SHADES. Newest designs for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE and Wire Goods at the Toronto Works, 116 King St. West. T. G. RYRIE.

WATCHES. Send for free Illustrated logue to RYRIE, the 13 Yonge Street, Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING steam Engine, with lamp C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED $10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland.

THE REJUVENATOR, THE GREAT BAL Remedy, 25c. per package. By mail. Box 17, Bronte, Ont. Agents

FOR SALE—SAW MILL MACHINERY including oscillating stock and gangs of steel and iron, with Pitman pulleys, fly wheels and shaft complete. RATHBUN & SON, Deseronto, Ont.

TAGS. Patent evelet, smooth heavy and very tough. new price list. J. G. WOOD & CO., Printers, Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings prices, Oakville, Ont.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE purchase a business of any description the city or elsewhere should call or culars to C. J. PALIN, 58 and 55 East. Business Agent and Valuer.

CALLING CARDS—25 BEAUTIFUL Chromo cards with name 10c. wanted, complete outfit. 57 samples profits. Queen City Card House, Toronto.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter: 25 or $10 lots. By post H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE TORONTO. Session commences ber until January. PROF. SMITH Edin. Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION Co-operative Life Assurance. families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE The powerful tug Jessie, in good the schooner Josephine; the schooner Upper; also a number of improved farms ply to L. McCALLUM, Stromness P.O.

$5.000.000 WORTH OF FARM and other property ario for sale by the CANADA WEST AGENCY COMPANY, 11 Adelaide Toronto. Send for list

LADIES! BEWARE of fraudulent sets. corsets will not break, or lose their shape corsets made by Crompton Corset Toronto.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Landing 212 acres. Northern R. R. uated on corner of this Lot, the land rolling clay loam Brick house frame Barn. J. W. G WHITNEY, Estate 25 Toronto-st. Toronto.

YORK FARMERS COLONY, Free Homesteads with preemption ed now open in this fertile tract. present settlers, improvements now going full information address Head Office, toria St., Toronto. Intending settlers as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Director.

RUSSIAN MULBERRY—INTRODUCED from Russia; perfectly hardy Ontario; bears when two years old, densely as to exclude the leaves; price, and delivered at railroad station—3 to 4 feet, 60 cents; 3 to 4 feet; 75c.; supply limited; booked in rotation as received; also 6both old and new varieties, at very low Send for price list. J. W. JOHNSTON, bellford Nurseries and Vineyard, On e Krapotkine is suffering from con- of the brain.

ATE NEWS NOTES.

Pope has replied to the letter from mperor William.

ce Jerome denies that he aspires to ench dynasty by divine right.

nt Bylan It Rheydt has recovered and d his duties as Austrian Minister of re is no chance of M Falliseres being t in the Senate during the debate on pulsion bill.

umber of armed explorers, under Au- officers, have left Belgium to join y in the Congo expedition.

e thousand pounds, balance of the e of Marlborough's relief fund, will oted to assisting Irish emigration.

Stafford Northcote has left Nice for The Prince of Wales, the Marquis sbury and Mr. Gladstone, left a day later.

Grand Jury has returned a true bill icious libel against O'Brien, editor of Ireland; also, a true bill against g for the murder of policeman Cox.

scriptions have been opened in the y Wicklow to present Mr. Parnell testimonial for the purpose of clear- the mortgage on his estate.

ra precautions have been taken to en- he safety of the Ministers. Two Irish ves followed Earl Spencer as an es- Lord Granville's residence.

onvicts, one supposed to be Walsh, erkenwell Fenian, has been examined Treasury. It is stated that most im- evidence was obtained.

ever the vote in the Senate on the sion bill, M. Thibaudin, Minister of will request M. Grevy to sign a decree the Orleans princes on the retired the army.

Hilaire denounces the expulsion useless, unjust and dangerous. thing sought to be accomplished by it nfair.

the Folketheng, the left moved the tment of a committee to ascertain the u of Danish subjects abroad, espe- those in Schleswig.

re have been serious riots among the ts at Warsaw in consequence of the or lecturing on Polish literature in ssian language

Ameer of Afghanistan has reached ubad. He will visit India during March ference to the difficulty with the ak of Kumar.

German Reichstag Committee has re- to prosecute Deputies Geyser and ne, Socialists, for the improper use of ny passes.

White Star Line Steamship Company subscribed to the Cork Exhibition, and to carry free a hundred tons of Ameri- exhibits.

Socialists at Xeres, Spain, have con- ed and murdered a peasant. Four persons accused of complicity in the have been arrested.

,000 tons of new shipping has been ed on the Clyde in the past fortnight, ding two steamers for the North Ger- Lloyds Co.

schooner has been wrecked near Port- y, Ireland, and five sailors drowned. ther is wrecked near the Shetland nds, and the whole crew drowned.

note to the Powers announces the rup- of the relations between Montenegro Turkey, because the latter failed to e to the accessions of territory on the ter.

ston Wentworth Dilke, Liberal, has pted the stewardship of Her Majesty's ern Hundreds, thut making vacant his in the House of Commons for New- le-upon Tyne.

e Emperor of China has telegraphed his gratulations to the Crown Prince of many on the occasion of his silver ding This is the first telegram ever by a Chinese sovereign to a European ce.

rah Bernhardt's jewels have been sold. se in attendance at the sale were princi- dealers and representatives of the ncipals. Her necklace of rare diamonds for 24,000 francs, and two bracelets ed 8,000 francs each.

Prussia's not on in the Bundesrath for an ease of the duties on timber is constant- pposed. It is thought it will only be ed after having been greatly modified. bill for fortifying the harbours has dropped for this session.

London correspondent says: The illness he Emperor William and Prince Bis- k is the current topic. There are grave es for believing much is kept back the public on the subject. The iety which the Kaiser has displayed to e cordial relations with the Powers, his mission of a friendly letter, and the eral promise to order the modifications he May laws, are thought to point to the that Germany is beginning to feel the of greater neutrality on the continent.

Letting $800 Drop.

solemn looking citizen appeared at ce Headquarters yesterday, and beckon- the chief into a private room said:

"You know that $800 robbery at my se that I reported yesterday morning?"

"Certainly, and I have put two of our men on the case, and—"

"Well, I—ahem—I have decided not to ue the matter. You needn't take any ther steps. In fact—"

"You don't mean to say that you have overed the money?"

"Oh, no—not at all."

"Found a clue, eh?"

"Well, n-o-o, not exactly. The fact is money was taken out of my trousers kets at night, and—and—this morning y wife had sent home a new sealskin t."

"Ah."

"And so you see I have about concluded let the matter drop—let the matter p," and with a deep sigh the bereaved and drifted out.—San Francisco Post.

VALENTINE POETRY.

A Fair Maker of the Product who is Late for This Season but Early for Next.

"A Poetess" has been advertising to write valentine poetry to order. "She is behind time," said one of the principal manufacturers of valentines, "for this season, and a little early for next. There are not many valentine writers, and I don't think if you hunted them over you would find one distinguished name among them, or even one that you had ever heard of before. Most of my original ones are written by a lady in Bangor, Me. She writes also for another house Some of her relatives were in the business, and she possessed natural talents for it; and so in that way she got into it, and, once in, keeps right along. The late A. J. Fisher, who was a leading publisher of valentines, used to write his own mostly. I don't know exactly what his best hold was, whether it was the purely comic, the vengefully satirical or the gushingly sentimental. The lady in Bangor is best in the last line. It doesn't require a really very powerful poetic genius to grind out valentine poetry. When you can get an idea fit for a verse you can sort of model it over a few times. For instance:

As on the gold the diamond bright doth shine,
So thou upon my heart doth glow, my Valentine.

"And then again, by a slight twist of the wrist, you get:

As in the gold the ruby's gleam doth shine.
So in my heart thy image sits, my Valentine.

"Or, by a slight wrench to the crank:

Like a sparkling glow in the juice of the vine,
Are thy eyes in my heart, my sweet Valentine.

"Same idea, you see; reels off just as easy as yarn off a ball. Lots of our valentine poetry we sort of pick up. Newspapers sometimes have poetical fancies in them that we happen to drop on, and occasionally we can chop out a good chunk of heart throb and burning love where you'd hardly notice it, and where the poet who originally wrote it would himself be sort of surprised at the discovery. Of course we might doctor it up a little—make it trump in a little better for our uses, you know but we would keep the original idea fairly, nevertheless.

Another dealer in the most expensive sort of imported and hand-made valentines said: "There is hardly any novelty in the imported lace-paper valentines. The same things that were good enough for us when we were young and spooney, if made over fresh, are good enough for those that are young and spooney now, and will for their grandchildren when they begin to get soft about the heart fifty years from now. But for a few years past there has been a growing fancy for hand-painted valentines, some of which are very expensive, and for them there is some demand for original poetry. That is probably the trade that 'the poetess' is striking for. Acrostics are popular in them. They are poorly paid for as a rule, for they are not much in demand—the verses, I mean. The hand-painted valentines are well paid for, you may be sure, and their manufacture is conducted in quite a private way. But the people who order them, as a general thing, grind out their own lovesick doggerel, and no matter how bad it is the girl who gets it will think it divine if a diamond ring is part of the valentine, as it sometimes is. That poetess won't go to Europe next summer on the profits of her valentine writing, I'll bet.—New York Sun.

LIVING UP TO A TEAPOT.

A Tale of a Lonely Life.

Wishing not to appear eccentric, but to follow the fashion, I resolved to live up to a Teapot. Therefore, my own little tin-plated one, price sixpence, having sprung a leak, I bought me another, a blue-and-white Japanese Teapot at a grocer's shop in the Strand—cost, five shillings. I had previously lived on a scale of living up to a sixpenny Teapot only—on oatmeal porridge for breakfast principally, and sometimes bread and butter. A legacy from a lamented distant relation enabled me to live up to a superior Teapot—a crown Teapot. So I not only began to breakfast on eggs, but added bloaters likewise to my morning meal, kippered herring also, and smoked salmon, salt haddock, sardines, ham and tongue, brawn, potted meats, and rashers of bacon; besides a considerable variety of other little tiny kickshaws and toys. I did. I flattered myself, live up to my Teapot in some measure. But very soon the Teapot I had been living up to as well as ever I was able by the gratification of my appetite with all manner of good things, came to grief in the kitchen. My maid-of-all-work broke off the tip of its spout. The jagged edges of the fracture caused the tea to dribble on to my tablecloth and then that Teapot was to be lived up to no more. Never trust a Teapot to which you intend living up, to the care of servants. She to whom I had unwisely confided my Teapot supplied me, pending doubt as to procuring another, with a temporary substitute in her own. This was a moderately-sized, globular, glazed black Teapot of earthenware. There was no painting upon it at all, but the Teapot, itself, I discovered, drew admirably. When I say "drew," I mean that it extracted the soluble constituents of my tea so effectually as to make my tea twice as strong again as it used to be made in the Teapot I had chosen to live up to. I will not, therefore, now purchase a new expensive Teapot for my servant to break, but shall stick to the old one—cost, eighteen pence—a Teapot which she will probably take good care of, and which in future will be decidedly the Teapot to live up to for my money.—Punch's Almanack.

A Scotch terrier, belonging to Phillips, late housekeeper at the Legislature building, Toronto, has died of grief at his death.

The Lord Mayor of London, receiving a deputation asking him to open a fund for the relief of the distress in Western Ireland, said the speeches of O'Donnell and others at the meeting from which the deputation emanated were certain to frustrate the success of any fund traceable to such an agency. He was, however, willing to receive contributions, and if the amount justified it, eventually to open a fund. The Press generally approve of the reply of the Lord Mayor to the Irish deputations.

CURRENCY.

A Washington girl can blush till her nose bleeds.

The French War Office has restored the drum to all infantry regiments, and each company is again on its taps.

Yes, man is a creature of habit. Once let him contract the habit of begging his tobacco and he'll never buy another ounce.

A French writer says the art of giving a dinner is a lost art. Then why not advertise and find it again?

There are people malicious enough to say that the rest which Jay Gould wants is the rest of the railroads.

The one great fault of this life is the readiness with which man accepts the circus bill for the show inside the canvas.

An Indianapolis man broke two ribs while making a boss blow on a lung-tester the other day. What a blessing for Indiana that he never took to oratory.

A Brooklyn grocer put 6,250 beans in a glass jar, and the guessing ranged all the way from 550 to 25,000. It is one thing to know beans and another to estimate numbers.

The Oswego Palladium was sued for $5,000, and the verdict left only the single figure 5. It looks sort o' mean for an editor to beat a man out of $4,895 and then crow over it.

There must be a conspiracy of six different persons in orders to beat the government on the whiskey tax, and yet if it needed a round dozen it would be no trouble to form a ring.

The Washington monument will stop this season at 342 feet. And this is the difference between it and the average Washington politician for he stops at 0.

Dr. Wild, of Toronto, announces that Adam was seven feet high. This would seem to indicate that the garden of Eden was located somewhere in Kentucky.

New England contributes nothing to the history of horrible accidents this year. But there's no use taking this to the spinster lady whose cat was run over by an ice cart.

Three hundred and fifty tons of ice will be stored for cooling Auburn Prison next summer, says a State paper. Ah! Now we know why a jail is called "the cooler."

A man at Lawrence, Mass., didn't know how he was to spend February and March in Florida, but some one proposed a fair; he was made Treasurer, and the $450 enabled him to skip.

An exchange says that dogs under favorable circumstances, live to be 30 years old; and Puck suggests that "favorable circumstances" probably means a family without boys or neighbors.

An Iowa grocer who refused to trust a woman for a pound of logwood was nearly killed by a blow from an axe-helve. When a woman wants to dye an old shawl she is prepared to surmount all obstacles.

A man in Summerville, Ga., sneezed so vigorously that he yanked his spinal column out of place. If he had swallowed the sneeze instead of letting it fly he would have burst into more than a million fragments.

One of the fire escapes in a New York hotel leads to the cellar, dark as pitch and having only one door and a narrow stairway to reach the street. But it's a fire escape, and guests snooze away as contented as salamanders.

A peasant in Sweden never passes a fellow-peasant without a polite lifting of his hat. This explains why so many Swedes come to this country. They come to avoid catching cold in the head.

Human bones have been found in the debris of the old postoffice in New York. They are supposed to be the remains of people who were reckless enough to bother the stamp clerk while he was reading the last novel.

The Lancet says that women often wear a weight of clothing such as few men would care to carry. This is sheer nonsense. There are many men who would carry the clothes, with the women inside of them.

A pension agent in Natchez secured a negro widow a pension of $1,000 and promptly handed over $150, taking the remaining $850 as his fee. It is a pleasure to hear of a man now and then who believes in the good old adage: "Live and let live."

The Buffalo Express has its opinion of a clergyman who insists upon kissing the bride after the groom has taken him aside and requested him not to as a special favor. The groom should not make such a request unless she has a cold-sore on her lip.

The latest addition to the British Museum is Nebuchadnezzar's door-step, careful examination of which shows certain marks of wear which indicate that Neb.'s daughter had a young man. Human nature doesn't change much, though years roll on.

Claremount, N. H., has a cooking club composed of young lady graduates of the high school. After passing four years in eating pickled limes and writing notes to the boys, with a few incidental recitations, they are settling down to something practical.

A poor young girl in Mexico is given the cold shake by her lover and wanders by the murmuring sea with intentions of drowning herself. An oyster washes up, she carelessly picks it up, and lo! a pearl worth $5,000 slips into her palm. That's the way Mexican papers palm it off on their readers.

When an American war vessels reaches Washington from a point a few hundred miles distant the fact is telegraphed all over the country. That a government war vessel should reach Washington safely, after a voyage of a few hundred miles seems to be regarded as a remarkable achievement.

The Hand of Death on a Baby's Face.

A correspondent tells of an event happening many years ago in the country near Hagerstown, Md. A baby born with a fire mark on her face was taken to where an old colored woman was lying dead, and her ice-cold hand was rubbed repeatedly over the mark, it being a superstition that by so doing the mark would disappear. The mother of the girl declares that from that moment the mark faded away and in a few months was entirely gone. The girl is now 19 years old, with a complexion of rare purity.—Louisville Courier Journal.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

The ice has vanished from Odessa harbour.

The Dominion Conference has opened at London.

Prussia is agitating for an increase of the timber duties.

Archbishop McCabe, of Ireland, is better, but is still feeble.

The ship Bramletye lost four of her crew on the voyage to Hull.

Ex-Gov. Davis, Texas, is dead, of pneumonia, after a short illness.

At the close of the present session the Marquis of Lorne will go to England.

At St. Louis, Henry Dress killed his wife and then himself by cutting his throat.

The treasurer of the Garfield monument fair reports the net proceeds about $7,000.

Two American companies have applied for charters to build a ships' canal across Cape Cod.

Mr. Andrew Broder has received the Liberal-Conservative nomination for Dundas.

A report has reached Cairo that the Egyptians in Soudan have yielded to the False Prophet.

The Leishman-Beattie case has been dismissed owing to the flight of the prosecutrix.

The alarming message from the steamer Nederland is regarded by her owners as a miserable joke.

The missing steamer Quebec has been spoken, and is expected to arrive at Liverpool in a day or two.

A fire broke out in the Grand Trunk sheds at Hemmingford and in a few moments they were destroyed.

Thus far 200 Quarterly Boards of the Methodist Church of Canada have voted union to 14 against.

It is reported that Mr. Smith, Deputy Seargeant-at-Arms, has also been appointed Secretary to the new Speaker.

The feeling of uneasiness in Paris still continues and business is stagnant. The public yearn for a strong government.

Charles Lewis, of Detroit, took three-quarters of an ounce of laudanum, but prompt medical attention saved his life.

The Spanish Council of Ministers has decided to treat 40,000 slaves, whom their masters neglected to register in 1870, as free men.

The floods in the Ohio Valley, which it was hoped had subsided, have received fresh additions, and the river is now rapidly rising.

Postmaster Towneend, of Wheaton, Mich., is in a critical condition, from the attack of a rough named Saunders whom he refused to trust.

The Washington Ways and Means Committee of the house of representatives have resolved to recommend that the duty on iron ore be placed at fifty cents a ton.

The investigation into the loss of the Cimbria attracts much attention at Hamburg, and a criminal prosecution against the Sultan's captain is spoken of.

The Canada Manufacturing Company, Montreal, appears to have found a deficiency of $20,000 by the action of Henry Thomas, their late manager.

A prominent Montreal saloon keeper issued placards announcing that he would bet $75 to $5 against any and all single numbers in the London Lottery.

Mr. George Beaudet, a son of one of Quebec's leading French merchants, is about to put into practice the knowledge he acquired at the Guelph Agricultural College.

The Quebec Ultramontane journals are endeavoring to throw cold water upon the proposed public banquet to Mayer Langelier of Quebec, because it is to be given in Lent.

An attempt was made to eject an Irish family named Carignan from a tenement in Montreal by the authorities, when a mob gathered and attacked Mr. Prezeau, the landlord.

A bar-tender named Howard is in charge of the police for attempting to commit suicide by throwing himself into a hole in the ice-bridge at Quebec while laboring under delirium tremens.

The mail train going south from Owen Sound stuck in a snow drift at Markdale recently, and remained there. The passengers stayed in the village.

Dowling, a coloured porter on the sleeper, "Monroe," when leaving Essex Centre, was in the act of putting coal in the stove when he fell over bleeding profusely from the mouth, and died immediately.

A Lunatic's Life in Prison.

The following very pathetic story was telegraphed from Uniontown, Pa., a day or two ago. William Stafford known throughout Fayette county as "Crazy Billy," died this morning in the county jail, where he had been a prisoner over fifty-one consecutive years. In 1831 Billy drove Alexander Brow and his wife out of their house in Spring Hill township. The neighbors came to Brow's rescue, and by strategem overpowered Billy, who was armed with Crow's butcher's knife, and axe. Billy was sent to Uniontown for trial. Soon afterward William Updegraff was locked up for drunkness, and during the night Billy asked a stick of wood whether he should kill Updegraff. The billet said "Yes," and Billy crushed in the drunkard's skull. The following June Billy was tried and acquitted on account of insanity. For eighteen years he was chained by the leg to the floor of his cell. Since 1848 he has been allowed much liberty, being harmless. Eighteen sheriffs have gone in and out of office while Billy was a prisoner. Four ex-sherriffs will serve as pall-bearers at his funeral, and the entire bar will attend. Billy was about 80 years old, and was born in England, but beyond this nothing is known of his early history. Just before he died he called for his mother, saying "Dear mother." This was the only time he was ever known to refer in any way to anyone connected with his childhood.

OLD ST. VALENTINE.

A Few Thoughts about St. Valentine's Day.

Hardly has the beauty of the book-store windows with their varied splendour of Christmas cards, become familiar to us before good St. Nicholas is compelled to give place to one who is just as familiar to every one—good St. Valentine. While the former has the team of reindeers, the latter has no companion but a little cherub with a bow and arrows, who has wounded more hearts and set them throbing wildly than any other mythical god in ancient or modern history. The stocks of valentines have been displayed in the shop windows, and many a coy maiden has stood before them perplexed to think which might be sent to her, while at the same time her little fingers were feeling the coins in her pocket, and inwardly wondering which would be the sweetest, the nicest and the most appropriate to send to him she loves the best. How many young ladies have looked forward to the 14th with impatience. What a beautifully foolish old custom this is of sending valentines, to be sure! It may tend to make Post-office clerks and delivery men profane, but how many bright eyes are the brighter, and happy hearts the happier for it?

BEHOLD THE LITTLE MAIDEN

receiving it from the postman, who looks at her shyly, while she tries to appear unconscious that the billet in her hand is a valentine. Behold her hide it in her bosum and fly at the first opportunity to the sacred inner temple of her own room, and if one might be permitted to follow her there he would see a sight. She would open it and admire it and if it was from the right one maybe she would kiss it. Girls will be foolish over these things; you know, and Valentine's day, like Christmas, comes but once a year. She feels it is a little triumph, a pretty little conquest, and that valentine will be stored away in that mysterious little receptacle which contains all that she cherishes most, and every article in which is a chapter in the beautiful story of her heart. And some day in that shadowy future that is yet to come she will show it to her children and cry over it, just a little. She may never have received a valentine before, she may never get one again, but that foolish little nothing of a valentine on the road she travelled when a girl, where there were nothing but roses, and birds, and a smiling sky. Perhaps she will keep it on the parlor table, so that she may enjoy the exquisite pleasure of being teased by the other girls about it. Who knows indeed what she will do with it? Perhaps she will put it in a fresh envelope and send it to one she loves better. It's hard to say! If some young fellows who are much addicted to sending valentines only knew what became of them, they would straight-way become wiser and sadder men. The invalid sister will get one from her brother on the sly, for he knows that it will flush her pale cheek and set her wandering into fairy land. Perhaps one boy will send one to his mother just for a joke, and then giggle the secret out before night. How many girls will take a deep and awful revenge on truant lovers by sending them those hideous caricatures that the small boy admires so much! When one looks into the shop windows he wonders where they will all go, and if he hasn't money enough to buy one he will call the whole thing a nuisance and pity the post men.

WILL MARK A SPOT

Tea—Its Varieties, &c.

In reply to the questions of a correspondent, the American Cultivator says that arranged in the order of their excellence, the different kinds of tea are as follows: The Green teas are Gunpowder, Imperial, Hyson, Young Hyson, Hyson, Hyson-skin and Twankay; the black teas are Pekoe, Souchong, Congou and Bohea. Hyson consists of leaves gathered in the Spring; Young Hyson, of leaves collected in the early part of the same season. Gunpowder is a more carefully picked Hyson, the best rolled and rounded leaves being selected. Hyson-skin is the refuse of Hyson. Pekoe consists of the plant gathered early in the Spring, and is sometimes called "White-blossom tea," from having mixed with it, to give it a higher perfume a few blossoms of a species of olive, a native of China. The inferior qualities are made, as in the case of Hyson, from the second, third and fourth crops. For green teas, the leaves are heated in shallow pans over a brisk wood fire almost immediately after they are gathered. They are then thrown upon a table and rolled with the hands. Lastly, they are put again into the pan, and quickly dried, being kept in rapid motion by the hands of the workmen. Thus prepared, they are of a dullish green color, but become brighter afterwards. For black teas, the leaves are spread out in the air for some time after being gathered. They are then tossed about until they become soft and yielding, then they are thrown into heaps, and allowed to lie for about an hour, or a little longer, undergoing a slight fermentation. Afterward they are rolled upon a table, in the form of a ball, the object being to get rid of a part of the moisture, and at the same time to twist the leaves; and after being roasted in the pans, and exposed to the sun and air for a few hours, they are dried slowly over charcoal fires. The produce of different districts varies in quantity and flavor with the climate, the soil and the variety of the tea-plant cultivated, as well as with the period at which the leaves are gathered, and with the mode of drying them.

An extraordinary security was offered by a man who recently advertised in a Berlin newspaper for a loan. The advertisement ran as follows:—"A medical student whose means are exhausted would like to meet with some one who would advence him the necessary sum to complete his studies at a moderate rate of interest. If necessary he would as a guarantee at once marry his creditor's daughter, or, if he prefers it, would give an undertaking to do so on passing his examination."

Experienced lumbermen say that the supply of walnut is rapidly diminishing, and that fully three-fourths of the good stock throughout the country has been consumed within the last ten years.

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.

Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgement in taking care of the health of your self and family. If you are Bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—Tribune. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend in deed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with diseases, more particularly those complaints and weakness so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are Woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle Sold by A. Turner & Co.

A "darkness which may be 'felt'"—a black hat.

NEVER GIVE UP.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery wil cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by A. Turner & Co., Markdale.

For the first time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant of Milwaukee, navigation on Lake Michigan is completely closed.

DYSPEPSIA & LIVER COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use according'y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

A Syracuse sleigh 100 years old is driven by a man of 85, and pulled by a horse in his 35 year, and it is the only rig in that vicinity that has been hauled up for fast driving for six years.

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

A stage was overtaken by a blizzard at Flint Creek hills, Montana. Several passengers and horses were frozen to death. There has been much suffering in that region.

We have a speedy and positive cure, for Catarah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in SHHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal injector free with each bottle Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

A new question for debating societies. "When a woman and a mouse meet which is the most frightened?"

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

MAPLE WANTED.—A large quantity of clear maple in bolts or logs wanted for which a good price will be paid in cash. Apply to M. & W. Armstrong.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE,

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore when all other preparations fail. Call at Hogg's General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40·

Fire at Opera House in Toronto destroyed by fire on Thursday night. The loss is estimated at $80,000 insured for $15,000.

If kegs of nails be dipped in grease they can easily be driven into hard wood when otherwise they would do nothing but break.

AN ACROSTIC.

Let us farmers and threshers all
Arise and get you buy for Spring, Summer
Rub on splendid good oil, [and Fall
Don't be misled by statements bland,
In stead of having the very best brand,
No good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Every bearing wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Cutting also it suits, as you plainly see,
Harvesting gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use,
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm. 127-153.

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF

FISH

'UST TO HAND IN

Barrels

CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

GROCERIES.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S
LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S
Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S
Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S
MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S
Pork, Pork, Pork

McINTYRE'S
Teas, Teas.

And ever ythin g kept n in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th. 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

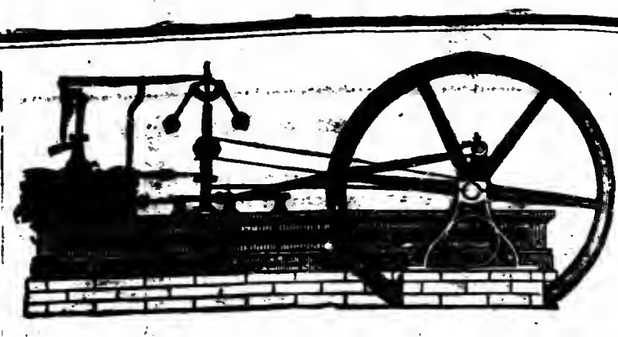
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.



My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

A. M. HOGG.

MOFFAT

M'rkd

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shaftin

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Wheels, Shingle Heaters, &c, All Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIALT

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photographe

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good st

FRAMES and FRAME FIXING

in great variety and latest designs at prices.

W. BULMER

TORONTO HOUSE

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. Unusually La

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPES

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRACTI

Variety and Value Unsurpassed.

DRY GOODS DEPARMENT

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goods, comprising in part Cashmeres in all colors Worsted Wool Goods in endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my stock is unusually large from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have had the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trouserings, and Overings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in this department buyers will find it to their advantage to call before purchasing elsewhere

Millinery Department.

Under the able management of a first class milliner, with plenty of assistance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most fashionable, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it would be you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department.

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the lowest possible price

I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Farm Produce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest price in cash for any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially ask farmers to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROULE

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factor

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PUMPS, FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found in the fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in Markdale in the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

Markdale Standard

L. 3.--No. 24. MARKDALE, ONT., FEB. 22, 1883. No. 128.

Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

Per Anumn

IN ADVANCE.

in three months, $2 if not paid till of the year. No paper discontinued arears are paid up, except at the the publisher, and parties refusing ithout paying up will be held respon- the years subscriptions until they ith the rules.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING :

mn one year	$50 00
do. do.	27 50
do. do.	15 00
do. do.	8 00
do.	4 00
lines, first insertion per line	8
sequent insertion	3

umber of lines to be reckoned by the rpiol measured by a scale of solid Advertisements without specific s will be published till forbid and accordingly. All transitory adver- s must be in the office of publica- 12 o'clock on the wednesday proceed- publication.

JOB PRINTING

ry description executed with ss and despatch at the Office of NDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

AMUEL WARDELL,

L DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL rders promptly attended to. Resi- Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

ent, M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. sician and Surgeon, Priceville, e of University, Vict. College. New York, and duate, of the same, Aviteth Medical Institute. Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

meron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

er D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Poulett St., OWEN SOUND. ttention given to the preservation of ural teeth. Artificial Dentures mount- Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases. be at Markdale the last Tuesday in month, eron, M.D., & C. F. Knight, L.D.S. P. & S. Glasgow, Medalist Royal Col- D.S., Ont. lege Den. Sur., Ont

MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

ADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Markdale, on the third Wednesday of month for the practice of his profession. ary 9th, 1883. 122-74

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

RISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Convey- &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at ton, Office open every Thursday, as ore.

FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. unty Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

EGISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyan

ET TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT. ce—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block St.; and in Markdale, over McFar Store, on Friday and Saturday every 57-ly

Creasor & Morrison,

ERI - ...S, SOLICITORS, CONVEY- ...&c. &c. ces in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, W. F. Wolf's Store and in MARKDALE: W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday riday of each week. Funds to lend on reasonable terms. Caesar, Q. C. DUNCAN MORISON rkdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown.

CER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and fe Insurance Agent. Commissioner B. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed neer for the County of Grey. Farmers, nts, and Land Sales. Punctually at- to and charges made very moderate. eville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

CENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or coun- the shortest notice. Charges reason- ers left at the STANDARD office will re- prompt attention. 117-3m

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

T. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has d a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First class accommodation for commercial travelers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connec ton.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market af fords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

MISS LAMB,

DRESS-MAKER. UP-STAIRS IN Douglas' Block. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.

Markdale, Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implements, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate se curity.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, March 5th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND.

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture !

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

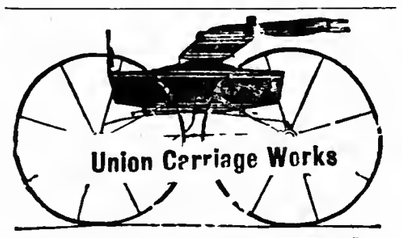
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith,

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

☞ Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say :

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, inclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

☞ To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

WARNING !

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS !

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 40

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

BUTCHER!

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED, from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

Advertise in the STANDARD.

MR. ANDREW MELDRUM.

AN ARTEMESIA BOY "STRIKES ILE" IN COLORADO—A REPUTED MILLIONAIRE.

Mr. Andrew Meldrum, a son of Mr. Henry Meldrum, the well-known Flesherton Station Agent of the T. G. & B. R., and a blacksmith by trade has "struck ile" in a Colorado silver mine. Mr. Meldrum and three other gentlemen, commenced prospecting among the mountains of Colorado in the summer of 1881. They met with very little if any success, until about the 12th of August in the same year, when he and Robinson, one of his partners—while "prospecting" in the Red Mountains, found indications that led them to stake out a claim now known as the Gustin mine. They staked out another mine a short distance from the "Guston," and called it the "Yankee Girl." The latter mine proved so rich that on the 17th of September they took one thousand dollars worth of ore out of it. A company of Americans offered them $125,000 in cash for the Yankee Girl, and they accepted. Mr. Meldrum and his partners still hold the Guston mine, however, which is said to be enormously rich in precious metals. In fact it may be stated that Mr. Meldrum is worth a round million dollars!—Advance.

[The above gentleman while visiting his sister, Mrs. Alex. Kay, of this village, gave us a call on Tuesday last. His speedy accession to wealth has not changed his manner in the least, being still reserved and unassuming in his deportment. He showed us a map, or draught of his "Guston Mine," showing the tunnel through which the ore is brought, the camp built of logs with a chimney of silver ore, a blacksmith forge built between two trees, the forge also built of silver is worth $1,000, itself. Mr. Meldrum being a blacksmith, keeps the mining tools dressed and sharpened. He has with him specimens of Silver and Gold ore, which appear very rich in those precious metals. He leaves this week for Chicago where he will remain until spring when he will return to Colorado.]

GLENELG COUNCIL.

Council met at the Town Hall, on the 12th inst.

Members all present.

The committee on the Treasurer's sureties presented their report which was adopted.

McMillan, Mullarky, that the pathmasters be instructed to be more particular in performing their duty in removing all obstructions, including fences on the highway—carried.

Davis, Mullarky, that the Auditors report for 1882, as finally audited by the Council, be adopted and that the clerk be instructed to get 200 copies printed in pamphlet form—carried.

A By-law was passed appointing pathmasters, fence-viewers and pound-keepers.

Davis, McMillan, that the following accounts be passed :—C. W. Rutledge, printing, $3.75 ; Rowsell & Hutchison, municipal blanks, $18 09 ; Thos. Lauder, Registrar's fees, $1.00 ; N. McIntyre, delivering ballot boxes for two years, $10.00—carried.

Mullarky, Dunsmoor, that $20.00 be paid Michael Cummins for injuries to his horse caused by a defective bridge at Barrhead Mills—carried.

Davis, Mullarky, that J. S. Black be paid $2.50, for repairing the Town Hall—carried.

McMillan, Dunsmoor, that widow Sinclair be granted $5.00 as charity, she being in indigent circumstances—carried.

Mullarky, Davis, that Miss Neathercot receive $3.00 as charity—carried.

Davis, Mullarky, that a committee be appointed consisting of the Reeve and clerk with instructions to secure the best titles they can to road deviations in the Township, and that said committee be empowered to make any arrangement to secure such titles as they deem best in the interest of the Township and report at the October meeting—carried.

Council adjourned to meet at the same place on 4th June next.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy, and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

No opposition will be offered to the return of any of the members of the N. B. Government.

The Dominion Alliance for the suppression of the liquor traffic continues its business at Ottawa.

Mr. Robson, Minister of Finance, has been re-elected at New Westminster, B. C., by acclamation.

Lieut.-Col. Campbell, of the 17th Battalion, was buried with military honours at Watford.

All the evidence of popularity is unmistakably in favour of Mr. Bulmer, for the Montreal mayoralty.

The Commissioners of Public Charities at Halifax are advertising for plans of a poor asylum to replace the one destroyed by fire.

A young girl named Mary Ann Sinnott, of Montreal, threatened to shoot her faithless lover, and was arrested and held for trial.

The Montreal police made a raid upon a gambling hell on Craig street, and arrested fifteen respectably dressed young men.

Application is to be made to the Grand Lodge for a dispensation permitting the formation of a Military Masonic Lodge at Kingston.

It is reported that money is so scarce in some of the smaller banks at Montreal that one has had to mortgage its building for a temporary loan of $50,000.

Thos. McNeil, a paralytic resident near Quin village, not far from Pontiac, was left alone in his house a few days since, and was burned with the dwelling.

C. P. Sclater's toboggan ran off the track of the Montreal Tobogganing Club recently and Mr. Sclater went against a tree with force enough to injure him greatly.

UNITED STATES.

A strong earthquake shock in Southern Peru last month created great excitement.

Eugene Cuedret, a St. Louis jeweller, has been mulcted in $7,000 for smuggling jewellery.

A steamer has succeeded crossing in the Peninsula of Florida through the canals and Lake Okeechobee.

The Assembly Committee on ways and Means has given a hearing on the Niagara Falls State Park bill.

Harding and Greenwood, the men accused of the murder of Wm. Mahar at Sandwich, were arrested at Louisville.

It is reported that the registed mail pouch was cut open recently at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and $11,000 abstracted.

During the trial of a woman at St. Louis, on a charge of defaming a priest the lawyers, McBride and Lodge, quarrelled and fought.

In the Senate the Tariff bill proviso for the refund of the duty on imported salt used in curing meats and afterwards exported was agreed to.

Three men were probably mortally injured by a collision at Chicago between the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Milwaukee and St. Paul trains.

Twelve thousand dollers has been sent to Ireland by the Rev. Lawrence Walsh, of Waterburg, Conn., to be used in the famine stricken district.

Recently a girl 17 years old, dressed in boy's clothes, was picked up in Detroit by an officer and confessed to have passed as a boy for five years.

George Pfar, a Canadian, from Brockville, Ont., fell off the Brooklyn bridge a height of sixty feet and alighted on the roof of a house. He will probably die.

GENERAL.

Thakombay, the Figian king, is dead.

In the House of Lords, Baron Wolsely took his seat amid cheers.

It is reported that M. Lepelletier, Director of the Credit de Finance, has been arrested in Paris.

The United States Minister at Constantinople has arranged for a settlement of all American claims.

The German Reichstag has confirmed nearly all the reductions previously made in the military estimates.

The authorities of Bayreuth have unanimously decided that Wagner's funeral shall be at the expense of the town.

De Brazza has been promoted to a lieutenancy in the French navy. He will sail for the Congo on the 20th inst.

The Ecuador Dictator, Veintimillac, is concentrating his forces, and threatens if defeated to plunder and burn Quayaquil.

At a meeting of Parnellites a letter from Healy was read complaining of needlessly irritating prison rules to which he is subjected.

The U. S. steamer Essex, two English vessels, and a French man-of-war have been ordered from the coast of Peru, to Guayaquil, Equador, to protect the foreign residents.

Ancient Turkeys.

We read that "the Spaniards saw immense numbers of turkeys in the domesticated state, on their arrival in Mexico, where they were more common than any other poultry. There were found wild, not only in New Spain, but all along the continent, in less frequented places, from the North-western territory of the United States to Panama. The Spaniards call the turkey the gallopavo, because it resembles the peacock." The Mexicans ate many turkeys, long before they (the Mexicans) were converted—or rather cuffed—into Christians. The annual allowance of turkeys for the imperial palace was 8,000, so that one derives a melancholy satisfaction from thinking that "the balls of the Montezumas" must have been uncommonly jolly places, particularly at Thanksgiving time, when there could have been no stint there in turkeys in all the modes that such noble birds can be served.

USEFUL RECEIPTS.

Hints for the Housewife and the Cook.

PICKLES.—Pickles ought to be kept in a dry place, and the vessels most approved of for keeping them, are wide-mouthed glass bottles or stone jars having corks or bungs, which must be rotted in with linen and covered with bladder or leather.

White wine vinegar is the best for pickles, and it is essential to the excellence and beauty of pickles that they always be completely covered with vinegar.

PRESERVES, JAMS, and JELLIES keep better if the pots into which they are put are sealed up while hot, because if exposed to the air until cool, little germs will fall upon them from the air and retain their vitality, and will soon fall to work decomposing the fruit. On the other hand, if the jars are sealed while hot, the germs are destroyed by scalding.

CELERY SALT is made by grating dried celery root mixed with one-fourth its quantity of salt.

VEGETABLES should be cooked, if possible, in water in which meats have been cooked.

Scalded skimmed milk will go nearly as far as fresh milk.

SLOW AND LONG COOKING will make tough meat tender.

Your fat should be boiling when you put your meat into it to fry.

SALT meats should be be simmered and not fiercely boiled.

A small spoonful of molasses added to buckwheat each morning, will make the cakes temptingly brown.

TO BROIL CHICKENS WITHOUT BURNING THEM.—Remove occasionally from the fire and baste with a gravy prepared as follows: Simmer together one half cup of vinegar, a piece of butter the size of an egg, and salt and pepper to the taste. Keep the gravy hot.

TO DRESS POULTRY.—Take a knife and sever the artery or jugular vein in the neck, or take an axe and cut the head off; let it bleed so as to draw all fever from the fowl, in case it may have any. Dip the body in boiling water, then pick quickly. When through, dip the fowl in hot water again-then into a pail of cold water, let it remain three or four minutes; this will make it swell out plump, and it will keep twenty four hours longer than if it was not thrown into the cold water.

IN BEATING THE WHITES OF EGGS in warm weather, choose a cool place, and a pinch of salt added greatly hastens in bringing them to "snow."

WINE STAINS of any kind can be removed effectually from linen, by holding them for a few minutes in boiling sweet milk. This must be done before the linen is washed, or it is of no use.

A PINT OF MUSTARD SEED put in a barrel of cider will keep it sweet for several months, and make it more wholesome.

TURPENTINE will remove ink from white woodwork.

TO FILTER WATER quickly for immediate use, employ the following method: Put a quart of clean water over the fire and bring to a boil; remove it and strain it two or three times through flannel; cool it and keep it for use in a covered jar or pitcher.

AMMONIA (aqua) will restore colors in fabrics from which the color has been abstracted by acids.

A TABLESPOONFUL OF AMMONIA in a gallon of warm water, will often restore the color in carpets; it will also remove white wash from them, restoring color.

OX GALL will not only remove grease from carpets but restore the colors. One pint of gall in three gallons of warm water will do a large carpet. Table and floor oilcloths may be thus washed.

GALL SOAP.—Cut finely three pounds of common brown soap; put it in an earthern pan with four beef galls, and place over a slow fire, stirring frequently with a stick until dissolved; then remove from the fire and put away to cool and harden. Take it out of the pan, cut it and allow it to dry on a board. This is excellent for removing grease and stains from carpets and similar fabrics. The vessel in which it has been made cannot be used for any other purpose.

Fashions in Dancing.

Fashions in dancing present no striking change since last season. The American Society of Professors of Dancing, which has its headquarters in New York, held its annual meeting lately and decided to recognise no new dances. They voted to discard the "racket" from their lessons, and to forbid it altogether in their academies. Its name is a slang one for the better-known Redowa-galop step, and originated in the fact that the music which was at first used for it was the "Racquet Waltz." It is called, in various sections, the "Society," the "Newport," the "Ripple" and the "Rockaway." It is regarded as too showy for modest girls to fling themselves into, and this is why the professors have undertaken to place it under taboo. The round dances which strict propriety permits this year are the plain waltz and the Redowa. The latter may be varied by what is called the polka Bohemia, a toe-and-heel step that is not theatrical if quietly and gracefully done. The close hugging, sometimes indulged in last winter by couples who ought to have known better, is now visibly relaxed, and altogether dancing is rather freer from abuses than before. The square dances in use at balls are the plain quadrille, and the plain and Saratoga Lancers. In the latter the couples form parallel lines, and dance together, the figures and movements remaining similar to those in the ordinary Lancers. The German is danced still in private assemblages, but never at large balls. A new round dance in some vogue in parlors is called the "Russe," and partakes of the character of the galop and mazurka combined. There is also a square dance called the "National Guard," composed of squares and circles of a somewhat military character. The "Polo" quadrille, with its rapid all-hands-around, proved too much of a circus to please women, and has gone pretty nearly out of fashion. Variations on the polka are frequently seen, and the old-fashioned Virginia reel is very extensively revived.

LATEST NEWS NOTES.

TRANSATLANTIC.

The News says that, owing to the bad weather, the crops will be short.

The Campagnie Generale du Gaz, Paris, has failed; capital a million and a half francs.

Four thousand claims have been presented before the Cairo Indemnity Commission.

Two fishing smacks have been lost at Yarmouth. The crews, numbering fourteen persons, were drowned.

Grecoff has been beaten severely in the street at Sofia. A conflict has occurred between the authorities and populace at Sliveno. The troops refused to assist the former.

M. Hulleot, an American, who narrowly escaped massacre at Madagascar, has arrived in London, and will proceed to the United States, to lay his case before the Government, and claim damages against Madagascar.

A Socialist pamphlet has been published at Altona, Prussia, abusing all sovereigns and challenging the Democrats to liberate their country so oppressed by their rule. Eleven Socialists have been arrested and a number of seditious works seized.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

It is stated that the Government will introduce to the House of Commons a bill for the registration of the Irish voters.

In the Queen's speech she referred to questions relating to the Danubian Conference, the recent event in Egypts, the restoration of Cetewayo and the diminution of the crime in Ireland. It shows that the Government is determined not to allow Irish subjects to occupy almost the entire attention of Parliament as heretofore. The remaining portion of the address has reference to reforms in the Home Parliament.

At the preliminary meeting of the Irish parliamentary party to consider the action of the Irish members of the House of Commons during the session, over twenty persons were present. Mr. Parnell was re-elected chairman. It was decided that an amendment should be made to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, dealing with the operation of the Crimes Act. Regret was expressed at Mr. Healy's arrest. A further amendment to the address was also resolved upon dealing with the failure of the Government to propose adequate remedial legislation for Ireland.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

The Appel du Peuple, Prince Jerome's new organ, has appeared. It contains a protest signed by thirty Bonapartist members of the Chamber of Deputies against the arrest of Jerome. It advocates a plebiscite.

It is understood that the interview between Eugenie and Napoleon during the brief visit of the latter to Farnborough was most cordial. The Prince started for Paris the other day.

M. De Freycint has had an interview with President Grevy. Replying to a deputation of merchants representing 20,000,000 francs capital, M. Grevy promised to endeavor to relieve commerce from the results of frequent crisis.

The committe of the Chamber of Deputies unanimously rejected M. Waddington's proposal to banish princes guilty of endangering the State, and M. Barbei's measure rendering the princes liable to expulsion by decree of the President. M. Flequet's motion prohibiting the presence in France or Algeria of members of former dynasties was adopted. The majority of the members of the Chamber oppose the action of the committee on the expulsion bills in adopting M. Flequet's motion. The Radical Left, Democratic Union and Republican Union decided in favor of the passage of M. Barbei's proposal.

STATE OF IRELAND.

James Carry, one of the prisoners in Kilmainham, is very ill.

In the Commission Court, Dublin, recently, Curran, charged with the murder of a farmer named East in June last in the presence of his wife and eight children, was acquitted. The Judge's charge strongly favored the prisoner.

WAGNER.

Arrangements are being made for a public funeral for Wagner, which will take place at Bayreuth.

The King of Bavaria has telegraphed to Wagner's relatives, offering condolences and begging them to await his wishes regarding the removal of the remains and the funeral.

A Venice despatch says Wagner was suffering from disease of the heart. He had on Tuesday a severe attack, but resolved to make an excursion in a gondola, when he had another violent seizure. In the afternoon doctors were summoned, but found the case hopeless. He died in the arms of his wife, surrounded by his children.

AMERICAN.

General Porfirio Diez has been elected President of the National Supreme Court of Mexico.

THE ALABAMA CLAIM COURT.

The Peruvian Government has presented a claim before the Alabama Claims Court for two cargoes of guano, destroyed while sailing under the American flag.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

Efforts are being made at Woodstock to stringently enforce the Scott Act.

Considerable inconvenience has been caused through the country about Woodstock from the effects of the drouth. The lack of rain, so long continued, is remarkable. The wells in many places are dried up, and springs that were never known to fail are now in the same condition. In some of the back settlements the scarcity of water has been disastrous to the health of the domestic animals. Another effect of the continuous dry spell is the closing of a great number of mills.

COFFIN JOINT LAMENESS.

The following interesting paper on Navicular disease, or "Coffin Joint Lameness," was read at the last weekly meeting of the Veterinary Medical Association of the London Veterinary College, by F. B. Dickerman.

This disease probably is the worst in the shape of lameness, and horse is liable to suffer from, was first brought into notice by Mr. Turner, upwards of 50 years ago; before that time, however, nearly all affections of the foot were attributed to the shoulder, but I am happy to say that since Veterinary science has made such rapid strides shoulder lameness is decreasing rapidly. This disease, since it was first brought into notice, has caused almost a panic among Veterinaries of this and older countries, and scarcely can two be found in the same opinion as to the cause, pathology, and treatment of the disease.

Prof. Dick, in his day, advocated very strongly that the disease began in the tendon, whilst Messrs. Turner & Percival believed that it began in the synovial bursæ, and Prof. Williams says that it begins in the cancellated structure and articular cartilage of the bone. Prof. Smith says that it may commence in either the bone, tendon or bursæ of the navicular bone, and if produced slowly it begins in the bone or bursæ, but if suddenly produced it begins in the tendon, for we find after a punctured wound in the foot (as is the case sometimes) the animal remains lame afterwards from navicular disease; it is then in most cases the result of inflammation in the cancellated structure of the bone which extends and interferes with the nutrition of the articular cartilage, giving rise to caries; the bursæ is destroyed and the tendon becomes united to the bone; this is brought about in two ways. 1st. Its fibres become lacerated and present loose ends; these are imprisoned by lymph thrown out from the exposed interior of the bone and are united to it by a new connecting fibrous tissue. 2nd. By a formation of a false membrane, which is very vascular, extending from synorial fringes both on the inferior surface of the bone and superior surface of the tendon, creeping by slow degrees over the whole articular surface, destroying their smoothness and becoming a bond of union between them. The union of the tendon to the bone accounts to some extent for its giving away after neurotomy.

CAUSES.—One of the great causes of this disease is a rheumatic diathesis, and the liability to suffer from this cause originates in hereditary predisposition and accidental circumstances; therefore, one very prolific cause of the disease is from breeding from animals affected with the disease, and I think it the duty of every practitioner who may be called in "to see breeding animals thus affected" to explain the character of the disease to the owner of such animals, and thereby eradicate the disease as much as possible.

It is also brought on by concussion (and certain conformations predispose the animal to concussion, as a short and upright pastern with narrow heels) and in the unnatural alteration of the relatvie position of the navicular bone and weight bearing bones brought on by improper shoeing and mutilation of foot by those who do not understand the functions of the parts properly.

There are many other accidental causes of this affection, as stone bruis s immediately below the bursæ, punctures, and allowng the toe to grow too long, irregular exercise, and Prof. Law says it may be caused by impaired nutrition with increased elimination of phosphates from the system, or an extension of disease from the digestive organs as in an over-feed of grain or as drink of cold water when hot and fatigued.

Mr. Percival says a foot with a sound and prominent frog is a condition to receve the disease while one with a shrunk, shrivelled enjoys a sort of immunity from it.

He says the foot predisposed to take it is the strong, round, short-toed, or clubby foot open at the heels, with a sound frog, jutting prominently out between them. Here is a frog exposed to all the pressure, and indisposed to yield, and itself liable from its very exposure to become, in the warm stable hard and dry and incompressable. Pressure from the ground upon such a frog must render it in effect a fixture; it cannot, will not expand; and at the very moment pressure from below would force it upwards, the weight from above it, is with more or less violence pressing on it, and the tendon between the two pressures become inflamed, This is Mr. Percival's idea of one great cause.

SYMPTOMS.—One of the earliest symptoms of this disease, is pointing the foot, sudden lameness without any apparent cause, which may disappear suddenly, and then reappear, either in the same foot or its fellow. The rheumatoid form is thus manifested.

When first brought out of the stable the horse is lame, then it disappears, (short steps he takes) and after a time he becomes very lame, and the foot is pointed, although pointing may be a habit, yet it is suspicious of navicular diseases. If both feet are affected, and he is suffering pain, then it throws the weight first upon one foot, then the other, and when brought from the stable, it goes with a kind of groggy action, hence the term grogginess.

Another well marked symptom is atrophy of the muscles of the shoulder and limb; there are other changes, as atrophy of the foot and contraction of the hoof. Pain is evinced if you tap with a hammer over the region of the naricular bursæ, and also if you press upon the tendon at the back part, and close to the frog, this will assist, but it is not conclusive evidence of it. You may also see redness in exceptional cases. There is a nice clean limb generally in this disease. The shoe is generally worn at the toe in this disease. Then you must judge by negative symptoms also.

TREATMENT.—The treatment of this disease is generally unsatisfactory, although you occasionally meet a case in the first stage before any alternation of structure takes place that you may make a perfect cure by giving the animal plenty of rest and the judicious use of cold water and poultices with occasional purgatives and a cooling diet.

The animal should be encouraged to lie down to take the weight off the feet. After the inflammation has been reduced a blister shou'd be applied around the coronet, and should this prove of no avail a [illegible] must be inserted through the frog. [illegible] visable to nail on a shoe to take the [illegible] off the frog while the seton is in. [illegible] is usually kept in for three weeks. After it is removed the parts [illegible] be carefully examined to see that no [illegible] is lodged between the fissures.

Mr. Percival recommends the animal [illegible] rendered and the sole of the foot to be [illegible] out, the wall rasped down, afterwards [illegible] the foot and leg in a warm [illegible] several hours together, and poultices of bran and linseed meal. He also recommends blood-letting in the inflammatory stage, a sweating blister upon the coronet, [illegible] tern.

If any structural change has taken place the disease is incurable, but the symptoms may be relieved to a great extent; by [illegible] the animal for slow work, and attention carefully to the shoeing. A shoe recommended by Col. Fitzwygram, is, I think, as good as any for this disease: it consists of a common flat shoe with the heels made a little thicker and the toe turned up so as to give a rolling motion to the foot and relieve the work of the flexon perforans.

After all other methods have failed, I believe the animal, an operation, called neurotomy is sometimes resorted to. This consists of removing a portion of the nerves which convey the sense of feeling to the foot.

This operation was first introduced into Vet. Surgery somewhere between the years 1809 and 1808, by Mr. Moorcroft [illegible] until Mr. Sewell announced himself as the discoverer of nenorotomy for the cure of lameness that Moorcroft, who left England for India came forward and vindicated his claims to that honor which he had in 1819 in a letter to the Calcutta [illegible] (G. H. Cavendish.)

There are two methods of performing the operation, viz: The high and low operation. The high consists in dividing the nerve above the fetlock; and the low that of the posterior branches only, but fortunately the pain is not entirely removed in the low operation.

To operate successfully, Prof. W. recommends the following rules:

1st. Clip the hair off over the [illegible] the nerve.

2nd. Let the animal be made to [illegible] cold water for an hour before operating.

3rd. Cast the animal carefully.

4th. Feel for edge of tendon per[illegible] and cut down upon the nerve without [illegible] secting the arcolar tissue.

5th. Divide the nerve at upper [illegible] the incision and dissect an inch or [illegible] the nerve out.

The after treatment is the same as [illegible] any ordinary wound.

RESULTS.

Unfavorable results of the operation [illegible] many, even in a well selected case.

In determining whether it is [illegible] operate or not the following rules [illegible] borne in mind.

1st. Never operate on a very heavy-legged cart horse.

2nd. Never operate where the [illegible] thin, weak in the heels, full in the [illegible] otherwise exhibiting a predisposition to laminites.

3rd. Operate only where the [illegible] strong and the animal's act on nerves [illegible] and the lameness otherwise incurable.

The untoward results are fracture of navicular bone, rupture of the [illegible] sloughing of the hoof, and a peculiar [illegible] inous degeneration of the bursæ [illegible] and surrounding structures along with [illegible] formation of a low form of fibrous [illegible]

Plants in Hanging Baskets.

Some persons seem to imagine that any plant ought to do as well in a hanging in a window as it does in the plant stand. Acting on this [illegible] use whatever they take a fancy to as basket plant, and generally meet with failure. The reasons are obvious to [illegible] who has had much experience with growing. In the first place, a plant as high as one's head gets a much drier atmosphere to breathe than [illegible] feet below it. In the next place, a hung up is more difficult to get water is being given to other plants, generally such a plant gets an [illegible] supply or is neglected, and on account the dryness of the air about it it [illegible] and the leaves drop. If the fact [illegible] borne in mind that such plants [illegible] water than those below it, and that properly attended to, and with [illegible] there would not be so much [illegible] basket plants. Once every two [illegible] summer is often enough to water the stand, but plants in baskets [illegible] water every day, and enough to penetrate the earth in which they [illegible] planting anything in a basket [illegible] a hollow in the soil around the [illegible] basket. If filled evenly with water applied to the surface of [illegible] run off, or considerable of it, at [illegible] the crust is soaked enough to [illegible] sorbent.

In putting up hanging baskets [illegible] advise you not to have the cords [illegible] attached to the basket extend to [illegible] the ceiling (if the hook to hold the [illegible] fastened there) in one piece. [illegible] the three or four chains or cords [illegible] to the basket meet about a foot [illegible] basket and there hook on to one [illegible] pendent from the ceiling. My object [illegible] ing this would be to facilitate [illegible] the basket whenever occasion [illegible] You will need to take it down [illegible] you would have good success with [illegible] plants.

A Spanking Team.

Johnny and Tommy were playing in a street where there was much building, and where they had been forbidden to go.

"Hello," said Johnny, "there's a spanking team."

"Where?" replied Tommy.

"Right across the street there's mother and mine, and we'd better run and get out of this," which they did their mothers after them.

A Kentucky man had a grand [illegible] smuggle over a lot of diamonds in a flask, but he did not do it. He [illegible] duce himself to make such a [illegible] flask.

POPE LEO XIII.

He Dines on—His Daily Work—Always Grave and Solemn.

...r his mass, which he says early, Leo ...gives audience to Cardinal Jacobini, ...ary of state and formerly nuncio at ..., whose political learning is rare even ...s official position. His place ...taken by the cardinal secretary of ...ecclesiastical affairs, and by the congregation ...he is, each of which has its fixed day. ...eral councils generally occupy the ...morning, until one hour after mid... ...Leo's dinner. A potage, one ...meat, and some cheese, a few min... ...in the afternoon—generally in ...—he usually reads the bishops' ...of which come direct into his ...the dispatches from the nuncia... ...especially any news from Belgium. ...kingdom, which has broken its ...relations with the holy see, is ...ly near his heart. For it is there ...was nuncio from 1843 to ...that he studied at close ...a great politician, Leopold I. To... ...ck the pope gives his private ...audiences, and the evening hours ...to the reception of bishops. This ...over Leo XIII. regains the solitude ...own closet. Then at last he is able to ...work.

...time, spare, with his pale and deep... ...face, the pope usually has delicate ...of which he takes small care. His ...is extreme. The spiritual sover... ...200,000,000 Catholics does not spend ...over a month for his table. The ...of a strongly developed nervous sys... ...enables him to resist the fatigue ...duties and vast responsibilities. At ...about him perceive a moment ...tension and collapse: but a little hap... ...piece of good news, or a pleasant ...interest rest the life of his worn frame. ...fully well again, he takes up once more ...heavy burden, and betakes himself to ...work of reconciliation and peace-mak... ...which he has devoted himself.

...always grave or rather solemn; al... ...the pope. The Italians call his man... ...and surroundings ceremonious. Gravity ...latent in his nature, as those ever who ...known him from his earliest youth. ...never abandons himself, laughs rarely. ...that he thought stern did he not tem... ...severity by the patient attention ...which he listens—without interruption ...all who speak to him. His audiences ...less frequent than were those of Pius ...but for that very reason they take up ...time. He has not the brilliant side so ...visible in his predecessor, the genial ...the fine good humor which endured, ...in spite of the surprising vicissitudes ...of the pontificate, nor the frank, bold, ...genial speech full of witty and happy ...thrown off in that sonorous voice ...Pius IX. retained in his extreme ...age. Leo XIII. is as slow of speech ...the archbishop of Paris. But if neither ...gift nor the cardinal has received the ...gift, each has been endowed with ...manners. Perhaps this similarity ex... ...the special sympathy and esteem ...the pope entertains toward Mgr. ...

...apartments in which the archbishop of ...(at this was Cardinal Pecci's office be... ...his election as pope) was wont to de... ...illustrate the harmony of faith and reason, ...religion and civilization, "growing like ...natural fruit from the root of Christian... ...was much noticed by Italian publicists. ...priest loved to treat the question of the ...and of modern society. The illustrious ...referred to him, that his was "one of ...most finely balanced and vigorous of ...characters," that he was "a man who had ...been the ideal of a cardinal such as St. ...Charles conceived it." Since the eighteenth ...century, since the time of Benedict XIV., ...Clement XIV., Rome has not seen a ...head so cultivated a mind, so accomplish... ...in Latin and Tuscan verse; so familiar at ...once with classic and contemporary letters. ...In the present time, the two qualities which ...Leo XIII. most prizes, and aims most con... ...ously in securing in his writings, are sim... ...plicity and moderation. His letters, his ...encyclicals, all are submitted to the sacred ...college. Nothing is more admirable than ...the manner in which he elicits opinions and ...hears objections. He has been known to ...completely rewrite, after grave debates, ...encyclicals which he had already completed. ...He suffers from sleeplessness, it is gener... ...ally in the night hours he composes his ...immortal work.

...It is by this active life, the monotony of ...which would frighten many statesmen, that ...the holy father is able to manage directly, ...and in their immensity of detail, the affairs ...of the church. Those affairs have multiplied ...enormously since the first third of the century. ...More than one hundred bishoprics have been ...created in America. Pius IX. wrote little, ...inspired the writings of others. Leo XIII ...signs his own hand in all, sees all with his ...own eyes, and directs all. Moderation, ...mildness, with austerity, is the dominant note ...of the sovereign's conduct, and which he has ...made a law for himself, has borne its ...fruits. At the time of his ascension the ...diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican ...was reduced to about two ambassadors—those of France and Austria. At present he ...receives the envoys of the ambassadors of ...all the powers, save only Belgium and Italy. ...As in regards to these two countries, there ...are no signs of any possible understanding, ...but the re-establishment of diplomatic rela... ...tions between the holy see and almost all ...states guarantees for the present the exist... ...ence of the pope at Rome and his spiritual ...independence. Nevertheless, we must not ...suppose that the present moderation denotes ...a change or a backward movement from the ...doctrines of the late pontificate. I recall to ...mind the recent significant saying of a dig... ...nitary of the Roman curia: "All that had to ...be said has been said. The church never ...changes."—Catholic Review.

Yankee Condescension.

The steamer Orinoco sailed recently for Bermuda with about seventy-five first cabin passengers. Many of these were society people, but they generally disclaimed that they were taking the trip for the opportunity of seeing the Princess Louise. "Indeed, we engaged our tickets long before we knew that Princess Louise was going," said a young American princess in a sealskin sacque; "but they say she is quite a pleasant person, and we won't mind meeting her."

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

The Unusual Experience of an American Gentleman and its Valuable Results.

American Press Correspondence: London Eng.

The origin, growth and final success of any enterprise are causes for the greatest public interest, whether relating to public institutions or private ventures. The western continent has been especially marked by examples of this nature, and we are glad to record one which is so prominent as to be of universal interest. Several years since Mr. H. H. Warner, residing in Rochester, N. Y., became aware that what he supposed was an iron constitution, was becoming rapidly undermined, and that something of a mysterious nature seemed to be sapping his vitals. At first the indications were slight, consisting principally of frequent headaches, dull pains in various parts of the body, unaccountable lassitude, and occasional nausea. He thought that perhaps these symptoms were the result of a cold and gave them but little attention, but they increased and finally became alarming. Consultation with two prominent physicians revealed the fact that he was suffering from an acute attack of kidney disease, and to say that he was alarmed would be only to partially express his feelings. Under the most careful attention of the physicians, however, he failed to improve and in fact grew worse constantly. His symptoms at this time were most serious. The slight troubles which he had first observed increased and finally became intense. What originally were simple pains became the greatest agony. Occasional headaches and a lack of energy eventually resulted in the pains and horrors which only such troubles can bring. It was at this critical time that he heard of a tropical plant, which was reputed to be of great value in similar troubles. He had little faith in its power but resolved to try it, as nothing else seemed to in any way relieve him. He therefore ceased taking the medicine of the doctors, began the use of the article referred to and was aware in a very short space of time that it was greatly benefitting him. He continued its use faithfully and as a result became perfectly cured, has been one of the most active men in America ever since, and is to-day a picture of perfect health.

Mr. Warner's experience caused him to thoroughly and most carefully investigate, and as a result he discovered that the majority of common diseases could be traced in their origin to disorders of the kidneys or liver. This was a revelation so startling in its nature that as a duty to humanity, Mr. Warner felt impelled to make known to the world the great means by which he had been saved. Up to that time kidney diseases had increased at the rate of 25 per cent. each year for the past half score of years, and were still largely on the increase. With the end in view above described, however, Mr. Warner began preparing and selling the remedy referred to, since which time the demand for it has been remarkable. In all the history of the world there is no instance on record where so great a demand has been known as that at present existing for Warner's Safe Cure for all diseases of the kidneys, liver and urinary organs, and for sale in every drug store in the land. Were the call for this remedy a fictitious one, mortality from kidney troubles would now be as great as ever, but statistics show that for the past few years there has been a marked decrease of deaths from this class of diseases, although the tendency toward kidney troubles is as great as ever throughout the entire United States. The theory, therefore, by which Mr. Warner advanced has been proven the correct one by reason of the decrease of mortality shown by government statistics.

Not long after presenting this medicine to the American public, Mr. Warner introduced it into England. Kidney and liver difficulties, as you know, are very prevalent over there, owing largely to the nature of the climate and influence of the atmosphere. The same results, however, which were noticeable in America were to be found in an equal degree in Europe. The remedy conquered the disease.

Strange as it may seem, this great medicine which has become so popular in the United States has never been introduced into Canada, owing to the fact that the large amount of business coming from the demand prevented an extension of the field. We learn, however, that Messrs. Warner & Co. have just established a Canadian house at Toronto, for the purpose of supplying the demand which has already sprung up, and our Canadian friends are to be congratulated on this fact. The financial and social standing of Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., in the United States, is second to that of no house with whom we are acquainted. The well known public spirit and liberality of Mr. Warner in contributing to the wants of the South during the yellow fever epidemic; endowing the celebrated Warner Astronomical Observatory at Rochester, N. Y., at an expense of nearly $100,000, and encouraging the advancement of science by the generous expenditure of money in prizes for cometary and meteoric discoveries, are known to the entire world, and mark him as one of the leading patrons of science of this day. Success such as has been achieved by this house, and of so high an order, is wholly meritorious and deserved and while it is phenomenal, it is none the less of the greatest value to the entire western continent.

An Old Licensing Law.

In the year 1440, a code of laws for the "gode rule and governannce of the boroughe of Walsall was issued by the "Mayer and his brethren." From this it appears that even in those far-off days strict watch had to be kept over the conduct of the ale-house keepers. This is evident from the following extract: "XI. Also it is ordeyned, that if eny man kepe at the ale or sportynge in theyre houses, aft. the howers appoynted to make a fyne therefore, and to sessed by the Mayer. And if by one or or twyes warnyng do not amend, then the same ale house to be put downe by the commandment of the Mayer and his brethren.—Notes and Queries.

Practice makes perfect. True, but a man can contrive to drop a hot horseshoe as readily the first time trying as the second.

NOTES FROM MANITOBA.

At Morris wood is coming in pretty freely at fair prices.

Portage la Prairie is shortly to have a straight Reform newspaper.

Complaints are numerous about the difficulty of obtaining meat at Morris.

The transfer office of the St. P. M. & M. Railway at E nerson has been burned to the ground.

An Ohio firm has secured the contract for building a $20,000 bridge across Red River at Emerson.

Rev. M. Ferris, of the Brandon Presbyterian Church, has resigned on account of ill health.

Two hundred British immigrants arrived in Quebec last week. Nearly all of them left for Manitoba to take up land.

Mr. Rand, a member of Beatty's survey party at Fort Saskatchewan has been badly burned about the face and hands by a powder explosion.

Premier Forquay is ill so from overwork, at his residence in St. Andrews, that his physicians have forbidden him to converse with any one.

The new station at Winnipeg will be ready for the reception of part of the C. P. R. staff by the end of the month. It is intended to use the old building for a reception room.

The Nelson Mountaineer says that a man named Quintin Blair, who lives at Pembina Crossing, while laboring under a fit of delirium tremens, made a desperate attempt to kill his wife. Crazy with drink, he threw $400 into the fire.

Teams are hauling wheat into Brandon from a distance of fifty miles, several loads coming in from Oak River, Souris City, and eight miles beyond Rapid City.

At a meeting of the rate-payers held in Portage La Prairie recently, on the motion of W. M. Reith, seconded by Mr. Wm. Smith, By-law No. 46, for the purpose of increasing the town debentures from $50,000 to $85,000, was passed by a unanimous vote.

Three rows of townships have been set off from the south of Shoal Lake county and named Minicta. The English of Miniota is "well-watered."

Shoddy men are said to be going about the country trying to delude farmers and others into purchasing worthless goods, and thereby detracting from the trade at the stores. It is a pity this practice could not be put a stop to.

The second run of stones in the Edmonton mills is at work, but is only used for chopping, as the bolt for that run is not completed yet. When it is completed one run will be kept for making fine flour only.

A brass band of ten pieces has been organized among the Mounted Police of Edmonton, and Colonel Herchmer will bring the instruments if he can obtain them at Winnipeg, otherwise he will send east for hem.

Mr. Larwill, of Rapid City, reported at a public meeting held at that place a few days ago that the Local Government was prepared to grant the prayer of the petition of the ratepayers in reference to the proposed division of the counties of Minnedosa and Brandon.

Extreme cold, slow business and light receipts of grain are the leading points of report from Brandon for the past week. Merchants say customers are scarce and sales few. The cold weather has doubtless much to do with the matter. Grain comes in very slowly and sells: Wheat, 60c. to 62c.; Oats, 35c. to 40c.; Barley is not in demand and scarce.

An application will be made to the Legislature at its first session to charter a line of railway to run from Brandon west and north through the Birtle district, tapping the lumber country in the vicinity of Shell River. Messrs. Leacock and A. W. Ross are the principle promoters.

The quantities of gold which have from time to time been washed from the sands of the Saskatchewan have caused the impression to prevail that if the bed of the river were systematically dredged by proper machinery the result be a paying investment, and a company have been formed, and the necessary machinery will be imported for this purpose.

Rufus Stephenson, inspector of colonization lands will leave in a few days for the Northwest, and report upon all the even numbered sections of the belt on each side of the Pacific Railway Company as far as Moose Jaw Creek. It has been discovered that some colonization companies have been charging $30 for homestead and preemption entries, though they are only entitled to charge $20. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Government, and will be at once rectified.

A Lock of Hair.

Few things in this weary world are so delightful as keepsakes. Nor do they ever, to the heart at least, nor to our eye, lose their tender, their wonderful charm. How slight, how small, how tiny a memorial saves a beloved one from oblivion, worn on the finger or close to the heart, especially if they be dead. No thought is so insupportable as that of entire, total, blank forgetfulness; when the creature that once laughed, sang, and wept to us, close to our side, or in our very arms, is as if her smile, her voice, her tears, her kisses, had never been. She and them all swallowed up in the dark nothingness of the dust. Of all the keepsakes, memorials, relics, most devoutly do we love a lock of hair. And, oh, when the head it beautified has long mouldered in the dust, how spiritual seems the undying glossiness of the sole remaining ringlet! All else gone to nothing, save and except that soft, smooth, burnished, and glorious fragment of the apparelling that once hung in clouds and sunshine over an angel's brow. Ay, a lock of hair is far better than any picture; it is a part of the beloved object herself; it belongs to the tress that often, long, long ago, may have all been suddenly dishevelled, like a shower of sunbeams, over your beaten breast. But how solemn thoughts sadden the beauty once so bright, so refulgent!

FOR THE
KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS
THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—wherever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by placing them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles; for the distressing disorders of women; for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For Diabetes ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,
Toronto, Ont., Rochester, N.Y., London, Eng.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East, Toronto. Portraits in oil life size.

MISCELLANEOUS.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLABEY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX, 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manuf'r of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto.

THE REJUVENATOR, THE GREAT HERBAL Remedy, 25c. per package post-paid. By mail. Box 17, Bronte, Ont. Agents Wanted.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50. INCLUDING FOUR tunes. T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical Instruments. Piano Music, Band Music, &c. Catalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 113 Yonge Street, Toronto.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE CLOTH and Wire Goods at the Toronto Wire Works, 116 King St. West, T. G. RICE.

BRICK MACHINES.

MARTIN PATENT

E. & C. GURNEY & CO.,
TORONTO.
Mention this paper.

Choice, Fresh and Reliable
SEEDS
Forwarded by mail to all parts of the Dominion postage paid and safe arrival guaranteed by STEELE BROS. & Co.
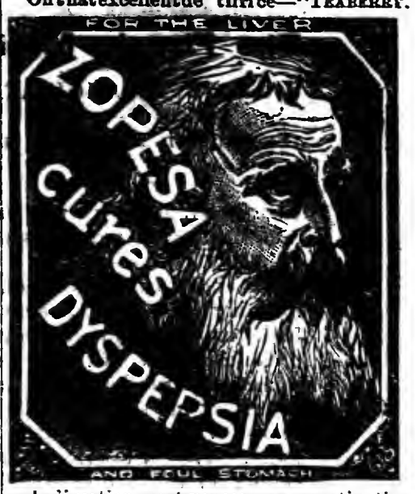
They will send to all applicants FREE the finest illustrated catalogue in Canada. It is full of information and contains a complete list of everything for the Farm & Garden. Don't fail to send your name and post office address for a copy before ordering your supply. Catalogues will be sent to past customers unless their address is changed; in such case advise
STEELE BROS. & CO'Y,
Seed Merchants, Toronto, Ont.

CONSUMPTION



Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, with diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart, successfully treated at the Ontario Pulmonary Institute, 135 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario.
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M.C.P.S.O., PROPRIETOR.
Our system of practice is by Medicated Inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Over 10,000 cases treated during the past 17 years.
If impossible to call personally for an examination, write for list of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address.
Ontario Pulmonary Institute,
135 Church st., Toronto, Ont.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES,
For Railroads, Rolling Mills, Grist Mills and Elevators.
Scales for everything—Hay, Coal and stock. All sizes of Warehouse Scales. Counter Scales of all kinds.
DAIRY & FARMERS SCALES.
Fish, Pork and Wool Scales, Butchers' Scales. Scales and Beams for Pedlars' Waggons. All sizes of Railroad and Warehouse Trucks, and Alarm Money Drawers.
Every Scale warranted. All makes promptly repaired.
Send for illustrated catalogue to
GURNEY & WARE,
HAMILTON.

AN ENGLISH VETERINARY SURGEON AND CHEMIST, now traveling in this country, says that most of the Horse and Cattle Powders sold here are worthless trash. He says that Sheridan's Condition Powders are absolutely pure and immensely valuable. Nothing on earth will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powders. Dose, one teaspoonful to one pint food. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter-stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
MAKE HENS LAY

To have fragrant Breath and Teeth like snow
Foolish and careless you'd be, very,
If you didn't at once a trial bestow
On that excellent dentifrice—"TEABERRY."

Indigestion, costiveness, or constipation, are immediately cured with ZOPESA. It stimulates and gives activity to the liver. It increases the dissolving joides of the stomach, and causes the food to assimilate.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARMING and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 14 Adelaide-st. East Toronto. Send for list.

FOR SALE.
Three large superior bred CLYDESDALE STALLIONS, with extra bone and style; also, an imp. mare and a few home bred fillies. All registered and prize animals. JEFFREY BROS., Whitby, Ont.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.
DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S
Oriental Cream, or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples Freckles, Moth-Patches, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 30 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure the preparation is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. The distinguished Dr. L. A. Sayre, said to a lady of the haut ton (a patient):—"As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' as the least harmful of all the Skin preparations." One bottle will last six months, using it every day. Also Poudre Subtile removes superfluous hair without injury to the skin.
MME. M. B. T. GOURAUD,
Sole Proprietor, 48 Bond St., N.Y.
For sale by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers throughout the U.S., Canadas and Europe. Also found in N. Y. City, at R. H. Macy's, Stern's, Ehrich's, Ridley's and other Fancy Goods Dealers. Beware of base imitations. $1,000 Reward for arrest and proof of any one selling the same.

CONSUMPTION,
BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, ASTHMA, DISEASES of the EYE & EAR.
CAN BE CURED.
INHALATIONS.
"TORONTO PULMONARIUM."
S. L. NASH, M.D., M.C.P.S.O., has an experience of 20 years' practice in Ontario,
Read the following Letter which speaks for itself.
Toronto, 4 Argyle-St., Dec. 11th, 1882.
S. L. NASH, M. D.:—Dear Dr.,—I take great pleasure in saying your treatment of my wife by inhalations, for an affection of the bronchial tubes, has proved most satisfactory. After being treated by several of the most prominent physicians of Toronto, I almost despaired of her being relieved of the distressing cough, which clung to her in spite of the best efforts put forth by skilled men to relieve her, and pronounced by some as incurable. Now, after a lapse of almost nine months since discontinuing your treatment, she has passed the fall weather without any signs of her old complaint returning. Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH POWELL.
A personal examination is preferable, after which you can be treated at home. If impossible to call, write for Questions and Circular. "Consultation free. Fees Moderate." Address "TORONTO PULMONARIUM." 123 Church-St., Toronto, Ontario

The Standard.

MARKDALE, FEB. 22ND, 1883.

The Fire in Markdale.

HOW IT ORIGINATED.

THE REID AND M'DOUGALL BLOCK IN A BLAZE.

THE FINEST BLOCK IN THE PLACE NARROWLY ESCAPES TOTAL DESTRUCTION.

At about two o'clock on Monday morning the citizens were aroused from their peaceful slumbers by the dreadful alarm of fire! In a few minutes a crowd anxious and eager to assist in subduing the hungry monster, or saving goods, were on hand. The fire originated in the ceiling of the third flat where the kitchen stovepipe went through a concrete flue, climbing from thence behind the plaster to the roof and there spreading between the ceiling and covering, which is a felt and gravel roof. Being difficult to reach considerable headway was gained by the fire before any means could be brought to bear that would check its progress. While bold and venturesome men fought the fire, pulling up water in pails by rope a distance of 40 feet, and chopping open the covering of the roof in order to get at the fire, others were hard at work removing furniture, etc., from the various dwellings in the upper flats, and Trimble & Wright had several teams hauling away to places of safety their immense stock of store goods. In about one hour the fire was got under control, when the removal of goods was stopped.

Those who took such an active and vigorous part in fighting the fire in the bitter cold, with such determined victory, are worthy of more than a passing notice. Mr. C. C. Pierce, of Owen Sound, who happened to be in town, being one of the foremost and most active hands in fighting the fiery element.

There were four families dwelling in the upper part of the block, viz.: J. R. Trimble, D. E. Wright, A. McDougall, and Mrs. J. F. Sproule, all of whom had their furniture more or less damaged in the hasty removal. Mr. McDougall's especially was mostly destroyed or burned, his being in the apartment where the fire originated. The lower part of the building was occupied by Messrs. Trimble & Wright, general merchants; D. M. Hogan's billiard room; Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers; and McDougall's harness shop. Adjoining and built up solid with this building is Mr. W. Benson's block occupied by Mr. Grant as a furniturne store, and Mr. Benson's as a liquor store and dwelling.

Had the fire gained the mastery in the large building it is hard to say where it would have stopped as there was a stiff breeze blowing from the west during the night, and had it not been for the thaw a few days previous replenishing the wells, &c., the block would have went sure, as nearly all the wells and cisterns had been dry.

LECTURE ON MANITOBA.

Mr. Arch. Speers, Senr., gave a lecture in Dufferin hall on Tuesday evening which was interesting and instructive, and listened to with deep interest. John Lyons, Esq., presided as chairman.

Mr. Speers has been in the North-West over three years, and the nature of his business (cattle buying) gives him a good general knowledge of the country, its advantages and disadvantages. He has great confidence in the future of the country. They have cold winters but not as stormy as in Ontario; no rain from early in November until Spring; a clear atmosphere. January, 1883, has been the coldest in the history of the country. Their stock look much better in Summer or Winter than they do here, owing in a great measure to the abundance of feed, which is rich in flesh and butter-giving qualities. He never saw any grain broken down by storms though it grows rank and tall.

The markets for grain, hay, &c., will continue good for a number of years owing to the immense immigration, and also the thousands of men and teams employed in building railways, which will in a few years form a complete net-work throughout the North West, giving access to foreign markets. The difficulty of reaching distant points are in a great measure overcome since the railway passes through over 500 miles of the country west of Winnipeg.

Some of the drawbacks are: The short season for tilling the land. The land, however, is cheap, and enough can be had at a small cost to afford one-half to remain idle while the other half is cultivated, or in other words to cultivate 100 acres while the other is growing a crop. The season after harvest is not long enough to do much ploughing, while the land requires to be ready for the seed as soon as Spring opens. The mosquitoes are very troublesome for about two months (they don't annoy in winter.) Fencing timber is scarce. Posts can be had for 10c. or 11c. each, which they plant about 20 feet apart and put on barbed wire. Fuel is also scarce, yet not as difficult to get as many suppose: Building timber is also scarce, yet they have far more comfortable houses generally than in Ontario. With all its drawbacks Mr. Speers is confident that the N. W. will in the near future be a wealthy and prosperous country.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker for the valuable information given.

POLITICAL.

Mr. Hunter's meeting in Markdale on Thursday evening was well attended. Mr. Thos. Kells was voted to the chair. The audience displayed considerable common sense and respect by giving both candidates (Hunter and Blyth) a good hearing. This was, we believe, as orderly a political meeting as we have ever had the privilege of attending. The ratepayers present appeared well satisfied each party with their man.

A BRIDAL COUPLE'S EXPERIENCE IN A BATH-ROOM.

A newly married pair, who arrived on their honeymoon trip at a celebrated Scotch watering place when accommodation was at a premium, had a mattress spread for them by a compassionate innkeeper in one of his bath-rooms. In the middle of the night the house was alarmed by loud shrieks proceeding from the nuptial chamber. What was the matter? Well, this:—The young bride, wishing to ring for a servant, had caught hold of what she supposed to be the bell rope, and pulled it smartly. Unhappily for her and her spouse it was the cord of a shower bath over their heads, and forthwith down plunged such a deluge of cold water as would throw a damper upon the most devoted of honeymoon couples. Her husband, in dismay, caught frantically at another cord of the extemporized couch, but the only response was an equally liberal deluge of water, this time nearly boiling hot. The unhappy couple then screamed in unison. When the servants came they found the floor of the room flooded with water, and the wife was perched like a monkey on her husband's back, uttering the most lamentable cries, while her good man was fumbling about in the dark, trying his best to find the door.—Lonpon Telegraph.

HOLLAND COUNCIL.

Council met at Vogan's Hall, Feb. 24th, 1883.

Members all present.

Reeve in the chair.

Moved by Messrs. Shute, Deavitt, that the Clerk notify the County Tres. to redeem lot No. 3, Gar street, East, village of Williamsford, being sold last fall for taxes in error; the property belonged to Gillis & Hanbury.

The breaking up of U. S. S. No. 3, Holland and Euphrasia, was discussed at some length by Messrs. Moore, Elliott, Lyons and Barton.

Moved by Messrs. Galbraith, Shute, that the clerk prepare a By-Law for the breaking up of U. S. S. No. 3. H. & E. and joining part of it to U. S. S. No. 2. and S. S. No 6.

Moved by Messrs. Galbraith, Deavitt, that the clerk make out an order in favour of Mrs. McDiermid for $10 and that Mr. Robertson lay out the money to the best advantage.

Moved by Messrs. Deavitt, McKinnett, that C. W. Rutledge get the printing of the minutes at his offer.

Moved by Messrs. Deavitt, Galbraith, that lots No. 19 to 23, both inclusive, in the 12th con., be detached from U. S. S. No. 3, Holland and Euphrasia, and attached to U. S. S. No. 2, H. & E, and that lots Nos. from 81 to 88, both inclusive in the 2nd concession, E. T. & S. R., also lots from 75 to 81, both inclusive in the third con., E. T. & S. R., be detached from U. S. S. No. 3, and attached to S. S. No. 6.

Moved by Messrs. Deavitt, McKinnett, that the Auditors report be adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Deavitt, Galbraith, that the Reeve and Deputy-Reeve be a committee to report as to the Treas. Securities.

Moved by Messrs. Deavitt, McKinnet, that the next meeting of the council be held on the 5th of April, and that the Collectors Roll be extended to that time.

CARSON PRICE,
Tp. Clerk.

ON OUR TABLE.

Mr. Wm. Rennie's descriptive catalogue and price list of field, garden, and flower seeds for 1883 is before us. It reflects credit, and displays taste and enterprise on the part of Mr. Rennie, who has been in the seed business 12 years, and has the reputation of being a reliable business man. The catalogue is well got up, containing many useful and practical suggestions and will be mailed free to those who wish to buy seeds if they send their name.—WM. RENNIE, seed merchant, Toronto.

Don't forget the Masquerade tomorrow night.

Trimble & Wright have received a large consignment of Fish. They will be sold cheap, cheap, cheap.

Mr. John Welsh, who went to Florida last Fall for the benefit of his health, returned on Tuesday night, and we regret to say that he is no better but considerably weaker.

BIRTHS.

WILSON—In Markdale, on the 16th inst., the wife of Rev. A. Wilson, of a daughter.

THOMAS—In Markdale, on the 18th inst., the wife of Mr. W. G Thomas, (shoemaker,) of a daughter.

HENRY—In Markdale, on the 21st inst., the wife of Mr. James Henry, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

ROBERTS—TOWNSEND.—On the 19 inst., at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. J. S. Corcoran, Thos. Hector Roberts, Esq., of Wingham, to Miss Fannie, daughter of Thos. Townsend, Esq., of Glenelg.

FAWCETT—MCCALLUM.—At the residence of the bride's father, on Monday the 7th inst., by the Rev. A. T. Colter, M. A., Mr. James Fawcett to Miss Mary Elizabeth, daughter of James McCallum, Esq., all of Euphrasia.

MCNAUGHTON—FLEMMING.—At the residence of the bride's father, Montrose, Man., on Thursday, 8th of January, 1883, by the Rev. D. McConnell, John McNaughton, Esq., to Miss Mary J., eldest daughter of John Flemming, Esq., formerly merchant of Berkeley.

DIED.

MADILL—In Maxwell, on Feb. 3rd, Nancy, youngest daughter of the late William Madill, of the township of Osprey, aged 29 years.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $1.00 to $1.03; Spring $1.02 to $1 05; Barley, 58c; Peas, 68; Oats, 38c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 22c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $10.00; Pork, 7.50 to 7.75; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $1.90 to $2.10

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.99 to $1.02; Spring, $1.01 to $1.04; Barley, 57c; Peas, 67c; Oats, 37c Butter, 17c; Eggs, 21c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $10.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7 70

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.102 to $1.04; Spring, $1.08 to $1.12; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 46c Peas, 70c to 75c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag, 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 30c to 32c.

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mill

UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Gristing and Chopping done every working day, Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."
Feb. 22nd, 1883. 128-81

ABSTRACT STATEMENT

OF THE

TREASURER'S RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURE

FOR THE

TOWNSHIP OF GLENELG

For the Year Ending 31st Dec., 1882.

DR RECEIPTS.			EXPENDITURE.
To balance from 1881	$ 62	59½	By Elections
" Assessments	8449	16	" Taxes Refunded
" Tavern License Fund	206	75	" Co. Rate paid Co. Treasurer
" Clergy Reserve Fund	35	60	" Roads and Bridges
" Improvement Fund	3590	38	" School Section Rates
" Interest	10	27	" Salaries
" Non-resident Land Tax	765	65	" Debenture Account
" Miscellaneous	43	75	" Sinking Fund
			" Insurance
			" Printing, Stationery, &c.
			" Charities
			" Miscellaneous
			" Balance on hand
	$13164	15½

We, the undersigned Auditors, certify that we have examined the Treasurer's Books for 1882, of the Municipality of Glenelg, and found them correct and in accordance with vouchers produced. Balance on hand 31st December, 1882, as above.

CHRISTOPHER FIRTH,
J. Y. MOFFAT, } Auditors

AN ACROSTIC.

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer [and Fall
Right splendid good oil.
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use,
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm.
127-153.

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P O. 117-tf.

Farm for Sale.

That well know farm, known by the name of "Mount Royal Farm," lots 117 and 118, containing 100 acres, on the 2nd concession north-east of the Toronto and Sydenham gravel road, in the township of Artemesia county of Grey, 3½ miles from the thriving village of Markdale on the T. G. & B. railway; 5½ miles from the flourishing village of Flesherton, on the same line of railway. Good roads all around, and plenty of grist and saw mills in the immediate vicinity. Soil—clay loam; very little stone on the place, and what stones there was are nearly all taken out and utilized in fences, Nearly all the fences are first class cedar, stone underneath to keep them off the ground This is the best laid out farm in the county. There is a lane two rods wide right in the centre leading from the road to the bush. There is a row of ten acre fields on each side of the lane; good new gates and bars on all the fields; 80 acres under cultivation; 20 acres good hardwood bush. It is all good dry workable land, just rolling enough for good drainage; 60 acres is fit for all sorts of machinery, and 20 acres is stumpy land. Ten acres of fall wheat in the ground, well summer fallowed, 15 acres seeded last spring with clover and timothy for meadow, ten acres of pasture, ten acres of good rich sod to break up for summer fallow this season, the rest of the clearing is well plowed for spring crop. This farm is in the best state of cultivation and guaranteed to be free from all wild stuff such as wild oats, wild mustard, cockle, chess or wild grass, and very few thistles. This is a good place for all kinds of grain and grass. Last season (1882) I had 600 bushels of wheat off 20 acres—10 acres of fall and 10 of spring wheat. Other grain and roots in proportion. All good frame buildings on the premises; good frame house well finished off, good stone cellar all underneath barn, and cattle stable 48x72 feet all on stone foundation, shed 20x48 feet, the cattle stable is the neatest in the county, good driving house 34x39 feet, also a good well on the place. This place took the bronze medal for being the best managed farm in East Grey in 1882. This is a very rare chance for any live, tasty and particular man that wants a neat farm and good home. Possession can be given this spring. Satisfactory reasons can be given for selling. Haven't got the Manitoba craze and not going there to be frozen to death. For further particulars apply to John Ford, occupant and proprietor, on the premises, or by letter with 3 cent postage stamp enclosed.

JOHN FORD,
"Mount Royal Farm."
Markdale P. O., Ont.
Markdale, Jan. 29th, 1882. 125 3t

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers; address J. M. REEVES, 43 Cheatham St., N. Y.

Get your Job Work done at this office.

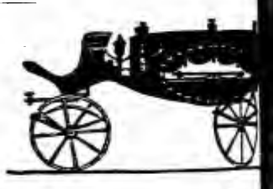
Horse For Sale.

A GOOD GENERAL PURPOSE 7 years old warranted sound, by the undersigned will be sold cash. Apply to

JAMES
Opposite the Irish Lake

Flesherton Steam Grist Mill

Is now giving Good Satisfaction.



—o—

Chopping done
Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST
THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Cloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and Hours from

GEO. GRANT
MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality, all at prices.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD. HOLLAND 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Markdale worth. A bargain will be given. For above property, for particulars apply to Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. Kingsburne.

Notice to Debtors.

ALL PERSONS INDEBTED TO are requested to call and settle with Mr. Turner, of the Medical Hall, or with Armstrong, and save trouble. A receipt for either of the above will be acknowledged by me 127-29. T. S. SPROULE.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES—being Lot 20, Concession 6 Glenelg. This farm is three miles from Markdale, with about 40 acres cleared, balance, hardwood bush with sufficient timber for fencing the place It is well watered with never failing stream of spring water. Young orchard, log house, and stables. Title deed can be given. For price and terms apply to MRS. MIGHT, on the premises, Markdale P. O.—Also a farm waggon and horse rake for sale

TEMENT

ND EXPENDI

CLENELG

Dec., 1882.

EXPENDITURE.

ns.....
Refunded..... te paid Co. Treasurer. and Bridges.....
Section Rates.....
s..... ue Account.....
Fund..... ce.....
g, Stationery, &c..... es.....
aneous.....
on hand.....

xamined the Treasure correct and in accord
2, as above.

R FIRTH, } And

rse For Sale
GENERAL PURPOSE
old warranted sound.
ersigned will be sold
y to JAMES K
osite the Irish Lake, Ar
P.O.

herton Stati

M GRIST M w giving Gene Satisfaction.
—o—ng done e orking day,
—o—
YOUR GRIST
E SAME DAY.
EO. MOORHOUS

ertakin

ets, urial Pobes,
Gloves,
Crapes,
—AND—hings for Funer
Shortest Notice, and Hours from GRAN RKDALE.
ll assorted stock of NITUR
e quality. all at mode
FOR SALE.
E. G. RD., HOLL
eres cleared, well w earing good log house
2 half miles from C ain will be given in r particulars apply to or to Chas. King, to Debtors.

TS INDEBMED TO
d to call and settle Medical Hall, or with ve trouble. A receipt e will be acknowledged
T. S. SPROULE, M.

FOR SALE.

being Lot 20, Con.
This farm is three
th about 40 acres cle bush with sufficient lace It is well wa stream of spring w house, and stables.
For price and terms
IT on the premises.
farm waggon and fan

oll & Brown

s Mr. oll is leaving Mark-o go into the Wholesale llery Business in Toronto, not wishing to leave Mark-altogether,) he has entered partnership with Mr. W.
ROWN, late of Flesherton,
s a practical watchmaker weller of over 15 years ex-ce, and comes with the best commendations from some of ading watchmakers in the nion.

. Brown will carry on the ess in Markdale.

l work entrusted to him will e in a workmanlike man-

l work will be guaranteed, ll goods sold will be found resented, or money refund-

oll & Brown's,

e People's Watchmakers & Jewellers

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

cal and Other Items.

HOOL BOOKS.—All the auth-text books for common schools for the Medical Hall.—A. TURNER & Co.

Wiarton Echo of the 16th inst.,
hey have had no railway com-cation since the 6th, in that place, to the storm, and great depth
w.

railway is doing about the best in Canada, the company and ers deserve credit for the vigoranner in which they have labor-keep the road open.

the first time in the history of nadian Parliament, father and are sitting as members of the House of Commons. The genn who occupy this relation the the other are Sir. Charles Tup and Mr. Charles H. Tupper, mem-r Picton.

man named Sexsmith, supposed from Mount Forest, Ont., while ng in a well on the farm of John n, six miles west of Wolseley, Regina, N. W. T., struck gas, fore the rope could be lowered came powerless, owing to the
The body has not yet been reed.

ou wish to subscribe, or renew subscription for the daily or y Mail, or Globe, Daily World,
ed Star, Farmers Advocate,
e Farmer, American Agricul-
, or Scientific American, hand subscription to us at the STAN-office, we will forward it and our own risk.

e concert given by the Ball Family Jubilee Singers, in the Methodist ch, on Thurday evening, was well ded notwithstanding the political ng in the village at the same Their selections were render-an able and masterly manner, ere received with applause. Reof concert $25.75.

e Farmers Advocate for Februto hand, and is in no degree be-the former issue, in valuable in ation for the agriculturists. The rietor, offers $100, in prizes for best variety of fall and spring s to be competed for at the next cial exhibition, commencing at on 24th September 24, 1883. Genetems of interest on the farm, try, Dairy, Stock, Garden and ard, Apiary with the usual inter-matter for the Household and dy Circle may be found under r respective headings. $1.00 per um; subscriptions taken at this

NOWED UP.—The railway has been ed up nearly all the time this ter and we can neither get mails right. Our merchants are sufng for goods which they ordered e than a month ago; but there ms to be no prospect of getting
m. One merchant bought some ds payable in thirty days and the e for payment arrives before the ds are received. Ordering by ex-ss is no better as there has been express goods sent for about 2
eks. Talk of an ox team express!
could depend upon receiving ght by that conveyance but the way is utterly useless at present.
Hanover Post.

Osprey coun cil will meet at Feverssham next Monday, the 26th.

First class flour and all kinds of feed at Barrhead Mills again.

New importations now on the way from Europe for W. J. McFarland.

M. Richardson's Annual Sale commences first of March, at Flesherton.

GOOD NEWS FOR EVERYBODY.—Barr-head Mills thawed out, and running on full time.

One car load of sugar just received by W. J McFarland. Purchased before recent advance.

Hunter and Blyth are nominated for South Groy, but Trimble & Wright have won a victory in drawing the crowd.

An old coat, vest, and hat was found on Monday morning near where the fire occurred. The party who lost them can have the same by calling at Trimble & Wright's.

A rapid thaw set in on Thursday, and continued until Friday night, during which time a great quantity of rain fell filling cisterns, and even cel-lers in some cases. The water famine is now past but the roads are in a bad condition.

Who are you going to vote for?
Well, they say Sir John gives good markets, but Trimble & Wright give the best bargain in goods.

Madam Wilson has been in Mark-dale for some weeks past, and appears to have a good knowledge of phrenology, besides telling with wonderful accuracy past happenings and present circumstances, also foretelling future events as to prosperity or adversity, &c.

It pays to keep a good breed of stock. Mr. Thos. Boland recently killed and dressed two hogs, 5 months old less one day, which weighed 298½ lbs. They were a cross between Berkshire and Poland China, and were purchased from Mr. Jas. Fair, 6th line St. Vincent.

The weather continues stormy—however, you need not suffer from cold when you can purchase a suit of clothes, boots, cap and mits for $7.75.

The Chesley Enterprise comes now to hand in an improved form having changed recently to an eight page 40 column. It is a creditable sheet, and the efforts of the Editor, Mr. J. Stephens, will no doubt be appreciated by the citizens of that prosperous village and vicinity.

M. Richardson's Sale of dry goods and clothing commences 1st of March, at Flesherton.

Mr. Gurney, the Durham bank teller, who decamped recently leaving a shortage of $19.000, has been captured at Buffalo by detectives who were sent out. Gurney disgorged to the amount of $15,100 and his bonds covered the balance, so that the bank is fully indemnified from loss. The prisoner will likely be extradited and prosecut ed according to Canadian law.

Talk as you please in favor of doctors and lawyers for M. P. P., but the farmers have decided unanimously in favor of Trimble & Wright for cheap goods.

The Stayner Sun says the N. & N.
W. Ry., has braved the storms and experienced but slight delays, and is the only road which makes any pretence to run on time, and in the sec ond item following in the same issue affirms that Stayner is for all practical purposes, the terminus of the railway, trains being unable to reach Collingwood owing to the drift. A discrepency somewhere.

Mr. Lauder's meeting in Dufferin
Hall, Markdale, on Friday evening, the 16th was fairly attended. Mr. A.
Elliott was voted to the chair, and called the meeting to order about 8 o'clock. Mr. McColeman, Reeve of Collingwood Tp., and the candidates,
Messrs. Lauder and Miles addressed the meeting on the questions of the day. There was good order maintained, and the speakers received a good hearing. A majority of those present appeared in favour of Mr. Lauder.

March is generally a quiet month.
M. Richardson, of Flesherton, always makes it lively with his Annual Sale.

The Editor of the Flesherton Ad- vance told his readers two weeks ago, that we, (of the STANDARD,) had lost about 250 of our old subscribers, and that we didn't get a new one. Now, Mr. Fawcett knew the above statement was false and misleading. The STANDARD never had as large a circulation as at present, and its popularity is unquestioned by the public, who are the judges. Last week he made the announcement that we had buried our neutrality in politics, which statement is also without foundation.
We can say with due respect to truth that our position as a public journal is unchanged from the commencement.
Not so the Advance.

TO THE

Electors of East Riding

OF THE

COUNTY OF GREY.

GENTLEMEN,—

Having been solicited by a large number of the Electors of this Riding to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages, for the representation of this Riding, in the House of Assembly of Ontario, at the approaching election, I have consented to become a candidate for the following reasons:

1. There is a growing feeling in this constituency that it should be represented by a resident farmer, and not, as at present, by a Toronto lawyer whose interests (owing to his profession and location) cannot be identical with yours.

2. I am a farmer, and have been a resident of this County for thirty-six years. Having represented the Township of Euphrasia in the County Council for ten years I flatter myself that I am well acquainted with your wants and requirements and will, if elected, use my utmost endeavors to further your interests.

I may state that I have been identified with the Liberal Conservative party, although always advocating independent principles—refusing on all occasions to accept the errors in Legislation of my own party, as wise and useful, or to denounce the best acts of my opponents to be injurious and "corrupt," as at present practised by party politicians.

If elected I will vote and act for the best interests of my constituents and the Province of Ontario, irrespective of party—I will support "measures and not party."

I will use my best and most earnest endeavors to have the jurisdiction of the Division Court extended from $200, as at present, to $400; and also to have our Municipal Assessment and Line Fence Acts amended so that many of our local differences can be settled at home, without the aid of Lawyers and expensive litigation.

Believing the time has come when Farmers, independent of party cries, will assert their independence by electing one of themselves. I confidently solicit your vote and influence at the approaching election.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Yours ob'd. Servant,
ROBERT MYLES.

Euphrasia, Feb. 12, 1883.

WANTED

—AT—

The Eclipse Mill.

100,000 ft. Cherry, 500,000 ft. Hemlock, 100,000 ft. Baswood, also elm and maple sawlogs, and 800 cords cedar bolts 4 feet 8 inches long for which the Highest price will be paid.

Sparling Brothers, Proprietors.
125-129

J. W. FORD.

MARKDALE

FLOUR MILLS

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES, PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences, Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,
P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York
110-62.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

MARKDALE
Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

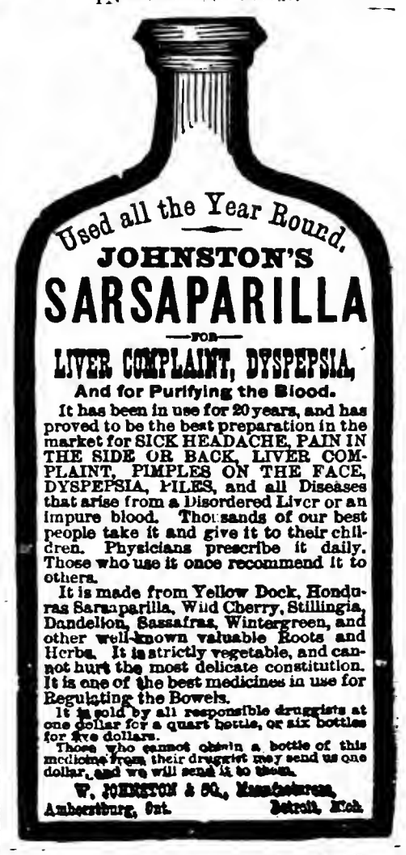
Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street, opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,



Harness Establishment!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

It has been in use for 20 years, and has proved to be the best preparation in the market for SICK HEADACHE, PAIN IN THE SIDE OR BACK, LIVER COMPLAINT, PIMPLES ON THE FACE, DYSPEPSIA, PILES, and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver or an Impure blood. Thousands of our best people take it and give it to their children. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

It is made from Yellow Dock, Honduras Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Stillingia, Dandelion, Sassafras, Wintergreen, and other well-known valuable Roots and Herbs. It is strictly vegetable, and cannot hurt the most delicate constitution. It is one of the best medicines in use for Regulating the Bowels.

It is sold by all responsible druggists at one dollar for a quart bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

Those who cannot obtain a bottle of this medicine from their druggist may send us one dollar, and we will send it to them.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Manufacturers,
Amherstburg, Ont. Detroit, Mich.

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 122 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to

M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

An Inmate of a Female Institute Tells How Misses Are "Fitted for Life." —An Interrupted Wedding.

A Model Woman—Small-Talk For the Ladies, &c., &c.

A Wrestle With the Pots.

The following is an extract from a letter from an inmate of Packer Institute, Brooklyn:

"You know they fit us for life here—teach us French, ceramics, music, and housework. To-day I took my first real lesson in housework. Heretofore I had a taste of it in being detailed to pare apples for half an hour after supper. To-day I was "called off"—that is, instead of working regularly after supper at the apple business, I had to take another girl's work after dinner. It was my first experience with what the girls call "the black artillery," and may it be my last! The "black artillery," you must know, are great black iron steam-kettles in which they cook our meals. There are six of them. They are ugly-looking vats. They had been used for dinner, and of course they had to be cleaned. I had never seen the girls cleaning them and I hadn't the remotest idea how the thing was done. I was too proud to ask. So I set to work with two mops, an iron dishcloth, a dish towel and some soap. The things are so deep that I had to balance myself on their rims. With heels waving in the air, every now and then I made a frantic dip at the bottom. The result of these gymnastics was a smutted apron, a sprained back, and a very unsettled temper.

When I got through diving into the kettle, I tried to regain my equilibrium. Shades of misery! My luckless heels capsized a great pail of dirty water used for cleansing the vat. This brought the matron down on me in the "shake of ago at's foot." She ordered me to mop it up instanter, and not to track around in it; and I was actually forced to come down to the indignity of mopping up that dirty, greasy stuff. I flopped around wildly with the pail and mop for about twenty minutes, but my spirit was broken. I was ten minutes late for hall, having worked like a slave for an hour and a half and got one kettle cleaned. Wild horses couldn't have dragged me back to attack the other five.

However, I have had two consolations. One is that I had seventy-five minutes plus time, and the other is that I left the pipe all stopped up with grease. I had to ladle out every drop I put into the kettle. When they go to cook anything there'll be a flood big enough to float everyone of the miserable things off to Jericho. One of the rules of the institution is an enforced half hour of meditation in a closet every afternoon. I don't think I ever spent a more joyous thirty minutes.

We have a housefull of visitors, among them a young Englishman and his wife, who have come on from India to finish an education for missionary life. They have been here about three years. He expects to graduate from the Boston University in a year more, and then they will return to India. Meanwhile, she will remain here partly as a scholar and partly to learn how to conduct a girl's school. It seems so strange to have a married woman in classes with us. She is a thin little creature, with the worried, anxious, deprecating face which all missionaries' wives seem to wear.

The Rev. Joseph Cook lectured here about a week ago. I never heard such lecturing in my life. I was just completely spellbound. The faculty was so dull of comprehension that they thought he meant them, but the girls knew better. He meant us, didn't he?

An Interrupted Wedding.

A most remarkable hitch took place at a wedding ceremony in the town of Aastad, Minn., which is thus described by a correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press: A large party of friends had assembled at the house of one of the town's wealthy farmers to witness the ceremony of a couple about to be married. The Lutheran minister was to perform the rites, and in accordance with the rules of the church asked the groom if he was heart-free. "Yes," came the answer, when the company were thrown into consternation by the voice of a young lady present. "You lie, sir," cried she, in accents not to be mistaken. The words acted like a bombshell thrown amongs the former happy throng, and when the minister asked for an explanation, letters were produced to prove that she was also engaged to the young man, and the affair looked rather critical for the time being. The rejected sweetheart, however, after expostulation, consented to the ceremony being performed, if the gentleman would apologize and ask to be forgiven, which he humbly did; but the minister had by this time left in disgust, and trouble again stared them in the face until a justice of the peace was found among the invited guests, and the fond lovers were made one according to the laws of Minnesota.

A Calling that Women Can't Fill.

A great deal, observes the Boston Journal, has been said of late in the interest of those very delicately-constituted women who can not submit with equanimity to the operation of having their new shoes tied on for them by the male clerks at the shoe stores. It has been suggested that young women be employed in these establishments for such purposes. But the insufficient physical power of women would evidently prevent the application of this reform, for anybody who has tried it knows that the process of putting on ladies' shoes requires an immense expenditure of muscular force. This fact is chargeable to the well-known habit of women with No. 5 feet crowding in No 3 shoes, and protesting that the same are "miles and miles too big" for them. A muscular clerk—and it is noticeable that shoe-store clerks are very powerful in their arms—can aid and abet this deception by using the strength with which he has happily been endowed, but a young woman clerk would be obliged to recommend a shoe the size of the buyer's foot, and thus lose to the store a great amount of custom.

A Model Woman.

Mrs. Emma B. Drexel, of Philadelphia, who died recently, was such a woman that the world could not afford to part with. This lady paid the rent of more than 150 families and distributed among the poor over $20,000 a year. Every case of deserving charity which appealed to her for assistance received prompt attention. The Philadelphia Times states that "she employed a woman to institute inquiry into the needs of each applicant, and once every week dispensed groceries, clothing, and money to the poor, who gathered every Tuesday in the rear of her residence. Although a strict member of the Roman Catholic church, no discrimination was made on account of religion." There are few who have the means of doing as this good woman did, and most of that few lack the inclination. We are aware that "comparisons are odious," but one can not help contrasting the life of Mrs. Drexel with the empty frivolous existence of the average society lady.

To Women Who Want to Write.

It requires a certain type of ability to be a successful newspaper writer, says the Boston Herald, and the woman who wants to turn from sewing because it doesn't pay to writing because it does pay shows herself utterly unappreciative of the work. Newspaper correspondence is not a trade, a mechanicism, an industrial pursuit, to be chosen on the ground of its being a remunerative vocation. Like all forms of literary work, it chooses its votaries to a degree rather than waits to be chosen by them. If a woman is born with a talent to write she will write—there is no possible doubt about that.

The President's Sister.

The Philadelphi Times says: While President Arthur has been commended from the time of his accession to the presidency as the most faultlessly dressed man wherever he appeared, his sister, Mrs. McElroy, and her daughter appear to be indifferent to matters of personal adornment, and prefer great simplicity in dress. Although as ladies of the White House they are always the "observed of all observers," when they appear in society they are invariably the most plainly dressed of any ladies seen at an entertainment. They have attended most of the large parties in Washington recently, and Miss McElroy, who is a debutante, appears greatly to enjoy dancing. Mrs. McElroy always wears black or black and white.

She Didn't Die.

All in the fashionable world, says London Life, will remember that some months ago a charming and accomplished young lady met with a frightful accident through her dress catching fire. So severe were her injuries that life was despaired of, and the officiating clergyman of a well-known West end church was sent for to administer spiritual consolation to one believed to be moribund. To him the lady said: "As I know that I am dying, I have a secret I will disclose to you only. I love you with my whole heart." The prompt reply was: "You must not die, but live to be my wife." I am glad to add that this week the lady was married to the object of her affections.

CHIT-CHAT.

A young lady is not like a tree. You can not estimate her age by counting her rings.

The real glove fight occurs when a woman tries to put on a No. 6 glove on a No. 7 hand.

Girls are more courageous than men. They are ready to make a match with a fellow twice their size.

People say that blackberries are good for the complexion; but who wants a blackberry complexion?

An economical woman after the death of her infant used the remainder of her soothing syrup to poison rats.

It has now become fashionable in eastern cities to be married as early as 6 o'clock in the morning. This gives a fellow a long day to repent in.

They are raising a row with a young man in New Jersey who was engaged to marry thirteen different girls. It's getting so a man can't have any fun in all that state.

The question as to who is the handsomest woman in America is still in dispute, but thousands of girls believe that if it wasn't for their freckles they'd justly be entitled to that distinction.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton advises billiards for girls. Elizabeth would nevertheless be shocked to see a girl come home with the front of her dress all chalk, and bearing an odor of strong drink.

No wonder the matrimonial associations died out. It is almost too much to ask a young man to fall in love with a girl in an india-rubber overcoat and gum shoes. And yet the girls are compelled to wear them.

The queen of Servia writes all her husband's letters while he plays billiards. There are not many wives in this country who would do that much, but we can point out a few who make it a point to read all their husband's letters. And wise women they are, too.

A Washington lady went to a 12 o'clock breakfast, then to a 2 o'clock lunch, next to a "tea" from 4 to 6, then to a dinner at 7.30, and afterward to a reception, and finally to a german. When she got home she found her husband rocking the cradle with one hand and trying to darn his stockings with the other.

The young lady of the adjective was standing on the depot platform recently, and casting a wistful glance across the barren fields, sighed wearily: "It is just really horridly awfully mean that such charming, lovely fun on the deliciously smooth ice should be destroyed by the hateful glare of a scorching sun."

"No," exclaimed Mr. Penhecker, "No, madam, I object most decidedly. Once and for all I say it—the girls shall not be taught foreign languages." "And why not, pray?" said Mrs. P., with withering sarcasm. "Because," said Mr. P., with more withering sarcasm, "because, Mrs. P., one tongue is enough for any woman!"

"I do wish you would come home earlier," said a woman to her husband. "I am afraid to stay alone. I always imagine that there's somebody in the house, but when you come I know there ain't."

WISE SAYINGS.

The tongue is the worst part of a bad servant.—Juvenal.

Worth begets in base minds envy; in great souls, emulation.—Fielding.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam.—Milton.

As every thread of gold is valuable, so is every minute of time.—Rev. John Mason.

Zeal without humanity is like a ship without a rudder, liable to be stranded at any moment.—Feltham.

Talking and eloquence are not the same; to speak, and to speak well are two things.—Ben Jonson.

In character, in manners, in style, in all things the supreme excellence is simplicity.—Longfellow.

Mere sensibility is not true taste, but sensibility to real excellence is.—Hazlitt.

What fate imposes men must needs abide;
It boots not to resist both wind and tide.

All the good maxims which are in the world fail when applied to one's self.—Pascal.

Borrowed thoughts, like borrowed money, only shows the poverty of the borrower.—Lady Blessington.

Obstinacy and heat in argument are surest proofs of folly.—Montaigne.

It is foolish to strive with what we cannot avoid; we are born subjects, and to obey God in perfect liberty; he that does this shall be free, safe and quiet; all his actions succeed to his wishes.—Seneca.

The lamp of genius though my nature lit,
If not protected, pruned and fed with care,
Soon dies or runs to waste with fittul glare.
—Wilcox.

Man is, beyond dispute, the most excellent of creature beings, and the vilest animal is a dog; but the sages agree that a grateful dog is better than an ungrateful man.—Saadie.

The more we have to read the more we have learned, the more we have meditated the better conditioned we are to affirm that we know nothing.

God planted fear in the soul as truly as he planted hope or courage. Fear is a kind of bell or gong which rings the mind into quick life and avoidance upon the approach of danger. It is the soul's signal for rallying.—Beecher.

Adversity, sage, useful guest,
Severe instructor, but the best;
It is from thee alone we know
Justly to value things below.
—Somerville.

A New Hampshire man tied a four-pound stone to the end of a cow's tail to keep that member quiet while he milked her. After they got the fragments of teeth and blood, etc., out of his mouth and put arnica and a bandgage on his jaw, he stated that he would never repeat the experiment as the end of the tail naturally hit as hard a blow as he cared to endure.

The Fredericton (New Brunswick, Can.) Reporter says: "Nobody can but admire the persistent enterprise manifested by the owners of St. Jacobs Oil in keeping the name before the public. It received a big 'send off' in the House the other day by the Hon. Mr. Perley, who warned his colleagues in the Government of the danger of Bear Killers receiving two bounties for one nose; the judicious use of the Oil causing rapid growth."

It has long been claimed that using coffee and tea caused nervousness, and now along comes a doctor and denies the statement entirely. The real cause of the greatest nervousness among married men is the expectation of finding their wives awake when they come home late.

A Wise Maxim.

"A stitch in time saves nine," not only in making garments, but also in mending health. If Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam were used in the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs, many a "stitch in the side" and many a case of torn lungs might be avoided, that neglected, rapidly develope into irreparable Consumption. 21.

The Kansas City Journal is printing a serial story entitled "Four Hearts." It is perhaps unnecessary to inform our sagacious constituency that this is the mild, epinecine alias for a royal bobtail flush.

The soft and silky appearance given to the hair by the use of Carboline, the natural hair restorer and dressing, as now improved and perfected, is the subject of general remark by all who have witnessed its effects upon the human head. Sold by all dealers in drugs.

A witness who had been called to give evidence as to the defendant's character, testified that he always moved in good society. "What do you mean by good society?" asked the court. "Society in which it is fashionable to speak evil," promptly answered the witness.

NOTICE.

Each bottle of BRIGGS' ELECTRIC OIL will hereafter be accompanied by a corkscrew, as it is important that the cork should be preserved and the bottle well corked when not in use to retain the strength of the medicine. It cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney Complaints or of the Urinary Organs; cures complaints arising from Colds, such as Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Diptheria, Cough, Asthma and Difficult Breathing.

Some genius has invented a machine to play pianos. This will fill a long felt want. When two young people of opposite sex are in the parlor in the evening the old lady don't begin to saunter in until the piano stops.

W. T. Bray, Pharmacist, Wingham, Ont., writes that the sale of Burdock Blood Bitters has very largely increased in that locality, and adds that he hears very favorable opinions expressed regarding it, and, if time permited, could send many names of benefited parties, 22.

"You grow more like your father every day," sharply exclaimed the mother, irritated at some slight misconduct of her seven-year old boy. For three days after that the boy went to the looking glass a dozen times to see if his nose was getting red like his father's.

Vegetine.—"The life of all flesh is the blood thereof." And no one can possibly be healthy when the blood is diseased. Vegetine is composed of substances identical with healthy blood; and when taken into the system for the cure of disease, it is absorbed, and replaces the deficiency which caused the disease.

"Became Sound and Well."

R. V. Pierce, M. D.: Dear Sir—My wife who had been ill for over two years, and had tried many other medicines, became sound and well by using your "Favorite Prescription." My niece was also cured by its use, after several physicians had failed to do her any good. Yours truly,
THOMAS J. METHVIN,
Hatcher's Station, Ga.

Evansville has a girl who can fairly make a piano talk. The other evening she played the "Ice King," and everybody in the room got up and went to the stove to warm their feet.

No Trouble to Swallow.

Dr. Pierce's "Pellets" (the original "little liver pills") and no pain or griping. Cure sick or bilious headache, sour stomach, and cleanse the system and bowels. 25 cents a vial.

"Sweet are the uses of adversity," exclaimed the receiver as he pocketed sixty per cent of the estate.

"Their Occupation Gone."

R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: was attacked with congestion of the lungs, soreness over the liver, severe pain in the joints, a burning fever, and general giving away of the whole system. Falling to find relief in remedies prescribed, I tried your "Golden Medical Discovery." It effected my entire cure. Your medicines have only to be used to be appreciated. If every family would give them a trial, nine tenths of the doctors would, like Othello, find their occupation gone. Yours truly,
L. B. McMILLAN, M. D., Breesport, N.Y.

An exchange says it makes a woman sick to keep a secret. He must have guessed at it, as it has never yet been put to a practical test.

A Sure Thing

In the treatment of Chronic diseases with that great system renovator and restorative, Burdock Blood Bitters, there is no uncertainty as to its action, its curative powers are speedily manifest by its marked effect upon the Liver, the Bowels and the Kidneys. Every dose performing its work in a perceptible manner. 24.

A man should never tell his wife that he is called away on some "pressing" business. He should always use the word "urgent;" it sounds better.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

"Enquirer:" "What is the precise meaning of the word intermittent?' Did you never try to flirt with a woman in a rocking chair at a window? That's it.

Extract from a letter just received (December, 1882,) by Mrs. Thos. Murray, from her husband, Mr. Thos. Murray, who was for many years' Bridge Conductor for the Great Western Railway at Niagara Falls, afterwards one of the contractors on the enlarged Welland Canal (Section 12), and is now in Northern Michigan, looking after his timber interests in that country. He writes:

"Tell Sutherland I am now starting for the woods with 36 men, where I will be all winter, and that I am now without ache or pain in either my knees or arms (something I have not known for years), thanks to the two bottles of Rheumatine which I procured from him before leaving St. Catharines."

An old adage says: "Hell is paved with good intentions," and it's the only place of which we ever heard that is. Generally paving is done with the intention of cheating the city.

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil taken internally and applied according to the special directions, this is the great household panacea for Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Pain Inflammation &c. 23.

The average age of a hog is only fifteen years. This always consoles us when we see a man spreading himself out over four seats in a railway compartment.

ELECTRIC OIL NOT ECLECTRIC OIL.

The two words have very different significations, as will be seen by reference to Webster. The Eclectric Oil has no claim to Electric properties only by the picture on the wrapper, which looks like begging the question. The popularity of Briggs' Electric Oil is such as to induce unprincipled persons to appropriate all the law will allow them to do. The proprietors of the Electric Oil have no claim to the words Eclectric or Thomas; but to the words Briggs' Electric they do lay claim by right, as they have made them of value to themselves.

There is many a rich man who is no better off than his impecunious brother. The latter has no food for his stomach, and the former no stomach for his food.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing regulator and purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your druggist for proof. 20.

A.P. 113

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY

FOR PAIN.

Relieves and cures

RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumbago,
BACKACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE,
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELLINGS,
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Bruises,
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCALDS,
And all other bodily aches and pains.

FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.

The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.)
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

SETTLERS

Going to Manitoba, the Great North-West, California, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska, should not fail to get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets FREE by enclosing 3 cent stamps and stating what part of the country they wish Particulars. Address,

Department of Emigration,
33 York Street, Toronto,
W. C. CALLAWAY, Manager.

Keep it in your family. The best remedy for accidents and emergencies. Cuts, Scalds, Bruises, Soreness, Sprains, Croup, Rheumatism, Chilblains, Frost Bites, Soreness of all kinds, is Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the healing remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil.

When a certain bachelor was asked by members of the Bachelor Club to join them up by sending him as a wedding present a copy of "Paradise Lost."

HOLD ON; HOLD FAST.—Patience and Perseverance. Count not the failures. Keep hoping and trying again. Failure after failure comes to many, but it is then despondency comes and they are apt to give up. Corns come soon after the buoyant and bounding time of youth and hung on as with a death grip to love for the almighty dollar. In which case, sometimes, instruments we nearly chipped and burned off with the knife. Fortunately as a very last experiment, many have commenced the use of Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Extractor. Perseverance rewarded by the corns entirely disappeared as by magic. We can and do cheerfully testify that it is the only sure remedy. Try it, friend. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston.

Vegetine

Superior to any Family Medicine

DOCTORS GAVE HER UP

VEGETINE CURED HER

MONTREAL, P. Q., Oct. 6, 1880.

MR. H. R. STEVENS Dear Sir, About two years ago I was troubled with a disease called Humor which settled on my lungs and I was confined to my bed with a severe cough. I consulted three of the best physicians in Boston, but instead of giving me up treating me, said there was no cure, and they could do nothing more for me. A friend who had used Vegetine in his family recommended me to try it. I procured a bottle and before finishing the first bottle found myself entirely cured, and have had another attack of scrofula for nine years. After that period I had to get some medicine, but it quickly restored me to health, and I have not had a third attack. My son is nine years old, and since he was born I have given him the virtues of your medicine, have recommended it to my children and grandchildren, and have recommended it to my friends. The result has been invariably all that could be desired. Previous to my first trial of the Vegetine I had a cancer removed and scrofulous humor cut on me, but none have appeared since. I believe it superior to any of the Sarsaparillas in use.

MARIA J. KING.

I can vouch for the above statement in particular, and consider Vegetine a good Family Medicine now in use.

MOSES BALL, Husband of MARIA J. KING.

FOR SKIN DISEASES

TORONTO, July 6, 1880.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir Having been troubled with a skin disease, breaking out into sores on my face, etc., I was recommended to try VEGETINE. I am happy to inform you that it has completely cured me after taking a few bottles. I can highly recommend it to any one who is troubled with skin disease.

Yours faithfully, CHAS. E.

We hereby certify that the above testimonial is true, the man being in our employ at the time he was sick. WESTMAN & BAKER, 119 Bay Street.

Vegetine

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Toronto

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of outside woodwork, Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, at low prices. Oakville, Ont.

ROOFING MATERIALS, CARPET Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS', 9 Adelaide St., East, Toronto.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE of or purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or write for particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55½ Adelaide St. East. Business Agent and Valuer.

CALLING CARDS—25 BEAUTIFUL Chromo cards with name 10c. Agents wanted, complete outfit, 37 samples, 10c. Big profits. Queen City Card House, 161 King St. West, Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with amplitude. C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

CARDS. $5, or $10 lots. By post, 50c. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED $10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth, heavy and very tough, new price list. J. G. WOOD & CO.; Steam Printers, Toronto.

LICENSED HOTEL FOR SALE—Lake Rosseau—frame, 20 rooms, 1 acre land, price $1,000; $1,000 cash, balance to purchaser at 6 per cent. Apply Hotel, Rosseau P. O., Ont.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION Co-operative Life Assurance. Provides families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from date until January. PROF. SMITH, F.R.C.V.S., Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

OWNERS OF FARM LANDS, CITY or Town Properties, desiring to realize, find purchasers by sending me full description, lowest prices, and terms of payment. J. WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto St., Toronto.

FOR SALE—SAW MILL MACHINERY including oscillating stock and gangs of steel and iron, with Pitman shaft, pulleys, fly wheels, and shafts complete. RATHBUN & SON, Deseronto, Ont.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE. The powerful tug Jessie, in good order, the schooner Josephine; the schooner Upper; also a number of improved farms. Apply to L. McCALLUM, Stromness P. O.

GENERAL STORE AND STOCK FOR sale in lumbering district—business over $15,000 per annum, principally cash—largely increased; reason for selling, has other business. TRUTH Office.

YORK FARMERS COLONY, N. W. Free Homesteads with preemption now open in this fertile tract. For present settlers, improvements now going on, and full information address Head Office, 24 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers dealed as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director.

RUSSIAN MULBERRY—INTRODUCED from Russia; perfectly hardy throughout Ontario; bears when two years old. Trees densely as to exclude the leaves; price, 50 cents per 100, and delivered at railroad station—3 feet high, 60 cents; 3 to 4 feet, 75 cents; supply limited. Large orders booked in rotation as received. Also grapevines, both old and new varieties, at very low rates. Send for price list. J. W. BOSTON, Campbellford Nuseries and Vineyards, Ontario.

FOR SALE—WATER POWER SAW MILL, Shingle, Lath, and Cider Mills; also a rock crusher, in good order; business well established, large stock of logs; dwelling house and about ten acres of land just south of the pier. Reasons to enable us to accept an offer in the West. We offer the above for a short time for the low value; $2,500 down; balance on easy payments. Apply on the premises, or by letter to P. O. W. & I. LEARY, Proprietors.

S SACRIFICE.

OR,

or Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXV. (CONTINUED).

e of opinion that the boy has been ignorance of the manner of his ; that for reasons of his Arundel Evringham has never told t seems to me that he ought to know said Muriel, thoughtfully.

s not our place to tell him, Muriel. If chance to mention Louie's name to parents, and they should think it tell him, well and good, but it is fair, my darling."

quietly and calmly he talked, just as it was really no affair of his. Yet it seem to you or me that the memories ed by the mention of the name Percy ham, would be no light affair to Ar-you do not think there is any need s knowing it, either?" asked Muriel ended.

should she know now, dear, when thought it best to keep it from her his time?"

uld hate to tell her," said Muriel, "I think it would almost e to know her father's brother was forgive me, Russel; I did not mean you pain. It was so cruelly thought- me to say that, for he was your twin and you loved him."

started as if in pain. T came to him, starting keen and through his heart: What would say if she knew the white, shapely which she had lovingly slipped small one, had been the one which Percy Evringham his death-blow! knowledge kill her, his beautiful just suppose, Russel, that Louie and Evringham should grow to love each murmured Muriel, with wide-open eyes—"should I love, and want to mary her?"

laughed a little low, unusual laugh. so thoroughly like a woman to that if two young people are together, they must, as a natural inevitable consequence, grow to love other.

that makes you think of that, dear? you any reason to think that there is ntest possibility of such an event tak-e?"

, (very solemnly), "I have. You how Louie writes? Just as she talks; her letter she said a great many things frank, innocent way, which lead me ve that Percy Evringham cares more than she has any idea of."

mused a moment in deep thought; ll, quietly:

would be very glad to see Louie and Evringham man and wife."

, Russel?" looking up at him in great y darling, it is true. If Percy 's son and your—our daughter married if the Evringhamand Anthon were thus connected—it seems to me would go a long way toward the stain of blood from the Anthon at a strange thought, Russel!" murmured: and there was a tone erness in his voice as he an-ut on that, Muriel; it is a strange conversation was too unpleasant, too me: he resolved to break it off. Slip- his arm around her, he raised Muriel face.

am not going to let you talk any long- he said lightly. "It is past two o'clock; ght to be very tired, I am quite sure long after Muriel's light breathing him she had drifted into the land of s. Arundel lay beside her staring ole eyes into the darkness, and think-es, he said to himself, "it is a strange but if they should be married, it would almost as if fate had promised me my sin should go unpunished—in this anyway."

s world! This life of love and pleasure sary. Arundel Anthon's thought went ther.

CHAPTER XXVI.

ot now, mamma, we will have a long talk all to ourselves," said Louie An- dropping down on a hassock at Muriel's with a sigh of perfect contentment. "It nice to be with you again, mamma; all, there is no place like home—that home with a mother in it."

riel bent and kissed the fair face raised ingly to hers.

am very glad to have you with me , my darling," she murmured. "I have ss you very much! it seems as though had been away a long time, much longer you really have."

our months," said Louie, thoughtfully does seem longer than that; it does not as though I could have possibly travel- about as much as I have done in such a paratively short space of time. Mr. twood is the best traveller: I know I seen as much, if not more, of Europe, a great many people who have spent a or two there, and it is only because he just where to go. oh! mamma, we did such a perfectly lovely time!"

was the last week in October, a bright, morning, the day after Louie's arrival New York, and the mother and daughter in Muriel's boudoir, whither they had directly after breakfast, for a long, y conversation, that pleasant talk made t questions and answers which speedily s the meeting of two relatives or inti- friends is after a separation.

ery pretty Louie looked in her pale blue ning dress, her trip abroad had benefited the flush of perfect health was upon her there was not a shadow of care or pain e soft, true eyes.

And now, dear, tell me all about your ," said Muriel, leaning back in her chair eyes resting very tenderly upon Louie, heart filling with fond pride that the ly girl whose beauty would have attracted attention anywhere, was her own child, flesh of her flesh. "The places you visited, the people you saw. I was so glad when you wrote me that you had met the Ridgleys in Paris."

"Oh, we met ever so many people we knew there," said Louie; "and then we glided into a long conversation, speaking of different people she had met here and there, growing very eloquent and earnest as she described the various places she had visited.

"And it was at Schaffhausen that you met Mr. Evringham, was it not?" asked Muriel, when Louie paused for a moment to take breath.

"Yes, mamma; and were not the circumstances that led to our meeting too ridiculous for anything? There I was on the rock, unable to move, and he a perfect stranger to me, had to take off my shoe and pull my foot out of that horrible little crevice; it may have been romantic, but it was awfully embarrasing. Then he told me his name, I told him mine, and then in a moment Mr. Wentworth, my escort, came up; if you could have seen the look of horror upon his face when he found me talking to a stranger," and Louie burst into a peal of laughter as the whole scene rose clearly and distinctly to her memory.

"How long did he remain with you, dear?"

"Oh, for some time; we went down the Rhine together; he travelled about considerably with us, then we all went to Paris, where he was obliged to leave us and go on with his party. He did not want to go with them; he could not bear to go, mamma; he seemed to be so happy with us," said Louie, innocently, all unconscious of the true reason of Percy Evringham's happiness with, and his sorrow at leaving, the Brentwood party, "but there was no help for it. You see, he went abroad with this party of gentlemen, and it would not have been right at all for him to have left them and come with us, as he would so much liked to have done; as it was, he spent more time with us than he ought to have done under the circumstances. His party would not hear of his leaving them. They will sail for home about the middle of next month, and he will stay here in New York for a little while before he goes to Baltimore, his home is there, you know, mamma; he was born in Mary and."

"Yes, I know," said Muriel, quickly, thinking how much more she knew of Percy's Evringham's life than Louie did.

"I am so anxious to have you meet him, mamma," the girl continued, "I am quite sure you will like him, everybody likes him; there is nothing to dislike about him; he is so agreeable and entertaining, so kind and gentle, and so very handsome. We all missed him so much after he had left us, even Mr. Brentwood said it seemed as though he took the life out of the party when he went."

"Louie, do you like Percy Evringham?"

"Do I like him, mamma? why, I like him very much indeed, better than any gentleman I have ever met."

There was no need for Muriel to ask her daughter if her feelings for Percy Evringham were any warmer than those of mere friendship, the expression of her face, the innocent uplifting of the frank, truthful brown eyes, told very plainly that Louie spoke the truth when she said she liked him; it was only like, nothing more.

Very much relieved,—for notwithstanding Arundel's ideas upon the subject, she could not bring herself to think calmly of her own child and murdered Percy Evringham's son, loving each other—Muriel sank back in her chair.

"I did not think Aline looked well at all when I saw her yesterday on the steamer," she said, changing the subject of conversation rather abruptly. "Perhaps it was only the effects of the voyage, but it seemed to me that she looked miserable: she was so very pale, and there was such a weary look in her eyes. Was she sick coming over?"

"A heavy storm overtook us the third day out, and we were all sick for a day or two; but it was not the effects of that illness that makes Aline look so pale and miserable. She has looked like that for two months at least," said Louie, sorrowfully. "She has never complained, yet at night she moans in her sleep, and she has changed; she is not gay, bright Aline any more."

"I never did think she was as strong as she looked," said Muriel; "probably travelling so constantly tired her all out: I know by experience that it is wearisome as well as pleasant. Don't look so troubled, dear, Aline will be herself again as soon as she get rested."

"I hope so," Louie said, wistfully. She loved her beautiful friend very dearly, and it had worried her more than a little when her quick eye discovered the change in Aline.

Aline Brentwood had changed since that day when, in the cathedral at Cologne, her own heart had been revealed to her. Many changes are wrought by suffering, and she had suffered just as all women suffer who strive to tear out of their hearts a love that has rooted itself there; she was not the first or only one whose eyes have grown weary, whose face has grown pale in the struggle.

The remaining days of October, the first two weeks of November, passed swiftly and brightly to Louie Anthon. The season opened gayly, it promised to be an unusually brilliant and gay one. Theatre parties, receptions, weddings followed each other in quick succession: already the fashionable world had plenty with which to occupy itself.

The pleasures of society had not yet begun to pall upon Louie, she was too young for that; she enjoyed them with a keen delight, and she was so innocently charming, seemingly unconscious of her own beauty, entirely free from all vanity; it was no wonder she was a general favorite, that she was spoken of as the "lovely Miss Anthon."

One morning late in November she went running into Muriel's room, her face flushed, her eyes shining, a telegram she had just received in her hand.

"Oh, mamma, the 'Adriatic' is in; Percy Evringham will be here this evening to see me. I shall be so glad to see him again."

Yes, she would be very glad to see him. But one person can be very glad to see another without loving that other one particle.

She made her toilet very carefully for the evening, and when it was completed and she surveyed herself critically in the long mirror Louie knew she was charming, and no happy, innocent girl was ever yet indifferent to her own beauty. Her dress was a simple one of creamy white foulard, but the soft material fell in clinging folds that would have satisfied an artist, and she wore a great cluster of crimson roses at her waist.

Percy Evringham thought he had never seen her look more beautiful when she came into the reception-room, where he was waiting for her, and he had both the little hands she had extended to him in his own, looking down into the sweet face with glad, tender light in his gray eyes, to hear the sound of the soft voice, to feel the clasp of the little fingers—it had seemed to him that he could not wait to go to her; and now he had hard work to keep the flood of love in his heart from pouring from his lips in passionately tender words; he was not at all satisfied with the touch of the small hand, he wanted to kiss the smiling lips, to fold his arms about the graceful figure. But with a heavy sigh he remembered that he had not the slightest right to do either, he could only hope that the time would soon come when that precious right would be very sweet and gracious was Louie, showing him very plainly that she was indeed glad to see him, and he said to himself while a great joy swept over him:

"She will soon love me; I have not very long to wait."

Muriel and Arundel had been out making a call, they came in about ten o'clock, and hearing their voices in the hall Louie rose from her chair.

"Excuse me for a moment, Mr. Evringham; I want to tell mamma and papa you are here; I am anxious to have you see them, and them you."

She was absent from the room a few moments. When she reached Muriel and Arundel followed her. Was it singular that the faces of both were very pale?

There were strange, wild feelings in Arundel Anthon's breast as he looked into the face of the young man whom he had made fatherless. Though Percy Evringham had died by his hand he had been his dearest and most intimate friend. Arundel had loved the man he killed as he had never loved any man before or since. Looking now into the face which was so like the dead one which for so many years had been hidden from all earthly sight, the old tenderness rose within him. It was as though the years had rolled back, he was young again, there was no stain of blood upon his hand, the young man before him with the dark gray eyes and beautiful mouth, was not Percy Evringham's son but Percy Evringham himself—his gay, handsome friend; and Arundel's voice trembled as he murmured some words of kindly greeting.

Muriel's heart, too, went out towards him just as it had gone out that night, many years ago, when her tears had fallen as she thought of the little five year-old boy whom her husband's erring brother had made fatherless and motherless; for it had always seemed to her that that was a double murder. The blow which had dealt death to Percy Evringham had also laid his young wife in her grave and she felt that God held Arundel Anthon responsible for two lives.

Her greeting was very sweet and gentle; Percy Evringham thought Louie Anthon's father and mother were very charming people. They gave him a warm and cordial invitation to come to the house whenever he could, and when Louie seconded that invitation Percy found it quite irresistible, and that evenings visit was the beginning of many.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A strange and almost unaccountable feeling with regard to Percy Evringham took possession of Arundel Anthon as the days went by, and again and again the young man came to the house. Any one would reasonably suppose that the handsome Saxon face, with its regular features and dark gray eyes, would have reminded him so powerfully of the man for whose death he was responsible, that Arundel would have feared and hated the very sight of Percy Evringham, but it was to the contrary. It is not strange, when you stop to consider what Arundel Anthon's life had been, that his thoughts were wild and morbid, the outgrowth of a brain and heart distorted and warped. Instead of dreading to see Percy, it gave him a strange delight to see the handsome young fellow a guest in his house, happy and at ease there. He liked to converse with him, to entertain him in the princely fashion in which it was his usual custom to entertain his friends, to have him seated at his table, eating and drinking with him, to know that Percy liked him, honored and respected him, he, Arundel Anthon his father's murderer. It seemed to him that fate in thus bringing Percy Evringham into his life offered him an opportunity to atone for depriving him of his father by heaping friendship and kindly feeling, favor and hospitalities, upon him. Always courteous, hospitable, agreeable, Arundel had never been more friendly and gracious to anyone than he was to the son of the man who had died by his hand. He gave him the warmest invitations to come to the house whenever he found convenient and agreeable for him to do so.

"You will always be welcome here, my boy," he said, with that rarely fascinating smile which alone had made Arundel Anthon so many friends; "there will always be a seat for you at my table; we will all of us be very glad to see you any time; come in whenever you can."

And Percy did go. There was no place in the world so pleasant to him as the Anthon house. He appreciated the warm welcome he never failed to receive there, no matter when he went; the bright smile with which Louie met him, Muriel's gentle, kindly greeting, Arundel's warm hand-clasp. It is always pleasant to know you are a welcome guest, to have the free run of a house where every member of the family shows you plainly that they are really glad to see you; we all know the difference between a warm, sincere greeting, and a coolly polite one. The Anthons did not seem like strangers to Percy, he did not feel like a stranger in their house; after a very few visits all feeling of formality wore away, he felt perfectly at home there, almost like one of the family. Scarcely a day passed that he did not spend some part of it in Louie's society; it was only a step from the Windsor Hotel, where he was stopping, to her home, and it was not long before he began to run up there in an informal way. Many mornings he would say to himself: "I will not go there to-day, I have been there every day this week; they will get tired and sick of me, I will wear my welcome out." And while he would be wondering mournfully what he should do with himself, a messenger boy would come in bringing a message from Arundel. Would Evringham drive with him that afternoon, and dine afterward at his house? Or, a little note from Louie: Would Mr. Evringham go here or there with her that evening?

A close intimacy had sprung up between him and Louie. It was not Miss Anthon and Mr. Evringham any longer, it was Louie and Percy; and when two young people take to calling each other by their first name, it is not very long, generally speaking, before each of the other of them begins to conjugate that wonderful verb "to love." They played and sang, walked and drove, visited various places of amusement, spent hours and hours talking to each other, and though they did not discuss politics and matters of state, high art and scientific questions, though their conversation was never of a very weighty nature, it was none the less agreeable and thoroughly enjoyable; and Percy would have rather sat by Louie's side in Muriel's exquisite little boudoir and heard her give her opinion upon a chocolate bonbon, than to have a seat in the gallery of the Senate Chamber at Washington, and heard the Vice-President address the House. Percy was too well bred to neglect the Brentwoods; he went to their house very often, and Aline, crushing down the bitter pain in her heart, entertained him in her own graceful way, listened to him when he spoke of Louie Anthon, saw the flush that came upon his face when Louie's name was mentioned, and made no sign of her own pain. Once her strength nearly forsook her, when one day Percy, noticing the wistful expression in the great dusky eyes, the sorrowful look about the beautiful mouth, said earnestly, taking her hand in his, looking down into her face as he spoke:

"Aline, what is it that is troubling you? So many times I have noticed a look in your eyes that was not in them when I first met you. If I did not know that your life was all sunshine, I should think you were not perfectly happy, Aline."

He saw her lips quiver pitifully as she turned her face from him, murmuring:

"There are few of us in this world that are perfectly happy."

"I wonder if it could possibly be that she loves some one who does not return her love," he said to himself thoughtfully, as he walked away from the house, bearing with him the remembrance of the lovely face, with its quivering lips and sorrowful eyes. "But no, that could not be! Aline Brentwood is too proud to give her heart unasked, too beautiful to ever love in vain."

Blind, indeed, you say, was Percy Evringham, and blind he was, I grant you; but no blinder than other men have been and will be so long as there are men.

It is not to be wondered at that Percy found New York very pleasant, that he lingered there quite unable to tear himself away from Louie Anthon, to break up the dangerously sweet life that he was leading, although he knew he ought to go back to Baltimore, and see his grandparents. He wrote them, apologizing for remaining so long away from them, and speaking of his home coming in a rather vague and indefinite way.

Percy did not like to write letters. He considered letter-writing a most unmitigated bore, consequently when he found it absolutely necessary to write one he said what he had to say in as few words as possible, without any mental rambling from the subject in his thoughts. He never would write much about himself, the life he was leading the people he was thrown in contact with. His grandmother was wont to say in her gentle way, "I know Percy is alive when I receive a letter from him, that he is alive and is my affectionate grandson, Percy Evringham, but that is about all his letters ever tell me."

He had written to his grandparents about the Brentwoods, but it never occurred to him to tell them about the Anthons. He only wrote that he had met some very pleasant people, friends of the Brentwoods, who were very kind to him, at whose house he spent much of his time, and whom he liked very much indeed. So neither Howard Evringham nor his sweet white-haired wife, in whose gentle eyes still lingered the shadow of bitter pain which had come into them years before, when, gently as they could, they had told her that her boy—the father Percy never saw—was dead, knew that the name of the family whose society their grandson found so agreeable was one terribly familiar to them both. November passed. December came, still Percy Evringham did not go back to Baltimore.

One Sunday afternoon, just before Christmas, Louie Anthon was standing in one of the windows of the reception-room watching the white, downy-looking snow-flakes as they hurried down from the gray clouds. It was a cold, wintry day. Since early morning the snow had fallen steadily, shrouding the great city in a mantle of white. Fifth Avenue, generally thronged on Sunday afternoons with fashionable church-goers and promenaders, was almost deserted. Now and then a carriage rolled along, or a gentleman, with top-coat, closely buttoned and hat pulled well down over his eyes, went hurrying by. But Louie was not at all interested in the few passers by, although more than one of them cast an admiring glance up at her as she stood there. She was deeply absorbed in watching the snowflakes as they chased each other in mad haste past the window.

"I wonder why they are in such a hurry to get down to earth," she thought. "Don't they know they will be trampled under foot until all their beauty and purity is lost forever?"

And then she looked straight up at the millions of feathery particles which were whirling swiftly down through the still air, while thoughts, light and fanciful as the snowflakes themselves, crowded into her brain. She had followed a particularly large flake as it floated down to the ground, when her eyes fell upon Percy Evringham. He was standing on the sidewalk under the window, watching her as earnestly as she had been watching the falling snow, waiting for her to see him, a smile upon his handsome face, a merry look in his dark gray eyes. Louie waved her hand to him, and then ran out into the hall and threw open the heavy street door.

"I am so glad you have come," she said, gleefully, as he came up the stone steps and into the hall. "I have been wishing for you ever since dinner, it is such a dreary afternoon, and I have been here all alone, I was half tempted to send Thomas down to the hotel for you."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Late Hours.

There are few people who are so constituted that sleep seems to them no necessity, and they can, year after year, carry on their business avocations and fulfil their social duties without seeming loss of health or strength, with only four or five hours out of the twenty-four devoted to rest. There are again persons who can at any moment compose themselves into sleep, and enjoy a short nap, if only for a few minutes. The great Napoleon was one of those who, by sheer force of will, could put himself to sleep when he chose, and thereby repair the damage to health and strength that want of sufficient rest inevitably brings. these people are, however, exceptions, and the general run of mankind really needs eight hours out of the twenty-four for sleep.

In the cities and towns the desire for making quick fortunes is the real secret that underlies many of our mistakes of living. The class of persons among us who live on their income without the claims of business are comparitively large, and late hours that might not affect them are the same that other men differently situated are obliged to keep during the gay season; yet the latter are under the necessity of going to business at an early hour of the morning. No wonder that by May many young men are worn out, and stimulate on quinine and morphine, and various other preparations, so as to keep up at all.

Any young lady at the end of the season of balls, theatres, and operas can testify that she looks worn and jaded; that she has no appetite, and that champagne, and even brandy are necessities. There is a woman, to our certain knowledge, who contracted a taste for stimulants that affected her health for years during a long and gay Winter season. And her case is only one of many. To repair the havoc made by late hours on the complexion—and they are certain to ruin a fine one—cosmetics are resorted to, and rouge renews the blush of health, and powder the purity of the snowy skin. The Russian and Turkish baths are found to give some strength and renewed vigor, and the number of them testify to thier patronage.

And yet it lies in the power of the matrons, the leaders of society, those who naturally suffer the most from the evil of late hours, to remedy it. They can easily insist on a change, and a change for the better.

The chaperones who wearily sit through "just one more dance" are to be pitied, but they are to blame as well.

Vanity will do much; indeed, it is a lever that can move the world when rightly applied. Vanity, then, may step in in some cases and perform what good advice or sensible counsels could never do. All doctors agree that sleep produces flesh, and a story is told of a fashionable physician, who, when a young belle called on him and complained of the thinness of her arms and asked for a remedy, prescribed a course of treatment that, if faithfully adhered to, would round out the offending members into perfect and matchless proportions. It was simple, and contained no nauseous drugs or change of diet, no athletic evolutions, or modern gymnastics, no modification of costume, or hints as to thick boots, long walks, early rising, copious draughts of milk or bowls of oatmeal; neither was that terrible last and most fatal cure suggested—arsenic. No, nothing but simply to go to bed every night at nine o'clock, without loss of one minute, and sleep till nine the next morning, if possible. Whether the young woman purchased the wished-for improvement to her arms at that price, we are unable to state, but the doctor probably pocketed his fee, and justly, for his advice was well worth considerig, at least.

Solid Milk.

To make condensed milk, the milk is subjected to a heat of some 230 degrees, which, it is said, scalds it. By a new process the heat is only about 130 degrees, and the product is called evaporated milk. When the time of exposure to that moderate heat is sufficiently prolonged all the watery part of the milk is driven off, and the remnant is a tough, solid mass, creamy white in color, and much resembling a dried chunk of wheat flour dough. That is granulated, by artificial means; a little fine white sugar is added to make it keep, and then it looks like corn meal, and is corn granulated milk. The evaporated milk is only about half as near solid as the condensed milk, but is very rich, and so little affectee by the process through which it has passed that when water is added the most delicate taste cannot detect a difference between it and pure natural milk; cream rises on it, and butter can be made from it. The same desirable peculiarities belong to the granulated milk. The evaporated milk is used in the Nursery and child's Hospital, and on most of the steamship lines. The granulated is made to keep in all climates, for any desired length of time.

An Odd Old Lady.

An old lady in Hartwell, Ga., has made all the necessary preparations for her burial, except her coffin. She has a black silk dress, all the necessary underclothing, a cap, gloves, etc.; she even has a cake of perfumed soap, wash-rag and towel, for washing her body, and a candle nearly two feet long, which she has had ever since the war, and which is to afford light for the watchers when she is lying in state.

A Pickled Pun.

A 7-year-older, with the punster's mark on his brow, at dinner, asked his mother what was in a jar on the table.

"Pickles, my son," was the reply.

"Then, mamma, please pickle little one out for me," came with stunning force from the child, and the mother fell over a chair and fainted.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food. Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

The cold weather is nature's plan of relieving the streets of bad smells and corner loafers.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10cts, 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest, or Back, Lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

When an obituary notice ends. "No further seek his frailties to disclose." it means, "Whisky killed him."

SHILOH'S CATARRHREMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

A wit being asked, on the failure of a bank, "Were you not upset?" replied, "No; I only lost my balance."

FREE OF CHARGE,

All persons suffering from Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Loss of Voice or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, are requested to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of charge, which will convince them of its wonderful Merits and show what a regular dollar-size bottle will do. Call early.

Before the wedding day she was dear and he was her treasure, but afterwards she became dearer and he treasurer.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we will do as recommended, They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial, Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by A. Turner & Co.

A St. Louis man who painted a lamp-post every evening for two weeks, saw his marks on the backs of ninety different loafers.

A VEXED CLERGYMAN.

Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial Bottles given away at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store.

An epitaph:—"Erected to the memory of John Philips, accidently shot as a mark of affection by his brother."

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE,

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40

A fire broke out in Neigert's cooper shop, Hanover, on Sunday the 11th. The building was entirely consumed, loss $1,000, very little insurance.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

How have the mighty fallen?" Well, some slip up on a banana skin; some use the money of the bank for speculation, and fail to connect; and others fall in coalchutes in the dark.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

Huxley says, "there was a time when men walked on all fours." He probably alludes to that interesting time in the early life of us all when we approached a neighbor's melon patch from the back way.

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF

FISH

JUST TO HAND IN Barrels

CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

GROCERIES

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S

LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S

Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S

Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S

MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S

Pork, Pork, Pork.

McINTYRE'S

Teas, Teas.

And ever ythin g kept n in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th. 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

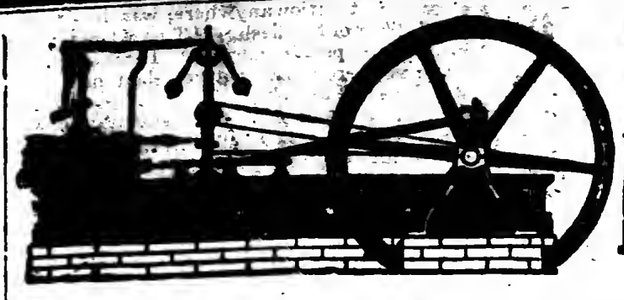
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.



My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

MOFFAT

M'rkda

MAFUFACTURERS OF

Steam Engines & Shaftin

Pulleys, Hangers, Gear Woeels. Shingle Jointers, &c, Al Kinds of Mill Repairing.

PLOWS and POINTS A SPECIALT

MANGLES, GRATINGS, CRESTINGS, PITLARS--IRON AND BRASS CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photographe

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,

Do Copying and Enlarging in good st

FRAMES and FRAME FIXING

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULMER

TORONTO HOUSE

FLESHERTON.

Stock Fully Complete. Unusually La

VERY ATTRACTIVE, AND

CHEAPER THAN THE CHEAPES

EVERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALLY ATTRACTI

Variety and Value Unsurpassed.

DRY GOODS DEPARMENT

Is this season very complete with a very large stock of Dress Goods prising in part Cashmeres in all colors Worsted Wool Goods in endless variety.

Boot and Shoe Department.

Would call special attention of close buyers as my stock is unusually from the best manufacturers and at rock bottom prices.

ORDERED CLOTHING.

Has been exceedingly brisk this season, on account of which I have la the largest and best stock of Tweeds, Coatings, Trowserings, and O ings in this section of country. As I have always led the trade in th partment buyers will find it to their advantage to call before purch elsewhere.

Millinery Department.

Under the able management of a first-class milliner, with plenty of ance, will be found unusually attractive with the prettiest and most able, and cheapest stock to be found in the county. Ladies, it wo you good to call and look at the stock.

Hardware and Grocery Department.

Is always fully assorted and complete with the best goods, at the lowest sible price

I am the only constant and reliable buyer of Grain and Farm duce in Flesherton, and for which I will pay the highest price in c any quantity of good dry, sound grain, which I would specially ask to clean well. A call solicited.

R. J. SPROULE

Flesherton, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Markdale PUMP Factor

J. C. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PU FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in M the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 25. MARKDALE, ONT., MAR. 1, 1883. No. 129.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

at Markdale, Ontario.

$1 per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

Single copies, 5cts. $2 if not paid till the end of the year. No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing papers or neglecting to take up will be held responsible until their subscriptions until they notify us to stop.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

One column, one year	$50 00
Half " "	27 50
Quarter " "	15 00
Eighth " "	8 00
Card, one year	4 00
Each subsequent insertion per line	8
Each subsequent insertion	3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied by a scale of solid agate. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 10 o'clock on the wednesday proceeding their publication.

JOB PRINTING

Of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Sunder's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

B. Gnest, M.D., M. R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University. Vict. College, " " New York, and Honorary Graduate, of the same, " " Aylcth Medical Institute. " " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND.

Every attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month.

A. Cameron, M.D., & L.F.P. & S. Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

J.P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession.

January 9th, 1883. 122-74

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Flesherton, Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

ALFRED FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.

Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57.ly

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

Over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

T. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First class accommodation for commercial travelers. $1 per day. Barber's shop in connection.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convemence of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate.

Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees. Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, March 5th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT.

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

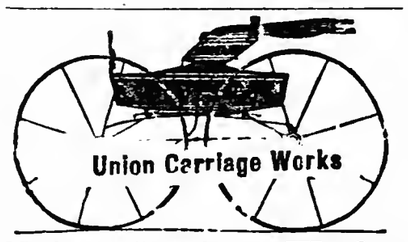
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS,

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith.

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times. On good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED. from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

Special attention to Cutting.

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

Advertise in the STANDARD.

Dundalk.

The Dundalk Canada Methodist acccept the basis of union by a vote of 8 to 3.

Mr. Chas. McConnell, trapped a beaver recently.

The Herald has removed to Hanbury's block.

W. L. Marshall has returned from Manitoba. He didn't fall in love with it either.

The Dundalk Brass Band appeared to advantage at the Shelburne skating carnival recently.

EUPHRASIA COUNCIL.

A meeting of the township council of the township of Euphrasia was held pursuant to adjournment on the first day of February, 1883.

Members all present except Mr. Ellis.

Minutes of last session of council read and confirmed.

The report of the Reeve and Deputy-Reeve, in reference to John Kerrys. this Corporation, laid before council. The Reeve and Deputy Reeve were instructed to defend the case, and the Treasurer ordered to furnish the Deputy-Reeve with the necessary funds.

The report of the Reeve and Deputy Reeve, in reference to the Treasurer's securities, laid before council, showing that after due examination all matters pertaining to the validity of the Treasurer and his securities are in a satisfactory condition.

The resignation of Robt. Myles, Esq., as Reeve, was laid before council and accepted.

The Deputy-Reeve took the chair.

The Treasurer was ordered to remit to R. Myles, Esq., the sum of $8.60, for services rendered to this municipality.

By-law 328, providing for the indemnity of the council, carried through the different stages and passed.

The Deputy-Reeve's order wss issued on the Treasurer in favor of R. Dunlop, Clerk, for $7.90, being for registering births, marriages and deaths for the year 1882.

On motion of Patterson and Boyd the time of the Collectors to make their returns was extended until the first of April next and no longer, the Clerk to notify the Collectors to this effect.

On motion made and seconded the council adjourned until the first Friday in March next.

ROBT. DUNLOP, Clerk.

We are in receipt of Wiggins' Storm Herald and Almanac for 1883. It contains full particulars of the author's predictions and forecast of the weather and storms during this year; price 20cts. The following is what he says about the storm this month. "FIRST CLASS OR GREAT STORM.—This will originate in the North Pacific on the morning of the 9th, will strike this continent from the south east all along the Atlantic coast, on the afternoon of the 10th, and will travel westward south of the 45th parallel, and returning from the Rocky Mountain range will cross the meridian of Ottawa over the great Canadian lakes at noon of the 11th. No vessel, whatever her seaworthiness, should be out of harbor in any part of the world. The navies of all nations should be in safe harbors not later than the 5th. Danger from lightning everywhere within the tropics. Probabilities—Great tidal wave in the Gulf of Mexico, the Bay of Bengal and the China Sea. The thermometer will range 5 degrees below zero all over Canada from the 5th to the 11th. The storm will continue with varying intensity to the 16th, when a general rain will begin and continue for 48 hours. Unusual floods in the Maritime Provinces.

CARD OF THANKS.—J. F. Sproule, Winnipeg, wishes to tender the sincere thanks to the kind friends in Markdale, who so ably assisted Mrs. Sproule at the time of the recent fire in that place.

Rev. Mr. McDiarmid will preach a funeral sermon in the Methodist Church, Markdale, on Sunday, 11th, at 10-30. on the occasion of John M. Davis' child recently deceased.

TOPICS FOR WOMEN.

Why Women Work.

It is curious that the world has yet to be convinced that women do not love to work any better than men do. They are created with dependence, with a love of ease and luxury, and yet when a salaried position is in question the women has to take less because "she needs less."

It can not be because she spends less, for the extravagance of woman was dwelt upon by Solomon and Jeremiah, and it is a song that has never known a rest. The reason er the difference in wages is generally found to be in the assertion that women who do not need a support or who have few responsibilities crowd into the paid occupations. There is an inconsistency here. If she loves ease why does she work? If she spends more, how is it she needs less?

The truth is that very few women work from any other reason but necessity. Here and there is one who loves independence, works for it, and deserves it, and here and there is another who would rather work than forego certain luxuries, and she earns them, but the majority of women work because they have responsibilities, and as a class they are more reliable, sober and economical workers, for no woman with a family of little children gambles away their bread and butter, or no sister or daughter who is, of necessity, the bread-winner, wastes what she earns, and comes home to a sad, hungry family, bringing them empty hands and an indifference to their needs.

HOW SENTIMENTAL YOUNG LADIES SHOULD MANAGE HEALTHY APPETITES.

There are few women who can't be charming if they earnestly set about it—even while eating. I mention this test of feminine grace because it is a severe one. The process of filling the stomach ordained by nature is vulgar in itself, and a great deal of daintiness is required in the woman who would eat unrepellantly. Fried oysters are a sore trial to the ethereal girl who sits down to them with her admirers after a late theatrical performance. It has been five or six hours since dinner, and she is as hungry as a bear that has lived on its paws all winter. She knows that bedtime is close ahead, and she will not have to endure her corset long if she does not tighten it from the inside. But a big appetite is disenchanting in a maiden, and fried oysters are greasy. The problem before her is now to put the seven oysters into herself without once convincing the young man that her stomach is about like his own in its periodical call for food. There is a risk in the matter that no skill can wholly eliminate. The best rule is to put on an expression of very mild dislain each mouthful, as though you took it in unresistingly. Don't overdo this, and look as though it pained, but just elevate the brows a trifle, smile faintly, and try to give the impression that you tolerate a fried oyster, but scorn to make a fuss over it. I watched a slender, pale-faced, gaslight-faced creature in a fashionable oyster house the other night, and saw by neglecting her department she was shocking the fellow across the table. Perhaps she didn't care whether he adored her or not. Anyhow, she was putting the oysters into her mouth by halves, chewing them with undisguised vigor, swallowing plenty of bread and butter cabbage along with them, and taking no pains whatever to disguise the fact that she was enjoying them mightily. At the next table sat a thicker and older woman, who practiced the art of oyster eating as I have indicated it. Her facial expression was clever. She shipped in the food in big pieces when her companion wasn't looking, and nibbled when he was looking. She got away with a hearty meal without appearing to have taken anything to speak of, and it was only the empty plates that revealed the fact. She was not less skilful in drinking her half of a quart of champagne. The glass was lifted to her lips like the hand of a queen to kiss; her mouth shut over barely an inch of the brim; there was no slopping or gurgling; the wine trinkled neatly down her throat, but with quite sufficient clerity. When starting to go out, with considerable of the fluid effervescing in her brain, she failed for a dreamy instant to recognize her reflection in a full length mirror, and tried to turn out to let herself pass herself. The blunder was seen by nobody but me. She recovered her equanimity instantly, and departed as smoothly as a fairy.

An Ingenious Clock.

A very ingenious electric clock, for use in railway stations, has recently been exhibited in Boston. It gives automatically the signals for starting trains at the proper time, and it is automatically regulated at noon each day by electric impulse from some astronomical station. Though the details of the apparatus are rather complicated, the principle is simple. The mechanism for giving the signals shows two discuss, each pierced with 1440 holes, arranged in spirals of 24 turns, with 60 holes in each turn. small metallic pegs are inserted in the holes corresponding to any given minute and hour, and the contact of these with an electric conductor allows passage of the current ter the signal. When any change is made in the time for starting trains the pegs are shifted. One, two, three, or more successive or different signals can be given for each train. It is proposed to connect all the stations of a railway with the main office, so that signals for starting trains will be given from a single apparatus.

Some First Things.

The first lucifer match was made in 1728, and the wind rose to a gale the instant it was scratched.

The first horse railroad was started in 1826, and the conductors had forty-five years the start of the bell-punch.

The first newspaper advertisement appeared in 1652, and it has taken just 231 years to convince some business men that it is a good investment.

The first temperance society in this country was organized at Saratoga in 1826. The opposition secured a foothold in 1492.

Glass windows were introduced in England in the eighth century. The little boys of the seventh century had no object in throwing stones at unoccupied buildings.

Kerosene was first used for illuminating in 1826. Its servant-girl blasting properties were discovered at five o'clock the next morning.

PERSONALITIES.

The World of Notables—Eminent People, Princes, Peers, and Others.

The son of Anthony Trollope is to publish the autobiography which he left.

A hundred and five cows are on the dairy farm of the Prince of Wales at Sandringham.

The parents of the English Postmaster-General celebrated their golden wedding lately.

The Duke of Campo-Medina has bought the late Henri Vieuxtemps's collection of violins and bows.

Sixty-five trunks are all the baggage the Princess Louise carries when travelling, but it comprises the luggage of her suite as well as her own.

Five thousand dollars have been left to children deserted by their parents in Paris by the late Louis Blanc.

Neuralgia is the bete noire of Bismarck, he being obiged to stop in the midst of a sentence sometimes, while speaking, on account of it.

Fifteen languages were spoken by the woolbroker of Philadelphia, Thomas Wilson, who committed suicide the other day at Niagara Falls.

A paper on "Temperance" was lately read before a religious society of Providence, Rhode Island, by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell.

Mr. Dennis, the British antiquarian, has bought the site of the temple of Sardis, Asia Minor, and great hopes are entertained of the discoveries among the ruins.

The Duchess of Sutherland, the Duchess of Westminster, Lady Mount Temple, the Countess Brownlow, and the Countess Ellesmere all wear the temperance blue ribbon.

Dr. O. W. Holmes says that, much as he has heard of the roots of the tongue, and although he has taught anatomy for thirty-five years he has been unable to find them.

Gambetta had an eye glass, and always refused to have a full picture taken, preferring to pose in profile. Mr. Healy's portrait of him is thought to be the best one in existence.

The young secretary of the Chinese Minister at Washington, being asked at an afternoon tea if he would take one or two lumps of sugar in his tea, answered, "No sugar, no cream, one spoon."

The Sultan of Zanzibar became so infatuated with strawberry ice-cream and pendulum clocks while on his visit to Paris that he has secured an expert confectioner and watchmaker as part of his retinue.

The Shah of Persia, the North American chiefs, the New Zealand chiefs, Cetywayo, and the "Indian contingent" have all declared that the most wonderful thing in England is the Crystal Palace.

The Postmaster-General of England, Mr. Fawcett, is entirely blind; the Receiver and Accountant-General to the Post Office, Mr. George Richardson, is entirely deaf; and an official in the Admiralty is both deaf and dumb.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, of New York, a native of Dumferline, N. B., has given twenty-five thousand dollars toward the fund for the London College of Music, which has been acknowledged by the Prince of Wales with cordiality.

When the Chinese Emperor Quang-Su saw the comet he sent for the Astronomer Royal, who told him that it meant the gods were displeased with the Ministers of Worship and Public Instruction and the ministers received their letters of dismissal a few hours later.

A proposal by some native gentlemen of Bombay to provide a guarantee fund by means of which qualified medical women may begin practice in India has been approved by Queen Victoria in spite of her dislike of the female practitioner in Great Britain.

Mr. Trevelyan has discovered that the people in the west of Ireland are living on sea-weed rather than go to the workhouses provided. He has held that they only pretended to be starving, but it appears as though unless relieved they will carry the deception so far as really to die.

M. About has subscribed largely for the assistance of the victims of the inundations in Alsace, where he lived till the occupation of the Germans. Last year he introduced into society his young daughter Mlle. Valentine, who has simplicity of disposition and solid mental gifts.

A series of illustrations to Poe's "Raven" was finished by Dore before his death, which it is thought will rank among the most original results of his genius. They are owned by Messrs. Harper & Brothers, and will be published as a companion volume to their edition of the Ancient Mariner with the Dore plates.

The Hon. D. L. Macpherson, Speaker of the Canadian Parliament, has by ordering the chair occupied at one time by the Princess Louise to be cut down and used for the Speker's chair, roused the ire of the Canadians, who would like the chair to be placed in the Historical Museum rather than in the private house of the Speaker, who has the right to take the chair used by him as his own personal property.

Mr. William Grey, who is the heir presumptive to the Earl of Stamford, and will, on coming to full inheritance, have an income of four hundred thousand dollars a year, is a grandson of the naturalist Gilbert White of Selbourne. The grandfather of the late Earl of Stamford, owned the whole borough of Ashton-under-Lyne, and held all the freehold with the exception of one cottage for which he offered as many sovereigns as would cover the roof. "No, friend Grey," said the old Quaker who owned it, "Ashton-under-Lyne belongs to me and thee. You can't have it all."

The greatest friend of truth is time: her greatest enemy is prejudice; and her constant companion is humility.

Deal very gently with those who are on the downhill of life. Your own time is coming to be where they now are. You too are "stepping westward." Soothe the restlessness of age by amusement, by consideration, by non-interference, and by allowing plenty of occupation to fall into the hands that long for it. But let it be of their own choosing, and cease to order their ways for them as though they were children.

In King Hoky-Poky's Dominions.

Miss Gordon Cumming has written a narrative of her tour among the volcanic lakes and craters of the main Island of Hawaii. Of these extraordinary and fiery scenes she gives us some admirable sketches, less beautiful indeed than her exquisite views of the Tahitian peaks, but unsurpassed in their way for weird sublimity and awe-inspiring grandeur. Among the ever-varying crags and shifting pools of the Lake of Fire on Kitanea, Milton's poetic fancies seem almost to have taken actual shape. The boiling mass never twice presents the same aspect; sometimes the Lake disappears altogether for a while; sometimes it lies sleeping in the centre of deep solid cliffs; sometimes, again, it seethes and foams against enormous temporary pinnacles of hardened lava. Even the apparently rocky surface on which the visitor stands to look down into the mountain pool is but the thinnest and most brittle crust, bridging over the treacherous mass of subterranean fire. Miss Cumming was fortunate enough, too, to happen upon the exact moment of an eruption, and to see rivers of incandescent lava break out over the bed of the great crater, which, when she first arrived, lay cold and grey within the circling cliffs, so that she could walk across it without serious danger. She also came in for an earthquake. Some of the curious cup-shaped vents in the extinct crater of Haleakala remind one strongly of the lesser craters in the moon; and indeed the whole of this very dry and verdureless Hawaiian mountain district must closely resemble lunar scenery; only, as Miss Cumming rightly notes, the immense well-like depth of the moon's crater at once distinguishes them from anything of the sort to be seen on the surface of our planet. Copernicus, the finest in shape among the lunar heights, is 12,000 feet deep in the central pit, and Gassendi is 9,600. Still, the general effect of Miss Cumming's sketches is ridiculously like that obtained from a view of the moon through a powerful telescope. In both we get the naked result of volcanic energies, unaffected by the disintegrating influences of vegetation or of humid atmospheric changes. . . . King Kalakaua was lately compelled to make a tour of the world. It appears that the King's first care on his return to his decadent little realm was to build a new cathedral, to complete and furnish his own palace, and to make preparations on a grand scale for the coronation of himself and his Queen—the throne and crowns to be imported from Paris, and all the ladies of Honolulu to appear in sweeping trains and full Court dress as worn at Buckingham Palace. If this is all the good that semi-barbarous chiefs obtain from a tour in Europe, it would be much better that they should stay at home.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Hindoo Dramatist.

Babu Keshub Chunder Sun, the Hindoo religious reformer, whose visit to this country will not have been forgotten, has written a native drama, the first representation of which has been given Calcutta with unusual eclat. The play, which is very long—longer, but apparently more lively than a modern Drury Lane Pantomime—is described by native critics as designed "to inculcate the purifying principles of religion in the garb of hintrionic representation." The vices of "Young Bengal" are gone for in a vividly effective style. A heavy drinking bout, the sad results, the interposition of the police, the insanity of the hero's wife, the anger of the virtuous father at the sight of the Brahmo reforming preachers, the repentance of the hero, the appearance of a hermit, the tournament between Vice and Virtue, the reconciliation of all concerned, and the triumph of the Brahmo principles are all exhibited with great effect.

A Model Home.

One of our exchanges has a column headed "Our Home," and at the top it gives an illustration which is supposed to represent that hallowed retreat. The husband and father is represented as reading a bread board; the mother, dressed in a bunting dress with an overskirt two feet longer than the dress proper, is reading a cigar box or a checker board; and the rest of the family, some thirteen or fourteen souls, cluster around the table reading different kinds of things; while a daughter in one corner of the room is climbing up on the keyboard of a piano with her feet, and her face is wreathed in a smile that wraps her rosebud mouth twice around her Grecian head and buries itself in her clustering hair. One of the boys has dropsy of the brain, and his pants are too short. Another is trying with great difficulty to tie the cat's tail around the table-leg, and a little daughter is pouring the sawdust vitals out of a rag doll down a knot hole in the floor. It is a perfect picture of home contentment and perennial joy.—Lara mie Boomerang.

A Toothsome Morsel.

This from the Madison (Wis.) Democrat, conveys its own moral:—Hold on! We are cognizant of the fact that an aching tooth was last night cured by the application of St. Jacobs Oil. The young fellow got mad over his raging tooth in the ball room, and rushed straightway to a drug store where he applied the good old German Remedy; in ten minutes the toothache had gone.

Petersburgh, Va., produced an icicle so large that its fall killed a horse. Even down South there is no scarcity and nothing to lament over.

BRIGGS' GENUINE ELECTRIC OIL.

Electricity feeds the brain and muscles: in a word, it is Nature's food,

The Electric Oil possesses all the qualities that it is possible to combine in a medicine, thereby giving it a wide range of application as an internal remedy for man and beast. The happiest results follow its use and in Nervous Diseases, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia and kindred diseases, it has no equal.

Thanks to a Nevada exchange for the information that the cinnamon bear has no taste for cinnamon. We had supposed that they lived on it.

St. Catharines, May 4th, 1882.

J. N. Sutherland, Esq.:

Dear Sir.—I have been for the past year suffering from "Sciatica." I was recommended by a neighbor to try your cure "Rheumatine." I did so, and am glad to say it completely cured me, and I can now thoroughly recommend it to any one suffering from the same complaint. Giving you the liberty to use this as your think fit, I remain yours truly,

N. B. CLENDENING.

Mr. Clendening is a farmer living in Louth, about nine miles from St. Catharines.

THE World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., destroyed by fire a year ago, is rebuilt and full of patients. For "Invalid's Guide Book," giving particulars and terms of treatment, address, with two stamps, WORLD'S DISPENSARY ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

The air is so clear at Montelair, N. J., that you can stand on Eagle Rock and detect the clam in a caldron of chowder at Coney Island.

Young, middle-aged, or old men, suffering from nervous debility or kindred affections, should address, with two stamps, for large treatise, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

The New York Legislature is grappling with the toy pistol.—Salt Lake Tribune. This is good news! The pistol has invariably proved fatal to its grappler.—Boston Post.

A Secret

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health, without the one the other is impossible. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the secretions, opens the avenue to health by purifying and regulating all the organs to a proper action. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the pallid cheek. 14

"From the manner in which some people spend their time, one would suppose they had a ninety years' lease of life with two renewed clauses embraced in it."

VEGETINE.—The great success of the VEGETINE as a cleanser and purifier of the blood is shown beyond a doubt by the great numbers who have taken it, and received immediate relief, with such remarkable cures.

Nothing will efface the stains on character quicker than money.—Hartford Sunday Journal. We congratulate you on your raise. —New York News.

For Throat and Lung Diseases, Bowel Complaints, Etc.,

It is truly a marvel. The Oil, besides exciting appetite, promoting digestion and checking fermentation on the stomach, antidotes or counteracts the effect of uric acid, which produces rheumatism by destroying the oxolate and phosphate of lime in the bones, and the membranes inclosing the joints.

Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists. (Eclectric is not Electric.)

A story writer has finished a sketch called "Lifted Out of Herself." I would be difficult for Bernhardt to be treated in that way and have anything left.

The Talent of Success. Is nothing more than doing well that which is to be done, doing it promptly and at the right time—very simple essentials, but not too common in combination. This exactly expresses the qualities of that famous remedy for corns, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It never fails to do the work well, does it promptly, and at the right place; never hangs fire like a loaded gun going off at the wrong time; acts only on the parts affected, and doing its work in the nicest manner imaginable. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. Beware of substitutes. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, pion's.

The woman who is interviewed by a sewing machine salesman suffers more or less from sewer gas.

Davy & Clark, Druggists, Renfrew, date of June 3rd, write," Burdock Blood Bitters though comparatively a new preparation, has taken the lead in this locality as a blood purifier, our sales of it being equal to that of all other medicines used for the purpose during the last year." 18.

The Boston Transcript's musical critic characterizes Mr Mass' piano playing as "eminently musicianly." It is sorrowingfully to see the English language maltreatedly.

An Admonition.

To neglect a cough or cold, is but to invite cousumption, that destroyer of the human race. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will cure the cough and allay all irritation of the bronchial tubes and lungs, and effectually remedy all pulmonary complaints, such as Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, &c. 17

"A. P." 114

ST. JACOBS OIL

TRADE MARK

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,

Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,

Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,

AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.

(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

SETTLERS

Going to Manitoba, the Great North-West, California, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska,

Can get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets FREE by enclosing a 2 cent stamp, and stating of what part of the country they wish Particulars. Address,

Department of Emigration,

33 York Street, Toronto,

W. R. CALLAWAY, Manager.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE CLOTH and Wire Goods at the Toronto Wire Works, 116 King St. West. T. G. RICE.

MANITOBA FARM—TO AN ACTUAL Settler the north ½ of sec. 1, Tp. 12 R. 29 W. is offered for $3.00 per acre, 6 years time. Soil the very best, only 2 miles Elkhorn Station, main line C. P. R. Apply to A. BOWERMAN Box 49, Winnipeg, or J. H. MACMULLEN 449 Yonge Street, Toronto.

YORK FARMERS COLONY, N. W. T. Free Homesteads with preemptions added now open in this fertile tract. For list of present settlers, improvements now going on and full information address Head Office, 1 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers wanted as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director.

RUSSIAN MULBERRY—INTRODUCED from Russia; perfectly hardy throughout Ontario; bears when two years old, and so densely as to exclude the leaves; price, packed and delivered at railroad station—2 feet high, 60 cents; 3 to 4 feet, 75c.; supply limited; orders booked in rotation as received; also grapevines. Send for price list. J. W. JOHNSTON, Campbellford Nurseries and Vineyard, Ontario

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City save Baggage Expressage and Carriage hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to one dollar and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

A woman of a certain age is never a certain woman whose age is certain.

There was a young lady quite fair,
Who had much trouble with her hair,
So she bought Carboline,
And a sight to be seen,
Is the head of this maiden, I declare.

Vegetine

TWO BOTTLES CURED

San Francisco, Cal., May 30, 1881.

H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass.: Dear Sir,—I was afflicted with a most disagreeable humor for several months, physicians being unable to tell me what it was. Dr. Maxwell, Dr. Lean, Dr. Hale and other well known physicians in this city prescribing for me, some calling it Nettle Rash, some Eructa, Poison Oak, and others Salt Rheum, but all failed to give relief, and I became so bad that I could not sleep or attend to business. Two bottles of Vegetine have cured me, and I cheerfully recommend it as the Ne Plus Ultra of Blood Medicines.

R. F. FITZGERALD, 137 Seventh st.

Canker Humor Cured.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 22, 1881.

Mr. H. R. Stevens: Sir,—After trying a number of remedies, was cured of the worst form of Canker Humor by taking several bottles of Vegetine. Yours,

J. EDGAR CRANDALL,
No. 22 Perkins st.

Vegetine in England.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 13, 1881.

H. R. Stevens, Esq., Boston, Mass.:

Sir,—I take pleasure in informing you that I have had occasion to use your well known Vegetine. For some time I felt run down, and too close application to business. I had used two or three bottles of your popular medicine when I felt greatly invigorated and able for almost any kind of work in connection with my large dry goods business.

My sister in England has been ailing from Nervous Prostration, Want of Appetite and General Debility. I took her a bottle of Vegetine on my last visit, and sent her half a dozen since. At last accounts she writes me that she has greatly improved, and feels as though she would soon be as well as ever. I am sure that Vegetine would have a large sale in England if introduced into that country.

Believe me yours very truly,

E. T. MAHON,
Of Mahon Bros., Dry Goods Merchants.

Sympathy for the Nervous

Nervous Sufferer. A dose of Vegetine taken just before going to bed will insure a comfortable night's rest to the nervous sufferer.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists

BUSINESS CHANCES

DRUG BUSINESS FOR SALE IN TOWN of 16,000 population, doing cash trade of $6,500 annually, stock about $4,500. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

MILLINERY AND FANCY GOODS BUSINESS for sale in thriving western city of 10,000 population; stock about $1,400; in first-class shape. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

MERCHANT TAILOR'S BUSINESS for sale in Toronto—first-class stock and trade, or cash about $1,200, all available for spring trade. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

PLUMBING AND GAS FITTING BUSINESS for sale in live western town of 5,000 population, having its gas works (which works now being built); stock and tools about $1,000; rent low. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

MILLINERY AND MANTLE BUSINESS for sale; a general merchant, in a western village of 1,000 population, with a good country around, would sell out this branch of his business; stock about $800; at 40 cents on the dollar; largely available for coming season's trade. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East. Portraits in oil life size.

MISCELLANEOUS.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. CO., 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLARBY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufacturer of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 17 King E., Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweller, 13 Yonge Street, Toronto.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2, $5, or $10 lots. By post prepaid. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

100 Choice Selections for the Autograph Album and 6 Handsome Cards for one 3-cent stamp. The CALL, Mattapan, Mass.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete. C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED—$10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. H. E. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland, U. S.

ROOFING MATERIALS, CARPET AND Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS, 4 Adelaide, St., East, Toronto.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, V. S., Edin. Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50, INCLUDING FOUR tunes, T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical Instruments, Piano Music, Band Music, &c. Catalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface, heavy and very tough. Send for new price list. J. G. WOODLAND & CO., Printers, Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-st. East. Business Agent and Valuer.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION. Co-operative Life Assurance. Provide for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON PAGE, Sec., 57 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT 19, Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Holland Landing 212 acres, Northern R. R. Station situated on corner of this Lot, the land is high rolling clay loam. Brick house, frame Bank Barn. J. W. G. WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 26 Toronto-st. Toronto.

$6.25 FOR 39 CTS.

Any person sending me 39 cents and the addresses of 10 acquaintances will receive by return mail goods (not recipes) that net $6.25. This is an honest offer to introduce staple goods. If you want a fortune, act now. J. D. HENRY, P. O. Box 127, Buffalo, N. Y.

HIS SACRIFICE;

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXVII.—(CONTINUED.)

"And why did you not?" he asked, as having removed his top-coat and placed it on the hall rack, he followed her into the reception-room.

"Why?" glancing saucily up at him, "because I had a faint hope that you would think of me and would come without being sent for."

Percy fetched a sigh, but he did not tell Louie that she had been in his thoughts all that day and half the night before; he only sat down on a quaintly shaped couch covered with curiously wrought velvet which she drawn up near the fireplace, and stared rather gloomily into the fire that was blazing and crackling on the tiled hearth.

"There," said Louie, as having drawn the magnificently embroidered portiere which draped the doorway, she seated herself beside Percy on the little couch. "Now it may snow just as hard as it wants. You will stay to supper, Percy, this evening, we will sing as mamma always likes a little sacred music Sunday nights, you know—and altogether we will have a very happy little time of it."

Percy certainly ought to have been perfectly happy sitting there in the exquisitely furnished room, fragrant with flowers, brightened and made so cheerful by the blazing fire, with Louie looking very lovely in her dainty toilet of white cashmere, to entertain him; but that he was in anything like high spirits was quite evident, and he sighed again very heavily as he looked at the sweet, smiling face that was to him the loveliest, sweetest one in the world.

"Louie," he said, seriously, "I am going home Tuesday."

"Going home! Oh, Percy, really and truly!" said Louie, regretfully.

"Really and truly," answered Percy, gloomily "Last night when I went back to the hotel from here, I found a letter from my grandfather; he isn't feeling very well and he wants to see me. The old gentleman has taken an affection for me, and he thinks I have been away from home long enough. I know I have not treated him just right—you see he and my grandmother have no one but me; so I wrote home last night that I would start for home Tuesday."

This time it was Louie that sighed.

"I wish that you did not live in Baltimore, Percy," she said wistfully, "I cannot bear to have you go away; we have been such good friends, have been so happy together, you do not know how much I shall miss you."

Percy turned his head away.

"You don't know how much I shall miss you, Louie," he murmured.

"But then you can come and see me, can make little flying trips to New York," she said, laying one hand upon his arm. "Really, Percy, it is selfish in me to want you to stay by her; your grandfather and grandmother must be so anxious to see you, and you must have so many friends in Baltimore. I wonder," looking innocently up at him, "that you have remained here so long as you have."

He caught his breath, his handsome face flushing.

"Have you wondered at it, Louie? have you never guessed the reason of my long stay here? Oh, Louie, my darling, don't you know that I love you; I have loved you ever since that day I found you there in the woods at Schaffhausen, that it is because I could not leave you that I have lingered here in New York week after week?"

Percy's secret was his no longer. He had really intended to offer Louie his hand that day, but not in the impetuous fashion in which he had just told her of his love for her; but the passionate words had fallen from his lips before he could check them.

A crimson flush stained Louie's fair face; she looked up at him for a moment in startled surprise, then suddenly the long-lashed lids fell over the brown eyes.

"Oh, my darling," pleaded Percy bending his head until his eyes touched Louie's soft hair, and making a desperate effort to restrain the desire to strain the little figure to his heart, "won't you look up at me and tell me that you love me and will be my own precious wife?"

She clasped her small hands nervously together.

"Percy, I can't tell you that yet—I do not know myself—I have never thought about it."

"Never thought about loving me—oh Louie!"

The passionate pain in his voice, the sorrow in his eyes, went to her heart. Louie was no coquette, it afforded her no pleasure to know that for love of her a man was suffering. She looked at him helplessly, as she said, hesitatingly:

"I did not know I never thought that you loved me, Percy; I thought we were good friends, almost like brother and sister."

"You like me, Louie?"

"Like you, Percy? You know I like you better than any one I have ever met."

"And would it be very hard to love me?" asked Percy sorrowfully.

She looked at the handsome face raised so pleadingly to hers, and asked herself the question. Would it be a very difficult matter to love Percy Evringham? Perhaps, she did love him, she was always happy with him, she would miss him very much when he went home, yet—— Yet, deep down in Louie's own true heart there was something that told her she did not love handsome Percy as women sometimes love. Still something in the expression of her face gave Percy a little hope, for he said, impulsively taking both her hands in his own:

"Don't give me your answer now, Louie, I will wait for it until I come back to you again, then you will tell me, darling, won't you? and God grant that your answer will be 'Yes.'"

"Yes, that will be better, Percy," she murmured, lifting her frank eyes to his face; "when you come back to me again I will tell you whether or no I will be your wife."

And then the conversation was broken by Muriel's entrance into the room.

Both Percy and Louie were rather silent that evening, Muriel and Arundel doing most of the talking. When Percy rose to leave the house Louie rose, too, and led him into the hall.

He was coming the next evening to dine with them, so they would see each other again before he left the city; still a great sorrow at leaving her rose within him as she gave him her hand, saying:

"Good-night, Percy."

Holding the little hand tenderly, he looked down wistfully into her face.

"Louie, when I come back to you, what do you think your answer will be?"

And in all truth and sincerity she answered:

"I think, Percy, it will be 'Yes.'"

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Long after every one else in the house was sleeping that night, Louie lay wide awake thinking very earnestly and deeply about Percy. The knowledge that he loved her and wished her for his wife had been a great surprise to her; she had spoken truly when she told him she had never thought about loving him. Had she been older, more worldly wise, probably she would have thought about it, as it was, the idea had not entered her head. She had been happy with Percy, had enjoyed his society and the pleasant intimacy which had grown up between them, and it had never occurred to her that his feelings for her were any warmer than hers for him.

And now he had told her that he loved her, and asked her to marry him, and the pleasant intimacy, the happy friendship, must be changed: it must either be an intimacy warmer and closer than it had ever been, or it must be separation; she must be either Percy's betrothed wife, or she must be nothing to him. She knew she liked him, there was not a shadow of doubt in her mind as to that; but did she love him, love him as her mother loved her father? Louie asked herself that question and the answer her heart gave her was decidedly unsatisfactory.

Still she liked no one better than she did him, and she had no wish to sadden his life as she knew she would do if, when he came back for her answer, she should tell him no. Handsome, graceful Percy, why should she not love him? Perhaps she did, for his sake she hoped so; and then with a great many perplexing, worrying little thoughts, tangling themselves in her brain, Louie fell asleep.

She was practising the next morning in the music-room when Muriel came in partly to listen to an exquisite nocturne—one of Chopin's—which Louie was playing, partly because she wanted a little quiet conversation with her.

Neither Muriel or Arundel had failed to notice Percy's plainly manifested regard for Louie. It had worried Muriel not a little at first, not because she entertained any feelings against Percy, she liked him very much indeed, there was a very tender place in her heart for him; as far as he was personally concerned she would rather have given her daughter to him than to any young man she had ever met; but it seemed to her that it would be such a cruel mockery for him to marry the niece of his father's murderer. She had finally allowed herself to be persuaded by Arundel's arguments, and had come to think almost as he did. The day previous, when she had gone into the reception-room and found the two young people there alone, she had noticed the flushed, eager look on Percy's face, the troubled expression in Louie's eyes, and the thought had flashed through her mind that Percy had spoken his love.

Obedient to her mother's request, Louie played the nocturne through, then sat idly running the fingers of one hand over the ivory keys; and Muriel gazing intently at the averted face noticed the violet shadows under the brown eyes, the little sorrowful look about the curved lips.

"Louie" she said, suddenly, "you are sorry, are you not, that Percy Evringham is going home?"

The fair face flushed as the girl answered:

"Yes, mamma, I am very sorry; we have been such good friends, Percy and I, and I shall miss him very much."

Muriel was silent a moment, then she said slowly:

"Louie, dear, have you ever thought that this intimacy between you and Percy might possibly mean more to him than it does to you?"

The small hand fell heavily upon the keys, which clashed discordantly, the flush deepened on the sweet face as Louie answered almost wearily. "I never did think so, mamma; I thought we always could be friends like this, until—yesterday."

"It is just as I thought," said Muriel, half regretfully to herself; then tenderly, "Tell me all about it, cherie."

Louie had meant to tell her mother; there had been no thought in her mind to keep Percy's proposal from her; she had perfect confidence in her beautiful mother—she was too true by nature to admit a love which was not half made up of trust, and loving Muriel with all her heart, she had always placed implicit faith in her, had never thought of keeping back anything from her, had always gone to her with all her little griefs and troubles as well as her joys. So, leaving her seat on the piano stool, she slipped down in her old place at Muriel's feet and murmured:

"There is not much to tell, mamma; Percy loves me and wants me to give him my promise that I will some day be his wife. That is all."

"I think that is enough," said Muriel, thoughtfully. It was so hard to realize that somebody wanted to marry her little Louie, her dainty baby girl; she had thought of it many times, of course, as all mothers think half sadly of the time when their children shall leave the home nest and go away to make homes of their own, but in a vague, dreamy way, as of something still far off in the future.

"And what did you tell him, Louie; what answer did you give him?" she asked, winding one of the girl's sunny curls around her finger, her thoughts going back to the time when she, Muriel Trowbridge then, had been sought in marriage.

"I gave him no answer, mamma, I could not; it was so sudden, so unexpected, that I was totally unprepared for it, and Percy is willing to wait until he comes back here again, and by that time I will know whether I love him well enough to be his wife."

"Louie, do you love Percy Evringham?"

Louie raised her truthful eyes to her mother's face.

"I do not know, mamma," she answered, simply.

If Muriel Anthon's experience had been more like the experience of many women, she would have known that her daughter did not love Percy, that the feelings she entertained for him were only those of sincere friendship, a friendship which would never under any circumstances develop into anything warmer or deeper; but Muriel had knowledge of that love of which married is not the beginning but the consummation; she only knew that her love had come after marriage, that few wives had been so perfectly happy as she had been, consequently it seemed to her that a love which began at the altar was the love which endured through life and eternity.

There is no use arguing the point; we all of us judge the world and human nature by our own personal experience.

"Would you be pleased, mamma, if I should marry Percy?" continued Louie; "is it your wish that when he comes back to me for my answer I will tell him yes?"

A shadow fell over Muriel's face. Would it please her? ah, she could not tell. Still, perhaps, as her husband said, if an Anthon should marry an Evringham, the stain of blood upon the Anthon name would be in a measure wiped away.

"I like Percy very much, Louie," she answered, speaking slowly and hesitatingly: "I should think he would make you happy; I could give to you him without fear, and I know it would please your father."

"I would like to please papa," said Louie, wistfully. "Do you know, mamma, it has always seemed to me that I have never quite pleased him: I have always thought that he did not love me—well, as much as Mr. Brentwood loves Aline, or Grandpa Trowbridge loves you."

"Oh, my darling," said Muriel, reproachfully, "why do you think of such things? It is unjust to your father; it hurts me to hear you talk so; he does love you very dearly, Louie. And why should he not love you? Are you not his only child?"

But after Muriel had left her, going into the reception-room to entertain a lady friend who had called, Louie sat there thinking, and mingled with her thoughts of Percy was the wish that she was dearer to her father than she knew full well she was.

When late that afternoon Arundel came home he found Muriel waiting for him in the library, her beautiful face very thoughtful.

"I have something to tell you, Russel," she said, so earnestly that Arundel, looking down in surprise, saw the shadow in the lustrous eyes, and folding her in his arms, kissed her until her face flushed and brightened under his caresses.

"What is it, my darling?" he asked.

"Russel, Percy Evringham has asked Louie to marry him."

A sudden light flashed into Arundel's eyes.

"And she has promised him, has she, that she will be his wife?" he said, eagerly.

"No, not yet; she is not quite sure whether she loves him well enough."

"But she must marry him," said Arundel, his eyes darkening with suppressed excitement. "I have always felt that if your—our child should marry Percy Evringham's son—" He paused abruptly; he could not go on and speak his thoughts; tell Muriel that it had seemed to him that the marriage would seem a sort of compromise with fate; that the retribution he had always feared would come upon him through Louie—the child of the man he had wronged so terribly—would be warded off; that he would in some way escape the earthly punishment of his sin.

"I know what your thoughts are upon the subject," murmured Muriel; "but still I cannot make it seem just right to me."

"Muriel, if a higher power than ours has ordained that it has been so, surely it is for some good and wise purpose."

The musical voice was smooth and unbroken; wonderful powers of self-control had Arundel Anthon when he cared to exercise them.

"Yes, that is so," murmured Muriel, musingly; "and no one believes more implicitly than I, that the smallest workings of our lives tend to some great result. But, Russel, I have been thinking all day that you ought to write to Percy Evringham's grandfather."

He started in positive horror; he write to Howard Evringham! to the father of the man who had died at his hands! Great heaven! the thought was horrible.

"Muriel, what a strange idea! Why should I write to him?"

Try as he would, he could not keep his lips from trembling, his voice from breaking.

"Because, Russel, Percy will tell his grand-parents about us; will tell them, perhaps, that he has asked Louie to be his wife; and it cannot help but be a great shock and surprise to them both. They would be justified in thinking it very strange if you did not send them some word—you knew them so well once. They know that you have not forgotten the terrible link which binds the Anthons and Evringhams together; and, besides this, Russel, I will never give my consent to Louie marrying Percy until I know that he is aware that her uncle was his father's murderer."

Arundel had never seen before the firm determination upon Muriel's face that came over it as she spoke; he felt that no argument of his could alter her resolve.

"And you want me to write and ask Howard Evringham to tell his grandson that Arundel Anthon killed his father," he said, slowly, while his face whitened until it was perfectly colorless—small wonder considering the terrible significance the words held for him.

"Muriel you do not know what you are asking me to do."

"Yes, Russel, I know that it will be no easy task," she said sadly. "It will bring back all the past, you will live over again all the sorrow and pain, just as you did that night so long ago when you told me Arundel's history; but you will do it won't you, dear?"

He looked down at her. What would he not do for sake of that dear face?

"You wish it, Muriel—yes, I will write to Howard Evringham," he said.

Percy came that evening, and after dinner he and Louie went to spend an hour or so with Aline Brentwood; and while Muriel entertained some friends who had called, Arundel sat alone in his library and wrote a long letter to Howard Evringham. Heaven only knows what it cost him to do it; still, when it was finished, it was a well-written, manly, straightforward letter, such as poor, wronged Russel might have written with all sincerity.

Percy was very much surprised, when just before he left the house, Mr. Anthon gave him a letter, which he desired him to give to his grandfather.

"I did not know you were acquainted with him," he said.

And Arundel answered quietly:

"It is many years since I saw your grandmother or grandfather, but I once knew them very well. Your grandfather will explain it all to you; perhaps you will feel differently towards us when you know it all."

And Percy, very much mystified, said earnestly:

"Nothing could make me feel differently toward you, Mr, Anthon."

The next morning Percy Evringham went home to Baltimore, his heart filled with hopes which, though they were not certain, were none the less bright and sweet.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Louie missed Percy Evringham very much after he had gone; she had seen so much of him that it seemed strange indeed to have a day go by without bringing him to the house. It had been so pleasant to have him run in at any time sans ceremonie, to know that he was willing to go anywhere with her, do anything for her; she missed the walks and drives they had been accustomed to take together, the songs, in the twilight, the merry conversations, the visits to the theatre, the little suppers at Delmonico's. Percy had been a charming friend, a most agreeable companion, and before many days had gone by Louie found herself thinking that life with him was very much brighter and pleasanter than life without him.

Still she was far from satisfied with her feeling for him. She felt vaguely that the feelling she had for him, warm and tender as it was, was not the love of which she had read and heard—that grand and noble passion which in its time had made men and women capable of deeds almost divine, of sacrifices almost superhuman. She found herself wondering if for Percy's sake she could patiently suffer grief and pain, whether for love of him she could give up everything.

"For it seems to me that a love which is not capable of suffering and sacrifice is not the love which God meant husband and wife should bear each other," she said to herself.

Dearly as she loved Aline Brentwood, she had not meant to tell her that Percy had asked her to be his wife. It did not seem quite just to him: but one morning she had been sitting with Aline in some way it had come out, and Louie looking dreamily into the fire as she talked, did not notice the death-like pallor that crept over Aline's face, the drawn look that came about her mouth. Ah, sure, Aline Brentwood had suffered patiently for her love's sake. She had made no outward sign of pain; bravely she had borne the grief which had come so suddenly into her fair young life, and it was no light grief to love as she was by nature capable of loving and to know that love would never meet with any recompense. Finding, as she soon had found, that it was not possible to tear her love for Percy Evringham out of her heart—so deeply had it rooted itself there—she buried it as deep as she could and went on with her life, and though the bright sunlight had faded out of that life no one suspected it, not even her own fond parents.

"My sorrow shall not sadden any one else," she said to herself.

She had never been more admired than she was this season. People said of her, "she is more beautiful than ever," and they said truly. She was more beautiful than she had ever been. The shadow of sadness in the great dusky eyes, the sorrowful look upon the perfect mouth made the exquisite face a rarely fascinating one.

It seemed so strange to her when Louie told her the reason she had not given Percy her answer at once.

"How can she help loving him when he loves her as I know so well he does," she thought sorrowfully. Then, lovingly as though she might have been his sister, she spoke of him, telling Louie that she had known for a long time that he loved her; and Louie listened, her heart growing very tender for absent Percy, while Aline pleaded his cause.

"I think by the time he comes for my answer I shall have discovered that I love him very dearly," she said, her face flushing softly. And though Aline's heart was aching as it had never ached before, she said, none the less earnestly:

"I hope you will, dear, for I know he loves you very truly, Louie, and it would make his life bitterly sorrowful if you should tell him you could not be his wife."

"Aline, if anything should happen to shew me that I did not love Percy as I think a woman ought to love the man she marries, I could not tell him I would be his wife, though he loves me a thousand times more than he does," said Louie suddenly, her eyes almost black with earnestness.

"I would not want you to," answered Aline, "I think a woman who marries a man out of pity does him a greater injustice than she would do if she told him she did not love him, and so could not be his wife."

Between Christmas and New Year's two letters came to her father, of which Louie knew nothing, though one of them was from Percy Evringham, the other from his grandfather.

Howard Evringham wrote a very beautiful letter; Arundel clenched his teeth together as he read it, remembering the terrible sorrow he had cast upon this man whose bread he had eaten, whose hand he had clasped, whose son he had killed. He wrote that he had never cherished any bitter feeling towards the Anthons, had never held them responsible for Arundel's crime. He had been surprised when Percy had told him the name of the family whose society he had found was so pleasant while he was in New York, surprised when he told him of his love for Russel Anthon's daughter, but he thought that if the two young people loved each other they need not be parted because of the sin of a man long dead, a man who had voluntarily renounced all claim to his family name, had severed himself from all his relatives, who had died a stranger in a strange land. As Russel had desired him, he had told Percy the story of his father's death, and though the boy had been terribly shocked and saddened it had not changed in any degree his feelings of friendship and regard for Mr. and Mrs. Russel Anthon or his love for their daughter.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Notable Watches.

Laid away among the treasures of the past, in strange and almost grotesque forms, are many ancient "timepieces." Cunningly wrought were they; deft fingers chiselled thereon rare traceries of gold and silver, with much adornment of priceless gems. In one, within the body of an eagle, opening across the centre, are seen the works, scrolls and flowers, richly engraved on a ground of niello, adorn the dial-plate. This pretty bauble, when not connected with the girdle by the ring in the centre of the bird's back, can stand out bravely upon the strongly developed claws.

The Earl of Stamford owned an ancient time-keeper royally adorned. Jacinths formed the cases, and the cover was set about with diamonds on an enamelled border.

Think of a "nut watch!"—golden acorn in shape, and at a certain hour hearing from its contracted proportions the report of a diminutive wheel-lock pistol.

Still another fancy was for cockle-shell cases, having them richly chased and enamelled.

Quite an elaborately finished watch was in the shape of a duck; the case was of silver, the features heavily chased. Opening the lower part, one finds a silver dial-plate, encircled with much gilt ornamentation in floriated scroll-work and angels' heads. On small rubies the tiny wheels moved noiselessly on in their appointed ways. This was made in the reign of good Queen Bess.

Prominently among such relics mention must be made of the silver clock of Charles the First, and given by him on the morning of his execution (January, 1649) to Sir Thomas Herbert. It was a remarkable specimen of the finest handiwork of the times; a picture discloses rich tracery upon the back, rim, and face of this historic time-keeper of scroll-work and elaborately finished foliage. Upon the back one sees a large central flower, from which radiate with true artistic touch leaves, buds, and swaying tendrils. It has descended as an heirloom to William Tewnly Mitford, Esq.

Poles for Beans and Other Climbers.

White birches and alders so commonly used for bean poles, are about the poorest, for they last only one season at the best, and sometimes break off at the surface of the ground, and let down the beautiful pyramid of green before the pods are ripe. White cedar from the swamps is durable, and the rough bark enables the vines to climb without any help from strings, but these are not always accessible. Red Cedar is much more widely distributed, and on the whole makes the best bean pole. The wood is as durable as the White Cedar, and young trees, from which poles are made, grow quite stout at the ground, and if well set, will resist very strong winds. A set of these poles will last for a generation. For bean poles all the side branches are trimmed off, but for a support for ornamental climbers, these may be left on. A Cedar, six or eight feet high, with the branches gradually shortened from below, upwards, makes an excellent support for ornamental vines. One of these covered with a clematis, or other showy climber, makes a pyramid of great beauty. It is well to prepare a supply of poles for beans and other plants before the work is pressing.

He will not speak his Father's Name.

There is a boy 8 years old whose parents live in White County, Ark. They are highly esteemed citizens, and people of decided culture and refinement. The boy has never been heard, nor can he be induced by any means to utter his father's name, or address him even indirectly. His strategy is more than equal to both his parents and the other members of the family, who have laid all manner of plans to force him into a single utterance of his father's name. Upon one occasion they planned not to get him any boots until he asked for them like the others, but this was a failure also, for he went on through the snow with his bare feet just as though he were in calfskin to his knees. He has a profound respect for his father, and will follow him about the farm for a whole day at a time.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Wagner's Incivility.

Apart from his musical gift, Richard Wagner was a man of very common mould. Delicacy of feeling, the grace of manner which poetry should beget, he had none. A year ago he spent the winter at Palermo, meditating his score of "Parsifal," and a great banquet was given in his honor by the Sicilian aristocracy at the Villa Tasca. He came three hours late. He then strolled in with an old felt hat on his head, a battered Scotch cloak on his shoulders, and a cotton umbrella in his hand.

His hosts, who had waited for three hours, were disgusted, and the incident was so hotly discussed in the Italian papers that the composer's official organ at Bayreuth published a statement saying, "The maestro felt bound to act as he did, to prevent the Sicilian nobility from worrying him with more invitations."

Advertising in America.

The prices paid for advertising in the United States may be gathered from the following figures:—The Chicago Tribune it is said, for a column a year receives 26,000 dols. The New York Herald receives for its lowest-priced column 39,723 dols., and for its highest 348,000 dols.; the New York Tribune for its lowest 29,764 dols., and for its highest 85,648 dols.; and these papers are never at a loss for advertisements to fill their columns. Their patronage comes not from any desire to assist the respective papers, but from business men who find it profitable to advertise.

The STANDARD office is noted for being prompt in filling orders for job prining, which has been the means of greatly increasing its custom. We are in receipt of many letters of thanks and good wishes from outlying points for neatness in design and despatch in forwarding orders. Our business is increasing especially in fine work, which we made a specialty, having added recently to our already large assortment of material of fashionable type, besides having one of the most rapid and perfect running job presses manufactured. We are prepared ta execute all kinds of work in Pamphlets, Circulars, Letter Heads, Note Blanks, Receipts, Business Cards, Funeral Cards, Posters, Hand Bills, Dodgers, Printed Envelopes, &c., &c. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Address all letters to

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
STANDARD OFFICE,
Markdale, Ont.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, MARCH 1ST, 1883.

THE ELECTIONS

LIST OF THE SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES.

The following is a correct list of those who were successful in being elected on Tuesday last.

Addington,	Dennison,	Con
Brant, N.	Young	Ref.
Brant, S.	Hardy,	"
Brockville	Fraser,	"
Bruce, N.	Rowand,	"
Bruce, S.	O'Connor,	"
Cardwell,	Hammill,	Con.
Carleton,	Monk,	"
Cornwall,	Ross, A. P.	"
Dufferin,	McGhee,	"
Dundas,	Broder,	"
Durham, E.	Brereton	"
Durham, W.	McLaughlin,	Ref.
Elgin, E.	Ermatinger,	Con.
Elgin, W	J. Cascaden,	Ref.
Essex, N.	S. White,	Con.
Essex, S.	Balfour,	Ref.
Frontenac,	Wilmot,	Con.
Glengarry,	Rayside,	Ref.
Grenville, S.	F. J. French,	Con.
Grey, E.	A. W. Lauder,	"
Grey, N.	D. Creighton,	"
Grey, S.	J. Blyth,	"
Haldimand,	Dr. Baxter,	Ref.
Halton,	Kearns,	Con.
Hamilton,	J. N. Gibson,	Ref.
Hastings, E.	Hudson,	Con.
Hastings, N.	Wood,	"
Hastings, W.	Sills,	Ref.
Huron, E.	T. Gibton,	"
Huron, W.	A. M. Ross,	"
Huron, S.	A Bishop.	"
Kent, E.	D. McCraney,	"
Kent, W.	Clancey,	Con.
Kingston,	J. Metcalfe,	"
Lambton, E.	P. Graham,	Ref.
Lambton, W.	Hon. T.B.Pardy,	"
Lanark, N.	W. C. Colwell,	"
Lanark, S.	W. Lees,	Con.
Leeds & Grenville, N.	H. Merrick,	"
Leeds, S.	Preston,	"
Lennox,	Roe.	"
Lincoln,	S. Neelon,	Ref.
London,	Merredith,	Con.
Middlesex, E,	McKenzie,	Ref.
Middlesex, N.	J. Waters,	"
Middlesex, W.	A. Johnson,	Con.
Monck,	Harcourt,	Ref.
Norfolk, N.	J. B. Freeman,	"
Norfolk, S.	W Morgan,	Con.
Northumberland, E.,	Ferris,	Ref.
" W.	Mulholland,	Con.
Ontario, N.	Gould,	Ref.
Ontario, S.	J. Dryden,	"
Ottawa,	Baskerville,	Con.
Oxford, N.	Hon. A. Crooks,	Ref.
Oxford, S.	" O. Mowat,	"
Peel,	K. Chisholm,	"
Perth, N.	Hess,	Con.
Perth, S.	T. Ballentyne,	Ref.
Peterboro' E.	T. Blezard	"
Peterboro' W.	Carnegie	Con.
Prescott,	A. Hagar,	Ref.
Prince Edward,	J. Hart,	Con.
Renfrew, N.	T. Murray,	Ref.
Renfrew, S.	Dowling.	"
Russell,	Robillard,	Con.
Simcoe, E.	Drury,	Ref.
Simcoe, S.	McKay,	Con.
Simcoe, W.	O. J. Phelps,	Ref.
Stormont,	J. Kerr,	Con.
Toronto, E.	Hon. A. Morris,	"
Toronto, W.	Ald. Clark,	"
Victoria, N.	Fell,	"
Victoria, S.	McIntyre,	Ref.
Waterloo, N.	W. D. Snider,	"
Waterloo, S.	I. Masters,	"
Welland,	Moran,	"
Wellington, C.	Hon. C. Clarke	"
Wellington, W.	R. McKim,	"
Wellington, S.	J. Laidlaw,	"
Wentworth, N.	Dr. McMahon,	"
Wentworth, S.	N. Awrey,	"
York, E.	Badgerow,	Ref.
York, N.	Widdifield,	"
York, W,	Major Gray,	Con.

RECAPITULATION.

Party.	Elected.	Gains.
Reformers	48	7
Conservatives	38	15

Reform majority 10 net Con. gain 8

Algoma and Muskoka are yet to hear from.

NOTES.

The three ridings in Grey county have all gone Conservative as follows: East Grey, A. W. Lauder, 106 majority; North, D. Creighton, majority 159; South, J. Blyth, majority 100.

Mr. Myles is a plucky man and made an excellent canvas.

Oh, Yes! Oh, Yes!!

The Ontario elections are now over. The storm has passed. The excitement is cooling down, and we trust the right men are in the right place. And amid all the discussion on the Boundary Award, the Streams Bill and many other things, it is pleasing to note that there is one point on which men of all shades of opinion, and all women, too, are fully agreed, viz: That the place to buy Tea is at Trimble & Wright's, Markdale, where the rush after their notorious 28c. Tea still continues. No pains or expense will be spared in order to supply the ever increasing demand. We cannot procure space to give anything like a full list, but would beg to refer the public to the following gentlemen as a few of our more distant customers who have purchased by the chest:

A Munshaw, Flesherton; T. M. Wilson, Flesherton; S. Wauchob, Flesherton; Joseph Legard, Flesherton; R. M. Purdy, Eugenia; Edward O'Brien, Eugenia; John Beacroft, Eugenia; McDowell Bros., Dundalk; Nelson Bros., Dundalk; John Acheson, Dundalk; Wm. Achison, Dundalk: James Bell, Singhampton; Edward Linley, Singhampton; W. McAlear, Flesherton Station; W. Patersen, Flesherton Station; Jos. Allison, Maxwell; John Radley, Sr., Maxwell; S McCallum, Vandeleur; Mrs. J. Allen. Berkeley; Robert Walker, Berkeley; Wm. Love, Berkeley; S. Halliday, Tp. Clark, Durham Co:; M. Johnson, Tp. Clark, Durham Co.; while at home the purchase of chests and quantities from five lbs. to 25 twenty-five lbs. are named legion. Don't fail to try it.

Our stock in every department is always kept full. An endless variety to choose from, which in quality cannot be beat, and at prices that simply defy competition.

TRIMBLE & WRIGHT,
Reid's Block,
Markdale.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR.—In the STANDARD of Feb. 1st there is an article by "Farmer," which by the way is a move in the right direction for I think that a free and friendly discussion in the local paper of matters pertaining to Agriculture would be of profit to all. There was a suggestion by "Farmer" with a regard to holding township shows all on the same day that I think is defective, in a place like Markdale where the show is largely made up from other townships it would be a small affair if confined to our own township, now instead of curtailing and making the thing smaller I would like to see it increase and become larger Suppose the friends of Agriculture within a circuit of five miles around Markdale would come forward and join the society so as to warrant the directors to get up a good prize list and extend the show to two days, I think it would be a decided improvement, besides the village would be largely benefited by the same. Hoping to hear the views of more of the Farmers, and thanking you for the above space,

I remain
FARMER No. 2.

SURPRISE PARTY.

On the 19th January the officers and children of Epping Sunday School and other friends surprised Mr. R. H. Stinson, their former Superintendent, by taking possession of his new home and presenting him with a handsome family bible, purchased from Mr. Harkness, Meaford. After refreshments Mr. Richard Ball was called to the chair, when the following address and presentation took place:

ADDRESS.

To Mr, and Mrs. R. H. Stinson and Family.

DEAR FRIENDS,—As circumstances which could not be avoided cause your separation from among us, and especially from the Sabbath school in which you took such an energetic part. Such circumstances occur occasionally, and in many cases deep regret is caused, so it falls to our lot to regret your departure from among us, and fully appreciating your valuable services rendered us during your stay among us, we are therefore desirous of expressing to you in a tangible form the highest regard in which you were held by us, both as a friend and superintendent in the Sabbath school. We therefore take leave to present to you and Mrs. Stinson this gift as a slight expression of our regard for you and not on account of its intrinsic value, and may you and your family be the possessors of the rich treasures contained therein. And we trust that the same efforts that have crowned your success during your stay among us may ever attend you in the future, and may the Giver of all good guide you and your family into all spiritual blessings.

Signed by CASSIE BLACK,
JOSEPHINE BALL,
R. KILLOUGH, PHOEBE GILRAY.

REPLY.

Mr. Chairman and Friends.

It affords me the greatest pleasure to bid you all a hearty welcome to my new home. I am sure that your presence here to-night is a surprise to me, and the valuable present you have presented me and my partner with is more of a surprise to us, as I feel that it is quite unmerited by me. If I done anything in the Sunday school I only done it as my duty to those dear children and to God. I love the Sabbath school, and believe it is the nursery of the church, and as Christ has given us all a work to do I am convinced that the Sunday school is my place. I spent many pleasant hours at Epping school, and although you so often placed me at the head of the school I always felt that there were others of more ability that ought to have been there instead of me. I always found the people of Epping courteous, kind and the best of neighbors, and when going away from there I felt it like leaving home, and when I visit there again I know that I am welcome. The valuable book of the Word of God that you have given to-night I shall always prize, as it will bring to mind this and many other pleasant times we have spent together May we, by the grace of God, be able to walk in the light of its truths, and may you all be enabled to accept the salvation of Christ so freely and fully provided for us. And, dear children, there is nothing that will give me more pleasure than to hear that one after another has given their heart to the Saviour. Wishing you all long life and prosperity and an abundant entrance into the kingdom. May we all meet in the kingdom above where parting is no more.

MILWAUKEE HOTEL FIRE.

THE LESSE OF THE BAR-ROOM INDICTED FOR ARSON.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 26.—The grand jury have indicted Schiller, the former lesse of the bar-room of the Newhall house, for arson. The indictment charges the prisoner with wilfully, mliciously, and feloniously setting fire to and burning the Newhall house on the night of January 10th, causing the death of a number of persons. Counsel insisted upon his immediate arraignment, and schiller was taken to court this afternoon almost unobserved. He pleaded not guilty, and was re-committed in default of $10,000 bail. The grand jury are still considering the responsibility of the owner and manager of the hotel. It is believed indictments for manslaughter will be returned against Nash, Antisdell, and the night clerk, Delaney.

The mail train was five hours late yesterday, just when people were most anxious to have it on time.

Mr. Wm. Lucas, (Banker,) returned yesterday from Lampton.

The Sunday evening service in the Methodist Church, Markdale, will commence for the time to come at 6.30 instead of 7 as heretofore.

Mrs. Wyvill's sale, Euphrasia, today, 1st.

THE BROKEN CHAIN.

LINES ON THE DEATH OF WILLIE, ONLY CHILD OF HENRY AND ELIZA JANE REID.

A family chain of precious links
In peace and beauty grew,
'Til round each loved heart there twined
A sweet affection true.
The parents in a tender way
Their offspring tried to raise,
By precept kind, from day to day,
Unto their master's praise.

Through trials of trouble, toil and care
They trusted in the Lord,
Until a boy, both kind and fair,
Appeared around their board.
But what is this can break the chain
And bear the child away,
And fill the loving hearts with pain
So happy till to-day?

Grim Death appeared in sable dress,
And will no more pass by;
The parents feel, with breaking hearts,
Their precious boy must die.
And as the early morning dawned
A billow o'er the deep
Rolled by and bore his soul away
To Jesus, there to sleep.

'Tis in the gloomy grave he lies,
The casket that they loved.
Look up, dear friends, beyond the skies,
Your Willie shines above.
For early in his infant days
He passed away to God,
And but his precious form must lie
Beneath the graveyard sod.

And though the links may one by one
Be severed from the chain,
If faithful till you're called away
You may unite again.
Yes, in the glorious world above
He waits for you to come,
And fain would bid you grieve no more
But meet him safe at home.

—By a Friend.

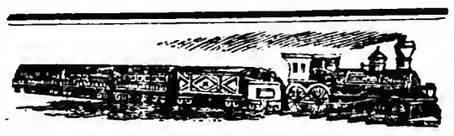
BIRTHS.

McINTYRE.—In Markdale, on the 25th ult., the wife of Mr. John McIntyre, of a daughter.

Clydesdale Stallion
FOR SALE.



That splendid Clydesdale Stallion "Scottish Champion," from imported stock, and the property of Wm. Shepherdson, will be sold cheap. The horse stands 16½ hands high, is 4 years old, jet black in color, and a sure foal getter. Any one wishing to get a bargain should take advantage of this offer. Stock taken in part payment. Address W. SHEPHERDSON, Lot 23, Con. 11, Euphrasia, Blantyre P. O. 129-4t*

GEORGE NOBLE,
INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies: CITIZENS', of Montreal,
AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and
TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale, also Village Lots
Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate, Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.
TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.98 to $1.00; Spring $1.00 to $1 02; Barley, 55c; Peas, 70; Oats, 38c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 22c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $10.00; Pork, 7.50 to 8.00; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $1.90 to $2.00

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.93 to $1.00; Spring, $1.00 to $1.01; Barley, 57c; Peas, 67c; Oats, 35c to 38c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 21c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $11.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7 90,

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.102 to $1.05; Spring, $1.05 to $1.10; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 46c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag. 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 30c to 32c.

J. W. FORD,

Is giving splendid satisfaction in

GRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention to parties from a distance so that they may have their grist home the same day.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Notice to Debtors.

ALL PERSONS INDEBMED TO ME are requested to call and settle with Mr. Turner, of the Medical Hall, or with Dr. Armstrong, and save trouble. A receipt from either of the above will be acknowledged by me.

127-29. T. S. SPROULE, M. D.

AN ACROSTIC,

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer and Fall
Right splendid good oil.
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice,
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy griating cannot do without me,
In fact all machines are blessed by its use,
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are it will please,
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm. 127-153.

Land for Sale.

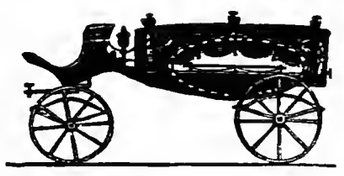
100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,

—o—



Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.

125-151.

Undertaking.

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Pobes,
Cloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and at All Hours from

GEO. GRANT,
MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. All at moderate prices. 119tf.

JNO. MONTGOMERY,
BAKER,

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mill

UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Griating and Chopping done every working day, Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."

Feb. 22nd, 1883. 128-31

& Brown

r. ell is leaving Mark- go into the Wholesale w Business in Toronto, shing to leave Mark- gether,) he has entered tnership with Mr. W. WN, late of Flesherton, practical watchmaker lar of over 15 years ex- and comes with the best mendations from some of g watchmakers in the .

rown will carry on the in Markdale.

rk entrusted to him will n a workmanlike man-rk will be guaranteed, ods sold will be found nted, or money refund-

& Brown's,

's Watchmakers & Jewellers

ll's Block,

ARKDALE ONLY.

and Other Items.

This column intended to benefit al or Society will be charged ten for the first insertion and five each sub-sequent insertion.

coming in like a lamb.

direct importer doing Markdale—W. J. McFarto press we are informed R. Anderson's residence alley, Artemesia, was des- about 6 a. m. We are ve any particulars other e house was consumed.

LIGHTNING.—A son of Glenelg was struck by ing the thunder storm Dr. Jamieson has been and he is slowly re- Chronicle.

AL.—The carnival which Friday night was well e number of maskers ress of any held in this llowing are the suc- winners :—

and Gent Skater, Ther- A. Richardson ; Fat Richardson : Highland chardson ; Comic Cos n : Fancy Skater, Jas, t Dressed Little Girl, Carpenter's Costume, D. Costume, G. A. Wilson ; C. Richards ; Best Nun, shman, A. McFarland ; er, R. Sproule.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—A sub a newspaper is such a it is often lost sight of, cient importance to se- t attention of the sub- will say, when they cial paper to read, well, I am in town I must paper. When he comes ery likely forgets it, and only a dollar and he an old subscriber thinks on the publisher's for- contents himself until rable opportunity pre- d then very likely for- at the same time not y any means desirous ence on the part of wing to the delay in amount paid. True, y the one there would nce, but when those several hundred no publisher knows how We have taken a look scription list since and the amount of us on that account think if every sub arrears would make this month they e at least $200 of We have wages to pay purchase, which two o the sum of $1,000 we depend on our pa- erewith, and we think lise with us in a prac- en appealed to in a e markets are now erable money in cir- will expect a hearty the month of March, return our sincere e number who have y for 1883.

W. Flesher's credit sale, Osprey, 12th March.

A large majority elect to drink McFarland's Tea.

Wm. Milne's auction sale, Osprey, on the 6th March.

Henry Hamilton's credit sale, Holland, the 7th March.

Mr. Whitby is on the war path assessing Artemesia Tp.

Collingwood Township seed fair today, 1st, at Clarksburg.

Grain has been coming to market in large quantities recently.

M & W. Armstrong have their steam boiler on hand for their factory.

Montreal is to have a cutlery factory, the first of the kind in Canada.

There has been a dearth of news in local papers for two weeks, they being filled with politics.

NEW CHURCH.—The Presbyterians of Chesley contemplate erecting a new brick church next summer at a cost of $5,300.

Alex. Duncan removed a new steam boiler from the cars for his saw mill in Glenelg on Monday, to take the place of an old one.

R. J. Sproule, Flesherton, is now selling off his large stock at and below cost in order to clear the way for spring importations.

Blank Receipts, Notes, Due Bills, Monthly School Reports, and Municipal Stationery Reports, on hand at the STANDARD Office.

The produce of the British Columbia fisheries last year is valuated at one million nine hundred thousand, an increase of four hundred thousand dollars over that of the previous year.

WRIT ISSUED.—A writ in Queen's Bench has been issued by Mr. Jno. MacRae against the Municipal Corporation of Wiarton for injuries sustained from a fall caused by a defective sidewalk. He is a brother of F. MacRae, Esq., reeve of Glenelg.

We had a call from Thos. Gamey, Esq., of Osprey, Mr. Josiah Gamey, Osprey Tp. Treasurer, Mr. M. Akitt, of Eugenia, C. C. Pearce, Captain of the rescue hook and ladder Co., Owen Sound, T. Hall, Dundalk Herald, and Mr. Arch. Speers of Winnipeg, the past week.

SAD DEATH.—A student of the institute, Mr. John McDonald, of Priceville, died on Wednesday of last week. He caught a severe cold when just recovering from measles and his case was aggravated by meningitis. The unfortunate young man was buried in the Presbyterian cemetery.—Collingwood Enterprise. [Mr. McDonald was a brother of Mrs. Allan McDougall of this place.]

The latest indoor amusement is termed the "Printer's Delight," and is performed in the following manner: Take a sheet of note paper, fold it carefully and inclose a bank note sufficiently large to pay up arrears, and a year in advance. And what adds immensely to the feat is to send along the name of a new subscriber with cash to balance. Keep your eye on the printer, and if you detect a smile, the trick is a success. Try it!

EUGENIA TEMPERANCE CLUB.—This club held their second entertainment in the C. M. Church on the evening of the 14th ult., to a good congregation. Mr. T. B. Gilliland was called to the chair, the duties of which he pleasantly discharged. The recitations and dialogues, together with several short speeches were of a pleasing and instructive character. The singing of the choir added much to the enjoyment of the evening.—Advance.

Mr. Wm. Clark of Sullivan met with a singular accident last week, he had a dynamite cartridge in his house for years. The cap was gone and he supposed the dynamite was extracted, he took the cartridge between his finger and thumb and endeavoured to bore a hole through it to make the head of a small paint brush, when it exploded blowing half the fore fingre completely off and badly shattering his thumb. He is doing as well as could be expected. Another warning not to fooll with dynamite.—Chesley Enterprise.

WHIPPING CHILDREN.—The head master of the public School at Hamilton has been fined ten dollars by the Police Magistrate for severely whipping a boy in the school for disobedience. We hope to see parents and trustees take a resolute stand on this question, and not allow children to be thrashed by any teacher.—Hanover Post. [We think if children were taught to obey at home, there would be very little occasion for thrashing at school, but if they are allowed to do as they please in the family and disobey the commands of their parents they cannot be expected to go unpunished at school.—ED.]

How much did you lose on the elections ?

Edmund Williams, sale, Holland, on th 6th March.

New Tweeds, new Ducks, new clothing, this week at McFarland's.

The thermometer registered 10 below zero, on Friday morning last.

Mr. Donald McLeod, (shoemaker) of this place, has removed to Michigan.

The June meeting of the County Council of Dufferin, will be held in Shelburne.

A consignment of first-class Oat Meal to hand at Barrhead Mills, for sale cheap.

Mrs. M. W. Vandewater, of Allenford, is visiting her friends in Markdale and vicinity.

A load of fall wheat was brought into Meaford recently containing 123 bushels and 6 pounds.

Grit and Tory should now bury the hatchet and go to McFarland's and get a new suit of clothes.

Mr. F. Beattie, Police Station, Winnipeg, will accept thanks for $1 for the STANDARD for 1883.

The election is over. Grey gained the Tory vote, but McIntyre sells the best of Groceries and Provisions, &c.

Subscribe for the STANDARD, commence any time, $1 a year, 30 cents for three months, 10 cents a month in advance.

Those who have made arrangements to bring us wood for their subscription will please fetch it along as soon as possible.

Mr. John Hazard has purchased the Galbraith farm, being Lot 118 con. 1 West of T. & S. Road. 50 acres for $1050.

Last Saturday John McLean, son of John McLean, Esq., High-street, had his right hand badly ground and burnt by getting it caught on the grind-stone driven by steam, while at work in Kennedy & Son's foundry.—O. S. Advertiser.

A social under the auspices of the Methodist Church Ladies' Aid Society will be held in the Dufferin hall on Wednesday evening, March 7th. A rich programme is being prepared and a good time may be expected as usual. Admissions 15c.

CHANGED HANDS.—We understand that Messrs. Byrnes & McCaskill have bought out Mr. T. Sproule, of the Revere House. Both these men are experienced in the business, and we have no doubt they will conduct it in a first class manner.

N. B.—All those indebted to the undersigned will please to call and settle their accounts on or before the 10th day of March. After that date all my accounts remaining unpaid will be placed in court for collection. This is is the last warning—pay up and save costs.—A. MCINTYRE.

AGENTS HERALD.—This is the title of a neatly got up paper in book form, published in Philadelphia, at the low price of 50cts a year. Those in want of an agency of any kind should not be without it, as it is crowded with advertisements of all sorts for them. It also exposes all frauds and swindles.

HALL'S JOURNAL OF HEALTH.—A copy of the above useful Journal for January is before us, it contains 32 pages and is in its thirtieth year of publication. It contains useful and practical information on health and sanitary matters. The price ($2) has been reduced to $1, for new subscribers.

J. W. Ford, of the Markdale Flour and Grist Mill, ground 1,000 bushels of gristing during seven days after the recent thaw. He has his mill cleared of the enormous amount of grain which had accumulated during low water, and is now prepared to let farmers have their grist home with them the same day they bring it.

We have heard nothing of the doings of the new village police board by way of minutes of proceedings. If they do any business, the ratepayers would like to know something about it. We think each house-holder should be supplied with a copy of the by-laws, and then have the law put in force, and we are satisfied it would be to our interest both as individuals and as a corporation.

HOW TO SEND SILVER.—The Journal of Commerce gives the following novel way to send silver coins by mail: —Take a block of wood a little larger than the coin, and bore it with an augur, one and one-quarter inches for a half dollar, and one inch for a quarter—as deep as will contain as many pieces as you want to send. Fill the hole and tack a thin piece of wood over the block. Write address, put on the requisite stamp, and deposit the block and contents in the post office.

Re-Fresh-ing

In the cool assertion of some people that they can sell below cost, &c, it may not be amiss to let the public of Markdale and surrounding country know that

Wilson Benson,

of the "BELFAST HOUSE," MARKDALE, can sell "cheaper than the cheapest," and "better than the best," all kinds of

Groceries, Liquors, &c.

Consisting of

TEAS, TOBACCOS, SPICES, CANNED FISH, ETC.,

And for those wishing pure Wine for sacramental purposes, will find a brand that will equal anything on this side the Atlantic.

Other Liquors equally pure.

SPECIAL! Pure Holland Gin.

Cheese from the best manufactories.

Our Whiskies are from the firm of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and the public may rely on receiving them as they are sent.

FLOUR, POTATOES, and everything in the household line kept constantly on hand.

Henceforth my Store will be supplied with Fruits of all kinds, such as

APPLES. PEARS, PLUMS, &c.

FRUIT CAKES of all kinds always kept on hand.

Essences, Hair Oils, and Perfumery of the choicest nectars.

TOILET & FANCY SOAPS, better than the best.

CANADIAN & WESTERN PORK, of first quality.

Everything in the Grocery Line kept on a fuller and more complete scale than at any other place in Markdale.

WILSON BENSON.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner &Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West &Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St East, Toronto, Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner &Co. Drug Store.

WANTED

—AT—

The Eclipse Mill.

100,000 ft. Cherry, 500,000 ft. Hemlock 100,000 ft. Baswood, also elm and maple sawlogs, and 800 cords cedar bolts 4 feet 8 inches long for which the Highest price will be paid.

Sparling Brothers,
Proprietors.

125-12.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 120-tf.

MARKDALE
Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS
MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

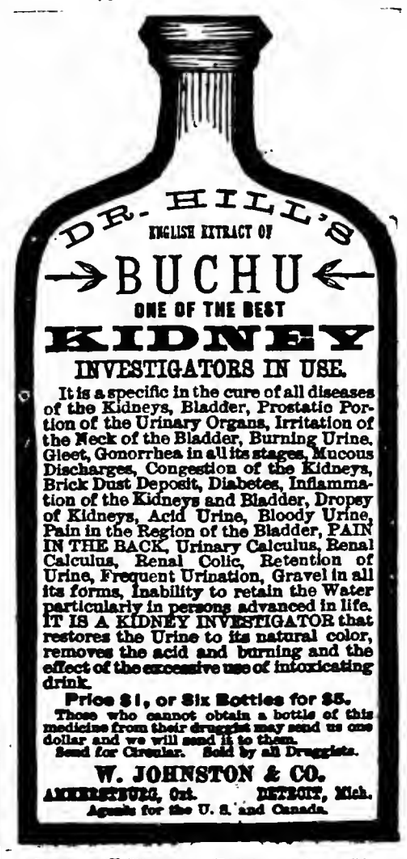
The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING



SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,
Harness Establishment!
MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND. 100 acres, 100 cleared, good building thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to

M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items.—Concise, Pithy, and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

A married hotel clerk and an unmarried girl have eloped from Trenton.

The widow of the late Chief Joseph, of Oka, has been married to Francois Fret.

The Salvation Army at Kingston now numbers about 290, and there are converts every night.

Montreal firms are joining in pooling their Winnipeg consignments and chartering special trains.

Mr. D. Barry, advocate, of Montreal, has entered an action for libel against the Post Newspaper Company.

Ed. Green, supposed to have been drowned in Burlington Bay, on Sunday, August 21st, has turned up in Hamilton.

A man named Conecy, missed from St. Anne la Pocatiere a day or two ago has been found frozen to death in the woods.

Dr. Abel Hann, an American, was arrested in Brantford recently for threatening to shoot A. Yonge at Cainsville.

Some 120 men have quit work in the Canadian Pacific Railway machine shops at Winnipeg on account of the new check system.

The Dominion Artillery Association recently hold its annual meeting at Ottawa, when the Governor-General delivered an address.

In the House of Assembly at Halifax, a bill giving the Government the sole power of appointing sheriffs passed its second reading.

Mary Ann Sinnot has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Montreal for writting a threatening letter to a gentleman named Edwards.

Nazaire Hair, while working in Pinkerton's stove factory, Montreal, had his right arm seized in the machine and torn away.

UNITED STATES.

At Havana, Ill., the river is six miles wide, and the approaches to the bridge are swept away.

At Lewisville, N. H., a French-Canadian named Willey, shot a rival whom he found with his lady love.

At a Michigan lumber camp, a man chopped off another's head with an axe. The murderer was lynched.

The schooner Willie Joyce, of Portland, on a Newfoundland herring voyage, is given up as lost with her crew of seven.

Chief of Police Graves, of Port Huron, has been reinstated, the charges made against him not having been proved.

At Milford, Mass., thirteen school-children, thrown from a large sleigh, struck a tree, and nearly all were picked up unconscious.

Patrick Cunningham, from New Brunswick, aged about thirty-eight, was found dead in his bed at the Schindehette House, Bay City, Mich.

One of the professors at Dartmouth, N. H. College, has been serenaded with horns and his windows broken and fence pulled down.

George Burk, at Buffalo, in a quarrel with a widow named Finster, snatched up a claw hammer and striking her two heavy blows on the head fractured her skull.

There is great excitement over a remarkable silver discovery on property owned by a Methodist parson twenty miles south of Tucson, in the Santa Rita Mountains.

GENERAL.

Hamburg has consented to enter the German Custom Union.

Washington's birthday was celebrated at Rome by the Americans.

The Melbourne general election has resulted in the defeat of the Ministry.

The steamer Heckla, which went ashore near Lourvig on the 18th, has broken up.

Edwin Booth was presented with a silver laurel wreath at Hamburg.

The British Government has again demanded from Spain the release of the Cuban refugees.

The law against American hog products goes into effect in Germany a month after it is published.

Chinese authorities have withdrawn the fabricated charges against the clerk of the American arm at Shanghai.

The Chinese Government is energetically pushing on reinforcements to its western frontier, threatened by Russia.

A sensation has been caused in England by the fierce denunciation of Mr. Parnell and the Land League by Mr. Forster in a speech delivered in the Imperial Commons.

A Simple Fire-Escape.

The horrors of the Milwaukee and other recent fires are deepened by the reflection that so many of the victims might have been saved, had they been provided with the simple appliance of a rope, a pulley, and a hook; the hook to be fastened to the window sill, the rope to be looped around the body, under the arms of the person using it, who will then let himself down on the outside, by the rope, which plays freely through the pulley. Nothing could be simpler, or more certain. A contrivance like this would occupy but a small place in the traveller's hand bag. There are strong small wires enclosed in wrappings that can be made available for this purpose, and which are not larger than one's little finger. They are quite large enough to sustain the weight of a man, and their value in saving life would be priceless. Hotels and similar buildings should be supplied with these fixtures, one for each room in the house, and there should be a permanent staple under the window sill, to which to attach the hook of the safety rope. There is quite as much reason for keeping these ropes and pulleys at hand, as there is for providing steam vessels with life preservers, and the law which makes the latter obligatory, might properly extend its mandatory provisions to the former, and require more safeguards for the security of the public from the dangers by which they are menaced.

The Frontiers of Madness.

Such is the title of an interesting lecture recently delivered by Dr. Ball in his course at the Paris Faculty of Medicine. The generally received opinion that folly and reason are separated by a strictly drawn mathematical line is, according to Dr. Ball, quite erroneous. There is a broad frontier, he says, between sanity and insanity, which is peopled by millions of inhabitants. Dr. Ball holds that the number of persons perfectly reasonable on all points throughout the entire period of their existence form but a minority of mankind. The world abounds with people, he tells us, whom a strict scientific diagnosis would condemn as mad, or more or less "touched;" yet at no time of their life would it be permissible to put them under restraint. Such people are to be seen occupying honorably and successfully every position in life and society: we see them in the mirror which reflects ourselves!

Dr. Ball was recently consulted by a young man who was engaged to be married, but who found it impossible to visit his intended bride because it would involve a journey of some length in a railway carriage, and he could never enter one without feeling a desire to jump out as soon as the train was in motion. He was advised to accustom himself gradually to this mode of travelling by taking short journeys on the surburban line, but he could never get beyond Anteuil: there he had to leave the carriage for fear of accidents. Homicidal impulse is likewise met with. Thouviot's case is the oftenest quoted. For years this unpleasant person was tortured with a burning desire to kill some woman or other, but he never felt the slightest wish to take the life of a man. He battled with the impulse for years, but at length it got the better of him. One day he murdered a young girl, a perfect stranger to him, whom unfortunate chance threw in his way in the kitchen of a restaurant. Dr. Ball was consulted some time ago by a painter of considerable talent, who was a prey to these murderous impulses. He had married early in life, his family was large and his cares and anxieties large in proportion. At about eight and thirty, without physical ailment of any kind, or any specially unfavorable turn in his affairs, his mind began to be affected. If he saw a mirror he experienced a desire to smash it; near a window he felt a temptation to jump out; he never got a bank note in his hand that he did not feel inclined to tear it in pieces. These morbid promptings presently assumed a more formidable shape; he began to be assailed with a temptation to strangle his children. His little daughter was dying of croup, and he spent night after night by her bedside nursing her with the utmost tenderness. "Yet," said he to the physician, "at the moment when I was praying, with tears in my eyes, that the child's life might be spared, I was tormented with a horrible desire to take her out of the cradle and throw her into the fire. Even now," he added, "as I speak to you I feel a most intense desire to strangle you; but I check myself." The doctor never saw this patient again: a circumstance which he has perhaps no reason to regret, for as he was a man of powerful build he would have been an exceedingly "ugly customer" had his sanguinary impulse proved beyond his control. But up to that time, as the doctor remarks, he had kept them successfully in check. His nearest friends did not even suspect that he was subject to them. He fulfilled all the duties of life in a correct and exemplary manner. No doctor could have certified to his being insane. Yet assuredly he was on the "borderland" of insanity.—St. James Gazette.

The Probable Exclusiveness of Heaven.

Do you not sometimes wish the way were broad? But the fact still remains that the way is narrow, and if one would enter he must strive with his might. But why, you may ask, did not God make the way broad? Why, indeed? Would you have heaven a place like unto earth? You might as well ask whether Heaven would be Heaven if it were no better than earth. If the gate, the way, were broad, all would go there. Do you think it would be conductive to happiness to go where the good and evil are living together? In your daily business relations you are thrown in contact with bad men at every step. Would you wish such a state of affairs all through eternity? No; the heaven we hope for and look forward to must be a pure, happy, and blessed place. There must never be one ripple of trouble or shadow of sorrow to disturb the repose of that holy place. Now, in order to secure such a heaven nothing must be permitted to enter the gate that will defile. The gate is not narrow of itself, it is simply too narrow for sin to enter. Can there be any just complaint because sin is shut out? As well might one complain that a drunkard is not permitted to join a temperance organization, or an ignoramus a scientific association. The church is likewise exclusive. None can enter its straight gate without the credentials of morality.—Rev. T. P. Marsh, Chicago.

Tinned Salmon.

The principle seat of the American tinned salmon industry is on the Columbia River, Oregon. Upon this river, during the year 1881, there were employed in salmon-catching no fewer than 1,760 boats, manned by 4,000 men, chiefly Scandinavians and Italians. The hauls are made by gill-nets and sieves, and each boat, it is said, will take on an average 2,000 fish during the season, which lasts from the beginning of May to the end of July. The work of canning the fish is performed by Chinamen, who are remarkably expert in the various processes of cleaning and cutting up the fish into suitable pieces, filling the cans, and sealing them hermetically. A pound of salmon is put into every can, and in packing for market the cans are made up into cases of 48 each. The industry is rapidly growing. In 1866 the product of the Columbia River fisheries was 4,000 salmon; in 1881 it was 530,000. During the latter year it is estimated that the quantity of salmon packed by the 32 canneries on the river was 19,000 tons, and toward the close of the season there was such an enormous catch that hundreds of tons had to be thrown away; so that the industry is evidently capable of further development to a very considerable extent.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

The river is now low enough to allow steamers to use their landings at Cincinnatti.

Subscriptions have been opened in Berlin, for the suffers by the floods in America.

Two well-known Nationalists, implicated in the storage of arms at Clerkenwell, have left for America.

It is stated in St. Petersburg that no constitution nor amnesty will be granted on the occasion of the Czar's coronation.

All the temperance and prohibiting measures introduced in the New Jersey legislature this session were killed.

A meeting of the Irish National Land League recently condemned the presence of "eaves dropping police' at its meeting.

The Porte has instructed the Governor of Tripoli to personally apoligise to the Italian Consul for the insult offered the latter.

The German Bundesrath has approved unanimously of the bill prohibiting the importation of American pigs, pork, or sausages.

A bill has been introduced into the Ohio Legislature giving justices of the peace original and final jurisdiction in all liquor questions.

At the session of the Grand Lodge of United Workmen, Guelph was selected as the place for the holding of the next annual meeting.

The German Ambassador to the Vatican, replying to Cardinal Jacobini's letter, insists on the submittal of all ecclesiastical appointments to the German Government.

Since the publication of Carey's disclosures a number of Irish-Americans and farmers' sons in the counties of Armagh, Monaghan and Louth have been secretly leaving for America.

The Quebec citizens' meeting, anent the watersupply was largely attended, the Mayor presiding. A resolution was adopted averring that a second pipe, or other means of increasing the water supply was an absolute necessity.

The first annual meeting of the British American Short Horn Association has been held at Toronto. Mr. J. Drynan, M. P. P., presided. In his opening address he complained of the large number of spurious pedigrees which had been registered with the Agricultural and Arts Association.

The Danubian Conference has approved of the proposal for a mixed commission to control the Danube from Galatz to the Iron Gates. Austria, Bulgaria, Roumania and Servia to be permanently represented on the Commision, and the others Powers appointing members in rotation. Servia will not be represented on the European Commission to have jurisdiction below Galatz.

The surveyor of the Port of San Francisco has seized on the steamer "City of Tokio" opium valued at $15,000 It was concealed in the water tank, the only access to which was by the shaft well. It is considered impossible that opium could have been concealed there without the connivance of some of the officers of the ship. Others seizures are expected.

It is believed that if Mr. Parnell speaks on Mr. Gorst's amendment it will be briefly, as he thinks the debate on the Phœnix Park murders premature while the trial is pending. The Parnellites are greatly dissatisfied with Mr. Parnell's intention to move an amendment to the address, arraigning the Executive of Ireland for its administration of the Crimes Act.

The Coxheath Mining Company on Wednesday took out a silver license at the Mines Department at Halifax, N. S. covering their entire copper areas in Cape Breton, owing to the ore showing a larger percentage of the richer metal as greater depth was attained. It is said these recent developments add considerably to the value of the property, and are arousing some excitement amongst mining speculators.

A Washington despatch says: The steamer "Asheulot" reported lost in China, was a laughing stock among naval officers. She was a paddle wheel, thin plated iron ship of 1,370 tons displacement and double ender. She was built in 1863 for purposes of river navigation during the war and was used in the blockade. A number of similar vessels were built at the same time. Two or three were lost and the rest were sold, except the "Monocacy" now on the Asiatic station and the "Tallapoosa" greatly altered from the original plan.

Michael Doyle, of St. Louis, a brother-in-law of General Macadaras, suspected of being "Number 1," says Macadaras has not been connected with any Irish movement since the Fenian fiasco of 1865. Doyle is in constant correspondence with Macadaras. The latter, is an invalid, and constantly travelling with his wife. There is no secrecy in his movements. Macadaras was in Egypt during the whole time covered by the Phœnix Park murder conspiracy, and while the plotting was going on against Mr. Forster he was at a mountain resort in France.

M. Jules Ferry the Premier submitted to President Grevy the following list of members of the new Cabinet and their respective portfolios: Ferry, Prime Minister and Minister of Public Instruction; Challemel Lacour, Foreign Affairs; Waldeck Rousseau, Interior; Martin Feuillee, Justice; Charles Brun, Marine; Meline, Agriculture: Herrison, Commerce; Cochery, Posts and Telegraphs; Raynal, Public Works; Tirard, Finance; Thibaudin, War. It is stated that M. Ferry has requested the President to sign decrees placing all the princes serving in the army on the retired list.

Antiquity of the Doll.

Dolls are of greater antiquity than many may imagine. They are traced back to their "probable" first appearance in puppet shows. The practice of sending them from France to foreign countries was of very early date. In the royal expenses for 1391 figure so many "livres" for a doll sent to the Queen of England; in 1496, another sent to the Queen of Spain, and in 1577 a third sent to the Duchess of Bavaria. Henry IV. writes in 1600, before his marriage to Marie de Medicis; "Frontenac tells me that you desire patterns of our fashion in dress. I send you, therefore, some model dolls."

Tobogganing.

A tobogganing hill should be as nearly perpendicular as possible, with, at the bottom a long, level stretch, over which the sled can fly with the impetus derived from its descent. Two or three passengers make a load, the lady or ladies being placed in front and the steersman sitting behind. The toboggan having been placed on the verge of the precipice, the lady steps in and sits down with her feet against the stretcher, or disposed in the curve and her skirt tucked around her, and her escort sits down behind, having a short stick in each hand with which to steer. The steersman lets his hands trail on either side, and digs one stick or the other into the snow, according to the direction in which he wishes to turn the accursed craft. It is the correct thing to turn out in a blanket coat and leggins, with moccassins, and upon your head a red or blue tuque—a Phrygian cap of worsted. Having bidden adieu to your friends, you gently push your frail sled over the brow of the hill and launch yourself into eternity. Such of your readers as has ever fallen out of a balloon will have a good idea of the sensation of the amateur tobogganist during his first slide. There is a sense of goneness in the head and in the pit of the stomach, and the nether world rises up and hits you all over very hard. A slippery and elastic board with 300 pounds weight upon it, launched down a hill of ice or snow a quarter of a mile long or thereabouts, with an inclination of say seventy degrees, gathers a tremendous headway in the course of a few seconds; the crisp diamond-dusty particles fly at your eyes like spindrift at sea before a hurricane, and a spray of shrieking silver is ground up by either steering stick. in a few seconds you reach the glacis, and change the plane on which you move, the sled giving a bound that makes you think of riding a frisky dolphin; then away it careers for hundreds of yards above the level, till finally it stops perhaps a mile away from the starting place, allowing an admirable opportunity for flirting with your fair fare during the return walk. Of a bright, moonlight night, with the air keen and the heavens overflowing with stars, there can be no more glorious sport. But it has its perils. If you lose your head and fail to keep that of the toboggan straight the sled will broach-to and spill you and your fare down the hill, with a display of ground and lofty tumbling such as Greenwich never witnessed on the jolliest of fair days. Fortunate will you be if, while you and your Dulcinea are for the moment standing on your respective heads, another toboggan does not sweep down and take you in your respective middriffs with a force of say 144-foot tons. Or, still worse, in a long course, where there are trees to thread and maybe a gate or two to pass through, you may tilt head-on into a post or a stately maple. Not until you have been into such an accident do you fairly understand what is meant by "matchwood" and "a dull thud." Luckily as the lady is in front she acts as a sort of buffer, but her lot under such circumstances is not a happy one, as before she has fairly realized that she has been hurled against a tree she receives you in the back with no less crushing emphasis.

Chit-Chat.

It is now fashionable to speak of the night robe as a nap sack.

The best fire-escape is when your wife gets up in the morning and makes it.

Mr. Nettle was recently married to Miss Thorn. That's what you might call a prickly pair."

David Fender, "popping the question," in a letter, concluded thus: "And should you say 'yes,' dear Mary, I will truly be your D. Fender."

Sloughterby says his wife hasn't done very much shopping this winter, although she did go down town the other day to buy a muff "just to keep her hand in."

A bouncing big wild cat was killed in the suburbs of Cincinnati the other day, and several thousand men of Cincinnati staid at home the next evening for the first time in years.

A fashion item says that the favorite color of undressed kids for street wear is dark tan. The fashion originated in Africa, where all the undressed kids seen in the streets are dark tan color.

A girl in New York was recently arrested, being disguised as an old woman. If all the old women who appear in the disguise of girls were arrested the jail would have the appearance of sardine-boxes.

Passionate love: "I tell you," exclaimed Brown, "that Charley is wholly unselfish in his affection; he loves the very ground that she walks on." "Yes," replied Fogg, "when she is walking on her father's estate."

When a California man sees "no cards" at the end of a marriage notice of a friend, he remarks that "that girl has put some of her pious notions into Jim's head, but he'll get over them after he has been married a while."

"How can I leave you, my darling?" murmured a lover in tones of distressing tenderness, as he observed both hands of the clock approach a perpendicular on the dial. "Well John," responded the girl with wicked innocence, "you can take your choice. If you go through the hall you will be liable to wake up father, and if you leave by way of the back shed you'll be likely to wake up the dog."

Improved Sleeping Cars.

Two new sleeping cars are being constructed by the Pullman Company on what is called the English pattern. These carriages differ from those at present in use in having side entrances, thereby dispensing with the end platforms, and in being divided into four compartments, so as to combine the comfort, and, to a certain extent the privacy of an English first-class carriage with the convenience of the sleeping car. Each compartment contains cushioned seats as well as berths and beds for four persons. There is a continuous passage from one end of the car to the other for the use of the attendant, but ordinarily each section is separated from the rest by doors and curtains. The new cars are each rather over twelve yards long, and weigh about thirteen tons. They were built in America, shipped to England in sections, and put together and finished at Derby, and have been named "Balmoral" and "Culross."

FLOATING PARAGRAPH

Augustus Harris, lessee of Drury Theatre, gave a free performance of pantomime "Sinbad," on the 8th inst. more than 4,000 of the poorest children London.

While the attacks upon the Jews in Hungary are at their height, Caspar Mandy, Christian merchant of Salnok, has astonishment far and wide by bequeathing his entire property to the Jewish community the town.

A new invention for instantly stopping machinery from any part of the building by pressing an electric button connected with the engine valve, will doubtless save many lives.

They say now that if you tamp some into your pipe the tobacco smoke will not injure your nerves. We follow this ourselves—and also leave out the tobacco which is a still greater improvement.

The public, who used to assemble in crowds in the Castle Yard, Dublin, to witness the arrivals at the Lord Lieutenant's levee, were for the first time excluded last month. The yard was kept by a strong of the Coldstream Guards; police uniform lined the hall, and detectives posted the stairs leading to the Throne Room.

The Spectator says that the late Wm. Seaver got a seat among the Germans at the Passion Play by telling them he was an Elector of New York! This reminds us of the United States Marshal consorted for a time on equal terms with the Marshals of France, as a fellow-

One of those dreadful scientific men won't let us eat anything for fear of being poisoned is on the rampage again, and says sulphuric acid in our sugar is the cause most liver and kidney complaints. honey-comb is made artificially and fed on glucose, and even eggs (without shells) are manufactured!

Dr. Robert, in the Edinburgh Medical Journal, gives the incredible number four hundred in a thousand as the ra Madrid, and over a hundred for Oriental other places. Cause, insufficient food, shocking filth, great numbers never wash themselves in their lives! Where is Chinese now?

In the three of the principal hospitals Paris is the Sisters of Charity, numbering about a hundred, are at once to be replaced by ordinary male and female attendants. This step has been inforced upon the administration of Public Assistance by the Paris Municipal Council, who have voted the continuation of their annual subsidy of seventeen millions of francs conditional upon its execution.

Gas of unprecendented cheapness is made, if the promises of a Chicago man be kept. His process of manufacture is to take up all the usual by-products—coke, tar, ammonia and fixed carbon—in the production of gas. Nothing will be left but liquescent slag. Every atom of oxygen and carbon in the coal will be turned into gas. Instead of ten or twelve thousand feet of gas from a ton of coal, he will obtain 30,000 feet. Test works are to be built at Elgin.

The Economist justly says that the withdrawal of fractional currency inconveniences great numbers of people who wish to send small sums by mail, and the objection to its usually patched and dirty condition can be easily overcome by renewing it with new when it is torn or worn. It is a nuisance to send silver in letters, and postage stamps won't always answer, and nobody doesn't want to draw a money order for a quarter.

ODDS AND ENDS.

At a recent Vermont spelling match two teams of eighteen men, each of them counted 13,000 to the losers' 5000

When you feel sad and blue at the ills of life, remember that the birds which go round without breaking their rest.

It it stated that, whereas the loss of Irishmen in the British Army was formerly above 70 per cent., it is now only 22.

"I wish to state," writes a provincial minister, "that I have procured an alarm clock that will wake up the congregation as soon as the service is over."

"How seldom it happens that we are tors bred to the business," said one to another. "Very, and have you noticed how seldom the business is left to tors?" replied the other.

Diogenes, finding the water in his bath dirty, asked: "Where can I bathe and wash on coming out?" Taking after a swim in the sea, always rinsed themselves in a fresh-water to preserve the smoothness of their

The Turk and the man who sells orange skin have much in common. For instance, they both sit down without ceremony for a chair. The motions of the Turk, however, lack energy and enterprise as compared with those of the man who uses the skin.

Great numbers of the natives on the West Coast of France catch green crabs, which, with the exception of their kind, pop, while yet their shells are soft, inside the shells of mussels when they are open for feeding, and take board and lodging, for they literally eat their host.

"My wife," says Wigglesworth, sadly, lifting a handful of prunes out of a box, "is one of the most economical women I ever saw. Whenever I smoke a cigar the house she makes me blow the smoke her plants to kill the bugs, and ready to catch the ashes for tooth-powder while the stump that is left she soaks in water and treats the flower-pots to a fish bath with it."

Longfellow was gifted with a faculty into character, and always said the word to the right person. On being introduced to the late Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, a quick-witted old gentleman who dearly loved a joke, referred to the similarity of the syllables in their names. "'Worth' makes the man, want of it, the 'fellow,'" replied Longfellow, quoting Pope's famous line, and made one of the best repartees on record.

A MODERN MIRACLE.

Interesting Chapter From the Life of a Prominent Gentleman.

(Boston, Mass., Globe.)

Readers of this paper were more or less surprised at a most remarkable statement which appeared in one of our leading citizens which appeared in yesterday's issue. So unusual are the circumstances connected with it, and such comment did it occasion on the streets and social circles, that a representative of this paper was commissioned to investigate the facts and verify its facts. The statement referred to was a statement made by Mr. H. Larrabee, formerly of London Manager of the New York and Boston Dispatch Express company, whose office is on Kilby street. Mr. Larrabee was found by our reporter man in his private office, and in response to a question he said:

"Yes sir, logically I have been dead, but I am as you see me. A little over a year ago I was taken sick. My trouble was severe at first and I thought it was only a slight cold. Somehow I felt unsteady the last time, although I took my usual chance of sleep. Then, again, I had severe pains in various parts of my body. My appetite was good one day and threw whatever the next and my head was more or less much of the time. A little more or less much of the time. A little more or less much of the time. A little

DYSPEPSIA & LIVER COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use according y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm Brown's General Store, Markdale.

If you are economical and want to make a dollar go as far as possible, drop it into a missionary box.

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Save yourselves if you can afford to a chance of 50cts. to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that "Brown" Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. For Throat, Croup, and Whooping Cough it cures. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

"I don't believe in a good-natured husband," said Mrs. Jeems. "It makes him bring home too many friends for dinner, and if there's anything I hate it's that."

We have a speedy and effective cure, for Catarrah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in "Shiloh's CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal Injector free with each bottle. Use it if you want health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

"Why," asked a governess of her little charge, "do we pray to God to give us our daily bread? Why don't we ask for four or five days, or a week?" "Because we want it fresh," replied the ingenuous child.

A GENERAL STAMPEDE.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at A. Turner &Co's for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons affected with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Free Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

Winnipeg has placed a million and a quarter of her debentures on the New York market at 99½.

TRUE TO HER TRUST.

Too much cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleaning, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, a malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by A. Turner.

The long pending proceedings in the courts in Montreal to upset the amalgamation of the Montreal Telegraph Co. with the great North Western have been withdrawn.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.

Millions of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by the wonderful medicine. Call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Paris physicians say that Prince Napoleon is quite sick for want of exercise. The Prince should purchase a country newspaper and try to run it himself.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE.

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40.

When a certain bachelor was married, the members of the Bachelors Club broke him all up by sending him, as a wedding present, a copy of "Paradise Lost."

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

Happiness iz a tramp, haz no home, no kreed, no mathematicks.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

One of the wonders of the world is the salesman who fails to ask: "Anything else to-day, sir?"

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF FISH JUST TO HAND IN Barrels CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

GROCERIES. GROCERIES.

McINTYRE'S
LIQUORS! LIQUORS
McINTYRE'S
Cigars, Cigars.
McINTYRE'S
Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S
MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!
McINTYRE'S
Pork, Pork, Pork.
McINTYRE'S
Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th, 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

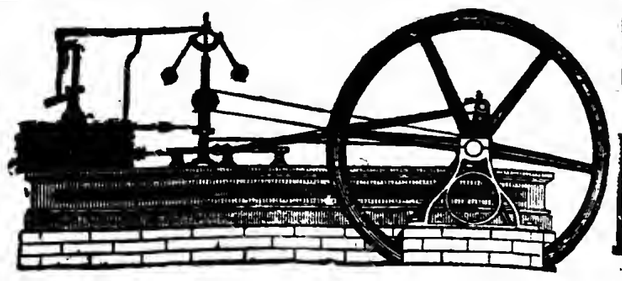
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.



My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

Markdale Found

W. BULMER,

The People's Photogra

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in go

FRAMES and FRAME FIX

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low p

W. BU

R. J. Sproule's

ANNUAL

Clearing Sale

Is now going on and

WILL CONTINUE

UNTIL THE

20th of March.

Call early and secure bargains.

Heavy importations of Spring goods are now on the way, and our present large stock must be cleared out and will be sold out at and under cost.

Markdale PUMP Fact

J. G. IRVING

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is the fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Bu

Sydenham Street, Markdal

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful indiscretion causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

Get your Job Work done at this office.

FARM FOR SA

100 ACRES—being Lot Glenelg. This farm is from Markdale, with about balance, hardwood bush with for fencing the place. It is with never failing stream of Young orchard, log house, and deed can be given. For price ply to MRS. MIGHT, on the pr dale P. O.—Also a farm waggon mill for sale

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 26. MARKDALE, ONT.; MAR. 8, 1883. No. 103.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale, Ontario.

$1 Per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

Subscriptions from hs. 52 if not paid till end of the year. No paper discontinued till arrears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing to take up will be held responsible for the year. Advertisements inserted at the rates.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

One column one year.....$50 00
Half do. do. 27 50
Quarter do. do. 15 00
One-eighth do. do. 8 00
One-sixteenth do. do. 4 00
Ten lines, first insertion per line 8
Each subsequent insertion..... 3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid lines. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 10 o'clock on the wednesday preceed the week of publication.

JOB PRINTING

of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

[illegible], M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Member of University, Viet. College. " New York, and Member of the same, " Aylesbury Medical Institute. " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND.

Special attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

D. Cameron, M.D., & C.P. & S. Glasgow, L.D.S. Out. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. February 9th, 1883. 122-74

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale, Office open every Thursday, as before.

JAMES FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.

Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block over the Post Office, and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y

Creasor & Morrison.

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c., &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

W. CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORRISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate. Priceville, Sept. 17. 1880. 1-y

W. H. CAMPAIGNE,

LICENSED Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Sales attended in town or country on the shortest notice. Charges reasonable.

Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 117-3m

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

BYRENS & McCASKILL

PROPRIETORS.

THIS popular Hotel has changed hands and the above men cater to the wants of the public Good stabling and attentive hostlers. The best brands of liquor and cigars, good meals and comfortable rooms, large commercial room. Barber shop in connection. 130-ly.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees. Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th. 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, March 26th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

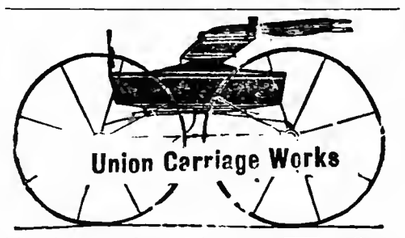
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

HAIR CUTTING AND SHAVING

By T. D. Smith,

Razors, Straps, and Shaving Brushes for sale. Razors sharpened.

Orders filled for Tomb Stones.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE,

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILDREN will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restcres the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED, from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

Special attention to Cutting.

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

Advertise in the STANDARD.

Osprey.

John Heron and Thos. Gamey, jr., left for Manitoba last week.

J. T. Galloway of the 10 con., Osprey, has sold his farm and purchased in Nottawasoga, where he removed last week.

Maxwell has a tailor in the person of T. Mordan.

ACCIDENT.—While making square timber on the farm of Hugh Wright, 10 con., Osprey, in the falling of a tree, the butt end sprung to one side striking John Ottwell, a young man of about 24 yrs., shattering the bones of his leg between the knee and ankle. Dr. Kerr was sent for and dressed the limb, which will take a long time to recover, as the bone was badly splintered.

MANITOWANING.

(From the Expositor.)

Burns' steam grist mill is now in running order.

John Saijohn, resident near Gore Bay, had the misfortune to have his house burned recently.

S. Leveratt, of Orillia, and Jos. Maughan, of Owen Sound, arrived in town via Parry Sound on Saturday evening.

$55 was realized from the tea-meeting and social held in this village under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school.

It is reported that the iron steamers Passport and Magnet are to run between Owen Sound and the Sault next summer.

One noticeable feature in the settlements on this Island is that, in almost every case, the barns are much better buildings than the houses.

A short time ago Louis N. Thibaudeau advertised his farm for sale in the Expositor. To day he received a post-card from an M D. in Lindsay requesting a full account of the situation, soil and price of farm. The same gentlemen wanted a full description of Rydal Bank, which he will get by return of mail. No one can tell when or where a paper is read. A good local paper does much for the advancement of the locality in which it is published; but in many cases the benefit is not seen or appreciated. A local paper is worth its cost in the education of a family, as teachers can do more work in families where one is taken.

PRUNING FRUIT TREES.

The Gardener's Monthly advises fruit growers that the winter is a very important season in the management of fruit trees, and adds:

"The winter season is a very important one for the management of fruit trees. Pruning is especially important. Some believe that if the foundation of a tree be properly laid in youth, there will be no necessity to prune an adult tree. This does not accord for the writer's experience. An intelligent examination, both with the saw and good knife in hand, should be made every winter. Real good, large, healthy leaves in every part of a tree are of vast importance, and these can not be had when branches are close together, smothering one another.

"It should always be remembered in pruning that we want sound, healthy wood to make sound growth, and yet nothing is more common than to see in dwarf pears, especially the healthy, vigorous shoots shortened back, and loads of weak fruit-spurs left to make the next season's growth! Thining out, not shortening back, is what such trees require.

"Pruning is very important, but above all, for both apple and pear orchards, we bespeak a liberal dressing—a top dressing of something or another. If no manure is to be had, even common road sand will be found to have a benefical influence. Poverty of the surface soil is oftener a cause of fruit failure than 'grass,' change of climate," or many imagiuable ills brought up from some ghostly cavern of thought to cover up the poverty of pocket or of industrial inclination."—Canadian Farmer.

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

The Domestic Troubles of a Young Duchess—Living on Ten Dollars a Week—A Man Tries Tight Lacing—Small Talk for The Ladies.

Chit-Chat.

Poor Sophie Galitzin.

A short, sensational and sorrowful life was brought to a close recently when the Duchess of Chaulnes (nee Princess Sophie Galitzin died at the age of 25 in a humble cottage in La Villette. She was married, in 1875 to the Duke of Chaulnes, and their feeble little children are the last survivors of the great house of Luynes, the foundations of whose fortunes were laid by d'Albert, first page to Louis XIII., afterward constable of France He and his two brothers were compelled to make their visits to Court semi-weekly because they only had one gala costume between them. A little while later and each was the husband of an heiress and had been adopted into a family of the ancient nobility. The matrimonial successes of the Luynes are chronicled by Saint Simon and other writers of his time. Of late years the hand of death and misfortune has been heavy on the family. The Duke of Chevreuse was killed by a fall from his horse in 1854. His elder son, who had served in the pontifical zouaves, was killed while leading a battalion of mobiles in the war of 1871. The younger son, whose widow had just died, never recovered from the effects of the same severe campaign, in which he was wounded. Their sister died suddenly. Their mother, the Duchess of Chevreuse, who still survives, is an energetic, ambitious, and implicable little woman, a devotee in religion, and perhaps also slightly deranged through her misfortunes. Her son's marriage with the beautiful and dashing Sophie Galitzin, a daughter of the Prince Anguntin, who sacrificed an estate of $140,000 a year by abjuring the Greek faith for the Catholic, was a sore trial for the duchess. Two women could not very well be imagined who were less likely to get on together. The bride was gay,—almost wild,—high-tempered, fond of society and hunting; the mother-in-law austere and impatient of opposition. As for the husband, the last spark of his ancestral energy seems to have burned itself out during the campaign against the Prussians, and he has been represented as so lazy that he took his meals and was shaved in bed, and only abandoned the blankets to go to chapel under his mother's watchful eye.

It is not quite a year since the "duel of the duchesses" scandalized French society. Had they been fishwives instead of representatives of two of the great families of France and Russia, they could not have abused each other more violently, and, whichever side was to be believed, the revelations of aristocratic life were even less savory than those that cross-actions for assault and battery are accustomed to provoke in a police court in a disreputable neighborhood. The Duke of Chaulnes had died, and the custody of his children had been intrusted to their grandmother. For their possession the widow contended, alleging a series of persecutions and outrages that did not yield in their romantic and thrilling character to anything recorded in the literature of the inquisition. The young duchess alleged that she was shut up in a country mansion and nagged perpetually; that when sick it was not her mother-in-laws fault it she recovered, and that the elder lady, maddened at her son's marriage, inflamed his mind with suspicions and did her utmost to compromise her daughter-in law. The duke was induced to depart on the alleged voyage which has furnished an incident for the plots of how many novels and dramas, and returning unexpectedly at night proceeded to "draw" his wife's apartments, accompanied by all the inmates of the chateau, guests and servants, afterward compelling her to appear in the hall and upon her knees confess her infidelity and plead for the forgiveness of which she was unworthy. On another occasion the young duchess was awakened from her beauty-sleep to behold the alarming spectacle of one priest at the head of her bed and a second at its foot. They duly prayed over its startled occupant, and stood aside while the old Duchess produced a paper and bade her sign or die. Mme. de Chaulnes sprang from her couch and fled toward the door, but her husband appeared at the portal to cut off her retreat with a cocked revolver, and she had to sign the document and declare herself unworthy to have the charge of her children. And when her husband was dying, despite his wishes and her frenzied pleadings, she was refused the last sorrowful privilege of closing his eyes, and thrust from the gates penniless and friendless. The young duchess did not deny having signed the compromising documents, but insisted that her will had been forced by threats of death, and she gave the final romantic touch to her case by attempting the abduction of her children. Aided by a gentleman who was said to have declared his passion for her and to have received the promise of her hand and heart as soon as he had compassed the rescue of the little ones from their gorgon grandmother, she provided a faithful maid-servant, and a retainer, shrouded in an ample cloak, to steal his children, a closed carriage with relays of horses being in readiness, and a fishing-smack awaiting the party's arrival at the seashore. The plot, however, miscarried.

One story is proverbially good until another has been told, and when the Duchess of Chevrense came to put in her evidence she alleged the existence of an altogether different state of things. She insisted that the young duchess was too much occupied with her numerous lovers to pay any attention to her children, and that one of these lovers had been chased by the servants, but had escaped through his fleetness of foot. He was a prudent swain, as appeared from the fact that he rigged a rope to the window of the chateau so as to escape the more readily, and that he put on a pair of rustic boots that his footsteps on the snow might not betray him. His gloves, handkerchief, and love-letters, however, remained as trophies. The young duchess was described as "knocking her children about," and even turning them out of bed to make room for her dogs; she was accused of consuming great quantities of opium and regarding the fevered dreams of her sleep as things that had really happened. Her misconduct killed her husband, and he died cursing her name and imploring his mother to keep his children from contamination by their mother. Altogether, whichever story was to be believed, the meanest and most miserable woman of the countryside had no reason to envy the life of the rival chatelaines.

The courts sustained the allegations of the grandmother and gave her the custody of the children. Since that time but little has been heard of the young duchess whose life has just gone out. A Parisian chroniqueur thus described her at the time of the trial in May, 1882: "She was in deep mourning. Her golden fleece of hair hung down her back in a long, loose net of yellow silk, hardly distinguished from the burnished mass it contained. If the Duchess de Chaulnes had a perfect mouth she would be a woman of rare beauty. It is not ugly. The lips are red and fresh and not too white. But the expression is silly. Anyone who has gone through the world and has an eye for physiognomy would know before she spoke that her conversation is disjointed, precipitate and monotonously vapid. She might, her teeth being clinched, insert her forefinger between the upper range—which is white and even—and the under. The eyes are of opal gray. At the palais de justice they were artificially encircled with lustre which gave a languid, suffering air, and by force of contrast blanched the fair complexion."

Living on Ten Dollars a Week.

"A Buckeye Girl," at Cleveland, O., takes a hand in the controversy recently published in the New York Sun as to the possibility of a man supporting a family on an income of $10 a week. She says: "I am the wife of a man who has a salary of only $10 a week. I am not a household drudge. On the contrary, I haven't enough work. We have a comfortable home of four rooms, nicely furnished. We dress well and have plenty of good food to eat. I am a musician, so we rent a piano, and indeed I felt quite like a lady until I was sneered at by those having more money than we. But they cannot make me discontented. I have always been satisfied with our small salary, though before my marriage I was accustomed to an elegant house and wealth. We have no children, but my sister is living with us. We feed, but do not clothe her, out of our $10. We pay $3 a week for our rooms. Our table supplies do not cost over $4 per week, and generally less. We do not eat as many beans as James and Jennie, but we eat considerable oatmeal and cracked wheat, not from necessity, but because we are very fond of it and know it to be healthful. We generally eat oatmeal, with milk and sugar, for breakfast, and have coffee, bread and butter, and cake. For dinner we have vegetables, meat often (not always), bread, butter, and for dessert, pie, pudding, or cake. Supper's bill of fare is the same as for breakfast, with the substitution of cracked wheat for oatmeal, and the addition of sauce.

"I do not know whether living expenses are lower here than in New York not. I fancy there is not much difference. Rents and eatables of almost every description are astonishingly high here at present, and have been.

"I wish to describe my wardrobe to further show these unbelievers in what a genteel manner two can live on $10. My best dress is a complete suit of black satin stylishly made. I have, besides four or five good suits, for which I paid from 50 cents to $1.50 per yard. Some of them I hired made; the rest I made myself. I am always well supplied with kid gloves, hats, shoes, and wraps, and never look shabby when dressed for company, calls, or the street.

"How now, tailor? You dare not tell me I haven't told the truth. I am curious to know what you will say concerning my statements. Shall I have the pleasure?

"The 'longshoreman said he would like to shut James Short up and feed him on his own bill of fare for six months. I dare say James would be perfectly willing to be treated so, provided Jenny could be the cook. A great deal deal depends on the cooking of eatables, cheap or expensive, as to whether they are satisfactory.

"There is one thing I forgot to mention. I get my washing and ironing done every two weeks for $1. I never do my own washing. I guess now I have said enough, and will make my bow and retire, hoping my remarks will elicit no curses. I have not exaggerated nor been untruthful in the least degree."

A Man Tries Tight Lacing.

Mr. Richard A. Proctor, the well-known lecturer on astronomy, once tried the experiment of wearing a corset, and thus describes the result: "When the subject of corset wearing was under discussion in the pages of the English Mechanic, I was struck," he says, "with the apparent weight of evidence in favor of tight lacing. I was in particular struck by the evidence of some as to its use in reducing corpulence, I was corpulent. I also was disposed, as I am still, to take an interest in scientific experiment. I thought I would give this matter a fair trial. I read all the instructions, carefully followed them and varied the time of applying pressure with that 'perfectly stiff busk' about which correspondents were so enthusiastic. I was foolish enough to try the thing for a matter of four weeks. Then I laughed at myself as a hopeless idiot, and determined to give up the attempt to reduce by artificial means that superabundance of fat on which only starvation and much exercise, or the air of America, has ever had any real reducing influence. But I was reckoning without my host. As the Chinese lady suffers, I am told, when her feet-bindings are taken off, and as the flat-headed baby howls when his head-boards are removed, so for a while was it with me. I found myself manifestly better in stays. I laughed at myself no longer. I was too angry with myself to laugh. I would as soon have condemned myself to using crutches all the time as to wearing always a busk. But for one month of folly I had to endure three months of discomfort. At the end of about that time I was my own man again."

History Re-written.

As Queen Elizabath, attended by Sir Walter Raleigh and a retinue of gilded courtiers, was one day walking through the streets of London she came to a particularly muddy spot, which she hehitated to cross. Raleigh was about to throw down his cloak before her in order that she might cross dry-shod, when he reflected that it was of costly velvet, lavishly ornamented with old lace, and so would infallibly be spoiled. Accordingly, with great presence of mind he whispered loudly to Sir Christopher Hatton that he had always contended, and would with his heart's blood maintain that her majesty had the smallest feet and neatest ankles in the world, and that the calumnious report that she wore elevens was a malignant invention of the Spanish court. Nor did the ruse fail of its effect, as the Virgin Queen, lifting her royal skirts with almost exaggerated enthusiasm, went through the puddle with characteristic resolution, and halting on the farther side shook her sceptre under the nose of the Spanish ambassador, demanding of the astonished dipiomat with a royal oath: "Are they elevens, you Roman dog! Are they elevens?"—G. T. L., in Life.

A Society Woman's Blunder.

Mrs. Commissaire, says a Washington letter, is a very intelligent society leader, who, in the wild race for social popularity, tries to be able to make some appropriate remark about the family affairs of everybody she meets. Last winter she sat just across the board from Commander Levvessaire, of the navy, at a large dinner party. She had her question ready, and as soon as they met afterward she said to the commander, whom she had not seen for some time: "And how is Mrs. Levvessaire?" "She is dead, madame," solemnly replied the bereaved husband. Madame turned off her blunder as smoothly and quickly as possible, and bit her lip savagely on the way home. The other night she met the sorrowing commander for the first time since last winter. "And how is Mrs. Levvessaire?" she asked, before she thought. "She is still dead, madame," replied the grave commander, his eyes twinkling with something like merriment at her vexation.

They Meant Business.

A gentleman of Sioux City, Iowa, who was snow-bound for six days in Morgan township, tells the following incident of life in the country. There boarded with a farmer in Morgan a well-to-do bacheior, owner of a team and other property, named Philip Rabel. Philip wanted a wife, and made no secret of his desire. The farmer with whom he boarded being at the house of a neighbor across in Monona county, mentioned Philip's longing. The Monona countryman said that there was in his house a young lady, Miss Matilda Woodfork, who was likewise anxious for a life partner. The farmer said he would mention it to Philip. He did, and Philip went right over, proposed without waste of words, and was accepted in the same practical spirit. Philip gave his betrothed $5, "to bind the bargain," as he explained, and within a day or two the couple went to Onawa and were married.

CHIT-CHAT.

Homely girls, it is said, are resorting to magnetic belts to draw admiration.

A young lady when presented with a pair of opera-glasses asked: "How in the world am I to keep them on?"

The poetical expression, "Riches have wings," must have been suggested to the author by seeing the wings on a woman's hat.

When you see a sour-faced woman sifting ashes on her icy sidewalk, it is difficult to tell whether she loves the human race or hates the new carpet of her next-door neighbor.

To Joseph Jefferson is attributed the remark that, although the late lamented duchess of Gainsborough's hat may form a fine background to a lovely face, it is a bad foreground to a comedy.

A young woman in Ardon, Ill., crazed by religion, imagines herself an angel. It is better for a young woman to retain her mental balance, and let the young men in the neighborhood imagine her an angel.

Standing before a clergyman who was about to marry him, a rustic was asked: "Wilt thou have this woman," etc. The man stared in surprise and replied: "Ay, surely! Whoy. I kummed a-pup-pus!"

Sedalia, Mo., has a billiard saloon for ladies only, and the proprietor already thinks of taking out the tables and allowing the fair creatures to play right on the floor, where a good deal of carroming is done now.

Old Mrs. B. came to town last week from Indiana on an excursion, and when she was asked why she was in such a hurry to leave, she replied: "I've got to go; you see as how I came in on an exertion train, and my ticket perspires to-night."

Women are called "the weaker sex," and yet, up to the hour of going to press, not one of her sex in this country has shown enough intellectual weakness to embark in the weather-prophet business, or attempt to eat sixty quail in thirty days.

You can't calculate upon what girls will do in an emergency. The New York boarding-school misses who pitched upon a burglar and held him until the police arrived, would, doubtless, jump upon the sofa and scream if a mouse entered their room.

The dresses of Lollia Paulina, the rival of Aggripina, were valued at $2,764,880, not including her jewels, which cost as much more. It has slipped our memory whether Miss Paulina was the daughter of a plumber or an editor, but our impression is that she was.

A woman who had been dumb for fifteen years recently fell from a chair and the shock restored her speech. The next day her husband stumbled over the same piece of furniture and broke his arm. He then gave the chair away to a bitter enemy.

We see it announced that Ottoman poetry has "a subtle esoteric spiritual signification," which announcement will touch a grateful chord in the bosom of many a young lady who has occupied an ottoman with her suitor, and never knew before what sort of a fulminating compound it was that hysted the poetry out of him.

A Mobile merchant objects to being called a millionaire because his name happen to be Damrich.

FOR THE
KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS
THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—wherever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by placing them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles; for the distressing disorders of women; for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For Diabetes ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,
Toronto, Ont., Rochester, N.Y., London, Eng.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

ROOFING MATERIALS, CARPET AND Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS, 4 Adelaide St., East, Toronta.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, S.,V. Edin., Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CATARRH—A new Treatment whereby a Permanent Cure is effected in from one to three applications. Particulars and treatise free on receipt of stamp. A. H. DIXON & SON, 305 King-St. West, Toronto, Canada.

LICENSED HOTEL FOR SALE—NEAR Lake Rosseau—frame. 20 rooms, 97 acres land, price $4,000; $1,000 cash, balance to suit purchaser at 6 per cent. Apply HOTEL Ashdown P. O., Ont.

GENERAL STORE AND STOCK FOR SALE in lumbering district—business about $15,000 per annum, principally cash; can be largely increased: reason for selling, own has other business. TRUTH Office, Toronto.

CANADA LUMBER | WANTED —BY— DODGE & CO., Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

CONSUMPTION,
BRONCHITIS, CATARRH, ASTHMA, | DISEASES of the EYE & EAR.
CAN BE CURED.
—BY—
DR. NASH
—OF—
"TORONTO PULMONARIUM."

20 years' experience in Ontario.

The following Letter speaks for itself.

DEAR DR. NASH,—I thank you for my present excellent health, after your successful treatment. Bronchitis, with a complete loss of voice, so prostrated and annoyed me, until after treatment with some of the most eminent medical talent, and without success, I resolved to avail myself of your services, and can now say that my health was never so well. I attribute my present good health to your system of inhalations, and constitutional remedies.

Sincerely yours, T. M. HENNESSY.
Toronto, Dec. 16, 1882. Dep. P. Works, Ont.

Personal examination is preferred after which you can be treated at home. If impossible to call, write for Questions and Circular. Consultation free. Fees Moderate.

S. L. NASH, M.D., M.C.P.S.O.,
"TORONTO PULMONARIUM."
123 Church-St., Toronto, Ontario.

Use "TEABERRY" and you will
Your Teeth become as pearls
'Twill fragrant make the Breath
Boys, women, men and girls.

Near TILSONBURG, Ont.
Dec 14,
I have been ailing for years with iousness and Dyspepsia, and was ed to a mere skeleton. Last weighed only eighty-six pounds, induced to try Zopesa by Mr. T (of the firm of C. Thomson & Co gists, of this place), and, many to him, I am now an entirely man and weigh 124 pounds, the use of this new compound.
MRS. CAROLINE FOR Wife of Mr. R. G.

AGENTS—IN EVERY COUNTY tario—to sell a necessary and article—sent three cent stamp for Address L. B. CLEMENS, Waterloo.

THOROUGHBRED STALLION —a good driver or small team tak pay. Write for pedigree, &c. Trafalgar.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth heavy and very tough new price list. J.G. WO & CO.; Steam Printers, Toronto.

OWNERS OF FARM LANDS, Town Properties, desiring to find purchasers by sending me full lowest prices, and terms of payment WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto Toronto.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE purchase a business of any de the city or elsewhere should call or culars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 East. Business Agent and Valuer.

"RELIABLE"
SEED

It will pay purchasers of Seeds to Annual Descriptive and Priced "Cultivator's Guide" for 1883. application. Address.
J. A. SIMME
RELIABLE SEED HOUSE
147 King street East, To

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy
DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S
Oriental Cream, or Magical

cept no counterfeit of similar name. tinguished Dr. L. A. Sayre, said to a haut ton (a patient):—"As you ladies them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' least harmful of all the Skin prepa One bottle will last six months, using day. Also Poudre Subtile removes hair without injury to the skin.
MME. M. B. T. GOURAUD,
Sole Proprietor, 48 Bond
For sale by all Druggists and Fancy Dealers throughout the U.S., Canada Europe. Also found in N. Y. City, at Macy's, Stern's, Ehrich's, and other Fancy Goods Dealers. Beware of imitations. $1,000 Reward for arrest and any one selling the same.

WYLD, BROCK & DARLIN
SPRING, 1883.

We beg to advise our customers and the Trade generally that our Stock is now complete, and every effort is being made to execute the liberal orders representatives during their early trips. We have every reason to believe that respects our stock this season is of one the most attractive, as it certainly is one

LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK
—OF—
Woollens and General Dry Goods
EVER OFFERED IN CANADA.

In the Staple Department, Print Department, Linen Department, Clothing Department, Dress Goods Department, Canadian Woollens Department, Woollen Department, Haberdashery Department, Hosiery and Underclothing Department, Gentlemen's Furnishings Department, Glove Department, Umbrella Department, Lace Department, &c., &c., there will be found an immense assortment of Goods tasteful, merchantable, and profit-producing, while the quantities are in keeping the enormous extent of business done by the House.

Terms liberal, and every Inducement offered to Buyers for Cash or at short dates.

Wyld, Brock & Darlin
TORONTO, ONT.

AN ENGLISH VETERINARY SURGEON AND CHEMIST, now traveling in this country says that most of the Horse and Cattle Powders sold here are worthless trash. He says that Sheridan's Condition Powders are absolutely pure and immensely valuable. Nothing on earth will make hens lay like Sheridan's Condition Powders. Dose, one spoonful to a pint food. Everywhere, or sent by mail for eight letter-stamps. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., BOSTON.

MAKE HENS LAY

HIS SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXIX. (CONTINUED).

This was the substance of Howard Eyburn's letter, the frame work upon which he built many eloquent thoughts. There was a curious look upon Arundel Anthon's face as he finished it, a look as though the muscles were stiffening.

Percy's letter was shorter, not so carefully written, but a very frank, honest sort of a letter for all that. He understood now, he said, what Mr. Anthon had meant by saying he might feel differently toward them when he knew all about the intimacy which had once existed between the Anthons and the Evringhams; he did know all, and his feelings remained unaltered. He did not attempt to disguise the truth that the knowledge of the manner of his father's death had brought sorrow into his heart, and had thrown a heavy shadow upon his life, but he did not speak of the man whose act had made him fatherless.

"Louie," said Muriel, one morning early in January, as her daughter came into her dressing, where she was sitting in front of the fire, "here are cards for Maude Farnum's reception; I suppose we ought to go as we attended the wedding."

"I suppose so," murmured Louie, rather wearily, standing in one of the draped windows, and looking down with some interest at two little boys who were snowballing each other vigorously in the street below.

"Yes, we ought to go," continued Muriel, musingly, studying the engraved card she held in her hand. "How many receptions have been given this season!"

"And they are such tiresome affairs," said Louie, sinking down into a chair; "the rooms are generally so crowded, and it is so stiff and formal; Germans are lovely, but receptions——" and Louie's red lips curled in a little moue expressive of great disgust for this species of fashionable entertainment.

The evening of Mrs. Farnum's reception came and very lovely Louie looked when her toilet was completed, and she went into her mother's room to see if she approved of it. Her dress was glistening cream white silk, the transparent sleeves revealing the round arms from the shoulder to the tops of the long, delicately tinted gloves, the square-cut corsage leaving exposed a portion of the snowy neck; all white, nothing to relieve the dazzling fairness of the toilet but the deep gold of the wavy hair, which fell in its soft natural curls, the rose-flush upon the cheeks, the red of the parted lips.

"You have never looked so beautiful, Miss Louie," said the maid, enthusiastically, and Muriel, thrilling with fond mother pride, said:

"She is right, Louie, I have never seen you look more lovely."

Many eyes followed the girl as she moved through Mrs. Farnum's magnificent rooms that night; it was a very fashionable reception, everybody of any consequence in society was there, and Louie, surrounded by a little throng of admirers, was very glad on the whole that she had come.

"Mrs. Van Alstyne, do you know who that young lady is, the one in white: sitting nearly opposite to us talking with Mr. Draper?"

The question was asked by a gentleman who was conversing with a pretty young married lady. Even in these crowed rooms where there were many fine looking men the gentleman attracted attention.

In figure he was tall, rather heavily built, and perfectly proportioned, his face was a handsome one, the features almost perfect; but it was not its beauty alone which made it the rarely attractive face it was; the thoughtful earnestness of the dark eyes, the determined mouth, the firm chin, these attracted stranger eyes to it. It was a face without a single trace of weakness in it, yet there was an expression of almost womanly tenderness about the lips, which were shaded by a drooping moustache, which matched in color the golden brown hair which was dimly suggestive of a woman's fingers threading its soft waves. A face such as men respect and women love.

The lady addressed raised her head with a smile. "Do I know who she is? Why, of course I do, and I am surprised that you do not; she is Miss Louie Anthon, the only child of Mr. Russel Anthon. Would you like to be introduced to her? I am very well acquainted with her, her mother and I are old friends."

"Yes, Mrs. Van Alstyne, I would like to be introduced to her; she has a very lovely face, do you not think so?"

"Oh, lovely," said Mrs. Van Alstyne, enthusiastically, "There, Mr. Draper is leaving her, probably he is going to get her an ice; now I shall have such a nice opportunity to introducing you, come!"

The tender, half melancholy strains of a beautiful German valse were filling the rooms with melody, and Louie, her small gloved hands lying in her lap, listened dreamily.

"Louie how do you do? I have not had a chance to speak to you this evening."

She raised her head quickly as the words fell upon her, looked up to meet a pair of dark earnest eyes, eyes unlike anything she had ever seen before. The tender music was floating through the room, the dark eyes were looking down into hers; she heard Mrs. Van Alstyne's voice, but she could not distinguish what she was saying, for beside the music her heart was beating loud and fast, something had stirred to life there—something which had never stirred before.

Having introduced the two young people, Mrs. Van Alstyne turned to speak to a lady friend near her; and with a deep flush upon her face, Louie raised her eyes appealingly to the handsome face above her.

"Pardon me," she murmured, "but I did not catch your name, the music was so loud, and Mrs. Van Alstyne spoke so rapidly."

He bent his head lower, his breath just stirred the soft rings of hair upon her white forehead, as he said:

"My name is Roy Glenmore."

And just then Mrs. Van Alstyne returned to them and began talking in her swift, merry way, asking more questions in one moment than any one could answer in five, the dreamy music ceased, Mr. Draper came up with an ice for Louie, and her heart stopped its wild, loud beating. She had only a few minutes conversation with Mr. Glenmore before she went home, still, in her dreams that night, those dark earnest eyes looked again into hers, and Roy Glenmore's face came and went in her sleep-bound thoughts.

CHAPTER XXX.

Louie was late to breakfast the morning following Mrs. Farnum's reception, and it was not long after she had taken her place at the table that her father, who, having finished his breakfast, had been looking through the columns of the morning paper, rose from his chair.

"I must go," he said, glancing at the bronze clock on the mantel; "I have an appointment at half past nine this morning. You will drive with me this afternoon, will you not, Muriel?"

"Certainly," she answered, with a little bright smile up at him; and then, having given her the kiss without which he never went out of Muriel's presence for any length of time, Arundel left the room; and mother and daughter, alone in the handsome dining room, fell into conversation, the subject of which was the previous evening's entertainment.

"You seemed to enjoy yourself, Louie, even though it was a tiresome reception," said Muriel, leaning back in her chair and idly reducing to a tiny heap of crumbs the remnant of a delicate roll which lay beside her plate; and a little fond, proud smile flitted over her face as she continued: "I am quite sure you did not lack admirers, for whenever I caught sight of you, you were the centre of a small throng of gentlemen." Louie laughed a little low, happy laugh. In a great many books nowadays, the heroines are young ladies who are utterly indifferent to the pleasures of society, who take no delight in the admiring homage of their masculine friends, who look coldly at the reflection of their own beauty, but Louis Anthon did not resemble in the slightest degree these unnatural and unpleasant young persons. She was a thorough woman, therefore she had a spark of vanity within her which made the knowledge that she was charming and pleasing not at all disagreeable, on the contrary quite the reverse; when she looked in the mirror and saw how pretty she was, she did not sigh heavily and turn away coldly, she always felt glad, very glad, that her dainty little nose was not a nez retrousse, that her eyes were not light and expressionless, her complexion dull and sallow.

"I had a very nice time last evening, mamma," she murmured, bending her pretty head over the muffin she was buttering, with rather dreamy carefulness—"so much nicer than I expected to have. I suppose it was because I met so many pleasant people."

People! As though Louie was thinking as she spoke of the people she had met the previous evening! Only one person was in her thoughts—a person with dark, earnest eyes and a firm but tender mouth, of whose existence she had not been aware twenty-four hours before.

"Yes, there were a number of pleasant people there," said Muriel, thoughtfully, "and several that were strangers to me. That reminds me, Louie—who was that tall, handsome young gentleman you were talking with shortly before we left? He was rather English-looking, and seemed to be well acquainted with the Van Alstynes; I do not remember ever having seen him before."

"His name is Glenmore, mamma," Louie answered, "a Mr. Roy Glenmore. Mrs. Van Alstyne introduced him to me."

"Glenmore," mused Muriel, mentally running over a long list of names well known in fashionable society—"the name is not at all familiar; I do not recollect of ever hearing of or meeting any Glenmores. Who is he, Louie?"

"I do not know anything about him, mamma—who his grandparents were, what his father is, or whether he is rich or poor," said Louie, quite unconscious of the faint sarcasm in her words. "He was very pleasant, and, though I had only a few moments' conversation with him, I liked him very much, indeed; he seemed to be different from most young men."

"Different!" echoed Muriel. "In what respect different, Louie?"

"In every respect," said the girl warmly, "I think Mr. Glenmore has a higher sense of honor, a deeper sense of truth, and more self-respect than most of the men I have met."

Muriel opened her lovely eyes wide in surprise.

"Why, my dear child, how could you in such a very short time have gained any knowledge whatsoever of this Mr. Glenmore's true character. You must know a man, know him well too, before you can tell what his sense of truth and honor is, or how much self-respect he has."

Louie's face flushed; her eyes began to grow dark.

"Mamma, one look at a gold piece is enough to tell you that it is gold," she said, earnestly. "One look at a true man is enough to tell you that he is true."

Muriel smiled as she looked into the flushed, earnest face.

"What a little enthusiast you are, Louie!" she murmured. "Not all the gold pieces in circulation are pure gold, though they may look so."

"But they do not ring true, mamma," said Louie, simply, "and sooner or later some one puts them to the test."

"And while you are talking, dear, your breakfast is getting stone-cold," laughed Muriel, taking up the newspaper which Arundel had left lying on the table, and looking over the marriage and death notices.

But while Louie was absently eating her delicately broiled chicken, she was thinking about Roy Glenmore.

"I am quite sure that if ever he was put to the test he would ring true," she said to herself. "No man with such eyes as his could be untrue to himself, and people who are true to themselves are always true to the whole world."

That evening Louie attended a fashionable German. Why was it that as she entered the brilliantly lighted rooms her eyes wandered eagerly over the masculine faces assembled there? Had she hoped to see some one who was not there? It would seem so, for a vague feeling of disappointment fell upon her as the evening wore away.

The following night she went to the opera with the Brentwoods, and there was that same wistful look in her eyes as they wandered over the crowded house, the same shadowy sense of disappointment in her heart, as after midnight she sat on the heart-rug alone in her own daintily furnished room and gazed very thoughtfully into the fire. Not even to herself would Louie acknowledge it, yet all the same she had a longing to see Roy Glenmore again.

The third morning after Mrs. Farnum's reception came, and it brought Mrs. Van Alstyne. Bright, animated, and perfectly happy, with no cares, plenty of money, and nothing whatsoever to do but enjoy life, pretty little Mrs. Van Alstyne was one of those ladies—of which, by the way, there are many in fashionable society—who always have something on hand. If it was not a church fair, it was a charity concert, a set of sociables to be organized, a theatre party, a German to celebrate the birthday of some one of her many young lady friends, a flower party in honor of some pretty debutante in society. Consequently neither Muriel nor Louie was at all surprised when she announced to them that she was going to give a German in honor of a young lady cousin of hers who was coming from Boston to make her a visit.

"And I came in this morning to ask you if you would not help me to get it up, Louie," she said, talking rapidly, and with numerous pretty little gestures as was her way. "I want to have quaint and odd as well as pretty favors, and I thought perhaps you would go with me and select them; and then I do not know exactly who to invite. That is the trouble of having a large circle of acquaintces, one does not really know who one's intimate friends are. Now, Louie, listen while I read over a list of names I have, and see if you think I have forgotten any one who ought to be invited."

Thereupon Mrs. Van Alstyne took out a little Russia leather bound note-book, and while she and Louie consulted between them, Muriel looked on with a smile.

"There! I am sincerely glad that is all settled," murmured Mrs. Van Alstyne, shutting her note-book with a sigh of relief. "I am so much obliged to you, Louie for reminding me of Alma Haybrook; for some reason or other I had entirely forgotten her, and the Haybrooks, root and branch, would have considered it an unpardonable insult had I neglected to invite her. And now, Louie, who do you think I want you to take for your partner?"

"I am sure I don't know," laughed Louie. "I hope and trust it isn't Howard King, for he does waltz so horribly, although, poor fellow, I suppose he ought not to be blamed for what he evidently cannot help."

"Do you think I would give you him?" said Mrs. Van Alstyne, merrily. "No, indeed. You remember the gentleman I introduced you to the other evening at Maude Farnum's reception, don't you, a Mr. Glenmore? Well, Louie you, will do me a great favor if you will take him for your partner."

A faint flush crept over Louie's fair face.

"Certainly I will," she murmured, bending her head suddenly over Mrs. Van Alstyne's horribly ugly little English pug dog which that lady carried everywhere with her, and which, after running, or rather waddling about the reception room for awhile, had at last allowed Louie to take him on her lap where he lay scowling viciously, after the manner of his kind.

"You see," continued Mrs. Van Alstyne, "Roy Glenmore is not acquainted with many of our set—he knows very few of the young ladies. He dined with us last evening, and when I told him I should insist upon his coming to this German, he said probably he had never met one of the young ladies I intended to invite. I told him he had met one of them at least, and that if he would promise me he would come I would promise him that one for a partner. He remembered you perfectly, Louie and said in his quiet way, 'If Miss Anthon is willing to take me for a partner, I shall be very glad to come.'"

The flush deepened upon Louie's face, her small head drooped lower over the petted little animal which lay half asleep in her lap.

"Who is he, anyway, Kate?" asked Muriel, a little anxiously.

"I knew you would ask that," laughed Mrs. Van Alstyne; then more seriously, "Who is he, Muriel? He is, without exception, the noblest, truest young man I have ever met. Mr. Van Alstyne brought him to the house. He is connected with some banking-house down-town, and Harry met him and liked him so much, that he brought him home with him one evening, because he wanted to have me meet him. That was early in the fall, and since then he has been to our house very often. Both Mr. Van Alstyne and I have really an affection for him—no one could help liking him; he has some magnificent qualities, and he is so different from most of the young men."

The same thing Louie had said of him. There was an earnest light in the girl's brown eyes; she liked Mrs. Van Alstyne better than she had ever liked her before, because she had spoken so warmly of the man of whose life she, Louie, knew nothing, whom she had never met but once, with whom she had only spoken a few words, yet of whose nobility and truth she was so sure.

"But the family!" murmured Muriel, hesitatingly, evidently not quite satisfied. "Are the Glenmores people of wealth and good social position?"

"My dear Muriel, I really cannot tell you anything about the Glenmore family; I only know that Roy has neither parents, sister, nor brother; that his uncle, who, I believe, is his sole relative, is one of the firm of Disbrow & Co.; it used to be R. P. Morehead & Co., but since Mr. Morehead's death, his son-in-law, Mr. Disbrow, has been the head of the firm. That is all I know about Roy Glenmore's family, and I don't care to know anything more; he is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and it makes no difference to me what his grandparents were. After all, Muriel," and Mrs. Van Alstyne laughed, "What does it amount to, anyway, who one's dead and gone ancestors were? We have to do with the living, not with the dead; and, besides I think with Tennyson that Kind hearts are more than coronets,

And simple faith than Norman blood.

Although, for aught I know to the contrary Roy Glenmore may have Norman blood in his veins."

The time came when Mrs. Van Alstyne remembered those words of hers. "Roy Glenmore may have Norman blood in his veins."

"I do not agree with you, Kate," said Muriel, firmly. "I think it makes a vast difference who, as you say, one's dead and gone ancestors were. You cannot expect to gather grapes from thistles, nor find in wild flowers the same fragrance that you do in cultivated ones. Blood will tell, and neither my husband nor myself would ever consent to Louie marrying any man of whose antecedents we were not perfectly sure, of whose family we had not thorough knowledge."

"You ought to have been born in England," returned Mrs. Van Alstyne, good-humoredly; "your ideas are entirely too aristocratic for an equal born American woman. Run and put your things on, Louie, we will go and order those German favors this morning. You need not wait lunch for her, Muriel; we will have our lunch somewhere."

It was a very thoughtful face that looked back at Louie Anthon as she stood before the mirror in her own room and fastened on her dainty little hat.

"I do not think mamma is quite right," she said to herself. "It seems to me that it is not birth that makes a man, but worth—true, honest worth."

And I do not know what you think about it, my friend, but it seems to me that Louie was right.

CHAPTER XXXI.

Why it was she anticipated this German of Mrs. Van Alstyne's with more glad excitement than she had done any entertainment so far that season Louie did not ask herself. Nor did she question why she gave the subject of her dress for that evening more careful thought than was usual for her. She generally left the designing of her pretty toilets to her mother; this time she had her own ideas as to the combination of colors and materials, which she insisted upon having carried out to the letter. The result met with even Muriel's sincere approval—and Muriel was a connoisseur in matters of dress—the exquisitely lovely toilet had a dash of originality about it which made it simply charming.

"Really, Louie, I think I shall let you design my next dress for me," said Muriel, laughingly, when this creation of feminine thought and skill had been sent home from the dressmaker's. "This one of yours looks as though an artist had designed it. Worth himself could not have gotten up anything prettier."

The night of the German came—a clear, frost night, with the nearly full moon hanging like a huge silver lamp in the dark blue heavens. Very carefully Louie made her toilet; never had she been more particular as to the arrangement of her soft curls, the placing of her flowers. She certainly ought to have been satisfied—and I think she was—when the last bracelet had been clasped, the last flower disposed of, for no mirror ever reflected a lovelier face, a more daintily clad form.

"I think I will do, mamma," she murmured, with a little low, pleased laugh, as she turned from the mirror and took up her ermine-lined cloak.

"I think you will, dear," said Muriel, with a smile, thinking to herself, "There will be no one there so lovely as my Louie, my little girl." And the French maid, left alone in the room, said to herself, as she gathered up the little accessories which lay scattered about on Louie's dressing table:

"Mademoiselle Louie, she is more than tres jolie; she is what in my country they call ravissant."

There were many exquisitely dressed young ladies and faultlessly attired young men assembled in Mrs. Van Alstyne's brilliantly lighted parlors when Louie entered them. There were flowers and music, and there was Roy Glenmore—Roy, whose handsome face was a trifle paler than usual, as he took in his own the little gloved hand Louie extended to him.

Of course everybody knows what a German is; and though this of Mrs. Van Alstyne's was an exceptionally brilliant one, though the favors were exquisite, the music perfect, still probably to a great many of the young people who were present it was very like other fashionable Germans. But to Louie Anthon it was totally unlike any other German she had ever attended. She said to herself, "It is because the music is so lovely, and Mr. Glenmore is such a perfect waltzer." Was it only because Roy Glenmore was such a superb waltzer that, when with his arm around her, her head almost touching his breast, they floated down the long room together, a sense of happiness crept over Louie? Was it only because they never once got out of step that there was a vague, unlanguaged wish in her heart that life was one long waltz, and she could dance it through with him?

Before the evening was half over she felt well acquainted with him, as though they had known each other for a long time. Still, although she could and did talk to him without a particle of embarrassment, though he seemed to have the power of drawing out in words her prettiest, brightest fancies, she did not very often dare to look straight up into his face, for something in those dark, earnest eyes made her breath come more quickly, brought a flush upon her face.

At last the German came to a close, and Roy Glenmore and Louie, having walked slowly up and down the parlors and through the wide hall, wandered into a small room which Mrs. Van Alstyne had devoted to a rare collection of foreign photographs and curios.

They were standing side by side before a curiously carved table, Louie idly turning over the pages of an album, Roy, his eyes fastened upon the lovely face which was like a flower in its exquisite coloring, when the musicians struck up a waltz in answer to some one's petition for "just one more waltz." The music was exquisitely lovely—soft, melting, dreamy; they had played that same waltz once before that evening, and Louie had danced it with some one else, with a vague regret, too, that the same one was not Roy Glenmore.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MORSELS FOR SUNDAY CONTEMPLATION

If you wish to be as happy as a king look at those who haven't as much as you, not at those who have more.

He who imitates what is evil always goes beyond the example that is set; on the contrary, he who imitates what is good always falls short.

An observing person says "Some men are like an umbrella with a crook handle. They are always hanging around in out-of-the-way places, and are never to be found when they are wanted."

It has been well said that no man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when to-morrow's burden is added to the burden of to-day that the weight is more than men can bear.

Youth will never live to age without t keep themselves in breath with exercise, in heart with joyfulness. Too much thinking doth consume the spirits; and oft it falls out, that while one thinks too much of doing, he leaves to do the effect of his thinking.

The best way to discover the manifold uses of friendship is to cast about and see how many things there are which a man cannot do for himself, and it will appear that it was a sparing speech of the ancients to say that "a friend is another himself," for a friend is more than himself.

There is no more fatal mistake than that of drawing sharp lines between pleasure and duty, and relegating the one to the lower nature, and confining the other to the higher. They are meant to go hand in hand, purifying and sweetening the whole of our nature and the whole of life. What we need is, not to limit, but to extend the realm of each, so that duty may become a pleasure, and pleasure may be seen to be a duty.

Pleasure is a shadow, wealth and power a pageant, but knowledge is ecstatic in enjoyment—perennial in fame, unlimited in space, and infinite in duration. In the performances of its sacred offices it fears no danger, spares no expense; looks into the volcano, dives into the ocean, perforates the earth, wings its flight into the skies, encircles the globe, explores sea and land; contemplates the distant, examines the minute, comprehends the great, ascends to the sumblime; no place to remote for its grasp, no heavens too exalted for its reach.

Intelligence in Animals.

Mr. Romanes remarks in his book that there are few recorded instances of intelligence in bears; the following facts may therefore be worth recording: In the Clifton Zoological Gardens there are two female polar bears, between 2½ and three years old, which came here quite young. One of these shows remarkable intelligence in cracking cocoanuts. A nut was thrown to day in the tank; it sank a long way, and the bear waited quietly till after some time it rose a little out of her reach. She then made a current in the water with her paw, and thus brought it within reach. This habit has already been noticed several times in polar bears. She then took it on shore and tried to break it by leaning her weight on it with one paw. Failing in this, she took the nut between her fore paws, raised herself on her hind legs to her full height, and threw the nut forward against the bars of the den, 3 or 4 feet off. She then again leaned her weight on it, hoping she had cracked it, but failed again. She then repeated the process, this time successfully. The keeper told me she employed the same method to break the leg-bone of a horse. That this is the result of individual experience, and not of instinct, is clear from the fact that her companion has not learned the trick of opening them thus, nor could this one do it when she first came. The method of throwing it is precisely similar to that adopted by the Cebus monkey described by Mr. Romanes.—Nature.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Fate Which has Befallen Some Historic Ones.

All is not gold that glitters, even in Burke's Peerage, that volume which Thackeray used to call the "Englishman's Bible." A descendant of the Plantagenets was not long since living at a laborer at Kettering. The name had become shortened to Plant. The descendants of another royal stock, the Earl of Kent, sixth son of Edward I, are to be found in very humble occupations. One was a butcher at Hales Owen, Mr. Joseph Smart; another, George Wilmot, kept the turnpike gate at Cooper's Bank near Dudley. Another descendant of a royal line, of the blood of the Duke of Gloucester, fifth son of Edward III. was the late sexton of St. George's, Hanover Square, London. There are many descendants of ancient families in humble life, while pretenders and rich parvenus assume the names. Very few of the peers are the lineal representatives of old houses. The Percy is a Smithson, Paget is a Bailey, Marlborough is a Spencer, not a Churchill; Coke Earl of Leicester, is not a Coke, but a Roberts; Earl Lucie is not a Moreton, but a Reynolds. It is said that not five hundred "county families" in England can trace their pedigree beyond the time of the roll of Battle Abbey, but it is now known that the monks had no more scruples of conscience in interpolating a name to please the ambitious and powerful of their day, than a modern herald or seal-engraver at giving a retired grocer or broker any number of quarterings on the arms he may be willing to pay for.

A Kindly Man.

A young physician informed a pretty lady patient, who was suffering feom chronic sore throat, that the only sure cure for it was a beard.

"That's of no interest to me," she replied. "I've got no beard."

"True," he replied, gallantry, "but you can use mine as often as you want to."

They were married a few months later.

Mr. Grant, of Valley Plain, Marion Co., Ga., has a curiosity in a calf 4 weeks old, that has no hair, is of a brown color and very much resembles a young elephant in appearance.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, MARCH, 8TH 1883.

FIRE BRIGADE,

The want of a thoroughly trained fire brigade in Markdale is apparent to all. While some appear to think very little could be accomplished without an engine, we are of opinion that a well trained company, with a hook and ladder outfit would do as much, if not more, in nine cases out of ten, to save property and extinguish a fire in a place like Markdale, than would be done with such an engine as this place could afford to procure. The corporation could grant sufficient to purchase a hook and ladder outfit, and no ratepayer would feel the cost, while the prompt and well directed efforts of an efficient and trained body of men would no doubt be a great improvement on the present state of things. We would like to see our Village Police give some assistance in the matter. Of course there is no encouragement to form a company without the co-operation of the authorities.

THE RAILWAY GOBBLE.

In another column we give a clip from the World of Saturday last intimating that arrangements are in progress whereby the Grand Trunk is likely to control the Northern, Hamilton & Northwestern and T. G. & B. Railways. Should such arrrangements be completed, the question will very naturally arise, what will be the result? The Grand Trunk would then control four points on the Georgian Bay, viz; Collingwood, Meaford, Owen Sound and Wiarton. We believe this (the T. G. & B.) line to Owen Sound would be made the main line of the five roads leading to the lake; the Durham branch would likely be extended to Markdale, thereby giving a direct route West as well as East, we hope soon to be in a position to give our readers something more definite on this important question.

MR. ANDERSON'S FIRE.

Last week we mentioned the fact that Mr. J. R. Anderson of Orange Valley, Artemesia, had the misfortune of having his residence destroyed by fire, but were not in possession of further particulars.

The fire originated in the kitchen, and is supposed to have been working in the neighbourhood of the chimney during the night, and broke out about five o'clock in the morning. While the family were enjoying peaceful slumbers in the upper portion of the house they were awakened by the crackling of the fire on the roof. They first directed their attention towards endeavouring to extinguish the fire but the supply of water failed, and all hands turned to to save what they could of the contents and succeeded in saving considerable in good order, yet a great amount was consumed—$15.00 in cash, together with Life Insurance and other valuable papers were burned. A young lad who had earned and received for lighting fires at the school house, some $6 or $7, had his little all burned. Mr. Anderson's house was a very comfortable one, built some eight years since by the late James Waldie. It was well furnished and carpeted throughout. The loss is not less than $1,300; insured in the Gore District for $500, which amount Mr. Anderson will no doubt receive.

CHANGE IN BUSINESS.

Mr. J. L. Browne, Photographic Artist, has sold his plant and business to Mr James Hamilton who will take possession the 15th of this month. Mr. Browne has worked up a fine business during the 15 months he has been in the place, and has made many warm friends. As an Artist his work speeks for itself. He is a genial, good hearted and worthy citizen, and we regret having to part with him. Our best wishes follow him where he may locate.

Mr. J. Hamilton, who succeeds him in business, here is now turning out very fine specimens in Photos of various sizes, from card to life size. Whatever he does he takes pain to do well. We bespeak for him the success which fine work and close application to business deserves.

PASSED AWAY.—Mr. Wm. Bulmer, (Photographer,) Flesherton, who was an old citizen, and very highly esteemed gentlemen, died on Friday evening last. He has been in very poor health for some years, he was a devoted christian and passed away in the triumphs of faith.

RESULT OF GREY ELECTIONS.

The majorities are as follows for each Municipality.

EAST GREY.

	Lauder	Myles
Artemesia,	110
Collingwood,		93
Euphrasia,		47
Holland,	84
Osprey	111
Proton	2
	307	140
	140
Maj. for Lauder	167

SOUTH GREY.

	Hunter	Blyth
Bentinck	59
Egremont	69
Glenelg		40
Durham		40
Normanby		235
	128	315
		128
Majority for Blyth		187

NORTH GREY.

	Creighton	Doyle
Owen Sound	35
Derbey		10
Sullivan	135
Sydenham		93
Sarawak	31
Keppel		1
Meaford	18
St. Vincent	40
	259	104
	104
Maj. for Creighton	155.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING.

McFarland's strong tea re-elected Blyth.—We Grits.

We will soon know about Wiggins' March storm.—The people.

I wish Mc. had gave me some.—Bob Myles.

The elections are over and we gained a victory.—The Conservatives.

So did we.—The Reformers.

Oh, dear! oh dear,! why didn't I get some of McFarland's tea?—R. J. Doyle.

The appointment of valuators for the county of Grey is a fraud.—The Ratepayers.

I am not coming back, boys, until the next time. McFarland's tea is valued by me.—A. W. Lauder.

The choice of valuators is all right, but we do not favor the system.—Ed. STANDARD.

THE RAILWAY GOBBLE.

THE HAMILTON AND NORTHWESTERN CONTROLLED BY THE GRAND TRUNK—THE NORTHERN TO FOLLOW—LIKEWISE THE GREY & BRUCE.

(From the Toronto World.)

A railway lawyer of this city who ought to know is authority for the statement that the agents of the Grand Trunk have secured a controlling interest of the Hamilton and North western and that they will soon have the Northern. For some time back the bonds of the Hamilton and Northwestern have met with a ready sale, and it was evident that some person was very active in buying them in. It was suspected at the time that the buyers were acting for the Grand Trunk.

It is also reported that the litigation regarding the Toronto, Grey and Bruce will soon be over—that those who are holding out against the Grand Trunk assuming control will be quieted and peacable possession allowed.

Revival services are being held in the Flesherton Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. McDowell.

ANOTHER COUNTY HEARD FROM.—Mr. Samuel Halliday, Co. Durham Tp. Clerk, says, Trimble & Wright's famous Japan Tea gives great satisfaction. No Tea comes East of Toronto to equal it for the price. Several of our neighbours intend ordering chests of it.

The "Markdale Mission Magazine" is published at this office monthly in pamphlet form. It contains a great amount of interesting reading matter, together with a calendar of the various English Church Sunday and week day services, at the various appointments on this mission, receipts and expenditures of all kinds pertaining to the church on this mission, and various other matters of interest. Every churchman in the district should have it. Only 50cts per year; can commence any time. Apply to Rev. J. Ward, Markdale, or at this office.

OSPREY COUNCIL.

The second meeting was held at Feversham on the 26th February.

All members present.

Communications from Co. Treas., list of lands liable to be sold in 1883 for arrears of taxes. C. W. Rutledge, re printing. Registrar General, certificate as to Births, &c. J. Gamey, bill, re Miller, a vagrant. F. Winters, petition to reconstruct school sections. R Gordon, petition, re Mrs. Glover, an indigent. W Slight, re statute labour, lots 40 and 41, in 3 S. Auditors' report.

Taxes on lots 40 and 41, in 3 S. for 1882, were ordered to be erased.

Orders issued:—Mrs. Glover, indigent, $10; T. Gamey, committing J. Miller, $2; A. McGirr, committing J. Miller, $1; J. Gamey, expenses, Co. Rates, $5; supplement school equivalent, $11; J. Gamey, re J. Miller, $3.35; N. A. McLean, auditor, $10; S. R. Edwards, auditor, $12; J. McPherson, keeping Mrs. McDougal, $15; W. Suggitt, postage and stationery, $10; Division Registrar, $13.10.

The Auditors' Report was adopted, and Mr. Thos. Perigoe was exempted from taxes.

Registration returns for 1882—births, 62; marriages, 20; deaths, 49; Total 131.

Council adjourned to meet on 10th March, at Feversham.

W. MILNE, Clerk.

[NOTE.—The copy of above came to hand at 1 o'clock Tuesday, and proof forwarded by return mail at 4.30 same day.—ED. STANDARD.]

PROVINCIAL APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments appear in Saturday's Ontario Gazette. Donald Sinclair, of Paisley, to be registrar of deeds in the county of Bruce; Edgar Fred Cross, of London, Eng, to be a commissioner for taking affidavits; S M. Jarvis, of Qu'Appelle, N. W. T., to be a commissioner for taking affidavits; Donald McGregor, of Caledonia, to be clerk of the first division court of Haldimand; Donald R. McKay, of Penetanguishene, to be clerk of the ninth division court in Simcoe; John McConchie, of Ancaster, to be bailiff of the sixth division court of Wentworth.

We have received 11 renewals and 6 new subscribers the past six days. Keep on at it friends, you are doing well.

Mr Brian, of Shelburne, has leased the Mansion House and is having it refitted throughout and will open next week.

On or before stock taking we will sell off our stock at a great reduction. Our stock of winter goods will be sold regardless of cost. Our stock of Millinery will be sold at 25cts on the dollar.—TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

BIRTHS.

HASKETT—In Markdale, on the 7th inst., the wife of W. N. Haskett, Esq., (hardware merchant,) of a daughter.

WILSON. In Markdale, on the 5th inst. the wife of Mr. Geo. Wilson, (butcher,) of a daughter.

STEVENS.—In Collingwood, 21st ult., the wife of W. A. Stevens, B A., Science Master, Collingwood Collegiate Institute, of twins—son and daughter.

CAMPBELL.—In Collingwood, on the 19th ult., the wife of Mr. Chas. E. Campbell, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

GUY—COUTTS—At Maxwell, on the 28th Feb., by Rev. Mr. Dowler, Mr. Thos. Guy, to Miss Sarah Coutts, all of Osprey.

RADDLEY— MCLEAN.— On Feb. 7th, at the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. John Chisholm, B. A., Mr. Wm. Telford Raddley, of Maxwell, to Miss Margaret McLean, of McIntyre.

MORRISON—MCEACHNIE.—On Feb. 14th, at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. John Chisholm, B. A., Mr. Marshall Morrison to Miss Sarah McEachnie, both of Maxwell.

STEWART—BEST.—At the Manse, Markdale, on Tuesday the 6th inst., by the Rev. A. Wilson, Mr. Alex. Stewart to Miss Margaret Ann Best, both of Artemesia.

DIED.

BULMER—In Flesherton, on Friday 2nd inst., Mr. Wm. Bulmer, (photographer,) aged 47 years.

CARD OF THANKS.

I hereby wish to express my heartfelt thanks to the persons who so nobly assisted me at the late fire, and also to the kind friends for timely aid to myself and family, a kindness which I shall never forget,

J. R. ANDERSON.

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 122 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to

M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

Clydesdale Stallion FOR SALE.

That splendid Clydesdale Stallion "Scottish Champion," from imported stock, and the property of Wm. Shepherdson, will be sold cheap. The horse stands 16¼ hands high, is 4 years old, jet black in color, and a sure foal getter. Any one wishing to get a bargain should take advantage of this offer. Stock taken in part payment. Address W. SHEPHERDSON, Lot 23, Con. 11, Euphrasia, Blantyre P. O. 129-4t*

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $0.97; Spring $0.98 to $1 00; Barley, 55c; Peas, 69; Oats, 38c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 22c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $11.00; Pork, 7.50 to 8 00; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $2.00 to $2.00

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $0.97; Spring, $0.98 to $1.00; Barley, 57c; Peas, 67c; Oats, 38c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 21c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $11.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7 90.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.102 to $1.05; Spring, $1.05 to $1.10; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 46c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag. 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy. 17c to 20c; eggs. 30c to 32c.

T. G. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NORTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	0 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

CHANCERY DIVISION

BEATTIE vs. BLAIR.

PURSUANT TO THE JUDGMENT OF JAMES MASSON, Esq., Master of the Supreme Court at Owen Sound, made in this action and bearing date the 22nd day of September, 1882, and pursuant to subsequent directions of the said Master made on the 6th day of March, 1883, there will be sold, with the approbation of the said Master, by Abram S. Vandusen, Auctioneer,

BY PUBLIC AUCTION,

AT THE MARKDALE HOUSE,

generally known as Rutledge's Hotel, in the

VILLAGE OF MARKDALE,

On Thursday, 5th day of April, 1883,

at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon, the following valuable Farm Property:

Lots Numbers 128 and 129, in the 1st Concession N. E., and Lots Numbers 130 and 131, in the 1st Concession S. W. of the Toronto and Sydenham Road, in the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, consisting of 200 acres, of which about 120 acres are cleared and in a good state of cultivation. The remainder is covered with cedar, tamarac, balsam, and swamp timber. The soil is a good clay loam The fences are in good repair, and the land is well watered.

On Lot 130 there are 40 acres cleared, an orchard in bearing, mostly of apple trees, a dwelling house, a fine frame barn 60x90 feet with stone foundation and a good stabling underneath barn.

On Lot 131 there are 25 acres cleared, and a good spring creek.

On Lot 128 there are 35 acres cleared, a plum orchard of about one-eight of an acre, and a log barn and log house.

On Lot 129 there are 20 acres cleared. This farm property is advantageously situated in a good neighborhood, on the leading gravel road between the villages of Flesherton and Markdale, on the line of the T. G. & B. railway, distant two and a half miles from Flesherton, and three and a half miles from Markdale, both of which places afford good markets.

This property will be offered for sale at the time and place above named, subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master, in one parcel, and if not sold then in separate parcels, and will be sold free from dower and all incumbrances save a mortgage on Lots 130 and 131, the amount and particulars whereof will be made known at time of sale, or on application to the solicitors underwritten. Immediate possession given. This sale affords a rare opportunity to any one wishing to obtain a fine farm.

Ten per cent. to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance in one month, without interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

Further particulars can be had from Messrs. Frost & Frost, or Creasor & Morrison, Owen Sound.

Dated at Owen Sound this 7th day of March, 1883.

FROST & FROST,
Vendors' Solicitors, Owen Sound.

(Signed) J. MASSON,
Master at Owen Sound.

130-4t.

AN ACROSTIC

Look out ye farmers and threshers
And see that you buy for Spring
Right splendid good oil.
Don't be misled by statements blind
Insist upon having the very best
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand
Machines run smoothly, no jarring
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see
Heavy gristing cannot do without me
In fact all machines are blessed by
New or old it will save from wear and
Every man try it, we are it will please
Our initials, when read, will give the
In looking for oil, the best and the Long in the market, but ever new.

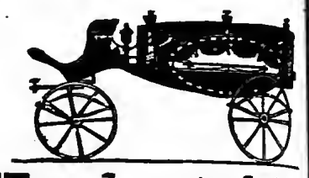
Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. Toronto. No connection with any other.
127-153.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,



—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and at Hours from

GEO. GRANT

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. all at moderate prices.

GEORGE NOBLE,

INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies: CITIZENS', of Montreal,

AGRICULTURAL, of Waterloo,

TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale. Village Lots

Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate. Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mill

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash, Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted.

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mills

UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Gristing and Chopping done every working day, Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."

Feb. 22nd, 1883. 128-51.

oll & Brown

s Mr. Doll is leaving Mark- to go into the Wholesale ellery Business in Toronto, d not wishing to leave Mark- altogether,) he has entered partnership with Mr. W. BROWN, late of Flesherton, is a practical watchmaker d jeweller of over 15 years ex- ience, and comes with the best ecommendations from some of leading watchmakers in the minion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the ness in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will done in a workmanlike man- .

All work will be guaranteed, all goods sold will be found represented, or money refund- at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

ocal and Other Items.

rices in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten a line for the first insertion and five a line each subsequent insertion.

Mr. Isaac Brown has a few cows, in for sale.

The Owen Sound Dry Dock Com- y employ 74 men at the Dock.

Business is going to be booming for next 30 days at Reynolds & Son, don't you forget it.

Every new subscriber to the STAN- gets a book of 90 pages "A Trea- on the Horse and his Diseases" . Many of those who got them past year, say the book is worth subscription itself.

THE NEW STEAMER.—The Pacific, being built at the Dry Dock by rain John Simpson, will be ready launching early in April. She is ly all planked, and the machinery ow being put into her. She will be, en completed, one of the finest pro- lors on the laakes.—O. S. Adver- r.

A FRAUD.—A person by the name Howard or Russel (he gave a dif- ent name to several individuals in s locality) who went around our ge some time ago, soliciting ad- tisements for an Hotel Adver- ng album, or some such thing, is a ular "dead head." He left Flesher considerably in debt to some of citizens. Look out for him.—4d ce.

"OUR LITTLE ONES" for March is excel ent number. Parents should e for the amusement of the folks and in no way could they is better than by obtaining this y valuable periodical for them. h is attractive and instructive. mple can be seen at the STANDARD ce. $1.50 per annum. Russel lishing Company, 36 Broomfield t, Boston.

e "Canadian Farm Journal," for y, published by the Canada Land Agency Company, is on . It contains full and re- nformation as to the resources country, with a list of improved and other property for sale. is Journal is issued gratuitously. Demuie, agent, Flesherton; R. C. n, agent, Markdale. If you t to buy or sell farms see these ntlemen.

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM.—On Sun- night last some rascal attempted re Butchart's Block on the east of Poulett street. The place re the attempt was made is between ie's Butcher Shop and Holme's tograph Gallery, where there was open stairway between the two s. Fire was discovered near the of the front stairs, and also at bottom of the back stairs, where re was some fine lumbering and lling, which when discovered was re. Had this fire got under head- there is no telling where it would e stopped, as it will be remember- Sunday night was a very windy one. e destruction of property is bad en- gh, but when human life is at stake, it was in this case, it seems almost redible that anyone calling himself man would be guilty of such a das- dly act.—O. S. Advertiser.

New Chains and Necklets, and new Concertinas just opened at Doll & Brown's, Markdale.

One case of those celebrated Seth Thomas O. G. Clocks, of very fine finish, just to hand at Doll & Brown's.

No trains have arrived at the Durham Station this week yet, the railway is useless this weather.—Grey Review.

Reynolds & Son are giving some of the best bargains in Cashmeres ever offered in Markdale. Don't be deceived but come in and see for yourself.

Moffat Bros. of the Markdale Foundry, have a fine lot of sugar kettles of a superior quality now ready, and will sell them cheap for cash. Wood and old iron taken in exchange.

A meeting of the fire brigade will be held at the STANDARD Office on Friday evening, at eight o'clock. Matters of importance to be considered. By order of Capt. McDougall.

The ice harvest goes on and a splendid lot is being housed. Every farmer should have a few loads; when they once use it they will find it an almost indispensible article for the dairy.

Father Cassin gave us a call on Tuesday. He removed on the 22nd February to his new brick residence at the "Irish Lake," Artemesia, which he built the past season and is now complete with the exception of some outside painting.

About four o'clock on Sunday afternoon last Mr. Fred Sargeant's house was discovered on fire but was speedily extinguished without any damage to speak of. The fire originated on the roof near the chimney

Mr. John Ford advertised his farm for sale in the STANDARD, which brought a cash purchaser from near Brampton who paid Mr. Ford his price, $5,500. Who will say it's no use advertising in a local paper.

The Canadian Farmer is a weekly agricultural paper published in Welland, Ont., at $1 per annum. It contains a vast amount of useful and practical information on Agriculture. Subscriptions taken at this office.

Just received at Doll & Brown's from W. E. Doll, Toronto, a consignment of very fine watches, Elgin and Waltham movements, cases in 3 and 4 oz to fit coin silver, also Ladies and Gents Hunting Levers in solid gold cases.

An immense quantity of grain, wood, stave bolts, ties, &c., have been delivered in Markdale during the past week. Several days between 300 and 400 teams passed our office which is on the main street leading to the station.

Scarcely a day passes without teams running races on Mill street between the station and village, in some cases three teams a breast. This should be put a stop to. It is not only a breach of the law but endangers the lives of those who may be on the road, as many are, owing to the side walks being mostly blocked with snow.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT.—The oldest inhabitant of Ontario passed away, near Ayon, a few days ago, in the person of Richard Norris, who had reached the patriarchal age of 105 years. As an instance of his strength it is mentioned that on his 104th birthday he ploughed a field of wheat and shocked corn during the balance of the day.—Durham Chronicle.

Mr. John Ford has sold his (Mount Royal) farm containing 100 acres, 3 miles from Markdale, to Mr. A drew Nodwell, of Erin Tp., for $5,500 cash. Mr. Nodwell takes possession the 1st April. This appears a good price for 100 acres of land in this section of country, being $55 per acre, but Mr. Ford's place is one of the finest farms in this part of the country and is without exception in the best condition, all things considered. It carried off the first prize in East Grey for the best managed farm last Summer. Mr. Ford had a place for everything and everything in its place.

ACCIDENT.—An accident of a very serious nature occurred on the farm of Mr. John Black, Durham Road, on Friday, Feb. 23rd. A young man named John Kennedy was employed to cut saw logs. He was in the act of sawing down a large elm when it fell in a contrary direction and striking another tree close by, caused it to slip off the stump, and the snow being so very deep he was unable to make his escape and the falling tree struck him, driving him into the snow until he was entirely covered, and when shoveled out, it was found that both his legs were broken, one being broken above the knee, and between the knee and ankle, the other leg being broken at the ankle. Dr. Gunn was called on, and set the injured limbs, and under his treatment the patient is doing as well as can be expected.—Grey Review.

H. B. Harrison, of the Owen Sound marble works, gave us a call yesterday.

We direct the attention of our readers to Mr. Benson's change of advertisement in this issue. Read, learn, &c.

About 8 tons of good timothy hay, well saved and in the barn, for sale at John Buskin's, con. 7, lot 4, Euphrasia. Also good straw for sale.

The Canada Pacific Railway Company are having three powerful steel bottom steamers built on the Clyde, of 1,200 tons each, to ply between Algoma Mills and Prince Arthur's Landing next summer.

Mr. Thos. Sproule, late of the Revere Hotel, who has been in this town two years has made many friends. He was very obliging and cheerful and will be greatly missed at his old stand. We wish him success wherever he may locate.

Our paper is a day late this week. We had a stock of paper coming which should have arrived on Wednesday, but owing to the storm, which blocked the railway, it did not arrive until late Thursday night, hence the delay.

Grand clearnig sale for the next 30 days of Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes, Glassware, Crockery, Hats, Caps, Ready-made Clothing. Reynolds & Son are going to sell a large stock of the above goods in the next 30 days. As we are going to make a change in business, come and see some of our bargains.

A copy of Steele Bros'. annual illustrated seed catalogue, for 1883, is before us, and for beauty of design and amount of useful information contained in it, is hard to excel. This firm is established 10 years and are reliable. Intending purchasers can have a copy of their descriptive catalogue free by applying by letter or card to Steel Bros'. & Co., Toronto.

PICTURESQUE CANADA.—Mr. Crysler, travelling agent for the above, delivered parts 15 and 16 this week. This grand specimen of Canadian Art grows more interesting with each number. The engravings in the last two parts are very natural, giving various views of Niagara Falls and vicinity, Welland Canal, St. Catherines, Toronto Harbor, Queenston, &c.

CREDIT SALE.—Mr. Ford (Mount Royal Farm) will sell by public auction on his premises the 20th March, his entire stock, implements, &c. Mr. Ford has good stock and his farm implements are in prime condition. This is a genuine sale as the proprietor has sold his farm. Sale to commence at 11 o'clock. Refreshments at noon. Nine months credit on approved joint notes. Geo. Noble, Auctioneer.

LOTTERY WRITS ISSUED.—A. M. Gamble, keeper of the Provincial hotel at Gananoque, was on Thursday last served with a writ similar to those served in London last week. Mr. Gamble won the $5000 prize in the London lottery. The writ was issued at the instance of the Toronto society for the suppression of vice. David Porter of Ballyduff, who won the $15,000 could not be found by the constable who went down, and it is thought that he got wind of the writs and skipped out.

A PROMPT RESPONSE.—On the 18th Feb. part of our stock was damaged by removal from the late fire, and on the day following the inspector, Dr Hea, appraised our damage. We were agreeably surprised when Dr. Hea, Inspector for the Western, and W. Lucas & Co., agents for the Fire Insurance Association (Limited) handed us the check on the 24th Feb., as settlement in full of our claim We recommend all who want to insure the above company.—TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

THE SOCIAL—Notwithstanding the wind storm, which prevailed for 24 hours previous, a goodly number gathered at Dufferin Hall last evening, and a good time was spent After amusements of various kinds were enjoyed, and refreshments disposed of, Rev. Mr. McDiarmid called the meeting to order, and the following took part in the programme, with credit to themselves and satisfaction to the audience. Music by the Choir; Reading, J. L. Browne; Instrumental Music, Henry, Smith and Copeland; Instrumental Music, Minnie Cornwall; Reading, Mrs. Wm. Brown; Song, J. H. Devaney; Reading, W. A. Brown; "Irish Philosopher," W. A. McDougal; Music, the Choir; Reading, A. McFarland; Instrumental Trio, Henry, Smith, and Copeland; Song, Armstrong, Hull and Miss Gamey; Reading, "Mary Queen of Scots," Mrs. Trimble; Song, "Strange as yet," E. L. Bowman; "Betsy and I are out." W. A. McDougal; "The Maple Leaf for Ever," Choir. Some of the readings were very thrilling and well rendered. Proceeds $13.50. Next one in two weeks.

THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST.

Coolness of temperament is a virtue, but the refreshing coolness of the

Preserved Meats, Fruits, and Vegetables,

—KEPT AT THE—

BELFAST HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

beats all the icebergs ever floated down the Atlantic Ocean.

The Belfast House

Teas and Coffees!

give an exhilirating influence, not equalled in Markdale, except by Benson's

WHISKIES, BRANDIES, WINES,

&c. Those who relish the "pipe of peace" will find the

Tobaccos and Cigars

at the Belfast House unsurpassed north of Toronto. Cheese, Bologna Sausage, and Biscuit in endless variety, all from the best manufacturers, at the Belfast House. Apples, (green and dried,) Spices, Sweetmeats, &c. Toilet and Fancy Soaps, Essences, Perfumes, and Family Oils, of the purest quality. Flour, Potatoes, Pork, Herring, (dried and salt,) kept constantly on hand.

☞ Our Bottled Gin is imported directly from the manufacturers, and our Bottled Wines are put up at the Vintage. Pickles in bottles, Mustard in cans, and in fact everything in the grocery trade. A recent addition to my finances will enable me to purchase in the head markets of Europe and America.

WILSON BENSON.

Just Arrived!

A LARGE STOCK OF

NEW AND FASHIONABLE

DRY GOODS,

Boots and Shoes,

NEW GROCERIES,

At prices which will astonish you. Call and see.

Highest price paid for Butter and Eggs or any kind of Fowl at the CHEAP STORE.

JOHN DOUPE,
Flesherton Station.

Nov. 15th, 1882. 114-3m.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Out. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated. Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

JNO. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER.

Begs to tender his thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for past patronage, and to intimate to them that he is prepared to supply the public with either plain or iced and ornamented. Also Brides' Cakes got up in the best style that can be done this side of Toronto.

Fruit, Pound and Plum Cake

Bread, Buns and Cakes!

in great variety. All these are manufactured on his own premises by himself, besides Biscuit of every description from the best manufacturers in Ontario.

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY

in great variety. Tea Meetings, Socials, and other parties supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 22nd, 1882. 115-3m

MARKDALE

Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and deliivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN.

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficien proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

THOS. MATHEWS,

Harness Establishment!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION

J. W. FORD,

Is giving splendid satisfaction in

GRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention to parties from a distance so that they may have their grist home the same day.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 160 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A. bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 1-tf.

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Single cpies of the STANDARD only 5cents.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

The Parliamentary crisis continues to absorb attention in New Brunswick.

It is now considered doubtful whether the Quebec House will prorogue before Easter.

The Montreal civic revenue this year is $1,758,043; an increase of $25,000 over last year.

A Customs seizure of jewellery at Fort Erie has been made amounting to $1,000 or $2,000.

Wells, a bucket-shop keeper, has absconded from Montreal with $5,000 of other people's money.

The Winnipeg city debentures have been offered on the London Market at seven per cent. premium.

The total amount subscribed in Hamilton for the relief of sufferers by the German floods, has reached $1,287.

Rumour says that the Montreal Bank has shut down on another large London house, and that a suspension is likely.

A man named Garret Flyn was killed in Vale county, New Glasgow, by a fall of coal in the Pillar works.

The Molsons Bank, London, has caused a writ to be issued against the Globe Agricultural Works Company for $100,000.

The charge of embezzlement brought against Deputy Sheriff Gibson, of Wentworth, by the sheriff has fallen through.

Cardinal Simeoni, in a letter to the Archbishop of Quebec, severely condemns the interference in political elections of the clergy.

Three more bodies stolen from St. Scholastique Cemetery a few days ago, are being looked for in the dissecting room at Montreal.

A Mrs. Nally and her daughter were killed near Canterbury station, N. B., by e sleigh which they occupied being struck by a train.

Magistrate Bartlett, of Windsor, has reviewed the testimony taken at the Maher inquest, and deems it strong evidence against the prisoners.

This year some 50,000 logs will be driven down the Mississippi by Caldwall & Sons. Just what P. McLaren is going to do about it is not known.

Henry Joseph Lyall, who is said to belong to Port Hope, was arrested recently at Hamilton for obtaining money on false pretences and forgery.

Charles Pigeon, a Montreal barber, has disappeared, and so has a Lowell woman named Gilman. Mrs. Pigeon and two children are left behind in Lowell.

The Imperial Government, it is suggested, will assume the expense of sending out ten thousand Irish agriculturists to the Canadian North-west during May and June next.

Holders of tickets in the recent Masonic lottery resident in London have been summoned. Manager Brunton is among the number, to answer to a charge of encouraging lotteries.

Michael and Henry Kinehan and Thomas Craig, were committed at Kingston recently, on a charge of stabbing one McCullough at the Village of Verona, in the county of Addington on election night.

Judge Ramsay of Montreal, gave the Grand Jury a lecture upon the sanctity of the oath, remarking that he did not know why some people required an affirmation when there was one included in the oath.

The Grand Trunk Railway for the period between the 12th August and 31 December, shows a balance sufficient to pay the full interest upon the first and second preference stocks and three and a half per cent. upon the third preference.

Mayor Beaudry was elected to the chief magistracy of Montreal over Mr. Henry Bulmur by a majority of 212. J. McShane beat Ald. Kennedy by thirty-six in St. Ann's Ward, and W. D. Stroud outset Ald. Proctor with a majority of 112.

UNITED STATES.

Thos. W. Palmer, of Detroit, has been elected to the United States Senate, receiving seventy-five votes.

A party of ranchmen surprised an Indian camp in Mexico, captured twenty-five squaws, killed ten bucks, and scalped them.

Subscriptions to the Bartholdi statue at New York recently, amounted to $2,500. President White of Cornell University gave $250.

John Goodwin, of Chicopee, Mass., has absconded. He was a contractor and owes from seventy-five to a hundred thousand dollars.

The district Attorney, in a communication to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, says the Star Route trial will probably last two months longer.

Rev. Howard Crosby, lecturing before the Master Plumbers' Association, said the New York debt of over a hundred millions is solely from the plundering of politicians.

An official statement of the Catholic Churches in the charge of the Augustinian Fathers at Lawrence, Mass., shows the liabilities to be $567,000, and the assets $560,000.

GENERAL.

The plague has appeared in Kurdistan.

The French anarchist Didier has been arrested at Brussels.

All the documents of the "Black Hand" Society are in the hands of the Andalusian Government.

The Prince of Wales recently visited Prince Bismarck, remaining an hour with the eminent statesman.

The British Board of Trade has exonerated the captain of the City of Brussels from blame in the sinking of his steamer.

M. De Lesseps will start from Paris for Tunis on the 12th inst. in connection with the formation of an inland African Sea.

The Socialistic society, the "Black Hand," numbers fifty thousand members, with Geneva as the centre for Western Europe.

The French Minister of War, replying to an interpellation, said the presence of the princes in the army was unconstitutional.

Negotiations for the purpose of inducing the Duke of Cumberland to renounce his claim to the throne of Hanover have been renewed.

The Journal de Geneve stigmatizes the action of the police in expelling the Salvation Army from Switzerland as nothing less than a veritable coup d'etat.

Mr. Parnell complained in the House against the seeming intention of the Government to relieve the distress in Ireland by the poorhouse and emigration.

The jury in London in the case of the editor, proprietor and printer of the Free Thinker, arraigned on a charge of blastphemous libel, disagreed, and a new trial has been ordered.

At the banquet given at Cairo to the British resident officials, a colonel of the Egyptian army arose in his place and offered the toast. "The deliverance of Egypt from the foreigners." He was removed amid excitement.

Big Things on Earth.

The largest inland sea is the Caspian, lying between Europe and Asia. Its greatest length is 700 miles, and its area 180,000 square miles. Great Salt Lake, in Utah, which may be properly termed an inland sea, is about 90 miles long, and has a varying breadth of from 20 to 35 miles. Its surface is 4,200 feet above the level of the sea, whereas the surface of the Caspian is 84 ft. below the ocean level. The biggest trees in the world are the mammoth trees of California. One of a grove in Tulare county, according to measurement made by members of the State Geological Survey, was shown to be 276 feet high, 106 feet in circumference at base, and 76 feet at the point 12 feet above the ground. Some of the trees are 376 feet high, and 34 feet in diameter. Some of the largest that have been felled indicate an age of from 2,000 to 2,500 years.

The largest empire in the world is that of Great Britain, comprising 8,567,658 square miles, more than a sixth part of the land of the globe, and embracing under its rule nearly a sixth part of the population of the world. In territorial extent the United States ranks third, containing 3,580,242 square miles, including Alaska: in population it ranks fourth with its 50,000,000 of people. Russia ranks second, having 8,352,940 square miles. The longest tunnel in the world is that of St. Gothard, on the line of railroad between Lucerne and Milan. The summit of the tunnel is 990 feet below the surface at Andermatt, and 6,600 feet beneath the peak of Kastlehorn of the St. Gothard group. The tunnel is 26 1-2 feet wide, and 19 feet 10 inches from the floor to the crown of the arched roof. It is nine and one-third miles long, one and five-eighth miles longer than the Mont Cenis Tunnel.

The most remarkable whirlpool is the maelstrom of the north-west coast of Norway, and southwest of Moskenæsol, the most southerly of the Lofoden isles. It was once supposed to be unfathomable, but the depth has been shown not to exceed 20 fathoms. The whirlpool is navigable under ordinary circumstances, but when the wind is north-west it often attains great fury, and becomes extremely dangerous. Under strong gales the maelstrom has been shown by official statisties to run at the rate of 26 miles an hour.

The largest library is the Bibliotheque National in Paris, founded by Louis XIV. It contains 2,400,000 volumes, 400,000 pamphlets, 175,000 manuscripts, 300,000 maps and charts, and 150,000 coins and medals. The collection of engravings exceeds 1,300,000, contained in some 20,000 volumes. The portraits number 100,000. The building which contains these treasures is situated on the Rue Richelieu. Its length is 540 feet, its breath 130 feet. The largest library in New York, in respect of separate works, is the Astor. About 190,000 volumes are on its shelves.

The largest desert is that of Sahara, a vast region of Northern Africa, extending from the Atlantic Ocean on the west to the Valley of the Nile on the east. The length from east to west is about 3,000 miles, its average breadth about 900 miles, its are 2,000,000 square miles. The town of Timbuctoo, about nine miles from the Niger river, is surrounded by desert, but at a distance of a few days' journey to the northeast and north are the oases of Mabrook and Arawan. Rain falls in torrents in the Sahara at intervals of five, ten and twenty years. In Summer the heat during the day is excessive, but the nights are often cold. In Winter the temperature is often below freezing point.

An Ambulant Chapel.

Few sites have so curious a history as that of the old chapel-of-ease which formerly stood in Conduit street. As was incidentally mentioned in a Chancery case recently, the land on which Conduit street was built formed in the time of Charles II. a meadow called Conduit Mead. In the next reign, when people began to build in this part of London, there was some difficulty in finding tenants for the houses because of the distance of the surburb from the parish church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields—an obstacle, by the way, which we never heard of the modern house speculator having to encounter. Thus it came about that a chapel-of-ease was erected in the reign of William and Mary. The structure was of wood, and had previously done duty as a travelling "mass-house." So at least, says Pennant. It was built "by James II. for private mass, and was conveyed on wheels, attendant on its royal master's excursions or when he attended his army. Among other places, it visited Hounslow Heath, where it continued some time after the Revolution." In the course of a few years the building—if it may be so termed—became ruinous, when Dr. Denison, the rector of St. Martin's, obtained permission from King William to erect a chapel of brick in its place. The more substantial edifice remained a proprietory chapel until 1875, when, the site having been let on a building lease, it was converted into a tailor's shop.

A bookseller of Claridan, Ia., horsewhipped Dr. Reinhold on the steps of the Post-office, and then called on the Mayor and was fined $25. The Louisville Courier Journal suggests that instead of fining the bookseller the Mayor should have bound him over.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

A prohibition bill has been defeated in the Texas Legislature.

Hank Monk, of Carson, Nev., Horace Greeley's famous stage driver, is dead.

In the Missouri House a prohibition amendment was defeated by a test vote of 68 to 59.

Four persons arrested in Trieste in August for sending bombs from Venice have been released.

Daniel Clark sues Louise Gould at Bangor, Me., for $5,000 for breach of promise of marriage.

The silver wedding festivities of the Crown Prince and Princess of Germany were celebrated Wednesday.

Mr. Brewster, Conservative, has been elected for Portarlington, over Mr. Wayne, Nationalist. The vote was 70 to 57.

The new North German Lloyd steamer "Fulda" made a trial trip from Glasgow recently. She showed a speed of 17¾ knots an hour.

A Malta despatch announces that the steamer "William Dickinson has been abandoned. Thirteen of her crew are missing and fourteen saved.

Three emigrants from Trieste and six other persons have been arrested in connection with the throwing of bombs in Rome on Tuesday.

Thirty-eight arrests have been made at Malaga, including an ex-mayor of the city, the charge being that of being concerned in the Socialistic propaganda.

It is stated the police are giving additional protection to Lord Harrington, the War Secretary, because of a discovery of a plot against him.

The Massachusetts House defeated by 127 to 60 a bill giving females a right to vote for city and town offices, and to hold city and town offices.

In the New York Assembly a bill allowing betting on one authorized race track in each county on race days was defeated by 37 to 61.

Wm. H. Kemble, president of the Union Railway, has been arrested and bailed, at Philadelphia charged with assaulting a reporter who tried to interview him.

Sara Bernhardt's creditors appeared in court in Paris on Wednesday. They claim that the amount realized by the sale of her jewellery was insufficient to pay the sum loaned thereon.

The new steamer "Normandie," built for the General Transatlantic Line, made a trial run off the Lizard on Tuesday. She attained a speed of 16¾ knots an hour.

In the Spanish Senate on Tuesday, the Marquis de la Vega de Armijo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, denied that negotiations are proceeding for the sale of the Island of Fernando Po to Germany.

The medical firm of Kergan & Kennedy recently received information from Toronto that a pesyician named Dr. Michael Hillary, who for the past month has had charge of their business in that city had myteriously disappeared with a considerable amount of funds belonging to the firm.

In the United States Senate the Committee on Judiciary reported adversely on the bill for the restoration of citizenship to such citizens of the United States as have become naturalized citizens of Great Britain.

The Senate ratified the supplemental extradition treaty with Spain, the treaty with Roumania for the protection of trade marks and treaty of peace, friendship and commerce between the United States and Madagascar.

Miss Margaret, daughter of Thos. Addis Emmet, and niece of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, died at N. Y. at the age of 90 years recently. She was the last of the Emmets born in Ireland. She and her father were in prison in Scotland for three years after the execution of Robert.

At a meeting of the National Rifle Association recently the Duke of Cambridge, who presided, said nothing could exceed the kindness and hospitality shown the British team during the last international match. The association looked forward with pleasure to giving an American team a most hearty welcome at Wimbledon.

Byrne, before the public prosecutor at Paris, denied he was guilty of assassination. He refused to reply to further questioning. He is kept a close prisoner. No visitors are allowed to see him. A Council of Ministers will decide whether he will be surrendered. Byrne was arrested on a direct charge of assassination.

The police at Dublin have torn down a placard extensively posted throughout Galway and signed "No. I." The offensive placard simply denies that the person charged with Constable Lutor's murder has turned informer. There is some irritation caused by the action of the police, and threats are being made.

A band of masked and armed men, supposed to be members of a secret society, entered a farm at Puerto Serrano, Andalusia, murdered the men, outraged a woman, and destroyed everything on the place. Several plantations in Andalusia, have been partially destroyed by similar bands. Some emissaries of the secret society, who have been arrested, were found to be furnished with fresh orders from their chief, a schoolmaster, who has been arrested.

The Senate Chambers, Albany, N.Y., was filled with a brilliant audience to hear the arguments before the Senate Finance Committee on the bill for the preservation of the natural scenery at Niagara Falls and laying out a public park there. Ex-Assemblyman Robb, Congressman Dorsheimer, Bishop Doane, of Albany, and ex Senator Sprague, of Buffalo, favored the bill, advancing the same arguments as were made before the Assembly Committee. Mr. Roland Hill, owner of a paper mill at Niagara Falls, opposed the bill, claiming that it was unconstitutional.

Carroll McCaffrey and others have sued James Elverson, proprietor of the Philadelphia Saturday Night, whose publication office is situated on Ninth and Spruce sts., alleging that the noise and jarring of his machinery constituted a nuisance, and praying the court to enjoin its continuance. The Master in Equity finds the establishment is a nuisance, and recommends a decree restraining the defendant's operating his presses between 8 p. m. and 6 a. m., and compelling him to keep the windows on the Spruce street side closed while the machinery is in motion.

The grand jury in the case of the Newhall House disaster in Milwaukee has made a final report. They find that the Newhall House was constructed in as substantial a manner as such buildings usually are: there was scarcely an hotel in the country as easy of egress as the Newhall; that the owners had done all that was reasonable for protection and escape in case of accident; that the landlord was extremely solicitous for the welfare and safety of the guests, but did not supply sufficient men or means to alarm the guests. They say, in extenuation, that he adopted the same precautions as in hotels of like size. He was at fault in not instructing help at the fire and not giving sufficient attention to the bar-room after he knew the bad habits of the tenant. They find the laws regulating the modes of egress from buildings defective.

The Old Lady and the Conductor.

A conductor with a narrow chest, red hands, and sleepy eyes lolled against the rail of a Yonge car yesterday afternoon and whistled carelessly. Presently an aged woman within the car began to wave a green cotton umbrella wildly at the conductor. Then she nodded her head violently and looked over her shoulder toward Gould street, which the car was approaching on its way down town. The conductor looked at her with languid interest, and still whistled. Meanwhile the car rattled rapidly by Gould street. Then the woman began to utter inarticulate sounds, and looked beseechingly at the conductor with distended eyes, raised eyebrows, and half-opened mouth. The conductor still whistled. He looked at the woman, but he wore the far away expression of a man sunk in psychologic thought, and seemed not to be aware of her growing frenzy. Thus things remained until the car arrived at Shuter street, when the woman bounded from her seat, and started for the door. After trying to harpoon three estimable citizens with her umbrella, treading on all of the more sympathetic corns on the way, dropping her reticule, and lunging violently she arrived at the door, and cried:

'Why don't you stop the car?"

The conductor ceased whistling, and gradually became aware of her presence as the car passed Queen street.

"Do you wish to get out madam?" he asked with a glassy smile.

"Wish to get out, you stupid man!" gasped the old lady. "Why, of course I do. I wanted to get out at Gould stret."

"Ah," said the conductor blandly. "If you had only said so I'd stopped the car."

"Well, stupid, why don't you stop it now?"

"Now? Why, certainly," and he slowly raised his hand and pulled the bell strap. The old lady muttered and spluttered and stepped to the edge of the platform, but the driver had decided not to stop until he reached the down town side of Adelaide street. The conductor took hold of the woman's arm to restrain her from jumping off while the car was moving.

"Take your hand off me, sir," she cried hotly. "Its bad enough to be insulted without being handled."

She jumped off nervously and turned an indignant glance at the conductor as she dodged a grocery waggon and struggled toward the sidewalk. The conductor gazed after her with some interest, and then said:

"It's amazin' what ugly an' tantilizin' people a conductor has to deal with. It's enough to break a man's heart."

A Curious Rat Story.

The Hon. Neal Dow contributes the following, which he calls a perfectly true story:

One evening a young lady from a friend's family, living in a large, fine house, nearly a mile away, was with us, and the talk turned on rats, as we heard ours galloping in the ceiling and scampering up and down the wall.

The young lady said that none had ever been in their house, and she did not think there was any point at which they could enter. My eldest daughter, a great wit, said: "I've heard that, if politely invited to do so in writing, rats will leave any house, and go to any other to which they may be directed, and I will tell ours that at your house they will find spacious quarters and an excellent commissariat."

At that moment, before us all, she wrote a most grandiloquent letter to the large family of rats that had so long favored us with their presence, pointing out to them that at No. 65 Pearl street was a large, fine house which had never been favored with the residence of any of their family, where they would find ample quarters and a fat larder. When finished, she read the missive to the company, and we had a great laugh over it. As an old superstition, she then put lard upon it and carried it into the attic, where it would probably be found by those to whom it was directed. A few days after the young lady was at our house again, and burst into a laugh, exclaiming: "Our house is overrun with rats!" That recalled to me the fact that we had heard none in our walls. My daughter went to the attic and the letter was gone. While they were talking and laughing over the curious affair a friend came in, and hearing the talk said that two evenings before, in the bright moonlight, he saw several rats running down Congress street. We have never been troubled with them since, but I have not heard how it has been with the house to which our beneficiaries were directed.

A Wildcat Boards a Steamer.

While the Steamship I. C. Harris was anchored in the bay at Brazos Santiago during a dense fog, a full-grown wildcat, which it is supposed had floated down the river on a log, presumably, concluded to take a free passage to Galveston on the wheel-house, on which he climbed, creating something of a sensation on board the vessel. The boys on the ship got ropes and lassoed the animal, catching him around the head and hind legs with the ropes, and succeeded in caging him. On the arrival of the Harris at the Galveston wharf he was taken off and deposited in one of the sheds. He is a large, sleek and rather good-natured looking fellow, and lacks the gaunt and hungry look of the animals generally on exhibition in shows. —Galveston News.

A CONVICTS' MU

They try to Escape by Setting [illegible] Jail.

A Plucky Guard Frightens the leader and Marches Them [illegible] Cells like Sheep.

A special despatch to the St. [illegible] Despatch gives the following de[illegible] cent mutiny at the Missouri P[illegible] Jefferson City. The convicts had turned to their shops [illegible] when a preconcerted mutiny [illegible] the harness shop of Jacob Sch[illegible] Four convicts seized Van Horn, [illegible] man of the collar shop, and told [illegible] main quiet. Four others seized [illegible] foreman of the harness-shop, and [illegible] him of his clothes. John B. Jo[illegible] ringleader, a highway robber, [illegible] sentence of twelve years, ran [illegible] partment where the horse collars [illegible] and set fire to a quantity of [illegible] In a moment the building was [illegible] shops were on fire. A panic [illegible] sued, the guards ran in with [illegible] which the convicts out. Thering[illegible] son, then made an effort to escape [illegible] walls, but though armed with a [illegible] club he was met at the main entr[illegible] Krumpt, one of the guards, [illegible] him to desist from exciting his [illegible] further acts of mutiny. Krumpt [illegible] armed, but as Johnson advanced [illegible] mob of armed convicts behind h[illegible] ringleader: "One step more, J[illegible] you are a dead man!" Johnson [illegible] awed by this exhibition of plain[illegible] hesitated and was lost. On the [illegible] abandoned all thought of leadership [illegible] at that moment was a success[illegible] which in ten minutes would have [illegible] convict of the State of Missouri [illegible] upon his heels he ran towards the [illegible] corner of the grounds with the [illegible] scaling the walls: but he was [illegible] Tolin, the "dresser in" of the [illegible] had run to the court-yard at the [illegible] Johnson paused and stood [illegible] knife and bludgeon, threatening [illegible] Tolin. Tolin is a small man, w[illegible] vict is a giant in build and [illegible] the plucky guard, looking [illegible] eye, walked up to him and [illegible] muzzle of a revolver against his [illegible] him to walk to the blind cell. [illegible] obeyed and with his surrender [illegible] was at an end. His companions [illegible] under control.

The revolt was hardly suppressed [illegible] great volumes of smoke and [illegible] heavenward and the citizens rushed [illegible] the penitentiary. The militia [illegible] and organized and citizens [illegible] shouldered muskets ready to [illegible] suppress the mutiny. The fire [illegible] without any further demonstration [illegible] convicts, some of whom, frenzied [illegible] pointment at their failure to [illegible] to rush into the flames of [illegible] buildings and were with difficulty [illegible] ed from seeking this horrible [illegible] As soon as it became apparent [illegible] mutiny was unsuccessful the [illegible] formed into line and at the [illegible] maud 1,150 of the 1,400 [illegible] marched to their cells and locked [illegible] remainder were trusted to assist [illegible] of controlling the fire. So much [illegible] building burn that a few of [illegible] were seriously, perhaps fatally [illegible] Over fifty escaped from the upper [illegible] of the factories. The flames spread [illegible] to the State machine shop and [illegible] where the cloth worn by the convicts [illegible] Then the broom factory was [illegible] also the building occupied by [illegible] Geisecke Shoe Manufacturing Co. [illegible] the Meysenburg Shoe Company, [illegible] one of the main cell-houses, and [illegible] ened for an hour. A single wall [illegible] the burning building and [illegible] The guard-house overlooking the [illegible] court was burned; but the arrival [illegible] of volunteers and convict [illegible] hospital. The Jefferson City [illegible] ment were on the ground and [illegible] work, but the following shops [illegible] pletely destroyed: Strauss's [illegible] shop, collar-shop and whip [illegible] $100,000; Giesick's boot [illegible] $30.000; the State weaving [illegible] machine-shop, $40,000; and [illegible] Broom Factory, $20,000. The [illegible] the State will fully amount [illegible] which there is no insurance, [illegible] to private persons are almost [illegible]

The desperate and thorough [illegible] the mutinous organization [illegible] the fact that after the ring[illegible] was lodged in the blind cell [illegible] the convicts managed to use [illegible] they possessed and released [illegible] themselves in readiness to [illegible] The desperate band made a [illegible] guards, but were at once cow[illegible] ing rifles and revolvers and [illegible] surrender. At present the [illegible] under the guard of its regular [illegible] ed by the militia and a [illegible] citizens armed with regular [illegible] Governor Crittenden, who was [illegible] of starting for St. Louis when [illegible] broke out, postponed his trip [illegible] mand.

A Chinese Dinner in S[illegible]

I found on Mulberry street [illegible] cheap Chinese restaurant kept [illegible] jovial Oriental whose name [illegible] "Chinese dinner, seven [illegible] sign outside. "I'll eat it," [illegible] thought I, and I went in. [illegible] I said. "Yip—alle light." [illegible] I surreptitiously smelt of [illegible] seemed good I tasted it. It [illegible] brought, a generous plate of [illegible] reeking. "Good enough," [illegible] tackled it. He brought on a [illegible] good beans. He brought [illegible] He brought boiled potatoes. [illegible] I thought. I slyly whistled [illegible] I despatched them. He brought [illegible] piece of pie and cheese; I [illegible] that, really. I immediately [illegible] them. "S-e-v-e-n cents." I [illegible] myself. "Why need people [illegible] "How muchee?" I asked, [illegible] ing into the Chinese language. [illegible] "Forty-eight cents." Good [illegible] "Forty-eight cents"; [illegible] said seven cents."

"That'le for Chinaman. [illegible] Melican hungly. No [illegible] cents."

VICTS' MUTIN

Escape by Setting Fire Jail.

Guard Frightens the nd Marches Them to Cells like Sheep.

espatch to the St. Louis s the following details of t the Missouri Peniten-y. The convicts had their shops from oncerted mutiny broke shop of Jacob Strauss s seized Van Horn, the llar shop, and told him
Four others seized Smith
he harness-shop, and lothes. John B. Johnson highway robber, serv welve years, ran into the ere the horse collars are to a quantity of loose t the building with n fire. A pandemonium uards ran in with the victs out. Thering-leader de an effort to escape o ugh armed with a knife
net at the main entrance e of the guards, who from exciting his fellow of mutiny. Krumpt s Johnson advanced l convicts behind he said
'One step more, Johnson ead man!" Johnson exhibition of plain nerve d was lost. On the ll thought of leadership
ient was a successful minutes would have free
he State of Missouri.
ls he ran towards the e grounds with the in walls: but he was met 'dresser in" of the prison he court-yard at the fire ised and stood defiant sludgeon, threatening n is a small man, while nt in build and strength guard, looking his man d up to him and pa revolver against his ear, to the blind cell. The with his surrender
ld. His companions pi. t was hardly suppressed
. smoke and flame and the citizens rushed tiary. The militia zed and citizens fell muskets ready to pr e mutiny. The fire was y further demonstration he of whom, frenzied with t their failure to esc to the flames of the d were with difficulty xing this horrible form it became apparent unsuccessful the conv line and at the word of the 1,400 convi
their cells and locked were trusted to aid in ng t. fire. So rapidly urn that a few of the isly, perhaps fatally, scaped from the upper ries. The flames com machine shop and room factory was dest ilding occupied joint oe Manufacturing Co Lurg Shoe Company. T ain cell-houses, and it w hour. A single wall stee g building and the
-house overlooking th
arned; but the heroic rs and convict firemen
The Jefferson City Fi
on the ground and did the following shops
troyed: Strauss & Co.
e-shop and whip fact Giesick's boot and he State weaving and op, $40,000; and the tory, $20,000. The ill fully amount to e is no insurance; while persons are almost erate and thorough us organization is ev
t after the ringleaders in the blind cell some s managed to use a ssed and released him in readiness to follow rate band made a were at once covered nd revolvers and were
At present the peni uard of its regular militia and a po
med with regulation
Crittenden, who was for St. Louis when postponed his trip

nese Dinner in New n Mulberry street the ese restaurant kept by ital whose name is dinner, seven cents.

e. "I'll eat it if it and I went in. "
Yip—alle light," F.
iously smelt of the d I tasted it. It generous plate of ro
"Good enough," I
He brought on a dish
He brought coffee
t boiled potatoes.
I slyly whistled in ed them. He brought and cheese; I ha
y. I immediately
-e-v-e-n cents," I k
Why need people nuchee?" I asked,
e Chinese language.
eight cents. Great eight cents! Great cents."
e for Chinaman.
ungly. No mu

NORTH-WEST NOTES.

Paragraphs Carefully Collated From our Prairie Province Exchanges.

ion is to have a pump factory.

erson is to have a lodge of the G. T.

peg is happy—a circus will visit next summer.

e has been purchased in Brandon for college.

slightly damaged Armitage's bakery, recently.

Edmonton mills are using coal instead for steam purposes.

Englishman, travelling from Winnipeg Paul, was robbed of $500.

are getting scarce at Edmonton Indians have no more than they can

P. R. Co. offers to transport pure for seed, westward free of is being made to have the duty lumber imported into the quantity of lumber will be shipped ton to Prince Albert as soon as opens.

of Winnipeg have formed a Medico-Chirurgical So- with Dr. Lynch as president.

the lakes about Shoal Lake is feet and a half in thickness, and excellent quality.

has not yet received the pro- mail service, and is expressing tion in tones not loud, but on very good authority a Presbyterian and Methodist will be sent to Battleford in the has been making strong to facilitate traffic between the and Manitoba, and this proposed that the obnoxious will be removed alto-

Commercial gives Brandon being the most solid business province. Only one failure has and that for the trifling serious doubts as to whether promised to Battleford and will be put on until next summer, it may be conceded to Prince The promise was, like many others the Saskatchewan District, only broken.

and authorities of Minnedosa have to build a large brick school house $8,000, at some central point in The attendance at the school is the youthful teacher is to be con- on his success in teaching the how to shoot.

stood to be the intention of the to rearrange the sidings at Broad- to make them more convenient company's purposes, and also advan- to the town, when, no doubt, pro- sidings will be made, and access to the will be had with less trouble and risk present.

having commenced the repairs on the Louise railway and bridge, Winnipeg, orders have been to suspend all driving across it with and such times as the repairs re- are completed. Public travel has stopped. This order, however, does in any way interfere with railway traf-

Temperance Society has been formed at Minnedosa Temperance Literary Association, the doors of which are open to everyone to attend, but before taking a pledge for one year are required to take part in the proceedings. It is hoped some good may be done, as whisky is sold in a dozen places in the town, and nothing has been done to bring the guilty parties Saskatchewan Herald says that in advance of the certainty that now ex- that a grist mill will be in operation village or near Battleford, a very con- siderable area of wheat will be put down spring. There is an abundance of good seed wheat in the neighborhood, and it will be put in two days of eleven dollars a bushel, flour were soon to be counted luxuries of long ago.

Morris Herald gives currency to a rumor that Mr. Tennant will withdraw from the seat to which he was recently elected in the Local Legislature in Morris. It adds that a new election will be called for the same day, and also that Mr. Wilde is again likely to be in the field for political honors. This is said to have been brought about by the illegality of a certain voters' list at the late elections. However true the statement may be a few days will determine.

A company, on behalf the Battle River Valley Colonization Company, composed largely of Winnipeg capitalists, has obtained a concession of 122,880 acres of land, being composed of townships 43 and 40 in ranges 19, 20 and 21 west of the third principal meridian. This land lies south of the Battle River reserves. The company also claims to have sixty miles of a timber limit, and proposes to lay out a town and put up a grist and saw mill on its property. The prospectus does full justices to the advantages offered for this valley as a field for settlement.

The Winnipeg Free Press says: The Higgins street flume is undergoing repairs. Another sign of spring is the breaking up system of scooping out holes along the streets, several merchants, either from choice, or in obedience to police orders, or a deluded notion that they are doing public a service, are having the ice removed from the planks in front of their premises, while others do their share to- wards inconveniencing the public by doing nothing. Unless the whole of a sidewalk is to remain, it would be much better to let the ice remain, as there would then be at a level surface to walk upon. Still, it is doubtless necessary to have some com- bating evil, seeing that the weather is altogether unexceptionable and without doubt, the finest in the Domin-

A New Canadian Industry.

Among the native industries developed in Canada during the era of prosperity the Toronto Silver Plate Co.'s establishment is destined to take a prominent rank. It is important not merely from the fact of its being a large new industry located in the capital of Ontario, but from its being the first establishment which has undertaken to manufacture electro silver-plated ware in all its details on the spot. For some years there have been electro plating establishments in Canada, but as they were simply branches of American factories, their goods were simply plated from "blanks" (unplated metal) supplied from the head establishments on the other side. The Toronto Silver Plate Co. have confidently taken the great step of turning out their goods from the very beginning to the end within their own walls, and the impression they have already created among the Canadian trade has been most favorable—an impression due, primarily, to the style and quality of work which they have presented, but largely due also to the fact that the company were fortunate enough to secure for their superintendent the ablest and most experienced man in the Canadian trade—Mr. James A. Watts With an experience of over 20 years and a thorough knowledge of all the difficult details of the business, no man could have been found so well fitted to take charge of such an establishment.

Being anxious to see the place in working order the writer took a King street west car and, being set down at 420, found himself in front of a new three story brick building surmounted by a cupola and having more the bright and airy appearance of a college than the prison-like forbidding piles known to the past and present generations as factory buildings. The front windows were neatly curtained, the lower stories being fitted with plate glass and, inside, the brightness and elegance of the offices, showrooms and workrooms struck the visitor at once. As with the main building, so with the auxiliary portions of the factory and caretaker's premises; comfort, convenience and taste seemed better studied than any new factory the writer has visited for many a day. Although it is not the writer's intention to attempt any discription of the many processes employed in the work, the following notes given by the Trader of the factory will be interesting:

"From the mighty "Corliss" engine of fifty horse power, that silently and apparently without effort, drives the heavy and rapidly revolving machinery, to the powerful presses, some of which are very expensive, and steam rollers, everything was of the most perfect description and gave promise of fully carrying out the wishes of the makers

"In one department we found the moulders busy ladling the liquid metal from red hot cauldrons into moulds, and turning out with great rapidity, caster, pickle and tea pot handles, and many other articles of like kind, destined to form a prominent part of the elegantly finished goods with which the show room is fast being filled. In the spinning department might be seen the wood turners making chucks, on which to turn the metal, and the metal spinners, with the help of these wooden chucks, fashioning the metal into caster bands, cake baskets &c., on their rapidly revolving lathes. But time would fail us to tell of the plating department with its immense vats of silver solution and its rapidly revolving electric motor, from which is generated the electricity which modern science has so well utilized in this department of the fine arts; or, of the burnishing room with its long row of men with their steel burnishers, driven with their seemingly tireless arms to the cheery music of some Moody or Sandey melody or op ra song: or of the department where the designers and mould makers reign supreme, and everybody seems so quiet and studious that a novice might imagine that the workers were amusing themselves instead of working; or of the immense stock room, where shelves are loadod down with glass of every description, from the cheap, plain pickle jar to the richly decorated vase or berry dish of Bohemian manufacture.

All the glassware used here is imported direct from Bohemia, and it may be interesting to note in conclusion that every dollar devoted to the founding of this enterprise has been invested by Canadians.

The Latest Electrical Discovery.

The Rev. Mr. Gilbert, during an address at Christ Church the other night, remarks th Otago Times, while speaking of the telephone, asked the audience if they would be astonished if he were to tell them that it was now proven to be possible to convey by means of electricity vibrations of light—to not only speak with your distant friend, but actually to see him. The electroscope—the name of the instrument which enables us to do this—was the very latest scientific discovery, and to Dr. Gnidrab, of Victoria, belonged the proud distinction. The trial of this wonderful instrument took place at Melbourne on the 31st October last in the presence of some forty scientific and public men, and was a great success. Sitting in a dark room they saw projected on a large disk of white burnished metal the race course at Flemington with its myriad hosts of active beings. Each minute detail stood out with perfect fidelity to the original, and as they looked at the wonderful picture through binocular glasses, it was difficult to imagine that they were not actually on the course itself and moving among those whose actions they could so completely scan.

Why He Married.

In the forthcoming fascinating biography of the heroic Lord Lawrence there is among many anecdotes one eminently characteristic of the man, who was as strong in his affection as in his will. He was one evening sitting in his drawing-room at Southgate with his sister and other members of the family; all were engaged in reading. Looking up from his book in which he had been engrossed, he discovered that his wife had left the room. "Where's mother?" said he to one of his daughters. "She's up-stairs," replied the girl. He returned to his book, and looking up again a few minutes later, put the same question to his daughter and received the same answer. Once more he returned to his reading, and once more he looked up with the same question on his lips. His sister broke in: "Why, really, John, it would seem as if you could not get on five minutes without your wife." "That's why I married her," he replied.

AN OLD MAN'S GRIEF.

An Incident of a Late New York Fire.

He stopped before Louisa Bradenburgh, a little girl, with light golden hair, and recognized her as his granddaughter; he wept bitterly, and bending down kissed her forehead. "She was all I had in the world," he said, with tears streaming down his face. "Poor Lou, poor, poor little girl." Then unmindful of the presence of everybody, he knelt down by the child's side, and pressing one hand to his forehead, with the other he smoothed back the golden hair of the little girl, which the wind had tossed in masses across her face. When the policeman approached to raise the body to carry it to the waggon which was to carry it to his home, he turned towards them with an appealing look in his face and besought them not to touch his child. "You would not carry her from me, would you?" he asked. "Don't take her away; you don't know how she loved me and how I loved her." "Go away," said Commissioner Brennan to the officers, "and get a private coach." Then turning to the old man he asked him if he would help him to carry out the child. "Carry her," he said; "why, kind man, I have carried her in my arms a hundred times while she was alive, and why should I not do it now when she is dead? Come, come, Lou," he continued, "let us go home." And he lifted the child in his arms. A little ribbon fell from her dress as he was lifting her and a policeman placed it on her breast. "Oh, don't let me leave anything: give me all she has. They will be all I will have to love," he exclaimed, looking down at the floor where the child had been. He then started towards the door still crying, and, with his long white beard pressed down on the child's face kissed her lips.

Twice Married In One Night.

A social party at Freeport L. I., had a singular and romantic ending. After the usual games and dances incident to such gatherings had been indulged in, the many couples present were discussed and the probability of their making a match canvassed. Among those present were Frank E. Rhodes and Josephine Remmet, who had been keeping company for a long time, and were supposed to be engaged to be married, and they agreed to act as principals in the wedding ceremony which the guests proposed to inaugrate.

"And I will act as Dominie," spoke up Ben Rhodes, a brother of the proposed bridegroom.

The company were arranged in a circle, and the willing couple repeated the orthodox wedding service after Ben Rhodes, who acted as celebrant, and who, with unusual solemnity, pronounced Frank E. Rhodes and Josephine Remmett man and wife. When their associates sought to turn the ceremony into a joke, the couple declined to so regard it, insisting that according to the laws of this State they were legally and regularly married. Returning to their homes with their belief unshaken, the vexed question was finally settled by calling in Rev. Dr. Peck, who repeated the service, and Frank E. Rhodes and Josephine Remmett were made man and wife by being wedded twice in the same night.

Drunkenness has been investigated by Prof. Verga, of Milan. Men or women given to intoxication are, strange to say, given to kleptomania or suicide. A woman is less apt to take to liquor than a man, but when she does she can hardly be reclaimed. She becomes shameless and abominable, but seldom dangerous. Cold weather seems to cause men to take to strong drink, and mild weather has the same influence upon women.

A big handed sawyer named Shaw,
Put his finger too near the buzz-saw,
He saw his mistake,
But each pain and ache,
St Jacobs Oil cured in his paw.

A rheumatic old man named Meeker,
Was sick a whole year in Topeeker,
He there would have died,
But St Jacobs Oil tried,
It sent him back cured to Osweeger.

How many people live on the reputation of the reputation they might have made.—Holmes.

ELECTRIC OIL NOT ECLECTRIC OIL.

The two words have very different significations, as will be seen by reference to Webster. The Eclectric Oil has no claim to Electric properties only by the picture on the wrapper, which looks like begging the question. The popularity of Briggs' Electric Oil is such as to induce unprincipled persons to appropriate all the law will allow them to do. The proprietors of the Electric Oil have no claim to the words Eclectric or Thomas; but to the words Briggs' Electric they do lay claim by right, as they have made them of value to themselves.

Opportunity is rare, and a wise man will never let it go by him.—Bayard Taylor.

What a Bowmanville Editor has to say Regarding Dixon's Catarrh Remedy.

Bowmanville, Canada, Jan. 2, 1883.

To the Editor of the Statesman.

Dear Sir.—Perhaps some of your readers are afflicted with that dreadful disease—Catarrh. If so, I ask permission to say through the Statesman that I have been a subject of Catarrh for the last twenty years, and for the last eight years no one can tell the pains I have endured. At times I had a dull, heavy headache, discharges falling into the throat of a thick tenacious mucus. My eyes were weak and watery, ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking and coughing to clear the throat, and at times I was almost suffocated. I consulted some of the best physicians of the day, but to no effect. I have tried every kind of patent medicines, washes and snuffs, that I could hear of, but did not receive the least benefit until I tried Dixon's Catarrh Remedy. On the 5th August last I procured the remedy and started its use immediately, and by the use of only three treatments I consider myself permanently cured. Its beneficial action was immediate and the cure speedy. Judging from the effects of this treatment on myself, I am satisfied that Dixon's is the only known treatment for Catarrh which will effect a permanent cure. To all who are suffering from Catarrh I must conscientiously say: Give Dixon & Son's Catarrh Remedy a fair trial; it is "worth its weight in Gold."

Sincerely yours,

RICHARD OKE.

NOTE BY THE PUBLISHER.—The Publisher of the STATESMAN has had an intimate acquaintance with Mr. Oke for about thirty years, and can, with scores of others, vouch for correctness of the above statements. We had never known so bad a case of Catarrh as Mr. Oke's was, and the use of Dixon's Catarrh Remedy has effected a perfect cure, so that no symptoms whatever of the disease remain. We gladly give space to Mr. Oke's letter in the hope that it may be of benefit to some victim of Catarrh. Messrs. A. H. Dixon & Son will send a treatise on Catarrh free on receipt of stamp. The address is 305 King Street West, Toronto, Ont., Canada.

Young, middle aged, or old men, suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses, should send two stamps for large treatise, giving successful treatment. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you can manage to keep silent while you are young you may possibly have something worth saying in old age.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have advised many ladies to try your "Favorite Prescription" and never see it fail to do more than you advertise.

Yours truly, MRS. A. M. RANKIN, 141 Bates Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Italy is keeping steadily active in preparing for the future. Last year the public works sanctioned by the Government amounted to $50,400,000.

If you are bilious, take Dr Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the original "Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

Enough malt liquors were consumed in the States last year to give each adult a gallon per week.

THOUSANDS SPEAK.—VEGETINE is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

The governments wants to sell 40,000 condemned cannon balls. The moths have probably been working at them,

There was a young man so well-bred,
That the hair would not stay on his head,
But the Carboline Oil
Put new hair on the soil,
And now with an heiress he's wed.

Puck says: "Aged fishermen are nearly the most successful. Long years of practice makes prevarication perfect."

A Wise Measure.

"A stitch in time saves nine," not only in making garments, but also in mending health. If Hagyard's Pectorial Balsam were used in the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs, many a "stitch in the side" and many a case of torn lungs might be avoided, that neglected, rapidly develope into irreparable Consumption. 21.

The King of the Sandwich Islands locks himself in when he gets drunk. This is why you never hear of his being sent up.

Keep it in your family. The best remedy for accidents and emergencies, for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Soreness, Sore Throat, Croup, Rheumatism, Chilblains, and Pain or Soreness of all kinds, is that marvellous healing remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 19

Gen Joe Johnston has been poisoned by the dye in his stockings. It is better than "dying in his boots."

NOTICE.

Each bottle of BRIGGS' ELECTRIC OIL will hereafter be accompanied by a corkscrew, as it is important that the cork should be preserved and the bottle well corked when not in use to retain the strength of the medicine. It cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney Complaints or of the Urinary Organs; cures complaints arising from Colds, such as Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Diptheria, Cough, Asthma and Difficult Breathing.

Railroad men know nothing of the "bumper at parting." It is the bumper at sudden meetings that stirs them up.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing regulator and purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your druggist for proof. 20.

It was an enterprising sight to see a newsboy down in the bottoms wading around up to his knees in the water shouting: "Here's your paper, all about the flood!"

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Susan B. Anthony is going across the sea to talk woman's rights to kings, queens and despots. If she should happen to fall in love over there, eh?

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil taken internally and applied according to the special directions, this is the great household panacea for Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Pain Inflammation &c. 23.

A Mississippi dog bit off a boy's nose and swallowed it.

A Sure Thing

In the treatment of Chronic disease with that great system renovator and restorative, Burdock Blood Bitters, there is no uncertainty as to its action, its curative powers are speedily manifest by its marked effect upon the Liver, the Bowels and the Kidneys. Every dose performing its work in a perceptible manner. 24.

An Atlanta, Ga., sight the other day was a car drawn by two tame alligators.

W. T. Bray, Pharmacist, Wingham, Ont., writes that the sale of Burdock Blood Bitters has very largely increased in that locality, and adds that he hears very favorable opinions expressed regarding it, and, if time permited, could send many names of benefited parties, 22.

A.P. 115

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.

Relieves and cures
RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumbago,
BACHACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE,
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELLINGS,
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Bruises,
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCALDS,
And all other bodily aches and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.
The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.)
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

St. Catharines, May 4th, 1882.

J. N. Sutherland, Esq.:

Dear Sir,—I have been for the past year suffering from "Sciatica." I was recommended by a neighbor to try your cure "Rheumatine," I did so, and am glad to say it completely cured me, and I can now thoroughly recommend it to any one suffering from the same complaint. Giving you the liberty to use this as you may think fit. I remain, yours truly,

N. B. CLENDENING.

Mr. Clendening is a farmer living in Louth, about nine miles from St. Catharines.

"If the Legislature abolishes the office of Chaplain," says the Tombstone (Arizona) Epitaph, "some of the members will lose an opportunity of hearing a minister of the gospel for the first time."

TO THE READER.—This request has been made for your benefit. Humanity is one conglomeration of pain and suffering, and with a view of relieving one of the most common ailments flesh is heir to we make request as above. Are you suffering from corns? Nearly every person can say yes. The thing for you to do is to buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, "the great corn cure." Safe, sure, painless. This great remedy never fails. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, prop's.

The senate has reduced the tariff on barbed wire fencing, but that won't help the farmer's hired man any. He wants the barbs filed down and a cushion arranged every twenty rods along the top wire.

Vegetine

RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY COMPLAINT

ENTIRELY CURED BY THE USE OF VEGETINE.

HAMILTON, O., March 11, 1881.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: Although an entire stranger to you, I wish to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me. After suffering for several years with the RHEUMATISM, I can truly say the Vegetine has entirely cured me. I have not had the slightest touch of it for several months.

Have also been badly afflicted with KIDNEY COMPLAINT, suffering great pain in my back, hips and sides, with great difficulty in passing urine. By the use of VEGETINE I find myself entirely cured of this complaint. I take great pleasure in recommending your remedy to my acquaintances and friends, and all speak favorably of its good effects.

Respectfully yours.

P. H. GILBERT, Undertaker.

I am personally acquainted with Mr. Gilbert, and believe him perfectly reliable in his statement.

B. S. JAMES,
Druggist, Hamilton, O.

READ THE FACTS.

TORONTO, April 3, 1880.
5 Bear Street.

MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Sir—I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the efficacy of your invaluable family medicine, VEGETINE. For three years I was a great sufferer from Chronic Rheumatism and Derangement of the Kidneys, and after testing innumerable so-called remedies, in the spring of last year I was recommended to give the Vegetine a trial and to persevere in using it for some time. I did so, and in the course of three months found that a perfect cure had been effected, and I am now, thank God, in the full enjoyment of the best of health. I consider it the most effective remedy for the distressing complaints just mentioned and for Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Disease. It is very pleasant to take, vitalizing and invigorating. I can most confidently recommend it, knowing the great benefits I have derived from its use, and consider I cannot overstate its great and important value to those similarly afflicted as I have been. Yours faithfully,

R. L. COLE, Accountant.

Vegetine is sold by all Druggists.

SETTLERS

Going to Manitoba, the Great North-West Territories, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska,

Can get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets FREE by enclosing 10 cent stamps stating of what part of the country they wish Particulars. Address,

Department of Emigration,
81 York Street, Toronto,
W. R. CALLAWAY, Manager.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East, Toronto. Portraits in oil life size.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WATCHES repaired. Trade work a specialty. A. BALLABEY, 8 King St. E., Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX, 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufr of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 154 King E., Toronto.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50. INCLUDING FOUR tunes. T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical Instruments, Piano Music, Band Music, &c. Catalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE CLOTH and Wire Goods at the Toronto Wire Works, 116 King St. West, T. G. RICE.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete, C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 113 Yonge Street, Toronto.

100 Choice selections for the Autograph Album and 6 Handsome Cards for one 3 cent stamp, The CALL, Mattapan, Mass.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2 $4, $5, or $10 lots. By post pre-paid H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED—$10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. H. P. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland, U. S

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of outside and inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices. Oakville, Ont.

MANITOBA FARM—TO AN ACTUAL Settler the north ½ of sec 1. Tp. 12 R. 29 W. is offered for $3.00 per acre, 6 years time. Soil the very best, only 2 miles Elkho Station, main line C. P. R. Apply to A. BOWERMAN Box 49, Winnipeg, or J. H. MACMULLEN 1 Yonge Stree, Toronto.

FOR SALE—WATER POWER SAW MILL Shingle, Lath, and Cider Mills; also grain crusher, in good order; business well built up large stock of logs: dwelling house (new), and ten acres of land just south of the pine ridges; to enable us to accept an offer in the West, we offer the above for a short time for less than value; $2,500 down; balance on easy payments. Apply on the premises, or by letter to Gormley P O. W. & I. LEARY, Proprietors.

YORK FARMERS' COLONIZATION CO Limited. The first party of settlers under the leadership of Mr. Boake, will leave for the Colony about 20th March inst. For Tickets and full information apply to JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director, 1 Victoria-St., Toronto,

ANSWER THIS QUESTION

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food. Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

Nothing has so many ties binding it to earth as a railway.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Coughs, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10cts, 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest, or Back, Lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale

When a man gives you his hand he does it out of friendship. When he gives you his foot it is quite another matter.

SHILOH'S CATARRHREMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

A Ladies' College is to be established in Brandon shortly.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truely a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Billiousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach Liver and Kidney Complaints even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Ezch.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by A. Turner & Co.

The average passenger rate on United States railroads is 2½ cts per mile.

FREE OF COST.

All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-size bottle will do.

The new station of the Canada Southern at Windsor is nearly completed.

GIVEN AWAY.

We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. You are requsted to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free of cost, if you are suffering with Consumption, Severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Loss of Voice, Hoarseness, or any affection of the Throat or Lungs. It will positively cure you.

"Why are you always looking into the glass, madam?" "Sir, the glass I look into help to improve my appearance; Those you look into degrade yours!"

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Liberalism is creeping into the churches; but the poor preachers notice that it has not struck the contribution box.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE.

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40.

Necessity is the mother of Invention: Laziness is the father of necessity; so Laziness is the grandparent of invention.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale, have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

Whenever the dentist takes the stump he draws well.

Stayner people turn out well to socials. The Methodists of that town recently held a social at Mrs. Hannah's, and $80 were netted as the result.

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF FISH JUST TO HAND IN Barrels CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

GROCERIES.

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork.

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES.

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th. 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.

My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

SUGAR KETTLE

TO THE FARMERS!

SUGAR KETTLES OF THE BEST QUALITY AT

MARKDALE FOUNDR

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.

WOOD & OLD IRON TAKEN IN EXCHA

MOFFAT BROS.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photograph

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good

FRAMES and FRAME FIXIN

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULME

R. J. Sproule's

ANNUAL

Clearing Sale

Is now going on and

WILL CONTINUE

UNTIL THE

20th of March.

Call early and secure bargains.

Heavy importations of Spring goods are now on the way, and our present large stock must be cleared out and will be sold out at and under cost.

Markdale PUMP Facto

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PU

FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is found fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in Mar the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge's

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 45 Chatham St., N. Y.

Get your Job Work done at this office.

FARM FOR SALE

100 ACRES—being Lot 90, Glenelg. This farm is from Markdale, with about 40 acres balance, hardwood bush with for fencing the place. It is with never failing stream of Young orchard, log house, and deed can be given. For price and ply to MRS. MIGHT, on the dale P. O.—Also a farm waggon mill for sale

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 27. MARKDALE, ONT., MAR. 15, 1883. No. 131.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISEED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

$1 Per Anumn

IN ADVANCE.

$1.25 in three months, $2 if not paid till end of the year. No paper discontinued till all arears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing papers without paying up will be held responsible for the years subscriptions until they comply with the rules.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

One column one year		$50 00
Half do.	do.	27 50
Quarter do.	do.	15 00
Eighth do.	do.	8 00
Card	do.	4 00
Per ten lines, first insertion per line		8
Each subsequent insertion		3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid nonpareil. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of bublication by 11o'clock on the wednesday proceeding their publication.

JOB PRINTING

of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

A. Ghent, M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University. Vict. College. " " New York, and Gen. Graduate, of the same, " " Ayleth Medical Institute. " " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND. Every attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celuloid and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

A. Cameron, M.D., & L.F.P. & S. Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 122-74.

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Flesherton, Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

EDMUND FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.

Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-1y

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

OFFICES in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

☞ Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C., DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate. Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILDREN will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. EGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

BYRENS & McCASKILL

PROPRIETORS.

THIS popular Hotel has changed hands and the above men cater to the wants of the public. Good stabling and attentive hostlers. The best brands of liquor and cigars, good meals and comfortable rooms, large ommercial room. Barber shop in connection. 130-ly.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate. Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AN DSTONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, March 26th, at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT.

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS, SHROUDS,

and all

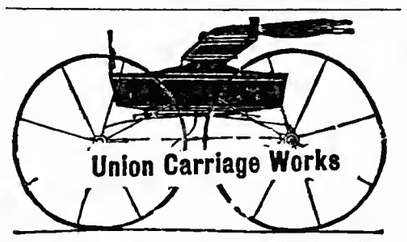
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE,

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.

I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.

I have been greatly benefited.

My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

☞ To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK 93-145.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

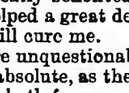
Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!



—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED. from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

NOTICE TO FARMERS.

BUSINESS STILL INCREASING WITH

W. J. ROWE

—AT THE—

Barrhead Mill

UNDER THE OLD PROCESS.

Gristing and Chopping done every working day, Farmers from a distance can have their stuff home with them the same day.

All orders for Flour and Feed promptly filled.

W. J. ROWE, "Barrhead Mills."

Feb. 22nd, 1883. 128-31

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

69ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Advertise in the STANDARD.

Chatsworth.

On Thursday night last a thief entered the house of James Graham, Con. 10, Sullivan, and stole $17. He had been on the lookout for Mr. Graham's money for some time, as he had called several times previously to enquire if Mr. Graham had disposed of some cattle he had to sell. Fortunately Mr. G. had paid out nearly $200 the day previous. The thief was up to his business, as he is said to have applied a handkerchief saturated with chloroform to Mrs. Graham's face, and while she was insensible searched out the money. Mr. G. was in another room and knew nothing of the robbery till it was over.—O. S. Advertiser.

ART OF LEAVE-TAKING.

Not all have learned the fine art of leave-taking in an appropriate manner. When you are about to depart, do so at once, gracefully and politely, with no dallying. Don't say, "It is about time I was going," then settle back and talk on aimlessly for another ten minutes. Some people have just such a tiresome habit. They will even rise, and stand about the room in various attitudes, keeping their hosts also standing, and then by an effort succeeded in getting as far as the hall, when a new thought strikes them. They brighten up visibly and stand for a few minutes longer, saying nothing of importance, but keeping every one in a restless, nervous state. After the door is opened the prolonged leave-taking begins, and everybody in general and particular is invited to call. What a relief when the door is finally closed! There is no need of being offensively abrupt, but when you are ready to go—go.

RENEWED FLOODS.

THE ARKANSAS RIVER AGAIN RISING—PEOPLE MOVING OUT AT KANSAS CITY—SOME LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED.

HELENA, Ark., March 3.—Crowds of overflowed people are coming in from all points, giving heartrending accounts of their experience and sufferings.

KANSAS CITY, March 3.—The Arkansas river is rising steadily, and a great flood is inevitable. People are taking their property to places of safety, and families by every train.

HELENA, Ark., March 4.—Eleven persons are supposed to have been drowned during the past few days along the St. Francis river.

ARTEMESIA COUNCIL,

This Council met in the Town Hall, Flesherton, on Monday, March 5th, 1883.

Present, Messrs. Christoe, Elliott, McArthur, Wright and McKee.

Minutes of Feb. session read and confirmed.

The Auditors Report was presented. Account of Peter Munshaw for repairing road, not entertained, also that of W. P. Crossley, for boarding an indigent, not entertained; J. W. Large was paid $1.50, for repairing Town Hall chimney; A. Webster for repairing road, $3.75; Wm. Walker for stone hammer $1.00.

The following petitions were presented and read; R. Hawkins et al asking aid for M. Sherwood an indigent; J. Brodie et al asking for new road division on 10th concession.

Messrs. Hislop, Graham, and others waited upon council re opening a portion of valley road, which the council did not see fit to grant; By-law No. 352 to appoint municipal officers for 1883, was introduced and read a first and second time, to be read a third time at next meeting; R. Olliver, and A. Stewart were refunded $2.00 each for statute labor overcharged last year; John Irving was refunded $1.45, there being a mistake in the assessment of lots 117 and 118. 1st West; Mr. Elliott was appointed to make enquiries in the matter of arrears of taxes on Lot 4, Sydenham Street, Markdale.

A resolution was past requesting Euphrasia council to co-operate with this council in building a bridge over Saugeen river on town line.

W. J. BELLAMY, Tp. Clerk.

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

Romeo and Juliet in the East—Millionaire Widows of Philadelphia.

Small-Talk for the Ladies—Chit-Chat.

An Eastern Love Tale.

The story of Joseph and Zuleykha, says The Gentleman's Magazine, is the ideal love tale of the east. The loves of Khusru and Shirin, and of Leyla and Mejnun, are indeed famous in Persian romance, and the poets of the sweetest of eastern tongues never weary of recounting the sorrows and joys of these heoric lovers. But even their moving histories cannot compete with the love of Zuleykha in the affection of the multitude. She and Joseph are the ideals of woman's love and manly beauty to the Persian; they, are, with a difference, the Juliet and Romeo of the east. More than this, with the mystical poets of the Sufis, who were ever seeking for analogies between the passions of this life and the holier emotions of the soul, Zuleykha is the type of the yearning of the human heart for the ineffable beauty of the Creator; and the woes and vicissitudes of the Egyptian princess are emblematic of the weary struggles of the soul in its search for that union with the Universal Spirit which is the end and aim of the Persian mysticism. The ardor of supplicating Zuleykha and the cold purity of Joseph represent the eagerness of the soul and the inexorable demands of God, who will have naught but a perfect service. This double character has given the romance an unrivalled hold upon Persian poets. Whether as the history of human passion, or as the symbol of the yearning of the soul for the infinite beauty, the story of Joseph and Zuleykha was equally attractive to the half-sensual, half-mystical spirit of the Persian poet, and there is no theme that has received so many tributes from singers of the most diverse orders. To the present day a "second Joseph" is the highest title by which beautiful youth can be praised, and the love of Zuleykha is the eastern ideal of woman's passionate devotion. The romance has the additional merit of religious authority, for it is recounted at great length in the Koran, and Mohammed does not fear to call it a "most excellent story." As told in the Koran, however, Zuleykha is merely what we know by the name of Potiphar's wife; in Persian poetry she is idealized into something very different. The character of this eastern heroine as drawn by Jami, in the beautiful poem which Mr. Griffith has recently translated into charming English verse, is purified from the coarser elements which the Biblical narrative contains. By subtle indications of motive and arrangements of the circumstances the purity of Zuleykha is upheld in the face of apparently conflicting facts, and the final impression of the whole character which is left upon the mind is entirely noble and womanly. It is strange that so beautiful a poem has never before been translated as a whole, into English.

Millionaire Widows.

Philadelphia, according to The Record of that city has a good list of lady millionaires. Mrs. Thomas A. Scott leads off with at least $10,000,000. Mrs. Bloomfield H. Moore is near the top of the ladder. Her husband's personal estate was valued at $5,500,000, and this, besides his other investments, leaves the lady in possession of an immense income. Mrs. Anna W. Baird and Mrs. Matthew Baldwin, both of whose husbands were in the celebrated Baldwin locomotive works, are worth $2,000,000 each. Mrs. Adolph E. Boire is a millionaire in her own right. When the late George Fales died his personal estate was worth over $2,000,000, and his wife and daughter divided this as well as his other possessions. Two daughters of Henry Rawle were left $1,000,000 each by their mother, which is a good start for young ladies and is likely to draw attention to them. One of the lady attendants at the Church of the Epiphany drives to the house of worship in a modest carriage. Her income is $260,000 a year. If men make the money and women do spend it, a list of the various charieties about the city shows that the ladies know where to put it so that it will do some good to others.

A Trick Played A Bridal Pair.

The Fond du Lac Journal tells the following story at the expense of some Milwaukee parties: About twenty years ago occurred a wedding in this city, upon a grand scale. In the course of the evening a guest suggested that one of the wedding-cakes be sealed in a tin box and be kept until the marriage of the bride and groom's first-born. One of the most delicious cakes was selected and sent to a tin-shop with the proper instructions. As may be supposed, the tinners yearned for that cake; and soon it was divided and found its way to their stomachs. The tin box which had been prepared for its reception, was then filled with water-soaked ashes, carefully sealed, and sent to the blushing young couple, who, remembering what was expected of them and their prospective offspring, took it tenderly in charge, and have since guarded it well. In course of time a son was born to them, who is now 19 years old, and, it is said, will ere long be married. It will be an amusing sight when that box is solemnly brought before the guests, its little romance related, and the seal of years broken in the presence of the company. The consternation may well be imagined when he of the can-opener suddenly drops his instrument and exclaims, with the disappointed lover in "Hazel Kirke," "Nothing but ashes!" The parties reside in Milwaukee, and are doubtless remembered by many citizens of Fond du Lac.

Acting Ladies.

"Chicken and Champagne," indeed! exclaims the London Truth. I have received a note from a dramatic critic, who discloses a truly miserable state of affairs. He says that scarcely a week passes but an attempt is made to "get at him" in favor of some irrepressible and incompetent amateur who considers himself a born genius, and who has not hesitated to engage a London theatre to show how utterly incompetent she is to understand Juliet, to read Ptuline, or even to look Lady Teazle. Society of a certain kind swarms just now with stage-struck girls and frisky matrons, determined to obtain fame with a rush, and obstinately inclined to believe that they can do in an hour what it costs others years of labor to accomplish. They are surrounded by swarms of injudicious friends, who take theatres for them, pack the house, and importune the critics as a favor to waste their mornings over the feeble maunderings of these flattered maidens or exciteable grass widows. But there is some conscience even in critics. Irritated by loss of time and bored to death with pretentious women, they occasionally tell the truth in the interest of their employers and the public, whereupon there is a dismal howl in fashionable drawing-rooms, and the wretched critic is immediately ostracized. Acting ladies, in my opinion, should be severely left alone. There is no pleasing them or their friends.

A Neat Rejoinder.

A Washington letter says that Miss Bayard is not only very pretty but exrtemely bright. She was the young lady who astonished Oscar Wilde by her own repartee to his patronizing remark: "Are you going to the German, Mr. Wilde?" she asked, the night of his lecture there. "Yes," drawled the æsthetic, "If my lecture doesn't fatigue me too much. Are you going, Miss Bayard?" "Yes, if your lecture doesn't fatigue me too much."

A Tell-Tale Mark.

A severe lesson was taught at a New York party to society men who carry the crush hat in round dances in place of gloves or a handkerchief. A young man who had his monogram embroidered in the lining of his hat in large blue letters danced with a young lady who wore a light-colored satin dress. After the dance astonishing results appeared. A circle of black had appeared on the creamy satin, surrounding a large monogram of the letters "A. P. C.," and the young lady was compelled to be thus branded the remainder of the evening.

CHIT-CHAT.

If congress adjourns without reducing the duty on false hair the women of this country will never forget it.

The goddess of liberty is about the only American woman who isn't looking forward to a new spring bonnet.

It is said that rats immediately disappear from the house as soon as a young lady begins taking lessons on the piano.

The question is asked us if there is anything that will bring youth to women? Yes there is. An income of say $2,000 will bring any number of them.

"No kiss," he said, pleadingly, "no kiss from my darling to-night?" "No!" she said emphatically; "no kiss—I hear there's mumps in your family."

A girl just returned to Hannibal, Mo., from a Boston high school, said upon seeing a fire engine at work: "Who would evah have dweamed such a vewy diminutive-looking apawatus would hold so much wattah?"

When a fellow gets a letter for his wife out of the postoffice and he forgets to give it to her for a week or so, the safest way of letting her have it is to tie it on the end of a long fishing-pole and poke it through a window to her.

Angela's father wrote to Adolphus that his presence at the house was not especially desired; but Adolphus would not take the hint, and was helped out by the paternal boot. Morsl—No letter is complete without a foot-note.

"No, sir," she said, with emphasis on the sir, "my husband won't be a candidate for the legislature next year. He has learned more deviltry during the few weeks he has been in Boston than ever before in all his born days."

A sober Philadelphia omnibus came near upsetting, and the possible victims, with one exception, threw up hands of protesting leverage. The exception sat motionless. "How could you be so calm?" "My dear, my gloves are a misfit."

"Why don't you eat like you do to home?" said the rural bridegroom to his bride at the table d'hote, as she nibbled this and tasted that in her embarrassment; "them folks over there don't pay no more'n we do, and you are a goose to be afraid."

A Cincinnati woman had her husband arrested for abusing her, but the man was discharged upon proving that she used to back him up in the corner several times a week and beat him with a broom-handle. When the broom-handle broke and hit her in the eye she considered herself frightfully abused.

The loving mother loves to see her little boy make great progress in writing, and is pleased to see him give her samples of his writing at home—except when he does so with his finger on a window pane. Then all that pride and love was turned into—Mr. Webster hasn't got any word in his dictionary that will fit here.

Miss Phœbe Cozzens is lecturing on "The Correction of Certain Mistaken Notions Regarding Eve." It appears that the story that Eve began to cry and threatened to go go home to her mother because Adam refused to buy her a $3,000 sealskin sacque in the early days of their honeymoon, is a weak invention of the enemy.

"I notice," said one Austin lady to another, "that at our social gatherings you are always the last one to leave." "I know it," was the reply, "but I have an object in view." "What is it?" "I want to prevent the rest of you from slandering me." "Oh, you mean thing! you never like to see your friends enjoy themselves."

A young physician informed a pretty lady patient, who was suffering from chronic sore throat, that the only sure cure for it was a beard. "That's of no interest to me," she replied. "I've got no beard." "True," he replied gallantly, "but you can use mine as often as you want to." They were married a few months later.

A bark that arrived in New York a few days ago reported that three of the sailors washed overboard one day by a heavy sea, and the return swell swept them back onto the vessel again. That might have easily occurred. It recalls the incident of a girl who fell out of a fourth-story window, and lighting on her patent india-rubber bustle, was bounced back into the window uninjured.

A St. Louis woman never sleeps, is awake twenty-two hours a day, and dozes a little for two hours. She is strong, healthy, and has a good appetite. A widower who belongs to a lodge wishes to marry her, as he thinks she wouldn't complain of being kept awake waiting for his coming home. A man who has been married once ought to know better than that.

Curiosities of the Railway Census.

According to the railway census return for 1880, there were 1,165 companies, having, in round numbers, 85,000 miles of railways in operation in thia country—an aggregate almost equal to a track extending four times round the world.

The cost of this gigantic system was nearly five thousand six hundred and sixty millions of dollars, of which about two-fifths has been paid for and the companies are in debt for the balance. In the good time coming, when the enormous debt of over three thousand millions of dollars is paid off, and the interest thereon ceases, it is probable that railway speeds will be improved, travelling rendered safer, and the charges for freight and passage reduced.

The mortality upon our railways is frightful to contemplate. According to the census returns, the killed and maimed for the single year of 1880 formed an aggregate of 8,215 persons. If the companies were compelled by law to pay an average of say five thousand dollars for every person killed or injured, only a short time would elapse, probably, before this dreadful account would be reduced almost to nothing. There are very few railway accidents that might not be prevented it real care were exercised and the best safe-guards adopted. The passage of a law subjecting every company to the payment of a substantial fine for every accident that takes place upon its property would doubtless stimulate the managers to give more attention to the safety of life and limb than they do at present.

The demand upon our inventors for the discovery of a new and better means of saving life and preventing accidents upon railways increases every year, in a ratio even greater than the augmentation of tracks, because the population is more rapidly increasing, and the present railways are not employed at anything like their full capacity.

The freight carried in 1880 was two hundred and ninety-one millions of tons, for which the railways charged $1.29 per ton per mile, and made a profit of 53 cents per ton per mile.

The number of passengers carried was two hundred and seventy millions, for which they each paid an average of 2.33 cents per mile, and the companies made a profit of 0·62 cents per mile. If the passengers are counted by weight, allowing 14 passengers to the ton, then the receipts of the companies for their two-legged freight was $32.62 per ton per mile and their profit was $8.68 per ton per mile. This large profit when set opposite to the small amount of 53 cents profit per ton realized from dead freight, seems to indicate that a great field is open to the genius of railway managers in devising ways and means to encourage the people to travel.

The haulage of our railways now employs over seventeen thousand locomotives, and the aggregate cost to run them, such as fuel, water, oil, repairs, and engineers, is about ninety millions of dollars, or not far from five thousand dollars a year for each machine. The item of fuel alone is thirty-three millions of dollars. The larger portion of the fuel is wasted; much of it is blown out of the smoke-stack unconsumed in the form of smoke and dust. There is a grand chance for inventors to improve the locomotive by discovering means to lessen its wastes and expenses. The same remarks apply to the other branches of the railway rolling stock, consisting of twelve thousand passenger cars and about four hundred thousand freight cars. In the year 1880 it cost the railway companies fifty-five millions of dollars for repairs for rolling stock. Is it not possible for inventive genius to study out some new mode of construction that shall reduce this enormous loss.—Scientific American.

Morsels for Sunday Contemplation.

Great men too often have greater faults than little men can find room for.

Everybody is willing to take religion when he has got out of the world all it can give him.

He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand, but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

Scandal is what one-half the world takes pleasure in inventing, and the other half equal pleasure in believing.

It is not enough to have reason; it is spoilt, it is dishonored, by sustaining a brusque and haughty manner.

The man who is in the wrong uses hard words and soft arguments, while the man who is in the right uses soft words and hard arguments.

He lives longest of all who looks back oftenest, whose life is most populous of thought or action, and on every retrospect makes the vastest picture.

We are natural believers. Truth or the connection between cause and effect, alone interests us. We are persuaded that a thread runs through all things; all worlds are strung on it, as beads; and men, and events, and life come to us, only because of that thread; they pass and repass, only that we may know the direction and continuity of that line.

Romance is none the less true because it is so common. We should not scorn romance because all people may have it, any more than we should scorn color because everybody else can see. If the dukes and princesses may have romance, and the kitchen maid and the garbage man have a flirtation at the back gate, it only shows that romance is as necessary a part of human life as food and sleep.

The president of Tufts College was recently made a happy father, and the following morning at prayer in the chapel he introdnced this rather ambiguous sentence: "And we thank Thee, O Lord, for the succor Thou hast given us," which caused a general smile to creep over the faces of the class.

FOR THE
KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS
THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—wherever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by placing them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles; for the distressing disorders of women; for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For Diabetes ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,
Toronto, Ont., Rochester, N.Y., London, Eng.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East Portraits in oil life size.

MISCELLANEOUS.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manuf'r of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface heavy and very tough. Send fo new price list. J. G. WOODLAND &CO., Printers, Toronto.

ROOFING MATERIALS, CARPET AND Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS, 4 Adelaide, St., East, Toronto.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50, INCLUDING FOUR tunes. T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical nstruments. Piano Music, Band Music, &c. atalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete. C. POTTER. 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

FARMS IN MARYLAND—IMPROVED—$10 to $25 per acre; catalogues free. H. P. CHAMBERS, Federalsburgh, Maryland, U. S.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT 106 Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Holland Landing 212 acres, Northern R. R. Station situated on corner of this Lot, the land is high rolling clay loam Brick house frame Bank Barn. J. W. G WHITNEY, Estate Agent 25 Toronto-st. Toronto.

AGENTS—IN EVERY COUNTY IN ONtario—to sell a necessary and profitable article—send three cent stamp for particulars. Address L. B. CLEMENS, Waterloo.

$5.000.000 WORTH OF FARMING and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 11 Adelaide-st East, Toronto. Send for list

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-street East, Toronto. Business Agent and Valuer.

YORK FARMERS' COLONIZATION CO., Limited, The first party of settlers under the leadership of Mr. Boake, will leave for the Colony about 20th March inst. For Tickets and full information apply to JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director, 1 Victoria-St., Toronto.

LADIES! BEWARE of fraudulent corsets. "Coraline" corsets will not break, or lose their shape. Wear corsets made by Crompton Corset Co. Toronto.

CANADA LUMBER | WANTED —BY— DODGE & CO., Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

AUTHORS & COX, 91 CHURCH STREET Toronto, Manufacturers of our celebrated Raw Hide, Willow and Leather Legs. The best and cheapest made in Canada. First prize 15 years in succession. Send for reduced price list.

THE KEEWATIN
GOLD MINES

Wonderful returns promised from the capital invested. A district abounding in mineral wealth. The place to make fortunes. Prof. Chapman (of the School of Science, Toronto) reports $110 pure gold to the ton. Mr. Walter Hamilton the well-known mining engineer of the Hamilton Reduction Co., New York, reports $193.41 gold and silver per ton of 2,000 lbs., as the results of their assays of the quartz found in the Manitoba mines. All information and full reports sent on application to

TORONTO MINING BOURSE,
64 King Street East, Toronto.

Standard Fire Insurance Co.

TORONTO, Feb. 1, 1882.

MESSRS. BOUSTEAD & GIBBS,
Agents Standard Fire Ins. Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS.—Will you kindly convey to the Directors of the Standard Fire Insurance Company, our hearty thanks for the

Prompt, Pleasant & Liberal Manner

In which they have paid in full our claim for $2,000, under policy 15646, upon our mill at Morriton. The policy was issued through your agency, and the mill destroyed by fire on the 3rd ult. The Standard has our best wishes for its continued success.

Yours truly,
BARBER & CO.

Use "TEABERRY" and you will
Your Teeth become as pearls;
'Twill fragrant make the breath
Boys, women, men and girls.

Near TILSONBURG, Ont.
Dec. 14,

I have been ailing for years with iousness and Dyspepsia, and was ed to a mere skeleton. Last weighed only eighty-six pounds, induced to try ZOPESA by Mr. T (of the firm of C. Thomson & Co. gists, of this place), and, many to him, I am now an entirely ne man and weigh 124 pounds, the use of this new compound.

MRS. CAROLINE FORB
Wife of Mr. R. G. F

BUSINESS CHANCE

BOOT AND SHOE BUSINESS FO —in live northern town of over 5 lation, doing good paying all cash tra in excellent shape; about $3,000, ca ed; favourable price and terms. TOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

GENERAL BUSINESS FOR S western village—700 population Railway; large grain market; stock 000, includes $1,000 new spring goo KINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

FARMERS AND LAND OWNERS ing to sell their properties can mediate sale by sending full part BUTLER & LAKE, 66 King Street, ronto.

FARM FOR SALE—2nd CON. PIC township, one mile north Pickering six miles west of Whitby; 67½ acres; 2 houses; good outbuildings; first-cl orchard. Further particulars apply HOAG, on premises, or JOS. J. MO wich, Ont.

CLERKS AND SCHOOLMASTER not add $5 to $15.00 per week to after business hours. Address with McALISTER, Drawer 2630, Toronto.

ORGANS NEW—10 O reeds, Octa ler, $85: 14 Octaves reeds, Sub-bass a ler, $100. Same in fancy pipe top superb, $125. Organs with Bell Chim Write for particulars, Box 500, Georg

NEWCOMBE PIANOFORTE endorsed by the most musicians for superiority of to ion. Illustrated catalogues mailed cation. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE corner of Church & Richmond Streets A variety of second hand Pianos by Stodart, and other makers at close Don't fail to send for circular of STUMP AP Believed not to be equalled in all by any other variety of its season. J. Charlotte, Monroe county, N. Y.

"RELIABLE"
SEED

It will pay purchasers of seeds to se descriptive and priced annual catalo "Cultivator's Guide" for 1883, sent fr plication. Address,

J. A. SIMME
RELIABLE SEED HOUSE.
147 King Street East, To

KENT BROTHE

INDIAN CLOC

With life size figures striking the and quarters, also indicating the three dials, is one of the great attra Toronto. Their Magnificent

Watch and Jewelry Estab

Is without a rival in the Dominion. to this Establishment will well repa intending purchaser who may favo with a call. Inspection is invited immense stock of Watches, Di Jewelry, Silverware, Clocks, Br Musical Boxes, Spectacles. Glasses, &c., &c. All goods plain figures, warranted as sold at the lowest possible prices

WHOLESALE AND KENT BROS.,
168 YONGE STREET, TORO
SIGN OF THE LARGE CLOCK
P.S.—Se

IS SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXXI.—(CONTINUED.)

"Breezes of the Night,'" murmured Roy
"it is my favorite valse, and I was so y when they played it before that I ld not dance it with you, Miss Anthon.
you too tired to try it now?"

"No," she answered, simply, as she put hand on his arm. And so they went k to the parlors.

Once, twice, down the long room, and then e had forgotten that it was only a waltz.
dreamy, delicious languor stole over her;
was no effort to dance as she was doing;
little feet seemed to move of them-ves; while the meltingly sweet music ed the room, now faint and low, now ar and ringing. And Roy, too, had yield-to the almost intoxicating pleasure of e moment—the mysterious charm of is last waltz. Unconsciously he clasped er the dainty, yielding figure in his s, bending his handsome head until his almost touched the soft, wavy hair, and heart was besting wildly, just as hers s beating too, for within them both was ing a strong passion deep and true.

The last sweet note died away; without e word Roy placed Louie's hand upon his m and led her back to the little room, ere a few moments before they had been anding. Only a waltz, and yet that waltz d shown Roy Glenmore his own heart; he ew that he loved this girl, whose face om the first had held a charm for him such no woman's face had ever held before.

Nature had made Roy Glenmore noble d true; the man who had been like a ther to him had brought out and cultivated l the noble qualities with which nature d endowed him. Until he met Louie Au-on love for any woman had never come inhis heart. It had always seemed to him at love, to be pure and lasting, must be the tgrowth of a long and intimate friendship, e result of a close companionship; he had ver believed in what was termed love at st sight; consequently he could scarcely derstand the love which, without any pre-de of friendship, had suddenly awakened his heart. Yet he knew it was pure and ue; knew that, although it might increase time went on, it could never grow any re.

Sinking down upon a divan covered with iolet velvet, Louie laid her head against e cushions which formed its back. The ush had all faded out of her face, leaving very pale; she clasped her small hands gether, wondering why they were tremb-ng so.

Oh, innocent, ignorant little Louie, she did t know that love is born out of a sea of motions!

The soft mellow light of an antique metal mp suspended by silver chains from the iling, fell over her; the dark rich velvet f the cushions brought out in strong relief e lovely face with its framework of burn-shed hair; the brown eyes were all the arker for the faint shade of physical eariness in them. With something very ke a sigh Roy seated himself beside her.
She had been his partner in a dance, had lked with him, had smiled up into his ce; her hand had rested upon his arm, her ead had almost touched his breast as they altzed together; for a few hours they had en like old friends, and yet it might be ong before they met again. It had been nly a German to her—ah! what had it been o him?

"Have you enjoyed the evening, Miss Anthon?" he asked, mechanically.

She raised he head, a sudden brightness coming into her eyes.

"Yes, so very much; it was the pleasantest German I ever attended—the brightest, happiest evening I ever spent."

It was not one of the brightest and happiest, it was the brightest, happiest evening she had ever spent, and a faint hope stirred in Roy's breast that he had helped to make it the bright, happy evening it had been to her.

"So it was to me," he said; "and but for you, Miss Anthon, it would not have been so."

A faint rose-flush swept her face.

"I, Mr. Glenmore?"

"You," he murmured, that tender smile of his curving his lips as he looked into the uplifted face. "With the exception of one or two, all those I met here to-night were strangers to me, consequently I did not expect to have a very enjoyable time; but you have been so kind to me, you have made it seem as though we were not mere acquaintances, but friends."

"And why should we not be friends, Mr.
Glenmore?" said Louie, impulsively. "I do not think it is necessary for two people to know each other for just so long a time before formal acquaintanceship can be dropped and friendship taken up. For my part,
I can always tell when I first met a person whether or not I could make that person my friend."

"And will you let me be your friend?"
said Roy, wistfully.

"Yes," she answered, folding her small hands in her lap, in a little childish way that was natural to her. "I shall be very glad to have you for my friend, Mr. Glen-more."

"Thank you," he said earnestly. "From this time forward I am your friend—as long as my life lasts."

She looked up at him, not understanding the grave earnestness in his voice. A sense of gladness was upon her that this man, who seemed so different from all the men
she had ever met—this man, with the deep, thoughtful eyes, and firm yet tender mouth —had promised to be her friend, not for season, nor for a few years, but as long as his life should last. And he would be such a true strong, firm friend—one to whom she could go for advice, if it need be—upon whose word she could depend. Friendship —her thoughts went no farther than that.
To have Roy Glenmore for her friend, that was happiness enough.

"Then it is a bond between us—we are to be friends always," she said, with a little quiver of gladness in her voice.

And yet though it was only friendship that had just been declared between them, her eyes dropped as they met his, and rather nervously she took up the pretty fan which lay upon her lap.

"Why, it is broken!" she murmured with some surprise.

Taking it from her, Roy examined it. One of the exquisitely carved ivory sticks had been snapped in two; probably some one of her partners, fanning her with it, had handled the delicate bijou carelessly.

"It is too bad," he said, "it is a beautiful fan."

"I think it is a pretty one," said Louie, frankly. "My friend, Miss Brentwood, and I both got one exactly alike when we were in Paris last summer, and we wondered which one would be the first broken; mine passed through two receptions unhurt; to-night's German was too much for it," laughing as she spoke.

"I will have it fixed for you," said Roy, quietly; then, after a slight pause, "may I bring it to you myself, Miss Anthon?"

"Certainly, Mr. Glenmore."

He took down her address; for a few moments they sat talking about nothing in particular, merely an interchange of thought and opinion upon different subjects; then Louie gathered up her favors which lay beside her on the divan.

"I must go," she said, regretfully, "it is too bad, is it not, Mr. Glenmore, that pleasant evenings seem so very much shorter than unpleasant ones! I hope I shall see you very soon."

It was only a dainty little fan, so frail that he could have crushed it in his hand: yet, Roy Glenmore, walking homeward long after midnight, felt all the happier for having that ivory and satin trifle in his pocket. The evening was gone, the German already belonged to the past, Louie's words and smiles had become only sweet memories; but the little fan with the faint perfume of violets clinging to it, was an actual reality, and a sort of mute assurance, too, that Louie Anthon was an actual reality as well.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Roy took the broken fan to Tiffany's and had it mended; then, a few evenings after the night of Mrs. Van Alstyne's German, he carried it back to its owner. It happened that Louie was alone that evening, Muriel having gone out with Arundel to attend a reception at the Union League, of which club Arundel was a member, and although Roy went with the intention of making a short call, it did not require much persuasion on Louie's part to induce him to linger over the half hour, which is about the time generally allotted to a first and formal call. Still, although the tall clock in the hall chimed out the hour twice while he was there, it seemed a very short call indeed to Roy Glenmore, and the two hours he spent that evening in the exquisite little reception-room seemed to him about twenty instead of sixty minutes long.

That was the beginning of it. For the benefit of the young lady who was visiting her, Mrs. Van Alstyne—never so much in her element as when she was entertaining young people—gave a series of entertainments. Sociables and Germans, some of them informal and impromptu little affairs, but none the less enjoyable because of that. She was indefatigable in getting up theatre parties and flower parties, musicales and private theatricals, the young people of her acquaintance were enthusiastic in her praise, and declared fervently, that there was never such a charming hostess. She was innocently responsible for a great many of the engagements which were announced the following spring, for many fair girls met their fates in the shape of their future lords, in her handsome parlors, and more than one young man came to the conclusion that the partner she had selected for him in a German would do admirably well for a partner in the longer and more varied dance of life. The choice collection of flowers and rare plants in her conservatory were the mute listeners of many declarations of love, and silver lamps in her olive and gold boudoir shed their soft light over many fair heads that drooped under the ardent eagerness that looked out of masculine eyes.

Under this hospitable roof Roy and Louie met each other again and again, and Mrs. Van Alstyne smiled to herself when she came upon them talking together in the music-room, or looking over her bric-a-brac in the pretty room she had set apart for her collection of curios and prie less old china. It had not taken her very long to discover Roy's secret—the secret he hardly dared to whisper even to himself, and she hoped with all her heart that Louie would come to think of him as she knew he thought of her.

"For if ever two people were suited to each other, they are," she said to herself.

Mrs. Van Alstyne had more depth and strength in her nature than people gave her credit for; under the smiling face and light careless manner a true woman's heart was beating a keen, unerring sense of the fitness of things. She had no idea how affairs stood between Louie and Percy Evringham. She supposed as that young gentleman had rather suddenly taken his departure, Louie had refused him, or at least given him to understand that they never could be anything more than friends, consequently she saw nothing wrong in thus throwing Roy and Louie together.

The second time Roy called upon Louie he was introduced to her father and mother, and though Muriel could find no fault with either his face or his manner—the one being as perfect and high bred in its way as was the other—she could not help wishing that she knew who the Glenmores were; as for Arundel he took the most unaccountable and unreasonable dislike to the young man, a dislike which increased in strength the more he saw of him, until he almost hated the sight of the manly face, with its clear eyes and firm mouth.

As a general thing we dislike the person who reminds us of our sins and short-comings. We dislike the minister who tears away with relentless hands the rags of self-palliation and self-conceit which we have wrapped about us and hold up before our own eyes, so that we are forced to see our own nakedness; we dislike the author who speaks unhesitatingly of the vices and contemptible meanness current among us, for in some one of his works we are sure to find a shoe that fits us as though it had been made for us; we dislike the friend who tells us plainly that we are doing the things we ought not to do, and leaving undone the things which we ought to do.

More than any one else he had ever met did Roy Glenmore remind Arundel Anthon of his own foul sin and black dishonor, and for that reason he disliked him. He could not bear to meet the true, honest eyes which seemed to look right through him, he could not bear the sound of his clear voice which more than once in his hearing had framed in words thoughts and opinions which showed how thoroughly the young man despised falsity and deceit. Then—it was very strange too—but there was a vague intangible something about Roy which reminded Arundel of the brother he had wronged so terribly—Russel, whom he had left to die alone on the plains of Mexico; not in appearance or manners was he like him, but sometimes the tones of his voice made Arundel grow faint and sick for a moment, they were so much like the tone of another voice.

The week went by. Of course Roy called upon Louie, but she saw him oftener at Mrs. Van Alstyne's or at the house of some mutual friend than she did at her own home. Every meeting increased the trust and confidence she had in him, life seemed very bright and fair to her since that night he had promised to be her friend as long as he lived. She had thought to speak to him of Percy Evringham, to tell him how she felt about the matter, to ask his advice and be guided by what he should say; but the time had gone on and she had not spoken, a good opportunity to speak had never seemed to present itself.

Percy had not been able to come on since he went home to Baltimore; his grandfather—stately old Howard Evringham—was in very feeble health; he might go off very suddenly, his physician said, and he could not bear to have Percy leave him for even a few days. Though he loved his grandfather dearly, it was a heavy cross to Percy to remain patiently in Baltimore, when he was longing to get back to Louie Anthon; still, there was no help for it, and he tried to console himself writing to her, and there was not much consolation in that either, as, before he left her, Louie had made him promise that he would not mention love in his letters.

"For I want to decide wholly uninfluenced by any one, even you," she had said in her frank, truthful way.

She received his letters, read them, and answered them, and spent a great deal of her time thinking about him, and the answer she should give him when he came back to her. Conscientiously and religiously Louie was trying to decide whether she loved Percy well enough to be his wife, and she found it a very hard matter to decide; so hard, that at last she gave it up, saying to herself:

"I will wait until I see him again, then my own heart will tell me whether I love him."

Had it not been for these thoughts of Percy, which filled her mind and clouded, of so to speak, her mental vision, Louie would have long ere this discovered the true nature her feelings for Roy Glenmore. But, although she was totally unconscious of it, she was trying very hard to make herself believe two things; first, that her friendship for Percy Evringham was love; second, that her love for Roy Glenmore was friendship. She had almost succeeded, too, when she made a discovery.

One afternoon late in February she was sitting alone in her pretty room reading, or rather trying to get up some degree of interest in a novel which, though it was one of the latest publications, and had met with the general approval of the public, seemed to her very stupid and uninteresting. To be perfectly candid, it was really not so much the book's fault as it was Louie's that she found it so unentertaining. Another day, perhaps, she might have thought it exceedingly bright and interesting; but the afternoon was dull, and gloomy, and gray, and Louie, who loved blue skies and golden sunshine, was keenly alive to the very depressing and dispiriting influence in the atmosphere.

"I wonder why anybody wants to write such books," she said to herself, and laying it down she took up a bonbonniere Roy Glenmore had brought her the evening previous, and fell to eating chocolate bonbons in a rather dreary manner. "I think I will go and see Aline this afternoon," she thought; "I have not seen her for two days;" and she was just about to rise from her chair and change her pretty housedress of pale blue silk and cashmere for a street costume, when there was a knock at the door, and a servant came to the room with a letter which she said the postman had just brought.

One glance at the envelope, with its postmark, Baltimore, and its superscription in a very familiar handwriting, told Louie her letter was from Percy. It was a short letter, little more than a note; a few lines evidently hurriedly written, telling her that she need not be surprised to see him some day that week, as his grandfather was very much better, and was quite willing he should leave him for a few days.

Louie read it very slowly, then leaned back in her chair, a perplexed worried look settling upon her face. Percy was coming—and when he came he would expect, and she must give him her answer; she could not put it off any longer, yet it seemed just as hard to decide now whether it should be yes or no, as it had done that snowy December day when he had asked her to be his wife.

"If I was as sure that I loved him as I am that I like him, it would be all right," she said to herself, wearily. "Perhaps it is not in me to love any man, for it seems to me that it is pleasanter to have a man for a friend than for a lover. Ah, I wish that Percy was willing to be my friend, just such a friend as Roy Glenmore.' And then Louie paused rather abruptly, vaguely conscious that Percy could not be such a friend as Roy was.

She quite forgot that she had thought of going to see Aline Brentwood. She sat there thinking deeply and earnestly, while the room grew darker and gloomier as the day drew near its close. If Louie thought—and she honestly did think—that she was holding communion with her own heart, she was very much mistaken. She would not allow it to say one word for itself; she stifled its voice with remembrances of Percy, pity for Percy, thoughts of Percy. How kind and tender Percy had always been. Ever since that day when she had first seen him in the woods of Schaffhausen, he had always done everything he could do for her; and he loved her, she was quite sure of that—poor Percy; and if she should tell him when he came that she could not be his wife, how sorry he would be, what a terrible disappointment it would be to him, and not only to him, but her father and mother as well. They would all think her heartless and cruel; Percy would go away—his handsome face sad and sorrowful, his heart filled with bitterness; it might be years before life would seem bright to him again. And at this juncture, Louie sighed heavily and said to herself, slowly:

"I think I will tell him 'Yes'—poor Percy."

She had just arrived at this conclusion when there was another tap at the door, and again the servant girl came into the room; this time, not with a letter, but with the information that Mr. Glenmore was in the parlor and would like to see her.

Roy's quick eyes noticed the look half sorrowful about her mouth, the unusual pallor of her face when she entered the parlor, and there was more tenderness in his voice than he was himself aware of as he greeted her.

"I have brought you that piece of music we were talking about last evening," he said, as he seated himself near her.

She murmured her thanks as she took the roll of music, thinking how kind and thoughtful he was.

Roy knew every expression of the face that was so dear to him; the look upon it now told him as plainly as words could have done that something was troubling her, so he talked brightly and merrily about different things until the little sorrowful look disappeared from about the sweet mouth, the soft brown eyes grew happy again. Then she went to the piano and tried the song he had brought her, playing the accompaniment while he sang it, and by the time the song was finished, she had almost forgotten the worrying thoughts about Percy.

"Sing me that little German song—the one I like so much," she said, suddenly, rising from the piano-stool; and obedient to her request, Roy sat down, and playing his own accompaniment, sang the song she had asked for—a quaint, old air, sweet yet melancholy, set to some passionate words of Heine's, while Louie, standing beside him, leaning against the piano, listened dreamily.

Roy did not know one note from the other on the piano, but was passionately fond of music, and played so beautifully and correctly by ear that people could scarcely believe him when he told them he had never taken a music lesson, and did not know a sharp from a flat; his voice—a clear tenor—was exquisite; had it been properly cultivated he might have rivaled some of the noted male singers of the day.

"What is that?" asked Louie, as he played over a few bars of a very sweet melody. "The air is lovely, yet it is not at all familiar to me."

Roy's face flushed a little as he answered her:

"It is a little song I picked up in London; it is not published, I believe, on this side of the water, I have never heard it sung or spoken of here; it is a simple little thing, still it is very sweet."

He did not tell her that since he had known her she was always in his thoughts when he sang that song, and for that reason it seemed so sweet to him and so sacred too that he never sang it—though it had always been a favorite with him—except when he was alone.

"Sing it for me," pleaded Louie, "I love songs that everybody does not know. What is the name of it, Mr. Glenmore?"

He raised his eyes to hers.

"Thy Face," he said simply, yet those two quietly spoken words set Louie's heart to beating fast and loud, for it seemed to her as though he had said, Your face, Louie Anthon.

He played over the soft, sweet prelude, then began, and Louie standing still beside him leaning against the piano, clasped her small hands tightly, the color setting in two bright scarlet spots upon her cheeks as she listened:

"Thy face is always near me,
Tho' thou art far away;
It is a beacon bright and fair
To cheer me on my way.
It is a star to guide me,
Thro' this busy world of pain;
A beacon bright to rest with me,
Until we meet again.

"Thy face, ah, me, 'tis always near,
'Tis never from my sight;
It haunts me thro' each long, long day,
And fills my dreams at night.
And yet it is a source of joy,
It is my heart's great wealth;
And only would I lose it,
For the vision's own dear self."

It is not possible for more passionate tenderness to be thrown into a song than Roy unconsciously threw into his; his very heart spoke through the words, the great, deep love he bore this girl found a voice in the song. He knew when he had finished it that he had betrayed himself; he knew that he told Louie he loved her just as plainly as though he had said in so many words, "I love you, Louie Anthon."

Half deprecatingly, half hopefully, he turned his face toward her, and their eyes met. There was no need for words, he had spoken his love through his song, and the love that was in her heart—the love she had tried to make herself believe was only friendship—the love which would last as long as her life lasted—spoke through her eyes. She knew now that he loved her—she knew now that she loved him.

A deep, intense happiness swept over her, making her face radiant, her eyes wondrous in their loveliness; and that which read Roy in those lovelit eyes filled with the happiness deep as her own—a happiness with which was mingled a great, glad thankfulness. Bending his head he pressed his lips to the little hand which lay like a snowflake upon the polished rosewood of the piano.

"Louie!"

"Roy!"

Probably he would have taken her in his arms then and there, had not the rustle of silken draperies reached them both at that moment, and Louie drew herself away from him just as her mother came into the room.

Roy took his departure soon after, and when he had gone Louie went up stairs to her room, and without lighting the gas, sat down to think over what had transpired. Though the knowledge that Roy loved her brought with it joy and gladness such as she had never known before, still her face grew very sorrowful when she thought of Percy.

"Poor, poor Percy," she said to herself, sadly, "I must tell him 'no' now."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

GOLD FOR THE TAKING.

Remarkable Richness of the Keewatin Mine.

What a Veteran Miner from the Far West Says of the Prospects—The Deeper the Soundings the Greater the Wealth.

Mr. W. D. MacGregor, mining engineer, has sent in his report on the Keewatin Co's mine, and there is nothing contained in the report, though encouraging as it is, that was not anticipated by the company. After giving an elaborate dissertation on the geological formation of the Keewatin district, the report deals with the development, thus far prosecuted, It states; "The shafts—models of themselves—have been sunk following the dip of the vein at an angle of 75°, and give a good showing of quartz. The surface gives us a hard white, somewhat silicious quartz, in vein of about five inches in width, with perfectly defined walls, to which it clings tenaciously, bearing deposits of iron pyrites, with arsenical iron faintly present, a trace of melibdium, almost 1 oz. of gold to the ton, (specimen assayed about 2 oz. of quartz) and a trace of silver.

"As we descend the shaft, the amount of mineral contained in the foot and hanging wall will attract the attention of the inexperienced visitor, and the expert will be looking for traces of the 'casing.' About twenty-five feet down these are plainly to be seen, and the classification of the vein is such that there is no room to doubt that it is a true fissure one.

"At the bottom of the shaft, I find the vein has widened to 18 inches, measuring from a perfectly formed hanging wall to the best defined foot wall I have ever examined. The quarts has changed slightly in general appearance, being now of a bluer tinge, having dark "shades" running through it, with the iron pyrites massed together neer the casings. These changes indicate a richer gold deposit, and the assay furnace is confirmatory of this, as I have had two specimens—one of casing and one of quartz—assayed, with the following results:

"Casing, gold, 3 oz. 7; or, say, $67 per 2,000 pounds.

"Quartz, gold 4 oz. 2; or, say, $82.50 per 2,000 pounds.

"A trace of copper, now present, makes it more certain that a large and rich feeder will soon be found to enter the vein and in all probability it will be reciprocal with, if not united with, the second vein mentioned in the first part of this report.

"The vein will, without doubt, be found much wider and richer as a greater depth shall be attained, and the quartz much more decomposed. Probably the iron pyrites will be 'oxidized' or rusted out by the action of the water, and this ore, though still refractory, will be much easier worked, and here I must say that the company will deserve great credit if they erect the first complete mill as they now intend, and I can assure them that the custom work for their furnaces and retort will more than pay them as all the Lake of the Wood ore is partially refractory.

"With your many advantages of easy transportation, comparatively cheap labor and fuel, water at hand, rich ore and plenty of it, wealthy directors of well known integrity, and an able shrewed manager, it is both easy and safe to predict that your stock at par is a paying investment, and that in the near future it will be difficult to obtain it at any price."

By the above report Mr. MacGregor, one of the oldest, most experienced and well know miners of the far west, has placed the Keewatin mine on the same plane as all the great finds of the United States. His report has been written within the last three weeks, and nothing in it was not anticipated by the company. When it is considered that Professors Chapman, Pike, Walls and Hamilton had all reported their assays as from $105 to $110 gold per ton, 2000 pounds, it can be easily realized that the outside stratas of quartz could pan out $67 per ton, and if specimen cabinet pieces were picked from the dump $1000 per ton would not cover the assay. Mr. MacGregor goes on to say that twenty-five feet from the surface "the classification of the vein is such that there is no room to doubt that it is a true fissure one, and as the formation of a true fissure vein is clear the width of the mineral deposit increases as depth is attained, it necessarily follows that the value of the mine is also increased. The decomposition of quartz spoken of in the professor's report has become more and more apparent the further developements progress, and this in itself is a sort of satisfaction to the superintendent, who finds the cost of mining much reduced and a great aid to the treasurer's account. The American papers are beginning to see the advantages attending the developement of the Keewatin district, and we clip the following from New York Turf, Field and Farm of Feb. 16: "Not only has coal in abundance been discovered along the Saskatchewan, but the undoubted richness of the gold fields on and around Lake of the Woods is building up a mining town at Rat Portage, 139 miles from here, which bids fair to equal Leadville. From my observations, and the testimony of mining experts both from the States and Canada, the quartz mining in that section should attract attention and capital from the financial centres of the new and old world. I can only briefly refer to this point in speaking of the richness of Manitoba; so will mention a few of the companies now in active operation and producing gold-bearing ore assaying from $50 to $500 per ton. The "Keewatin," of Hay island, under the management of M. W. Meagher, whom you will remember as a New York counsellor and journalist. The "Winnipeg Consolidated" under charge of John R. Brown, well known in New York mining circles as an expert and practical miner. "The Lake of the Woods" and "Hay Island," incorporated by Winnipeg and New York capitalists, and the "Argyle." These companies are working with best results. The directors, I learn, are men of prominence in finance and business, and no wild-cat schems have developed thus far. Here the stock in the above mines is obtaining a strong foothold, and numerous other companies will doubtless be incorporated in the spring."

When papers like the above do not hesitate to endorse he Lake of the Woods or Keewatin district after sending their own men to the spot, surely investors cannot but help feeling secure in their purchases.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Farm for sale.—Andrew Kirkwood.
Tenders.—Joseph Manary.
Stallion for sale.—James Megill.
Seed Wheat.—Andrew Nesbitt.
Warning.—H. Foster.
Easter Cards.—A. Turner & Co.
Auction Sale.—Wm. Crowther.
Credit Sale.—Mrs. W. Watson.
Mansion House.—J. Brien.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, MARCH, 15TH, 1883.

MUSKOKA ELECTION.

GRAVENHURST, March 13—The election for Muskoka took place to-day. It is impossible to give the full return to-night, but as far as heard from Mr Fauquier (conservative) has about 80 of a majority over Mr. Bettes (reformer), and is probably elected.

LATER.—Fauquiere's majority is over 200.

EUPHRASIA COUNCIL.

A meeting of the township council, of the township of Euphrasia, was held pursuant to adjournment on the 2nd day of March, A. D, 1883.

Members present.

Thomas Gilray, Esq., Reeve ; Jas. Erskine, Esq., Deputy Reeve ; David R. Ellis, James Boyd and James C. Paterson, Esquires, councillors.

Minutes of last session of council read and confirmed.

The Auditors' Report laid before council and accepted,and a committee composed of the Reeve, Clerk, and Mr. Patterson, appointed to examine said report, and report to council at next meeting.

The clerk was instructed to act conjointly with the clerk of Artemesia in giving legal notice for establishing a deviation road in lieu of part of town line between Euphrasia and Artemesia.

The Reeve, Deputy Reeve, and Mr. Paterson were appointed a committee to wait upon the council of Holland, on union school business.

The requisition of Noble Clark relative to 27 and 28 side line, laid over until next meeting of council, then to be taken up.

The treasurer was ordered to remit to Messrs. Bowsell & Hutchinson, Toronto, the sum of $48.60, for stationery.

The Reeve's orders were issued to the Treasurer in favour of the following named parties, for the sums hereinafter placed opposite their names, viz : George Graham, $4.50,for plank to repair road ; D. R. Ellis, Esq., $5 00,for relief of Mrs. Grey,indigent; J. B. Winter $14.00, township Auditor ; Wm. H. Dodson $14.00, township Auditor ; John Devins $3.00, for plank to repair bridge.

The treasurer was instructed to pay to the following named parties, the sums hereinafter placed opposite to their names as remuneration for service and other expenses in connection with the last special election in the township,(for the election of a Reeve,) James Struthers, Esq., $5.50 ; Geo. Wilson, jr., $7.10 ; Nathaniel Curry $6.70 ; William H. Manary $6.70 ; James Yelland $7.00 ; Thomas Abercrombie $7.00 ; Robert Dunlop $25.

The treasurer was instructed to pay as follows for the use of school houses, used as polling stations at last municipal election and at last legislative election, viz : S. S. No. 4, $4.00 ; S. S. No. 14, $4.00 ; S. S. No. 15, $4 00 ; S. S. No. 9, $4.00, and to pay to John Hurlbert, $4.00 for the use of the Orange Hall at Kimberly, for said purpose.

On motion being made and seconded the council adjourned until the first Friday in April next.

ROBERT DUNLOP, Tp. Clerk.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

Mr. Editor.

Your playful allusion to County Valuators in your last issue suggested a few reflections. Reflection No. 1.

The equalization of the county assessments for county rates is no doubt of primary importance, that each municipality may pay its due share and no more, and any method proving to be equitable must be the best, and should be adopted.

REFLECTION No. 2 Is not the necessity of Valuators a serious comment upon the assessors for the various municipalities comprising the county? These men take a solemn declaration to assess to the best of their knowledge and belief, all property at its cash value, not what the proprietors suppose it to be, not what its proprietors gave for it, not what their neighbours supppose it to be, but what they, as intelligent men, (all assessors should be intellegent) judge it to be. Yet,it is susceptible of proof, that, in almost every instance (except in the village) there is, what may be deemed an accommodation assessment, and unless in mistake, no property is valued at its cash value—a fair equitable cash value—and it may be ventured, that upon an appeal, the assessment Rolls so called would be annulled and the assessors indited for perjury such is the result of habit.

REFLECTION No. 3.—The authorities, must have considered those possible discrepancies, when it was thought necessary to provide for equalization, for it must appear transparent that if each assessor discharges his duty, the necessity would cease. But so it is, and to accomplish the desired end it falls to the county council to provide for the equalization, and have therefore a committee of finance and assessment, whose duty it is to carefully compare one Roll with another, one municipality with another, and approximate as near as may be, the various municipal assessments for county purposes. But the law provides still further, it it be deemed advisable. that special assessors named valuators, may be appointed once in five years, to do in part this work of equalization, and was so done for Grey eight years ago, but unsatisfactorily done yet having been adopted necessarily stood for five years, since its term expired, the committee assumed the labour, altering as little as possible this basis until last year in June, a general analysis of the assessment was had in this way. Artemesia was taken as a standard, at 12½ dollars per acre, included was ten per cent in every case for personal property, this multiplied by the acreage gave the assesment. Then Bentick was taken, her soil was considered and compared with Artemesia; her swamps, her business places, her advantages, all was carefully gone into, and she was placed at 12½ dollars likewise. In this manner alphebetically and seriatim, the equalization was made, after much discussion and labour, but was rejected by the Council when in committee of the whole.

REFLECTION No. 3.—What lead to the defeat of what appeared at least to be so just, is a matter of conjecture. The office of valuator, in the eyes of seekers was of very great moment, and of more importance to themselves than was the equity in the case.

Laboured agreement was introduced to show its utility and but for the statute intervening making it unlawful for any member of the county to receive the appointment, it would have carried then. As it was, the council had to fall back on the old unjust basis for the rates of 1882.

In January of 1883 the same purpose was manifested with a slightly changed front, and notwithstanding a written and an orem statement of the Solicitor of the illegallity of the appointments whilst they remained members of the council. the whole thing was swallowed holus-bolus, and we have unlawfully appointed valuators; two of them, one not being a member of the council is free from the charge.

REFLECTION No. 4.—Is it not doubtful in the face of things whether their labours can be more satisfactory or just. Is it not a farce played at the rate of $9 per day, $3 each. Look for a moment. These valuators are to pass along the concessions only of each township, time is unlimited, but from a tacit understanding. They complete their labours for the June session. If so, they must proceed at a rapid rate, seeing there are twenty municipalitie sto examine. Does it not appear therefore impossible to perform such duties, with any degree of justice. A mere guess, at best. Who knows but the side lines may be the more important to examine, to secure just conclusions, and then no note is to be taken of personal property. The committee aforesaid have to adjust that afterwards, and can alter thereby the whole face of the assessment of these very valuators. And their appointment makes it possible to disturb very seriously, what is known as the railway group. The assessment for the T. G. & B. R. being made upon an unchangeable basis for its 20 years of duration, which to this point, no serious obstacles have occurred to prevent asking equitably in the premises.

REFLECTION No. 5.—If my position be correct, sir, what can be thought of those, who supported the appointments.

1st. Contrary, to statute.

2nd. To incur an expense of perhaps $3.000 to accomplish a doubtful work.

3rd. To appoint interested men, who have fought again and again for their respected townships, in preference to disenterested ones.

In conclusion, for it is not intended on my part to carry on a discussion, I merely look upon the whole thing as a complete farce, carried through the Council by means that some interested persons have always at command. I have only to hope the result will be better than my anticipations, and leave the matter for other persons to reflect upon.

"OPPOSITION."

Mr. John. Hanbury, of Brandon, Manitoba, arrived to-day.

Those who purpose travelling a Stallion this season, in this district, will do well to give us a call as early as convenient. Something new here.

THE LONDON LOTTERY.—It is said that life is one gigantic lottery, either blanks or prizes, yet a prize is sure to all who buy Trimble & Wright's tea.

The re-count in West Simcoe has resulted in adding three to the majority of Mr. Phelps, the Reform candidate, which is now placed at thirty-five.

"Hello, Bob, where did you get that sack of flour?" "That's just where your left, Jim. It's a dollar's worth of sugar from Trimble & Wright's."

A deputation from Owen Sound has interviewed the Dominion Goverment with a view to getting a subsidy for a new line of steamers running between Owen Sound and Georgian Bay ports. They also urge the completion of the harbour improvements at Owen Sound which they claim have not been satisfactorily performed, the depth of water in some places not exceeding nine feet, whereas the Goverment agreed to make a uniform depth of fourteen feet.

A Tea-meeting was held in the New England P. M. church on Tuesday evening, the 13th inst. The young people of the neighborhood did themselves credit by the manner in which they catered to the wants of the outer man. After tea Mr. McAfee was called upon to take the chair. Speeches were delivered by Revs. Messrs. Tindall, Corcoran and McDiarmid. Recitations were given by Messrs. A. McFarland and G. S. Bowes. An impromptu choir under the leadership of Mr. —— discoursed music of considerable merit very creditably. The meeting dispersed about eleven o'clock Proceeds about $32.

BIRTHS.

BLAIR—In Artemesia, on the 1st inst., the wife of Mr. Robt. Blair, of a daughter.

TRIMBLE—In Flesherton, on Tuesday, March 6th, the wife of R. J. Trimble, Esq., of a son.

DONNELLY—In Mount Forest, on the 24th ult., the wife of Mr. M. Donnelly, T. G. & B. R. station master, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

DOYMAN—GADDES.—In Brandon, by the Rev. Mr. Lawson, Mr. Peter Doyman, of Qu-Appelle, to Jennie, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Gaddes, High Bluff. Both formerly of the village of Chatsworth.

DIED.

MCGREGOR—In Dundalk, on the 5th inst., infant daughter of Mr. P. McGregor.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES, being lot 8, con. 10, Euphrasia; about 40 acres cleared, balance good hardwood; has a comfortable frame house 18x24 feet, a good well, young orchard, and is situated on a good road 4 miles from Markdale. The farm will be sold on reasonable terms. For particulars apply to Geo. Noble,Markdale, or to ANDREW KIRKWOOD, on the premises.

March 10th, 1883. 131-33.

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to the 1st April, 1883, for the erection and completion of a School House in S. S. No. 17, Euphrasia. Plans and specification may be seen at the residence of Joseph Manarey, W. ½ lot 18, con. 10, Euphrasia, Harkaway P. O. Building to be complete by the 1st August, 1883, and paid for the 15th Jan., 1884. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

JOSEPH MANARY, Sec. Treas.

Euphrasia, March 9th,1883. 131-4in.

STALLION FOR SALE.

YOUNG "Stanley" is a fine bay horse 4 years old this spring, stands 16½ hands high, is possessed of heavy bone, and good action. Will be sold on reasonable terms by getting good security. Pedigree can be seen at this office. Apply to

JAMES MEGILL, Everett P. O.

131-33 Tossoronto Tp.

PURE SEED WHEAT.

"THE WESTERN."

MR. ANDREW NESBITT, LOT 110, 2nd range W. T. & S. Road, Glenelg, 1½ miles from Markdale, has 200 bushels of pure Western spring seed wheat for sale. Mr. Jas. Bell, Artemesia, near Eugenia, secured 5 bags of this wheat which he sowed last year and says it yielded him $50 more than the same amount of Russian or other varieties which he sowed on equally as good land. The price is $1.25 per bushel.

ANDREW NESBITT.

131-33.

WARNING.

ALL NOTES AND OVERDUE ACcounts not paid during the present month will be handed in for collection.

H. FOSTER.

Markdale, March 14th, 1883. 131-3t

Mansion House,

MARKDALE,

JAMES BRIEN, - - PROPRIETOR.

HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE HOtel, and thoroughly overhauled and refurnished the same, I am now in a position to receive a share of public patronage. The choicest brands of liquors and cigars kept. Good meals ; also good stabling.

Markdale, Mar 14th, 1883. 131ly

Easter Cards.

CHOICE ASSORTMENT

TO ARRIVE AT THE Medical Hall.

A. TURNER & CO.

131-32

TO SELL OR RENT.

LOT 15, CON. 12, HOLLAND, 122 acres, 100 cleared, good buildings thereon. Terms easy. Apply to James Logan, Postmaster, near the premises, or to

M. S. KELLOW, Tara P. O.

November 14th, 1882. 114-tf.

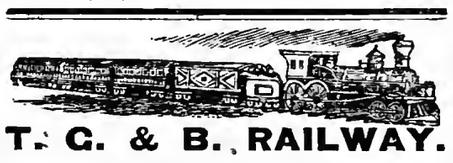
FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A. bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 120-tf.

Clydesdale Stallion FOR SALE.

That splendid Clydesdale Stallion "Scottish Champion," from imported stock, and the property of Wm. Shepherdson, will be sold cheap. The horse stands 16½ hands high, is 4 years old, jet black in color, and a sure foal getter. Any one wishing to get a bargain should take advantage of this offer. Stock taken in part payment. Address W. SHEPHERDSON, Lot 23, Con. 11, Euphrasia, Blantyre P. O. 129-4t*

MARKDALE MARKETS.



Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $0.97; Spring $0.98 to $1 00; Barley, 55c; Peas, 69; Oats, 38c ; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 22c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $11.00 ; Pork, 7.50 to 8.00; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $2.00 to $2.00

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $0.97; Spring, $0.98 to $1.00; Barley, 57c; Peas, 67c; Oats, 38c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 21c; Potatoes,40 c; Hay, $11.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7.90.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.102 to $1.05; Spring, $1.05 to $1.10; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 46c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag, 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 30c to 32c.

T. G. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows :

GOING NTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
2 25	10 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	8 30	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

THOS. MATHEWS,

HarnesS EstaBlishmenT!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

GEORGE NOBLE,

INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies : CITIZENS', of Montreal,

AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and

TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale. also Village Lots.

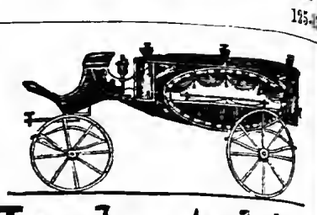
Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate, Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,



—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Shortest Notice, and at all Hours from

GEO. GRANT

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality. All at moderate prices.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

CHANCERY DIVISION

BEATTIE vs. BLAIR.

PURSUANT TO THE JUDGMENT OF JAMES MASSON, Esq., Master of the Supreme Court at Owen Sound, made in the action and bearing date the 22nd day of September, 1882, and pursuant to subsequent directions of the said Master made on the 5th day of March, 1883, there will be sold, with the approbation of the said Master, by Auction S. Vandusen, Auctioneer,

BY PUBLIC AUCTION

AT THE MARKDALE HOUSE,

generally known as Rutledge's Hotel, in the

VILLAGE OF MARKDALE

On Thursday, 5th day of April, 1883,

at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon the following valuable Farm Property

Lots Numbers 128 and 129, in the 1st Concession N. E., and Lots Numbers 130 and 131, in the 1st Concession S. W. of the Toronto and Sydenham Road, in the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, consisting of 200 acres, of which about 140 acres are cleared and in a good state of cultivation. The remainder is covered with cedar, tamarac, balsam, and swamp timber. The soil is a good clay loam The fences are in good repair, and the land is well watered.

On Lot 130 there are 40 acres cleared, an orchard in bearing, mostly of apple trees, a dwelling house, a fine frame barn 60x90 feet with stone foundation and a good stable underneath barn.

On Lot 131 there are 25 acres cleared, and a good spring creek.

On Lot 128 there are 35 acres cleared, a plum orchard of about one-eight of an acre and a log barn and log house.

On Lot 129 there are 20 acres cleared. This farm property is advantageously situated in a good neighborhood, on the first gravel road between the villages of Flesherton and Markdale, on the line of the Toronto and G. B. railway, distant two and a half miles from Flesherton, and three and a half miles from Markdale, both of which places afford good markets.

This property will be offered for sale at the time and place above named, subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master,in one parcel, and if not sold then in separate parcels, and will be sold free from dower and all incumbrances save a mortgage on Lots 130 and 131, the amount and particulars whereof will be made known at time of sale, or on application to the solicitors underwritten. Immediate possession given. This sale affords a rare opportunity to any one wishing to obtain a fine farm.

Ten per cent. to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance in one month, without interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

Further particulars can be had from Messrs. Frost & Frost, or Creasor & Morrison, Owen Sound.

Dated at Owen Sound this 7th day of March, 1883.

FROST & FROST,
Vendors' Solicitors, Owen Sound.

(Signed) J. MASSON,
Master at Owen Sound.

130-4t.

Single copies of the STANDARD 5 cents.

ll & Brown

Mr. Doll is leaving Mark- to go into the Wholesale ry Business in Toronto, ot wishing to leave Mark- together,) he has entered rtnership with Mr. W. ROWN, late of Flesherton, a practical watchmaker ller of over 15 years ex- e, and comes with the best mmendations from some of ding watchmakers in the ce.

B n will carry on the s in Markdale.

k entrusted to him will be a workmanlike man-k will be guaranteed, s sold will be found ed, or money refund-

oll & Brown's,

Watchmakers & Jewellers

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

al and Other Items.

Items intended to benefit ... will be charged for ... in either and five cent insertion.

... guesses the 24th April. ... next Sunday will be ... social at Mr. John ... to-morrow night, Friday.)

... House now occupied ... was opened on Monday

... a friendly call from Mr. ... the Advance on Saturday

... roofs or houses flying ... the 11th, as was predicted ...

... J. Ford's auction sale ... 20th inst., on lots 117 ... con. 2, Artemesia.

... Shanahan is laying in a ... material for the manu- ... waggons, &c., for ... summer.

... tons of good timothy h... ... and in the barn, for sale at ... Buskin's, con. 7, lot 4, Eu... Also good straw for sale.

... results of the voting in New ... and Prince Edward Island ... of the Methodist Union ... an overwhelming majority in ... of the scheme.

... pounds more tea just arrived ... Garland.

... who have promised us wood ... us by bringing it in at once, ... we will be compelled to ... night trips and run the risk ... powdered sticks.

... Meaford Mirror has entered on ... year of publication. It is ... newsy, and is conducted ... We wish our cotem the ... which push and enterprise de-

... Farmers Advocate" for March ... table. This number contains ... of interesting and use- ... Only one dollar a year. ... any time. Subscrip- ... at this office.

... Fire Brigade meeting, which ... for last Friday night, was ... attended, only four or five ... present. The secretery of the ... having removed from town ... the books with him, the ... was adjourned until such ... the treasurer could secure ... make a report.

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE.—Mr. Wm. ... Lot 27, con. 2, E. G. R., ... will sell his farm stock and ... on Wednesday, March ... commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. ... months credit on sums over $5 ... furnishing approved joint notes. ... Farm will also be offered at the ... time. R. M. Galbraith, Auc- ...

... another immense arrival of teas ... Garland.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE. ... best salve in the world for Cuts, ... Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever ... Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, ... and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively ... Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect ... action, or money refunded. Price 25 ... per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

Is it sick you are? Yes. Well try a cup of McFarland's tea.

Printing of every description executed in first class style at this office.

We would like to hear from our correspondents. Let's have something for next week.

Mr. J. P. Marshall, Dentist, will be at the Markdale House, on Wednesday next, 21st, where he will be happy to wait on those requiring his services.

Local notices requires to be in this office by noon Wednesday to insure an insertion that week.

We timidly prophesy that there will be a continuance of weather for some time to come. Look out for it.

Reynolds & Son are offering large inducements to purchasers for the next thirty days. See their large posters.

Several horses changed hands on fair day at good prices. Mr. Walter Nicholls sold a team for $300.—Dundalk Herald.

In Hull county, Georgia, U. S., a drunken father named Hull poured a shovel of hot coals on his infant child, burning it to death.

A despatch from Deadwood, D. T., announces the burning to death of eleven men in the lodging house of a camp in the Black Hills.

A boat was driven to sea at St. Pierce, N. F., on Friday. When overtaken by persons from the shore yesterday the crew were found frozen to death.

The death of Prince Gortschakoff, the eminent Russian statesman, who has achieved the reputation of one of the ablest diplomatists of the age, is announced.

Ann Leahy, arrested in New York on a charge of vagrancy, eluded the officer and jumped through an open window of the court house to the ground, 30 feet below. She did shortly afterwards.

The young man who called on his girl the other night and mistook the cat for the chair cushion and sat down on it, says that he had no idea that a cat could come up to the scratch on such a short notice.

Mr. Skeffington Bell has purchased a building lot opposite to Mr. T. Hanbury's store, and intends erecting a store and dwelling on it forthwith. The contract for the building which will be 20 x 40 and 24 feet high has been let to W. J. Hicks, contractor. Herald.

Wilfords Microcosm for March is before us. This scientific monthly cannot but be deeply interesting to the reader. It treats religion from a scientific standpoint, and clears up many dark places with intelligence and ability. Hall & Co., Publishers, 23 Park Row, New York.

There is some talk of a union between the Methodist Episcopal and Primitive Methodist churches of Orangeville taking place this year. We understand that steps are being taken to bring about this result. Should it take place a large saving could be effected and as much if not more good would result therefrom.—Orangeville Gazette.

ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that Mrs. Wm. Dinwoody met with rather a bad accident recently. She was riding in a cutter with her son, when in turning a corner (the roads being very slippery) the cutter upset throwing the occupants out, and breaking several of Mrs. Dinwoody's ribs. We are glad to know that the afflicted lady is doing as well as she could be expected under the circumstances.—Advance.

A social will be given at the residence of Mr. John Hamilton, on Friday evening the 16th, under the auspices of the Methodist L. A. S. Those interested on the back line have arranged to send their teams out to the village in the evening to accomodate those not having a conveyance, and will return with them after the social. Let the young peopleand others be ready from 7 to 8 p. m.

The annual address of Mr. A. Gifford, Worthy Master of the Dominion Grange last year, furnishes considerable food for thought to farmers. From it we learn that in less than ten years there have been established no fewer than 862 subordinate granges in the Dominion, and 52 division granges. The address refers to the co-operation of trade fostered by the grange institution, the education of farmers, railway monopoly, the spread of fraternal feeling among farmers, and the advancement of the cash system of doing business. The address likewise claims that the prospects for efficient grange work in the future are brighter than at any former period in the history of the institution.—Mirror.

FARMERS BEWARE.

Petty swindlers are now working up the rural district with a little game described thus: An agent will visit a house and exhibit a wonderful powder, ask for the loan of a lamp, and placing a pinch of the suff in the oil, he will dip a lighted match into the fluid. The match will be extinguished as if dipped into water. The wonderful stuff is nothing but common salt, colored blue with ultramarine. As the vapor of the oil, and not the oil, is what burns, the agent experiences no difficulty in playing the artful trick. The swindler claims that the powder is especially adapted for the prevention of lamp explosions and insures against the breaking of lamp chimneys.

Here is another of the many plans of defrauding the honest farmer of his hard-earned money: A farmer receives a circular through the mail stating that a new variety of winter wheat has been discovered and that seed will be furnished free of charge until a good crop of said wheat is raised, on condition that he send $1 to pay for packing, etc. The dollar is sent and nothing more is ever heard of it.

ROUND TOWN.

The snow is ten feet deep and less.

Armstrong's steam factory is progressing.

Kay & Thomas have secured orders for several thousand pairs of harvest gloves.

McNea has a large stock of sash, doors, dressed lumber, shingles and other building material on hand.

J. G. Irving is enlarging his pump business. His work gives good satisfaction.

Mr. Doll is home for a few days and is prepared to give bargains in jewelery.

Mr. D. McArthur has opened a Bakery and Confectionery in Dunlop's new block. Advertisement next week.

We have received 19 renewals since last issue.

Archy Donaldson and family will remove next week to Muskoka.

The weather is now mild, and three are indications of an early spring. The crows are out, and robins have been seen.

Mr. W. F. Doll is in town for a few days, he has an immence stock of Gold and Silver Watches, Rings, Chains, &c. Parties wishing to purchase something in his line should call immediately.

Mrs. Jas. McLean has sold out the Holstein Hotel to Mrs. James Calvert, of Orchardville. The sale was completed on the 13th ult., the licence being transferred and possesion given within 24 hours.—Grey Review.

BIG SAWING.—Mr. Andrew Irving and Geo. Rickets sawed recently, in twenty minutes, one cord of wood by hand. They are willing to put up money that they can saw a cord in 20 minutes or three cords in one hour.

Wiggins claims that his predictions are verified. True, there was a severe and disastrous storm in various parts. We had quite sufficient in this section on Sunday and Monday last, yet it did not come up to the expectations of a great many.

A REVERSE GAME.—For some time we have been selling fur sets, ladies and gents fur caps, mantle cloths, heavy tweeds, and all kinds of winter goods at a heavy discount. Now, to make room for Spring goods we will sell for the discount, throwing off the price. Call and see them.—TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

CREDIT SALE.—Mrs. M. Watson, Lot 32, con. 1, North Durham road, will sell by public auction on 22nd March, her farm, stock, implements, &c., comprising 5 horses, 6 cows, a quantity of young cattle, sheep, implements, &c. This is a very extensive sale. To commence at noon. 9 months credit on sums over $5. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

A.O. U. W.—A very pleasant and interesting meeting of Markdale lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, was held on Monday evening. This order is growing more popular, and the members are highly satisfied with the workings of the same. The officers of this lodge for 1883, are as follows:

Bro. Wm. Brown, P. M. W.
" R. S. Rae, M. W.
" Jas. McDougall, Foreman.
" E. C. Large, Overseer.
" J. G. Irving, Recorder.
" A. McIntyre, Receiver.
" W. N. Haskett Financier.
" Geo. Wilson, Guide.
" J. W. Rowe, I. W.
" J. H. Hull, O. W.

THE
BEST AND CHEAPEST.

Coolness of temperament is a virtue, but the refreshing coolnesg of the

Preserved Meats, Fruits, and Vegetables,

—KEPT AT THE—

BELFAST HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

beats all the icebergs ever floated down the Atlantic Ocean.

The Belfast House

Teas and Coffees!

give an exhilirating influence, not equalled in Markdale, except by Benson's

WHISKIES, BRANDIES, WINES,

&c. Those who relish the "pipe of peace" will find the

Tobaccos and Cigars

at the Belfast House unsurpassed north of Toronto. Cheese, Bologna Sausage, and Biscuit in endless variety, all from the best manufacturers, at the Belfast House. Apples, (green and dried,) Spices, Sweetmeats, &c. Toilet and Fancy Soaps, Essences, Perfumes, and Family Oils, of the purest quality. Flour, Potatoes, Pork, Herring, (dried and salt,) kept constantly on hand.

☞Our Bottled Gin is imported directly from the manufacturers, and our Bottled Wines are put up at the Vintage. Pickles in bottles, Mustard in cans, and in fact everything in the grocery trade. A recent addition to my finances will enable me to purchase in the head markets of Europe and America.

WILSON BENSON.

AN ACROSTIC,

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer
Right splendid good oil, and Fall
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use,
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are sure it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm.
127-153.

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

J. W. FORD,

Is giving splendid satisfaction in

CRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention to parties from a distance so that they may have their grist home the same day.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death. Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner &Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West &Co. sole proprietors, Toronto, Ont.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 91 & 83 King St. East, Toronto. Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner &Co. Drug Store.

MARKDALE
Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN.

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

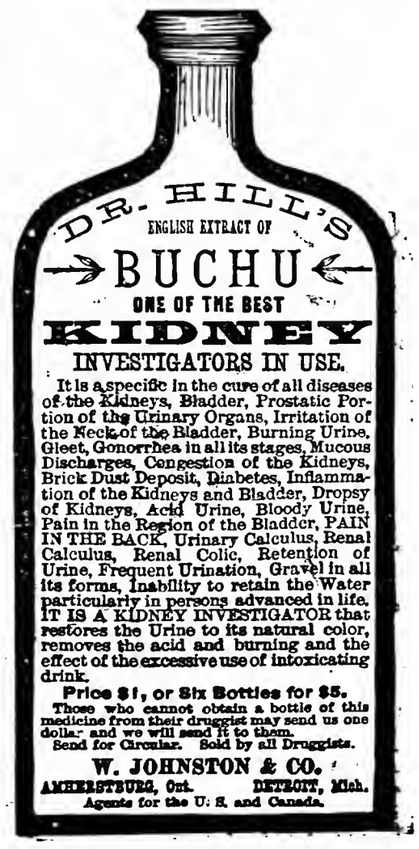
SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,



MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting.

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

INVESTIGATORS IN USE.

It is a specific in the cure of all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Prostatic Portion of the Urinary Organs, Irritation of the Neck of the Bladder, Burning Urine, Gleet, Gonorrhea in all its stages, Mucous Discharges, Congestion of the Kidneys, Brick Dust Deposit, Diabetes, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, Dropsy of Kidneys, Acid Urine, Bloody Urine, Pain in the Region of the Bladder, PAIN IN THE BACK, Urinary Calculus, Renal Calculus, Renal Colic, Retention of Urine, Frequent Urination, Gravel in all its forms, Inability to retain the Water particularly in persons advanced in life. IT IS A KIDNEY INVESTIGATOR that restores the Urine to its natural color, removes the acid and burning and the effect of the excessive use of intoxicating drink.

Price $1, or Six Bottles for $5.

Those who cannot obtain a bottle of this medicine from their druggist may send us one dollar and we will send it to them.

Send for Circular. Sold by all Druggists.

W. JOHNSTON & CO.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. DETROIT, Mich.

Agents for the U. S. and Canada.

LATE NEWS NOTES.

Mr. Lichtoller, a cotton manufacturer at Bolton ,has failed ; liabilities, £8,000.

In the House of Commons a bill preventng the shooting of trapped pigeons has passed its second reading.

The Diet, by 192 to 261, has rejected the proposal to insert an item in the budget for the Economic Council.

A hundred thousand pounds in bullion were withdrawn from the Bank of England recently for shipment to New York.

During February the British imports inareased £3,867,000 and the exports £645,-000, compared with February last year.

The valuable paintings, plate and the furniture at Wortham park, the country seat of Earl Stafford, burned recently, were saved.

The Indiana Episcopal convention has elected Dr. Isaac L. Nicholson, rector of St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, Bishop of Indiana.

The appointment of Gen. Blumenthal as German Minister of War has been revoked and General Bronsart Von Schellendroff has been appointed.

Conductor Hamilton, who was in charge of the Pacific express when the recent collision occurred on the G. T. R., near Dundas, has resigned.

The Chinese Governor whose intrigues hindered the delimitation of the Kuldja frontier, has been dismissed. His successor has been instructed to expedite the delimitation.

The statement of Mr. O'Kelly that Mr. Parnell intends to resign his seat in Parliament and proceed to America in the event of his land reform bill being rejected in unfounded.

A life convict named Ulm has been pardoned after an imprisonment of twenty-nine years in Michigan, for murder, of which there is little doubt he was entirely innocent.

The Western Window Glass Manufacturers are in session in Pittsburg. The trade is reported in a very depressed condition, with the future outlook improving. No change was made in rates, and the question of cutting wages was postponed.

It is stated in Baden Baden that Prince Gortschakoff's illness is due to a recent attempt to poison him. After severe vomiting last week the doctors discovered traces of phosphorus. The police are investigating the matter.

Judge Lawson, in opening the Dundalk Assizes, said the revelations at the hearing of the conspirators at Dublin, far from unhinging his mind, gave him the liveliest satisfaction.

In the report to the Secretary of the Navy, Washington, Lieut. Harber states that he probably comunicated with every native in the Lena Delta, but found no trace of Chipp's party.

The great flour mills throughout Minnesota are not producing one-third of their capacity. A number now running will close this week because of the scarcity and high price of wheat.

In the New York Assembly the attempt to pass the five cent fare bill on the New York Elevated roads over the Governor's veto was defeated.

Two hundred settlers recently invaded part of the Sioux Indian reservation, lying east of the Mississippi River, and put up shanties. Thousands of others are preparing to follow. The intruders will be ordered off the reservation.

The Minister of the Interior said the enforcement of the military service in Schleswig would only affect 450 citizens. The measure was free from terrorism, and did not inflict needless hardship.

The decision in the case of Byrne has been postponed until after the Cabinet Council on Friday. The postponement has been made in order that papers forwarded by the Attorney-General for Ireland, justifying the demand for extradition, may be considered.

The Times' Dublin despatch says it is rumored that Patric Egan has left Paris with the Land League securities. The police are tracing him. It is believed he has gone to Spain.

At a meeting in London on behalf of the Scotch Crofters, Mr. Waddy, member of Parliament for Edinburgh, condemned the ousting of a diligent population for the convenience of a few English lordlings and American millionaires.

The Roumanian Deputies have passed the bill for the expenditure of fifteen million lei for the erection of forts made necessary by the political situation. The Prime Minister said the sole object for the construction of the forts was to guarantee the neutrality of Roumania.

Ecuador advices state that the Dictator's steamer "Huacho" took the sails, charts, chronometers, compasses, &c., from the English ship "Mysterious Star," off San Lorenzo. An English war ship has been sent for, and the matter threatens to become serious.

Advices from Curacoa state that the shooting at the American steamship "Valencia" occurred through a mistake of the chief officer of the fort, and the stupidity and neglect of duty of his subordinate. The Governor has apologized to the American Consul and an apology has been forwarded to Washington.

The agent of the Washington Department of Agriculture in London reports that continued rains and floods have done great injury to the wheat crop, and gloomy apprehensions of the worst failure for years are felt. The area is reduced and much re-sowing will be necessary. There is much alarm at the spread of foot and mouth diseases among cattle.

Very large quantities of firewood have been coming into Quebec on the Lake St. John Railway, sometimes as much as two trains per day, and the receipts for some time past have been over 100 cords daily. In consequence of this large supply, the wood merchants have reduced their prices one dollar per cord, and three feet beech is selling at the low figure of $3.50 per cord.

Trade between Germany and Italy is growing so fast that the St. Gothard Railway is running extra trains. The increase is mostly in coal and iron, in which England has hitherto had a monopoly in Italy. Smuggling, however, is increasing more rapidly than trade. It is conducted by gangs of Swiss and Italians, who, when arrested, pay fines from a common fund. They are aided by trained dogs.

At a meeting of the local board at Swineford, County Mayo, it was reported that great distress prevailed in the district. Over thirty persons in the poor-house are suffering from famine fever. Seven hundred names are on the list of persons needing relief. The distress is the greatest since 1847. People refusing to enter the workhouse are dying for want of food.

The Procureur has informed Byrne that the charge of connection with the Phœnix Park murders has been withdrawn, but a new charge of complicity in the attempted murder of Juror Field and Judge Lawson has been preferred against him. The Procureur has just received testimony from James Casey's brother, Peter, showing that Byrne attended a meeting of "Invincibles" in Dublin in August, 1882, at which Brady, Mullet and Carey were present. Byrne professes complete ignorance of the doings of the "Invincibles" and says he never met Peter Carey, Brady or Mullett.

Capt. O'Shea has written to the Daily News, defending Mr. Parnell against Mr. Forster's attack in the House of Commons. He says that immediately after the Phœnix Park murders Mr. Parnell drew up an address announcing his retirement from political life, and was prevailed upon by his friends, only with great difficulty, to alter his mind.

M. Clemenceau, while delivering a speech in favor of a revision of the constitution, was seized with a nervous attack. The session of the Chamber was suspended for three quarters of an hour. Upon resumption of the sitting he completed his speech, but appeared very ill. He is suffering from influenzia and gastric derangement. He broke a small blood vessel while speaking.

A conference began in Paris which will consider the rights and relations of industrial property. M. Challemel Lacour, Minister of Foreign Affairs, presided. The principal object of the meeting is to secure in certain States of Europe the same advantages as regards patents, designs, trade marks and commercial names as are accorded by other countries to their own subjects. Nineteen States were represented, including the United States.

Origin of Some Common Expressions.

The original of the term sub rosa dates from the ancient custom of suspending a large rose,or bouquet of roses from the middle of the card-room ceiling, just as we, on a parficular occasion, hang a bunch of mistletoe. It was noticed in course of time that card-players—especially those of more mature age—generally kept their racy remarks, scandal, gossip, and what not, for the card-party; and many an improper story or disgraceful piece of back-biting was gleefully repeated over the nightly rubber, of course, always in strict confidence. As this always took place beneath the suspended bouquet, the words sub rosa came to mean anything entre nous—which was to go no further; and this meaning has been retained until the present day. The saying "Those who live in glass houses must not throw stones," dates back to a time at which London was full of Scotchmen, immediately after the union between England and Scotland. Then the Duke of Buckingham, who was no friend to the Scotch, devised various expedients to vex them, and, among others, organized nightly parties to smash their windows. One of these Mohawk escapades being traced to his Lordship, a Scotch party, by way of revenge, smashed all the windows of the Duke's residence in Martin's Fields. This mansion had so many windows—in the days when daylight was a luxury—that it was known as the "Glass House," and, on these being broken, the Duke appealed to the King, who, with a touch of native wit, ar once replied, "Steenie, Steenie,, those wha live in glass houses should be carefu' how they fling stanes;" and the apothegm has, as we know, been preserved to this generation.

Wagner's Last Moments.

With reference to the last moments of Wagner in Venice, it is reported that his death was the greater surprise, as only on Monday evening he went out for a walk with some friends. He was in good spirits, and with his companions made merry over the deplorably dismal weather he had had since his visit to the Queen of the Adriatic, where he had hoped for brighter skies. It was only at a little after midday yesterday that he had ordered a gondola, with the intention of taking a row through the chief canal, but he had hardly given the necessary instructions when he was suddenly seized with illness and appeared to faint. The matter was not considered serious at first, but was regarded as a transient attack of weakness which would soon pass off. But as the time went on, and the illustrious composer showed no signs of improving his friends began to see that the case was more serious than they had supposed. They became alarmed and sent for a medical man. There was, however, unfortunately some unaccountable delay in finding one, and, as a matter of fact, at 3.30 o'clock, just before the doctor arrived, Wagner expired. The cause of death was heart-disease. He died sitting in his chair, in the library, with his family, wife and children, around him. For some time past Wagner had had a presentiment of his approaching decease. He had frequently said that "Parsifal" was his last work. One of his friends asked him. "Why?" "Because," replied the composer. "I feel that I shall soon die." A subscription has been opened in Munich for the purpose of erecting in that capital a monument to the deceased musician.—London Standard.

Dore's Jokes.

Dore was a practical joker. Learning that a village priest was taken suddenly ill he established himself in the confessional box and heard the confession of a wealthy female neighbor. Meeting her at dinner, shortly after, he proposed to tell her fortune, and both alarmed and startled her by repeating the secrets of her life. On another occasion in a Swiss village, in order to win a bet that a party of English tourists would not be able to get any guides next day, he gave a ball to which he invited every guide in the neighborhood and kept it up all night, so that they had to sleep all the next day.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items.—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

At Regina, the C. P. R. engine house has been burned.

The Wilton cheese factory, Odessa, has been destroyed by fire.

James Henderson was fined $20 for assaulting Earnest Kraft at Hamilton on election day.

Mr. James Deveraux, of McKillop, was accidently kicked by a horse, and died.

A effort is being made by milltary men to have a grand review at some central point in Canada on Dominion Day.

Mr. Andrew Howard, of Amerst Island, recently caught a sturgeon in Mr. McMullen's pond which weighed 179½ pounds.

It is currently reported at Ottawa, that Right Hon. W. E. Forster, late Chief Secretary for Ireland, is to be the next Governor-General.

Romain Chabot, awaiting execution at Arthabaskaville jail for the murder of farmer Ayotte, attempted to escape, but failed.

A man named Michael Curran was remanded for examination at Montreal, charged with assaulting and cutting his wife with a knife.

The first election for Mayor and Council of Selkirk, Man., created great excitement. R. J. Brown was elected Mayor by a majority of eleven.

At Dunnville, a German named Jack Hynes, quarrelled with his wife about the deed of some property, and shot her because she refused to give it to him.

In the Seath-McCready forgery case at Montreal, the accused will have to answer for his forgeries at the Criminal Court, the Grand Jury having returned true bills against him.

UNITED STATES.

The Governor of Missouri has pardoned Clarence Hate, a noted member of the James gang.

Yosts, a wealthy New Yorker, suicided at the residence of the American consul at Dumfermline.

It was rumoured in Washington that ex-Secretary Blaine and his carriage were shot at recently while driving the streets.

At Mount Barmel, Pa., recently the old breasts at the Reliance colliery caved in, cracking a large area of the surface under nine houses.

George Carson, of New York, arrested on a charge of stealing $71,000 from the Guarantee Trust and Sale deposit Company, was discharged.

In the Pennsylvania Senate Emery denounced the Standard Oil Company as having bribed officers of the State and Legislature in past years.

After being stationary for forty eight hours and not varying an inch for a week, the river at Memphis began to recede, and has fallen very fast.

Secretary Folger has directed the special agent of the Treasury to make a thorough investigation of the subject of importation of Hawaiian sugar on the Pacific coast.

A caveat against the admission to probate the will of Henry Seybert, of Philadelphia, which bequeaths over a million to pub charities, has been presented by the heirs.

Governor Begoile, of Michigan, has received a letter from Lord Dalhousie, an English peer, inquiring as to the effects of occasional marriages with the sister of deceased wives.

During a conversation Dorsey, the Star Router, accused Judge Lilly of obtaining Reredell as a Government witness. Dorsey became excited and struck Lilly, injuring him severely.

GENERAL.

The steamer Horton reported aground near Gallipoli, has been floated.

Prince Bismarck has had a serious relapse and is now confined to his bed.

Two columns of the expedition to crush the rebels in South Oran have started.

The Spanish Government has decreed the banishment of Maceo, the Cuban refugee.

The Prince of Wales has left Berlin. A deputation of the Blucher Hussars bid him adieu.

At Melbourne a coalition Ministry, under the leadership of Mr. Graham Berry, has been formed.

Byrne has been released, the French authorities not deeming the case one for extradition.

The Danubian Conference has agreed upon the terms of a treaty, which will be signed by the Powers.

Egan has been under police supervision for some time, and left on Thursday unknown to the police.

Twenty-nine Socialists on trial at Vienna have confessed to conspiring for the murder of a wealthy manufacturer.

Advices from Wellington, New Zealand, reports that the Maori chiefs Whiti and Tohu have been released from prison.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone declined to give a day for the discussion of the Kilmainham treaty negotiations.

Serious trouble is anticipated in Paris, the Government having expressed its determination to suppress a projected Socialist demonstration.

Hodnett, son of the recently sentenced Bantry agitator, has been arrested on a charge of mailing a parcel of dymanite to Earl Spencer.

It is reported that the mysterious "No. 1" has been positively ascertained to be at present in America, and that papers have been forwarded to Washington asking for his extradition.

Advices from Tamatave, Madagascar, to Feb. 26th, announce the arrival of four French men-of-war on the north-west coast of the island. The natives were excited, and were preparing to resist the French. No British war vessel was present.

THE NEWER ARITHMETIC.

At $6 per ton how many tons of coal can be bought for $24? [The greenhorn will answer "four tons."

A stage coach robber was enabled to lay up $4,580 in ten months, but a Niagara Falls hackman salted down $5,265 in nine. How much better is it to rob at Niagara Falls than out West?

A tramp gets a cold biscuit at one house, a piece of meat at another, an old vest at the third, and the owner of the fourth house runs him three blocks with a dug. How much more does the tramp respect the fourth person than the other three combined?

It takes twenty blows of a hammer in the hands of a woman to drive a tenpenny nail three inches. She misses the nail twice where she hits it once. How many blows does she strike in all, and how far can her voice be heard when she strikes her thumb?

A gentleman who has a library of 12,000 volumes, opens ten volumes per year. At this rate how long will it take him to reach the last book?

In one month the owner of a three-minute horse lied ninety-four times regarding his speed. At this rate how many times would he lie in a year, and how would it help the speed of the horse any?

A school teacher gives a pupil fourteen paragraphs in the science of government, thirteen examples in arithmetic, three pages of history, one page of grammar, one of orthography, and half an hour writing as a daily lesson and expects him to pass 75 per cent. At this rate how long will it take her to rush them into a lunatic asylum?

If a lawyer charges a plumber $5 for advice, and the plumber charges the lawyer $5.50 for stopping a leak in a water pipe, how much is the lawyer ahead?

A saloonist buys a barrel of whisky in bulk and draws two barrels from it by the drink. There is nothing to figure on this. The figuring was all done by the saloonist.

Family Libraries.

Every family should be supplied with books, and each household should, as far as their ability will allow, procure a family library. There is no estimating the value of a few well-selected books. Children should be induced to begin early to improve their minds, and nothing draws them more to study than good, sound periodical literature, and well-selected books—books adapted to their age and progress, and their education. Money cannot be better expended. Instead of toys and perishable gifts, purchase books for your children. Every few months add something new to the library, and be sure to preserve the old works. Let there be in the house a bookcase, shelves, some places where the books and papers are deposited ; have them carefully preserved, and soon a little handful will swell into armfuls, and the minds of the children will expand with the increase of the library until a good store will be found in the house, and much knowledge will be gained by the growing children. Good books, a taste for reading will keep the children at home and make them happy in the family circle, when otherwise they will be straying off, hunting society, looking for something to engage the mind and satisfy the craving of a hungry intellect. Games and worldly amusements are substituted for books and intellectual culture where there is no library at home, no food found for the inquiring mind. Let parents think of these things. Much, very much, depends on the early training of the child, in regard to study, as well as other things.

Common Phrases.

The term blackguard has a very commonplace origin. In all great houses, particularly in royal residences, there were a number of mean and dirty dependents, whose office it was to attend to the woodyards, sculleries, etc. Of these—for in the lowest depths there are lower still—the most forlorn wretches seem to have been selected to carry coal to the kitchen, halls and other apartments. To the smutty regiment, who attended the progress and rode in the carts with the pots and kettles, which with every other article of furniture, were then moved from palace to palace, the people, in derision, gave the name "blackguards," a term since become sufficiently familiar. "To the bitter end" is clearly an old nautical expression. A dictionary, published in the first part of the eighteenth century, has "bit," a turn or part of a cable ; "biss," the main pieces of timber to which a cable is fastened when a ship rides at anchor ; "bitter," a turn of the cable about the timber called "bitts," that it may be veered out little by little; and "bitter end" (of a cable) is that part which is wound around the "bitts" when a ship rides at anchor. The modern oant expression, "to the bitter end," may have taken its rise from the old nautical words, as meaning the last coil of the cable, or from the last end, the very "bitter" dregs. It is a slang expression, another form of "I will fight you to the death." In it bitter only means pitiless, severe, like a bitter east wind, or a bitter foe.

Jumbo and the Dog.

A large mastiff, recently purchased as a companion for Jumbo, Mr. Barnum's big elephant, was introduced to the mammoth at Bridgeport. A woolly dog of inferior size was displaced by the new comer. Jumbo was greatly attached to the woolly dog, and when the mastiff was introduced evinced his displeasure by a low grumbling. Then suddenly he caught the mastiff around the body with his trunk and threw him across the building with tremendous force. The dog struck the elephant Pilot and was instantly killed. Pilot, stung by the blow, became enraged, and began charging the other elephants. There was a great trumpeting for a while, and a general elephant war seemed imminent. Finally slipnooses were got about Pilot, and he was upset and secured. During the row that Pilot made Jumbo fed calmly. Queen, the mother of the baby elephant, was a good deal exercised on behalf of her young one. Mr. Barnum superintended the catching of Pilot, who was obtained apart from his companions after he had been secured.

NORTH-WEST NOTES.

Culled from Our Prairie Provinces.

Wood in West Lynne sells at $ cord.

Portage la Prairie is applying for poration as a city.

Wheat has taken a rise of two bushel at Brandon, and now brings Prince Albert. Oats are very scarce.

Dry cordwood sells at $3.50 per

The Morris River dam will located about 600 feet up the stream Red River.

A new Post Office has been Sheppardeville, with Robert Postmaster.

A gentleman, just returned from of the Woods, reports there are beds cellent slate in that district.

Grain at Emerson is coming in very ly. Prises are a little better. No. bringa 80c. ; oats 40c.

It is estimated that there will be 000 feet of logs taken out on the the Woods and Rainy Lake this

The registry office at Marquette probably be moved to Baie St. people in that district having Engineers have commenced to surveys connected with the short is to connect Emerson with the Mountain country.

The Department of Agriculture tistics have secured a car load of Fyfe wheat for seed purposes with supply the farmers of the country.

The first pile on the new railway fic bridge across Red River, Emerson driven last Wednesday. The contract of the bridge is $200,000, to be by the first of December.

All the rails for the C. P. R. are entered at the Port of Emerson instead of at Winnipeg as heretofore. quantities of rails are arriving are being piled up adjacent to the

A petition has been in circulation been largely signed to present to John Norquay, praying to have the of Lisgar separated by the Red part on the east side to be called ents County.

Coal has been discovered six miles Prince Albert. Being near the surface be cheaply got out. Mr. Johnson tunate discoverer and proprietor, east for machinery. This will prove boon to the inhabitants of the town surrounding country.

A sample of ore taken from the peg consolidated mine, Lake of the was recently tested by the Canada Company, and the assay showed the ing percentage of twelve hundred per ton.

Work on the C. P. R. branch to West has been going on all winter swamp country along the route. be prosecuted to a greater advantage districts in the winter than in the season. It is expected the road opened for traffic about August 1st.

Brick manufacture will be commenced Selkirk West early in the spring. lent clay can be obtained. On the of the river, where brick making ried on last summer, the presence of stone in the clay prevented the manufacture of a good article.

A largely signed petition asking third of range eight be cut off from the of Portage la Prairie and added to the of High Bluff and Poplar Point ed into a separate county, has been the Government and is now in the the Executive Council. A number lic men are making a move to division.

The Winnipeg Commercial says ness difficulties in the North-West brought to light some peculiar cases. One firm went into business side town with a capital not exceeding and obtained goods to the amount 000. They failed as a natural and the mourning creditors are wondering why they happened to fools of themselves. Again we give vice 'Don't give too much credit.

Floods in England.

Even those who do not realize the tent of the suffering which these inundations are preparing for us can appreciate the dismal and desolate aspect they present to the eye of the Whole valleys are submerged, and taller trees are visible. Along the the Thames and the Kennet wide water cover the grass and the osier beds, so that only the practiced aware of their existence. The tributaries have buried all the marshy lands along the Great way, and even last week were to overflow the rails. In the Midties the Trent Valley is a similar waters; and between Leicester and the meadows are like an inland lake something weird and almost dreadful wide expanse of flood, obliterating sign of life, and suggesting only what danger and destruction. with Continental inundations the flood is but a puddle. It does whelm villages and sweep away herds. It does not devastate and make them objects of Europe thy. Yet it has its tale to tell, breadth e capes and melancholy London Standard.

It has been noted that, notwithstanding the great annual growth of London pulation and residences, nearly tons of coal less were entered for tion last year than in the year Several causes have tended to this result. The winter was cold ; had to be warmed and fed. But smoking agitation had its good stimulating inventors to make of fire-places and in inducing them. London, as well as always been wasteful in fuel more good fuel carted away in from the ash-barrels of one of of our merchants than would warmth and and cooking Parisian family for a week.

EST NOTES.

airie Provinces Fo Lynne sells at $6

is applying for i a rise of two cents and now brings 70c.

ls at $3.50 per cord
ts are very scarce.
er dam will likely eet up the stream

ce has been opened
th Robert Sheppard

t returned from the orts there are beds o t district.

n is coming in very ttle b tter. No. 1

at there will be 55, en out on the Lak
iny Lake this winter
ffice at Marquette l to Baie St. Paul rict having requeste commenced to make with the short line
erson with the Pe

of Agriculture and d a car load of par
d purposes with whi
s of the country.

the new railway and ed River, Emerson,
esday. The contract
200,000, to be comp
cember.

the C. P. R. are rt of Emerson hereaf peg as heretofore.
s are arriving daily p adjacent to the tra been in circulation a ed to present to the raying to have the C ed by the Red River ide to be called St.

liscovered six miles
Being near the surface
ut. Mr. Johnson th
r and proprietor, h
y. This will prove bitants of the town a utry.
e taken from the mine, Lake of the W ed by the Canada A e assay showed thea of twelve hundred

C. P. R. branch to going on all winter along the route. W a greater advantage winter than in the expected the road
e about August next cture will be comme
arly in the spring, obtained. On the e here brick making w mer, the presence o y prevented the manu
e.

red petition asking ght be cut off from the rairie and added to the and Poplar Point an ate county, has been t and is now in the h
Council. A number king a move to prev

g Commercial says,
s in the North-W t some peculiar circ went into business in a capital not exceedi oods to the amount led as a natural conse
ing creditors are to-d y happened to ma lves. Again we give e too much credit."

oods in England.

ne do not realize the fering which these wid e preparing for us ca al and desolate aspect to the eye of the t are submerged, and visible. Along the d the Kennet wide
e grass and the hedge that only the practice existe ce. The Lee ve buried all the h along the Great East en last week were e rails. In the Midla Valley is a similar etween Leicester and re ike an inland lake.
ird and almost dreadf of flood, obliterati nd suggesting one k and destruction.
ental inundations a a puddle. It does es and sweep away f
es not devas ate whol mi objects of European has its tale to tell, too es and melancholy
dard.

noted that, notwith
nual growth of Lond l residences, nearly ess were entered for r than in the year es have tended to pr winter was cold; mo rmed and fed. But tation had its good inventors to make th and in inducing peop don, as well as N wasteful in fuel.
uel carted away is a n-barrels of one of th ants than would serv
d and cooking facili nily for a week.

Journalist was Too Much for Him.

me time ago an Arkansas paper pub-d an article concerning a well-known ician. There was an evident lack of timent in the article, and the politician grieved. Calling his son, a young man was studying for the ministry, the r said: "Son, during your theological es you did not neglect your muscle, did

No," replied the young man, rolling s sleeves and displaying a well-devel-arm.

I am pleased to see that you have need nothing that may be of use in business. The editor of the Weekly a paper published over in Longhorn p, has insinuated that I am a liar and minently recognized thief. I do not that in justice to our family pride I ow such a departure from pleasantry unpunished. I am not feeling very yself, and I would like for you to go d maul the gentleman."

I will go," replied the young man.
ely to be revenged, but partly to ex-myself, especially as I have an ap-ment to preach in an irreligious neighrhood next Sunday, and will want prace young man went. When he entered ce he found the editor feeding a 'pos-that he had put into a barrel for fattenpurposes.

Am the son of the noted Mr. Laskins," e young man, advancing.

, you son of a gun," mused the re you talking to me?"

; I am addressing the 'possum."

have slandered my father, and I l the iniquity out of you."

re the biggest fool I ever saw."

re you addressing me?"

talking to the 'possum."

epare yourself for a death strug-ke the life out of you in a min-le" e 'possum."

fend yourself."

look out!"

struggle was characterized by an im-earnestness. The young man suf-
The next day the noted politician d a letter wrapped around the torn t of a human ear. The letter read:
ase find the remains of your

She Missed It.

man accompanied by a boy about 9 s age entered a place of business on street and inquired of, the [illegible]:

re you any cards to spare?"

y, yes, I could spare some," he d after looking around a little he reched-look out of a cigar-box and ppose I might part with these, but get a new pack for fifty cents. If orphan asylum or some such chari-call the pack ten cents."

wanted advertising cards," she ex-

Well, these advertise Dougherty and pretty well."

, but I wanted picture-cards for an

Well, I suppose you could put these in m, though I don't see what good it
. If you have your heart set on say seven cents for the lot."

, no! Come, Henry."

y followed her out, and as they
the walk he blurted out:

y, ma, what a goose you are!
didn't you offer to put up seven cents y him a five-point game to win or

An Odd Fish Caught in a Trap.

recent afternoon, as Captain Rodman alking on the Sauger shore, he dis-ed some kind of a huge fish wedged een two rocks, and nearly dead. He a boat and with help succeeded in ing it from it position and bringing the village. It measures 7 feet in and 3 feet 8 inches in circumference.
e large dorsal fin about one foot in
, and two pectoral fins of a smaller
Its head is rather pointed, with nar-, having eighty-eight teeth in the er and about one hundred in the
er. The eyes are small and almond
On the top of the head is a breath-crescent shaped, with horns pointing , and is directly over the eyes. The 's tail (which is horizontal) measure across. Its skin is perfectly smooth, ing polished ebony on its back, into a light slate color on the sides, white and pink underneath. A fish from Providence examined it, as unable to name it. Capt calls it a right whale porpoise.
evidently belongs to the dolphin
Capt. Rodman states that there very valuable, and oil extracted from head is used as a fine oil for watch-, bringing about $40 per gallon. It posed that it was in pursuit of prey ran into a natural trap of rock.—
Providence Journal.

A Baby Afloat.

morning after the fearful deluge oc-at the Cut-off, John Glazer was rowng in a light boat, when his attenwas attracted to a strange looking bobbing up and down the waves some e out. He rowed across to head the off, and discovered that it was an old ed baby cradle sitting upright in the
A few strokes of the oar drew him de of the floater, and, catching it by ge, he pulled it on toward the boat.
was his surprise when his eyes fell the form of an infant, apparently weeks old, cuddled up among the s, from which it peeped out with ated by astonishment and fear. The fant was carefully lifted from his un-ted and placed in the skiff, the which had sheltered it being forgotten excitement, and left to pursue its journey toward the Father of Waters.
ld was comfortably dressed in swadclothes. As to who its parents were re they lived, not the slightest clue be found.—Louisville Courier-Jour-

THE FEDERAL LIFE.

First Annual Meeting of This Association.

INTERESTING REPORTS AND STATISTICS.

The First Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Federal Life Assurance Company was held on the afternoon of Tuesday the 6th inst at the Company's offices in Hamilton, and was very largely attended. The President, Mr. D. B. Chisholm, occupied the chair. Notices of meeting were accepted as read, and after the minutes of the first general meeting were read and confirmed, the President called upon the Manager to read the following report and statement:

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

GENTLEMEN,—Your Directors have pleasure in placing before you the first report and statement of the affairs of the Company, for the broken year ending the 31st day of December last, covering a period of about six months' business operations.

Notwithstanding the limited number of agents at our command, and the active competitions of older companies, through which the business of a young company must necessarily be somewhat prejudiced, we had written at the end of December, after a careful scrutiny of the applications, 254 Policies of Assurance, ammounting in the aggregate to $404,350.

A considerable number of applications were declined, as, in the judgment of your Directors, they did not represent risks sufficiently good to be entertained. Nearly all of the risks approved are for small ammounts, rauging from $,1000 to $3,000 each, averaging on the whole about $1,500 each; hence we have only been obliged to effect reinsurance in two instances. The greater portion of this assurance is written upon the Ordinary Life and Yearly Renewable plans, consequently the aggregate income from first premiums is not large, and the required reserve is small.

We have no reason to doubt a continuance of the progress already made in obtaining business, or that the very satisfactory amount of business done in the past few months may not be exceeded during the same term of the present year, with the hearty co-operation we feel assured every shareholder will accord to the Manager and Agents of the Company.

Owing to the organization and the opening up of agencies in the maritime Provinces and Manitoba, as well as the limited time we had in which to secure business before the close of the year, our expenses are proportionately heavy as compared with our income, more so than they would have been if distributed over a whole year's business, although in any event the expenses in obtaining new business are heavy, and in the absence of renewal premiums must appear abnormally large. However it must be borne in mind that the present necessary outlay in establishing agencies, and bringing our company before the public is an investment that will be principally realizable in the business of coming years, and is not properly chargeable, except in part, as expenses of the few months business we had in last year.

It affords us pleasure to be able to state that up to the present time we have not been advised of any claim against the Company through death.

Your Directors have applied to the Dominion Parliament for an Act to incorporate this Company under the name and title of "The Federal Life Assurance Company," and giving it some broader powers than it has at present; also to remove any doubt that may exist as to the powers conferred by an Act of the Provincial Legislature, which the Company was incoporated and under which it was organized, though licensed by the Dominion Government to do business throughout Canada.

A copy of this bill is herewith submitted.

The whole issue of capital stock ($700,000.00) has been subscribed.

In accordance with the terms of the Act of Incorporation the Directors all retire, but are eligible for re-election.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) D. B. CHISHOLM
President.

(Signed) DAVID DEXTER, Managing Director.

Hamilton, March 6th, 1883.

Guarantee Capital $700,000.00.

RECEIPTS.

Capital Stock	$63,755 00
Premium	11,120 83
Interest	285 14
Accrued Interest	1,307 96
		$81,163 93

PAYMENTS.

Reinsurance	$ 103 25
Establishing Agencies	2,221 18
Agents' salaries travelling expenses, etc	2,663 01
Head office salaries	2,217 88
Medical fees	432 50
Expense account	2,057 65
Agents' commissions	1,946 11
		$11,641 53
		$69,827, 35

Accounted for as follows:

Government deposit	$51,100 00
Bills receivable	6,877 03
Interest accrued but not due.	1,307 96
Loans on Policies	929, 28
Premiums in course of transmission	2,157 29
Office furniture	832 56
Preliminary expense	2,587 25
Cash on hand and in bank	1,960 88
Suspense account	2,075 10
		$69,827 35

Examined and found correct
H. STEPHENS, Auditor.

Hamilton 5th March, 1883.

The President and Directors of the Federal Life Assurance Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I have completed the audit of the affairs of your Company for the broken year terminating 31st December last. The books, vouchers, etc., have been carefully examined and found correct. The securities have also been compared with the statements annexed and their accuracy verified.—Respectfully submitted, (Signed) H. STEPHENS, Auditor.

Hamilton, 5th March, 1883.

The President, in moving the adoption of the report, referred to the many difficulties a young company has to contend with in coming before the public for a share of patronage, notwithstanding which the Directors were able to show a large amount of business done in the short time at their disposal, from commencement of active business to the end of the year, when the books were closed for the purposes of this report; and in complimentary terms spoke of the agents of the company now in the field, saying that with the agencies now open and in course of organization he believed the Company would largely increase its business this year over the corresponding broken period of last year.

Mr. Thomas Holtby, of Brampton, seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Messrs. S. C. Smoke, H. T Crawford and Rev. W. Kettlewell were appointed scrutineers and the ballot proceeded with for the election of Directors, resulting in the election of the following Board: Rev. Wm. Williams, Woodstock; Messrs. D. B. Chisholm, Jas. H. Beatty, Thorold; Robert Barber, Streetsville; Wm. Kerns, M. P. P., Burlington; Hon. E. McLeod, St. John, N. B.; Rev. J. Wakefield, Goderich; David Dexter, Hamilton.; Thos. Holtby, Brampton; Sheriff Patrick, Brockville; Thos. H. Wilson, M. D., Hamilton; W. B. Chisholm, Oakville; E. Chown, Kingston; M. H. Aikins, M. D., Burnhamthorpe; Ehos. Blanshard, Nelson; E. S. Whipple, Hamilton; George E. Foster, M. P., King's County, N. B.; Col. John Land, Hamilton; Jas Hough, Guelph; Josiah Wood, M. P., Sussex, N. B.; C. H. Gooderham, Toronto; Jas Lord, Montreal; Rev. J. G. Scott, Guelph; J. A. Van Wart, Fredericton, N. B.; George Scott, St. Thomas.

After announcement of the names of the Board-elect, a very pleasant and harmonious meeting was closed by the usual votes of thanks to the Boards of Directors, Executive Committee and scrutineers.

At a subsequent meeting of the new Board Mr. D. B. Chisholm was elected President and Messrs. Jas. H. Beatty and Robert Barber Vice-Presidents.

A Long Answer to a Short Question.

"I suppose one of these days that they will have special cars for smokers and special cars for men and special cars for women, and special—" "Well," interrupted the conductor, "when they have special cars for men and special cars for women, I want to run eighteen hours a day on the men's car in preference to twelve hours a day on the woman's car." "Why, so?" inquired the individual. The conductor was about to reply, but the car was diverging from Tremont street to enter Shawmut avenue (why one is called a street and the other an avenue has not been settled as yet by the savants of the Boston Society) when the bell was pulled violently. "Conductor," shouted a female, one of a trio who had risen simultaneously from their seats, "don't this car go up Tremont street?" "No, madame," replied the conductor, with the suavity of a Chesterfield. "And why didn't you tell me so?" she screamed. "I did not know where you wished to go. You stopped the car, if my memory serves me, without asking our route." "Don't talk to me, sir; don't talk to me." "Impertinent fellow!" exclaimed the second. "Just as though he didn't know," chimed in the third. The trio bounced into the street. The conductor, without any evident excitement, pulled the bell and the car moved on. "I asked you a question just now, but you needn't answer it—I see, I see."—Boston Journal.

A Priest Murdered at the Altar.

A horrible crime is reported from Constantinople. Every Friday—the Turkish Sabbath—prayers for the Sultan are read in all mosques. During Divine service recently at the Mosque of Sultan Achmet, one of the finest buildings in the capital, the Imaum, or priest, mounted the pulpit to perform this duty, at a moment when the sacred edifice was crowded with the faithful.

The priest was on the point of reciting the prayer in question, when suddenly a Softa, or religious student, who had followed him up the steps of the pulpit, drew a yataghan, which he had concealed in the folds of his garment, and, exclaiming in a loud voice, "What! you would pray for a man who is bringing this country to ruin?" split his head open.

The congregation looked on aghast while the assassin quietly descended from the pulpit, seemingly indifferent about making his escape, and remarked that Abdul Hamid had no right to be the chief of the faithful, as he had not fulfilled any of the obligations of his position.

No attempt was made by those present to arrest him, and some even attempted to favor his escape. The assassin was ultimately captured by the police, and by the Sultan's orders removed to Yildiz Kiosk, where he is confined pending his examiuation.

By Telephone.

An Irishman at a St. Louis livery stable wa the other day deluded into giving a brief sketch of his life, where he came from in Ireland, where his brother was, what his daughter Kate was doing, who were his nearest neighbors there and other details of personal and family history, mainly interesting to himself. A short time after one of the party withdrew and betook himself to a neighboring telephone. McNeal, the Irishman, was asked if he wouldn't like to hear from Ireland by telephone. In a state of delight he went to an instrument asking "Who's there?" The answer came back: "This is Kate O'Neal, Bally James Duff, Ireland." "Meella Murhder," exclaimed Mike, dropping the trumpet. "I recognize her vice," Grabbing the trumpet, he yelled out: "I'm your own father. I'm in St. Luce, Missouri, United States of America." "Uncle Jerry is well," replied the voice. "He went to town to day. I got yer last letter. Uncle Jerry is goin' to take Toby Mealin's land. Give my love to mother." The voice was silent and McNeal hung up the trumpet, saying: "Howly Moses, what an age of invenshun this is."

A hotel clerk named Briscoe,
Stumped his foot out in 'Frisco,
It hurt him like thunder,
But the pain wes got under,
By St. Jacobs Oil rubbed on histoe.

A conductor who lives at Belair,
Got hurt, being thrown on a chair,
They took him away
But in less than a day
St. Jacobs Oil made him all square.

"If I were as fat as you," said a Western newspaper reporter to a local politician, who turned the scales at three hundred and fifty pounds and who had brusquely declined to be interviewed, "If I were as fat as you I'd die and give my heirs a chance to start a soap factory."

Crossing the Ocean Without a Cent.

A prominent gentlemen went to Madrid; while there he was taken ill. He telegraphed that his three children, the eldest of whom is a young lady of eighteen, should be sent over. They started last week, but just as the vessel steamed from the dock the young lady called out that her pocket had been picked and that all of the money intended for the journey was gone. As the family are rich it was likely a considerable amount, and as she was to meet her father in Madrid it was all in cash, there being no letter of credit; a precaution usually taken. The day after the children had sailed the father cabled that he had gone to London to consult a physician there, and that they should await his advices in Madrid. The situation of the young lady and her two charges is an awkward one, but apart from the worry there can be no unpleasant results. The father will, of course, learn the circumstance by cable and will send orders to have his children taken care of at the Spanish port, at which they land. But to cross the ocean without a penny in one's purse, though all wants may be supplied, and meet strangers on the other side, is an experience no one wishes to undergo.

The whole country speaks as one man in reference to the reliability and efficacy of Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is a radical, efficient, prompt, and painless remedy for corns. If you have corns to annoy you hesitate no longer, but try the great and only sure corn cure, Putnam's Extractor. Sure, Safe, and painless. Dangerous imitations are being offered by some. Be not imposed upon by such. Putnam's, the genuine. Ask for it. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, proprictors.

Stiff in opinion, always in the wrong.—Dryden.

CATARRH—A New Treatment whereby a Permanent Cure is effected in from one to three applications. Particulars and treatise free on receipt of stamp. A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King-St. West, Toronto, Canada.

The mind grows narrow in proportion as the soul grows corrupt.—Rosseau.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?—If so, you can testify to its marvellous powers of healing, and recommend it to your friends. We refer to Briggs' Magic Relief, the great specific for all summer complaints, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, dysentery, cramps, colic, sickness of the stomach, and bowel complaints.

The soul without imagination is what an observatory would be without a telescope.—Beecher.

No person can enjoy health while suffering Constipation of the Bowels. Harsh purgatives always do harm. Burdock Blood Bitters is Nature's own Cathartic; it unlocks the secretions, regulates, purifies and strengthens the system. (7)

Better be unborn, than untaught, for ignorance is the root of misfortune.—Plato.

Many sink into an early grave by not giving immediate attention to a slight cough which could be stopped in time by the use of a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Wistar's Pulmonic Syrup.

"Alas! that so many people look upon religion simply as a fire-escape!" exclaimed a southern preacher.

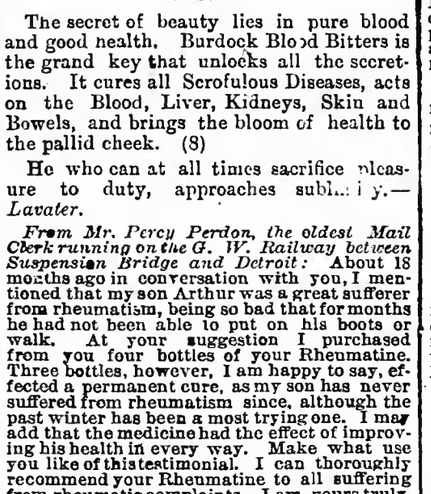
The worst Scrofulous Sores, the most indolent Tumor, and the most foul Ulcer known, may be cured by the combined use of Burdock Bitters and Burdock Healing Ointment. Ask your Druggist for these infallible remedies. (9)

Talmage says that souls in heaven will wave palm branches all the time. This upsets the theory that there are no fleas in heaven.

A RUB FOR LIFE—Sixteen miles were covered in two hours and ten minutes by a lad sent for a bottle of Briggs' Electric Oil. Good time, but poor policy to be so far from a drug store without it.

A Londoner advertises a powder which will prevent cats running around and making a noise at night. It is black and is put into the gun and make a noise itself.

A Secret.



The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the secretions. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the pallid cheek. (8)

He who can at all times sacrifice pleasure to duty, approaches sublimity.—Lavater.

From Mr. Percy Perdon, the oldest Mail Clerk running on the G. W. Railway between Suspension Bridge and Detroit: About 18 months ago in conversation with you, I mentioned that my son Arthur was a great sufferer from rheumatism, being so bad that for months he had not been able to put on his boots or walk. At your suggestion I purchased from you four bottles of your Rheumatine. Three bottles, however, I am happy to say, effected a permanent cure, as my son has never suffered from rheumatism since, although the past winter has been a most trying one. I may add that the medicine had the effect of improving his health in every way. Make what use you like of this testimonial. I can thoroughly recommend your Rheumatine to all suffering from rheumatic complaints. I am, yours truly, PERCY PERDON, Agent Great Western Railway. J. N. SUTHERLAND, Esq., St. Catharines.

A Boston woman has just completed a $20,000 mansion ensirely out of the proceeds from the sale of doughnuts. Our slangy contributor thinks she must have had the kind of customers that "took the cake."

"A. P." 116

Could Hardly Stand on Her Feet.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I must tell you what your medicine has done for me. Before taking your "Favorite Prescription" I could hardly stand on my feet, but, by following your advice I am perfectly cured. The "Favorite Prescription" is a wonderful medicine for debility and nervous females. I cannot express how thankful I am to you for your advice. Yours truly, MRS. CORNELIA ALLISON, Peosta, Ia.

The Arizona papers are bewailing the death of Wagner, because, they say, he was the only man who ever had the nerve to start an opposition to the Pullman Car Company.

The World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., destroyed by fire a year ago, is rebuilt and full of patients. For "Invalid's Guide Book." giving particulars and terms of treatment, address, with two stamps, "World's Dispensary Medical Association," Buffalo, N. Y.

"Yes," says Mrs. Parvenu, whose husband used to shovel gravel in California, "yes, our house is furnished in the very latest Aunt Teek style from top to bottom. You know my husband keeps up with the times, if it takes a leg!"

Young, middle-aged, or old men, suffering from nervous debility or kindred affections, should address, with two stamps, for large treatise. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The new discovery that kissing cures freckles may be all right, but the difficulty with a youth that has the complexion of an African leopard is that he can't get any girl to kiss him.

VEGETINE is now prescribed in cases of Scrofula, and other diseases of the blood, by many of the best physicians, owing to its great success in curing all diseases of this nature.

"Yes, sir," said the wood dealer, "I prefer to sell wood to the men who do their own sawing. You can't convince a man who has worked all day at a wood pile that there isn't a full cord of it."

Any person having a bald head and failing to see the benefit to be derived from the great petroleum hair renewer, Carboline, as now improved and perfected, in the face of the vast number of testimonials from our very best citizens, is surely going it blind.

Sleight-of-hand—Refusing the offer of marriage.

Remarkable and True.

Alonzo Howe, of Tweed, was cured of a fever sore of thirty-five years' duration, by six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. He had suffered terribly, and tried many remedies in vain. He considers Burdock Blood Bitters a marvellous medicine. (10)

The 'pothecary clerk and the bartender mix in all kinds of company.

A Hearty Recommendation.

Jacob A. Empey, of Cannamore, states that he has taken Burdock Blood Bitters with great benefit in a lingering complaint, and adds that he would gladly recommend it to all. (11)

And now coffins are sold on the instalment plan. The next thing in this line will be "misfit caskets a specialty."

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing tonic—Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your Druggist for proof. (12)

"Sis, give me a lively subject for my composition!" said little Ben; and his sister Martha quietly replied: "Fleas."

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Longfellow evidently paid his fare like a man. Didn't he write in "Excelsior," "Try not the pass, the old man said?"

Vegetine

AM CURED.

BOSTON, March 22, 1881

MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I suffered from Canker a great while, and tried most every well known remedy to cure me, but to no avail. At last bought a bottle of VEGETINE, which helped me, and I continued to use it Now I can truly say I am permanently cured

Yours very truly,
MISS L. A. SPOONER,
3 Hawthorne pl.

JUST WHAT YOU NEED.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 5, 1881,

MR. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have used your VEGETINE, and always found it just what I needed. I would recommend it to all as a great blood purifier. Yours very respectfully,
MRS. M. J. CHURCHILL,
6 Pinckney St.

THE CANCER MEDICINE.

NEWMARKET, Ont., March 21, 1881.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have used your VEGETINE for Cancer, and can cheerfully say it did more good than the doctor's medicines or any other remedy I used, and I would recommend it to every one troubled with Cancer or Cancerous Humor.

Yours truly,
THOS. GILL, Yonge St.

I hereby certify that I know the above party and know his statement to be true.
JAMES KELMAN, Druggist.

FOR GENERAL DEBILITY.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 17, 1881.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.: Dear Sir—As I have used your medicine, VEGETINE, for some time I have pleasure in recommending it to sufferers from General Debility and diseases arising from impurities of the blood.

Yours respectfully,
HORACE MERRILL, SR.,
Lumber Merchant.

Vegetine

PREPARED BY

H. R. Stevens, Toronto, Ont.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

DYSPEPSIA & LIVER COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use according'y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

The London Graphic announces the birth of "three young children."

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

"Rounds at applause" help an actor to the top of the ladder of fame.

We have a speedy and positive cure, for Catarah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in SHHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal Injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

"Sambo, did you ever see the Catskill Mountains?'—"No, sah; but I've seen um kill mice."

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.

Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgement in taking care of the health of your self and family. If you are Bilious, have sallow complexion, poor appetite, low and depressed spirits, and generally debilitated, do not delay a moment, but go at once and procure a bottle of those Electric Bitters, which never fail to cure, and that for the trifling sum of fifty cents.—Tribune. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

An architect proposes to build a Bachelors' hall, which will differ from most houses in having no eves.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend in deed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with diseases, more particularly those complaints and weakness so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are Woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co.

Housewife—"Before I you employ must I you ask, 'Have you a lover?" Servant maiden—One! I should smile!"

NEVER GIVE UP.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery wil cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by A. Turner & Co., Markdale.

If "all the world's stage, and men and women merely players," where are the audience and orchestra to come from?

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

"Yes, the electric light is a great invention," muttered Flub, as he felt about the door, "an' every key hole should have one!"

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE.

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40.

A Cortland man who read at the end of a friend's marriage notice, "No cards," sent him a euchre deck by the first mail.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty-five cents per bottle at Hill Bros. General Store, Markdale. 127-40

Wm. Lucas & Co, bankers, Markdale, have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

Toledo has one of the most exemplary Christian young ladies we ever knew. When kissed on the right cheek she always turns the left also.

The United States use two tons of hairpins daily.

The remains of a man have been dug out of the ruins of Pompeii, with both hands resting on his stomach. The building in which he was found is supposed to have been a cheap restaurant.

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF FISH

JUST TO HAND IN Barrels

CHEAP For CASH ONLY.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Feb'y. 8th, 1883.

GROCERIES

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S

LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S

Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S

Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S

MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S

Pork, Pork, Pork.

McINTYRE'S

Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first-class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th, 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.

My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

SUGAR KETTLE

TO THE FARMERS!

SUGAR KETTLES OF THE BEST QUALITY AT

MARKDALE FOUNDR

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.

WOOD & OLD IRON TAKEN IN EXCHAN

MOFFAT BROS.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photograph

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,

Do Copying and Enlarging in good s

FRAMES and FRAME FIXIN

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULME

R. J. Sproule's

ANNUAL

Clearing Sale

Is now going on and

WILL CONTINUE

UNTIL THE

20th of March.

Call early and secure bargains.

Heavy importations of Spring goods are now on the way, and our present large stock must be cleared out and will be sold out at and under cost.

Markdale PUMP Facto

J. G. IRVING,

MAKER OF ALL KINDS OF PUMPS,

DROP VALVE PUMPS, CYLINDER PUMPS, CISTERN PU

FORCE PUMPS,

Also, ALL KINDS OF IRON PUMPS SUPPLIED.

Satisfaction guaranteed on all my work; the proof of it is from fact that I am doing a larger business now than ever was done in M the Pump business. Remember the stand, 1 door north of Rutledge

Sydenham Street, Markdale.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self-cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

Get your Job Work done at this office.

FARM FOR SAL

100 ACRES—being Lot 30, Glenelg. This farm is from Markdale, with about 40 acre balance, hardwood bush with for fencing the place. It is with never failing stream of Young orchard, log house, and deed can be given. For price and ply to MRS. MIGHT, on the dale P. O.—Also a farm waggon mill for sale

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 28. MARKDALE, ONT., MAR. 22, 1883. No. 132.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

$1 Per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

$2 if not paid till ... No paper discontinued ... except at the ... and parties refusing ... will be held responsible ... subscriptions until they ...

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

...	$50 00
... do. do. ...	27 50
... do. do. ...	15 00
... do. do. ...	8 00
... do. do. ...	4 00
... ten lines, first insertion per line	8
... subsequent insertion ...	3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid Nonpareil. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 10 o'clock on the Wednesday preceding their publication.

JOB PRINTING

Of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

S. Ghent, M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University, Viet. College. ... New York, and ... Graduate, of the same, ... Ayleth Medical Institute. ... Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member of Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND. Preparations given to the preservation of Natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

A. Cameron, M.D., & L.F.P.& S. Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession.

January 9th, 1883. 122-74.

Legal.

Frost & Frost.

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Flesherton. Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

ALFRED FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT.

Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Postlett St., and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

Creasor & Morrison.

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

Over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to loan on reasonable terms.

JOHN CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON.

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-ly

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Sept. 17. 1880. 1-y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

BYRENS & McCASKILL

PROPRIETORS.

THIS popular Hotel has changed hands and the above men cater to the wants of the public. Good stabling and attentive hostlers. The best brands of liquor and cigars, good meals and comfortable rooms, large commercial room. Barber shop in connection. 130-ly.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

THE undersigned having purchased the above property has had it thoroughly renovated and refurnished throughout beside making other new improvements, which will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of his guests, would respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally. The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meal and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler.—C. H. MATHEWS, Prop. 114

Markdale Hotel.

Good Accommodation for Travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate.

Markdale. A. RUTLEDGE, PROP.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AN DSTONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, April 2nd at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

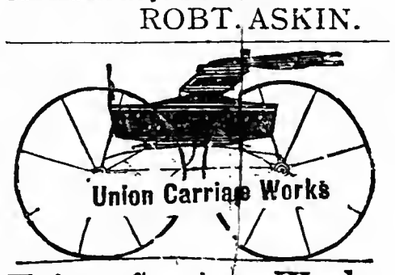
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Commen to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Bst Improved Style, and finished with English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executedn the shortest possible time consistent with goodworkmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, oppite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 188 64.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDLE.

GENER'L BLAKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIATY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKRS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amous, at all times, on good endorsed note or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT PER CENT.

Allowed on Savis Deposits.

Drafts issued and ollections made on points, at lowest rate

W. M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

W. G. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTETOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th 83. 124ly

WARNING.

ALL NOTES AN OVERDUE ACcounts not paituring the present month will be handed for collection.

H. FOSTER.

Markdale, March 1, 1883. 131-3t

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

GREY DIVISION GRANGE No. 2.

Report of Semi-Annual Meeting Held in Y. M. C. A. Rooms, Owen Sound, January 25th, 1883.

OWEN SOUND, January 25th, 1883.

Grey Division Grange met at Young Men's Christian Association Rooms at 10:30 a. m.

The W. M. not being present it was moved by Bro. H. Reid, seconded by Bro. D. R. Ellis, that Bro. R. J. Doyle take the chair pro tem.—Carried.

W. M. then appointed Bro. H. Reid Overseer, and Bro. D. Armstrong Steward.

Grange opened in due form.

Moved by Bro. Jas. Brodie, seconded by Bro. Inkster, that the minutes of last meeting be considered read.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. G. Stewart, seconded by Bro. H. Palmer, that Bro. James Brodie be Auditor.—Lost.

Moved by Bro. H. Reid, seconded by Bro. D. R. Ellis, that Bro. H. Palmer be Auditor.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. D. Armstrong, seconded by Bro. G. Stewart, that Bros. Reid, Stewart and Ellis, and Sister Doyle be a committee to strike Standing Committees.—Carried.

Bros. Kennedy and Armstrong were appointed a Committee on Credentials, who reported as follows:

Bro. Kennedy, Sauble Grange 824,
" D. Armstrong, Hawthorn Grange 364.
" J. Brodie, Artemesia Grange 259.
" John Weber, " " "
" G. Dale, Artemesia Centre Grange 458.
" G. Stewart, " " "
" J. Hickling, Hickling Grange 381.
" J. Inkster, " " "
" B. White, St. Vincent Grange 15.
Bro. R. J. Doyle, Owen Sound Grange 421.
" Robt. Walker, " " "
" H. D. Irwin, Orange Valley Grange 326.
" W. McLoughrey " " "
" Thos. Mann, Markdale Grange 334.
" H. Palmer, St. Vincent Grange 15.
" D. R. Ellis, New England Grange 312.
" H. Reid, Hawthorne Grange 364.

Moved by Bro. Kennedy, seconded by Bro. Armstrong, that this report be received, adopted, and engrossed on the minutes.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. H. Palmer, seconded by Bro. H. D. Irwin, that no member speak more than once on any subject, nor longer than five minutes, without permission of the Grange.—Carried.

Grange allowed fifteen minutes to Bro. Kennedy to explain how certain dealers in Toronto do business with the Granges. When time had expired the Grange was so much pleased that another fifteen minutes was voted to Bro. Kennedy when he gave some interesting facts about the butter trade.

Committee to strike Standing Committees presented their report. Adoption moved by Bro. H. Reid, seconded by Bro. D. R. Ellis.—Carried.

Bro. T. Blezard, M. P. P., East Peterborough, being present was called on to address the Grange, which he done, giving a very pleasing and instructive address.

12:45 the Grange adjourned till 2 p. m.

Grange resumed business at 2 p. m. Treasurer read report.

Moved by Bro. Palmer, seconded by Bro. D. R. Ellis, that the Treasurer's report be received and adopted.—Carried.

Bro. H. Palmer read Report on Stock.

Moved by Bro. H. Palmer, seconded by Bro D. R. Ellis, that Report on Stock be received and adopted.—Carried.

Report on Education presented by Bro. H. D. Irwin.

Moved by Bro. H. D. Irwin, seconded by Bro. B. White, that Report on Education be received and adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. D. Armstrong, seconded by Bro. S. Stewart, that the different Committees meet the day previous to the ordinary meeting to prepare their reports, as we find it takes too much time at the meeting.—Carried.

Report of Committee on Horticulture presented by Bro. J. Weber.

It was moved, seconded and carried that report be received and adopted.

Repot of Committee on Jurisdiction presented by Bro. Wm. McLoughrey.

It was moved, seconded and carried that report be received and adopted.

Report on Seed Grain presented by Bro. Hugh Reid.

Moved by Bro. Hugh Reid, seconded by Bro. D. Armstrong, that erport now read be received and adopted.—Carried.

Secretary presented his Report. It was moved, seconded and carried that the Report be referred to the Auditors.

Moved by Bro. J. Kennedy, seconded by Bro. H. D. Irwin, that the Committee on Municipal Law and Education shall bring in a special report in detail at half yearly meeting in July next for Legislative or other practical purposes.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. H. Reid, seconded by Bro. Geo. Stewart, that this Grange approve the Bill now before the Legislature of Ontario for establishing three Model Creameries, and request the Secretary to take immediate steps to procure memorials from each subordinate grange in this Division to the Government to establish one of these institutions in the County of Grey, and that the Master and Secretary be requested to petition the Government without delay to the same effect,—Carried.

Moved in amendment by Bro. Jas. Bowes, seconded by Bro. Thos. Mann, that a copy of the Bill be sent to each sub-grange so that they consider it.—Lost.

Moved by Bro. D. Armstrong, seconded by Bro. G. Stewart, that the delegates to this meeting be paid their expenses, and that the Master appoint a Committee to examine the accounts presented by the delegates.—Carried.

(Continued next week.)

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES.

A Romance of the Opera and the Concert Hall—The Princess Clotilde.

Married by Mules—Small-Talk for the Ladies—Chit-Chat.

A Strange Romance.

"Speaking of the vicissitudes of professional people," said the manager of one of the Bowery museums to a New York writer, "let me narrate to you a touching experience that came under my observation recently, and which I know to be true

"A respectably attired lady, about 35 years of age, clad in thin, faded garments that had once been fashionable, applied to me for an engagement as vocalist. I was compelled to decline her services. But, noticing that the lady was better educated than the generality of people who come to us, I held her in conversation for a few moments, and elicited the fact that a child of hers was lying dead at No — Clinton place, and that she had no means of burying it. She told me a pitiful tale of being in arrears for rent, and confessed she had just pawned her shawl in order to buy food. She expected to be dispossessed, and saw no way to meet her pressing needs save by an engagement. Hence her visit to me. We see so many beats in our line that I have come to be habitually suspicious of all agony yarns, but there was something in her manner that convinced me that she was not a fraud. She pleaded so earnestly that I gave her permission to sit down at the piano and try what she could do. Much to the astonishment of everyone present she sang in a sweet, cultured voice a selection from "Traviata" in Italian. She then gave in a most bewitching manner the German song, "Der Wasserfal." Her voice was thin, but remarkably full in its quality, and far superior to anything we have ever had in this museum. She was given an engagement, and remained with us three weeks. Day after day other facts in her history came to light, and now I will tell you the story of her life:

"Mme. H——was born in London. She was highly educated and received her early musical training in the conservatoire at Milan. She became passionately fond of music, and according to her urgent request, her parents permitted her to accept an engagement under the direction of Col. Mapleson in 1879. Her voice developed into a rich and florid soprano, and to her was assigned the duty of supporting Nilsson, Patti, and Gerster. Her contracts were renewed, and she came to America. For the first three years she got along exceedingly well, and at the expiration of her engagement with Col. Mapleson accepted another under Max Strackosh, and went south. This venture was not so successful. She consequently returned to New York, where she made the acquaintance of a handsome, accomplished man, who turned out to be the villain in her life's melodrama. He is a German by birth, for he is still living, and a baron in his own right, although he has not advertised the fact. She married him, and from the date of her marriage her woes commenced. They lived happily at first, but with her declining fortunes he grew careless and indifferent to her needs. With her savings she organized an opera bouffe company, which proved a failure in one of the eastern cities. Her luggage was seized and her company broke up. Then her husband died. She again returned to New York, and commenced an action for divorce against her husband for cruelty and abandonment, and although the court awarded her $50 a week alimony, not one cent of it has been paid. Being a capital singer of the German volels, she readily found employment in one or two of the better class of summer beer gardens. The constant dread of meeting those who had known her in better times caused her to relinquish this means of support. She next procured an engagement in the choir of an up-town Roman Catholic church. Then, worn down by cold, worry, and exposure, she was taken seriously ill for several weeks. Matters grew desperate, until finally want of food compelled her to come to me. At the close of her engagement with us she obtained other 'turns' in similar establishments where her history was unknown and she was safe from discovery. Since then she has been fortunate enough to obtain another regular engagement in a Catholic choir, where she sings on Sundays and high festivals. Her earnest wish is to obtain a few pupils to enable her to make out sufficient for the support of herself and her child. In addition to her musical accomplishments she speaks Italian, German, and French, and French fluently. She is thoroughly well bred and powerfully realizes that she can never fill her old position on the operatic stage."

The Princess Clothilde.

Between the young princess (say Paris Figaro), whose proud yet timid graces so won the heart of the imperial court, and the lonely chateau of "Moncalleri" there would seem to be a great difference, but in reality there is none. The Princess Clothilde has always and everywhere remained the same; always superior to her fate—always noble and of the bravest and truest among women. In this daughter of Victor Emmanuel a childlike simplicity and a heroic character are strangely blended. Without being beautiful, the princess is charming; without being haughty, she inspires respect by her native dignity. She is now 38 years of age, and has snow-white hair. A blonde in her youth, a premature snow has powdered her abundant and beautiful tresses. At present she is only a mother in all the majesty of that title.

When she arrived in Paris for her marriage she was scarce 16 years old, and the day of the wedding was marked by a little incident which made her very unhappy. After the ceremony a grand breakfast was given at the Palais Royal. Then the prince wished to leave immediately for Mandon, and in hastening the departure of his young wife she lost one of her slippers, but dared not make her loss known. It was not the prince who restored the slipper in this case, but a messenger, sent in great haste from Paris, who ceremoniously deposited a sealed packet in the hands of one of the maids of honor. Judge of the confusion of the princess when she was obliged to open the mysterious parcel before her husband. She became purple, and appeared more charming than ever through the veil of her blushes, as she stood like a child fearing to be scolded.

Profoundly pious, the Princess Marie Clothilde was as true to her convictions amid all the splendors of the Palais Royal as she has since been in the solitude of "Moncalleri." Amid the gayety of Paris she regulated her life as if she was in a convent. Rising at a very early hour, she fulfilled her duties of piety and charity most faithfully, while she neither disdained nor repulsed the world in which it was her duty to appear. Her natural grace and true benevolence lent an unspeakable charm to any relations held with her, even the most official. At 10 o'clock the princess would have been only too glad to retire, but she felt that she must attend the receptions, the court balls, and the gala theatrical representations, though she would have deemed it much more meritorious could she have seated herself at the bedside of some suffering woman and ministered to her needs with her own beautiful hands.

On Sept. 4th, 1870, the doors of the Palais Royal were thrown open for the last time, and in splendid apparel, in her carriage with the royal arms on every panel, with the domestics in gala livery, the Princess Clothilde, accompanied by her three children, drove out of those gates and through the streets of Paris for the last time, receiving the salutations of the people as she passed with her royal suite, while her heart was throbbing with the greatest emotion. She came as the daughter of a king—she departed as the daughter of a king. After living at Prongius on the lake of Geneva for some time, she finally retired to the chateau of "Moncalleri." Her sons have always passed their vacations with her there, and her daughter, Marie Letitia, never leaves her mother. In France we have only seen the little princess in the laces and ruffles of her dainty infancy, but she is now a young girl of great beauty, and intelligence, and charitable like her mother. She divides with her cousin, the "Prince of Naples," the adoration of the people of the environs of Turin. She is their little princess and he their little prince. The shadow of the gallant grandfather seems to fall on those two buds of the old tree of "Savoy." At "Moncalleri," a fashionable Parisian lives with two princesses. The Baroness Barofer accepts this life of exile and solitude out of pure devotion and friendship. The chateau of Moncalleri is the nest from whence all the children of Victor Emmanuel were fledged, and in the associations of the place the eldest daughter has found again the sweet dreams of her girlhood, the dear remembrances of the past. Great-grandniece of Marie Antoinette, and, like Marie Louise, sacrificed for reasons of state, this Christian woman has never allowed herself to bemoan her fate. The daughters of kings do not seem destined for happy wives. There remains, however, for the Princess Clothilde that which will suffice her noble soul: God, the love of her children, and the respect of all men.

Married by a Drove of Mules.

A little circumstance happened in Richmond, Va., last fall, that bore great issue. A trifle as light as air, yet it made a man and a woman meet that but for this episode would never have known each other. As it is society talk, of course everyone knows it, and I will narrate it just to show what inconsiderate events, which some call chance and others fate, shape our lives. A large drove of mules, just after dark, were taken from the cars of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, and corraled, but something stampeded them, and they dashed up the street, a half hundred or so, with all the clattering and fire of a squadron of cavalry at full charge. Pedestrians hugged the sidewalk or hurried into the nearest open door, and then looked pantingly at the dim, rushing mass. Now it happened that a young lady from Boston, Mass., who was on a visit, was coming from a friend's house, and just as she was crossing the street the head of the column came toward her with the velocity of an express-train on a down-grade. It was so sudden that her presence of mind failed her, and she stood directly in the pathway of the advancing drove. A thrilling tableau it must have been. She clasped her hands, and the light of the lamps showed her dilated eyes and rigid figure. A dreadful death seemed inevitable, when a gentleman passing by, with a valise in his hand, saw her. Like a flash he was by her side, and swinging her with a rapid motion to him, he carried her to the sidewalk just as the thundering mass passed by in the darkness. The danger was over, but she was too unnerved to continue her way. He offered his arm, and together they proceeded to her house. She thanked her deliverer. He presented his card—Mr. Louis Shearer, West Point, Miss. He had just arrived on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, and was on his way to the southern train when the vision met his eye. He asked her name. Miss Alice Beauchamp she answered. Mr. Shearer did not go on his southern trip that night, nor the next; and so—and so—well, the same old story. When the roses bloom in bleak New England, then will be heard the sound of the bells, and the southern palmetto and the northern pine, entwined, will adorn the altar.

CHIT-CHAT.

A Boston girl describes a statue as a bust with two legs under it.

Atlanta has a female barber whose sign reads:

Man wants but little hair below,
Nor wants that little long.

The reason why a woman can not succeed as well as men in the walks of life is because when she is on the walk one hand is usually employed in holding up the dress.

Mrs. Burnett, it is said, will finish her story, "Through One Century," in the April number of the Administration Magazine, and then give us—we would say take—a long rest.

When a Leadville man fell in love with a woman and swore he would kill himself unless she married him, the gentle creature bought a pistol for him. He carried out the promise and shot himself. A Leadville woman will do anything for a man who loves her.

Mrs. E. A. Jewett, of Georgetown, who celebrated her ninetieth birthday recently, went out last week on the ice and coasted down a steep hill several times on a double runner. But you can't make us believe the boys enjoyed walking up the hill with her as much as they did seventy-four years ago.

Professor—My dear madame, the progress of modern astronomy is astounding. We know the distance between the sun and the planets within a few thousand miles. Madam—Yes, professor: but think of it; that we know even the names of all these distant luminaries.

A philosopher informs us that a bonnet is no longer a bonnet when it becomes a pretty woman. And the inference is that a woman is no longer a woman when she becomes a "poke."

A stylishly dressed woman entered a restaurant. The waiter handed her a bill of fare, and said: "Please mark off the dishes you wish too order." Taking the pencil she made a few dashes, and her order read: "Dinner 50 cents," "Feb. 20, '83," "vegetables," "please pay at the desk," "celery."

A servant girl who had been admonished by her mistress to be careful in "washing up" the best tea-things was overheard shortly afterward indulging in the following soliloquy while in the act of washing the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it, I suppose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I should just catch it."

A jealous young woman in Pennsylvania, hearing her lover come up the stairs, swallowed a whole bottle of laudanum, and then pointed her pistol at the door, intending to shoot him as he entered. But his attention was attracted elsewhere—perhaps by another girl—and he went back—not returning for a quarter of an hour. When he entered the room she was unconscious, but still holding the revolver in her hand. To add to her misery, he had her resuscitated, and then left her.

Morsels for Sunday Contemplation.

To know how to wait is the great secret of success.

He hath riches sufficient who hath enough to be charitable.

Of all evils to the generous, shame is the most deadly pang.

The true eye for talent presupposes the true reverence for it.

The mind grows narrow in proportion as the soul grows corrupt.

Be a philosopher; but amidst all your philosophy—be still a man.

He who can at all times sacrifice pleasure to duty approaches sublimity.

As charity covers a multitude of sins before God, so does politeness before men.

Revenge is an act of passion; vengeance of justice; injuries are revenged; crimes are avenged.

A man who keeps telling a woman he is her friend is either in love with her or is afraid he will be.

A man's ideal of intimacy with a woman is that he shall be allowed to talk about himself, and she shall listen.

Cynicism in youth is a deplorable anachronism—but it is an inevitable consequence of age and experience.

The difference between the gentleman circumstantial and the gentleman direct is great, though not always perceived.

The Red Man's Eloquence.

The writer, some years ago, in the Northwest, heard a young Indian chief make a speech before a Government commission and Army officers which fairly deserved to be classed among eloquent speeches. He was a splendidly formed Indian, with large, muscular limbs, an unusually fine head, and expressive eye. He was dressed in all the paraphernalia of savage taste. He was painted with rich, bright colors, laid on without stint, and when he rose to speak he looked, in professional energy, like an athlete about to enter upon a hard contest in the stadium, with his veins standing out like cords and his lips compressed. He pleaded against the removal of his tribe to some other reservation, and his heart was in his words. He was in earnest. He meant everything he said, and there were bursts of eloquence which would have electrified members, lobbies, and galleries of the House at Washington, had they emanated from a Congressman. The Indian's eloquence was all the more effective because it was spontaneous. His eloquence and his rhetoric, impassioned both, were forest born. It was oratory in voice and gesture, not garrulity like that which obtains too often at Washington.

The Quadrille.

The quadrille, says the London Evening News, is rapidly disappearing from the programe of society. Its formality is too much for the rapidity of the age and its amusements. It is now considered a fond and foolish dance, fit only for chaperons and elderly men of rounded form. More youthful partners have for some time past engaged themselves to each other for the "square," it is true, but not to dance it; merely to sit it out—a pleasant process which they prefer to the solemn walk through various figures that has taken place of the lively chassez step characteristic of the quadrille in our mother's young days. Consequently but a paucity of couples "stand-up," to use the quaint old phrase, when the musicians grind out the first bars of "La Pantalon," as the first figure used to be called. Recognizing this, the average hostess arranges her dance programme with valse alternating with polka, and perhaps a set of lancers for the "supper dance." There is also almost invariably a Highland schottische, a movement which a French spectator recently characterized as egare. There is thus abundance of "go" at a dance in the present day, and when there is a cotillon the proceedings frequently degenerate into a decided "romp."

Not a Tear.

A girl 7 or 8 years old slipped down the other day, and as she was picking herself up a pedestrian said:

"Don't cry, sissy."

"Who's going to!" she sharply demanded as she rose up. "I guess when a girl has got her mother's shawl on she ain't going to let anybody know she's hurt!"

Dr Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nervine properties, especially adapted to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion inflammation, or ulceration, or from nervousness or neuralgic pains. By druggists.

Condensed elephant's milk is the new tonic. It should be taken by drummers, as it doubtless developes trunks.

Dyspepsia, liver complaint, and kindred affections. For treatise giving successful self-treatment address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I'd have people know I'm nobody's fool," said Fenderson. "In other words," remarked Fogg, "you're your own master."

Consumption in its early stages is readily cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," though, if the lungs are wasted no medicine will effect a cure. No known remedy possesses such soothing and healing influence over all scrofulous, tubercular, and pulmonary affections as the "Discovery." John Willis, of Elyria, Ohio, writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' does positively cure consumption, as, after trying every other medicine in vain, this succeeded." Mr. Z. T. Phelps, of Cuthbert, Ga., writes "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my wife of bronchitis and incipient consumption." Sold by all druggists.

When a pickpocket gets out of practice, it takes a long while for him to get his hand in.

CATARRH—A New Treatment whereby a Permanent Cure is effected in from one to three applications. Particulars and treatise free on receipt of stamp. A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King-st. West, Toronto, Canada.

Life is a tiresome journey, and when a man arrives at the end he is all out of breath.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

Size ain't everything. A watch ticking can be heard further than a bed ticking.

Erysipelas, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Eruptions, and all diseases of the Skin and Blood are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It purges all foul humors from the system, imparting strength and vigor at the same time. (2)

Family ties become sleepers when the twins sink into slumber.

Would you avoid the Biliary complaints incidental to spring and summer? Cleanse the system with Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Blood, and is the purest tonic in the world. Trial bottles 10 cents. (5)

Subject to fits, and pretty bad ones sometimes: Tailors.

A common, and often fatal, disease is jaundice. Regulate the action of the Liver, and cleanse the blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, and the worst case may be speedily cured. (1)

If you should happen to want your ears pierced, just pinch the baby.

Well as Ever.

Lottie Howard writes from Buffalo, N. Y.: —"My system became greatly debilitated through arduous professional duties: suffered from nausea, sick headache and biliousness. Tried Burdock Blood Bitters with the most beneficial effect. Am well as ever. (3.)

The first negro criminal was the original "Black Crook."

From Mr. Percy Perdon, the oldest Mail Clerk now running on the G. W. Railway between Suspension Bridge and Detroit: About 18 months ago in convdrsation with you I mentioned that my son Arthur was a great sufferer from rheumatism, being so bad that for months he had not been able to put on his boots or walk. At your suggestion I purchased from you four bottles of your Rheumatine. Three bottles, however, I am happy to say, effected a permanent cure, as my son has never suffered from rheumatism since, although the past winter has been a most trying one. I may add that the medicine had the effect of improving his health in every way. Make what use you like of this testimonial. I can thoroughly recommend your Rheumatine to all suffering from rheumatic complaints. I am, yours truly, PERCY PERDON, Agent Great Western Railway. J. N. SUTHERLAND, Esq., St. Catharines.

It is said that deaf and dumb people always take a hand in conversation.

Davy & Clark, Druggists, Renfrew, date June 3rd, write;—"Burdock Blood Bitters, though comparatively a new preparation, has taken the lead in this locality as a blood purifier, our sales of it being equal to that of all other medicines used for the purpose during the last year." (6)

Woollen goods are quoted quiet because of their nap.

THOUSANDS SPEAK.—VEGETINE is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

The most humorous member of a dog is the wag of his tail.

A.P. 117

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
Relieves and cures
RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumbago,
BACKACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE,
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELLINGS,
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Bruises,
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCALDS,
And all other bodily aches and pains.
FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.
The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.)
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

For Throat and Lung Diseases, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Asthma, Hoarseness, Etc., Hypophosphites, Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites
It is truly a marvel. The Oil, besides creating appetite, promoting digestion and preventing fermentation on the stomach, and other counteracts the effect of uric acid, which produces rheumatism by destroying the lime and phosphate of lime in the bones, membranes inclosing the joints.
Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists. (Eclectric is not Electric.)

BRIGGS' GENUINE ELECTRIC
Electricity feeds the brain and muscles. In a word, it is Nature's food.

The Electric Oil possesses all the qualities that it is possible to combine in a remedy, thereby giving it a wide range of application as an internal remedy for man and beast. The happiest results follow its use and in Rheumatic Diseases, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and kindred diseases, it has no equal.

According to the last census there are only 27,794 deaf people in Germany. A French editor takes these figures to show that Wagner didn't get a fair chance in his own country.

Carrying the War, into the enemy's country. This is verified in the case of Putnam's Extractor, so favorably known throughout Canada. The large demand from the United States has induced the proprietors to put it there, and boldly push it to the front as a leading article in its line. From England a demand has arisen. This is the reward of the use of methods, as a large portion of our proprietory goods sold here emanate from foreign countries.—This speaks highly in favor of Putnam's Extractor, the great corn cure. Change.

Dr. Tuke, the great English lunacy doctor, in a recent lecture before the Royal Society of Edinburgh, severely condemns competitive examinations as most injurious to the young.

Vegetine

RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY COMPLAINT,

ENTIRELY CURED BY THE USE OF VEGETINE.

HAMILTON, O., March 14, 1881.

MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: Although a entire stranger to you, I wish to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me. After suffering for several years with the RHEUMATISM, I can truly say the Vegetine has entirely cured me. I have not had the slightest touch of it for several months.

Have also been badly afflicted with KIDNEY COMPLAINT, suffering great pain in my back, hips and sides, with great difficulty in passing urine. By the use of VEGETINE I find myself entirely cured of this complaint. I take great pleasure in recommending your remedy to my acquaintances and friends, and all speak highly of its good effects.

Respectfully yours,
P. H. GILBERT, Undertaker.

I am personally acquainted with Mr. Gilbert and believe him perfectly reliable in his statement.
B. S. JAMES,
Druggist, Hamilton.

READ THE FACTS.

TORONTO, April 3, 1880.
5 Bear Street.

MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.

Sir—I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the efficacy of your invaluable Blood medicine, VEGETINE. For three years I was a great sufferer from Chronic Rheumatism and Derangement of the Kidneys, and after trying innumerable so-called remedies, in the spring of last year I was recommended to give Vegetine a trial and to persevere in using it for some time. I did so, and in the course of three months found that a perfect cure had been effected, and I am now, thank God, in the enjoyment of the best of health. I consider it the most effective remedy for the distressing complaints just mentioned and for Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Disease. It is very pleasant to take, vitalizing and invigorating. I can most confidently recommend it, knowing the great benefits I have derived from its use, and consider I cannot overstate its great and important value to those similarly afflicted to what I have been. Yours faithfully,
R. L. COLE, Accountant.

Vegetine is sold by all Druggists.

SETTLERS

Colonist Rates, via the Great North-West to Manitoba, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, Eastern Assiniboia, Western Assiniboia or Nebraska.

Cards, Maps, Guides, and Pamphlets FREE, containing full particulars, rates, etc. Address, or call on any agent of the Company.

Department of Immigration,
31 York Street, Toronto.
W. H. CHEADLE, Manager.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East, Toronto. Portraits in oil life size.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 1 King E., Toronto.

NOTICE TO IMMIGRANTS TO MANITOBA —Passengers by the C. P. R. will benefit themselves by retaining their baggage checks until they arrive at the Winnipeg Station, instead of delivering the same to transfer baggage clerk on trains, as the undersigned will convey all baggage, trunks, and settlers effects to any part of the city of Winnipeg at any hour, at much lower rates than by any other transfer agency. P. McKEOWN, Baggage and Express Agent, Winnipeg. References—Hon Hugh Sutherland, Winnipeg; S. M. Clements M.P.P., Birtle, Man.; Col. Tyrwhit, M. P. P., and D. Cooke, Esq., ex-Warden, county Simcoe, Ont.

Robbins Bros.,

ARBITRATORS, PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS, TRUSTEES, &c.

37 Wellington street East, Toronto.

FINANCIAL NEGOTIATIONS, including the formation of companies—procuring partners and capital—the purchase and sale of businesses, debentures, &c.

MONEY LOANED on good farm and other properties at the lowest rates of interest. No exorbitant charges.

If you want a loan or a partner, or desire a business bought or disposed of, write to us.

THE SUN EVERYBODY LIKES IT.

THE SUN'S first aim is to be truthful and useful; its second, to write an entertaining history of the times in which we live. It prints on an average, more than a million copies a week. Its circulation is now larger than ever before. Subscription: DAILY (4 pages), by mail, 55c. a month, or $6.50 a year; SUNDAY (8 pages), $1.20 per year; WEEKLY (8 pages), $1 per year.
I. W. ENGLAND, Publisher, New York City.

Canada Permanent Loan & Savings Co.

Paid up Capital..... $2,000,000.00
Total Assets..... 2,350,000.00

Lends money upon Real Estate at lowest current rates of interest, and on favorable terms of repayment.

ALSO

Purchases Municipal Debentures and Mortgages on Real Estate.

For further particulars apply to
J. HERBERT MASON, Manager.
Company's Building, Toronto Street, Toronto.

IS SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

...ll you go to Mrs. Grahame's to-...ssel Arundel that evening at din-...set down his wine-glass and looking ...ss table, bright with shining silver ...ttering glass, at Muriel.

...s, I guess so, Russel. I promised ...Yes, I guess so, Russel. I promised ...we would come; she is very anxious ...are us meet her brother and his ...who are on from Chicago. Have ...any engagement for this evening, ...?"

...No, mamma," answered the girl, sim-...

"It's been a very quiet it has been since the be-...ning of Lent," continued Muriel, sugar-...her claret delicately; "there is positive-...ly nothing going on in society. Don't ...you think your sociables, Louie, and Mrs. ...Grahame's pleasant little Germans?"

"Oh, of course," said Louie, "but it ...is rather nice, I think to be quiet for ...a time. I believe I was getting tired out ...of night after night. However, all ...people do not think alike. I met Mrs. Van ...coming out of church this morning, ...and asked me if I did not think Lent ...began rather too early this year."

"Rather too early!" laughed Muriel, "It is al-...ways early she is such a strict Episcopalian, ...she does enjoy society and everything ...else so much. But won't you ...stay this evening, Louie, home ...perhaps some one of your friends will ...drop in."

"Very likely some one will drop in, ...but still if nobody comes I shall not ...mind; I shall read, or find something to ...pass the time."

But the truth Louie hoped no one ...would call. She wanted to be alone to think ...over the new happiness that came so sud-...denly into her life, to try and decide how ...she could tell Percy Evringham that which ...she knew would bring him sorrow and pain. ...That evening, when her father and moth-...er had left the house, she went into the quiet ...library, and closing the heavy doors after ...her, curled herself in a huge chair in front ...of the fire. She had no book, no fancy work, ...but she had thoughts enough to keep her ...busy.

...She had been so perfectly unconscious ...of the feelings she entertained for Roy ...Grahame were any warmer than those of a ...sincere friendship, that she could not quite ...recall the knowledge that had so un-...kindly come upon her. Yet she knew ...that she loved him—had loved him from the ...first—and she wondered sorrowfully ...how she could have been so blind as not to ...read her own heart more plainly. For her ...blindness she reproached her elf bitter-...ly. If she had only seen it all before, then ...she would have told Percy gently, tenderly; ...but now she had gone on hoping; she had ...been encouraged him, had answered ...his looks, but allowed him to think that ...silence would be yes—ah! that was the ...worst part of it. He was coming to her now ...perhaps he was already on his way, his ...heart filled with love for her, and beating ...high with hope. For she had given him ...more than reason to believe that she ...loved him that she would be his wife. ...Her heart was aching as it had never ...ached before, as she sat there before the ...flickering fire. She had always thought it ...the most contemptible and heartless ...thing a woman could do, to lead on a man, ...making him believe he loved her, making him believe ...in time she would consent to be his ...wife, adding out hope and encouragement; ...at the end, throwing him off, saying ...in any way of excuse, "I thought I loved ...you, but that I have made a mistake." ...She had never been able to make any excuse ...for such a course of action; it had seemed ...to her that a woman capable of such a thing ...must be lacking every sense of truth and ...honor; and now the very thing she had al-...ways despised and considered unpardonable ...in others she had done herself. She could ...not blame Percy if he should think her heart-...less and cruel; she could not say one word ...in her own defence if he should say, "Why ...did you not tell me before, Louie! How ...could you let me go on hoping as I have ...done?" He would not understand—nor ...could anyone—if she should tell what was ...true—that she had been all unconscious ...that she cared for Roy Glenmore. No, they ...would think she had acted untruly, un-...maidenly. Percy would think so, her father ...and mother would think so, Alice would ...think so, and even Roy, when he came to ...know—Roy, who was so noble and true ...himself, would think so, too.

...With a great choking sob Louie laid her ...head on the arm of her chair, her tears ...fell fast. It had all been a mistake. God ...knew she had not meant to deceive Percy. ...She knew that what had been done had been ...in ignorance. Her grief was deep and ...bitter, for she had a tender, sympathetic heart ...and had been true one, and it hurt her cruelly ...that she must give Percy pain and ...that she had been innocently untrue ...to herself.

...So deep was her sad reverie that she did ...not hear a quick step in the hall, the open-...ing of the heavy library door; she was not ...aware that there was any one save herself in ...the room until a hand was laid lightly upon ...her head, a voice, anxious and tender, ...asked:

..."Louie, my darling, are you crying?"

...At the sound of a little cry she raised her head, ...and saw Percy Evringham standing by his side ...looking down at her. Percy, who dropped on his knees ...beside her, put his arms around her, saying, ...in a voice:

..."What is the matter, Louie? Why are ...you all alone, crying so bitterly?"

...She raised her tear-wet face to his almost ...mechanically—silent, not knowing what to ...say to him.

..."I only got into the city about an hour ...ago," said Percy, by way of explanation, ...looking for a moment surprised at the true ...cause of her tears, but thinking she had ex-...pected some disappointment or trou-...ble. "I went to the Windsor, then came ...right here. Jackson told me that your ...father and mother were not at home, and that ...if I knew you were in here, so I came in ...quietly, thinking I would surprise you; did you get ...my letter?"

..."Yes, this afternoon."

...She could not look at the handsome ...flushed face with its eager, hopeful eyes; ...and something in her eyes, in the tone of her ...voice, startled him, for the flush faded out ...of his face as he said:

..."Louie, are you ready to give me my ...answer?—oh, my darling, you don't know ...how hard it has been for me to wait so long ...for it; there has not been a day nor an hour ...that I have not thought of you."

...She had thought to tell him gently as she ...could, but the words would not come; they ...died away on her lips, and she only moaned, ...as she clasped her hands together:

..."Oh, Percy, Percy!"

...Perhaps he understood, for he started to ...his feet, his face very pale, his dark gray ...eyes almost black.

..."Louie, what do you mean? You surely ...cannot mean that after having given me ...every hope as you have done, receiving my ...letters and answering them, encouraging me, ...leading me to believe that you would be my ...wife, that now—no, no, Louie, you cannot ...mean that."

...It was just as she had expected it would ...be, yet she knew not how to answer him; it ...would seem so small and mean to say, in an-...swer to his passionate outburst. "It was a ...mistake, Percy."

...Still, she must say something, and though ...her lips were quivering, she raised her face ...bravely.

..."I thought I knew my own heart better ...than I did, Percy."

..."You mean that you have discovered that ...you do not love me; that while I have ...been patiently waiting, fondly hoping, you ...have been thinking the matter over, and ...have come to the conclusion that you will ...not be my wife. Is that it, Louie? Answer ...me!"

...I do not think men know how cruel they ...are, sometimes, to the women they love; ...there seems to be, in masculine natures, a ...latent cruelty that will crop out now and ...then, as most wives and mothers and sisters ...can testify. Really and truly, Percy did not ...know how coldly and sternly he had spoken, ...how tightly his lips were compressed, how ...dark and stormy his eyes were; but Louie ...knew, and she shrank back in her chair as ...though he had struck her. He had never ...spoken so to her before, nor looked at her ...as he was looking now.

..."Oh, Percy, do not speak like that; I did ...not know—not until to-day—that I could ...not be your wife."

...He heard her words distinctly—she could ...not be his wife. Poor Percy, he had ...cherished such bright hopes, had built so ...many beautiful castles, and now the hopes ...were suddenly shattered, the castles hurled ...to the ground. There was no anger in his ...heart, nothing but pain and bitter disap-...pointment; the stormy darkness died out ...of his eyes, his lips, so tightly com-...pressed a moment before, quivered; with ...almost a sob he spoke, his voice hopeless and ...despairing.

..."Ah, Louie Louie, I love you so."

...Then folding his arms upon the mantel-...piece, he dropped his head upon them.

...A storm of reproaches could not have ...touched Louie's heart as those few words ...did. Hurrying to his side, she laid her hand ...upon his arm.

..."Try and forgive me, Percy," she sobbed, ..."you do not know how sorry I am. I did ...not mean to give you any false hope, to de-...ceive you in any way. I thought when you ...came back to me for my answer I could tell ...you yes, and only to-day—only a few hours ...ago, I discovered——"

...She paused, the tears clinging to her long ...lashes, she could not tell him what she had ...discovered, that would be adding insult to ...injury, as the old saying goes.

...He raised his handsome Saxon head with a ...deep sigh. All her words could not make ...less hard to bear the fact that she had re-...fused him.

..."Louie," he said, mournfully, "is it be-...cause during my absence some one else has ...won what I had hoped to win, that you tell ...me now you cannot marry me?"

...The painful flush that stained her face, ...mounting to the very roots of her gold-brown ...hair, answered him, and he bowed his head ...dejectedly, feeling that life was a miserable ...farce and the sooner it was played out the ...better.

...A pause followed, an awkward, embarras-...sing pause; Louie, very sorrowful, feeling ...in some way guilty, and finding it exceed-...ingly difficult to keep from crying. Percy, ...quite broken-hearted, wondering gloomily ...to himself what he should do with his life. ...Percy was proud and just a little bit egotis-...tical, and his amour propre had been sorely ...wounded; he felt that he had been very bad-...ly treated indeed, and though he did not ...blame Louie, he did blame circumstances ...and fate, and above all, his unknown ...rival.

...A man who has just been refused is not ...generally—no matter what he may be at ...other times—particularly brilliant or ani-...mated; poor disconsolate Percy was no ex-...ception to the rule; he sat in silence, his ...head resting upon one hand, with such a ...hopelessly sad look upon his face that it was ...more than Louie could bear, and she said ...brokenly, choking down a sob which threat-...ened to strangle her, "Percy won't you try ...and forgive me?"

..."Yes, Louie," he answered sadly, "it is ...not your fault, it is only my misfortune that ...you cannot love me. I hope you will always ...be very happy, and if at any time there ...should be anything I could do for you, you ...will let me do it, won't you? for the sake of ...my—for our friendship's sake." And then ...Percy hastily swallowed a great lump in his ...throat and said he guessed he would go, as ...Louie looked fatigued.

...Poor fellow, he loved Louie very truly ...and tenderly, and he felt as though the ...brightness had suddenly gone out of his life. ...He promised Louie he would come and see ...her again before he went back to Baltimore, ...held her hand for an instant in his own, ...tried to smile as he bade her good night, and ...made a miserable failure of it, then took his ...departure; and when he had gone Louie ...threw herself down in a chair and cried as ...though her heart would break.

...She liked Percy—had always liked him; ...had felt very sorry for him because he had ...no proud father, no loving mother or gentle ...sister. In a mild, sisterly way, she loved ...him, and she knew she had brought cruel ...pain and bitter disappointment upon him.

...How long she sat there crying in a weary, ...heart-broken little way she did not know, ...but after awhile the passion of tears spent ...itself, and she sat quietly with only now and ...then a choking sob. She heard her father ...and mother come in, heard the heavy street ...door open and close, and Muriel, seeing the ...light in the library, and thinking Louie was ...there, walked in, followed after a moment ...by Arundel.

..."Why, I thought you would be in bed, ...dear," she murmured, as she shook off and ...threw down upon a chair her cloak. "We ...had a very pleasant evening. Mrs. Grahame's ...sister is charming, so—— Why, child, what ...is the matter?"

...For she had caught sight of Louie's face, ...pale and worn with crying.

..."Percy, has been here, mamma."

..."Percy Evringham!" exclaimed Muriel in ...surprise; "and why did he not stay?" and ...then a glimmer of truth seemed to dawn ...upon her, for she said hurriedly:

..."Louie, did you send Percy away?"

..."He came for his answer," said the girl, ...wearily—she was completely worn out with ...nervous excitement—"and I could only tell ...him no."

...Before Muriel could speak, Arundel had ...risen from the chair into which he had care-...lessly thrown himself. There were tense ...lines about his mouth; his eyes were flashing ...ominously.

..."Do you mean to say you told Percy Ev-...ringham you would not be his wife?" he said, ...and the words came through his clinched ...teeth.

...In his mad, reckless college days his chums ...used to say, speaking of Arundel Anthon. ..."When you see the vein in his forehead ...swell, look out for him." The vein in his fore-...head was swollen now.

..."Yes, papa."

..."Yet you know it was my wish that you ...should marry him. You have deceived me, ...for you led me to believe that you would ac-...cept him; you have disobeyed me, for I de-...sired you to tell him you would marry him. ...How dare you thus run counter to my ...wishes and commands? I tell you I will ...have neither disobedience nor deceit from ...you."

...In just such a passion as was rising with-...in him, Arundel had dealt the blow which ...had sent Percy Evringham into eternity. ...Poor Louie, she had been sorely tried ...that evening; but tired and heartsick as ...she was, the words fired her. She raised her ...small head proudly, her tears all gone, a ...bright spot upon either cheek, her eyes ...blazing.

..."I did not mean to disobey or deceive ...you," she said; "but I found that I ...did not love Percy, therefore I told him I ...could not marry him. I will never marry ...a man I do not love, not even to please ...you."

..."Hush, Louie!" said Muriel, implor-...ingly; "how can you speak so to your ...father?"

...But Arundel said not a word—he turned ...away shivering. For out of the brown ...eyes ablaze with such indignation Russel ...had looked upon him, and he dare not an-...swer the girl who at that moment was so ...marvelously like the father she had never ...seen—the father who had been so terribly ...wronged.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

...When Mrs. John Deming found herself at ...the age of thirty-five, a widow with two ...children, aged respectively thirteen and ...eleven, to educate and provide for, and very ...little in the world except the handsome ...house which her husband had given her in ...the palmy days of prosperity, long before ...his riches had taken to themselves wings and ...flown away, she said to herself with com-...mendable bravery, when she had rallied ...from the shock which her husband's failure ...and consequent sudden death had dealt her, ..."I will take care of the children and my-...self. I will keep the house—and I shall ...take boarders." It was a very brave reso-...lution, for Mrs. Deming had never had any ...reason to believe the time would ever come ...when she would be left without means of ...support; but, then, in these days of ups and ...downs, when the man who is at the top of ...the ladder to day, is prostrate on the ground ...to-morrow, one never knows what one is ...coming to.

...God helps those who helps themselves, ...and he had helped brave little Mrs. John ...Deming. In a short time her handsome ...house was filled with people—some of them ...her own personal friends, the rest friends ...of those who had known John Deming when ...he was a rich and prosperous man; people ...of wealth and refinement, who paid munifi-...cently for the pleasant home they found un-...der Mrs. Deming's roof.

...Mrs. Deming liked all her boarders, but ...especially did she like two gentlemen—one ...young, the other quite an elderly man—who ...had been with her now for nearly two years, ...and who, the night after Louie Anthon had ...told Percy Evringham she could not be his ...wife, were alone together in their sitting-...room. It was very bright and cheerful—...that handsomely furnished sitting-room, ...with a warm, home-like air about it, to ...which the crackling grate fire the creamy ...lace window-curtains, the wine-colored man-...tel and door-draperies, the open upright ...piano, and the centre-table, covered with a ...crimson cloth and strewn with books, maga-...zines and papers, contributed largely.

...On one side of the table, seated in a huge ...easy-chair, his head resting upon the cush-...ions, his eyes fixed upon the crackling fire ...with an expression in them which told he ...was thinking very earnestly, was the young ...man, who was no other than Roy Glenmore; ...and opposite to him, looking over one of the ...daily newspapers, the light of the argand ...lamp falling upon his face, from which the ...expression of patient sorrow would be lift-...ed never this side of the grave sat an elder ...gentleman—the man who for nearly nine-...teen years had been known as Richard Bran-...don.

...He did not look very much older than he ...had done the night he had seen Muriel at the ...theatre—sorrow had aged him not years. ...At thirty-four he had looked fifty—now at ...fifty-two people took him to be somewhere ...between fifty-five and sixty. There is noth-...ing nobler than to suffer and be strong—that ...is what Russel Anthon had done all these ...years, had suffered and had been strong—...strong in patience and true unselfishness, ...strong to lift up and help along those of his ...fellow men who had fallen by the roadside, ...strong to act according to the dictates of his ...great, noble heart—and he had suffered in ...proportion to his strength: even strangers ...noticed the lines about his mouth, drawn ...there by fierce mental agony, the mournful ...darkness of his eyes.

...There was something mysterious about him ...even to those who knew him best—this sad-...faced, quiet man. He never spoke, as most ...men do—of his boyhood and early manhood. ...He did not seem to have a single relative ...nor a friend who knew anything about his ...early life; and people who were given to ...thinking more about other people's affairs ...than they did about their own—and there ...are many such in the world—spent much ...time thinking about him, wondering what ...manner of sorrow it was that had brought ...upon his face the shadow which rested so ...darkly there, wishing they knew how and ...where his early manhood had been passed, ...and what the real relationship was between ...him and Roy Glenmore. Still no one—not ...even the worst old gossip—could associate ...any though of sin or shame with a man ...whose daily life was as blameless as was ...Richard Brandon's. So the years had come ...and gone, and he had been and was still an ...enigma to a great many people.

...He had been very successful in business, ...or rather his superior abilities, his fore-...thought, and the careful attention he gave ...the most minute details, had met with a just ...reward. Before Robert Morehead's death ...he had been taken into the firm, now he was ...the real head of the large and prosperous ...business. "It ought to be Brandon & Dis-...brow," Mr. Disbrow said to him repeatedly, ..."you are the head of the firm." And he an-...swered always, "It is best that it should be ...as it is, Disbrow & Co."

...Only God knew how much good he did ...with his money; he was always ready with ...substantial aid and kindly encouragement. ...Many were the poor sad souls which had ...grown glad at the sight of the noble, patient ...face; many were the faint, weary hearts ...which his words had strengthened; he had ...raised so many out of the dust, he had set so ...many on their feet again, and what is more ...he helped them along until they were able ...to go alone; and that is the only true ...charity. For it is no earthly use to pick up ...anyone who has not the strength to stand ...alone, they only fall again. And Russel ...Anthon knew, what a great many charitably ...inclined people do not think of, that ...it is not necessary to go down to the ...lowest dregs of society to find those who ...need help.

...So for eighteen years he had been living, ...striving humbly to do what good he could ...do, finding peace in helping to keep burning ...in other hearts the fire of happiness that had ...gone out forever in his own.

...Sitting before the fire, Roy was thinking ...of Louie Anthon. That she loved him he ...knew, and a deep, glad thankfulness filled ...all his heart. He felt, rather than knew, ...what her answer would be when he should ...ask her to be his own dear wife; but first ...he must go to her father—for Roy had a ...deep sense of honor and justice, and he would ...have no more thought of asking Louie to give ...herself to him without having first gained ...her father's consent, than he would have ...thought of going into that gentleman's house ...and carrying off any of his costly worldly ...possessions.

...And suppose by any chance Mr. Anthon ...should not be willing to give his daughter ...to him. As that thought came to him, Roy ...sat upright in his chair, a little cloud set-...tling upon his handsome face. It was an un-...pleasant thought, very. Roy wished with ...all his heart that it had not insinuated itself ...into his mind; but there it was, and it seem-...ed to say with the most disagreeable frank-...ness.

..."It is barely possible, Roy Glenmore, that ...it might happen."

...Roy sank back in his chair again and fell ...to wondering what he should do if Mr. ...Anthon should refuse to give his consent. ...Would Louie marry him against her parents' ...wishes? Would he ask her to be his wife if ...her father had told him with his own lips ...that he did not care to have him for a son-in-...law?

...They were very discouraging, these ...thoughts; but suddenly Roy remembered ...that they were only thoughts, only his own ...imaginings; it was time enough to cross the ...bridge when he should come to it; it was ...foolish and unmanly to fret and worry about ...something which was not likely to happen, ...and having come to this sage conclusion, he ...wheeled his chair around and took up the ...evening paper, which lay upon the table. ...But there did not seem to be anything of in-...terest in that paper. Roy looked through all ...the columns and could find nothing in the ...least degree entertaining, and after reading ...a few of the jokes and deciding in his own ...mind that the people who had originated ...them were the lineal descendants of donkeys, ...he took his lead pencil out of his pocket and ...began to embellish with sundry curves and ...dashes the heavy black letters which an-...nounced to the world that the newspaper in ...question was the New York —— ——. Hav-...ing ornamented them to his satisfaction he ...fell to scribbling upon the margin at the top ...of the paper, until he suddenly awoke to the ...fact that this occupation was, to say the least, ...exceedingly boyish, and throwing the ...paper aside he arose from the chair, and sit-...ting down at the piano began to play bits ...of dreamy music and snatches of fashionable ...valses.

...An air particularly sweet—a little song ...from an opera bouffe just at that time very ...popular—caught Richard Brandon's atten-...tion, and raising his head from his paper he ...listened to it, his eyes growing very tender ...as they rested upon Roy's graceful, well-knit ...figure. How he had loved him from the ...time he had first seen him, had taken him a ...little four-year-old boy in his arms, and ...promised to take care of him! But for Roy ...his desolate life would have been intolerable ...to him; he was only human, and he could ...not have gone on living all these weary ...years had it not been for the love, and trust, ...and confidence Roy had given him so freely. ...Few fathers loved their sons as he loved, and ...had always loved, Glenmore, and he was ...justly proud of him. Surely he had done ...his duty by Henry Glenmore's child; by ...careful investments he had more than ...doubled his fortune, and he had made out of ...the pretty, affectionate boy, a true-hearted ...man, with noble, high-souled impulses, and ...strength to meet and overcome the tempta-...tions of the world.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The fishing parties up the Ottawa River this season, most of whom are now returning, report their catch to have been very good. The fatigues of fishing through holes in the ice have been amply compensated, they consider, by the prices obtained for their fish. Owing to the fishery regulations, there has been less fishing than usual for exportation, the object of the department being to encourage home consumption in this district.

Early Marriages.

Not only in the days of good Queen Bess and earlier, but very much later in our history, early marriages were allowed. To take an instance in the Georgian period, this entry is in "The Chronological Diary" appended to the Historical Register, volume six, for the year 1721, June 8: "Charles Powel, of Carmarthen, Esq., of about 11 Years of Age, marry'd to a Daughter of Sir Thomas Powel, of Broadway, Bart., deceas'd, aged about 14." The young lady's only brother had died on March 21 preceding. Often did a guardian having control of a wealthy ward find it convenient not to delay the promotion of a marriage of the ward with one of his own kith and kin, though not always by any means was it considered necessary that there should exist between the couple the sentiments which induced Dickens' "young gentleman not 8 years old to run away with a fine young woman of 7." . . . I may mention a similar instance which occurred nearly 130 years later than the marriage to which H. refers, in a family which my mother now represents, viz., the Shaws, of Ballytweedy, County Antrim. Henry Shaw (son of John Shaw, of Ballytweedy, and grandson of Capt. Shaw, High Sheriff for County Antrim, 1793, who was attainted by King James's Parliament) was married in the year 1721 to his cousin Mary, (only child of Patrick Shaw, of Brittas, County Antrim) when "neither of them was yet 15 years old;" and the old document from which I am now quoting goes on to say that the father of this equally precocious bridegroom "continued to manage for the young couple, and had not long survived their coming of age." Their eldest child was born in 1723. Henry Shaw died in 1775, a year after the birth of his great-grandson, Thomas Potter, of Mount Potter, County Down. . . . . An instance of early marriage even more curious than that mentioned by H. is the marriage of Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas, Lord Clifford, of Skipton Castle, in the fifteenth century, to Sir Robert Plumpton, of Plumpton Castle. The bride was 6 years of age, and the bridegroom not much more. The husband died three years after marriage, and the "widow" was united to his brother William when she had gained the age of 12 years. Dodsworth preserved for us the document from which the above information is given in Whitaker's "History of Craven."—Notes and Queries.

Rug Making in Mirzapore, India.

In the dirty mud huts of the villagers it is most interesting to observe the slow yet regular growth of the beautiful patterns as developed by the busy, untiring hands of a dozen or more half-naked natives, and which the visitor traces in imagination to their future display in the attractive windows of Regent street or Broadway, and eventually to the chambers of Western homes.

As the native quarter of the city is approached, the busy wool carders, the spinning of the native women, the labyrinth of dyepots, the dyeing yarns of various colors in the sunlight, bespeak the industry of the place. The huts, of common structure and one material, mud, contain but one apartment. Sunk in the ground to a depth of two or three feet is a long roller of wood, perhaps six inches in diameter and three or four yards in length, supported at either end by iron rods, and movable at pleasure: upon this shaft the rug is rolled as the work advances; attached to the roller, and extending to the beams above, are the close, strong thread of the warp, and in the rear, suspended from the ceiling, with hanging ends at a convenient distance, are countless balls of yarn of varied color and shade; beneath these sit the native workman and boys. Immediately opposite, at the front of the hut, seated upon a mat, is the pattern reader or overseer, while upon the ground before him is the reversed pattern of the rug whose manufacture he so skilfully directs; it requires the closest attention, rapidity of thought, sight and unflagging application on his part to keep the dozen or more men before him busy, for not a thread is woven but at his direction or verbal order, as calling each workman by name or noting his position, he orders the number and color of the yarns to be used, as he traces them upon the pattern at his feet. The workman in the rear seizes the end of the yarn called, weaves the number ordered, the substance is driven home by an iron comb, the rough edges clipped, and the rug rolls on to completion, every thread of wool and every stitch by hand.

Sensible Sentences.

Don't be whining about not having a fair chance. Throw a sensible man out of a window, he'll fall on his feet and ask the way to his work: The more you have to begin with the less you will have in the end. Money you earn yourself is much brighter than any you can get out of a dead man's bags. A scant breakfast in the morning of life whets the appetite for a feast later in the day. He who has tasted a sour apple will have the more relish for a sweet one. Your present want will make future prosperity all the sweeter. Eighteen-pence has set up many a peddler in business, and he has turned it over until he has kept his carriage. As for the place you are cast in, don't find fault with that; you need not be a horse because you were born in a stable. If a bull tossed a man of mettle sky high, he would drop down in a good place. A hard-working young man with his wits about him will make money while others will do nothing but lose it. "Who loves his work and knows how to spare, may live and flourish anywhere." As to the trouble who expects to find cherries without stones, or roses without thorns? Who would win must learn to bear. Idleness lies in bed sick of the mulligrubs, where industry finds health and wealth. The dog in the kennel barks at fleas; the hunting dog does not even know they are there. Laziness waits till the river runs dry, and never gets to market. "Try" swims it, and makes all the trade. "Can't do it" would not eat the bread cut for him, but "Try" made more out of mushrooms.

A standing offer—The bid at an out-door auction.—— How to escape being shipwrecked—O shun the ocean.——A young queue-pid—The Chinese baby.——"A time for awl things," as the cobbler said on commencing work for the day.——A fast gait—The gate that is bolted.——When is the house furnace like the victim of the drop game?—When it is well shaken down.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, MARCH, 22ND 1883.

BIBLE CURIOSITIES.

STRANGE FACTS GAINED BY A STUDY OF THE GOOD BOOK.

The learned Prince of Granada, heir to the Spanish throne, imprisoned by order of the crown for fear he would aspire to the throne, was kept in solitary confinment in the old prison at the Place or Skulls, Madrid. After thirty-three years in this living tomb, death came to his release, and the following remarkable researches taken from the Bible and marked with an old nail on the rough walls of his cell. told how the brain sought employment through the weary years:

In the Bible the word Lord is found 1,853 times; the word Jehovah, 6,855 times, and the word reverend but once, and that in the 9th verse of the 111 Psalm. The 8th verse of the 118th Psalm is the middle verse of the Bible. The 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther is the longest verse. The 35th yerse, 11th chapter of St. John, is the shortest. In the 107th Psalm four verses are alike, the 8th, 15th, 21st and 31st. Each verse of the 126th Psalm ends alike. No names or words with more than six syllables are found in the Bible. The 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of II. Kings are alike. The word girl occurrs but once in the Bible, and that in the third verse and 3rd chapter of Joel. There are found in both books of the Bible 3,586,483 letters, 773,693 words, 31,373 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The twenty-sixth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles is the finest chapter to read. The most beautiful chapter in the Bible is the 23rd Psalm, and the four most inspiring promises are John, 14th chapter 2nd verse; John, 6th chapter and 37th verse; St. Matthew, 11th chapter and 28th verse; and 37th Psalm, 4th verse. The 1st verse of the 60th chapter of Isaiah is the one for the new converts. All who flatter themselves with vain boastings of their perfection should learn the 6th chapter of Matthew. All humanity should learn the chapter of St Luke from the 20th verse to its ending.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

Eugenia.

AS IT WAS, AS IT IS AND EVER WILL BE.—John Barleycorn has been inspiring some of our neighbours to deeds of valor, and for which her Majesty's representative for the maintenance of order has invited them, by the usual printed forms, to a conference at Thornbury, on Monday.

Fodder is getting pretty scarce, and if Wiggins, or any other human being, sends much more storms, they had not better come prowling around here.

A large meeting held on the 19, at Vandeleur to agitate another cheese factory in that section. That's the cheese.

Railway agitation all along the valley, and we're going to have it as soon as it is built. The route is not yet definitely settled upon, so Eugenia yet sits in her cosy chair, calmly and serenely awaiting developments and the snorting of the iron horse along the valley. Then you will see her get up majestically and say, "you must have your station right right here," and then we'll all shout loudly for us."

The allotted nine days of election discussion has passed over our heads, yet the excitement hangs out all the same. We must tell about something.

Chatsworth.

From what can be gathered it is not likely that another winter will be allowed to pass without a skating rink being erected here. When small hamlets like Markdale and Flesherton can support a skating rink surely so can we.

Dr. Bennet removed five toes off a Mrs. Bell, of Sullivan, a few days ago. She got them frozen during the severe spell some time ago, which rendered amputation necessary.—O. S. Tiser.

OSPREY COUNCIL.

The 3rd meeting of this Council was held in Feversham on the 10th inst.

Members all present.

Communication from Fruit Growers Association of Ontario urging Council to pass by-law, taking advantage of the Ontario Tree Planting Act 1883.

Motions and reports.—Johnston, McIntyre, that all standing orders granting aid to emigrants be rescinded from this date forward, and that the Clerk notify the Treasurer to that effect.

Taylor, McIntyre, that the Clerk notify the Trustees of School Sections No. 1, 2, 4, 8, 9, and 10, to appear for the interests of their several sections, at the next meeting of Council, as steps may be taken to alter the boundaries of said sections.

McIntyre, Johnston, that report No. 1 of of the Printing Commiete be adopted, and that the Clerk send the Minute Book to the Flesherton Advance, and get 400 copies of the Minutes of 1882, and Auditors Report printed in pamphlet form.

Report no 1, Printing Committee Council Room, Feversham, 10th March, 1883.

Your committee beg leave to report taking all things into consideration, to give the printing of the Minutes, to the editor of the Flesherton Advance being the nearest printing office, in case he print them as cheap as they were done in 1881. All of which is respectfully submitted. J. Speers, Chairman.

Speers, Johnston, that this council adjourn to meet at McIntyre, on the 20th March, current.

The School law requires that—"the Trustees of every rural corporation shall before 15th day of Jannary in each year, give notice in writing to the Clerk of the township in which their school is situated, of the names and post-office address of the Trustees then in office, and of the teachers employed by them."

Only those of section No. 1, have complied with the above. Will the others kindly do so.

WM. MILNE, Clerk.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

BIRTHS.

WRIGHT.—In Markdale, on the 20th inst., the wife of Mr. D. E. Wright, (Merchant.) of a daughter.

CAESAR.—In Markdale, on the 16th inst., the wife of Mr. J. Cæsar, (Station Master,) of a daughter.

BOWERS.—In Glenelg, on the 19th inst., the wife of Mr. Robt. Bowers, of a daughter.

WILLIAMSON.—In Orangeville, on Sunday 11th inst., the wife of T. Williamson, Esq., of twin Daughters.

BOWES.—In St. Vincent, on the 9th inst., the wife of Jas. Bowes, Esq., jr., of a son.

MCCONNELL.—In Dundalk, on the 14th inst. the wife of Mr. Chas McConnell, of a son.

TEEPLE.—In Dundalk, on the 16th inst., the wife of Mr. F. F. Teeple, (blacksmith,) of a daughter.

DIED.

SEWELL.—In Euphrasia, on the 9th of March, Wm. Sewell, aged 77 years, 6 mon.

QUINTON.—In Euphrasia, on the 9th of March, Samuel Quinton, aged 3 years.

THOMAS.—In Markdale, on the 17th inst., Infant daughter of W. G. Thomas, (shoemaker.) aged 4 weeks.

WRIGHT.—In Holland, on March 17th, the wife of Mr. Benjamin Wright, aged 65 years.

Farm for Sale.

TO sell or rent, Lot S 1/2 14, con. 9, Euphrasia, 8 miles from Markdale and 3 from Rocklyn, containing 100 acres, 70 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, fit to run reaper and mower, and balance hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing. Well watered with never failing spring only 10 rods from barn; has a young orchard, house, barn and stable. There is a new steam saw mill on next farm to it. Clear deed can be given. For particulars apply on the premises to

SAMUEL WRIGHT,
Rocklyn P. O.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

DEWSON vs. WILSON.

PURSUANT to an order of the Court of Chancery, made in this action, there will be sold with the approbation of Thomas Hodgins, Esq., Q. C., Master in Ordinary,

By TENDER.

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Proton, in the County of Grey, and being composed of the South West part of Lot number Two Hundred and Twenty, in the Second Concession South of the Toronto and Sydenham Road, excepting thereout the part occupied by the Toronto Grey and Bruce Railway, in the said Township of Proton, containing by admeasurement Fifty acres, more or less.

All tenders must be addressed to THOMAS HODGINS, Esq., Q.C., Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and be received not later than 2 p.m. of

Thursday, 12th of April

next. The highest or other Tender not necessarily accepted.

Terms of Sale.—One-tenth of the purchase money shall be paid in cash when notice of accepted tender has been given to purchaser, and a sufficient amount within one month thereafter, without interest, to make together with the cash payment one-quarter of said purchase money, the balance to be secured by mortgage on the premises at six per cent per annum, in the three equal yearly payments. The other conditions of sale are the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery.

Further particulars can be had from Denison & Macklem, Solicitors, 15 Toronto Street; Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskin, Plumb & Creelman, Solicitors. Toronto.

(Signed) THOMAS HODGINS,
Dated the 14th March, 1883.

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.
I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.
I have been greatly benefited.
My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

☞To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,
Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK
93-145.

J. G. IRVING,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all Kinds of

PUMPS.

Drop Valve, Cylinder, Force, and Cistern Pumps.

All kinds of

IRON - PUMPS

SUPPLIED.

D. McArthur

Has opened a new

BAKERY AND Confectioner Store

In Dunlop's block

MARKDALE.

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to the 1st April, 1883, for the erection and completion of a School House in S. S. No. 17, Euphrasia. Plans and specification may be seen at the residence of Joseph Manarey, W. ½ lot 18, con. 10, Euphrasia, Harkaway P. O. Building to be complete by the 1st August, 1883, and paid for the 15th Jan., 1884. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

JOSEPH MANARY, Sec. Treas.
Euphrasia, March 9th, 1883. 131-4in.

PURE SEED WHEAT

"THE WESTERN."

MR. ANDREW NESBITT, LOT 110. 2nd range W. T. & S. Road, Glenelg, 1½ miles from Markdale, has 200 bushels of pure Western spring seed wheat for sale. Mr. Jas. Bell, Artenesia, near Eugenia, secured 5 bags of this wheat which he sowed last year and says it yielded him $50 more than the same amount of Russian or other varieties which he sowed on equally as good land. The price is $1.25 per bushel.

ANDREW NESBITT.
131-33.

Mansion House,

MARKDALE,

JAMES BRIEN, - - PROPRIETOR.

HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE HOtel, and thoroughly overhauled and refurnished the same, I am now in a position to receive a share of public patronage. The choicest brands of liquors and cigars kept. Good meals; also good stabling.

Markdale, Mar. 14th, 1883. 131ly

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

{BUTCHER!}

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 15th, 1881

Easter Cards.

CHOICE ASSORTMENT

JUST ARRIVED AT THE Medical Hall.

A. TURNER & CO.

131-32

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 129-tf.

Clydesdale Stallion FOR SALE.

That splendid Clydesdale Stallion "Scottish Champion," from imported stock, and the property of Wm. Shepherdson, will be sold cheap. The horse stands 16½ hands high, is 4 years old, jet black in color, and a sure foal getter. Any one wishing to get a bargain should take advantage of this offer. Stock taken in part payment. Address W. SHEPHERDSON, Lot 23, Con. 11, Euphrasia, Blantyre P. O. 129-4t*

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.95 to $0.93; Spring $0.96 to $0 98; Barley, 55c; Peas, 70; Oats, 40c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, 7.50 to 7.60; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $2.00 to $2.00

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.90 to $0.93; Spring, $0.95 to $0.97; Barley, 57c; Peas, 69c; Oats, 40c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7 60.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.98 to $1.00; Spring, $1.05 to $1.08; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 50c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag, 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 20c to 21c.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NORTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
2 25	10 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	8 00	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

THOS. MATHEWS,

HarnesS EstablishmenT!

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

GEORGE NOBLE,

INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies: CITIZENS', of Montreal,

AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and

TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale, also Village Lots

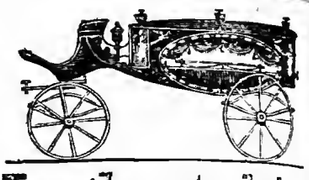
Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate. Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,



—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.

Undertaking

Coffins,
Caskets,
Burial Robes,
Gloves,
Crapes,

—AND—

All Furnishings for Funerals

May be had on Short Notice, and at all Hours from

GEO. GRANT,

MARKDALE.

Also a well assorted stock of

FURNITURE

from plain to fine quality, all at moderate prices.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

BEATTIE vs. BLAIR.

PURSUANT TO THE JUDGMENT of JAMES MASSON, Esq., Master of the Supreme Court at Owen Sound, made in the action and bearing date the 22nd day of September, 1882, and pursuant to all subsequent directions of the said Master made in the said day of March, 1883, there will be sold, with the approbation of the said Master, at the office of S. Vandusen, Auctioneer,

BY PUBLIC AUCTION

AT THE MARKDALE HOUSE,

generally known as Rutledge's Hotel, in the

VILLAGE OF MARKDALE

On Thursday, 5th day of April 1883,

at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon the following valuable Farm Property:

Lots Numbers 128 and 129, in the Concession N. E., and Lots Numbers and 131, in the 1st Concession W. Toronto and Sydenham Road, in the Township of Artemesia, in the County of consisting of 200 acres, of which about acres are cleared and in a good state of cultivation. The remainder is cedar, tamarac, balsam, and The soil is a good clay loam. The in good repair, and the land is well

On Lot 130 there are 8 acres cleared, orchard in bearing, one frame dwelling house, a fine frame with stone foundation and a good underneath barn.

On Lot 131 there are 27 acres cleared, a good spring creek.

On Lot 128 there are 55 acres cleared, plum orchard of about one and a log barn and log

On Lot 129 there are This farm property is well ed in a good neighborhood, gravel road between the and Markdale, on the B. railway, distant two Flesherton, and three Markdale, both of which markets.

This property will be time and place above served bid fixed by the and if not sold then will be sold free from branches save a mortgage the amount and particulars made known at time of tion to the solicitors diate possession given. rare opportunity to any tain a fine farm.

Ten per cent. to be paid of sale and the balance at out interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

Further particulars can be had from Frost & Frost, or Creasor & Harrison, Owen Sound.

Dated at Owen Sound this 7th day of March, 1883.

FROST & FROST,
Vendors' Solicitors, Owen Sound.
(Signed) J. MASSON,
130-4t. Master at Owen Sound

Single copies of the STANDARD 5 cents.

oll & Brown

*s Mr. Doll is leaving Mark-to go into the Wholesale Business in Toronto, wishing to leave Mark-together.) he has entered partnership with Mr. W.
BROWN, late of Flesherton, is a practical watchmaker ker of over 15 years ex-nce, and comes with the best commendations from some of leading watchmakers in the ovince.*

*Business will carry on the
ess in Markdale.*

work entrusted to him will ve a workmanlike man-

*ork will be guaranteed,
d as sold will be found presented, or money refund-*

Doll & Brown's,

Practical Watchmakers & Jewellers
Hill's Block,
MARKDALE ONLY.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Hall—J. C. Irving.
Hall—Wm. Brown.
Hall—A. Turner & Co.
Hall—Samuel Wright.
Hall—Company—Thos. Holgins.
Hall—Court of Justice—J. Masson.

Local and Other Items.

Notices inserted in these columns intended to benefit individuals or companies will be charged ten cents per line for the first insertion and five cents per line for subsequent insertion.

Mr. W. L. Marshall and family, of Markdale, are removing to Port Perry.

A good farm waggon for sale, nearly new. A bargain will be given for cash. Apply to Thos. Cooledge.

A monthly cattle fair has been established at Flesherton. The first was held last Tuesday.

A joint stock company is being formed in Dundalk, for the purpose of establishing a cheese factory.

The Grey Agricultural Society have decided to hold their annual Exhibition on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 5th and 6th.

The Proton Agricultural Society have decided to enlarge their already commodious hall, by putting an addition to it, making it double its present size. This will make the building one of the best in the county.

A social will be held at the house of Mr. George Richardson, 9th line, Proton, on Good Friday evening, under the auspices of the Presbyterian congregation of Markdale. Come one, come all, we promise you a good time.

Grey, Dec. 2.—The North Grey Agricultural Society will hold its annual spring show of Stallions and Colts, on the ground, on April 25th, 1883. Prizes to the amount of $12. Instead of money prizes, first and second certificates will be made.

Yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, the fire alarm was sounded. It was found that the wash room of the steamer Markdale was on fire, having been caused by the upsetting of a lamp. The fire was extinguished without serious damage.—Times.

Owen Sound.—Mr. S. Damude, Building Committee, has submitted a proposed plan—prepared by Mr. J. Lennox, Architect, Toronto—for the new Presbyterian church to be erected next summer. The plan shown us be very handsome. The Presbyterian congregation will have the finest church in the county. The proposed church is after the Elizabethan style of architecture.—Advance.

Owen Sound.—On Monday morning last the 11 o'clock express, South, steamed into Owen Sound yard with a novel freight on board, about three miles south of the town she struck a calf. No one on the train knew anything about it until the engine came into the station when the calf was found lying on the cow catcher under the head light, comparatively uninjured. he was able to run around when taken off the platform but much the worse for his free ride.

Fatal Accident.—John Ruhl, of the 2nd con. north, Bentinck, while chopping on Thursday last, was killed by a limb striking him behind the left ear. He died almost instantly. He was a single man of about 23 years of age.—Hanover Post.

Good Friday to-morrow.

A new style of snow-plow is being built for the T. G. & B R.

Tara is agitating for a public Park. Markdale should have one.

Preaching in the Methodist Church. to-morrow evening. (Friday,) at 7 o'clock.

A lodge of the Canadian Order of Odd Fellows was organized in Walters Falls last week.

Business places in Markdale willl be closed to-morrow, (Good Friday,) it being a public holiday.

Another shipment of that 28ct tea, fresh and strong just to hand at Trimble & Wright's.

About $100 worth of new type is being added to the STANDARD office, we are determined to keep ahead.

Mr. Mark Armstrong. jr., left on Saturday last for Lockport, New York, to purchase a lathe for his turning factory.

Mr. McIntyre has been to Toronto this week, and a new stock of Groceries and Liquors will be opened in a few days.

We had a call from our old friend Stanley Reynolds who has been a few days home. He returned to Toronto, on Monday last.

A young man who cannot afford to get his friends picture without hooking them out of the Photo gallery, shouldn't have any, J. L. Brown.

Mr. W. J. Dennis, (late of Cedarville,) is now catering to the public wants in the Crown Hotel, Priceville. Mr. Tuck having retired.

The STANDARD is a valuable medium for advertising, having upwards of four thousand readers, about 800 families get it, with an average of not less than 6 readers to each copy.

Mr. John Ford had a bountiful day for his sale on Tuesday, and an immense crowd attended, things generally went off like hot cakes. The stock especially bringing very high prices.

TIME A MONEY SAVED.—An immense quantity of grain has been brought into Markdale this winter, and a large majority of the Farmers kill two birds with one shot by taking a load of Trimble & Wright's cheap goods on the home trip.

The Markdale Photograph Gallery has been thronged every day the past two weeks. Mr Hamilton, the new artist, has secured the services of Mr. Brown, for a short time, who has been so popular and successful during the past year in the art.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. James Hopkinson, Miss McDonald, Thos. Scarlett, Miss Lampton, were out for a drive last Sunday at what is known as Hardy's Church, their horses became frightened and ran away breaking the sleigh and throwing its occupants into the snow. Miss Lampton got her ankle badly Mangled.—Dundalk Herald.

The social at Mr. John Hamiltons last Friday evening. A crowded house ; a jolly time ; a complete success.. Mr. Hamiltons large brick house was well filled, and a very enjoyable time spent everyone was made welcome, and all seemed to make themselves perfectly at home, and done just about as they pleased, "Boys Sir" they did enjoy themselves and no mistake. proceeds $20.-50.

ANOTHER FIRE.—On Sunday last about three o'clock p. m., while Mr. Leavens was at Sunday School his wife discovered a smoke issuing from a room upstairs, which proved to be on fire. She promptly gave the alarm and in a very short time a crowd was on hand and the fire was speedily extinguished. It is supposed that the fire originated by the children playing with matches in the room, which had a straw tick just filled with fresh straw. The loss is very trifling.

NEW ADDITIONS.—We are receiving a line of new and fashionable type specially adapted for circulars. Those who purpose getting out a spring circular will do well to give us a call. We have also on the way a lot of new type to be used exclusively for pamphlets. and Voters Lists. Counsellors would do well to make a note of this, as we will be enabled thereby to give them a job with every letter and figure perfect. All kinds of municipal stationary kept on hand at Toronto prices, support home and send us your orders.

The British metropolis was horrified last week by a diabolical attempt to blow up the government buildings. At nine o'clock p. m. on the 15th, while the House of Commons was sitting, a tremendous explosion was heard, the galleries in the Commons chambers were shaken, and general consternation and alarm was created. The news was quickly received that a dastardly attempt had been made by miscreants to blow up offices of the Local Government Board, Westminster, by dynamite. So far as can be gathered in a hasty exploration the explosion took place from the interior of the building. which was entirely scattered. So great was the force of the explosion that the streets in the vicinity are strewn with broken glass. The guards at the Parliament buildings were immediately doubled. And the residence of the Ministers are closely guarded. It has now transpired that a double attempt to blow up the Times office on the previous day failed through some mischance to the miscreants.

Easter cards at Medical Hall.

Miss Lazier is visiting friends in Owen Sound, at present.

Mr. E. Purvis of this village, has strawberries now in bloom.

Dr. Sproule M. P., is expected home for the Easter holidays.

There will be skating on our rink on Good Friday, weather permitting.

St. Patricks day was celebrated throughout the Dominion on Saturday in the customary manner.

R. H. Whitby made a flying visit to Markdale and returned to Orangeville on Tuesday last.

Ladie's now is the time to procure a dress of that beautiful 50ct cashmare, at Reynolds & Son's,

Don't forget the grand clearing sale at Reynolds & Son, now going on, immense bargains can be procured call and see for yourselves.

Messrs. Doll & Brown have arranged to open a branch store opposite Elliott's drug store, Chatsworth.

For cheap bargains in every description of Dry Goods Clothing &c., visit Richardson's sale next week.

Say John, where did you get that pair of boots ? at Reynolds & Son. where you can get a good fit, and at your own price.

Mary had a little watch, but the watch it would not go. Mary should have got a watch at Doll & Brown's, they always give satisfaction.

Reynolds & Son have some very fine lines of glassware and stoneware. of the very latest shapes patterns and colors, at the very lowest prices.

Mr. E. Kennedyl (late of the Traverston Woolen Mill,) removed this week to Hornings Mills to take charge of a Woollen Factory in that place.

A young man who cannot afford to get his friends picture without pilfering them out of the photo gallery, should'nt have any.—J. L. Brown.

Richardson's clearing sale has been very successful judging by amount of goods put out since 1st March it will be continued till the end of the month.

Carson Price, of Williamsford, is selling off his winter goods at and under cost to make way for for spring and summer goods. His stock is complete, and bargains may be expected.

We had a call on Tuesday from Mr. C. H. Matthews, (of the Chatsworth Hotel) and Mr. C. Price of Williamsford they report their respective villages in about the same place, notwithstanding Wiggins' storm.

The Markdale photograph gallery has been thronged every day the past two weeks. Mr. Hamilton, the new artist, has secured the services of Mr. Brown for a short time, who has been so popular and successful during the past year, in the art.

YET ANOTHER FIRE.—Yesterday while Mrs. Caswell was removing, it appears some of the bed clothes were thrown carelessly against a stove pipe, and took fire, but was soon discovered and extinguished without much damage being done.

DOCTORS, STAND ASIDE.—Clear head and voice, easy breathing, sweet breath, perfect smell, taste, and hearing, no cough, no distress. These are conditions brought about by the use of Trimble and Wright's famous 28c. Japan tea. Complete treatment for all, Give it a trial; samples free.

PROFESSOR WIGGINS AGAIN.—Whether professor Wiggins predictions are fulfilled to the letter or not, no one will deny that we are having a rough time of it and many are showing their wisdom by prepairing to face the blizzard safely housed in one of those first class suits, sold so cheap by Trimble & Wright.

C. O. O. F.—The Loyal Markdale Lodge No. 78, of the Canadian Orderof Oddfellows are in a healthy and prospeous condition, and growing in numbers. Attheir last meeting the officers for the ensuing term were installed and are as follows: J. W. Rutledge, L.M.; R. S. Rae, M.N.G.; George Grant, N. G.; William L. Young, V.G.; Adam Turner, Sec.; A. McIntyre, Treas.; Alex. Kay, Warden; A. McFarland, Conductor; W. G. Thomas, Inside Tyler; Chas. Richards, Outside Tyler; Jos. Gibson, RS. of N.G ; D. McFarlane, L.S of N.G.; C.A. McMillan, R. S. of V.G.; John Cæsar. L.S of V.G.

MANUFACTURE OF CHEESE.—A meeting was held in the stone school house, Meaford Road, on Monday evening last to take into consideration the propriety of having a cheese factory established in that vicinity Mr. Cornett, of Lansdown township, county Leeds, was present, and offered to erect a suitable building for the manufacture of cheese and butter, and furnish plant and fixings throughout, and manufacture cheese for 11/2 cents per pound, on condition that the milk of two hundred cows would be guaranteed for one year. Those favoring the scheme are now endeavoring to secure the required number, in order to have the much desired enterprise established. We hope they may succeed, as it is, in our opinion, a move in the right direction.

Get your Job Work done at this office.

THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST.

Coolness of temperament is a virtue, but the refreshing coolness of the

Preserved Meats, Fruits, and Vegetables,

—KEPT AT THE—

BELFAST HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

beats all the icebergs ever floated down the Atlantic Ocean.

The Belfast House

Teas and Coffees !

give an exhilirating influence, not equalled in Markdale, except by Benson's

WHISKIES, BRANDIES, WINES,

&c. Those who relish the "pipe of peace" will find the

Tobaccos and Cigars

at the Belfast House unsurpassed north of Toronto. Cheese, Bologna Sausage, and Biscuit in endless variety, all from the best manufacturers, at the Belfast House. Apples, (green and dried,) Spices, Sweetmeats, &c. Toilet and Fancy Soaps, Essences, Perfumes, and Family Oils. of the purest quality. Flour, Potatoes, Pork, Herring, (dried and salt,) kept constantly on hand.

☞Our Bottled Gin is imported directly from the manufacturers, and our Bottled Wines are put up at the Vintage. Pickles in bottles, Mustard in cans, and in fact everything in the grocery trade. A recent addition to my finances will enable me to purchase in the head markets of Europe and America.

WILSON BENSON.

AN ACROSTIC,

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer
Right splendid good oil, [and Fall
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use,
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are sure it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm.
127-153.

STALLION FOR SALE.

YOUNG "Stanley" is a fine bay horse 4 years old this spring, stands 16½ hands high, is possessed of heavy bone, and good action. Will be sold on reasonable terms by getting good security. Pedigree can be seen at this office. Apply to

JAMES MEGILL, Everett P. O.
131-33 Tossoronto Tp.

J. W. FORD,

Is giving splendid satisfaction in

CRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention to parties from a distance so that they may have their grist home the same day.

Health is Wealth !

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa. caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars ; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner &Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West &Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

$500 Reward !

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto. Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner &Co. Drug Store.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats !

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23. 1882. 80-ly

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work
Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

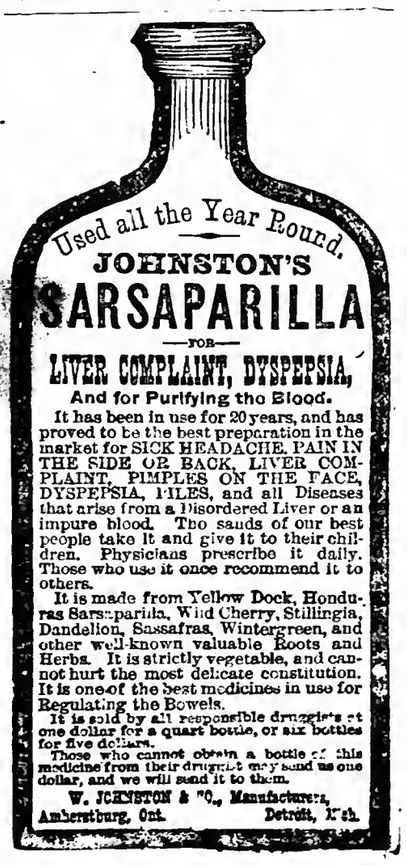
SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,



MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

It has been in use for 20 years, and has proved to be the best preparation in the market for SICK HEADACHE, PAIN IN THE SIDE OR BACK, LIVER COMPLAINT, PIMPLES ON THE FACE, DYSPEPSIA, PILES, and all Diseases that arise from a Disordered Liver or an impure blood. Thousands of our best people take it and give it to their children. Physicians prescribe it daily. Those who use it once recommend it to others.

It is made from Yellow Dock, Honduras Sarsaparilla, Wild Cherry, Stillingia, Dandelion, Sassafras, Wintergreen, and other well-known valuable Roots and Herbs. It is strictly vegetable, and cannot hurt the most delicate constitution. It is one of the best medicines in use for Regulating the Bowels.

It is sold by all responsible druggists at one dollar for a quart bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

Those who cannot obtain a bottle of this medicine from their druggist may send us one dollar, and we will send it to them.

W. JOHNSTON & CO., Manufacturers,
Amherstburg, Ont. Detroit, Mich.

LATEST NEWS NOTES.

In Mid-Cheshire, Mr. Egerton, Liberal-conservative, has been elected to Parliament over Mr. Latham, Liberal.

The successor of Earl Spencer as Lord President of the Council will probably become Minister of Agriculture.

Change of venne has been secured in some of the suits to recover money won at the late lottery, and they will be tried in London.

The suicide of Makoff, president of the St. Petersburg committee for regulating the civil condition of the Jews, was connected with defalcation.

The Count de Chambord, in answering an address presented by four hundred working men at Lyons, said the Republic was infallibly leading France to ruin.

All opposition to the will of Henry Seybert, of Philadelphia, who bequeathed $1,125,000 to public charities, has been withdrawn and the will probated.

It is intended, according to a Calcutta despatch, to reduce the railway rates to enable wheat-growers in India to compete on more equal terms with the American producers.

A Washington special says it is rumored that Great Britain will ask the return of the balance of the Geneva Award, on the ground that all just claims have been satisfied.

The Sheriff has made a seizure of the safes and other furniture in the premises occupied by the defunct "Mahon Bank Company." The goods seized will be sold for the benefit of the creditors.

The Parnellites regard the unyielding tone of Mr. Gladstone's speech respecting the Land Act as satisfactory in so far as it is calculated to assist in promoting an appeal to America for fresh funds.

The Vienna Town Council has resolved to hold an exhibition in 1884 of articles connected with city improvements. Every municipality in Europe, America, and Australia will be invited to send exhibits.

The Bishop of Tournay has declared before the Court of Appeal, Brussels, that he will cease all opposition to the surrender of moneys and papers which Canon Bernard deposited in America to the delegate of the Belgian Government.

A meeting was held at Quebec to take the initiatory steps to form a Colonization Company to colonize the North-West with French-Canadians. Messrs. Lariviere and Cremieux, of the Manitoba Government, are there in connection with the project.

The Reichsrath, by a vote of 156 to 107, has sanctioned the prosecution of Herr Schonerer, one of its members, on account of his speech at a meeting of the reading club of the German students at the Vienna high school which was closed by the authorities.

The Federal Council has intimated to Dr. Cramer, the United States charge d'affaires, that he is accredited to the federation, not to the cantons. This is in connection with Dr. Cramer's demand on the Prefect of Berne for the punishment of persons who created a disturbance in a church in which Cramer was patron.

Prince Bismarck has written to the Bundesrath recommending that, in order to prevent evasion of the law, hog products be only admitted to the country on attested proof that they are not from America. The decree has been gazetted prohibiting the importation of American hog products, including sides, bacon and sausages.

A supplement to the Canada Gazette contains the statement of the banks acting under charter for the month ending 28th February, which shows the amount of notes in circulation to be $34,044,909.51, the total liabilities, $154,603,402, and the total assets, $226,843,635; liabilities, direct or indirect, of directors and firms or partnerships in which they or any of them have any interest, $8,571.64.

At the request of the Chicago Board of Trade, the Western Union Telegraph Company has ceased supplying market reports to the Open Board. This was a surprise, as the understanding was that the Open Board would not be molested, not having joined the bucket-shops in the legal fight. It is said the Open Board will continue business with quotations from Milwaukee

A sensation was caused in the Massachusetts Legislature on Wednesday by a message from Governor Butler vetoing the bill making appropriations to the amount of $475,000 for the expenses of charitable and reformatory institutions. The Governor says the bill contains appropriations some of which are objectionable and others not, and is a continuation of the vicious practice of uniting in one bill different appropriations for diverse objects.

Signor Mancini, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Italian Chamber of Deputies, said to those who reproached him for having vainly sought an Austro-German alliance that he would answer that the power whose subjects numbered thirty millions, and which possessed an excellent army and navy, only offered an alliance to those desiring it, and after ascertaining that it was desired. The statement that the Cabinet met a refusal at Berlin and Vienna was untrue.

Great interest is being taken in the International Fishery Exhibition which is to be held in London, Eng., in May next. The Government are doing all in their power to make the Canadian exhibit an attractive one. The British Colombia exhibit has been shipped, and the other collections will be sent by the Government steamer "Newfield" from Halifax at the end of the present month. All the provinces have contributed to the general representation, except Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

A somewhat peculiar story comes from parties just returned from the Mattawa. They state that in June last two horses belonging to Mr. Grant strayed from his depot on the North River, and, although diligent search was made for them at the time, and a reward offered for their recovery, no trace could be found of them. Some two weeks ago, however, an Indian, following a moose, tracked it to a yard where he found the horses and moose yarded together, and from all appearances the happy family had occupied the same quarters in common for a considerable time. The horses were in good condition though somewhat thin.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Testing a New Machine.

For some weeks past the Secretary of the Club has been in correspondence with John Quincy Adams Boggle, of New Haven, Con., regarding a machine brought out by that person called "The Acme." The machine was designed to remove corns, reshape the foot, relieve the chilblains, and make a bow-legged man walk with the grace of a king. It was finally agreed to pay the inventor's fare one way if he would come to Detroit and exhibit his machine before the club, and in case it would accomplish what he claimed for it sixty-two members would take machines and pay spot cash.

Mr. Boggle arrived in the city a day or two ago, and Paradise Hall was scarcely opened for the regular weekly meeting before he showed up. Much curiosity and interest were exhibited by members, and Samuel Shin, Young Hyson Smith and Whalebone Howker could hardly wait for the meeting to open.

Brother Gardner not having arrived at 7.30 Sir Isaac Walpole took the chair and opened the meeting, and it was then announced that "The Acme" would be exhibited.

Mr. Boggle made a brief address, stating his claims and hopes and intentions, and the machine was placed on the floor and made ready for trial. It was a walnut box about two feet long by eighteen inches wide and a foot high, and in the interior was a curious complication of wheels, knives, springs, files and jack-planes. The inventor said he would first like to try the machine on a bow-legged man of sanguine temperament, and after some hesitation, owing to his excessive modesty, the Rev. Penstock came forward. In his youthful days he one day fell off the roof of a shed and landed astride of an inverted six-pail kettle, and ever since that hour he has had a pretty fair-sized tunnel under him.

Every voice was hushed and every eye peeled as Penstock placed his two feet in the box. Then came the whirr of machinery, and one could hear the click as the jack-plane struck a gravel-stone or a horse-shoe nail imbedded in an old callous or corn. Fifty seconds dragged themselves away and then came a tearing grinding sound, followed by a loud report and a shock which upset two dozen members. Cog wheels flew around the hall as thick as snowflakes, and Penstock bumped the ceiling and floor alternately a dozen times. For the second time in the history of the Club a foot-compressor and bow-legged-remover had exploded in tackling its first victim. The members crowded around Penstock, and in the excitement and confusion John Quincy Adams Boggle rushed for the street. As he went down stairs he was hit in the back with an old iron kettle, but this only helped him along the faster.

When something like order was restored in the hall, it was found that eighteen lights of glass were broken, the stove door cracked, two lamps smashed and the floor badly torn up. As for Penstock, it was sad. When he got upon his feet it was found that his toes turned in at such an angle as to bring his knees inside of his legs. He was assisted down stairs to be taken home on a dray, and the announcement of his death at the next meeting would surprise no one. Brother Gardner came in about the time the pieces had been picked up and quietly observed:

"If a man am purty let us forgive his lies an' tricks, an' swindles. If he has small feet let no one ax whether he pays his debts. If his hair curls doan' queshun his gineral intelligence. If his knees hang plumb sot him down as a orator an' a scholar. If he has small feet, doan' hesitate to let him take your money an' invest it for you. Let us now begin work."

Lime Juice in the Treatment of Diphtheria.

M. Czartorysky, M. D., of Stockton, California, writes as follows to the London Lancet:

During a prolonged residence in the interior of China, I became acquainted with the fact that the Chinese place great reliance during epidemics of diphtheria on the internal use of the fresh juice of limes, and of the fruit itself, which they consume in enormous quantities, in every conceivable form—as lemonade, with native spirits, cut in slices, etc.,—during attacks of this dreadful disease, with apparently most successful results, it hardly ever failing to effect a cure. The Chinese consider it a specific, and will, in case of need, do anything to obtain a supply.

Since I have come back to California, as also in Louisiana, I have used limes and their juices in my practice as a physician with most successful results in cases of diphtheria, even in the most desperate cases. As soon as I take charge of a case of diphtheria, I order limes to be administered as freely as possible, in any manner the patient can be prevailed upon to take them, especially in the form of hot lemonade, sweetened with white sugar or honey, or cut in slices with powdered white sugar. Besides lime juice (which I suppose acts by imparting an excess of oxygen to the circulation, and thereby prevents formation of vibriones, etc., and so has almost a specific effect on disease), I prescribe whatever drug may be indicated to relieve symptoms as they develop, and impart strength by appropriate stimulants and nourishment.

The Blacksmith and Wheelwright believes that the old system is, in the main, responsible for the aversion that such a large number of boys manifest for learning trades. For the first year a boy in a blacksmith shop, for instance, is put to the roughest and most disagreeable work. He is made to do a thousand and one things that will be of no use to him when he grows up, and have nothing to do with making him a skilful mechanic. He knows this and naturally rebels and wants to do something that will be of benefit to him. He is brought up to feel that to be a good blacksmith a man requires much brawn and little brains. That he obtains an erroneous idea of the trade, he is trying to learn we all know, but nevertheless, this impression is apt to become fixed in his mind from the character of the work he is put to do. Is it any wonder that he looks with envy on one boy behind the counter or in a lawyers' office, and longs to get away from employment which has become irksome?

A Dish of Nudels.

At dinner in a hospitable New York home in which nothing that is good in the cookery of any nation is rejected, a dish of "nudels," made like macaroni, of a dough of wheat flour and water rolled out and cut in long thin slices, was served in a very palatable German style. An experienced macaroni-eater who partook of them is unable to describe more closely than this the manner in which they were cooked, except to the negative extent of saying that these were not prepared with cheese, tomatoes, or cream. As they were set on the table the hostess said: "Nudels, you know, are, usually made by the Germans in the house, and are made fresh every time they are wanted. But I buy these of a sturdy, brave hearted German woman, who supplies other households in the same way. She makes the nudels with her own hands, and carries them around in a basket. When she began this work she had just been left a widow, with a family of small children on her hands and no means of support. Knowing of no other way to earn a living, and this simple thought of making nudels occurring to her, she set to work bravely at that.

"At first she found only two or three families to whom she could sell, but her nudels were so well made, and she was so cleanly and honest, and earnest, that others were told about her, and were added to the number of her customers, until her sales were large enough to support her and her little ones. Upon this small business, conducted, as far as it went, well and faithfully, she raised her family, and now her children are old enough to contribute materially to the expense of the household, and perhaps to support it alone.

"This little piece of homely history I have told you because I think it interesting in the picture it gives of a poor woman lifting herself by brave and honest labor to independence and self-support, and because it shows by what curious occupations some people earn their living in this great city."

Some Good Cheap Recipes.

CENTENNIAL MUFFINS.—Take 1 qt. of flour, 1 small tablespoonful of lard, salt and yeast powders (use the last, according to the directions for one quart of flour. Some take more, some take less). Mix the flour, salt, yeast powders and lard; take about a pint of water (milk is better if you have it), and mix dough as stiff as you can stir it. Have your gem pans "sizzing" hot, put in the batter, and bake in a hot oven. The muffins are improved by the addition of eggs and milk, but are good made as above.

BATTER CAKES WITHOUT EGGS.—Take one small saucerful of oatmeal porridge (or mush) and 1 qt. of flour; mix as for other batter cakes, with the addition of one tablespoonful of molasses, and about a teaspoonful of lard; bake brown.

JACKY CAKES.—Take seven tablespoonsful of cornmeal, sifted, put in salt and a tablespoonful of lard; scald with boiling water; mix with half a teacupful of milk, till the batter is thin enough to drop from a spoon; fry in boiling hot lard, just as you do fritters. Fry brown, dropping the batter from the spoon.

OLD BREAD AS GOOD AS NEW.—Dip thick slices or square pieces of old bread quickly into cold water, put them in a hot oven, and thoroughly heat through. Cold gems and cold biscuit should not be wet. A quick and thorough warming with a drying makes the old bread very tender and fresh.

SPARKS OF LIGHT.

Bear the cross! for heavier is self.—Fenelon.

Do not say that you are anxious to discern God. God has promised to reveal himself to the simple and upright heart.—A. Monod.

Between God and man, between the Gospel and each soul, the interpreter is Love.—Vinet.

How difficult it is to keep within the bounds of truth, when we are no longer within those of charity.—Massillon.

A holy rule for the treatment of our neighbour's faults is this: Speak often of them to God, and forget them before men.—Massillon.

True peace can only be found in possessing God; and here on earth we only find him in submissive faith and obedience to his law.—Fenelon.

Watch yourself well, when any one has wounded your sensitiveness, or you have to deal with those who oppose you; the sudden word or action that comes spontaneously will be an unmistakeable indication of the true state of your interior life.—Lobstein.

The glory of God requires great things from men, and exacts great services; but is also his glory to hinder these same services from becoming overwhelmingly severe, and render them delightful and full of sweetness.—Bourdaloue.

Mexican Bull-fights Not Nice.

Going to bull-fights is the sad mistake that is committed, but in all innocence, by not a few American women travelling in Mexico. They labor under the impression, apparently, that the custom which they follow pertains to Rome and, therefore, is one to be adopted whilst they sojourn among the Romans; yet would their ears tingle, could they but hear the comments which the Romans pass upon them! What ever it may have been in the past, in the present the bull-fight is a distinctively low-class institution, and nice people have nothing to do with it. To the same category belongs cock-fighting, also a famous source of entertainment here on Sunday afternoon. Close by every jacal in the town—and it is in these little huts of wattled cane that the poorest of the poor townsfolk live—is found tethered by one leg a cock who is the pride and joy of his owner's heart. Moreover, if he be a bird of good strain, with fighting blood in his veins, he yields a fine revenue to his owner from wagers judiciously placed upon his prowess. —Monterey Correspondence Philadelphia American.

A Montreal young man attempted to kiss the pretty daughter of a corner grocer. She dipped her hand to the wrist in a gallon of molasses and passed it rapidly across the ardent lover's ambrosial beard, which, she says, was sweet revenge.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy, and Pointed.

GENERAL.

Quite an oil fever has invaded Bothwell.

The Bishop of Huron and Mrs. Hellmuth have arrived home.

Mr. Depew, station-master at Hanover, Ont., has left for parts unknown.

Lady evangelists have been holding revival meetings at Thames River, Middlesex.

Pleuro-pneumonia is prevalent to a considerable extent in Belleville, chiefly among children.

Mrs. W. Downey, of Lower Brighton, Carleton County, N. B., perished in the recent storm.

A number of deaths have recently occurred at New Richmond, Bonaventure County, P. Q., from diphtheria.

A young lad named William Leggett was badly scalded in Lillie's bolt factory, Perth, by the bursting of a steam heating pipe.

The Salvation Army is attracting considerable attention at St. Thomas. The meetings at the barracks and in the City Hall are crowded.

Wm. J. McKay, formerly of Hamilton, being one of the family of McKay Brothers, printers, has been arrested at Chicago for embezzlement.

No further cases of fever have so far been developed at the Institute for Deaf and Dumb, and the patients are progressing favourably.

George R. Kempe, of Exeter, England, has received the appointment as organist and choirmaster of the Central Presbyterian Church, Hamilton.

At Kingston two members of "B" Battery were out driving recently, and finding the opportunity good, deserted to the United States.

Drewes, found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the Maloney tragedy at Rat Portage, has been sentenced to seven years in the penetentiary,

A committee has been appointed at Brockville to collect information and canvass for subscriptions towards the establishing of a coffee house in that city.

The Presbytery of Peterborough has nominated as Moderator for the next General Assembly the Rev. Kenneth McLennan, M. A., of Charlottetown, P. E. I.

The other night the stable on the premises of H. V. Jacobs, London West, was entered by persons unknown and a valuable set of gold-mounted single harness carried away.

John Brown and Edwin Green were seriously stabbed at Point Douglass. Casey and O'Brien, their assailants, were arrested and sent for trial at the Assizes.

James Macpheason, the Nilestown man arrested for cashing a bogus cheque, was sent to gaol for a few days to sober up from the effects of his spree.

No doubt the oldest inhabitant of Ontario, Dr. Paterson, (colored), departed this life Wednesday night last at Otterville, Ont. He is said to have been one hundred and twenty years of age.

UNITED STATES.

Wyman will assume the United States treasurership on April 1.

Tennessee has decided to settle her State debt at fifty cents on the dollar, with three per cent. Interest.

A wooden monument of Profes or Wiggins was erected in front of a wheelwright's shop in Brooklyn.

Barres, President of Guatemala, has published a proclamation advocating the establishment of a Confederatian of the five Republics.

Spicche claims that over one hundred men known to favor his cause have been killed in cold blood during the last four months.

In the Capitol a wall was thrown down by the vibration caused by a passing train. Many persons were injured, and a woman and two boys killed.

At the conclusion of the inquest into the death of Annie Watson, at Detroit, the jury returned a verdict of death "from injuries inflicted by the deceased."

Charles Smith and Robert Mahan, students of Columbia College, recently quarrelled about a lady and decided to settle the affair by a duel. They were arrested.

Forbes, demonstrator of anatomy at Jefferson medical college, was tried in Philadelphi for being concerned in the operations of a gang of body-snatchers.

The deputy of State at Washington has been informed that the Italian Government desires to invite the artists of all nations to compete in furnishing designs for a national monument to Victor Emmanuel.

The State Brewers' Association of Iowa, in session at Council Bluffs, have planned to use every endeavor to prevent the Supreme Court reversing the recent decision declaring the prohibition amendment void.

The supervising inspector of steam vessels at Washington says the loss of life on ocean and inland steamers has been greater in the first two months of the present year than in any like period since steam was first applied as a propelling power.

The French Canadians held a large mass meeting at Worcester, to protest against the statements of H. F. Foster, of Cambridge, before the Committees on Education and Labor at Washington that they are the Chinese of the East.

The evening session of the Royal Templars of Temperance, at Buffalo, was the final one of the year's council. A consolidation was effected between the Royal Templars of Temperance and the United Temperance Association of Canada.

GENERAL.

The Bulgarian Ministry has resigned. Gen. Skobeleff is forming a new Cabinet.

Sir Robert. J. Phillimore has resigned the Judgeship of the British Admiralty Court.

All the preliminaries for placing the bust of Longfellow in Westminster Abbey are arranged.

Three Syke crofters have been sentenced to 21 months' imprisonment each for ... ing the sheriff.

The Chambers at the Hague has ... the Dutch Government to negotiate a ... 60,000,000 florins.

The Emperor of Germany has ... accept the resignation of Von Stosch, ... of the Ministry of Marine.

A Madrid despatch announces that ... Dynastic Left have appointed a ... to manage the party, Marshal Serrano ... ing to resign the leadership.

The British ship Three Brothers, ... Francisco for Antwerp, has arrived at ... mouth. Ten of the crew refused to do ... during the entire passage.

Telegrams from the seat of the ... agitation in Andalusia describe the ... tion as much excited by the daily arrival ... large detachments of prisoners.

The defalcations of Makoff, President ... the society for regulating the social ... tion of the Jews in Russia, who ... amount to eleven million roubles.

A motion announced in the Chamber ... Deputies authorizes the prosecution of ... Savory, a member of the Chamber, and ... rector of the Rhone et Loire Bank, for ... versation in connection with the affairs of ... bank.

The Russian Government has proposed ... the other Powers that an international ... tective force be organized to cope with ... Anarchists, Nihilists, Fenians, and ... ists. France, Switzerland, and ... have acquiesced in the proposal.

SOME SMILES.

Telegraph wires are so numerous on ... of the streets in this city that people ... on a fourth floor flat can sift their ... merely throwing them against the ...

There was a fatal row in a New ... drinking saloon. The proprietor was ... ed, reformed and turned undertaker. ... was bound to have something to do ... spirits.

Speaking of a commercial traveller ... was arrested for embezzlement, and ... change says: "He confesses his guilt." ... drummer may own up to gilt, but to ... never.

"Yes," said the man in the theatre, ... lery, "the make-ups were generally ... but there was one make-up that I ... like to see—a make-up for lost time ... the acts."

The remains of a man have been ... of the ruins of Pompeii, with both ... resting on his stomach. The building ... which he was found is supposed to ... been a cheap restaurant.

Some of our exchanges are discussing ... alleged "snow flea." They can't ... how the snow flea is made; but a ... will make the snow flee about as ... anything.

A full kit of bank burglars' tools is ... to be worth $2,000.—[New York ... cial Advertiser. If that is so we ... cat full of burglars' tools must be ... about $10,000. Purr aou!

The poet who declared that "Curfew ... not ring to-night" was correct. It ... ring, it merely "tolled the kell of ... day." It's not often that a poet gets ... as near right as that.

A New York judge says cigarette ... ing is robbing the young men of their ... When a young man says he isn't afraid ... cigarettes hurting him, he probably ... what he is talking about.

The Berks County (Pa.) young ... threw a pair of scissors at a man who ... teasing her. As one of the points ... trated his eye he couldn't see the joke, ... though she claimed it was sheer nonsense.

"They say your record on the Board ... Selectmen won't bear inspection. ... they?" "Yes, sir; of course you ... fullest investigation?" "Well, no, not ... actly; you see, the fact is, my courting ... are over."

An agnostic: Professor—"The agnostic ... may be briefly described as the Know-nothingist of philosophy. Passing that ... Miss —— may tell what she knows of ... perception." Miss ——: "Professor, I ... an agnostic."

Study of Greek: Mr. Froude, in ... the course of a recent lecture, stated that ... Cato did not begin to learn the Greek ... guage until he was 84 years of age. ... boys of to-day tell their fathers that ... are anxious to follow the example of ...

"Is Miss Blank at home?" asked a ... lessly attired bore of the new girl. ... girl took from her pocket a photograph, ... carefully scanned it, and after another ... at the features of the visitor, answered: ... "No, sor; she has gone to Europe." ... left.

A new secret society has been started ... New York under the name of "Order of the ... Iron Tie." The order of "The Steal Overcoat" operated extensively in this vicinity ... during the winter, but was suppressed by ... the "Cast Iron Collars," otherwise known ... as policemen.

The Impression Mrs. Langtry Gives.

A Brooklyn lady who met Mrs. Langtry in Chicago expressed herself as greatly charmed by her vivacity and refinement.

"Did she seem to you perfectly happy?" asked her friend.

"Perfectly."

"And what impression did her happiness leave upon your mind?"

"The impression that she was a widow."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Madagascar is already paying the penalty of the notoriety it has acquired. Half a dozen French ships of war are hovering about the island; one British cruiser has hastened thither, and two others are on the way; while Germany also is ready to send a man-of-war thither, if required. The great island, larger in area than Great Britain and Ireland, is eyed greedily by several European powers. The speech made recently by the chief Malagasy envoy to the Washington parsons was pathetic in its forebodings of a French invasion. "If the policy of France be the outcome of the white men's civilization," says this colored diplomat, sorrowfully, "then it were better for us to remain in ignorance." But his countrymen are only about to go through with what South Africans of the neighboring mainland have experienced.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

ashington wrs naturally a soldier. Lake in Febuary, he was soon on the e poor fellow who drank himself out of world travelled first-class. He took a n passage.

e tell of an Ohio woman who is so ecial kid that she has never even been n to have an obstinate cough.

an in Browington takes his family to in a sleigh drawn by an ox. That's ay to escape the sermon.

difference between a male flirt and a eaner lies in the fact that one is up man tricks and the other to trimmin' story at Pittsburgh turns out 300 d cork daily. These corks are all to keep Monongahela whisky safely til used.

ghe of all the talks and jokes only one n twenty-two beats his tailor, while lor gets a good fit on more than two five. It's about an even thing.

kes a giraffe about twenty days to r from the seasickness of an ocean That is, ten to get the feeling way down, and ten more to bring it me subtlety: First annex maid—a rar!" Second annex maid— Let's take that red one just be- go over so much faster."

re are no birds in last year's nest," poet. No, and there are no pigeons ear's pigeon-holes. The only thing that even suggests pigeons is a lot test styles of wall paper are so gor- a family can no longer take com- ing out old boots and split-back round the house. Everybody sort o' e was away on a visit.

scientious person affirms that he his life beheld people "minding n business." This remarkable oc- happened at sea, the passengers ook to attend to each other's con-

Babylon, Rome, Athens or any of much-boasted cities had a sewer, a rse drain, a gas jet, a door bell, a new how to make oyster soup, or cakes. You didn't lose anything kerbockers all through: "Oh, yes," Mrs. Snddenriches, "our aunt's e Knickerbockers all through and to give balls and parties in the ne days which for swelldom and the Dutch.

o close: "Jane," sai l a father, you hated stingy people, and yet man—" "Why, pa, who said he "Oh, nobody," replied pa: see he was a little close as I ough the room."

down that Webster, Pat" said ely-elected judges to his clerk. an thaiving newspapers have ing me and, be jabers, I won't the thriving blackguard call me in the William-Tell-shooting- his little boy's head story will ar that there actually was a withstanding the inconoclastic the little legend by proving was not. And everybody knows apple.

's butcher has eloped with a wife. Something should be done butchers. A butcher who will twenty-five cents a pound then walk off with that man's ground in one of his own sau-ange says: "The puffy paniers to the Jersey around the hips." ed that, and you see once in Durham or Ayrshire that looks are not much of a dairyman, the panier is the satchel is carried in.

what is the matter with Mr. the landlady, "he sems to be Most something. "Why, you has been grinding his teeth just "Perhaps," suggested ly getting them in order be- your beefsteaks."

Marie Vere de Vere (senten-), my dear Miss Marlbor- who just miss being fools, men who just miss being ge- Marie rough (awestruck)— this as you say, Mr. Vere de think you are almost a than the disease: Patient I am not well." Doctor— astonish me in the slightest, is the result of going out to late suppers. If you desire to health you must renounce such ment—"Yes; but then, doctor, to live for?"

minded man: "Lend me five left my pocketbook at home," lawyers to T. J. Meyers, the lat- a man of means. "but you are getting your pocketbook, Saw- ed Meyers. "Well, I might just get it; there is never anything in Lawyers candidly.

after the elopement: Miss Mil- Texas, chloroformed her and eloped with the young man father had forbidden the premises. abilities are that about a year will conclude that her life would less miserable if she had chloro- the young man and eloped with her nonsense this is," exclaimed a belle, looking up from a daily jour- paper says that 'death has been places this year, and some of prominent men in this country away.' Why, I was present at last party before Lent, and there a leader of the german who was and well."

A Wahnin.

at 'pends on de rooster fer ter crow me im up 'arly in de mawnin, me fin' dat de rooster is no mo' en sev'al 'ours fore de dawnin.'

GEORGIA MAJOR.

A Few Reflections Upon Night.

It is night. A policeman awakes with a sudden start and moves around the corner, having a secret fear at his heart that he had slept through all that night, all next day, and far into to-morrow night. It is night in a great city. The poker and faro rooms are in full blast, 10,000 loafers are holding down street corners, and here and there an intoxicated Alderman can be seen making his way to a policy shop or a gathering of the pavement ring. Under cover of darkness, first manufactured over 6,000 years ago, the hotel beat lowers his duds from a fourth story window; all who have dead-head tickets start for the opera houses; hundreds of young men set out to spark; reporters look forward to fires, robberies, and murders, and church choirs meet to rehearse and wrangle and lay up clubs for each other.

'Tis night in the country. The stock has been fed, the squeal of the pig is hushed, the tired horse munches at his corn and wonders why his master throwed in so many cobs without a kernal on them. The watch dog sits at the gate, perfectly willing to chew up any of the neighbors for a cent, and within the farm house all is serene, or would be if John Henry could find the grease for his boots, Mary Ann could find her novel, the old man discover the hiding place of the bootjack, and the mother solve the mystery of how some of her neighbors managed to get a dress costing two shillings per yard, while she had nothing but calico.

Tis night on the ocean. The proud steamer sails gallantly on and on, the Captain snoring in his berth, the mates playing enchre, the lookouts asleep, and everything in readiness to swear, in case of collision, that it was all the other vessel's fault. Nothing is heard but the steady beat of the propellor, the groans of the immigrants, and the voices of men and women declaring that anybody who plans an ocean voyage for pleasure ought to be shot to death by codfish balls. The sportive dolphin gambols away his hard earnings. The whale rolls over for another nap, and the business-like shark follows in the wake to pick up any opportunities which may tumble overboard.

'Tis night on the prairie. The red men gather about the camp fire and count the scalps they have taken within the last week, and to grumble at the Government for not furnishing them port wine and repeating rifles. The white hunter and trapper curls himself up to wonder where he can find old bones for breakfast, and to realize what a fool he has made of himself, and the gaunt wolf shoulders his empty stomach and sets out in search of something to make life worth living for.

Night grows apace. In the city the weary wife takes her place in the hall with club in hand. In the country the old folks fall into bed aweary with the work of the day, and the young people spark and chew pop corn. On the ocean the sea-sickers begin to grow worse, and the songs of the mermaid fall flat. On the prairie the Indians finally decide to make war in the Spring, the hunter falls asleep to dream of eating his boots for dinner, and the wolf meets a wildcat and offers to toss up and see which shall eat the other.—Detroit Free Press.

The Danube.

The river Danube has figured largely in history for two thousand years, and it has often become the object to which the eyes of the world has turned. It furnished a highway for the Turks, in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, to penetrate Europe as far as Vienna, and in the days of the crusades it became an outlet for the religious enthusiasm of Europe to flow to the holy land. The Danube, from its source in Baden to the Black Sea, is 1,820 miles long, and it drains, with its tributaries, an area of over 300,000 square miles. It passes through Bavaria, Austria, and Hungary, forms the boundary between Hungary and Servia to the Carpathian mountains, where it separates Roumania and Bulgaria, and passes into the Black Sea through several mouths, the principal one being that of Sulina. The Danube is navigable for steamers as far as Ulm, in Bavaria. At Nicopolis, in the fourteenth century, 100,000 Christians were driven by the Turks into the Danube, and in the fifteenth century 40,000 Turks were slain on its shores at the siege of Belgrade.

No Complaints from the Boarders.

A Detroit milkman sometime since secured a customer whom he soon discovered meant to pay in promises, but he realized that if he quit serving her he stood no chance of collecting the debt already contracted. He therefore planned to oblige her to dismiss him, and began by adding one fourth water to the milk. No fault being found he put in fifty per cent. of water. Three days passed without complaint, and the amount of water rose to seventy-five per cent. In three or four days more he served her with two quarts of water colored by a gill of milk. Next morning he expected to hear from it, but as the servant girl made no complaints he asked:

"How does the family like the milk?"

"Pretty well, I guess."

"No complaints?"

"Not as I've heard. Missus is a widow, you know, and doesn't drink tea nor coffee on account of the dyspepsia, and the boarders have all they can do to complain of the butter!"

The man gave it up as a bad job.

A Mother Killed by Sudden Joy.

Joy is said sometimes to kill outright, though such cases are extremely rare. A perfectly authentic and quite recent instance of such an occurrence may be worth recording. A certain Mme. Laroche, who kept a little mercer's shop in the Rue Oberkampf, in Paris, had a son who, when his turn came for conscription, unfortunately drew a "bad number," and had to go as a marine to Saigon, where he remained several months. He was then transferred to Guadeloupe; but the letter in which he announced the fact to his mother never reached her.

She continued writing to Saigon; and, as her letters received no reply, she fell into a state of profound despair, and concluded that her son was dead. Recently, however, the young man, having leave to return to France, unexpectedly presented himself in his mother's shop and threw himself into his mother's arms. The poor woman, stupefied at his sudden apparition, uttered a cry of joy, when all at once she reeled and fell dead to the floor.—St. James' Gazette.

BRIGHT THOUGHTS.

If to do were easy as to know what were good to do, chapels had been churches, and poor men's cottages princes' palaces.—Shakspeare.

Be wisely worldly, be not worldly wise.—Francis Quarles.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam—Milton.

The reason why so few marriages are happy is because young ladies spend their time in making nets, not in making cages.—Swift.

Dost thou love life, then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made ot.—Benjamin Franklin.

What is twice read is commonly better remembered than what is transcribed.—Samuel Johnson.

The true sense of speech is not so much to express our wants as to conceal them—Goldsmith.

All that is human must retrograde if it do not advance.—Gibbon.

A life spent worthily should be measured by a noble line—by deeds, not words.—Sheridan.

Man's inhumanity to man
Makes countless thousands mourn.
—Robert Burns.

Imitation is the sincerest flattery.—Colton.

Mind is the great lever of all things; human thought is the process by which human ends are ultimately answered.—Daniel Webster.

Nothing is more simple than greatness; indeed, to be simple is to be great.—Emerson.

We always like those who admire us, we do not always like those whom we admire.—La Rochefoucauld.

A guilty conscience is like a whirlpool, drawing in all to itself which would otherwise pass by.—Fuller.

Knowledge without justice ought to be called cunning rather than wisdom.—Plato.

The lightsome countenance of a friend giveth such an inward decking to the house where it lodgeth as proudest palaces have cause to envy the gilding.—Sir Philip Sydney.

Happiness consists in the constitution of the habits.—Paley,

Great minds, like Heaven, are pleased in doing good,
Though the ungrateful subjects of their favors
Are barren in return.
—Rowe.

A wealthy doctor who can help a poor man, and will not without a fee, has less sense of humanity than a ruffian who kills a rich man to supply his necessities.—Steele.

Fault-Finding.

If any one complains that most people are selfish, unsympathetic, absorbed in their own pursuits, their own happiness, and their own sorrow, the chances are ten to one that the complainant is conspicuous for the very faults which he condemns. His thoughts are so concentrated on his own concerns that he is impatient because other people think of their concerns and not his. He is unable to enter into their grief or their joy; when he is wretched he is amazed and indignant that any one can be happy; when he is happy he thinks it intolerable that other people should be so oppressed with their own sorrows as not to make merry with him in his gladness. He has so high an estimate of the importance of his own work that he thinks other men ought to spend a large part of their time in watching and admiring it, and he wonders at the selfishness which keeps them close at their own occupations when they ought to be showing their sympathy with his. This absorption in everything that relates to himself is the explanation of the universal indifference of which he complains. To secure sympathy we must give as well as take. The country that exports nothing will have no imports; but if it infers that all the rest of the world is in wretched poverty, with no mines, and no timber, and no glorious harvests, the inference will be a false one. As soon as a man finds that he is beginning to think that all human hearts are cold let him suspect himself. When an iceberg floats away from the frozen fields which lie near the pole it cools the waters into which it drifts; the very Gulf Stream sinks in temperature as soon as the mountain of ice touches it. In a crowd it is the man who pushes hardest who thinks that everybody is pushing him; it is the man who is resolved to make his way to the front who complains that everybody wants to get in front of him. If people speak to you roughly, take warning; the probability is that you speak roughly to them.—Good Words.

A granger whose name is Bob Shield,
Was mowing the grass in his field,
By a snake he was bitter,
And he has just written,
"St. Jacobs Oil has the life healed.'

A lame Chinaman on the Pacific,
Of pains and aches was prolific;
He limped all around,
Until he had found
St. Jacobs Oil, the great specific.

"In for a peny, in for a pound." The base drummer.

If you are bilious, take Dr Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the original "Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

Genuine self-denial—Saying, "Not at home."

A Rope about our Necks.

A weak stomach or enfeebled circulation is like a rope about our necks. We are strung up and unstrung alternately till existence becomes unbearable. Burdock Blood Bitters will arfest all this misery. Burdock Blood Bitters is a boon to the sick. Let us remember this fact. (L)

A pert miss says she wears bangs because she doesn't want to look so forehead.

Imagine for a moment the thousands upon thousands of bottles of Carboline, the deodorized petroleum hair renewer, annually sold, and the fact that not a single complaint has been received from all these thousands, and you may have some idea of its good qualities.

A man out West died in a bath tub. The verdict was death from inexperience.

FOR THE

KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—wherever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by placing them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles; for the distressing disorders of women; for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For Diabetes ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,

Toronto, Ont., Rochester, N.Y., London, Eng.

MISCELLANEOUS.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufr of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE CLOTH and Wire Goods at the Toronto Wire Works, 116 King St. West, T. G. RICE.

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler, 113 Yonge Street, Toronto.

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2, $4 $5, or $10 lots. By post pre-paid H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto.

CLERKS AND SCHOOLMASTERS—WHY not add $5 to $15.00 per week to your salary after business hours. Address with stamp, H. McALISTER, Drawer 2630, Toronto, Ont.

FARMERS AND LAND OWNERS WISHing to sell their properties can secure immediate sale by sending full particulars to BUTLER & LAKE, 66 King Street East, Toronto.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION Co-operative Life Assurance. Provide for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON PAGE, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

AGENTS—IN EVERY COUNTY IN ONtario—to sell a necessary and profitable article—sent three cent stamp for particulars. Address L. B. CLEMENS, Waterloo.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of outside and inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50. INCLUDING FOUR tunes. T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical Instruments, Piano Music, Band Music, &c. Catalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX, 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine, with lamp complete, C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

STOCK OF GOODS WANTED IN EXCHANGE for large good farm, having village and Railway station on it, or would sell cheap. Apply Box 1, Dundalk, Ont.

OWNERS OF FARM LANDS, CITY AND Town Properties, desiring to realize, will find purchasers by sending me full descriptions, lowest prices, and terms of payment. J. W. G. WHITNEY, Estate Agent, 25 Toronto street, Toronto.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-street East, Toronto. Business Agent and Valuer.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, S.,V. Edin., Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

FARM FOR SALE—2ND CON. PICKERing township, one mile north Pickering village, six miles west of Whitby; 67½ acres; best of soil; 2 houses; good outbuildings; first-class young orchard. Further particulars apply to ISAAC HOAG, on premises, or JOS. J. MOORE, Norwich, Ont.

"NEWCOMBE PIANOFORTES ARE endorsed by the most eminent musicians for superiority of tone and action. Illustrated catalogues mailed on application, OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & CO., corner of Church & Richmond Sts., Toronto. A variety of second hand Pianos by Chickering, Stodart, and other makers at close prices.

MANITOBA! RARE CHANCE FOR FARMERS. Choice lands. Choice positions. Easy prices and terms: ¼ cash, balance ¼ equal annual payments, with interest at 7½ per cent. Southern Manitoba—320 acres, $7.00 per acre, E. ½ 13. Tp. 4, Rg. 14, west. Birtle Dist.—640 acres, $8 00 per acre, all 6, Tp. 17, Rg. 25, west. Winnipeg Dist.—240 acres $8.00 per acre, S.W. ¼, & S. ½, S.E. ¼ 4. Tp. 8, Rg. 1, west. 240 acres $8.00 per acre, S. W. ¼, & W. ½, S. E. ¼ 32, Tp. 7, Rg. 1, west. 240 acres, $10 00 per acre, S. W. ¼, & S. ½, N. W. ¼ 1, Tp. 9, Rg. 2, west. 240 acres, $10.00 per acre, N. W. ¼ & N. ½, S. W. ¼ 34, Tp. 8, Rg. 1, west. ALFRED BOYD, 23 Scott Street, Toronto.

THE KEEWATIN GOLD MINES.

Wonderful returns promised from the capital invested. A district abounding in mineral wealth. The place to make fortunes. Prof. Chapman (of the School of Science, Toronto) reports $110 pure gold to the ton. Mr. Walter Hamilton the well-known mining engineer of the Hamilton Reduction Co., New York, reports $193.41 gold and silver per ton of 2,000 lbs., as the results of their assays of the quartz found in the Manitoba mines. All information and full reports sent on application to

TORONTO MINING BOURSE,

61 King Street East, Toronto.

CONSUMPTION!

Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, with diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart, successfully treated at the Ontario Pulmonary Institute, 135 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario.

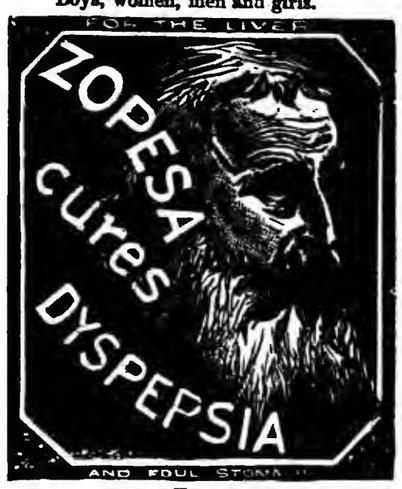
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M.C.P.S.O., PROPRIETOR.



Our system of practice is by Medicated Inhalations, combined with proper constitutional remedies. Over 40,000 cases treated during the past 17 years.

If impossible to call personally for an examination, write for list of Questions and Medical Treatise. Address,

Ontario Pulmonary Institute,

135 Church st, Toronto, Ont.

Use "TEABERRY" and you will find
Your Teeth become as pearls;
'Twill fragrant make the Breath of all,
Boys, women, men and girls.

Near TILSONBURG, ONT.,
Dec 14, 1881

I have been ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton. Last fall I weighed only eighty-six pounds. I was induced to try ZOPESA by Mr. Thomson (of the firm of C. Thomson & Co., druggists, of this place), and, many thanks to him, I am now an entirely new woman and weigh 124 pounds, through the use of this new compound.

MRS. CAROLINE FORBES,
Wife of Mr. R. G. Forbes.

SPORTING, Sensational & Comic Books; list for stamp. J. A. WILSON, Paulsboro, N.J.

ROOFING MATERIALS, CARPET AND Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS, 4 Adelaide St., East, Toronto.

AT A BARGAIN—STOCK AND GRAIN Farm near Fergus, county Wellington, 163 acres; 100 clear; 30 new land; good clay loam; good water and pasture. Address, G. F. PLATT, Fergus P. O.

FOR SALE—640 ACRES—CLASS ONE Land, Oak River District, Manitoba; $3 per acre; $1,000 cash, balance on time. Splendid chance for intending settlers. Apply to ROBERT WATSON, Orillia.

FOR SALE OR TO LET—BLACKSMITH shop and house, garden and orchard, good business stand. For further particulars apply to R. HOWELL, Kimberley P. O. Euphrasia Tp. Ont.

YORK FARMERS' COLONY, N. W. T. Free Homesteads with preemptions added now open in this fertile track. For list of present settlers, improvements now going on and full information, address Head Office, 1 Victoria St., Toronto. Intending settlers wanted as agents. JAS. ARMSTRONG, Managing Director.

VESSELS FOR SALE OR CHARTER—schooners Craftsman, Fellowcraft, Hercules, and Eric Wave; all A, vessels and in good condition. Apply to W. Y. EMERY, Port Burwell, Ont.

GOOD SEEDS FOR ALL CLIMATES—ILLUSTRATED and Descriptive catalogues of choice Vegetables and Flower Seeds now ready, and will be sent free to all applicants. No charge for postage on seeds at catalogue prices. WILLIAM EVANS, Seedsman, 93 McGill street, Montreal.

Established 1855.

CANADA LUMBER | WANTED —BY— DODGE & CO., Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

"RELIABLE"

SEEDS

It will pay purchasers of Seeds to send for my Annual Descriptive and Priced Catalogue or "Cultivator's Guide" for 1883. Sent free on application. Address.

J. A. SIMMERS'

RELIABLE SEED HOUSE,

147 King street East, Toronto

KENT BROS.

INDIAN CLOCK!

With life size figures striking the hours and quarters, also indicating the time on three dials, is one of the great attractions of Toronto. Their magnificent is without a rival in the Dominion. A visit to this establishment will well repay any intending purchaser who may favor them with a call. Inspection is invited to their immense stock of Watches, Diamonds, Jewelry, Silverware, Clocks, Bronzes, Musical Boxes, Spectacles, Opera Glasses, &c., &c. All goods marked in plain figures, warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest possible prices for cash.

Watch and Jewelry Establishment

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

KENT BROS.,

168 YONGE STREET, TORONTO

SIGN OF THE INDIAN CLOCK.

P.S.—Send for Price List.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75 cts., we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a Cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10cts, 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore, Chest, or Back, Lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Wm. Brown's Gene-Store Markdale.

Teacher, severely: "John, why is it that boys' hands are always dirtier than girls'?" John, hesitatingly: "Please sir, the girls wash the dishes."

SHILOH'S CATARRHREMEDY.

A marvelous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Head Ache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50c. Sold by Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

An Irishman in a strange town stood looking at a vessel. "Where are you from, Pat?" "Begorra, sir, I'm from anywhere but here," he replied, "and I'll soon be from here too, sir."

FREE OF CHARGE.

All persons suffering from Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Loss of Voice or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, are requested to call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of charge, which will convince them of its wonderful Merits and show what a regular dollar-size bottle will do. Call early.

Who says it's unhealthy to sleep in feathers? Look at the spring chicken, and see how tough he is.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by A. Turner & Co.

How quickly a limb of the law branches out.

A VEXED CLERGYMAN.

Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial Bottles given away at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store.

The average searvant girl dosen't believe in pouring oil sn the troubled waters; she'd rather pour it on the troubled fire.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

No intelligent Lawyer will take the will for the deed.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE.

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40.

Thoughts that burn -Rejected communications.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty-five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

Wm. Lucas & Co. bankers, Markdale, have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest: moderate charges.

THE QUESTION HAS OFTEF BEEN ASKED.

Can—Rupture—(abdominal hernia) be cured? We most emphatically say, YES. That this part of the body offers no exception to those physiological laws which govern the whole physical economy and it makes not a particle of difference whether the age of the Rupture is one year or a hundred years. For proof of this send for a Free Book on Rupture to The Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Prescott, Ont. 132-84.

"The only lady who ever impressed me much," said an old bachelor, "was a 280 pound woman, who was standing in a street car, and when the car turned a corner fell against me."

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m.

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

GREAT REDUCTION OF PRICES

—AT THE—

'TORONTO HOUSE,'

Selling off at and Under Cost

TO MAKE ROOM FOR

SPRING IMPORTATIONS.

NOW IS TIME TO

SECURE BARGAINS

Our 25 cent. TEA is Unsurpassed. Give it a Trial,

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, March 21st, 1883.

GROCERIES

A. M'INTYRE

TEA! TEA! TEA!

A. M'INTYRE

Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork.

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And everything kept in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

GROCERIES

MARKDALE

Sash and Door Factory

SASH, DOORS,
BLINDS
MOULDINGS,
HOLLOW BATTONS,
FRAMES

Lumber, Lath and Shingles,

Always on Hand. Orders Promptly Filled.

The Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the people of Markdale and vicinity, for the very liberal patronage they have given him in the past, and hopes by close attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

I have now extended my business, and will in future keep a full Stock of

PINE LUMBER.

Direct from the North Shore.

ALL SIZES, DRESSED AND UNDRESSED,

All Kinds of Plain and Fancy Turning

Done in a first-class manner.

THOS. McNEA.

Markdale May 27th. 1881. 37-tf

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE

FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.

My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

SUGAR KETTLE

TO THE FARMERS

SUGAR KETTLES OF THE BEST QUALITY AT

MARKDALE FOUNDR

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.

WOOD & OLD IRON TAKEN IN EXCHA

MOFFAT BROS.

W. BULMER,

The People's Photograph

FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good

FRAMES and FRAME FIXIN

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULME

R. J. Sproule's

ANNUAL

Clearing Sale

Is now going on and

WILL CONTINUE

ANOTHER WEEK

Call early and secure bargains.

Heavy importations of Spring goods are now on the way, and our present large stock must be cleared out and will be sold out at and under cost.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES—being Lot 20, Con. 10, Glenelg. This farm is three miles from Markdale, with about 40 acres cleared, balance, hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing the place. It is well watered with never failing stream of spring water. Young orchard, log house, and stables. Clear deed can be given. For price and terms apply to MRS. MIGHT, on the premises, Markdale P. O.—Also a farm waggon and fanning mill for sale 127-tf.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!

LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers; address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

Land for Sale,

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Farm for Sa

100 ACRES, being lot Euphrasia; about 40 balance good hardwood; has a frame house 18x24 feet, a good orchard, and is situated on a miles from Markdale. The sold on reasonable terms. For apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, KIRKWOOD, on the premises.

March 10th, 1883.

WARNIN

There is great danger ing cold from wet feet. want to Guard Against Si

Keep your feet dry and by procuring your

BOOTS

—FROM—

KAY & THO

Satisfaction Guaranteed. icated Cork Soles, all s on hand. Remember opposite the new Office.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 29. MARKDALE, ONT., MAR. 29, 1883. No. 133.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

$1 Per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

If not paid within three months, $2 if not paid till the end of the year. No paper discontinued until arrears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing to take paper paying up will be held responsible for the years subscriptions until they comply with the rules.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

Column one year	$50 00
Half do. do.	27 50
Quarter do. do.	15 00
Eighth do. do.	8 00
Sixteenth do. do.	4 00
Ten lines, first insertion per line	8
Subsequent insertion	3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid nonpareil. Advertisements without specific instructions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 12 o'clock on the wednesday preceding publication.

JOB PRINTING

of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Sadler's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

Geent, M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University. Vict. College. " " New York, and Graduate, of the same, " " Avleth Medical Institute. " " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Rooms over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND.

Every attention given to the preservation of natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases.

Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

D. A. Cameron, M.D., & C. F. Knight, L.D.S. L.R.C.P. & S. Glasgow, Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont L.D.S., Ont.

P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 122-74.

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale, Office open every Thursday, as before.

Wm. Frost, J. W. Frost, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG Notary in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT. Offices—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Bruce St.; and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57.1y

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYancers, &c. &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday of each Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

W. CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown,

REGISTER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate. Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon, me and themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Markdale, Jan. 15th, 1883.

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

BYRENS & McCASKILL

PROPRIETORS.

THIS popular Hotel has changed hands and the above men cater to the wants of the public. Good stabling and attentive hostlers. The best brands of liquor and cigars, good meals and comfortable rooms, large commercial room. Barber shop in connection. 130-1y.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

C. H. MATTHEWS, PROPRIETOR.

The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meals and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler. 114

Markdale House.

This commodious and popular hotel is furnished in first-class style is one of the finest hotels in the County. Good accommodation for travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate.

A. RUTLEDGE, PROPRIETOR.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain and Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-ly.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, April 2nd at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture!

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

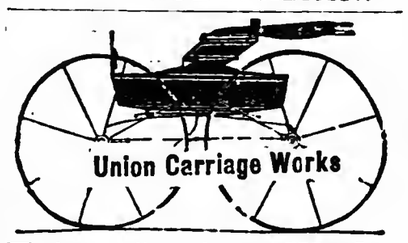
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-ly

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

WARNING.

ALL NOTES AND OVERDUE ACcounts not paid during the present month will be handed in for collection.

H. FOSTER.

Markdale, March 14th, 1883. 131-3t

(GRANGE REPORT—Continued from last week.)

Moved by Bro. J. Kennedy, seconded by Bro. Thos. Mann, that this grange give expression as to whether the delegates from this grange should urge for the discontinuance of Provincial granges as a part of the business machinery of the grange society.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. H. D. Irwin, seconded by Bro. Dr. Kennedy, that as New England grange has showed to the satisfaction of this grange that the amount shown by auditors' report against it as arrears in dues has been paid, be it therefore resolved that the Secretary be instructed to add to the credit side of their account, the same to balance it, and a copy of this resolution be handed to delegate of said grange.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. Palmer, seconded by Bro. Reid, that our Worthy Secretary be paid $40, as salary for last year.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. G. Stewart, seconded by Bro. B. White, that we now proceed to elect officers for 1883.—Carried.

Nominations were received and ballots passed for the different offices elected, and the following declared elected officers of Grey Division Grange No. 2 for the year:

Bro. R. J. Doyle, Master.
" H. D. Irwin, Overseer.
" John Weber, Vandeleur P. O., Secretary.
" James Brodie, Treasurer.
" Dr. Kennedy, Lecturer.
" H. Palmer, Chaplain.
" D. R. Ellis, Steward.
" W. McLoughrey, Asst. Steward.
" G. Stewart, Gate Keeper.
Sis. Doyle, Ceres.
Sis. Stewart, Pomona.
" Gifford, Flora.
" Aikin, L. A. Steward.

Executive Com.—Bros. H. Reid, D. Armstrong and Monroe.
Auditors—H. D. Irwin and H. Palmer.

Moved by Bro. H. D Irwin, seconded by Bro. H. Palmer, that we proceed to installation by administering the obligation.—Carried.

Bros. Hewgill and Skene, visiting brethren from Beaver Valley Div. and South Grey Div. upon request installed the officers elect.

Moved by Bro. D. R. Ellis, seconded by Bro. J. Kennedy, that Bros. H. D. Irwin and H. Palmer be a committee to prepare a pay sheet of delegates' expenses to this meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. Stewart, seconded by Bro. J. Brodie, that the fifth degree be conferred on all members of this Div. Grange who are entitled to receive the same at the next meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Bro. H. Reid, seconded by Bro. G. Stewart, that the Secretary be requested to get the minutes of this meeting printed in the local newspapers and in pamphlet form as usual.—Carried.

Worthy Master explained the formation of and working of the co-operative salt company.

Bros. Hewgill and Skene each gave short but instructive addresses.

Moved by Bro. Reid, seconded by Bro. J. Kennedy, that in the absence of Past Master David Christie, who has filled the chair of Worthy Master of this Grange with great credit to himself and with pleasure and profit to the members, that the thanks of this grange are tendered to our worthy brother, with hopes that he may still feel it his duty to honor us with his presence and assist in our deliberations. That our Worthy Secretary be requested to forward to Bro. Christie a copy of above resolution with the seal attached.—Carried unanimously by standing vote.

Moved by Bro. D. Armstrong, seconded by Bro. B. White, that the next Division meeting be held at Meaford.—Carried.

Report of Committee appointed to strike Standing Committee.

To the Worthy Master and Members of Grey Division Grange No. 2.

Your Committee beg leave to submit the following Standing Committees for the year 1883:

IMPLEMENTS—Bros. H. Palmer, Reid, Brodie, Richardson, and Walker.

HORTICULTURE—Sister Doyle, and Bros. Connell, Ellis, Armstrong. Weber, Brodie and Doyle.

EDUCATION—Irwin, Gifford, Dr. Kennedy, White and Weber.

MUNICIPAL LAWS—Bowes, Christie, Richardson, Dr. Kennedy and Weber.

STOCK—Palmer, Irwin, Armstrong, Geo. Dale and Ellis.

JURRISDICTION—Christie, McLoughrey and Inkster.

SEED GRAIN—Armstrong, Walker, Stewart, Reid, Kennedy, Hickling, Brodie and Palmer.

DOMESTIC INDUSTRY—Sisters Doyle, Stewart, Hickling, Gifford, Reid, and Margaret Aikins.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON HORTICULTURE.

Your Committee on Horticulture beg leave to report as follows:—"In consequence of the demand for fruit in the North-West and Great Britain we would strongly recommend farmers to pay more attention to fruit growing, and would urge farmers in planting out trees to select stock carefully, plant nothing but good trees, and select apples that are good shippers. We recommend the following varieties:—Russets, King of Tompkins County, Ben Davis, Spitzenburg, Cooper's Market, Wealthy, Bellflower, Fall, Duchess of Oldenburg, and St. Lawrence, Harvest, Early Harvest, and Red Astracan. In Pears we would recommend Bartlett, F. Beauty, Clapp's Favorite, Dearborn, Seedling, Duchess DeAngouleme, and Vicar of Wakefield. In Plums the Lombard, Coe's Golden Drop, Yellow Egg, Duaine's Purple, Pond's Seedling, and Bingham. We would not recommend Peaches unless in very favorable localities. Where Peaches are planted try Alexander. In Grapes we would recommend Hartford, Prolific, and Deleware. We would strongly recommend Wilson's Albany in Strawberries, and that farmers should grow more, as they are one of the best paying fruit crops. In Cherries we find the common red cherry gives the best satisfaction. We would recommend that every farmer should set apart a plot for flowers, as their culture has a refining influence and beautifies and adorns home at the same time."

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON STOCK.

To the Worthy Master and Patrons of Grey Division Grange. Your Committee on Stocks beg to report as follows:—"Your Committee are fully sensible of the advantages to the farming community of breeding first-class stock and view with pleasure the several organizations in the neighboring townships for the purpose of introducing thoroughbred horses, and as the grange society is peculiarly adopted for aiding and initiating such efforts, your committee would advise

(Continued on Supplement.)

ESPECIALLY FOR LADIES

A Romantic Wedding.—Girls with Bangs. Chit-Chat.

A Rosy Romance.

Probably the most romantic marriage that ever took place in this city, say the Louisville Courrier-Journal, took place recently at the residence of Mrs. Louisa Kunnecke, No. 1,202 West Walnut street. The contracting parties were W. De Garmo, a wealthy Spaniard, and Mrs. Lisetta H. Beason, daughter of the lady at whose house the ceremeny was performed The story of the marriage is a remarkable one, and shows the strange courses through which fate sometimes runs. Five years ago Miss Lisetta Kusnecke, a charming young lady of 22 summers, became acquainted with Mr. George Beason, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company for the State of Kentucky. A mutual attachment was the result of their acquaintance, and after a courtship extending over a period of twelve months the young couple were united in marriage. Soon after this they moved to Elizabethtown, Ky., where they purchased a handsome home and lived in happiness for nearly two years, when the first great blow of her life fell upon her. Her husband was suddenly taken ill with typhoid pneumonia, and in spite of all efforts, died in a week afterward. He had insurance policies on his life amounting to $10,000, which was paid over to his young widow. Soon afterward she moved to this city and invested her money in real estate. Her life was for a time a very lonely one, and in order to keep her mind occupied she accepted a position with the company of which her husband had been a trusted employe. She applied herself closely to her business, and never left the city until the grand musical festival took place at Cincinnati in 1882. At the earnest invitation of some of her friends she consented to attend it, and they accordingly departed for that city. That night they repaired to the grand hall, and in company with several friends, she took her seat nearly in the centre of the parquette, and under one of the large chandeliers, which threw its light down upon her handsome face and figure. She was still dressed in mourning, and the heavy, dark hat which hung closely around her face only served to make the picture more attractive. During the intermission between the acts she partially turned round in her seat, to make a remark to one of her friends, and naturally cast her eyes over the vast row of faces which surrounded her. Sitting just across from her she noticed a finely dressed man of about the medium size, but with a very dark face, betokening his nationality, looking intently upon her with a pair of large black eyes. The intentness of his stare made her look at him more closely than she would otherwise have done, and after a momentary meeting of the eyes, she turned her head and settled back in her seat. Several times during the performance she felt an irresistible desire to look, and whenever she turned her head, saw the eyes of the stranger fixed closely upon her. When the curtain fell on the last act and the thousands of people were about to depart, she noticed him elbowing his way toward her, but a sudden surge of the crowd in the aisle swept him from view, and she saw him no more. She talked the matter over with her friends after her arrival at the hotel, but thought no more of it. The next morning she chanced to pick up one of the daily papers, and, with a true womanly instinct, turned to the personal column. To her astonishment she saw one which brought up before her the occurrence at the theatre the night before. The advertisement had been inserted by the swarthy-looking stranger, and requested her to send her name and address to "W. De G., El Paso, Tex." After thinking the matter over she determined to write as requested, just to have a little amusement. She accordingly dropped a note to the address given, and two weeks afterward received a lengthy reply. The correspondence was kept up for several months, the letters growing more and more affectionate, until one came containing a proposal of marriage. The answer was a favorable one, and last Tuesday was set as the day for the performance of the ceremony. A little over a week ago the unknown bridegroom, so to speak, arrived in the city, and for the first time they met face to face. Neither seemed to have cause to regret the turn affairs had taken, and a little party of friends assembled at the house on the day named to see the romance of two lives sealed. They only remained in the city until yesterday afternoon, when they departed for his home in Texas. De Garmo proved to be very wealthy, and while here sold fourteen hundred acres of fine land to Mr. J. Wash Bryan. The story of the courtship was kept quiet by the family, but being too good to keep locked up, and it has been talked of extensively by friends and acquaintances of the lady who played such an important part.

Effect of Bangs on a Girl.

Bangs on a girl (a western paper says) give her an unruly look, like a cow with a hair lower her face. You take the gentlest cow in the world and put a board over her face and turn her out in a pasture, and she gets the name of being unruly; and you would swear that she would jump fences and raise merry hades, and you wouldn't give so much for her by $10 only for beef. It is so with the girl. If she wears her hair high on her forehead, or brushed back, or even has frizzes, and has a good look, you will go your bottom dollar on her, and feel that she is good as gold, and that when she tells her young man that she loves him there is no discount on it, and no giggling back; but take the same girl, with her front hair banged, and when she looks at you you feel just as though she would hook, and you can't trust her. She has a fence-jumping look that makes a young man feel as though he wouldn't feel safe unless she was tied hand and foot, so she couldn't get out of the pasture. A girl with bangs may try to be good and true, but its awful hard work. When she looks at herself in the glass and sees the quarter of forehead, she says to herself: "I am dangerous; they want to look out for me." She thinks she is all right, but she is constantly doing that which a girl who wears hair brushed back would not think of doing. The bang girl may belong to the church, and may try to put on a pious look while the hymn is being read. But she will look out from behind those bangs sideways at some sleek and lovely young Christian who is trying to get his mind fixed on the hymn, and he will get his mind fixed on her, and it will break him all up, and he won't know whether he is singing "A Charge to Keep I Have," or "She's a Daisy." The bang girl may place her bangs down on the back of the pew ahead of her during the morning prayer and try to be good, but her corset will be too tight, and as she hitches around to ease the pain one eye will rise like the morning sun over the back of the pew, and that eye will catch the eye of a young man two seats to the right, who is trying to cover his face with one hand, while he trys to keep the flies off the pomade on his hair with the other, and his interest in the prayer is knocked into a cocked hat. The banging of a girl's hair changes the whole nature of the little wretch, and she becomes as a gun that is loaded. You take a picture of "Evangeline" and bang her hair, and she would look as though she would "run at" people. How would Mrs. Van Cott, the alleged female preacher, look with her hair banged? It is just the same with boys. You take a nice pious, Sunday-school boy, who can repeat three hundred verses of the New Testament, and cut his hair with a clipper and he looks like Tug Wilson.

Material for a Romance.

The Russellvile (Ky.) Herald-Enterprise says: The departure of a certain gentleman of Muhlenberg county for Arizona last week was an incident in a story about which could be built an interesting romance. Between twenty-five and thirty years ago, when the gentleman was a baby, his father left home to better his fortunes, and went, it was thought, to California. His wife heard nothing from him or of him until he had been gone for three or more years, when she received a cheque for $500 and requesting her to come to him. She kept the money, as was proper, but declined to make the journey, and he became silent again. Years went by, and the lady, after proper preliminaries, married again. The gentleman had also dropped from the minds of his old neighbors, many believing him dead, until a few weeks ago, when he gave another sign of life by sending another cheque for $500. This time the money was sent to his son, whom he remembered only as "the baby;" but who is the father of a family himself now. In his letter he said if his son would come to him in Arizona he would give him a good farm. The young man accepted the offer. The meeting of the old father and "the baby" will doubtless be an interesting one. The gentleman is said to be quite rich now.

CHIT-CHAT.

"My Husband's Secret" was written by a lady. It isn't the first instance on record of a lady giving her husband's secrets away to the public.

A paper heads a column of personals "Men and Things"—which certainly is not a very gallant or gentlemanly way of referring to the other sex.

The reason why women cannot succeed as well as man in the walks of life is because when she is on the walks one hand is usually employed in holding up her dress.

Venus rises two and a half hours before the sun. It naturally takes the old girl some time to kindle a fire and get the tangles out of her hair before breakfast time. The sun gets up earlier when the weather gets warmer.

Mrs. Marrowfat had just finished reading an account of a Michigan girl who had dropped dead upon receiving an offer of marriage from a young man, when Miltiades quietly asked; "Mother, don't you suppose he knew it would kill her?"

"She wears Louis XV. shoes, does she?" exclaimed Mrs. Recentwealth. "Well, she's got mighty big feet if that's her size, that's all I've got to say." And the old lady contemplates her own canal-boat shoes with evident satisfaction.

"You say that your wife gets mad and raises a row?" "I should say she did. She makes enough fuss to run a freight train forty miles an hour." "But if you knew that she was in the habit of getting mad why did you marry her?" "Because if I had held back she would have got madder than ever."

Mrs. McCoble, an Austin lady, rebuked her colored cook, Matilda Snowball, in the following words: "When I hired you you said you didn't have any male friends, and now I find a man in the kitchen half the time." "Lor bress your soul, he ain't no male friend of mine." "Who is he, then?" He am only my husband."

North and South—Mrs. Smith (from Bayswater): "I suppose you are going to lots of dances?" Miss Smythe (from Belgrave): "I am going to Mrs. Mowbray Masham's, of course, on the 28th. I've—a—not heard there's any other." Miss Smith who has cards for a dozen dances at least but has never even heard of Mrs. Mowbray Masham's, feels rather out about it.

Royal Maniacs.

The unfortunate monomaniac, Capt. Goode, who died recently at Broadmoor, England, after confinement in a lunatic asylum for nearly fifty years for the outrage on Queen Victoria on May 24, 1827, persisted to the last, though sane on other points, that he was the son of George IV. For twenty years he was an inmate at Bedlam, where there were once at the same time three more royal maniacs—Jane Long, who called herself Queen Caroline (her madness was attributable to remorse consequent on marital unfaithfulness); Mary Stuart, religiously mad, who believed herself to be consort of George IV., and Charlotte Harding, an unmarried woman, who believed she was Queen Charlotte. Whenever their Majesties met at the same time Bedlam became the theatre of a fierce and clamorous war of words, attitudes, and grimaces, each claiming the exclusive rights of hereditary power, and disowning the others as impostors. A few years before Goode entered Bedlam Margaret Nicholson, who made an attempt on the life of George III. in 1786, died there, aged 80, and James Hatfield, who fired at the same King as he stood in the royal box, Drury Lane Theatre, in May, 1800, was an inmate when he entered Pigeon Shooting.

The cruelty of shooting a pigeon is in itself not greater than the cruelty of shooting a pheasant or a partridge. Death is very commonly instantaneous in both cases, and if the pigeon gets away wounded the nobler bird may do the same. It is the mental attitude of the sportsman in the two cases that makes the difference. There is something cold-blooded in the notion of catching and keeping a live animal in order that you may use it to test the accuracy of your aim when a glass ball would serve the purpose equally as well. Sport, again, is traditionally associated with some endurance on the part of the sportsman, and the physical and mental vigor which he gains in this way is the best of all reasons for the continuance of this practice. A community in which young, wealthy, and idle men were cut off from this way of spending their time would certainly suffer by the other methods to which they would resort in order to get rid of their superfluous animal vigor. Pigeon-shooting cannot be defended on this ground. A man has neither to ride after the hounds nor to walk in pursuit of the birds. It is true, no doubt, that the present tendency is to reduce some other forms of shooting to the same uninteresting level, and the slaughter of pheasants sometimes comes too near in its incidents to the slaughter of barn-door fowls. But though this tendency is to be regretted, it remains only a tendency, whereas, in pigeon-shooting all pretence of endurance is laid aside, and the birds are brought to the sportsman instead of the sportsman going after the birds. It is a further and very serious objection to this bastard form of sport that it is becoming more and more associated with money. That is not in itself a point which the law can touch. A man might back himself to kill so many partridges in so many hours, just as well as to kill so many pigeons. But it is undoubtedly a mark of a lower kind of sport when it lends itself to be used habitually in this way, and as regards pigeon-shooting this is strictly true. But for this it would not have made the tour of Europe as it has now done. It ministers more than almost any other form of sport to the fashionable taste for gambling, and when it happens to be objectionable on other grounds as well, it is permissable to feel a certain satisfaction that its prohibition will have the incidental effect of checking, however slightly, a passion which cannot be too much discouraged on those rare occasions when it comes sufficiently in view to make discouragement possible.—The Spectator.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Bro. Gardner on the Future of his Race.

"I see by de papers," said Brother Gardner as he motioned to Samuel Shin to drop one of the back windows, "I see by de papers dat Prof. Gilliam predicts that in 1983 de cull'd man will be in de ascendancy. Jist so. We'll drap two mo' winders an' discuss de subjic a little."

"In one hundred y'ars, den, 'cordin to de Professor, de Samuel Shins an' Giveadam Joneses an' Pickles Smithses of our race will be at de head of de guv'ment. P'raps a pusson named Waydown Bebee will be President of de United Staits. Whalebone Howker will be de leadin' Chief Justice of de highest court in de land. Judge Cadaver will be Gub'nor of Michigan. Chewso Canpman an' Depravity Johnson will be de Vanderbilt and Gould of de period. Profs. Backdown Turner an' Rise Up Bunker will flourish at Havard an' Yale. Three-Ply Jones, Discount White, Bunko Jackson an' oders will be Presidents of national banks, an' boards of trade, chambers of commerce, an' stock exchanges will be run entirely by cull'd men.

"It am a beautiful landscape to look upon, an' I really pity de poo' white man. He has bin lordin' it ober de world at large so long, an' has made sich progress in science an' terlosophy dat it will seem purty tough fur him to saw our wood, clean our alleys an black our butes."

At this point Reconstructed Taylor began to stamp his feet and clap his hands and seek to start an encore, but the President interrupted him with:

"Brudder Taylor, drap it! Now draw yer feet out of de alley an' doan' move agin till de meetin' am out! No doubt you am tickled half to death, but let us see what tickles you. In a hunddred y'ars we am to be top of de heap. We am to loose our kinks and grow straight ha'r, our feet am to be pared down, our noses am to be trimmed down, our mouths puckered on a new plan, an' we am to loose our brunette complexions. Den our heads am to be reshaped an' restuffed, our speech filed down and sandpapered, an' we am to progress faster in 100 y'ars dan de white man has in 1,000. I think I see us at de pinnicle! We look awfully purty at de to of de heap! Nobody would know us as we stan' erect on de cap-sheaf an' wave the glorious banner.

"My fren's," continued the President, after a long and solemn silence, "if Prof. Gilliam am not a fool he am de nex' bes' thing—a crank. One hundred yar's will not do what he says. We can't fetch it. We was bo'n in de wrong time of de moon, brought up on de wrong sort o' eatables, an' eddecated in de wrong kind of skules. We have an' shall progress. Our chill'en will know mo' dan we de, and deir chill'en will be a peg higher, an' de day will come when we shall stan' higher in all de arts an' sciences, but we mus' not forgit de present. Dar am mouths to feed an' bodies to clothe an' house rent to pay an' fuel to buy, an' he who loses a day's work to dream ober Prof. Gilliam's prophecy shows his lack of sense. If, arter all de present members of dis club have bin sleepin' for half a century in de grave, de white man begins to lose his grip an' de black man begins to catch on, it will be all right. Meanwhile, doan' mis a cog. Doan' be made fools of. Doan' try to clothe de chill'en wid the raiment of a hundred y'ars hence, an' doan' expeck dat de predickshun dat we shall ultimately warm out feet in de halls of Congress am gwine to satisfy present hunger. We will now tighten our belts an' pitch into de reglar order of bizness."

A new instrument of war is in the mole torpedo; which can burrow in the earth or under a wall, and then either explode at once or wait a while, according to the will of its master.

Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has become so thoroughly established in public favor that were it not for the forgetfulness of people it would not be necessary to call attention to its power to cure consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs, and other blood diseases, as eruption, blotches, pimples, ulcers, and "liver complaint."

Minnedosa has been accommodated with a post office money order office.

How Women Would Vote.

Were women allowed to vote, every one in the land who has used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" would vote it to be an unfailing remedy for the diseases peculiar to her sex. By druggists.

The people of East Selkirk want the Indians removed from St. Peters's reserve.

What Physicians Say.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N.Y.:—Dear Sir—I have employed your "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" in my practice for the last four years. I now use no other alterative or cathartic medicines in all chronic derangements of the stomach, liver, and bowels. I know of nothing that equals them.

J. A. MILLER, M.D.

The members of the I. O. F. in Winnipeg are organizing a band in connection with their order.

Universal Testimony

Cannot be disputed, and the case is yet to be heard from in which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has failed to perform a perfect cure. This with painless and rapid action and freedom from annoyance during use. The great corn and bunion cure stands unrivalled. Sure, safe, painless.—Beware of frauds offered as substitutes for the great corn cure, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, proprietors. Use no other.

The sufferers by floods in America received a thousand marks from the German Empress, and three thousand from the Emperor.

The only natural hair renewer is Carboline, a deodorized extract of petroleum, prepared without distillation or rectification with acids or alkalies, containing no mineral or other poisons, delightfully perfumed and as clear and pure as spring water.

Two special through freight trains will be despatched weekly from Montreal to Winnipeg.

Remarkable and True.

Alonzo Howe, of Tweed, was cured of a fever sore of thirty-five years' duration, by six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. He had suffered terribly, and tried many remedies in vain. He considers Burdock Blood Bitters a marvellous medicine. (10)

Regina has been made the headquarters of the mounted police.

A Hearty Recommendation.

Jacob A. Empey, of Cannamore, states that he has taken Burdock Blood Bitters with great benefit in a lingering complaint, and adds that he would gladly recommend it to all. (11)

According to the will of the late Marshall Jewell, fresh flowers are to be sent every Saturday to his daughter Florence, a lady married in Detroit No testimonial could be more beautiful than such a weekly gift from a dead friend.

From Mr. Percy Perdon, the oldest Mail Clerk running on the G. W. Railway between Suspension Bridge and Detroit: About 18 months ago in conversation with you, I mentioned that my son Arthur was a great sufferer from rheumatism, being so bad that for months he had not been able to put on his boots or walk. At your suggestion I purchased from you four bottles of your Rheumatine. Three bottles, however, I am happy to say, effected a permanent cure, as my son has never suffered from rheumatism since, although the past winter has been a most trying one. I may add that the medicine had the effect of improving his health in every way. Make what use you like of this testimonial. I can thoroughly recommend your Rheumatine to all suffering from rheumatic complaints. I am, yours truly, PERCY PERDON, Agent Great Western Railway. J. N. SUTHERLAND, Esq., St. Catharines.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman of Harrison, Ind., scandalized by the offensive conduct of a young man who was calling on his daughter, captured and handcuffed him and led him off to jail.

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing tonic—Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your Druggist for proof. (12)

Letters of nobility from the German Emperor have been received by Professor Helmholtz. Baronetcies were declined both by Tennyson and by Carlyle when offered by Premier Beaconsfield.

Many sink into an early grave by not giving immediate attention to a slight cough which could be stopped in time by the use of a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Wistar's Pulmonic Syrup.

The oldest portrait of Columbus in the United States was given by Mrs. Maria Farmer, a grandaughter of Jacob Farmer, Governor of New York in 1689, and hangs in the New York Senate-Chamber at Albany.

A RUN FOR LIFE.—Sixteen miles were covered in two hours and ten minutes by a lad sent for a bottle of Briggs' Electric Oil. Good time, but poor policy to be so far from a drug store without it.

The four German officers detailed to organize the Sultan's army have, by permission from Berlin, entered the Turkish service, and fifteen Turkish officers are to join the German army for experience.

"A. P." 118.

No person can enjoy health while suffering Constipation of the Bowels. Purgatives always do harm. Burdock Blood Bitters is Nature's own Cathartic. It unlocks the secretions, regulates, purifies, strengthens the system. (7)

Odanah and Minnedosa are seeking incorporation as one town.

CATARRH—A New Treatment which Permanent Cure is effected in from three applications. Particulars and free on receipt of stamp. A. H. Son, 305 King-St. West, Toronto.

The most universal favorite among English statesmen is the blind Postmaster-General.

The worst Scrofulous Sores, the most dolent Tumor, and the most foul known, may be cured by the combination of Burdock Bitters and Burdock Blood Ointment. Ask your Druggist for these infallible remedies. (9)

Miss Sherman, daughter of Gen. Sherman, and the Hon. Lionel Sackville West and his daughter have been visiting the Marquis of Lorne at Ottawa.

HAVE YOU TRIED IT?—If so, you can testify to its marvellous powers of healing, and commend it to your friends. We refer to Briggs' Magic Relief, the grand specific for summer complaints, diarrhœa, cholera, dysentry, cramps, colic, sickness of the stomach, and bowel complaints.

M. Tirard, France's New Finance Minister, was once a working jeweller.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, Baggage Expressage and Carriage stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms, fitted at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

The best story-teller in Nebraska is said to be Senator-elect Manderson.

A Secret.

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the doors to complexions. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the pallid cheek. (8)

One of the most admired women of society is the Princess Brancaccio, nee Field, an American.

Vegetine

IN POWDER FORM

50 CTS. A PACKAGE

Full Directions in Every Package

DR. W. ROSS WRITES

Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Weakness.

H. R. Stevens, Boston: I have been advertising medicine for 25 years, and as a result for Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Weakness and all diseases of the blood, I have never found its equal. I have sold Vegetine for seven years, and have never had one bottle returned. I would heartily commend it to those in need of a blood purifier.

Dr. W. ROSS, Druggist, Wilton Grove.
Sept. 18, 1878.

Vegetine.

One Package in Powder Form Cured Scrofula.

How to Reduce Your Doctor's Bill.

86 Bremen st., East Boston, Mass.
Sept. 30, 1879.

Mr. H. R. Stevens—Dear Sir: My daughter Stella has been afflicted a long time with Scrofula, suffering everything. I employed different physicians in East Boston, but they helped her none. I bought a package of your Powder Form Vegetine, and myself steeped it and gave it to the child according to the directions, and we were surprised at the result. A fortnight's time to see how the child had improved in flesh and strength. She is now gaining every day, and I can cheerfully recommend your remedy to be the best we have ever tried.

Respectfully yours. J. T. WHITE.

Vegetine

PREPARED BY

H. R. STEVENS, Toronto, Ont.

Vegetine is Sold by All Druggists.

SETTLERS

Going to Manitoba, the Great Northwest, California, Oregon, British Columbia, Dakota, Minnesota, or Nebraska,

Can get Maps, Guides, and Descriptive Pamphlets FREE, by enclosing a 2 cent stamp, and stating of what particular country they wish Particulars. Address,

Department of Immigration,
32 York Street, Toronto.
W. R. CALLAWAY, Manager.

THE SUN

EVERYBODY LIKES IT.

THE SUN'S first aim is to be truthful; its second, to write an entertaining history of the times in which we live. It prints, on an average, more than a million copies a week. Its circulation is now larger than ever before. Subscription: DAILY (4 pages), by mail, 55c. a month, or $6.50 a year; SUNDAY (8 pages,) $1.20 per year; WEEKLY (8 pages), $1 per year.

I. W. ENGLAND, Publisher, New York.

THE KEEWATIN GOLD MINES

Wonderful returns promised from the money invested. A district abounding in mineral wealth. The place to make fortunes. Professor Chapman (of the School of Science, Toronto) reports $110 pure gold to the ton. Mr. Wm. Hamilton the well-known mining engineer of the Hamilton Reduction Co., New York, reports $193.41 gold and silver per ton of 2,000 lbs. as the results of their assays of the rock found in the Manitoba mines. All information and full reports sent on application to

SEEDS

MY ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FOR 1880 containing description and prices of the choicest kinds of Field, Garden, and Flower Seeds mailed free to all intending purchasers upon application. It is the handsomest Catalogue published in Canada, and is invaluable to all who wish to buy Pure Fresh Seeds. Special attention given to procuring Mixed Grasses for

PERMANENT PASTURE.

Prices and full particulars will be found in Catalogue.

WM. RENNIE, Seedsman, TORONTO.

The Song of Songs.

...scholarly article by Ellice Hopkins, in the Art Century discusses the Canticles. ...point of view now dominant in ...ical criticism, a view different, in cer... particulars, from that given in Profes... Robertson Smith's article, "Canti... in the new edition of the "Encyclo... Britannica." The writer says in part: ...ch is, I suppose, have, from time to ...been used in the Song of Songs, which is ...ppeared in the Song of Songs, which is ...known," as it stands in the authorized ...sion, with a perplexed feeling as to what ...ould mean. Perhaps, if we are honest ...ves, we should confess also to some feel... that violated good taste and delicacy. ...ch we have turned in our perp'exity to ...e orthodox commentator, these feelings ...have scarcely have been relieved by finding ...ourse of a confessedly erotic character ...ful doubtful propriety—some of it ad... and by a voluptuous king to an inmate of ...rem—transferred entire to the mouth ...ist as his language in addressing his ...

...has, however, been reserved for mod... Hebraists to restore this lovely litt'e epi... poem to its proper place, and scraping ...ay the accumulated whitewash and plas... of ages,—the mistranslations and the misunderstandings of centuries,—to reveal ...ere, an exquisite little shrine of the ...ry, embedded in the very heart of our ...ures, flushed with passionate color, but ...ld chaste and enduring as sculptur... marble.

...The plot of argument of the poem is this: ...King Solomon, on one of his numerous plea... excursions, accompanied, as usual, by ...ourt, is passing through the north of his ...dom—a land rich in vineyards, and fair ...ith beauty,—when they perceive, in a ...ing nut-garden, a beautiful girl, ...ging and dancing to herself in the joy of ...ung. She has come down to the gar... to look at the tender opening buds, and ...e gladness of her own opening life and ...ppiness of first love she has thrown ...ide her veil, and is singing with the birds ...ceding with the dancing lights. They ...e her lost in admiration, when, sudden... ...ving she is observed, she makes a ...vement of flight, arrested for a mo... by the entreating voices with which ...ey call her back. The king, at once en... ...ith of the beautiful stranger, leaves or... that she will be transferred to his ...n, her dress denoting that she was un... ...ied and unplighted. On inquiry it is ...nd that the maiden—the Sulammite, as ...e is called throughout the poem, from her ...ative village, Sulam—is the only daughter ...f a widow. Her father is dead, and her ...other's brothers, the sons of a former marriage, ...ave assumed authority in his stead. They ...ave treated her with great harshness and make ...her keeper of one of their vineyards. ...Here she meets with a young shepherd and ...ith the gardens like herself, on whom she ...sets her forgotten heart,"—a love ...hich returns, but without, as yet, having ...obtained the consent of her brothers to her ...union. They, on the contrary, very much ...desire the advantageous offers of the king, ...which is at once transferred to this harm at ...once. There the great king woos the ...humble maiden, and she has to endure ...the temptation that wealth and luxury and ...splendor can bring to bear upon her. But she ...remains faithful to her shepherd-lover, pre... her true love to worldly ad... vancement. Finding her obdurate, the ...king at last resolves to pay her the highest ...honor of all. He resolves to marry her and ...make her one of his queens: but with no ...success as result. His advances are always ...met by her fainting away with the de... cry on her lips: "My beloved is ...mine and I am his." Till at length, since ...the relationship of Jehovah puts bounds to even ...royal passions of a king and forbids the use of ...force, he suffers her to depart to her ...shepherd-lover. The poem ends in the gar... in the north, with the reunion of the ...lovers and their approaching marriage, and ...the great unveiled utterance and key... to the poem, "Love is as strong as ...death," and "many waters" (even the deep ...waters of trial through which the Sulam... mite had passed) "cannot drown it," follow... ed by a little mirthful song of triumph on ...love, and a mocking allusion to the fail... ure of the great king to bribe her from her ...fidelity.

...With regard to the approximate age of the ...poem the data are more satisfactory. The ...poem itself is sufficient to prove that it was ...written by Solomon. The great king ...certainly not have satirized himself so ...freely.

A New Enoch Arden.

"What're you doing here?" demanded a ...man of a chap whom he had caught ...looking at the window of a Furman ...street last night.

"Nothin'," replied the man jamming his ...hands into his pockets and gazing up at the ...sky.

"Didn't I hear a woman yell in this ...house a few minutes ago?" continued the ...man.

"Couldn't wonder," returned the man ...coolly. "In fact, I know you did, for ...I done it myself."

"What's going on in there?" queried the ...man, peering in.

"Guess he's nicking my wife," suggested ...the stranger.

"Does you live here?" asked the policeman ...in astonishment.

"Used to, but I kinder fell out o' that ...racket," was the indifferent response.

"What kind of a man are you to stand ...there and let another man lick your ...wife?" demanded the policeman, indig...nantly.

"Reckon he can do it better than I can," ...replied the stranger. "I never had any ...use for that kind of a job, and if there's ...any one can make a success of it I'm not ...going to interfere with his fun, now you ...bet."

"Who is the man? Do you know him?"

"Never saw him before," replied the ...other, "I guess he and she thinks he's ...husband."

"Then it's your wife?"

"Nope! Only I've been away a long time ...and wrecked, you know and I just got ...back. I saw 'em at it, and I thought I ...wouldn't interfere."

"Do you want me to arrest him?" inquir... ed the policeman, contemplating the re... treating husband in amazement.

"Just as you like," returned the other; ..."but don't mention my name in the mat...ter."

"Well, now, you just bet! Just as soon as that man winds off that job he's doing, be dry, and I've got a quarter by then, he's going to get a drink, and don't you interfere; now, you hear me?"

And the policeman strolled off down the silent street, while Enoch, bending low his ...chin upon the window that contained Annie, observed the scene, then turned him round as Philip came the while a little ahead of a flat-iron and took him by the arm. And so they went, and Annie, left alone, wot not that Enoch had been so near, and had him shekels in his pocket wherewith to assuage the grief of Philip.—Brooklyn Eagle.

GARNERED WITTICISMS.

A fat office: The soap-boiler's.

Headquarters: The hatter's store.

Carvers of their own fortunes: Butchers.

Is the son of a sportsman, who is fond of gunning, a shoot of the old stock?

A Newark, O., editor is known to wear No 12½ boots. Is these journalistic feat?

Adam involved the whole human race in his fall, but never wore a white satin cravat with full dress.

When a drummer gets the mumps it increases the size of his face without adding anything to his inherent cheek.

The evil that men do lives after them. Even when an amateur cornetist dies he leaves the fatal instrument behind.

A caustic wit, in speaking of an impecunious friend said: "He settles his debts just like clock-work—tick, tick, tick."

A Vermont youth, at his mother's funeral, said to the neighbors: "Me and father are obliged to you all, and hope soon to be able to do as much for you."

"Yes, sir," he said, "I'm in hard luck; everything goes wrong with me. Why, hang it, I wouldn't dare predict rough weather in March. If I did it would be like June."

After all, there is a vast deal of common sense in the remark of the deserter when he said: "I'd rather be a coward all my life than be a corpse for fifteen minutes."

At a medical examination a young aspirant for a physician's diploma was asked: "When does mortification ensue?" "When you propose and are rejected," was the reply.

The census proves that the number of persons in a family in the United States is a small fraction over five. In some families the husband is the small fraction over.

The telephone is in the Sandwich islands, and as "helo" in the native dialect is "kalakalholkaunaihoihaukoi," you can imagine what kind of a time they have at the "central."

"Don't pull me around so," said the thief to the policeman, "I have a felon on my finger!" "And I have my finger upon a felon," remarked the policeman with a sardonic smile.

Curious Excise Entry—Alexander Gun, an excise officer in Scotland, being dismissed from his employment for misconduct, an entry was made in a book kept for the purpose as follows: "A. Gun discharged for making a false report."

"No," he said, "I'm not a bad-tempered man, but when somebody takes my tooth-brush and put in place of it another that has been used to apply hair-dye and I get hold of it in the dark and use it, I think it's not surprising that I said, 'Gosh durn it.'"

Some great thinker once said: "Don't commence to write an article for publication until you are full of your subject." An editor who intended to write an article on "beer" remembered this advice, and got so full of his subject that he couldn't sit on a chair, much less write the article.

Many Philadelphia business men now use typo-writers, and not long ago a wholesale house sent a letter of this kind to a small dealer in the far west. The western man returned it with the indignant comment: "I just want you to understand that I ain't no schoolboy, I can read writin' as good as anyone."

A newly-married couple from "Wayback" were in the city recently, and, of course, found an oyster saloon the first thing. "How do you want them,—on the half-shell?" the waiter asked the groom. "Nah-air-ee! thar's no half shell business with this weddin' trip, give 'em to us on the whole shell."

A scissor-grinder was ringing his bell "to grind" on Shuter street, when a young man called to him and asked: "Say, can you sharpen everything?" "Yes, efery-tings!" "Can you sharpen my wits?" "Your vits? Vhell, I guess you haf to go und get a new handle and back-spring put in first. I must haf sometings to hang on py."

An Appeal for Stamps.

An advertisement has appeared every day of late in one of the Vienna papers, asking the owners of used postage stamps for contributions. The advertiser, it is now found out, is a young lady of the ballet; she needs some millions of stamps. The reason why is thus told: Last summer she went home with Count Anto to Reichenau. The Count was not young, but generous. The ballerine was unhappy, however, and expressed her opinions on marriage to him very pointedly. At last the Count promised to lead the fair danseuse to the altar on one condition—if she would collect as many used postage stamps as would paper the walls of his grand saloon. She took him at his word. The walls are, now, it is said, covered with many thousand of stamps, but the plafond is still white, and the Vienna paper calls on the population of Vienna to assist in completing the work. "Up, ye postage stamp collectors of Vienna! Pour out the abundance of your stamp collections, so that the two loving, faithful hearts may at last be united."

Scene, editorial rooms: Enter distinguished visitor—"Allow me to look through your exchanges a moment?" Scissor fiend—"With pleasure, I think you can look through this one quite easily. I've cut seventeen articles out of it." "Yes, yes, thanks; but I can borrow a window sash at any carpenters shop."

MEMORIES FROM THE QUARTERS.

Some pocket-knife-man 'a' been made to len' out.

A man dat kin make a libin' playin' de fiddle aint ap' to porter de hoe-handle.

'Casionally, a man wid right smart education can't find his knife when it gits in de wrong pocket.

A long spell o' roomatiz is ap' to p'int out your bes' friends.

De rainbow might be better lookin' ef twa'n't such a cheap show.

De bottom o' de meal-box make mighty po' music.

Big blaze o' fire can't roas' your 'taters.

De bes' seed ain't bound to make big water-milions.

It's a mighty rotten old house dat wont make kindlin'-wood.

Bresh-fire soon gone.

Heap o' wummy scaly-barks come orf de top limbs.

De crawfish gits into trouble by buildin' too fine a chimley to a little house.

You can't take de twis' out de gra'-vine by cultervatin' it.

Peacock can't hide his foots by spreadin' his tail.

Green 'simmons aint 'fraid o' nobody.

Edication don't come by bumpin' 'g'in' de school-'ouse.

When de morkin'-bird try to mork eb'rything, he boun' to let out some music dat aint wuf much.

It's a mighty lazy nigger dat don't keep his ax sharp.

A hole under de garden palin's is a hard secret to keep.

See whar you gwine to hit 'fo' you lif' your hoe.

Sas'fus-root tea wont hu't your 'spectorbility when de crap come out short.

Too much trablin' on de railroad make some folks lose de right lick for de cotton-patch.

De young peaches safe when de martin start her nes'.

You don't need much fence roun' de cow-cumber vine.

—J. A Macon in the Century.

Faith of a Fatalist.

At a social reception on the north side of California street, and about midway of that thoroughfare, recently, the conversation drifted on the large number of disasters on land and sea, by fire and flood, collisions and explosions which have proved so destructive to human life during the first two months of the present year. From these subjects the talk turned on the prognostication of death. Several examples were given in which the foreboding had proved correct or had been falsified by events, when a Mr. Backstrum, who was present, took part in the discussion. He said that seven years ago a fortune-teller in Sweden said to him: "Young man, you will leave your country very suddenly and travel to a strange land. Your life will be very intricate. After many ups and downs you will die a horrible death on your thirtieth birthday and your body will never be buried or recovered. Your life is safe until then." According to Mr. Backstrum's statement, he unexpectedly sailed in the India for Australia, two weeks afterward was wrecked on the "Goodwin Sands," and out of the twenty-nine persons on board only the cook and himself were saved from a raft and conveyed to London. While there they got mixed up in a fight between Swedish and Danish sailors. During the melee a pistol was discharged, the ball grazing the bridge of his nose and killing his ill-fated companion instantaneously. He has since been shipwrecked six times and was once blown away with the mizen-yard in a gale at sea, and was then picked up. Mr. Backstrum firmly believes that he will die as predicted on his thirtieth birthday, July 1st, 1888, and acts accordingly.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Nihilist Manifesto.

The Moscow correspondent of the Vienna Taqblatt says that the Nihilists have circulated numerous copies of a pretended imperial manifesto to the Russian people on the occasion of the coming coronation. The document is printed in similar type and on similar paper to that of the genuine manifesto; it also bears the same date, and is an exact copy of it in all respects, except as regards the last paragraph, for which the following words are substitutes: "You will at the same time announce to our faithful subjects that we have graciously decided that all the land which is now in the possession of the nobility and the rich shall be divided in equal parts among all our faithful subjects; that all the taxes hitherto levied shall be abolished and replaced by others imposing just and moderate burdens on all classes in proportion to their wealth; that the whole of the standing army shall be disbanded and replaced by a small landwehr; and that all government appointments shall be abolished, and replaced by such appointments as may be created by the committee. We have already issued the necessary orders, and we call upon all our faithful subject to assist us in carrying them out."

A Big Family of Kentuckians.

A remarkable family lives in Lee county, about four miles from Beattyville. It is that of William B. Burns. He and his wife were both born on the same day, the 25th of September, 1829. They have nine sons-in-law and a son for each daughter; they have ninety-nine grandchildren; they never saw all their children on the same day, the oldest of whom is 44 years of age and the youngest 24. Neither he nor his wife have a gray hair in their heads. He can split one hundred rails and lay them up in a day. He boldly asserts that he and his nine sons-in-law can throw any other man and his sons-in-law in the United states for $100,000.—Richmond (Ky.) Herald.

This conversation was overheard in a local court last week: Judge—"Why, this is the tenth time you have been here since I have sat on this bench." Prisoner—"Yes, your honor; I have the courage of my convictions."

April Farm Notes.

A well started crop is usually profitable and one put in late or under unfavorable condition is seldom satisfactory.

Harrowing Winter Grain is a practice that is now quite generally adopted by the better farmers. This should be done with implements that have the teeth turned backward. Peruvian guano, bone-dust, wood-ashes, or other fertilizer may be applied before the harrowing.

Spring Wheat should be sown as soon as the ground can be properly prepared. A top-dressing of manure may be added after sowing. The good effect of a soluble fertilizer can sometimes be seen in a few hours, especially if the application is soon followed by a genial shower that takes the substance down to the roots. Any start given to young plants is felt for good throughout their whole life. In using any concentrated fertilizer, care must be taken that it does not come in contact with seeds. If scattered thoroughly and thinly on the surface after sowing there is no danger, otherwise it should be mixed with the soil.

Fodder Crops.—There should be ample provision of food for farm animals during months, when the pastures are short from drouth. A leafy sort of oats may be sown with pease and thus obtain a double crop of green fodder. The value of Hungarian grass as a supply of good green food, is not easily over-estimated.

Beets, including mangles, may be sown the last of the month. Quick starting of the seeds may be insured by soaking them. They should be sown so soon as germination begins. After the plants are up they will need weeding and thinning.

Grass is a leading farm crop, and is much neglected. Our farmers have given little attention to the study of grass and the soils and culture best adapted to the various sorts. A permanent meadow or pasture needs to be kept up by a yearly top-dressing of manure or commercial fertilizer. It is to be hoped that the American farmer will come to a better understanding of the importance of grass growing, and that our grass land will be treated with due consideration.

Potatoes.—The Potato-beetle is well under control, and potatoes are now a certain crop, and a profitable one when given clean culture on a rich mellow soil. It is well to plant early sorts and harvest the tubers before the "rot" has time to reach them.

Sundry Matters.—Put all farm implements in good order during rainy days. Clear up the rubbish that has accumulated. Look well to fences before cattle are turned out.

Sheep.—The care bestowed on sheep by some farmers during the winter, invites weakness, and a troublesome irritation of the skin and loss of wool often follow poor treatment. Raising lambs for the spring market is a profitable business, but great care of both ewes and lambs is necessary. The strength and vitality of the lamb after birth depend largely on the condition of the ewe previous to parturition. Much injury is done to the unborn lambs by compelling the ewes to go without water. Licking the snow to quench thirst chills the fœtus and weakens the lamb, even if more serious results do not follow.—American Agriculturist for April.

Morsels for Sunkay Contemplatians.

Show may easily be purchased, but happiness is a home-made article.

The devil always either comes himself or sends some one when you call for him.

A grumbler says there is one thing which can always be found, and that is fault.

Woman is the Sunday of man, not his're, pose only, but his joy, the salt of his life.

The hardest thing in the world is not to feel that the lie told about your neighbor is the truth.

Choose a high aim, work for it with promptness, persistence, patience and intensity, and believe in it with all your soul.

We count too often only the rosary of our ontward prosperities, and measure our gratitude too much by the shining pearls of our successes.

Feelings come and go like light troops following the victory of the present; but principles, like troops of the line, are undisturbed and stand fast.

Lying is like trying to hide in a fog. If you move about you are in danger of bumping your head against the truth; as soon as the fog blows up you are gone anyhow.

It doesn't follow that you must do a mean thing to a man who has done a mean thing to you. The old proverb runs:—"Because the cur has bitten me, shall I bite the cur?"

Every human being has a work to carry on within, duties to perform abroad, influences to exert, which are peculiarly his, and which no conscience but his own can teach.

The clearness and purity of one's mind is never better proved than in discovering its own faults at first view; as when a stream shows the dirt at its bottom, it shows also the transparency of the water.

Some of the brightest drops in the chalice of life remain for us in old age. The last draught which a kind providence gives to drink, though near the bottom of the cup, may, as is said of the Roman of old, have at the very bottom, instead of dregs, mostly pearls.

I am, and lately I was not. But whence? How? Whereto? The answer lies round, written in all colors and motions; uttered in all tones of jubilee and wail; in thousand, thousand-voiced, harmonious nature! But where is the cunning eye and ear to whom that God-written apocalypse will yield articulate meaning? Creation lies before us like a glorious rainbow; but the sun that made it lies behind us, is hidden from us.

The total eclipse on the 6th of May next will last six minutes, and no longer one will probably occur within the next hundred years. It will be partially visible in many places, but few will see it in its entirety, as its path lies almost entirely through the ocean, touching at nowhere but at a little island in the South Pacific called Caroline Island, which is out of the track of any established commerce or travel. The French Government has determined to send an expedition to that island, and it is probable that a grand international gathering of astronomers will meet there to take part in this scientific quest.

ALL SORTS.

A rolling mill.—A rough and tumble fight.

Unheard-of darkness cannot be utter darkness.

Anarchist: Noah. Plug uglies: Shocking bad hats.

Favorite novel with politicians—"Put Yourself in His Place."

Behind the bar is the place for great bargains.

Money is tight, and ought to be arrested when its found a loan.

By what means do spirits materialize? Echo answers, "Material lies."

Wiggins' great failure is a case of small prophet and big loss.

Student—"Virgin forests' are places where husbandmen are unknown."

Liquor is an elevator that has a downward tendency.

Old Sport—We do not know who the greatest hero is; Hanlan is the greatest herower, probably.

The upper crusts are liable to be awfully cut up when they are found covering common pie.

A man who beats his wife, even at a game of checkers, is a wretch whom to call shrewd would be base flattery.

One of the most notable country seats is mentioned by Lady Dufferin in her ballad commencing "I'm sitting on the stile, Mary!"

The Mississippi is called "the father of waters." Now that it is over its banks it becomes a step father.

Blobson says that there is only one thing, to him, whose end is involved in mystery, and that is the coil of a woman's back hoir.

Cropped hair is said to be the newest crank of fashionable ladies. If it is a crank it is probably turning some of their heads.

"Yes," said the landlord, pointing to his block of houses, "they are all full 'cept the one at the end; that's last but not leased."

The demand for napkin rings made of wood grown at Walter Scott's home, Abbotsford, is proving a great drain upon the forests of Maine.

"Angelina," is informed that the reduction of duties on iron will have no appreciable effect upon castile soap. It isn't spelled that way, dearest. That's where you were mislead.

San Francisco newspapers make mention of a rat recently captured in that city in whose stomach a diamond was found. That rat had evidently caught the rage for "decorated interiors."

"Who are those two men?" asked Deacon Gilpin of 'Squire McGill, the other evening. "Oh, those are the men who come to work in Joralum's place. He has moved to Binghampton." "To work in Joralum's place? Why, he was the laziest man in Marathon!" "I know it, and that's the reason there's two of them. It takes both of them to be as lazy as he was."

Curiosities of the Railway Census.

In a recent issue under the above heading, was a paragraph relating to the difference between the receipts of railways for transportation of passengers and freights, in which the results were rendered rather absurd by the use of mighty dollar marks instead of humble cents. The paragraph should read as follows:

The freight carried in 1880 was two hundred and ninety-one millions of tons, for which the railways charged 1·29 cents per ton per mile, and made a profit of 0·53 of a cent per ton per mile.

The number of passengers carried was two hundred and seventy millions, for which they each paid an average of 2·33 cents per mile, and the companies made a profit of 0·62 of a cent per mile. If the passengers are counted by weight, allowing 14 passengers to the ton, then the receipts of the companies for their two legged freight was $3.26 per ton per mile, and their profit was 86·8 cents per ton per mile.

By the ton, then, passengers yield sixteen times more profit to the railways than ordinary freight.

We renew the suggestion that there seems to be an opportunity here for the exercise of genius by railway managers in the development of new and better inducements for travel. Various suggestions, doubtless, will rise in the minds of readers, such as the adoption of improved means for safety, smoothing and better ballasting of roadbeds, faster time, easier and more commodious cars. But without going through the entire list of improvement that might help travel, we will name one subject that railway officials might study and prepare to carry out at little expense, as a help to passenger traffic, namely, the inauguration in every city, town, and village of a thoroughly good and cheap service for the use of customers between their homes and the stations. At present the companies leave their patrons to the tender mercies of extortionate hackmen and baggage smashers; and so general are the inconveniences that exist between residence and car that probably not a hundred tickets are bought where a thousand would be bought if first-rate services, such as we have indicated, could be realized.

? ? ?

A human interrogation point went to an oculist the other day to get a glass fitted to his eye. "This is the weakest glass you have?" he asked. "Yes." "Well, what shall I do when I can't see with this?" "Why, you will probably be compelled to purchase a stronger one." "And when I can't see with that?" "Well, then you will have to use a still stronger one." "And after that?" "Oh, then you will have to get the very strongest." The victim of defective eyesight thought a moment, and then asked "And when I can't see with the strongest?" The oculist didn't care to say what would happen after his own skill had proved ineffectual, and was rather indignant at the inquisitiveness of the customer, so remained silent. "But tell me," persisted the knowledge seeker, "what shall I do when the strongest glass fails me?" "Oh, ahem, well," was the answer, "I should say that the next thing to do would be to buy a small dog with a string round his neck and let him lead you."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Notice—A. McIntyre.
Warning—W. J. Rowe.
Tea—Trimble & Wright.
Seeds—H. Parker, Durham.
Millinery—W. J. McFarland.
Farm for Sale—STANDARD office.
Abstract Statement—Holland Tp.
Marriage Association—R. C. Bryden.
Sale of Farm Lands—Crerar & Muir, Hamilton.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, MARCH, 29TH 1883.

DEATH OF ROBT. CUNNINGHAM.

It becomes our painful duty this week to chronicle the death of Robert Cunningham, who has been in our midst for several years, being salesman in Mr. Brown's store until last fall, and the past six months in the employment of Trimble & Wright. He was in Markdale on Thursday, the 15th, and not feeling well went to Toronto, where his parents reside. His illness became more serious and symptoms of brain fever were evident, which made rapid progress and deprived him of his reason on Sunday, the 18th, in which state he continued until Friday the 23rd, when death ended his sufferings. Robert was 28 years of age, was healthy, and bid fair for long life up to less than two weeks before his death. He had the good will and highest respect of all who knew him, being of an obliging and amiable disposition, and gentlemanly deportment, was, in fact, a model young man. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church in this place, was also a member of the Loyal Markdale Lodge of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows. The sudden and sad news of his death was a surprise to all, and calls in accents more forcible than words, "Be ye also ready."

SOCIAL.

The social held at Mr. McIntyre's on Tuesday evening, on the occasion of Mrs. McIntyre leaving for the North-West, was well attended and a very pleasant time spent. The various amusements were entered into with a will and enjoyed immensely. A very pleasing circumstance of the evening was a presentation to Mr. W. A. McDougall, he having decided to leave our midst. He has made many warm friends during his stay of nearly four years amongst us, and has contributed cheerfully and with rare acceptance by way of recitations, songs, &c., at the numerous entertainments of the various denominations. The present consisted of a beautiful gold watch chain, (worth $25) and a gold pen holder, with the following address:—

To Mr. Wm. H. McDougall.

DEAR SIR,—A few of your very numerous list of friends having learned with regret that you were about to remove from our village, after a residence of nearly four years, and during which time you have on so many occasions contributed so materially to the success of the numerous entertainments given in our village, as well as in the surrounding country, in your efforts (in the use of the gifts with which you have been endowed) to please and interest the various audiences before whom you have appeared in recitation and in song.

Your genial temper and social qualities have made for you many warm and true friends, whom, though not with us to-night in giving personal expressions of regret at your removal from our midst, no doubt share with us the same feelings. We ask you therefore, as but a slight token of our esteem, to accept this Gold Chain and this Gold Pen and Holder, and when you from day to day consult the time-piece securely held by this chain, think of the many pleasant circumstances of your residence in Markdale and your friends here, which as a chain less perishable than that of gold binds us with links of lasting friendship; and when you use this pen let words of love, kindness, and good will be traced therewith on pages of white—the emblem of purity. Hoping that in the acceptance of this trifling memento you will not take into consideration so much the monetary value as the kindly feeling which prompted its bestowal. Wishing you a happy and prosperous future.

(Signed) G. S. BROWN.
On behalf of your friends.

Mr. McDongall replied briefly in suitable terms, expressing his warm attachment to Markdale and the people of the place and regret at leaving.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS IN 1883.

From the new edition of Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY which is now in press, it appears that the total number of newspapers and periodicals of all kinds issued in Canada is 596. There are no less than 74 daily papers, while the monthlies number 57. The weekly papers number 423. This is an excellent showing for the Dominion, though it cannot of course equal the United States and Territories, in which the journals and periodicals of all kinds now reach the imposing total of 11,196. This is an increase of 585 in twelve months. Taking the States one by one, the newspaper growth in some is very considerable. The present total in New York State, for instance, is 1,398—a gain of 80 in the last year. The most remarkable change has occurred in the Territories, in which the daily papers have grown from 43 to 63, and the weeklies from 169 to 243—Dekota being the biggest area of activity. The number of monthlies throughout the United States grew from 976 to 1,034, while the dailies leaped from 992 to 1,062. Referring to the journalistic growth, it is interesting to note that the newly-settled regions of our Canadian North-West are productive of newspapers as well as of wheat, for the number of journals issued in Manitoba was nearly doubled during the year.

Personals.

We are pleased to see Mr. William Bruce, of Lily Oak, out again after his recent illness. He is again on duty teaching school in Shepardson's neighborhood.

Mr. Bailey is mooving to Berkeley today.

Mr. Rob't Askin has returned from visiting his friends in Brampton and vicinity.

Willie Davis has been home this week spending the Easter holidays. He is making good progress at the High School, Owen Sound.

Dr. Sproule, M.P., was home a few days at Easter and returned to Ottawa on Tuesday last.

Mrs. Bowes spent the Easter holidays with her friends in Milton and Georgetown.

Rev. D. Perry, of Walters' Falls, gave us a call on Monday.

Mrs. J. F. Sproule leaves Markdale on Monday next, for Winnipeg.

Mr. A. Chellew, cabinet maker of Collingwood, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. A. McIntyre will leave early next week to visit her parents in Winnipeg.

Mr. G. S. Brown, who has been ill for some time is, we are pleased to state, recovering. He went home to Meaford last week.

We are very pleased to be able to say that Mrs. D. E. Wright is fast recovering, her life being despaired of last week.

Osprey.

The quantity of snow here is as great now as at any time during the winter, being about four feet in the bush and drifted in many places to a depth of 10 and 15 feet.

A number of farmers are disposing of their stock and farm implements by auction, and either renting or selling their farms with the view of going to Manitoba.

Trade in the different business centres in the township has been very dull all winter. The business transacted by the four stores in Maxwell could easily be done by any one of them. A gentleman by the name of Mr. Crabb has opened out a general store in Wareham which will take away some of the trade from Maxwell.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—The Easter examination, conducted at Fewersham on Thursday, 22nd inst., was the most successful and satisfactory ever held in that place. The school room was filled to its utmost capacity by the children of the section, whose average attendance has been between 60 and 70 during the winter. The children were examined by their teacher, Miss McKinnon, and did credit to her and and themselves by the prompt manner in which they answered the questions. After the examination prizes to the number of 90 were distributed, after which the school was closed.

Durham.

We spent a few hours in Durham on Tuesday last, and not having visited that place for some fifteen years, were somewhat surprised at the apparent want of progress and improvement in that time the. Town being devided into what is called upper and lower town, has, no doubt, a very injurious effect, as is always the case when a place is divided against itself. We called on our old friend Mr Jas. Brown, whose office and store is near the south end of lower town, and also the Chronicle Office in the same portion of the town. Mr. Jenkins was not in and we passed on. The Middaugh Hotel is indeed a fine building, and would be a credit to any town. The McAlister house has (we were informed) changed hands, Mr. R. W. Horn (blacksmith and carriage maker) being the purchaser. Mr. Parker, the old established and reliable druggist and seedsman, is still in the old stand in upper town. We also called at the Review Office. Mr. Townsend showed us his collection of fossils of various specimens. He has indeed a large and varied collection which are in them, selves a grand array of curiosities, and very interesting, especially to those who take an interest in such, and study their nature and composition. Our time being very limited we had to hurry away, but hope to strike Durham again ere long.

Meaford Road.

At the annual Sabbath School anniversary held in the Wesleyan Church, the amount realized was $31.35.

Some lively times have been transpiring in connction with the day school. Some of the boys having been guilty of conduct which would, if looked after, give them a berth in safe keeping.

We refer our readers to the advertisement of Mr. Parker of Durham for field and garden seeds.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Edward Quinlan, aged about 20 years, son of Mr. John Quinlan of the 6th con. Glenelg, was killed yesteaday by a falling limb while chopping.

A communication from "Observer" is unavoidably left over until next week.

FROM THE AKRON COMMERCIAL, OHIO, OF NOV. 25TH, 1882.

Readers of the Commercial can not well forget that a large space has for years been taken up by Kendall's advertisements—especially of a certain Spavin Cure. We have had dealings with Dr. Kendall for many years, and we know of some large business houses in cities near by, who have also dealt with him for many years, and the truth is fully and faithfully proven, not only that he is a good honest man, and that his celebrated Spavin cure is not only all that it is recommended to be, but that the English language is not capable of recommending it too highly.

Kendall's Spavin Cure will cure spavins. There are hundreds of cases in which that has been proven to our certain knowledge, but, after all, if any person confines the usefulness of his celebrated medicine to curing spavins alone, they make a big mistake. It is the best medicine known as an outward application for rheumatism in the family. It is good for pains and aches, swellings and lameness, and is just as safely applied to men woman and children as it is to horses. We know that there are other good liniments, but we do believe this spavin cure to be far better than any ever invented 133-36.

BIRTHS.

WALKEY.—In Flesherton, on Tuesday, 20th inst., the Wife of Mr. Geo. H. Walkey, of son.

STOVEL.—In Mount Forest, March 18th, the wife of H. C. Stovel, of the Confederate, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

FISHER—MENSEY.—At the residence of John McKinnon, McIntyre, on the 21st inst., by Rev. John Chisholm, B. A., Mr. W. Fisher, Artemesia, to Miss Mary Mensey, Maxwell.

MCARTHUR—MCLEAN.—At the Presbyterian church, McIntyre, on the 20th inst., by the Rev. J. Chisholm, Mr. Duncan McArthur, to Miss Christie McLean, both of McIntyre.

FLEMING—CRITTENDEN.—At the Commercial Hotel, Priceville, on the 15th inst., by the Rev. D. McLeod, Mr. James Fleming, of the North west Territory, to Miss Katie Crittenden, of Egremont.

DIED.

WRIGHT.—In Markdale, on the 23rd inst., Infant child of Mr. D.E. Wright, (Merchant).

THOMPSON.—In Artemesia, on the 26th inst., Mrs. Thompson wife of Mr. —— Thompson, aged 70 years.

Farm for Sale.

A VERY desirable poroperty being 100 acres; Lots 111 and 112, 1st Range West of T. and S. Road, Artemesia, one mile from the town of Markdale, on the gravel road. 70 acres cleared, balance hardwood, has a large stone dwelling house and log one, is well watered with never failing spring creek; splendid soil, and in a very desirable locality. Terms easy.

APPLY AT THIS OFFICE.

Markdale, March 29th, 1883.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 CON. 3 E. G. RD., HOLLAND, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, well watered, good orchard bearing good log house and barn. Situated 2 half miles from Chatsworth. A bargain will be given in the above property, for particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 120-tf.

SALE OF

Valuable Farm Prop'rties

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage made by SARAH DOHERTY and HUSBAND, default having been made in payment thereof, will be sold

BY PUBLIC AUCTION

At the Grand Central Hotel, Collingwood,

ON SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1883,

At One o'clock p. m., the following property:

Lots Nos. 28, 29 and 30 in the 10th Concession of Osprey, County of Grey. Clay loam; 160 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation; balance well timbered.

At the same time and place there will also be offered for sale Lots Nos. 18 and 19 in the 7th concession of Osprey. 100 acres cleared, and balance of 100 acres well timbered with hardwood. The property is splendidly situated, being one and one-half miles from Maxwell, and on gravel road. Good buildings and young orchard.

TERMS.—The purchaser shall pay a deposit of $200 at the time of sale, the balance of one-third of the purchase money in three weeks thereafter; the remaining two-thirds in cash, or secured by a mortgage payable in from one to five years at the option of the purchasers.

For further particulars apply to CRERAR & MUIR.

Vendors' Solicitors.

Hamilton, March 24th, 1883. 133td

Seeds, Seeds.

Our annual importations of

Field and Garden Seeds

to hand (per SS Erlking) from one of the best houses in Europe, and includes all the leading seeds.

Orders by mail will receive careful and prompt attention.

H. PARKER,
(SEEDSMAN)
DURHAM.

March 27th, 1883. 133

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

Farm for Sale.

TO sell or rent, Lot S 1 2 14, con. 9, Euphrasia, 8 miles from Markdale and 3 from Rocklyn, containing 100 acres, 70 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, fit to run reaper and mower, and balance hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing. Well watered with never failing spring only 10 rods from barn; has a young orchard, house, barn and stable. There is a new steam saw mill on next farm to it. Clear deed can be given. For particulars apply on the premises to

SAMUEL WRIGHT,
Rocklyn P.O.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.92 to $0.93; Spring $0.96 to $0.98; Barley, 55c; Peas, 72; Oats, 42c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, 7.50 to 7.75; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $2.00 to $2.10

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.90 to $0.93; Spring, $0.95 to $0.97; Barley, 57c; Peas, 69c; Oats, 41c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7.60.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.0.97 to $0.98; Spring, $1.05 to $1.08; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 50c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag, 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 20c to 21c.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
2 25	10 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	3 30	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. MCNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

DEWSON vs. WILSON.

PURSUANT to an order of the Court of Chancery, made in this action, there will be sold with the approbation of Thomas Hodgins, Esq., Q. C., Master in Ordinary,

By TENDER,

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Proton, in the County of Grey, and being composed of the South West part of Lot number Two Hundred and Twenty, in the Second Concession South of the Toronto and Sydenham Road, excepting thereout the part occupied by the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, in the said Township of Proton, containing by admeasurement Fifty acres, more or less.

All tenders must be addressed to THOMAS HODGINS, Esq., Q.C., Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and be received not later than 2 p.m. of next. The highest or other Tender not necessarily accepted.

Thursday, 12th of April

Terms of Sale.—One-tenth of the purchase money shall be paid in cash when notice of accepted tender has been given to purchaser, and a sufficient amount within one month thereafter, without interest, to make together with the cash payment one-quarter of said purchase money, the balance to be secured by mortgage on the premises at six per cent per annum in the three equal yearly payments. The other conditions of sale are the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery.

Further particulars can be had from Denison & Macklem, Solicitors, 15 Toronto Street; Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskin, Humb & Creelman, Solicitors, Toronto.

(Signed) THOMAS HODGINS.
Dated the 14th March, 1883.

THOS. MATHEW
Harness Establishment
MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY
IN CONNECTION.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction.

—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

CHANCERY DIVISION

BEATTIE vs. BLAIR.

PURSUANT TO THE JUDGMENT of JAMES MASSON, Esq., Master in Ordinary, preme Court at Owen Sound, in said action and bearing date the 29th September, 1882, and pursuant to the directions of the said Master made on the day of March, 1883, there will be sold with the approbation of the said Master, S. Vankoughnet Auctioneer

BY PUBLIC AUCTION

AT THE MARKDALE HOUSE

generally known as Rathbone's Hotel,

VILLAGE OF MARKDALE

On Thursday, 5th day of April, 1883,

at the hour of Two o'clock in the afternoon the following valuable Farm Property:

Lots Numbers 128 and 129 in the 1st Concession N. E., and Lots Numbers 130 and 131, in the 1st Concession N. W. of Toronto and Sydenham Road, in the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, consisting of 200 acres, of which about 140 acres are cleared and in a good state of cultivation. The remainder is wood, cedar, tamarac, balsam, and swamp. The soil is a good clay loam. The fences in good repair, and the land is well watered.

On Lot 130 there are 40 acres cleared, orchard in bearing, mostly of apples, a dwelling house, a nine frame barn on a stone foundation and a good stable underneath barn.

On Lot 131 there are 25 acres cleared, a good spring creek.

On Lot 128 there are 35 acres cleared, plum orchard of about one-eight of an acre and a log barn and log house.

On Lot 129 there are 20 acres cleared. This farm property is advantageously situated in a good neighborhood, on the main gravel road between the village of Flesherton and Markdale, on the line of the T. C. & B. railway, distant two and a half miles from Flesherton, and three and a half miles from Markdale, both of which places afford good markets.

This property will be offered at the time and place above named, subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master, but if not sold then in separate parcels, or will be sold free from dower and all incumbrances save a mortgage on Lots 130 and 131 for the amount and particulars whereof will be made known at time of sale, or on application to the solicitors undernamed. Immediate possession given. This sale affords a rare opportunity to any one wishing to obtain a fine farm.

Ten per cent. to be paid down at the time of sale and the balance in one month without interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

Further particulars can be had from W. Frost & Frost, or Creaser & Morrison, Owen Sound.

Dated at Owen Sound this 7th day of March, 1883.

FROST & FROST,
Vendors' Solicitors, Owen Sound.
(Signed) J. MASSON,
Master at Owen Sound.
130-4t.

GEORGE WILSON
Wholesale and Retail

BUTCHER

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED from a single pound to a whole carcass at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON.

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Town Block.

Markdale, Oct. 27th, 1881

Doll & Brown

As Mr. Doll is leaving Markdale to go into the Wholesale Jewellery Business in Toronto, and not wishing to leave Markdale altogether,) he has entered into partnership with Mr. W. BROWN, late of Flesherton, who is a practical watchmaker and jeweler of over 15 years experience, and comes with the best recommendations from some of the leading watchmakers in the Dominion.

Mr. Brown will carry on the business in Markdale.

All work entrusted to him will be done in a workmanlike manner.

All work will be guaranteed, and all goods sold will be found as represented, or money refunded at

Doll & Brown's,

The People's Watchmakers & Jewellers

Hill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any Church or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line for each subsequent insertion.

Last week's Meaford Mirror was printed by steam power.

The Orillia Methodists recently cleared $200 on an apron social.

Mr. Baird had a tumor removed from his ankle on Good Friday.

The official Gazette announces that the Canada Temperance Act has again been disallowed.

The spring show of the Euphrasia agricultural society will be held at Rocklyn on the 26th April.

The spring show of the Collingwoodtown agricultural society will be held on May 1st at Clarksburg.

Messrs. Doll & Brown have arranged to open a branch store opposite Elliott's drug store, Chatsworth.

Mr. Baird lost a valuable cow on Friday last. She slipped going into the stable and her back was broken.

The Dundalk Herald continues to improve and is worthy of the support of the people of that prosperous village.

Mr. John Orr, of Glenelg, has a ewe which has had three lambs last week. The same sheep had four last year and three two years ago, making 10 lambs in 22 months.

The STANDARD is a valuable medium for advertising, having upwards of four thousand readers; about 800 families get it, with an average of not less than 6 readers to each copy.

A social will be given under the auspices of the L. A. S. of the Methodist Church, in Lyon's Church, town line, on Friday (to-morrow) evening, admission 15cts. A crowded house is desired.

In this village there appears to be an utter disregard of the provisions of fire insurance policies and police regulations, both provide for the supply of ladders to houses. At the Leavens' fire it was necessary to go as far as Mr. Wm. Brown's before one could be obtained. The police trustees should look to this and enforce the regulation.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptins, and Positively cures Piles. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. Turner & Co

The editor of the Advance was in Markdale on Friday last week, and appears astonished at the rush of business and immense number of teams going hither and thither on our streets, some of them not going very slow either), and remarks in his paper that there seems to be a want of law and order in Markdale that would not be tolerated in any other village. We don't suppose he would see as great a rush in any village (or even town) in this country. No such disorder in Flesherton, except perhaps when a show fair day, everything perfectly quiet.

SOCIAL.—The social held last Friday evening under the auspices of the young people of the Presbyterian congregation, was very largely attended. Mr. Richardson's large and comfortable house was well filled; any quantity of stable room was also provided for the teams, as many came from Markdale and the country around. The crowd being so great, very little room was left to introduce games usually indulged in, yet an enjoyable time was spent. Proceeds $20.50.

Montgomery's bread for sale at Benson's store.

25 tons of first class timothy hay for sale at Reynolds & Son.

Oil Cake—A fresh supply at the Medical Hall.—A. TURNER & Co.

A fresh arrival of Candies, Oranges and Oysters at Montgomery's bakery.

Mary had a little watch, but the watch it would not go. Mary should have got a watch at Doll & Brown's, they always give satisfaction.

Mr. F. Sarjeant has kept on hand a large supply of good fresh meat this winter.

Several villages have been overwhelmed by avalanches of snow from Mount Ararat. One hundred and fifty persons have been buried alive.

Don't fail to get some of the bargains now being disposed of at Reynolds & Son.

NOTICE.—All those indebted to me will please call and settle the same at once before court day.—W. J. ROWE.

Over one thousand car-loads of Canadian turnips have been received in New York city this year, the local farmers being unable to supply the demand owing to the failure of the crop.

Miss Trevaro, who is highly recommended as a first class milliner, takes charge of W. J. McFarland's millinery show rooms this season.

Mr. E. H. Hilborn, lecturer of the Dominion Grange will deliver a free lecture in the Orange Hall, Markdale, at 2 o'clock p. m. April 2nd.

J. R. Trimble has purchased a fine jet black draught stallion, 3 yrs. old, weighs 1640 lbs., which will make the coming season in this neighborhood.

The only direct importer doing business in Markdale is W. J. McFarland. The first instalment of his Spring imports are now on the ocean.

The Marriage Aid Association now numbers 1,600 and is rapidly increasing. Pays $250 to $5,000 at marriage. Mr. Bryden is the agent here. 133-36.

Good Friday passed off very quietly in this village. Business places were closed. Services were held in the English and Methodist churches in the evening.

Miss Minnie Rorke and Miss Trevaro are now in Toronto selecting the spring styles of bonnets hats and millinery goods. Look out for McFarland's grand opening.

The trains on the Durham railway which hav been blocked with snow for three weeks, made their way through on Sunday evening last, and are now again running regularly.

Milloy, the Longue Point murderer, confesses the shooting of the late Mr. Nesbitt, and says it was from an uncontrollable impulse that he committed the act, as he did not go to the place with the motive of killing his former employer, with whom he was on the best of terms.

Doll & Brown, Jewellers, will be represented at Chatsworth in their branch store every Monday and Tuesday; shop with Mr. Chambers. All work carefully repaired and warranted.

I am making up a number of accounts to place in Mr. Masson's hands for collection at the next division court, those who wish to save further costs will require to make an early settlement.—A. MCINTYRE.

The past winter has been very unfavorable for entertainments and socials, owing to the stormy weather, but they are making up for it now, no less than three this week, two Presbyterians and one Methodist. There will be one this Thursday evening at Mrs. Murray's, Glenelg.

VESTRY MEETING.—At the annual vestry meeting of Christ church, Markdale, held on the 26th inst., the following officers for the ensuing year were appointed:—Church Wardens—B. Coleman and T. Elliott. Sidesmen—A. Turner and O. Walker. Sec.-Treas.—R. D. Bigger. Synod Delegate—Wm. Lucas. Auditors—J. W. Ford and J. Cæsar.

The Williams Sewing Machine factory at Montreal was destroyed by fire on Saturday night last. This was the largest factory of the kind in Canada. Their machines has carried the day in taking prizes. The loss is between two and three hundred thousand dollars, and is mostly covered by insurance in several good companies. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. C. Treadgold is agent for this machine and is making quite a number of sales. as the machines are growing more popular every day.

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Listen ye lovers of the cup that cheers,
In which are always smiles and never tears,
Quit buying rubbish advertised as cheap.
Unless you want to help a doctor keep.
Order the best, the cheapest, in the end,
Rely on RICHARDSON as your true friend;
Try him but once and we are sure you'll find
Each pound of TEA exactly to your mind,
That his Tea leaves all other Teas behind.

From our Exchanges.

FARMS SOLD.—Mr. Andrew Nodwell, near Hillsburg, in Erin, has sold his farm to Mr. Robert Nodwell, Jr., for $3,300, and purchased one in Artemesia, near Markdale, for $5,500.—Orangeville Advertiser.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL.—It is currently reported at Ottawa that Right Hon. W. E. Forster, late Chief Secretary for Ireland, is to be the new Governor-General, in succession to his Excellency the Marquis of Lorne.

The worst freshets ever known in Nova Scotia have just occurred in that province, involving the destruction of an immense quantity of property. The lowlands in many districts are submerged, and bridges and railway tracks have been swept away. So far, fortunately, no loss of life is reported.

METHODIST UNION.—The returns of the voting on the question of the union of the Methodist Churches so far as completed show that 595 quarterly meetings have declared in favor of the union and 75 against it, while there are ten tie votes. The analysis of the voting in the different conferences is as follows:—Toronto, yeas. 207, nays 16, ties 3; London, yeas 205, nays 22. ties 1; Montreal, yeas 107. nays 26. ties 4; Nova Scotia, yeas 30, nays 9, ties 1; New Brunswick, yeas 43, nays 1, ties 1: Newfoundland, yeas 3, nays 1. There are still 100 meetings to hear from.

OUR HARBOUR.—As a first fruit of the recent deputation to Ottawa, H. A. Gray, Esq., of the Public Works Department, accompanied by Mr. Temple of the T. G. & B. R., arrived in town on Friday night last, and on Saturday morning commenced taking soundings of the river, to ascertain definitely what is required to be done, so that an estimate of the cost can be made. The deputation was favorably received, and there are good prospects of the dredging being continued the coming season.—O. S. Times.

We learn that the American hotel is about to change hands, Mr. Lesslie having taken one of the principal hotels in Napanee, and will move there in a few days. He leaves with the good wishes of a large host of friends in town and country. He has sold out his business here to Messrs. Primmer & Graham, both well known in connection with the T. G. & B. R., and they will take control of the American on his leaving.—O. S. Times.

FAILURE.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. Thos. Swan, who for over a quarter of a century has been doing business here, has at last succumbed to the reverses of fortune and closed his doors. The stopping of his machinery will be quite a loss to the town as a large number will be thrown out of employment. When the failure was made known in town a number of local creditors visited the works and secured their own by taking articles sufficient to square accounts. Mr. S. has the sympathy of the town with him in the time of trial, and we express the hope of many that he may yet be enabled to commence afresh the battle of life in our midst. He has made assignment to Mr. Allan Lamont.—Mount Forest Confederate.

ACCIDENT.—Last Wednesday morning Mr. ——— Craig, near Griersville, sustained a severe wound in his left foot from an axe with which he was chopping. Having on moccasins at the time the axe sank into the bone, severing an artery. He was driven into Meaford, and the wound was dressed by Dr. Clarke. The loss of blood was very great and left Mr. Craig in a weak condition, but he was driven home that afternoon, and it is hoped the wound will rapidly heal under the doctor's skillful treatment.—Moniter.

Flesherton Station.

Mr. Wm. Cullen left with his family on Wednesday, the 21st, for the Northwest. He has located near Regina, and took with him a large quantity of stock, implements, &c., and will no doubt do well, having gone full handed. We wish him success.

Mr. R. Cook is getting up a large number of the celebrated Manders iron harrow.

It is quite amusing to read the efforts of the Advance in last week's issue, to make the public believe that Flesherton is progressing, and in almost the same breath give the reason why she does not prospor. A good level road to the station is what is wanted, and what they must have, and then prosperity would be theirs certain. Names of those who talk of building, &c., are given, and it is rumored that others are considering the matter, (we have heard of these rumors or a number of years.) Preparations are being made by one worthy citizen to erect a brick block. Now, sir, we at the station begin to feel the need of a newspaper to let the world know our advantages and importance. If we had a man like the editor of the Advance, the public, (who did not know better) would be led to believe that we had a very important and prosperous town. The imposing appearance of our public building, (post office) our manufacturing industries, natural scenery, &c., would be food for lengthy and interesting newspaper articles. We must have a printing office.

Priceville.

Feed for stock is getting scarce, and farmers are wishing for spring.

That air Wiggins histed nairy a roof.

The elections are over and we are nearly all again clothed and in our right mind. But we have a dreamy recollection of some funny acts that we played in during the campaign as follows: 1st, work hard all day in the in the woods, at the anvil, or walking the salesroom floor, go to a meeting in the evening through mud, up all night, not a bit sleepy either; 2nd, we mount a three-legged stool, at least try to, a little top-heavy however, well, we take the floor for it, and hold forth the gentlemanly qualities of our candidate; 3rd, election night—harrying up and and down street, must make up $10 to keep the election machine running all night; 4th, coming down street. Judas Priest! there's a missionary collector, can I possibly reach the next corner before she attacks me; ? 5th wage to church the next Sunday. Very dry sermon, all about money for churches, temperance, etc. We look at our watch, time 8:15, no wonder we were sleepy, service fifteen minutes longer than usual.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,

MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

J. G. IRVING,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all Kinds of

PUMPS.

Drop Valve, Cylinder, Force, and Cistern Pumps.

All kinds of

IRON - PUMPS

SUPPLIED.

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to the 1st April, 1883, for the erection and completion of a School House in S. S. No. 17, Euphrasia. Plans and specification may be seen at the residence of Joseph Manarey, W. ½ lot 18, con. 10, Euphrasia, Harkaway P. O. Building to be complete by the 1st August, 1883, and paid for the 15th Jan., 1884. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

JOSEPH MANARY, Sec. Treas.

Euphrasia, March 9th, 1883. 131-4in.

PURE SEED WHEAT.

"THE WESTERN."

MR. ANDREW NESBITT, LOT 110, 2nd range W. T. & S. Road, Glenelg, 1½ miles from Markdale, has 200 bushels of pure Western spring seed wheat for sale. Mr. Jas. Bell, Artemesia, near Engenia, secured 5 bags of this wheat which he sowed last year and says it yielded him $50 more than the same amount of Russian or other varieties which he sowed on equally as good land. The price is $1.25 per bushel.

ANDREW NESBITT.

131-33.

Mansion House,

MARKDALE,

JAMES BRIEN, - - PROPRIETOR.

HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE HOtel, and thoroughly overhauled and refurnished the same, I am now in a position to receive a share of public patronage. The choicest brands of liquors and cigars kept. Good meals; also good stabling.

Markdale, Mar. 14th, 1883. 131ly

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETII. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $2.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.
I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.
I have been greatly benefited.
My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

☞ To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 DEY ST NEW YORK

93-145.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto, Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-ly

THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST.

Coolness of temperament is a virtue, but the refreshing coolness of the

Preserved Meats, Fruits, and Vegetables,

—KEPT AT THE—

BELFAST HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

beats all the icebergs ever floated down the Atlantic Ocean.

The Belfast House

Teas and Coffees!

give an exhilirating influence, not equalled in Markdale, except by Benson's

WHISKIES, BRANDIES, WINES,

&c. Those who relish the "pipe of peace" will find the

Tobaccos and Cigars

at the Belfast House unsurpassed north of Toronto. Cheese, Bologna Sausage, and Biscuit in endless variety, all from the best manufacturers, at the Belfast House. Apples, (green and dried,) Spices, Sweetmeats, &c. Toilet and Fancy Soaps, Essences, Perfumes, and Family Oils, of the purest quality. Flour, Potatoes, Pork, Herring, (dried and salt,) kept constantly on hand.

☞ Our Bottled Gin is imported directly from the manufacturers, and our Bottled Wines are put up at the Vintage. Pickles in bottles, Mustard in cans, and in fact everything in the grocery trade. A recent addition to my finances will enable me to purchase in the head markets of Europe and America.

WILSON BENSON.

AN ACROSTIC.

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer
Right splendid good oil, and Fall
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear, without grit or sand,
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use.
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are sure it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm. 127-153.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto, Ont.

D. McArthur

Has opened a new

BAKERY AND Confectioner Store

In Dunlop's block

MARKDALE.

HIS SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXXIV.—(CONTINUED.)

As he sat now watching Roy, the old wish that the boy was his own son rose within him. Ah, how happy he would have been with children to call him father!

With a heavy sigh he stretched out his hand, and took up mechanically the paper Roy had thrown down on the table, and whose margin he had decorated so fantastically. Was it strange that the color faded suddenly out of his face, leaving it white as death, that a look of chary agony leaped into his eyes? There, at the top of the paper, clear and distinct, among a number of devices, such as anchors, shields, and scrolls, was the name—Russel Anthon.

Roy had written it there quite unconsciously. Mr. Anthon had been in his thoughts while he had been idly scribbling, and without thinking what he was doing, he had written his name.

"Roy."

Something in the tone of the voice which pronounced his name made Roy turn suddenly on the piano stool. Richard Brandon still held the newspaper in his hand, his face was averted; Roy did not see its deathly pallor, or the drawn look about the mouth.

"Roy, did you write that name?"

The quiet voice had a curious metallic ring to it. Roy gave one glance at the paper, his face flushing.

"Yes, Uncle Richard," he answered, laughingly. "I confess it was rather childish to scribble in that fashion."

"Do you know the man who bears that name?"

"I am slightly acquainted with him," said Roy. "I have been in his house many times, I know his daughter very well."

"You know his daughter—Roy, why have you never told me?"

He raised his head now, Roy could see his face and the look upon it startled him.

"I do not know why I have never spoken to you about the Anthons, Uncle Richard. Do you know Mr. Russel Anthon?"

Did he known him? The man who was called Richard Brandon clinched his right hand until the nails sunk deep into the palm; and his voice was strained and unnatural as he answered:

"I knew him—once. Tell me when and where you met the Anthons, Roy—tell me all you know about them."

And Roy, with a vague feeling that there was something about this of which he knew nothing, told how he had first met Louie Anthon; how she had invited him to call upan her, and he had gone to her beautiful home and had been introduced to her handsome, stately father and lovely mother. And speaking and thinking of the girl he loved so truly, Roy forgot the white-faced man sitting opposite to him, did not notice the deep lines of pain that came about Richard Brandon's mouth as he listened, nor the look of anguish that darkened his eyes at the mention of Louie's lovely other.

"And that is not quite all, Uncle Richard," he said at last, his brown eyes growing very soft and tender, "I love Louie Anthon with all my heart, and my dearest hope is that she will be my wife."

Richard Brandon passed one hand over his eyes. Did he hear aright, or was he going mad? Could it be that Roy, whom he had brought up and cared for as though he had been his own son, loved and wished to marry the child of the man who had robbed him of name and wife, and home, and friends? But for this girl—this Louie of whom Roy spoke, he could not have allowed his false, black-hearted brother to go on year after year living in his place; the child—Muriel's child and Arundel's—had been the link between them which he had felt he could not break; he was Muriel's husband but Arundel was the father of the child.

The mighty agony that had swept over him that never, never never to be forgotten day, when standing in the darkened parlor of his own house he had realized Arundel's horrible treachery, was sweeping over him again; again the iron fingers clutched his throat, again the earth seemed to be falling from under his feet. And yet in all his agony he felt that he must be calm and not give way, must make no outward sign of what he was suffering; for Roy must not know that the name Russel Anthon held a terrible significance for him, he must not know that he would rather see him lying dead than married to Arundel Anthon's child.

Roy had waited patiently for the man he had called Uncle Richard ever since he could talk to speak; at last he said hesitatingly, not knowing exactly what to say, yet anxious to break the silence.

"Uncle Richard, you do not think I am too young to marry, do you? I love Miss Anthon so dearly—and I think—I am almost sure she loves me."

What could Richard Brandon say in answer, what objection could he make? He tried to think of something to say, while every detail of that terrible time was rising clear and distinct in his memory.

Muriel's little baby girl—the child who ought to have been his child—it was so hard to understand that Roy wanted to marry this girl.

There was a dull, throbbing pain in Richard Brandon's Temples, the power of action seemed to be slipping away from him, yet Roy was waiting for him to speak, and he must say something.

"You are old enough to marry—I suppose, Roy; but she—she is very young."

"She is not so very young," said Roy earnestly, not stopping to think in his earnestness that the remark was a strange one for Richard Brandon to make. "Louie Anthon was nineteen years old last October."

CHAPTER XXXV.

"Nineteen years old last October," repeated Richard Brandon; then slowly and wearily, "no, Roy, no, you have made a mistake, she was not—she could not have been nineteen last October."

Roy looked at him in great amazement. It was certainly very strange that he should speak so positively; how did he know how old Louie Anthon was? And how pale he was, evidently laboring under some strong excitement which he was striving to repress. What did he know about the Anthon family, and why had the mention of the name affected him as it had done? Roy had always felt that the life of the grave gentleman who had given him a father's love and care, held a secret sad and bitter. he knew that he had suffered, whether through his own act or the wrong-doing of others he did not know, nor did he ever expect to know; for gentle and kind as Richard Brandon was, there was that about him which told how useless it would be to question him concerning his own life, and even Roy had never asked him anything about his past. He had never before seen him so moved and shaken, and he could not help wondering if Louie Anthon's handsome, stately father was not in some way connected with the secret of his life.

Little did Roy think how near he came to the truth.

"I think, Uncle Richard, you have made a mistake," he said gently. "Miss Anthon told me herself only a week or two ago, that she was nineteen years old the twenty-first of last October."

There were restless gleams of light coming and going in Richard Brandon's eyes, the blood was settling in spots upon his ashen gray face, his fingers were twitching nervously; and still he shook his head, while he muttered as though he was speaking to himself.

"It could not be."

He spoke only those few words, yet in his brain strange confused thoughts were slowly shaping themselves.

And Roy, feeling very uncomfortable, utterly at a loss how to account for his unusual manner, and wishing he understood the reason for it, tried to speak lightly as he said that, after all, it did not make much difference just how old Louie Anthon was, although he was almost positive that she had been born in October of a certain year which year he mentioned.

He was totally unprepared for the effect produced by his words. Richard Brandon sprang to his feet, grasping the carved back of a chair near him so tightly that the veins stood out tense and swollen. His great dark eyes were like smoldering fires, his face was flushed a deep dull red, his lips were quivering; he was trembling in every limb. It was surely no trifling thing that had shaken this quiet, reserved, grave man to the very care and centre of his being.

"Roy," he gasped," you say—she was born—the October of that year! My God, boy, think what you are saying! You do not know what it means to me. If what you say is true—then—"

He paused, sinking down heavily into his chair. If what Roy said was true—If Louie Anthon had been born in October of that fatal year—then she was his own child. He bowed his head upon his hands, trying to stem the wild rush of his thoughts, trying to think calmly, thinking instinctively that if he allowed the flood of wild joy and terrible bitterness that was rising within him to sweep over him unrestrained, reason would give way before it.

"Uncle Richard," said Roy, his own face pale now, feeling like a man who gropes his way in the dark, "I cannot understand; I know that what I have said has affected you terribly, yet I know not why."

Richard Brandon raised his head, master of his own emotions even at this great moment of his life; for self-control is more the result of habit, the outgrowth of will-power, than it is a natural characteristic, and for many years he has been used to keeping his own feelings in check.

"Roy, you cannot understand, nor can I explain to you. There are secrets which must remain secrets to the end of time. If my secret concerned only myself I would tell it to you, but it concerns more than me. I have acted strangely and unnaturally—it is because I have been moved and shaken as I thought nothing could ever shake me again, and there are times in life when our emotions are stronger than we are; but you must try and forget it—or, if that is impossible, think as little about it as you can. This much I can say—and it is only justice to you that I should say it, because I think you love me. If I have led a strangely quiet and reserved life, mingling but little with my fellow men, it has not been because there was a stain upon me which I feared the world would discover."

For a moment there was silence in the room—a silence broken only by the crackle of the fire in the grate. the ticking of the clock upon the mantel; then Roy spoke.

"Uncle Richard, I want no explanation: I am content to let things remain as they are. I have always felt that there was a bitter sorrow in your life, but that it was not of your making I have been sure. I have only one thing to ask you: Would it displease or sadden you if I should marry Miss Anthon?"

For he knew now that in some way the Anthons were connected with the secret of Richard Brandon's life.

Richard Brandon did not answer at once—he was thinking. If it was true that Louie, this girl that Roy loved, had been born the October following the March of that year when. leaving Muriel, his young wife, and his beautiful home, he had gone to Mexico in search of Arundel, then in all truth she was his own child—and his weary, sad hearts leaped and grew glad at the very thought. But it was too late to claim her now—that time had long gone by. He could call her daughter never, never; he had a child, yet he must be to all the world a childless man. Still, if Roy should marry her—if she was the wife of the man he had loved from his babyhood—no one would think it strange if he loved her; and she would love him, too,—oh! the peace and blessedness of that! He would live with them—he would teach the little children that would come to Roy and her to call him grandfather, and they would not know—Only he and God would know—that he was really their mother's father. He had never dreamed that such happiness would come to him, and there was a soft, sad smile upon his grief worn face as he said:

"It would not displease me Roy, no. for it would bring happiness to me, not sorrow."

"I am so glad," Roy said, with a deep sigh of relief. "You will love her, I know, Uncle Richard, she is so lovely."

"Roy,"—there was a break in Richard Brandon's voice as he spoke—"is she like her mother?"

"Yes, very much, only her eyes are different; they are deep, true, earnest eyes—such sweet eyes, Uncle Richard. To-morrow night I shall go to Mr. Anthon and ask his consent to make his daughter my wife. You say you knew him once, it is strange he did not remember your name, for I know I have spoken of you in his presence."

Richard Brandon's brow darkened.

"He does not know me," he said "he knows no such man as Richard Brandon. Roy, you are quite sure that Louie Anthon was nineteen years old last October?"

"Perfectly sure," answered Roy, firmly.

The thought had come to him within the last few moments that perhaps in his early manhood Richard Brandon had loved Louie's beautiful mother, had loved her so dearly as men do sometimes love—that when she had married Mr. Anthon it had swept joy and brightness forever out of his life, and his bitter disappointment had made him the grave, quiet man he was. Even if Russel Anthon did not know Richard Brandon, Richard Brandon would know him, because he was the man who had won that which he had striven in vain to win. If such was the case, if Mr. Anthon had married the woman who was dearer to Richard Brandon than all else in the world beside, Roy thought it was not at all strange that his uncle's face had clouded at the very sight of the name, Russel Anthon, or that the mention of it had brought up a host of bitter, painful memories.

So in his own way Roy accounted for it all, until it no longer seemed strange or hard to understand.

"After Roy had left him that night, and he was alone, Richard Brandon gave his thoughts free scope. It was almost like that other night so long ago, when the full realization of Arundel's faithlessness and dishonor had overwhelmed him. Bitterness long suppressed rose in his heart; fierce, terrible anger for Arundel, and rebellion against the fate which had laid waste his life. He had thought he had suffered all he could possibly suffer, and now the almost certain knowledge that the child which he had thought the strongest link between Muriel and Arundel was his own child, brought with it agony which well nigh prostrated him. The patience and resignation which had helped him to bear his sorrow all these years left him; passions which he had thought were dead, awoke within him; hate and resentment and relentless wrath. He felt that he must go now to Arundel and shoot him down like a dog; what right had he to live—that false, black-hearted man whose life was a monstrous lie?

The gray dawn still found Richard Brandon still crouching in his chair before the fire, which during the night had burned itself out and was only a heap of ashes, and in the pale, dim light his face looked hard and cold and pitiless, there were deep-drawn lines about his colorless lips, and he spoke through his clenched teeth as he muttered:

"You stole my wife, my name, my friends away from me, Arundel Anthon; you robbed me of joy and happiness and peace, and if it is indeed true that the child who has called you father all these years is my child, then if God can forgive you let Him do it, but I can never, never!"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

"I know you are very much disappointed, Russel," said Muriel, regretfully; "but Louie says she knows now she never loved him, though for his sake and ours she has tried to make herself believe she did, and she has only discovered a few days ago that her feelings for him could never be any warmer than those of friendship."

"Bah!" said Arundel, contemptuously, an ugly frown darkening his handsome, high-bred face. "Is that reasonable, Muriel—does it take a woman so long to discover whether or no she loves a man? I can find no excuse for her actions. Why did she not tell us all in the first place that she would not be his wife? But no, she knew how much he cared for her, and she encouraged him to think she would accept him, she knew how much I wished her to marry him, and she gave me every reason to believe she would do as I wished, only to disappoint us both in the end." And Arundel arose from his chair and walked up and down the long room, finding great difficulty in controlling himself.

It was not quite eight o'clock in the evening, and he and Muriel were alone together in the library. For the past forty eight hours Arundel Anthon had been in anything but an angelic frame of mind. He had been so sure that Louie would accept Percy Everingham that when she told him she had refused him he had been horribly disappointed; what is more, it had galled him to think that this girl whom he had disliked from her very birth, had dared to thwart him, had defied him to his face, looking at him with her great brown eyes—the eyes which he could not bear to meet. He would have liked to have been able to force her to marry Percy, to make her bend to his wishes.

"Don't think too hardly of Louie," said Muriel, wistfully. "I am sure she did not mean to give either you or Percy any false hope, she is too true by nature for that. Did Percy seem to feel very bad when you saw him yesterday, dear?"

"Very badly, indeed," answered Arundel. "he was bitterly disappointed, for he had never thought for a moment but that Louie would tell him she would be his wife. Muriel," and he paused in his walk up and down the room, and stood still on the hearth-rug, "do you think she refused him because she cared for some one else?"

"I have been thinking about that myself," said Muriel, earnestly. "I am quite sure something has happened very lately to change her feelings toward him. She may have discovered that she didn't care for him only when she found that she loved somebody else."

"But who could it be?" asked Arundel, a most unamiable feeling arising with him towards the person who had frustrated his plans regarding Louie and Percy Evringham. "Does any gentleman come to the house for whom you think she has a particular liking, Muriel?"

Muriel hesitated an instant, conscious that what she was about to say would not not be particularly pleasing to her husband.

"I think she cares more for Roy Glenmore than for any other gentleman who calls upon her," she answered.

"Roy Glenmore!" exclaimed Arundel, frowning again. "I have never liked that fellow, and if he is the one who has stepped in between Louie and Percy, then I shall very soon give him to understand that we can dispense with his society. But, Muriel, why did you not tell me this before?"

"Because, dear, I had no idea of such a thing myself until the day before yesterday. I happened to go into the parlor and found them there together, and something in her face and manner put the thought into my mind."

"Well, he will never get my consent to marry her," said Arundel decidedly. "I have always disliked him; I more than dislike him now."

"I have never disliked him, Russel," Muriel said, unwilling to admit to herself that her husband's opinions with reference to Roy Glenmore were unjust, to say the least. "He is very gentlemanly and intelligent, and his manners are perfect; the Van Alstynes think everything of him; still I have always wished that I knew more about his family. It is so strange, Russel, he seems to have no other relative, except his uncle—a Mr. Brandon."

"He is Richard Brandon, one of the firm of Disbrow & Co.," said Arundel. "Some one was telling me about him the other day: a grave, silent man, who does not go into any society, has no intimate friends, and who never, under any circumstances, can be induced to speak of his past life. We do not want to have anything to do with such people, Muriel. I am sorry, very sorry, that Louie ever met this fellow Glenmore."

There was silence between them for a moment; then Muriel was just about to speak when there was a knock at the door, and a servant, coming into the room, informed Mr. Anthon that Mr. Glenmore had called, and would like to see him.

"Oh Russel, don't say anything to hurt his feelings," pleaded Muriel, as she rose to leave the room. "I can imagine what he has come to ask you."

"So can I," said Arundel, quietly.

"But, dear, Louie may love him very dearly," said Muriel, anxiously. "Had we not better consult her, Russel, before you give him your answer?"

Arundel looked down into the lovely, troubled face.

"Muriel do you think it would be right for us to allow Louie to marry a man of whose family and antecedents we know positively nothing, whose only known relative is a man whose life is a mystery to those who know him?"

And Muriel answered "No."

When Roy Glenmore entered the library he found Mr. Anthon standing in front of the fire waiting for him, and though he greeted him with perfect politeness Roy could not help but notice the chill in his manner.

There was a few moments' conversation upon various everyday subjects, a pause, and then Roy said:

"Mr. Anthon I came here to-night to tell you that I love your daughter, to ask you if I have your consent to ask her to be my wife."

A slight inclination of the handsome head which might mean anything or nothing; Roy concluded that it meant "go on," and he went on accordingly, his face flushing, his eyes darkening with earnestness.

"I have loved her ever since I first met her, and I would strive earnestly and faithfully to keep every shadow, every sorrow out of her life. I know that what I am asking of you is no small thing, Mr. Anthon, I know she is your only child, that she is very dear to you; but if you will give her to me, I will hold her as the dearest, most precious thing on earth."

"Do you think, Mr. Glenmore, that my daughter returns your love?"

A look of rare tenderness gathered about Roy's mouth.

"I think—I am almost sure, Mr. Anthon, that she does."

Arundel leaned back in his chair, his face haughty and cold. The dislike he had always felt for Roy Glenmore had increased a thousand-fold. He was the one then who had spoiled his plans; but for him Louie would not have refused Percy Evringham; he had already made love to the girl, well, he would punish him for his presumption.

"Mr. Glenmore, you must pardon me for speaking so plainly, but I cannot give my consent to your marriage with my daughter until I know more about you and your family than I already do; you must remember you are almost a stranger to me."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen."

In a scantily furnished room at 62 Parkin street, sits an old gray-haired man, fingering an ancient piano. It is Frederick Nicholls Crouch, the author of "Kathleen Mavourneen." His personal appearance is striking. Of a snort, compact figure, his movements are astonishingly quick and active. He has a bushy growth of hair and beard, his complexion is ruddy, and from under rugged brown shine bright hazel eyes. His dress consists of an old soldiers coat, dark blue flannel shirt and well-worn pantaloons. Prof. Crouch says he knew Payne, and led the music on the night, when, at Drury Lane Theatre, Payne's opera of "Clari, the Maid of Milan," was produced. Sir Henry Bishop was the composer. Payne wrote the words. Both men were in the wings and in full view of Prof. Crouch during the performance. The song of "Home, Sweet Home," was written for this opera. Prof. Crouch told how his own famous song, "Kathleen Mavourneen," was composed. He said the words had been sent to him from London by Mrs. Crawford. He was riding one day along the banks of the Tamar, in west England, when the melody came to him. "I was so infatuated with it," said Prof Crouch, "that I sang the song to large audiences in the Plymouth Assembly Rooms, Plymouth, Devonshire, and within a week it began to spread. Thus was my offspring begotten, and so became the child of the world."

Prof. Crouch was born in England, July 31, 1808, of good family. He is now out of employment and too old to help himself. He has a wife and five children. He tries to smile cheerily at fate, but the smile is full of pathos.

"You wouldn't take me for a married man, would you?" asked a student of a Cortland girl last Sunday night. "I rather think I would if you should ask me," was the response. He bought a ring next day.

Savings for Old Age.

No one denies that it is wise to make provision for old age, but we are not agreed as to the kind of provision to lay in. Certainly we shall want money, for a destitute old man is, indeed, a sorry sight; yes, save money, by all means. But an old man needs just that particular kind of strength which young men are apt to waste. Many a foolish young fellow will throw away on a holiday a certain amount of nervous energy which he will never feel the want of until he is seventy, and then how much he will want it! Incurions, but true, that a bottle of champagne at twenty will intensify the rheumatism at threescore, It is a fact that overtaxing the eyes at fourteen may necessitate the use of spectacles at forty instead of sixty. We advise young readers to be saving of health for their old age, for the maxim holds good in regard to health as to money—"Waste not, want not." It is the greatest mistake to suppose that violation of the laws of health can escape its penalty. Nature forgives no sin, no error; she lets off the offender for fifty years sometimes, but she catches him at last, and inflicts the punishment just when, just where, and just as he feels it most. Save up for old age, but save knowledge; save the recollection of good and noble deeds, innocent pleasures and pure thoughts; save friends; save love. Save rich stores of that kind of wealth which time can not diminish nor death take away.

A Remarkable Journey.

I must tell you of the remarkable journey performed by one of those little colored rubber balloons, such as are sold on the streets for a few sous, or given as an inducement to purchasers in some of the large dry goods shops. Mr. Oberfelder, a restaurant keeper at Auteuil, saw his son playing with one of these balloons, which had come from a shop called "Pygmalion." I forgot to mention that the shops print their names on the balloons. Just for a joke, the father wrote on the back of his business card a promise to pay one bottle of old absinthe to the person who would return the balloon, and, after tying the card to the same, sent it adrift. This happened on the 12th of December last. A few weeks ago Mr. Oberfelder received a letter from Russia, signed Andre Jarochewitch, priest of Tchigi, in which he asks if it be true that a little rubber balloon, which he found in his garden on the 16th of December, bearing the mark "Pygmalion" and Mr. Oberfelder's card, did certainly come from Paris? The distance from Paris to Tchigi direct is about 1,120 miles, which the balloon accomplished in nine days; yet it must have drifted about and traversed a much longer distance in its journey.—Paris Cor. Philadelphia Bulletin.

What the Buddhists Call Sacred Music.

A French traveller recently returned from Siam gives the account of a new Buddhist temple which has just been completed in the environs of Bangkok, and which closely resembles in appearance a Christian church. The guide told him to his great surprise that it was a pagoda, and on entering the building he had observed the exact close imitation of the interior of a Catholic place of worship. There was an altar, with a large image of Buddha placed on it, stained-glass windows, prie-dieus, and all the other accessories of Catholic devotion.

"What do you think of it?" asked the Bonze who took him over the building, and who was evidently very proud of it. "It is very modern," said the tourist deprecatingly. "Modern it is, of course," said the priest, who took the remark as a compliment. "We have even an organ; and a better one than any you have in France, for it plays without an organist. We had it made to order by Messrs. Bird & Co., of London, and, as you will hear, it plays nothing but the finest sacred music." Whereupon he turned the handle, and the Frenchman heard his great edification, heard the familiar air which fits the words "De Madame Angot je suis la fille."—Lloyd's Mail Gazette.

How to Excel.

Dr. Chalmers forcibly remarks: "There is a certain showy and superficial something which can be done in a very short time. One may act the part of a harlequin with his mind as well as his body, and there is a source of mental agility which always gives me the impression of a Marlequin. The man, for example, was a thorough harlequin in both senses of the word, who boasted that he could throw off a hundred verses of poetry while he stood upon one foot. There was something for wonder in all this. It is rarely by any such exploit that we make deep, and powerful, and enduring progress. It is by dint of steady labor—it is by giving enough of the applications to the work and having enough of time for the doing of it; it is by regular painstaking, and the slow process of constant assiduities—it is by these and not by any process of legerdemain, that we secure the strength and the staple of excellence."

As to the signs of the zodiac, Professor H. Sayce says that the origin and meaning of some of them are plain enough. It is difficult, for instance, to discover the meaning of the bull in the symbol of Taurus or the arrow in that of Sagittarius. But the meaning of others, such as the symbols of Virgo, Scorpio, or of Capricornus, is not so evident. These symbols are of comparatively modern invention, and first came into use along with the symbols still employed by astronomers to denote the planets. But modern though the use of them may be, it is quite otherwise with the signs themselves and the majority of the names by which we still call them. Recent research has shown that the general voice of classical antiquity was right in regarding the Chaldeans as the first to map out the path of the sun during the year into separate regions or constellations. There are indications that the names of the zoadical signs were originally given when the vernal equinox still coincided with the entrance of the sun into Taurus.

There are sixty-six thousand locomotives in the world. And yet when you have waited for a train at some desolate way station for five hours you wouldn't believe there were half so many. Sixty-six thousand, and still a man can miss a train as easily as though there were only one engine on the whole continent.—Hawkeye.

THE KEEWATIN MINES.

WONDERFUL RETURNS PROMISED FOR THE CAPITAL OUTLAY.

Experts of Toronto Assayers—A District Abounding in Wealth—The Place to Make Fortunes.

The Keewatin Mining Company owns [illegible] property upon Hay island, which [illegible] one of the many islands studding the Lake of the Woods. The original discoverer of the valuable property was Mr. William Lockwood, who will amply repay himself for making an independant fortune from [illegible] keenness. Since Mr. Lockwood's discovery the value of this section can be [illegible] estimated when it is known that nine-[illegible] mines are working in the Keewatin district, and that over 100 leads are now asking for capital to back their enterprises, the owners of a lead asking as high as $60,000. This means very much on an old time California-[illegible] boom. In that year $40,000,000 worth of gold was extracted from the California mines and the quantity continued to increase each year as follows:

1849	$40,000,000
1850	50,000,000
1851	55,000,000
1852	60,000,000
1853	65,000,000

From these figures there has been a gradual decline, until in 1882, twenty-nine years later, we find the total amount of bullion produced is $15,000,000 only, a decline of $50,000,000, which amply goes to show an almost spent district. When the Black Hills mines were opened, a wild cry of "take me" ran up from the press, and capitalists [illegible] with little or fear of burnt fingers, until it became an assured fact that gold laid in the hills in abundance. What are the facts now? Simply these: Deadwood returns during the past five years have produced twenty-eight million ounces of gold, one hundred and forty thousand tons of lead, and twenty-six thousand ounces of silver, exclusive of one hundred thousand tons of ore shipped to other towns for treatment.

[illegible] last year paid $1,000,000 in [illegible] the Black Hills R. R. for carrying [illegible] ore. This speaks for itself.

FISSURE VEINS.

[illegible] mine and the district surrounding are situated on the fissure veins and [illegible] are deeper in mineral wealth than the mind of man can estimate or labor [illegible] The supply is simply inexhaustible. [illegible] stock may be mentioned as the largest of this variety, though [illegible] irregular. This class of veins is [illegible] veins, and that is why so much [illegible] has fallen upon the value of the [illegible] district. The Winnipeg Times in [illegible] rather doubted the value of [illegible] in this district by New York [illegible] assayers, and a suggestion [illegible] to be sent to Professors Pike [illegible] of Toronto, was quickly taken [illegible] was sent to Toronto, assayers, and the following results were obtained: [illegible] Chapman's report $110 in gold [illegible] per 2000 lbs., and a quantity of silver [illegible] gold, and from Prof. Pike's [illegible] per 2000 lbs. Can any[illegible] conclusive as to the value of this district, when the [illegible] mines supposed to be profit[illegible], whilst the extreme is [illegible] average of the famous [illegible] John del Rey, which dur[illegible] years has given a profit of $5,[illegible] of gold per ton. [illegible] of gold per ton can give a [illegible] in thirty-six years with [illegible] used by Brazilians for ex[illegible] metal and at a cost of [illegible] how much profit can be [illegible] mine showing, not $110 or [illegible], but $75 per ton for [illegible], at a cost of $4 per [illegible] labor is large indeed, [illegible] the Keewatin mines is [illegible] partially decomposed, which [illegible] of mining and reducing [illegible] expensive.

[illegible] question of timbering [illegible] important, but right here, [illegible] can be found all the [illegible] heavy mining and fuel [illegible] hauling alone. This [illegible] a boon to miners, and [illegible] bills which superin[illegible] to their list of expenses [illegible]. When it is taken [illegible] the vast amount of timber [illegible] and at the reduction [illegible] at $10,000 per year is [illegible] acres that can be placed [illegible] the Stederfeldt's [illegible] company will use [illegible] wood per day. This [illegible] required to run the [illegible] for hoisting, crush[illegible], etc. The cost of haul[illegible] part of the company's [illegible] engine room, etc., there [illegible] upon the company's [illegible] for many years.

MINING AND HAULING.

[illegible] expensive bills attached [illegible] that of pumping ma[illegible] is there constant dread [illegible] of the superinten[illegible] water in the levels or [illegible] steam must always [illegible] pumps run night and day, [illegible] best of pumps with a large capa[illegible] must be used, necessitating [illegible] ready for fuel and [illegible] the Comstock lower [illegible] immense value and [illegible] for the purpose proved of [illegible] whatever, and could not prevent [illegible] encroachment of the lower levels, with [illegible] immense mineral wealth. In the [illegible] district it has been found that so [illegible] as the rock pack, the sluices for con[illegible] the water down the main shaft of [illegible] have had to be constructed on [illegible] that it may be pumped again into [illegible] for use in the boiler and milling [illegible]. The saving of such immense sums [illegible] question will go a long way towards [illegible] the cost of mining and increasing [illegible]. The erection of the Stedefeldt's [illegible] be the most efficient money [illegible] hand, for instead of ship[illegible] to be treated to a long dis[illegible] mines, its treatment upon the spot will not only allow of actual saving from the tailings, but also avoid the purchase of horses, waggons, harness, feed and engaging of drivers, in fact effect an estimate saving of $10,000 to $20,000 per year. This alone in connection with pumping will be a saving large enough to pay a good dividend upon the stock sold.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Count Festetics, husband of the Duke of Hamilton's only sister (who was divorced from the Prince of Monaco), has become by the death of his father and uncle about the greatest landlord in Austro-Hungary.

For the purpose of studying commercial and manufacturing systems, with the idea of introducing them into China, a high official of the Celestial Empire, Ton Kin Sin, is making a tour of Europe, and will visit America in July.

With the consent of the widow of the late Richard Wagner and the sanction of the King of Bavaria, twelve performances of "Parsifal" will be given at Bayreuth between July 8 and 30 next. Several artists from Munich will take part in the performance.

Dr. Schliemann has lately returned to Athens, from a visit to Thermopylæ, where he hoped he might find the site of Polyandrion. This, however, he was unable to do. He is at present at work on the German edition of his new volume on the discoveries he made last year at Hissarlik.

Miss Chamberlain has a rival at Cannes in the person of Miss Crabbe, daughter of the lady who, as Miss Herbert, was one of the most admired of London actresses. She and Montague frequently played together at the St. James's Theatre in London. A more thoroughly ladylike woman never trod the stage.

The King of Siam, having read The Land of the White Elephant, has appointed Mr. Frank Vincent, Jun., a Knight of the Royal Order of Buspa Mala, the medal of which, of dark yellow gold elaborately engraved, is one of the four Siamese decorations which the King himself wears at ceremonies of state.

Queen Victoria and the Princess of Wales have resolved to improve the tone and manners of London aristocratic society. They are alarmed at the encroachments of American vulgarity and French refinement, and will attempt to repress both. This is on the authority of the Rev. Robert Laird Collier, who is now in London.

At a recent dinner at the Mansion House, in London, three foreign Consuls were present, whom the Lord Mayor wished to honor by drinking their healths. He accordingly directed the toastmaster to announce the health of the three present Consuls. He, however, mistaking the words, gave out the following: "The Lord Mayor drinks the health of the three per cent. consols."

Among other strange coincidences is the part played by the number 13 in the life of the late Richard Wagner. In the first place, 13 is the number of letters comprising his name; in the year 1813 he was born, on the 13th of March, 1861, his great work, "Tannhauser," failed to arouse any appreciation in Paris, it was on the 13th of February that he breathed his last; and he died after 13 years of married life.

Caen Wood Towers, which the ex-Khedive is to make his home, sold to him for four hundred and fifty thousand dollars by a person who paid two hundred thousand for it, was embellished by Mr. Edward Brooke, the former owner. Some of the doors are of ebony inlaid with ivory, the staircase windows are painted with scenes from Tennyson, and some of the rooms are hung with stamped Cordova leather. A miniature farm and dairy are on the ground.

The Rev. Geo. W. Hinkle is displeasing many of the Episcopalians of Cleveland by hearing confessions and granting absolutions. He defends this practice on the ground that it is "not at all contrary to the teachings of the Church, but is distinctly implied by passages in the Prayer Book." He reminds his cities that when he was ordained the Bishop said: "Whose sins thou dost forgive, they are forgiven, and whose sins thou dost retain, they are retained."

Modern Temptations.

No country has been more prolific than this in devices for making life pleasant. In spite, however, of the universal song of triumph over the material progress of the nineteenth century, there is reason enough for interjecting a quiet query whether this advance in the art of making life comfortable is an unmixed gain. Every new experience of a material good not before attained, creates a new want; and so far makes one less willing to stand in his own strength. When it becomes a frequent thing for men and women to destroy their own lives when reverses come, rather than face the tedium of a life in which wonted comforts and pleasures would be wanting it is time to inquire whether the hard discipline of a bare struggle for existence would not be preferable, from a moral standpoint, to the easy training which leaves its subject in a state of helpless dependence upon "modern conveniences." No, no! We have invented the steam-engine and the electric light; our houses are supplied with district-messenger-calls and telephones, and our tables with chicken croquettes and terrapin; but our modern inventions have not yet enabled us to turn out manly, self-reliant men by machinery; and they never will. Indeed where high purpose and moral conviction are lacking, each newly discovered comfort or pleasure has a direct weakening and corrupting influence; and so it often happens that in the houses of the rich, amid all the appliances of civilization which wealth can command, there is to be found discontent, weariness, and despair, while among those whose lot seems harder one may find unselfishness, patience, and faith. "Behold we count them happy which endure." No advance of civilization will ever change the truth, that for the real upbuilding of character, conflict is better than peace, and work better than ease. It has been said that many a man leaves half his soul in his easy chair. When it comes to the question of that, let us be ready to give up our easy-chair rather than the half of our soul.—S. S. Times.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

Mr. George Brush the well-known Montreal foundry man is dead.

Winnipeg has 120 licensed liquor houses, or one for every 200 of the population.

The Quebec Legislature will not prorogue till the end of next week.

A meeting of fruit and vegetable canners and packers has been held at Hamilton.

A committee of citizens at Montreal have recommended the contestation of Mayor Beaudry's seat.

Mr. Lamothe, a well-known Montreal notary recently fell down suddenly and expired immediately.

The case of the Bank of Montreal against T. H. Hodgson, bids fair to be a most complicated affair.

Hon. P. G. Ryan, Chief Commissioner of the board of Works was elected by acclamation in Gloucester county.

An old man named Thomas Study, formerly lighthouse keeper at Knap's Point died in gaol of old age.

The young man Cook so badly wounded in the massacre of his family by the immigrant Mann some time ago, is believed to be much worse.

Mrs. Wm. Rea, of Kingston, and Nellie M. Shaw, of New Bradford, both pretty and attractive, are being looked for in Montreal by the police.

Jas. McCuley fell off the cars of the Quebec train, North Shore Railway, and is in a precarious condition in the hospital.

Mr. Lawson has entered a civil suit for $5,000 damages against the collector of the customs at Montreal for refusing to give up two infidel works of Voltaire and Paine imported by plaintiff.

UNITED STATES.

At Calais, Maine, Herbert Exton, a well-known citizen, suddenly drew a pistol and shot his brother Joseph and Samuel Kelly.

The steamer City Point is still ashore at Permaquida harbor.

Dukes, popularly accused of seduction and murder, came to Harrisburg, and it is said no hotel would keep him.

There is intense excitement throughout New York over the milk war.

The private banking firm of R. E. & H. Hedges, of New Brighton, Pa., has suspended.

There is good authority for the statement that Folger will resign before the 1st of July.

The superintendent of the Youngstown Coke Company, Uniontown, Pa., was shot and killed by John Kank, a Molly Maguire.

Eleven fire insurance companies are cancelling the risks they hold on property at Red Bank, N. Y.

Salmi Morse has contracted to produce the Passion Play a hundred times at Louisville, commencing August 1st.

The Governor of Nashville, Tenn., has signed a bill to pay the State debt at the rate of 50c. on the dollar with 3 per cent interest.

In the Cleveland Bessimer steel works, several tons of melted metal overturned and striking the damp sand exploded, fatally burning Patrick Foley and another workman.

In the action against the telegraph companies at New York, the jury gave a verdict of six cents for the people, the effect of which is that the company must remove the poles.

GENERAL.

George Jessel, Master of the Rolls, is dead.

An eruption of Mount Etna has occurred, accompanied by an earthquake.

General Maceo, the Cuban refugee, continues to complain of the severity of his confinement.

There have been frightful thunderstorms with gales and hail in Queensland. The crops have been destroyed.

All the Socialists on trial at Vienna have been acquitted of high treason.

The Right Hon. A. J. Mundella, member of Parliament for Sheffield, is seriously indisposed.

Four thousands Ashantees have renounced allegiance to the King and demand the establishing of a British protectorate.

A letter stating that it is the intention of the Invincibles to dynamite Parliament after Easter, has received by an English M. P.

The Freeman's Journal does not believe that Parnell and Sexton will attend the Philadelphia Convention.

The police possess a clue to the explosion in the office of the Local Government Board.

The Court of Cassation at Brussels has refused to grant a new trial in the case of Leond and Armand Peltzer, convictdd as the murderers of the Bernays.

A boy with a top tried to spin it,
But his hand got a thorn right in it,
The sport didn't spoil,
For St. Jacob's Oil,
Cured his hurt in less than a minit.

A red haired clerk in Savannah,
Slipped on a piece of banana,
Great pain he endured,
But St. Jacobs Oil cured,
He now goes dancing with Hannah.

A schooner rounded to at some distance from its wharf at Bath, Me., the other day, and while the lookers-on were waiting for a boat to be lowered and rowed ashore with a hawser, according to the natural order of things, they saw something very different. A dog sprang from the schooner into the river, swam to the wharf with the end of a line in his mouth, and when the hawser to which the line was attached had been hauled in and made fast, swam back to the schooner, seized a rope that was flung to him and was drawn on board.

FOR THE

KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—wherever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by placing them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles; for the distressing disorders of women; for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

For Diabetes ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

For sale by all dealers.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,

Toronto, Ont., Rochester, N.Y., London, Eng.

PROFESSIONAL.

MR. FORSTER, ARTIST, HAS RETURNED from Europe and opened a Studio, 81 King-st. East Portraits in oil life size.

MISCELLANEOUS.

RUBBER STAMPS.—ADDRESS R. H. COX 4 King St. East, Toronto. Agents wanted

CARDS. Valentine and Easter; in $1, $2, $4, $5, or $10 lots. By post pre-paid. H. J. MATTHEWS & BROS., Toronto

FOR SALE OR TO LET—BLACKSMITH shop and house, garden and orchard, good business stand. For further particulars apply to R. HOWELL, Kimberley P. O. Euphrasia Tp. Ont.

FOR SALE—640 ACRES—CLASS ONE Land Oak River District, Manitoba, $3 per acre; $1,000 cash, balance on time. Splendid chance for intending settlers. Apply to ROBERT WATSON, Orillia.

AT A BARGAIN—STOCK AND GRAIN Farm, near Fergus, county Wellington, 125 acres; 100 clear; 30 new land; good clay loam; good water and pasture. Address, G. F. PLATT, Fergus P. O.

$5 PER DAY can be made by agents, male or female. C. W. DENNIS, Toronto.

CHRIS. SHEPPARD, Manufr of Masonic and other Society Jewels, 151 King E., Toronto

WATCHES. Send for free illustrated catalogue to RYRIE, the Jeweler 13 Yonge Street, Toronto.

WIRE WINDOW GUARDS, WIRE CLOTH and Wire Goods at the Toronto Wire Works, 116 King St. West. T. G. RICE.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface heavy and very tough. Send for new price list. J. G. WOODLAND & CO., Printers Toronto.

ROOFING MATERIALS. CARPET AND Building Papers, wholesale and retail, at low price, at HODGE & WILLIAMS, 4 Adelaide, St., East, Toronto.

AUTOPHONES, $6.50, INCLUDING FOUR tunes. T. CLAXTON, dealer in Musical instruments. Piano Music, Band Music, &c. atalogues free. 197 Yonge St., Toronto.

$1.00 FOR A WORKING MODEL steam Engine with lamp complete. C. POTTER, 31 King-st., East, Toronto.

STOCK OF GOODS WANTED IN EXCHANGE for large good farm, having village and Railway station on it, or would sell cheap. Apply Box 1, Dundalk, Ont.

ONTARIO VETERINARY COLLEGE, TORONTO. Students can enter from October until January. PROF. SMITH, V. S., Edin. Principal. Fees, fifty dollars.

CANADIAN MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION Co-operative Life Assurance. Provide for families in case of death. W. PEMBERTON PAGE, Sec., 87 King St. West, Toronto. Agents wanted.

FARMERS AND LAND OWNERS WISHing to sell their properties can secure immediate sale by sending full particulars to BUTLER & LAKE, 60 King Street, East, Toronto.

PRICE TICKETS, SHOW CARDS, WINDOW SHADES. Newest designs. Send for price list. F. WILLIAMS, 4 King E., Toronto.

R. S. WOOD & CO., OAKVILLE—MANUFACTURERS of Outside and Inside Blinds, Sash, Doors, and Mouldings. Send for prices, Oakville, Ont.

VESSELS FOR SALE OR CHARTER—schooners Craftsman, Feltonecraft, Hercules, and Erie Ware: all A. vessels and in good condition. Apply to W. Y. EMERY, Port Burwell, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE—BEING LOT 106 Gwillimbury, adjoining town of Holland Landing 212 acres, Northern R. R. Station situated on corner of this Lot, the land is high rolling clay loam Brick house frame Bank Barn. J. W. G WHITNEY, Estate Agent-25 Toronto-st. Toronto.

GENERAL BUSINESS FOR SALE IN western manufacturing town, doing $25,000 per an.. stock about $9,000, favorable price and terms. MACKINTOSH & PETERS Toronto.

TWO RUN WATERPOWER GRIST MILL for sale in Ontario Co., with 8 acres good land and dwelling. Price $1,150, easy terms. MACKINTOSH & PETERS, Toronto.

FOR SALE—DOUBLE-HEADED EGYPTIAN oats, imported from Egypt; weigh 48 lbs. per bushel; yield 100 bushels per acre; circulars free, samples 20c. JAMES BOYD, Jr., Belford Ont.

FARM FOR SALE—2nd CON. PICKERING township, one mile north Pickering village, six miles west of Whitby; 67½ acres; best of soil; 2 houses; good outbuildings; first-class young orchard. Further particulars apply to ISAAC HOAG, on premises, or JOS. J. MOORE, Norwich, Ont.

THOSE WISHING TO DISPOSE OF OR purchase a business of any description in the city or elsewhere should call or send particulars to C. J. PALIN, 53 and 55 King-street East, Toronto. Business Agent and Valuer.

NEWCOMBE PIANOFORTES ARE endorsed by the most eminent musicians for superiority of tone and action. Illustrated catalogues mailed on application. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & CO., corner of Church & Richmond Streets, Toronto. A variety of second hand Pianos by Chickering, Stodart, and other makers at close prices.

$6.25 FOR 39 CTS.

Any person sending me 39 cents and the addresses of 10 acquaintances will receive by return mail goods (not recipes) that net $6 25 This is an honest offer to introduce staple goods If you want a fortune, act now. J. D. HENRY P. O. Box 127, Buffalo, N.Y.

Use "TRABERRY" and you will find
Your Teeth become as pearls;
'Twill fragrant make the Breath of all,
Boys, women, men and girls.

Near TILSONBURG, ONT.,
Dec. 14, 1881.

I have been ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton. Last fall I weighed only eighty-six pounds. I was induced to try ZOPESA by Mr. Thomson (of the firm of C. Thomson & Co., druggists, of this place), and, many thanks to him, I am now an entirely new woman and weigh 124 pounds, through the use of this new compound.

MRS. CAROLINE FORBES,
Wife of Mr. R. G. Forbes.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth surface heavy and very tough. Send for new price list. J. G. WOODLAND & CO.; Steam Printers, Toronto.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARMING and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 14 Adelaide-st. East, Toronto. Send for list.

CLERKS AND SCHOOLMASTERS—WHY not add $5 to $15.00 per week to your salary after business hours. Address with stamp, H. McALISTER, Drawer 2630, Toronto, Ont.

AGENTS—IN EVERY COUNTY IN ONtario—to sell a necessary and profitable article—send three cent stamp for particulars. Address L. B. CLEMENS, Waterloo.

YORK FARMERS' COLONY—FREE tickets to purchasers of land. Choice Homesteads free. Send for map, pamphlet and guide. Cheapest tickets to all points west. J. ARMSTRONG, 1 Victoria-st., Toronto.

ORGANS NEW—10 OCTAVES reeds, Octave Coupler, $85; 14 Octaves reeds, Sub-bass and Coupler, $100. Same in fancy pipe top case, tone superb, $125. Organs with Bell Chimes cheap. Write for particulars, Box 500, Georgetown, Ont.

Robbins Bros.,

Arbitrators, Public Accountants, Trustees, &c.,

27 Wellington street East, Toronto.

FINANCIAL NEGOTIATIONS, including the formation of companies—procuring partners and capital—the purchase and; sale of businesses, debentures, &c.

MONEY LOANED on good farm and other properties at the lowest rates of interest. No exorbitant charges.

If you want a loan or a partner, or desire a business bought or disposed of, write to us.

"RELIABLE"

SEEDS

It will pay purchasers of seeds to send for my descriptive and priced annual catalogue or a "Cultivator's Guide" for 1883, sent free on plication. Address,

J. A. SIMMERS,

RELIABLE SEED HOUSE

147 King Street East, Toronto

KENT BROTHERS.

INDIAN CLOCK!

With life size figures striking the hours and quarters, also indicating the time on three dials, is one of the great attractions of Toronto. Their Magnificent

Watch and Jewelry Establishment

Is without a rival in the Dominion. A visit to this Establishmen will well repay any intending purchaser who may favor them with a call. Inspection is invited to their immense stock of Watches, Diamonds, Jewelry, Silverware, Clocks, Bronzes, Musical Boxes, Spectacles. Opera Glasses, &c., &c. All goods marked in plain figures, warranted as represented, and sold at the lowest possible prices for Cash,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

KENT BROS.,

168 YONGE STREET TORONTO.

☞ SIGN OF THE INDIAN CLOCK ☜

P.S.—Send for Price List.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DYSPEPSIA & LIVER COMPLAINT.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints, if you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer, every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordmg'y and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

New York has 2,749 more drinking places than places where food is sold.

OH, WHAT A COUGH!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup, and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side, or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous plaster. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store Markdale.

The man who can always make a mash is the rich young distiller.

We have a speedy and positive cure, for Catarah, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Head Ache, in SHHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY. A nasal Injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50 cents. Sold at Wm. Brown's General Store, Markdale.

Robins' nests in Tennessee are said to contain millions of the birds.

A GENERAL STAMPEDE.

Never was such a rush made for any Drug Store as is now at A. Turner &Co's for a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. All persons affected with Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs or any affection of the Throat and Lungs, can get a Trial Bottle of this great remedy free, by calling at above Drug Store.

The sale of the revised New Testamen has fallen off tremendously, and the publishers have lost money on it.

TRUE TO HER TRUST.

Too much cannot be said of the ever faithful wife and mother, constantly watching and caring for her dear ones, never neglecting a single duty in their behalf. When they are assailed by disease, and the system should have a thorough cleaning, the stomach and bowels regulated, blood purified, a malarial poison exterminated, she must know that Electric Bitters are the only sure remedy. They are the best and purest medicine in the world and only cost fifty cents. Sold by A. Turner.

The bite of a Chicago woman laid up a policeman for four months. If she had hit him with her foot he would never have known what struck him.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.

Millions of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by the wonderful medicine. Call at A. Turner & Co's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Conversation was carried on by telephone on Sunday between New York and Chicago, a distance of 1000 miles.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the marke, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Hill Bros. General Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar. 127-40.

House rent in Jerusalem has advanced nearly forty per cent.

CALVERT'S CARBOLIC CERATE.

Try it for Chapped Hands, Cuts, Burns, Bruises. It is a preparation of Vaseline, Carbolic Acid and Cerate. It will cure any sore where all other preparations fail. Call at Hill Bros. General Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs. 127-40.

A New York chemist makes applesauce out of chemicals.

KRAM'S FLUID LIGHTNING.

Is the only instantaneous relief Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, etc. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application removes all pain and will prove the great value of Krams Fluid Lightning. Twenty five cents per bottle at Hill Bros General Store, Markdale. 127-40

Wm. Lucas & Co. bankers, Markdale, have $200,000.00 to loan on real estate. Straight loan system. No fines. Low interest; moderate charges.

THE QUESTION HAS OFTEF BEEN ASKED.

Can—Rupture—(abdominal hernia) be cured? We most emphatically say, YES. That this part of the body offers no exception to those physiological laws which govern the whole physical economy and it makes not a particle of difference whether the age of the Rupture is one year or a hundred years. For proof of this send for a Free Book on Rupture to The Excelsior Rupture Cure M'f'g Co., Prescott, Ont. 132-84.

Philadelphia has 4,000 victims of opium and morphine.

Farmers and others de iring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20 a day can becarned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-6m.

EGREMONT BREVEMIP.—In the election for reave in the township of Egremont, which took place on Friday, Mr. Wm. Caulfield was elected over Mr. Lawrence, by a majority of twenty five.

ABSTRACT STATEMENT
—OF THE—
RECEIPTS & EXPENDITURE
—OF THE—
TOWNSHIP OF HOLLAND
FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31st DEC., 1882.

RECEIPTS.

To cash from Collector, balance of roll of 1880	$ 10	00
" " on roll of 1881	2712	18
" " on roll of 1882	3689	00
" Land Improvement Fund	80	07
" Licence Fund	264	47
" Sale of Land and Timber	31	00
" Treasurer of Euphrasia	142	12
" Non-resident Land Fund	722	13
" Clergy Reserve Fund	27	68
" A. Campbell, taxes	10	80
" Fines by Magistrates	25	00
" Balance paid by Treasurer	2019	15
	$9733	60

PAYMENTS.

By paid County rates in full	$2905	57
" Councillors' fees and Officers' salaries	467	00
" Miscellaneous expenses	406	60
" Roads and Bridges	1126	42
" Schools	4828	01
	$9733	60

Robt. S. Rae.

TAILOR,

SYDENHAM STREET,

MARKDALE.

GREAT REDUCTION OF PRICES
—AT THE—
'TORONTO HOUSE,'
Selling off at and Under Cost
TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING IMPORTATIONS.
NOW IS TIME TO
SECURE BARGAINS

Our 25 cent. TEA is Unsurpassed. Give it a Trial,

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, March 21st, 1883.

GROCERIES. GROCERIES.

A. M'INTYRE
TEA! TEA! TEA!
A. M'INTYRE
Flour, Flour, Flour.

McINTYRE'S LIQUORS! LIQUORS

McINTYRE'S Cigars, Cigars.

McINTYRE'S Coffee, Coffee.

McINTYRE'S MEAL! MEAL! MEAL!

McINTYRE'S Pork, Pork, Pork.

McINTYRE'S Teas, Teas.

And ever ythin g kept n in a first-class Grocery and Liquor Store. always on hand, CHEAP FOR CASH.

ARTEMESIA WAREHOUSE
FLESHERTON STATION.

Dry Goods, Hardware, Crockery, Boots and Shoes,

Groceries, Provisions, &c. Stock kept full and well assorted with new goods received every week.

MY BRANCH STORE AT EUGENIA

replenished with new goods every week. For sale cheap for cash or produce.

My Saw mill, Shingle Factoty, and Lime Kiln

AT LITTLE FALLS, ARE IN OPERATION.

All kinds Saw ogs bought at the Mill or sawn on shares.

Lumber, Lath, Broom Handles, Shingles and Lime for sale.

WM. HOGG.

SUGAR KETTLES
TO THE FARMERS!

SUGAR KETTLES OF THE BEST QUALITY AT

MARKDALE FOUNDRY

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.

WOOD & OLD IRON TAKEN IN EXCHANGE

MOFFAT BROS.

W. BULMER,
The People's Photographer
FLESHERTON.

Continues to take Pictures,
Do Copying and Enlarging in good style

FRAMES and FRAME FIXINGS

in great variety and latest designs at desperate low prices.

W. BULMER.

R. J. Sproule's
ANNUAL
Clearing Sale

Is now going on and

WILL CONTINUE

ANOTHER WEEK

Call early and secure bargains.

Heavy importations of Spring goods are now on the way, and our present large stock must be cleared out and will be sold out at and under cost.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES—being Lot 20, Con. 10, Glenelg. This farm is three miles from Markdale, with about 40 acres cleared, balance, hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing the place. It is well watered with never failing stream of spring water. Young orchard, log house, and stables. Clear deed can be given. For price and terms apply to MRS. MIGHT, on the premises. Markdale P. O.—Also a farm waggon and fanning mill for sale 127-tf.

STARTLING DISCOVERY!
LOST MANHOOD RESTORED.

A victim of youthful imprudence causing Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Lost Manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple self cure, which he will send FREE to his fellow-sufferers, address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham St., N. Y.

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES; about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 10, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Farm for Sale.

100 ACRES, being lot 8, con. Euphrasia; about 40 acres cl... balance good hardwood; has a comfor... frame house 18x24 feet, a good well, ... orchard, and is situated on a good ... miles from Markdale. The farm will be sold on reasonable terms. For particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to ALEX. KIRKWOOD, on the premises.

March 10th, 1883. 131-tf.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to

Guard Against Sickness

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office.

Bowed Barley, has been sowed by only a few of the members of Committee with different results, and hold different opinions regarding it, and consequently are not in a position to make any special recommendation, but would respectfully request the patrons to continue to sow different kinds and note the several results for future consideration. Peas—Your Committee consider Peas a most profitable crop both as regards their market value, their superiority for feeding purposes and the comparative slight exhaustion of the soil upon which they grow. We would therefore recommend a more extensive growth of that grain. Golden Vine, from our experience, is considered the most profitable, both for yield and market. Your Committee learns with regret that an insect known as the "Bug," which through its ravages on the pea crop in several parts of Ontario, farmers have to a great extent ceased to grow them. Farmers, therefore, cannot be too careful in the selection of seed; and although a change of seed is very important, still those counties where the pest is known to be ought to be avoided. All of which is respectfully submitted."—DAVID ARMSTRONG, Chairman of Seed Grain Committee.

Moved by Wm. McElgunry, seconded by Robert Walker, that the Division Grange instruct its Delegates to the Provincial Grange to use all their influence to bring about a Dominion prohibito y liquor law, and that they urge the necessity of such a law, and the Delegates to the Dominion Grange, and that they do all in their power to bring the Grange influence to bear on the Dominion Parliament. Carried.

Moved by Bro. D. R. Ellis, seconded by Bro. W. McLoughry, that we pay the sum of five dollars to Y. M. C. Association for the use of their hall. Carried.

Grange closed in due form.

JOHN WEBER,
Sec. S. D. G. No. 2, Vandeleur.

Hon. Graduate, of the same,
" " Ayleth Medical Institute.
" " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y.
Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, Ont. 104 small sums on easy te
R. M. Ga

TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

DRY GOODS | T | GROCERIES

1883

It is an established fact and the universal opinion of our numerous patrons that our Teas, for Quality, Flavor and Price!

are superior to any offered in this section. We take care in selecting them and sell none but New Season's Teas, purchased in large quantities for cash, consequently we acknowledge no competition.

We have just received an immense consignment of our justly celebrated brand of Japan Tea, known all over this section of country as the famous 28c. Tea. It has an established reputation which is increasing every day.

CASH, AND ONLY ONE PRICE.

TRIMBLE & WRIGHT.

Markdale, March 26th, 1883.

(Continued from paper.)

that the grange promote such enterprises as much as possible when ever practicable, keeping in view that co-operation in such things is our peculiar privilege. Your Committee would also advise that too many varieties, say of Horses, be gone into in one neighborhood as it seldom happens that one dealer wants more than one class, as it is well known that dealers can give better prices when they quickly make up a cargo it is manifestly to the advantage of neighborhoods in the matter of horses to as much as possible keep to one class of stock, and as your committee believe there will be a good demand for horses at good prices for some time, breeding horses of all classes will be remunerative. Your committee also consider the same advice would apply to a certain degree to cattle and other farm stock, leaving it to each neighborhood to consider their peculiar adaptability for raising the different kinds of stock. All of which your committee respectfully submit.—H. PALMER, L. GOLDSMITH, DALE. D. R. ELLIS."

STANDING OF SUB GRANGES WITH DIVISION.

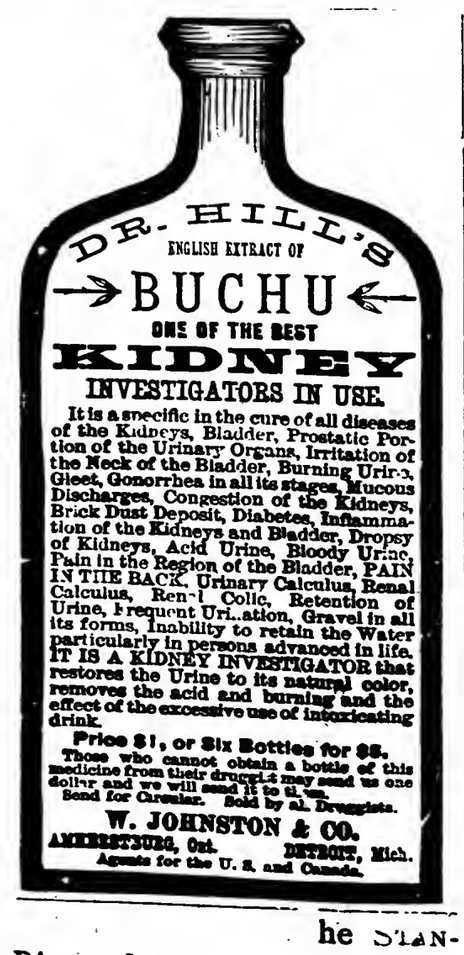
Artemesia No. 458, balance against 92c. Beehive No. 525, no report for 1882; balance from 1881, 85c. Eden No. 547, balance in favor, 10c. Eugenia No. 684, balance in favor, 4c. Georgian No. [illegible] 35c. against. Hawthorn No. 364, 2 quarters no report, 2c. to credit of same. Hickling No. 381, 66c. against. Harkaway No. 548, no report. Kilsyth, 7 quarters not reported. Lake Charles No. 664, square. Markdale No. 334, square. Mayburn No. 538, no report last quarter. New England No. 312, balance against $1.46. Orange Valley No. 326, square. Owen Sound No. 421, 2c. against. Proton No. 512, no report. Rosebank No. 728, no report two last quarters. Sydenham No. 14, no report two last quarters. St. Vincent No. 15, no report three last quarters, 3c. against first quarter, Silver Star No. 580, credit 26c. Taylor's No. 460, no report two last quarters, 47c. against two quarters. Victoria No. 25 no report last two quarters. Woodland No. 50, no report last quarter.

EDUCATION.—We, your Committee on Education, having but limited time to report on this important subject will in consequence be as brief as possible. First, we have to congratulate the Grange on what we have already gained by pressure on and suggestions to Educational Department by discussion in our granges and thereby agitation of the subject. We still want more, and by being united we can and will gain what will place the farmers' sons and daughteas on a footing at least with other professions. The suggestion from this Grange based on report on this subject, submitted to January meeting, was brought before the Provincial Grange. Co-operation was urged to carry out your wish by an appeal to the Government, but it was decided by that Grange unwise to urge these matters at that time as the Government had but recently made changes in our favor. Your Committee do think the educational machinery might be more simple and less expensive, yet as efficient. We would also again respectfully re-

Flooring Sale!

Supplement to the Standard.

J. W. FORD,



Is giving splendid satisfaction in

GRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention given to orders from a distance so as to have their grist home.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—
If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work
Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficient proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END
Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite the Sproule's Hotel.

McKENNA & MASON.

STALLION FOR SALE.

YOUNG "Stanley" is a fine bay horse 4 years old this spring, stands 16½ hands high, is possessed of heavy bone, and great action. Will be sold on reasonable terms by getting good security. Pedigree can be seen at this office. Apply to JAMES MEGILL, Everett P.O.
Toronto Jy

131-33

DA [illegible] he STAN-

Markdale Standard

VOL. 3.--No. 30. MARKDALE, ONT., APRIL 5, 1883. No. 134.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY THURSDAY EVENING,

At Markdale Ontario.

$1 Per Annum

IN ADVANCE.

$1.25 in three months, $2 if not paid till end of the year. No paper discontinued until all arears are paid up, except at the option of the publisher, and parties refusing papers without paying up will be held responsible for the years subscriptions until they comply with the rules.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:

One column one year.....$50 00
Half do. do. 27 50
Quarter do. do. 15 00
Eighth do. do. 8 00
Card do. do. 4 00
Over ten lines, first insertion per line 8
Each subsequent insertion..... 3

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid nonpareil. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by Ho'clock on the wednesday preceeding their publication.

JOB PRINTING

of every description executed with neatness and despatch at the Office of the STANDARD, Markdale.

C. W. RUTLEDGE.

EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Sunder's Hill, Owen Sound. 122-35

S. Ghent, M.D., M.R.C.P. & S., O. Physician and Surgeon, Priceville, Graduate of University. Vict. College. " " New York, and Graduate, of the same, " Ayleth Medical Institute. " Opthalmic Hospital, N.Y. Member Coll. Physicians & Surgeons, O. 104

Dental Card.

Cameron & Knight,

DENTAL SURGEONS,

Office over D. A. Cameron and Co's Drug Store, Poulett St., OWEN SOUND. Every attention given to the preservation of the natural teeth. Artificial Dentures mounted on Gold, Celluloid, and Rubber bases. Will be at Markdale the last Tuesday in each month,

A. Cameron, M.D., & L.F.P. & S. Glasgow, L.D.S., Ont. C. F. Knight, L.D.S. Medalist Royal College Den. Sur., Ont

J.P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at Rutledge's Hotel, Markdale, on the third Wednesday of each month for the practice of his profession. January 9th, 1883. 122-74

Legal.

Frost & Frost,

BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at Markdale. Office open every Thursday, as heretofore.

GEORGE FROST, J. W. FROST, LL. B. County Crown Attorney. 1

J. MASSON,

BARRISTER, MASTER AND DEP. REG. in Chancery, Notary Public, Conveyancer, &c.

MONEY TO LEND AT SIX PER CENT. Office—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block on Main St., and in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57.1y

Creasor & Morrison,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, CONVEYANCERS, &c. &c.

Offices in Owen Sound, Dufferin Block, over W. F. Wolf's Store and in

MARKDALE;

over W. J. McFarland's Store on Thursday and Friday of each week.

Funds to lend on reasonable terms.

JAS. CREASOR, Q.C. DUNCAN MORISON

Markdale, March 15, 1882. 79-1y

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate. Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

NOTICE.

PARENTS AND GUARDIANS OF CHILdren will confer a favor upon me and benefit themselves if they would inform their children that I will not allow any one under 16 years of age in my Billiard Room.

Markdale, ... D. M. HOGAN, Proprietor.

Hotels.

REVERE HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

BYRENS & McCASKILL

PROPRIETORS.

THIS popular Hotel has changed hands and the above men cater to the wants of the public. Good stabling and attentive hostlers. The best brands of liquor and cigars, good meals and comfortable rooms, large commercial room. Barber shop in connection. 130-1y.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE

(LATE MORROW HOUSE,)

CHATSWORTH, Ont.

C. H. MATTHEWS, PROPRIETOR.

The best brand of liquors and cigars always in stock. Good meals and comfortable rooms guaranteed. Good stabling and attentive hostler. 114

Markdale House.

This commodious and popular hotel is furnished in first-class style, is one of the finest hotels in the County. Good accommodation for travellers. 'Bus to and from all trains. Charges moderate.

A. RUTLEDGE. PROPRIETOR.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

John McDonald,

CHATSWORTH,

DIVISION Court Clerk, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner in B.R., Conveyancer, &c. Deeds, Mortgages, Wills, &c., attended to promptly, accurately, neatly, and cheaply. Private funds to lend in small sums on easy terms. Notes discounted

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implemennts, and Machinery of all kinds on sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881.

GIBSON & McMILLAN,

CONTRACTORS.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

Markdale, Feb. 6th, 1883. 126-1y.

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

LOYAL MARKDALE LODGE,

Of C. O. O. F. No. 78, will meet in their hall on Monday evening, April 2nd at eight o'clock p. m.

108 W. L. YOUNG, Sec'y.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

SEAL

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, &c., resulting from excesses.

Price, in sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

The Culverwell Medical Co.,

P.O. box 450 41 Ann St., New York

110-62.

ROBT. ASKIN,

MARKDALE,

Has opened out a First-Class

Furniture !

—AND—

UNDERTKING ESTABLISHMENT,

And therefore has supplied a want long felt, especially in the Undertaking Line.

COFFINS,

CASKETS,

SHROUDS,

and all

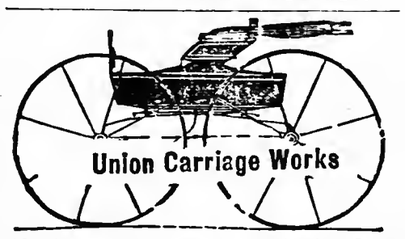
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

FURNITURE!



From the Common to the

Best and Latest Styles,

in everything in the line.

Call and see for yourselves.

ROBT. ASKIN.

Union Carriage Works.

All work manufactured from

FIRST CLASS MATERIAL

In the Latest and Best Improved Style, and finished with

English Varnish.

Painting & Trimming Rigs

will receive prompt attention.

All Repairs executed in the shortest possible time consistent with good workmanship.

GOOD WORK A SPECIALITY.

Remember the Shop, opposite the Cheapside

D. J. SHANAHAN,

Proprietor.

Markdale, Dec. 2nd, 1881. 64.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE.

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on points, at lowest rates.

W.M. LUCAS,

Manager.

September 23, 1880. 2-1y

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT.—Residence on Mill Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Jan. 24th, 1883. 124ly

WARNING.

ALL NOTES AND OVERDUE ACcounts not paid during the present month will be handed in for collection.

H. FOSTER.

Markdale, March 12th, 18... 131-3t

J. W. FORD,

Is giving splendid satisfaction in

CRISTING,

By the New Process at the

Markdale Flouring Mills.

Special attention to parties from a distance so that they may have their grist home the same day.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.

GENTLEMEN,—

If you want a first-class

Buggie or Wagon

call at

MCKENNA & MASON'S

CARRIAGE WORKS

MARKDALE.

They can supply you with anything from a

Lumber Wagon

up to

Extension Top Phæton.

To buy from them is to

SAVE MONEY!

They are both practical workmen, and employ none but

PRACTICAL WORKMEN

They guarantee their work Second to none for Lightness of Draught and Superiority of Finish.

They use nothing but First-class White Oak for Wagons, and thrice Extra Second Growth Hickory for light work.

The immense amount of work turned out of McKenna & Mason's shop is sufficien proof of the wide reputation they enjoy for doing good work.

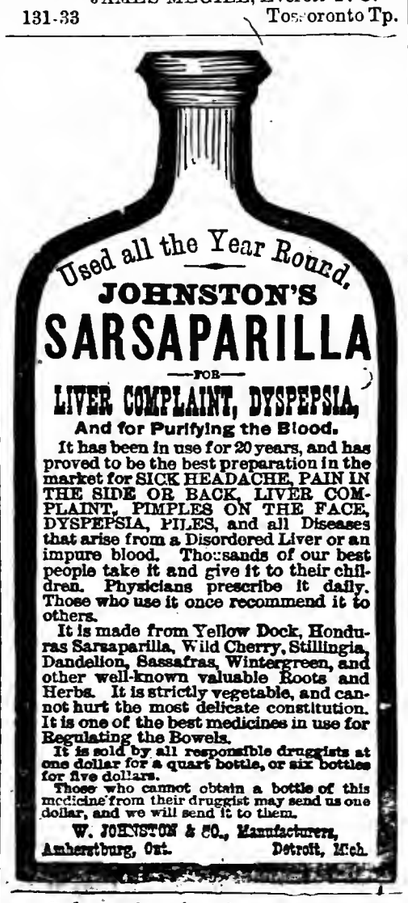
THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END Poor cheap work we positively will not take.

Special attention given to Re-Trimming and Repainting all classes of Carriage Work.

Satisfaction guaranteed (or No Pay) in

HORSESHOEING

SHOP—On Mill Street opposite to Sproule's Hotel.



McKENNA & MASON.

STALLION FOR SALE.

YOUNG "Stanley" is a fine bay horse 4 years old this spring, stands 16½ hands high, is possessed of heavy bone, and good action. Will be sold on reasonable terms by getting good security. Pedigree can be seen at this office. Apply to

JAMES MEGILL, Everett P. O.

131-33 Tos. oronto Tp.

Advertise in the STANDARD.

Williamsford.

Mr. C. Price is pushing his new hotel towards completion. He has leased it to Mr. Wm. Vogan who will open on the 1st of May. The house will be called the Queen's hotel.

Messrs. Johnston & Patton have purchased the sash and door, together with the pump business, from Mr. S. Watson and are now in possession of the same. They are both young industrious men and will no doubt do a good trade.

Mr. E. Morris has sold his tailoring business to Mr. M. Hall, of Orangeville, who is a young, pushing fellow and doing a lively business.

C. Price has sold the place lately occupied by Mr. Gauley, shoemaker, to S. Watson.

M. Steele has closed up his business.

W. Crowthor had a sale lately and is going to Meaford.

A. Williamson, carriage maker, is building a number of wheeled rigs.

On Friday last while Mr. F. Kempt was running a planing machine his hand was caught in the plainer which mangled it badly, splitting the thumb He telegraphed to Chatsworth and being unable to procure medical assistance went to the above place where he had his and bdressed.

The revival services carried on here by Mr. Hart have been successful. They were closed last week, resulting in an addition of 30 members to the church.

A successful social was held at Massie by the Methodists recently. Proceeds about $13.

We are pleased to note that Mrs. Cameron, wife of Mr. John Cameron, Reeve of Holland, whose life was dispaired of a short time ago, is now in a fair way of recovery and able to move about. An operation was performed recently by Dr. Bennett, assisted by Dr. Jamieson of Durham, removing her left breast on which a tumor had grown to a large size.

Mr. Pereira is fitting up the old tannery for a cabinet factory.

Mr. S. Watson is recovering from his recent illness.

Berkeley.

Business is booming in this village, owing chiefly to the enterprise of our saw and shingle mill men. Much credit is due to Mr. G. S. Brown, of the saw mill, for the energetic and praiseworthy manner in which he has conducted the business since the mill came into his hands. The shingle mill is now managed by Mr. R. Bailey, late of Markdale, and has a capacity of 10,000 shingles per day. This new industry is giving a ready market to the farmers for their cedar timber. There has been a good business done by Mr. O. W. Smith of Mount Forest, in telegraph poles. Altogether this winter has been one of marked activity in our village.

Durham.

After an absence of 20 days the train arrived here on Saturday, accompanied with two engines and a snow plow; and about 30 shovellers.—Review.

SCARCITY OF FEED.—There is great scarcity of feed among the farmers in this neighborhood owing to the exceedingly light crop last summer. Hay is selling at from 14 to 16 per ton. Straw is not offered at any price, and the hay is bought up by the farmers around the town more than by the town people. If the snow does not go soon, it will be hard work in some sections to keep the cattle from starving.—Review.

Mr. MacRae has removed from town and taken up his residence on his farm in Glenelg. We hope Mr. MacRae may see fit to again reside amongst us in a short time.—Review.

Dundalk.

R. J. Doyle's saw mill has commenced the seasons work.

Mr. Cornett has purchased a lot for the erection of the cheese factory. It is located near the skating rink.

ESPECIALLY FOR WOMEN.

Women on 'Change—Court Dresses—Dress and Fashion—The Romance of Real Life—Chit-Chat.

Dress and Fashion.

If women would only allow common sense to govern them, says Lady Paget, they would feel that for the inch or two they diminish the circumference of their waists by tightening themselves in they become unattractive in so many other ways, quite leaving on one side the hygienic part of the question, which, alas! the vain and foolish will never consider. There are few, indeed, who like the clever and beautiful Marechale de Sombise, Louis XIV.'s faithful friend, will make the sacrifice of giving up all meat except chicken, and never wearing stays, for the fear of injuring their health or complexion. Another absurd practice is that of tying the skirts so tight that walking becomes an agony; there is no doubt that many have thereby been debarred from healthful exercise for years. Much harm is also been done by the profuse use of perfumes, of which musk, patchouli, jessamine, etc., form the basis. These ingredients are depressing to the nervous system, acting upon it as poisons, just as they would, if given inwardly and at the right time, prove the most powerful medicines. Ladies quite forget the inconvenience and discomfort caused by this practice to their more sensitive neighbors in church, at the theatre, or at dinner; for mutton tasting of musk, or chicken a la patchouli, is not likely to increase the appetite. At the best of times the suggestion of the perfumer's shop is not a poetic one, and the faintest suspicion of violets, lavender, or

The new-mown hay
Gives a sweet and wholesome odor are quite sufficient to remove any disagreeable smell that might cling to such textures as wool or lace. Cosmetics and paints, too, are very much used, especially in England. They are as fatal to health and beauty as they are misleading in effect. The blackened eye may look larger and the painted lip redder under the uncertain flare of the gas-lamp; but when seen at home in the broad and honest noonday sun, the eye is lustreless, the fuming carmine distorts the mouth, the powdered skin looses its transparency, and the soft brown hair which formerly enhanced the whiteness of the skin now appears a lifeless growth of metallic yellow or mahogany red without light or shade in it. The very men who pretend to admire these artificial dolls would hesitate to engage their sisters among or choose their wives from their ranks, thus once more verifying the old dictum, that a thing may look well in the shop window, and yet not be good for much wear and tear.

Women on 'Change.

The fascination of the street for women is very powerful, says "Man about Town," in The Evening Telegram. Many of the wives, sisters, cousins, and aunts of brokers display the liveliest interest in the vagaries of the stock market, and not infrequently invest their own money in stocks. They lose them with the excitement of the game, however when they go in too deeply, and are the most unprofitable speculators. It is astonishing what easy dupes these women are to the sharpers who have up-town offices disguised as branches of prominent down-town firms. In the vicinity of Union and Madison squares there are a dozen or more "Ladies' Banking Houses," "Up-town Branches of the Stock Exchange for Ladies," and similar institutions wherein women are encouraged to invest their money in stocks. That thousands of women do this the prosperity of these establishments attests. Of course they are victimized, as legitimate commissions would not support the establishments. The women have only small means to squander. When once they have experienced the fascination of the game, they find it difficult to desist, and they usually wind up by borrowing money at heavy interest from the proprietors of these concerns. I went into one of these offices not long ago on the west side of Broadway, just below Fourteenth street. I was surprised at the elegance of the place. The reception-room with a plush carpet and heavily curtained and furnished lavishly, was quite vacant when I stepped in, but a moment later a well-dressed and rather handsome man walked from an inner room and asked me softly what he could do for me. I told him I wished to look at the place, and he said he would be happy to show me about, but there was a number of ladies in the inner room, and as most of them were nervous about their operations being known he could not take me in. At this moment the door through which he had passed opened, and a richly dressed woman started out. She saw me there and hurriedly retreated. I caught a glimpse of a handsomely furnished office, with several ladies sitting around, and heard the notes of the musical "tickers" as they reeled off the quotations from the stock exchange. The man had soft and agreeable manners, and was by no means a bad fellow. He told me quite candidly that it would not do for a man to go into the inner room, as the ladies depended upon its privacy. I asked him if his feminine customers bought largely, and he said they did not expend large sums at any one time, and few orders exceeded $100, but that they came in very often and dropped in dribbles that in time amounted to a very fair sum. I gathered from what he said, although he did not tell me so explicitly, that the whole thing was run on the bucket-shop principle, in which the house stands as a sure winner every time. But women are certainly not successful, either singly or as a class, in dealing with the stock exchange.

Some Court Dresses.

At the drawing-room held at Buckingham palace the queen wore a dress and train of black moire antique and satin, trimmed with ostrich feathers and jet, and a white tulle veil, surmounted by a coronet of diamonds. Her majesty also wore a necklace, brooches, and ear-rings of diamonds, the ribbon and stars of the order of the Garter, the orders of Victoria and Albert, the crown of India, Louise of Prussia, St. Catherine of Russia, the Spanish and Portuguese orders, and the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family order. The princess of Wales wore a dress of dark green velvet, over a petticoat of gold, and volants of lace festooned with bunches of shaded carnations; sash and train to correspond. Head dress—a tiara of diamonds, feathers and veil. Ornaments—diamonds and the Liverpool diamond cross. Orders—Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, St. Catherine of Russia, and the Danish family order. Princess Christian wore a train and corsage of brown brocade velvet, the train trimmed with silver fox fur, over a petticoat of veil or satin, handsomely draped with Honiton lace. Head dress—a tiara of turquoise and diamonds, feathers, and veil. Ornaments—turquoise and diamonds. Orders—the Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, St. Catherine of Russia, the Portuguese, the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family order, the Prussian order for the Care of the Sick and Wounded, the Order of Louise of Prussia, and the order of St. John of Jerusalem. Princess Beatrice wore a bodice and train of Pompadour satin trimmed with shaded roses the petticoat Argentin lace over salmon satin. Head dress—feathers, veil, and diamond stars. Her royal highness also wore a necklace, brooch, and ear-rings of diamonds and the orders of Victoria and Albert, the Crown of India, the Portuguese, and the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family order.

Two Romances in Real Life.

The son of a leading lawyer in New York, some years ago, was attracted by the innocent face and quick wit of a Welsh chambermaid in his father's house, and declared that he preferred her to all the fashionable beauties who had courted his notice. His family protested, but to no purpose. The only concession he would make was to consent to go to Europe for three years before marrying the girl. In the meantime, having an independent fortune, the lover placed her at one of the best schools in New York. The girl was ambitious and devoted in her affection to the man who had chosen her. He returned and found her more lovely than ever. They were married and the lady is now one of the leaders of society in the city where they live—a noble, refined, charming woman.

An eminent jurist, well known in Pennsylvania in the early part of this century, was "making the circuit' on horseback, and stopped for dinner at the house of a farmer. The daughter of the farmer waited on them, and the judge—who had been a cynic about women—observed the peculiar gentleness of her voice and a sweet candor in her face. After dinner the farmer said:

"Mary, bring the judge's horse"

Mary started to the field, which was enclosed by a barred fence. Laying her hand on the topmost rail, she vaulted lightly over.

"I saw," said the judge afterward, "for the first time a woman with the mind and body I should require in my wife. I called again and again at Farmer C.'s. At last I sent Mary to school for a couple of years, and here she is," nodding to the stately matron who presided at his table.

The sons of the judge and this real Maude Muller all attained distinction; one, like his father, at the bar; another was an eminent divine, and a third was a southern candidate for the presidency. All were noted for their fiery eloquence, their high sense of honor, and a certain appetite for fighting, which was well sustained by strong physical health. The judge had not been mistaken in Mary's qualities of mind or body.

Chit-Chat.

A polo neighs—like other ponies.

Violets are one scent apiece at the florists.

Washington is now as dull as a woman's penknife.

Mrs. Smith is a practical woman. When she was told of a wonderful instance of prayer cure, she remarked: "Only think of it! It didn't cost a cent, did it?"

Nellie Palmer is lecturing on "Hell and Its Tortures." She addresses her lectures to unmarried men. Probably she thinks that married men know all about it already.

A Russian princess at a recent ball given in Nice wore a dress made entirely of peacocks' feathers. Heads of the birds, with eyes made of garnets, were used in the looping.

An Erie policeman rushed into a fine house, thinking someone was being murdered, but it was only the voice of a young woman who had dropped a hot slate pencil down her back while she was curling her hair.

It took young Parsonby all aback when at the theatre the other evening, he whispered to his girl that he guessed he would step out a moment to take the air, and she quickly responded: "It is very oppressive, George; I'll go out with you."

A Pittsburgh girl, who had refused a good looking telegraph-repair man three times within six months, gave as a reason that he was too much of a wanderer. That he wandered from pole to pole, from one climb to another, and if he did come home he'd be insulate that the neighbors would be sure to talk.

Operatic: Said a lady, who wanted to go to a theatre, to her husband, who was reading a newspaper: "There is a new opera company coming to Austin, and they are going to give 'Robert the Devil.'" "What are they going to give Robert the devil for—what's he been doing?" asked the husband, who is not well up in opera music.

Miss Snowball's love-letter: Miss Matilda Snowball, having closed the door, approached the lady of the house in a most mysterious manner, and asked as a favor that her employer write a letter to Sam Johnsing. "What do you want me to write?" "Write him dat I was at de corner at de 'pinted hour, and dat he didn't come." "Well I've got that down." "Den add to dat ar: 'I consoles myself wid de fond hope you was kep away by sickness. Your only true lub, Matildy Snowball.'"

After the war, says a correspondent, when the number of our servants was much reduced, two negro girls, aged 18 and 20, went to the nearest village to "hire out." The lady to whom they applied asked them if they could cook. "No'om, we ain't never bin cook none." "Can you wash?" "No'om, we ain't bin wash none, neither: Aunt Sally, she wash." "Can you clean house, then?" "No'm, least we ain't never bin [illegible]." And so I went through [illegible] of qualifications, receiving [illegible] negative answer. "Well, what in heaven's name," said I at last, "have you been accustomed to do!" Lucinda's dusky face brightened. "Sukey, here, she hunt for master's specs, and I keep flies off ole miss!"

FRUIT RIPENING BY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

By No Means a Complete Success—"Apparent Perfection" only, Not Real.

Fruit ripening by electric light is one of the newest experiments in the newest developments of electricity. The London Gardeners' Magazine says: The employment of the electric light in plant growing may be said to progress steadily, because the possibility of quickening production by this means has been demonstrated, and several kinds of fruit have been brought to apparent perfection under the direction of Dr. Siemens. But heretofore "apparent perfection" is the only point attained; the perfection demanded by the palate is still wanting, and there appears no prospect whatever of its attainment. The strawberries grown last year were pretty, but worthless. The melons Mr. Buchanan, gardener to Dr. Siemens, has ripened lately and presented to the notice of the Scientific Committee of the R. H. S., are of such poor quality that to render them eatable they would need to be strongly flavored with condiments, as the things called melons were in the time of Queen Elizabeth. But the fact remains that the electric light is in some degree suitable to supplement the light of the sun in plant growing, and there must arise opportunities for its useful and profitable application, for there there are many things besides strawberries and melons the world is in want of, and will gladly accept when the gardener can produce them.

Just Like 'Em.

Two ladies who were bound somewhere in company the other day entered a Spadina avenue car together, and no sooner were they seated than both made a dive for their purses.

"Oh, let me pay!" pleaded one.

"Oh, I couldn't think of it!"

"Oh, do, now; I have just the change."

"Oh, but I have tickets."

"Yes, but you paid the last time."

"But you can pay some other time. Here, ——!"

She was hurriedly searching through her portemonnaie, but didn't seem to find anything.

"I told you I had—— !"

And the second one began a search in a wild manner, emptying out pins, needles and buttons, but no money.

"Why! I do declare!" gasped the first.

"Strangest thing I ever saw!" added the second.

"I'll pay for both," observed a man on the seat opposite, and he marched up, fumbled through his pockets and held out a battered quarter to the driver. The latter would not take it, and the man marched out and slid off the platform in the most solemn manner, and at the next crossing the ladies said they had taken the wrong car, rang the bell and got off.

In the Wrong Place.

A stranger entered the office of an ocean steamer agent recently and asked:

"Can a man come from Ireland on your line?"

"He can, sir."

"Will you bring over my oldest brother?"

"We will that."

"For how much?"

"In first-rate shape for $30."

"I think I'll pay the money," said the stranger, but, as he was pulling out his wallet, the agent asked:

"In what part of Ireland is your brother?"

"In the Dublin jail, sir, as a suspect. If he was out he would be plenty able to take care of himself, he would."

"But we can't get him out of jail you know."

"Neither can I, you know, though I've written several letters to the jailor to do a decent deed, and let Barney go."

Wiggins's Wail.

Wise Wiggins wrote warningly. Wild winds will work wretched wrecks. Worse weather won't wabble windows; won't waltz waves; won't warp whales. Wind will worry woods, will wrestle with water, wreck worlds.

Women went wild, wondering who would watch when women were waltzed windward. Widows wailed wofully, "We will whimper when winds whistle wildly." Wigs wore white, watchmen were wrung with woe, wings were wanted.

While Wiggins wrote, weather was wretched. Wiggins whistled, weather warmed. Wiggins watched wistfully, wrote wrathfully, "Why won't weather work? Why will weather wilt when wind would warble wildly?" Warm weather whistled wantonly, "Weep, Wiggins! weep! Wiggins's weather won't wash."

Wiggins weeps woefully. Wavering Wiggins won't warrant weather. Wise Wiggins wants wadding. Wretched Wiggins!—Weary Watcher, in Syracuse Herald.

An Elder was cramped with an ache,
St. Jacobs Oil did the pain slake;
He was so highly pleased,
That again he was greased,
And took a lot home to Salt Lake.

A soldier on guard at Fort Wayne,
Was suddenly stricken with pain,
He thought he was gone,
But when he rubbed on
St. Jacobs Oil, was all right again.

Answer, Lillie.

"If twenty boys," says Lillie Devereux Blake, "were brought up in the same way as girls—laced, kept indoors, taught sewing, embroidery and playing the piano—what sort of young men would they be when they were 21?" If Lillie will tell us how twenty boys who are laced, kept indoors, etc., are going to become 21, at least without outside help, we will try to answer her question.

nor [illegible] you [illegible] by the [illegible] of Dr. Pierce's oil. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on Consumption and Kindred Affections. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Telegraph editors do considerable "head" work.

"Female Complaints."

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I write to tell you what your "Favorite Prescription" has done for me. I have been a great sufferer from female complaints, especially "dragging down," for over six years, during much of the time unable to work. I paid out hundreds of dollars without any benefit till I took three bottles of the "Favorite Prescription," and I never had anything do me so much good in my life. I advise every sick lady to take it,

Mrs. EMILY RHOADS, McBrides, Mich.

It is a good rule to be deaf when a slanderer begins to talk.

Young and middle aged men suffering from nervous debility, premature old age, loss of memory, and kindred symptoms, should send three stamps for Part VII of pamphlets issued by World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The common adage that delays are dangerous acts as spurs upon the resolution.

Vegetine is now acknowledged by our best physicians to be the only sure and safe remedy for all diseases arising from impure blood, such as scrofula and scrofulous humors.

Men often judge the person but not the cause, which is not justice but malice.

Mr. Tilton of South Norwich writes:—Two years ago I suffered with Rheumatism. I was helpless and so bad that I was not out of my chair for seven days and nights only when helped. I could not lie in bed for pain. I took eight 25-cent bottles of Rheumatic Repellant, and was cured, so I had no return of it. I worked hard on farm ever since, and advise all troubled with the horrid disease to use this remedy.

To dread no eye and to suspect no tongue is the great prerogative of innocence.

CHILDHOOD'S MEMORIES come back laden with the joys and pleasures of that dream time of life when sweet anticipation garnished with brightest hues the future as it stretched out before us. Only the pleasures stored up for us entered the heart then. But as we grow older, to one and another comes the awakening. If you should be troubled, not in heart, but in feet, with corns, and they make life miserable, go to the nearest drug store and buy a bottle of Putnam's Corn Extractor, the "sure, safe, and painless corn cure." N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, prop's.

The gifts of common providences are not compared to those of covenant love.

GRAVE RUN MILLS, Baltimore Co., Md.
Messrs. KENNEDY & Co.:—The Carboline is making young hair come on my bald head.
PETER F. SHEARER.

This is a fair sample of the certificates which are received daily at the Pittsburgh office. 31

A woman may get to love by degrees; the best fire does not flare up the soonest.

Would you avoid the Biliary complaints incidental to spring and summer? Cleanse the system with Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Blood, and is the purest tonic in the world. Trial bottles 10 cents. (5)

Out in the world men show us two sides in their character; by the fireside only one.

A common, and often fatal, disease is jaundice. Regulate the action of the Liver, and cleanse the blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, and the worst case may be speedily cured. (1)

Circumstances are the rulers of the weak; they are but the instruments of the wise.

CATARRH—A New Treatment whereby a Permanent Cure is effected in from one to three applications. Particulars and treatise free on receipt of stamp. A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King-st. West, Toronto, Canada.

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practise, and yet everybody is content to hear.

Well as Ever.

Lottie Howard writes from Buffalo, N. Y.:—"My system became greatly debilitated through arduous professional duties: suffered from nausea, sick headache and biliousness. Tried Burdock Blood Bitters with the most beneficial effect. Am well as ever. (3.)

The man who was pounced on by an ounce asserts his belief that the animal weighed a ton.

A Rope about our Necks.

A weak stomach or enfeebled circulation is like a rope about our necks. We are strung up and unstrung alternately till existence becomes unbearable. Burdock Blood Bitters will arrest all this misery. Burdock Blood Bitters is a boon to the sick. Let us remember this fact. (4)

Is it a runaway match in the insect or animal world when you see one antelope with another?

A.P. 119

St. Jacobs Oil

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY

FOR PAIN.

Relieves and cures

RHEUMATISM,
Neuralgia,
Sciatica, Lumbago,
BACKACHE,
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE,
SORE THROAT,
QUINSY, SWELLINGS,
SPRAINS,
Soreness, Cuts, Bruises,
FROSTBITES,
BURNS, SCALDS,
And all other bodily aches and pains.

FIFTY CENTS A BOTTLE.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Directions in 11 languages.

The Charles A. Vogeler Co.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.)
Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Wh[illegible] Baggage [illegible] stop [illegible] Depot. 350 elegant rooms, [illegible] per day. European plan. [illegible] supplied with the best [illegible] cars, stages and elevated railroads to [illegible] boats. Families can live better for less [illegible] at the Grand Union Hotel than at any [illegible] first-class hotel in the city.

Hand-organs are ripening.—New Commercial Advertiser. Beginning to Erysipelas, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, [illegible] ions, and all diseases of the Skin and Blood are promptly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It purges all foul humors from the syatem, imparting strength and vigor at the same time. (2)

They call it the lyric stage in New York so that it may be mistaken for a Broadway omnibus.

Davy & Clark, Druggists, Renfrew, writes June 3rd.; "Burdock Blood Bitters, though comparatively a new preparation, has taken the lead in this locality as a blood purifier, our sales of it being equal to that of all other medicines used for the purpose during the last year." (6)

A Texas editor eats ink rollers when country produce runs out. He is not a Texas editor who has a patent inside.

BRIGGS' GENUINE ELECTRIC OIL

Electricity feeds the brain and muscles. In a word, it is Nature's food.

The Electric Oil possesses all the qualities that it is possible to combine in a medicine, thereby giving it a wide range of application as an internal remedy for man and beast. The happiest results follow its use and in Nervous Diseases, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia and kindred diseases, it has no equal.

For Throat and Lung Diseases, Bowel Complaints, Etc.,

It is truly a marvel. The Oil, besides restoring appetite, promoting digestion and checking fermentation on the stomach, antidotes and counteracts the effect of uric acid, which produces rheumatism by destroying the cohesion and phosphate of lime in the bones, muscles, membranes inclosing the joints.

Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists. (Eclectric is not Electric.)

A newly-married Detroit clergyman chose for his text, "She pleaseth me well."

Vegetine

FEMALE WEAKNESSES.

NO better remedy in the whole materia medica has yet been compounded for the relief and cure of Female Complaints of the organic kind than VEGETINE. It seems to act in these cases with unwonted certainty, and never fails to give a new and healthful tone to the female organs, to remove relaxed debility, unhealthy secretions, and restore a healthful vigor and elasticity. One of the most common of these complaints is Leucorrhœa, or Whites, which are brought on either by the presence of Scrofula in the system, or by some affection of the womb, or even by general debility. For these complaints, and when danger is apt to threaten woman at the turn of life, VEGETINE can be recommended without qualification. The great prevalence of these disorders, and the sure cure by VEGETINE, have amply shown that the sure alleviating agent remains not yet to be discovered, but is already known, and is a favorite with American ladies. Too long has it been the custom to prescribe nauseating mixtures of certain remedies in place of what is both efficacious and cheap. Try VEGETINE, and we do not doubt its power to carry you safely through danger and disease.

Weakness and General Debility.

MONTREAL, P. Q., Jan. 14, 1880.
MR. H. R. STEVENS—
Dear Sir: I have never received so much benefit from any other medicine as from your VEGETINE. I regard it as an invaluable, indispensable remedy for Weakness and General Debility, and believe that a persistent use of it will eventually cure the worst case. It is with pleasure that I recommend the VEGETINE, so that it may relieve many more sufferers.
MRS. C. WOOD.
99 St. Mary St.

Vegetine

IS THE BEST

SPRING MEDICINE

Vegetine is sold by all Druggists.

$5,000,000 WORTH OF FARM and other property in Ontario for sale by the CANADA WEST LAND AGENCY COMPANY, 11 Adelaide-st. East, Toronto. Send for list

CORALINE

CORSETS unequalled for health, comfort and durability. Manufactured by the CORALINE CORSET CO., Toronto.

TAGS. Patent eyelet, smooth edge, strong, heavy and very tough. Send for sample and new price list. J. G. WOOD & CO.; Steam Printers, Toronto.

AGENTS!

First-Class Canvassers only. Good Pay. Capital required. Address E. A. SPARLING, Union Block, Toronto.

STOCK BROCKER. GEORGE HAMILTON, member Montreal Stock Exchange, 13 Board Street, Montreal.

THE SUN IS ALWAYS INTERESTING.

From morning to morning and from week to week THE SUN prints a continued story of the lives of real men and women, and of their deeds, plans, loves, hates and troubles. The story is more interesting than any romance that was ever devised. Subscription: Daily (8 pages), by mail, 55c. a month, or $6.50 a year; SUNDAY (8 pages), $1.20 per year; WEEKLY (8 pages), $1.00 per year.
A. W. ENGLAND, Publisher, New York.

BICYCLES

Special Royal Canadian,
No. 2.
Columbia and National.

Send 3c. stamp for illustrated catalogue and list of second hand machines.

A.T. LANE, Montreal.

SEEDS

Forwarded by mail to all parts of the Dominion, postage paid and safe arrival guaranteed.

STEELE BROS. & CO.

They will send to all applicants FREE the finest illustrated catalogue in Canada. It is full of information and contains a complete list of everything for the Farm & Garden. Don't fail to send your name and post office address for a copy before ordering your seeds. Catalogues will be sent to past customers unless their address is changed; in such case advise.

STEELE BROS. & CO.
Seed Merchants, Toronto.

S SACRIFICE:

OR,

For Love of Her.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—(CONTINUED.)

...w, I know that, and it is only right ...atural that you should wish to know ...about me. I am not a poor man, ...ing about me. I am not a poor man, ...Anthon; if I had not the means to give ...daughter every luxury to which she has ...accustomed, I would not ask you to ...her to me."

"I do not so much car for money as I do ...y honor and social position," said ...der. "I am a rich man and my daugh... not go to her husband dowerless. ...ing I must be certain of, that the ...exchanges her own for is as fair ...as her own, that the family in... she marries is an honored and re...

...face flushed painfully.

"...very little about my own family. ...," he said, "my mother died ...after my birth, my father, when I ...years old; but I think the blood ...is pure, honest blood. I do not ...is any stain upon the Glenmore ...

"...nothing about it one way or the ...is totally unfamiliar to me," mur... Arundel, "but no matter. You have ...have you not, Mr. Glenmore? I ...have heard you speak of him."

"...his name is Brandon, Richard ...," answered Roy, wondering if Mr. ... would recognize the name; but it ...evident that he did not, for he ...

"...ative of Ellis Brandon, of Boston, ... Nay," as Roy shook his head. ...ask who he is?"

"...Anthon, I knew very little about ...'s life," said Roy, desperately, "he ...reticent, reserved man, one who ...speaks about himself."

"...," said Mr. Anthon, musingly, ...people talk an interest greater or less ...own family affairs. You must par... again, Mr. Glenmore, but it seems ...that you know very little about your ... I should be more satisfied if I knew ...and to what family of ...he belongs, as it is—really Mr. ..., I am very sorry that I am obliged ...so, but you surely cannot blame ...telling you that until I know some...more definite about your family I ...withhold my consent to your mar... with my daughter, and I trust to ... me, to marry her without my ..."

...y did not blame him, but still he ...very downcasted, very much disconr... He said a few words mechanically ...rose from his chair, feeling that his ...view with Mr. Anthon was over.

...Anthon went with him out of the ...y and through the hall, talking pleas...and politely the while; but after the ...street door had closed after him, a ...contemptible smile carved Arundel's ...

"...k I paid him back for stepping in ...Rome and Percy Evringham, and ...ing my plans," he said to himself.

...re were traces of the previous night's ...upon Richard Brandon's face as he ...the pleasant sitting room waiting for ...come, and when at last he did come, ...almost impatiently:

"...What did he say to you, Roy? quick, ...me."

...With almost a sob Roy sat down.

"...Uncle Richard, I pleaded my cause in ...I cannot blame him, still it is hard ...just the same. He asked me ques...about my family which I could not ..., and then he wanted to know about ... who you were and all about you."

...And poor Roy, disappointed and tired ...dropped his head in his hands. A ...sound aroused him; looking up he ... his uncle, with topcoat and hat on, ...to leave the room.

"...Where are you going, Uncle Richard?" ...vised in surprise

...Holding the door-knob in one hand, ...Brandon turned, and never had Roy ...on his face before the look that rested ...now.

"...Where am I going!" he said, in a curi... hard voice. "I am going to tell Mr. ...Anthon who I am."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

There are limits to everything in this world—even to the most patient endurance, the deepest resignation. There is a time when even the worm will turn—there is a time when the most God-like human nature will turn too, and in just wrath re... the injuries they have received and which have been beyond the power of earth... endurance to accept in silence and sub... mission—that time had come now to Russel Anthon.

For years he had lived patiently, bearing his bitter pain and sorrow, knowing that he had been cruelly and foully wronged, yet ...owing in resignation; giving more thought to the misery of others—which he could re...ieve, than to his own which was capable of no alleviation; crushing down the passion... ate crying of his own heart, even—and it seems almost incredible that he could do it—making allowances for Arundel, saying to himself, "He was always weak—my reckless ...unning brother,—he never could withstand temptation; had he not thought I was, in all truth dead, he would not have thus wronged me. May God pity him." But now the limit of his patient endurance, his al... most divine unselfishness, had been reached. He was no longer resigned, willing to suffer in silence; every drop of blood in his veins ...cried out for vengeance, every nerve in his body quivered with bitter, terrible anger—anger all the more terrible because it had been restrained for years.

The truth, which he had never once sus... pected, that the child which had been born of Muriel was his child, the terrible know... ledge that Arundel had robbed him of the child as well as wife and name and happi... ness, had roused fierce and bitter feelings in his heart, and to those feelings had been added a flood of anger and resentment.

Arundel had wounded and insulted Roy—the boy whom he loved as dearly as though he had been his own son, he had brought sorrow and pain into the noble young life which alone had saved him, Russel Anthon, from sinking into the black ic, waters of despair. That was the last bitter drop which caused the cup to overflow, the last injury which he could not forgive, the last wrong which he would not bear in silence.

As he walked along the streets swiftly, as men walk when in the grasp of a mighty passion the strange hard look upon his face which had startled Roy, deepened, grew more intense, and he muttered to himself with a bitterness all new to him:

"He wants to know who I am, does he? He wants to know something of the life of the man who is called Richard Brandon. His curiosity shall be satisfied—I will tell him who I am."

He knew the house well; he had watched it building, knowing it was to be Muriel's home; it had been pointed out to him as Russel Anthon's beautiful residence. Though his face was white as death as he went up the stone steps, his hand did not tremble as he rang the bell. The passion that had seized him did not make him faint and weak, but cold and stony; the blood about his heart seemed to be turning into ice.

"Is Mr. Anthon at home?" he asked the servant who opened the door, and having been answered in the affirmative, he said quietly, "I wish to see him. No matter about my name, and,"—as the man would have shown him into the reception-room—"I prefer to wait here."

Even as he stood there in the house of the man who had so horribly wronged him, not a muscle of his face moved, not an eyelash quivered; there was something awful about this dead calm; it was like the ominous rush which precedes the tempest.

"Mr. Anthon will see you, sah," said the servant, returning after a moment's absence, and he led the way along the hall toward the library, while the man who was called Richard Brandon followed him, looking neither to the right or to the left.

His interview with Roy Glenmore ended, Arundel remained in the library to finish a book in which he was very much interested. Louie had gone to spend the evening with Aline Brentwood, and Muriel, in her absence, was entertaining in the parlor a young lady and her brother, friends of Louie's who had called. Arundel was not particularly pleased when Jackson informed him a gentleman wished to see him.

"Who is it, Jackson?" he said, impatiently.

"I don't know, sah," answered the polite darkey; "I never saw him before, sah, to my knowledge."

"Well, show him in," said Arundel, and throwing down his book, he rose to his feet, and, standing on the hearth-rug, waited for his visitor. He did not recognize in the gray, lame, and bent man whom Jackson ushered into the library, any friend or acquaintance, and with a cold look upon his handsome face he waited for the stranger to introduce himself and make known his business.

The servant had left the room, closing the door after him. The two men were alone in the spacious apartment, facing each other. There was only a few feet of carpet between them—the wronged and the wronger, the man who had been robbed of everything he held dear, and the man who had robbed him. Would any one have thought they were twin-brothers? No; nor would any one have supposed that they were related; that the same blood flowed in the veins of both. One of them was tall and stately, holding his handsome head haughtily, not a line of care or sorrow upon the high-bred face; his black wavy hair and heavy moustache just tinged with gray: a man remarkably handsome; and the other was bent and stooping, his hair thin and almost white, his features pinched; that part of his face which was not concealed by his silver-gray beard, wrinkled and careworn; a man with whom it was impossible to associate any ideas of youth and careless happiness.

"Mr. Anthon"—low as was the voice it sounded distinctly in the room by reason of its metallic clearness—"Roy Glenmore has told me you refused to favor his suit because you know so little about him, or—me."

Arundel drew his dark brows together. He was very much annoyed; he had thought that when he dismissed Roy that ended the whole matter, he had no wish to take it up again or talk it over,; no amount of talking could induce him to alter his decision, Roy Glenmore should not have his consent to make Louie his wife, that was all there was about it.

"I understand then that I am addressing Mr. Glenmore's uncle, Richard Brandon," he said icily. "Pray, be seated, Mr. Brandon."

But Mr. Brandon took no notice of the chair to which he had been motioned, and Arundel seeing that his visitor had no intention of seating himself, shrugged his shoulders indifferently and stood still, carelessly playing with his watch-chain.

"Roy Glenmore is very dear to me," the low, clear voice continued, "and it seems to me you have treated him unjustly. Does deep, pure love go for naught with you, Mr. Anthon? or, if it does, have you lived long enough to tell by a man's face whether he is noble and true!"

Arundel's face flushed angrily, yet astonishment was mingled with his indignation. Was this man Brandon crazy that he dared to speak like this to him?

"I am not accustomed to being taken to task for doing with my own what seems to me best to do," he said haughtily. "I said to your nephew what I now repeat to you; I will not give my daughter to any man unless I know for a certainty that that man is by birth, breeding, and social position her equal."

"And you think Roy Glenmore is not her equal?"

There was a quiver in the low voice, the icy calm was beginning to break up.

"I affirm nothing, Mr. Brandon. I only know that your nephew could not answer the simplest questions I put to him regarding his family; and, in consequence, I was obliged to tell him what any other father would have told him, that until he could answer those questions satisfactorily, I could not grant what he asked."

"You spoke of me, Mr. Anthon?"

"Yes, I spoke of you," said Arundel coolly. "I told your nephew I knew no more about you than I did of him."

"And I am here to tell you about myself—to tell you who I am," said Richard Brandon. "You will understand better than any other living man why I have led such a strange, reserved life, shunning the world and society, avoiding the companionship of my fellow men."

"I, Mr. Brandon? really, you have made a mistake if you think I am anything of a physiologist."

Before the sound of the cold, sarcastic voice had died away, Richard Brandon had raised his head; and well might Arundel Anthon start as his eyes fell upon his visitor's face, for in an instant of time it had undergone a change. It was very deeply flushed, the dark eyes were terrible with the anger in them, upon the forehead great drops had gathered. The flood of bitterness and despairing sorrow, and pitiless wrath, which for years Russel Anthon had been striving to keep down, had suddenly burst its bounds, and pity and gentleness went down before it.

It was strange; but in the grasp of that mighty passion which shook his very soul he seemed to grow young again. The bent figure drew itself up to its full height, the bowed head raised itself, the features lost their pinched look, the cheeks no longer appeared sunken by reason of the red flush upon them, the gleaming eyes lighted up the whole face.

In a voice hoarse and broken he spoke.

"Must I tell you who I am, Arundel Anthon? Am I indeed so changed by misery and pain that you do not even recognize me! Look at me! I do not look like the man you left to die alone on the plains of Mexico; for agony, such as I have suffered, works terrible changes. Still, I am that man. Are you satisfied now? I have told you who I am—I am your brother, Russel Anthon."

Motionless as though he had been turned to stone, Arundel had listened. He had not flinched nor trembled; only a bluish pallor had crept over his face, and a certain look about his mouth told that he had clenched his teeth as men do sometimes in horrible physical pain, lest they should cry out in their agony. He carried one hand to his throat when Russel had finished speaking, as though he had felt a choking sensation there. Slowly his eyes travelled the form and face of the man before him—the man whose life he had laid waste. Then, with his stiffened lips he muttered:

"Great God, it is true! It is Russel, and all these years I have thought he was dead."

With a passionate cry, the other threw up his arms.

"Dead," he repeated. "Would to God I had died. You would have been more merciful, Arundel, had you put a knife into my heart and made sure that I was out of the world before you took my place in it."

Steadily Arundel walked across the room. Unlocking his desk he took from out of its compartments a revolver. Holding it in his hand, he went back to his place.

"Here take it," he said, quietly. "It is loaded—there are seven bullets in it; but one will be enough, probably. I remember you were always a good shot!"

Russel Anthon took the revolver—took it and laid it down upon the carved oak mantel. Out of his eyes faded the fire of pasion, out of his face faded the flush of anger.

"Arundel, I do not want your life. Could your life give me back my lost happiness—could it take the weariness and pain out of the years which have gone by—could it give me back the bright hopes I once cherished—could it make me again the man I once was? No, no. And even if it could, I could not take it—not now. When I came into this room there were terrible feelings in my heart; I thought I could have killed you when I first saw you—but it is different now. What am I that I should deal out punishment to you? It is not for me to say whether you shall live or die."

For a moment Arundel was silent. A great bitter regret went sweeping over him as his black, faithless, sinful life rose up before him; that feeling of self-contempt and self-loathing which more than once had come upon him, was upon him again.

"I did not know there were such men as you outside of heaven," he muttered. "God! I cannot understand it; I cannot see how it has been possible for you to let me live all these years in your place, calling what is yours mine, bearing your name, spending your money, loving your——"

A terrible spasm of pain convulsed the noble, grief-worn face, then when it had passed, Russel spoke.

"Loving my wife," he said, finishing the sentence Arundel had left uncompleted. "For her sake I have suffered all these years—for her sake I have let you live in my place. Because"—and oh, the agony in the strained voice—"I saw for myself that she loved you as she had never loved me; because I knew that should I betray you to her, earth would hold no more brightness for her, happiness would go forever out of her life; because I loved her so that I was willing to bear the misery, the pain, the sorrow, knowing that she—my darling, my dear love—was happy with you, happy as I could never, never have made her."

And Arundel pressing both hands to his burning forehead, said to himself, unconsciously asking the same question that was once asked regarding that man whose divine manhood and patient endurance the people about him could not understand.

"What manner of man is this?"

The angels could have answered him. They could have told him that there were natures so brave and Godlike, that out of the agony and pain which would have dragged others down into the darkness of reckless despair, they form a ladder by which they climb until they reach the highest point of earthly nobleness; and when a man has reached that point he is capable of the deeds of an angel.

Suddenly Arundel started violently, his face no longer pale, but livid. He had caught the sound of light footsteps approaching—well he knew to whom these footsteps belonged. But it was too late; before he could reach the door it swung open; into the room came Muriel.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

How beautiful Muriel was! That her life was, and had always been, a perfectly happy one, could be seen at a glance. There was not a shadow of sorrow upon her lovely soft tinted face, no trace of weary pain in the lustrous changeful eyes. A faint smile lingered about the red mouth, the low forehead was fair and smooth as a child's. Wholly unconscious of the presence of any other in the room, she went toward Arundel, the heavy folds of her ruby velvet dress trailing behind her, the diamonds in her ears flashing with every movement of her small haughtily poised head.

"I thought they would never go," she said, with her little musical laugh; and then something in Arundel's eyes made her turn suddenly, and the soft shell-pink flush upon her cheeks deepened into rose as she caught sight of a stranger standing near the fireplace.

"Oh, Russel, pardon me," she murmured, "I had no idea any one was here. I thought of course you were alone, else I should not have come in so unceremoniously."

She paused, looked up at him questioningly, a little embarrassed, wondering why he did not introduce her to his friend, wondering too who he was—this sad-faced man whom she had no recollection of ever having met before: while Arundel stood in silence unable to master the situation. What should he do, what should he say? He knew Muriel expected an introduction to the man who, though he was her lawful husband, was yet as an utter stranger to her, still how could he introduce her? He had no idea how the sight of her had affected Russel. Perhaps it had aroused within him such bitter anger, such passionate despair that should he, Arundel, address him in her presence as Richard Brandon, he would turn and denounce him before her, tell her in swift terrible words that the man with whom she had been living for so many years was not her husband but her husband's brother.

He felt as a man feels who expects momentarily to have a powder mine at his feet explode and hurl him into eternity; he knew not what the next moment might bring forth; another instant, and Muriel might be lying white and still before him, crushed almost to death by the weight of the truth it was in the power of that sad-faced man to speak. Unable to understand his silence, utterly at a loss how to account for it, the questioning look in Muriel's eyes grew into one of surprise; and with a deep flush of embarrassment upon her face, she murmured:

"Will you not introduce me to your friend, Russel?"

He looked at her helplessly; then from her his eyes wandered to the gray set face of the man he had wronged so terribly that he wondered to himself how it was possible for him to refrain from taking his life. Without the least thought as to what he was going to say, he opened his lips to speak; but before he could utter a sound the man who was a stranger to Muriel—ah, Heaven, think of it!—came forward. The hair upon his forehead was damp with icy sweat; under the gray moustache, about the pallid lips, was the purple shade that settles sometimes about the lips of the dead.

Little did Arundel Anthon know of the magnificent unselfishness of the man he had robbed of all that was dear to him. Standing there he had seen Muriel enter the room, he had seen the tenderness which softened the velvet eyes as she spoke to Arundel; even in his agony—and realize, if you can, what that agony was—his first thought had been for her happiness.

"How she loves him," he had said to himself—and think you what it must have been to him to have said it—"if she should know, it would kill her." And as he said so many years before he said again:

"God help me—she shall never know."

Pausing within a few steps of her—so near that he could detect the faint perfume of violets which always clung to Muriel—he hesitated just an instant; but for that one instant Arundel Anthon's heart ceased beating. Then, clear and distinct, came the low voice:

"My name is Richard Brandon."

It was a lie. But do you think that when Russel Anthon stands at the bar of Heaven, God will court that against him?

So great had the strain been upon Arundel that the sudden revulsion of feeling almost overpowered him, and it was only by calling into action all his will-power that he kept himself from sinking down, weak, faint, and trembling. Those few words, "my name is Richard Brandon," meant volumes to him; they meant that Russel would never betray him to Muriel, that he had renounced all claim to his own name, that he would let him go free.

With a smile Muriel raised her head.

"You are Mr. Glenmore's uncle," she said, looking up into the marble-like face. "I am very glad to meet you, Mr. Brandon," holding out her small, white right hand as she spoke.

The last time she had spoken to him her head had been upon his breast, his arms had been around her, and she had sobbed out brokenly, her face all wet with tears: "Come back to me soon Russel, my husband. Good-by, Russel, good-by." It came back to him now so vividly, as though it had happened only a few weeks before. He had come back to her—he, Russel, her husband—and she had no welcome for him. He looked down at the small hand she had extended to him—on the other hand gleamed the diamond in the ring he had slipped upon the slender finger that day when she—Muriel Trowbridge then—had let him fold her to his heart and call her his own little Muriel; and there, too, was the wide golden band which he had placed there, standing by her side before the altar, when, in the sight of God and men, he had taken her to be his wife. He did not dare to touch that little hand, and abruptly he turned away.

Muriel looked at him wonderingly.

"He is certainly a most peculiar man," she thought to herself. "Evidently he isn't used to ladies' society. I wonder what he has been saying to worry Russel; I never saw him so troubled. I think I must have interrupted a very serious conversation," she said aloud, smilingly as she spoke, "and I guess I will leave you to finish it. Good evening Mr. Brandon, I hope you will come in often and see us."

(TO BE CONTINUED.

"Why, what is the matter with Frank He is generous to a fault." "Yes," said Fogg, "if the fault happens to be his own."

The Island of Foula, about twenty miles west of Shetland, and containing about 300 inhabitants, has been isolated by continuous storms from the mainland during the whole of this year until Saturday, March 3, when a boat managed to reach it with provisions. The people were found to be in a terrible state of destitution, and many of them must have been starved to death but for this neighborly succor.

Popular Superstitions Explained.

1. It is unlucky to spill salt. Of course, for it shows that you are either naturally clumsy or that your hand is unsteady from over-indulgence in tobacco, and anyhow, it is certain to raise the wrath of your host.

2. It is unlucky to pass under a ladder. This is when the gentleman on the ladder is conversing with a fellow laborer and lets fall a bed of mortar or a pot of red paint on your head.

3. It is unlucky to pass outside a ladder. This is when the ladder projects to the curbstone, the road is very muddy, and a runaway van is in your immediate neighborhood.

4. It's lucky to have a black cat in the house. It's presence accounts for the disappearance of cream, cold game and other viands notoriously detrimental to the health

5. It is unlucky to dream of a black dog. Of course, as it shows that your present habit of late suppers will shortly be stopped by your medical attendant.

6. It is unlucky to meet a woman with a squint. It is a great misfortune to encounter an ugly woman anywhere.

7. It is unlucky to sneeze on Friday. It is not particularly fortunate to sneeze on any other day of the week, as it probably shows you are in for a severe cold.

8. It is unlucky to hop up stairs as the new year comes in. It ameliorates your grief at the follies of last year, as it shows however capable of idiocy you were then, you are still more capable this year.

9. It is unlucky to see a single magpie. It indicates that there are more in the neighborhood, and for discordant noises the magpie is pre-eminently gifted among birds.

10. It is unlucky to see the first lamb of the year with its face towards you. It at any rate shows that neither your visage nor your apparel is so absolutely repulsive as to frighten a beast of the field.

11. It is unlucky to sit down to table thirteen in number. It is equally unlucky to sit down twelve if there is only elbow room for eight.

12. There is luck in odd numbers. This entirely depends upon the game you are playing, and what the other man has up his sleeves.—Punch.

CURIOUS FACTS.

David N. Sellegg, a blind man, has started a manufacturing enterprise at Newburg, N. Y., in which only blind persons will be employed.

The Chinese keep a rogues' gallery, not of photographs, but of impressions of the spiral lines on the ball of the criminal's thumb. No two thumbs have the spiral lines exactly alike.

In some places in Europe steel bars are used in preference to bells, supplanting them sometimes altogether in church steeples, and producing very pure, distinct and melodious sounds.

A Chinese coin 3000 years old has been found by gold miners, who were digging in in a claim at Cossiar, Cal. It is supposed to have been left there by Chinese mariners wrecked on the coast long before the Christian era.

A Minneapolis lady recently gave a small dog six grains of morphine, with the intention of killing the animal. The canine went to sleep, and it was supposed had died. Three days later he awoke, and has ever since been as bright and as lively as before.

The Chaldeans used sun-dried brick for their walls, because they lacked the fuel to burn them; but they tried to compensate for their frailty by making them very thick, sometimes giving them a facing of burnt brick, or using alternate courses of the harder material. Bitumen or clay kneaded with the straw made the cement for their walls. Occasionally they were also curved around the other end, and from this arrangement gradually grew the amphitheatre.

A singular alliance has been formed in Belgium between alcohol and education. An almsbox for the secular schools is a recognized feature of every place where liquor is sold, and every customer drops into it his sou as regularly as he fees his waiter. A school building costing $400,000 has just been built from the sous thus collected. The same plan is on trial in France, but at present without much success, though M. Sarcy thinks that it has a great future.

A bombshell supposed to have been fired by Yankee troops during the war was encountered in a large white oak log at a sawmill near Augusta, Ga., recently. A circular saw was going through the piece of timber when it struck a hard substance, which broke its teeth, and stopped progress. Examination revealed, buried in the wood to the depth of eight inches, a large percussion bombshell, which according to the calculation of those familar with the growth of timber, had been there sixteen or seventeen years, and the tree had grown over it until there was but a slight scar left. It was found to be loaded!

Two Enterprises.

"So you would marry Ethel?" demanded the father as he wheeled around to face the trembling lover.

"Yes, sir."

"And you have money in bank—real estate—bonds—stocks, say $75,000 worth?"

"N-no, sir, but I can work up. I—I am bound to win, sir."

"How?"

"I shall go to Florida, buy 100 acres of land, raise 5,000,000 oranges per year for the market, and in ten years I shall be rich."

"Hum! Yes! Hum!" growled the old man. "Very enterprising—very good opening, young man?"

"Y-yes, sir!"

"I have an enterprise on hand as well. Ethel will marry a Buffalo widower this spring. He is consumptive. He won't live two years. He will leave her $200,000. Go hence! Go to Europe for three years. That, will kill him, bury him, and give her a year to wear weeds and get over her grief. Then she's yours, cash and all, and I'll put my hand on your head and bless you!"

When the young man left the house he didn't seem to believe it.

The Standard.

MARKDALE, APRIL 5TH, 1883.

INDEPENDENT PAPERS.

The editor of the Durham Chronicle had an article in a recent issue under the above head, in which he endeavors to belittle the honesty and usefulness of any local paper that is not an out-and-out party journal, especially at election times. Now, the very contrary is, we believe, the general opinion of the public, for it is a well-known fact that the warmest politicians have not sufficient confidence in their own party paper during a political contest to believe the reports contained therein. Why is it? Simply because the anxiety of the publisher gets the better of his common sense, and the result is he will construe matters into such a shape, in order to mislead those who are not fully decided, or not sufficiently posted in the questions at issue and matters pertaining thereto, that the reports become totally unreliable, while the reports of an independent paper are always in accord with the plain facts.

Again, our cotem. would have us believe that partyism is the mission of a local paper. We maintain that a local paper has a duty to perform which is of much greater importance than serving any political party. We hold that the interest of a locality in which a paper is published, the moral, social and financial interests of a community are, or should be, the first and great aim of a local journal. While we admit that rivalry is often a means of great improvement in the character and usefulness of a paper, yet it is not indispensably necessary that a country paper have either rivalry or politics in order to make it reliable or useful as we can prove without going from home. The STANDARD has been established over seven years during which time it has been non-political, yet we venture to affirm that it is as reliable and as highly respected a [illegible] you will find, and the village and surrounding country as prosperous as any place in the county, and will compare favorably with any place in the Province of its size and [illegible] here we express the sentiments of the majority of the public [illegible] say the public are growing tired of the spendent journalism which will take a straightforward course to the right, which is not always the party.

...ONS OF HUSBANDRY.

...s at Armond last week, was de... Orange Hall, Markdale, on ... inst., by E. H. Hilborn, ... Dominion Grange, ..., Esq., was voted to the chair. ... a few remarks regarding the object ... ing and his views on the Grange, ... Master. Mr. Hilborn is a ... farmer, and an able speaker, has a ... utterance and good delivery, ... was interesting and very instruct... in a forcible manner the necessity ... farmers' education among farmers, ... that class which will enable an ... artist to analyse the soil, and [illegible] ... from a scientific stand-point what ... certain kinds of grain and ... of fertilizers are required to make ... produce desired results. The ... also urged the importance and neces... of social culture among farmers and ... families, claiming the grange as an ... intended more as a means of ... intellectual improvement than ... pecuniary benefit. He is thoroughly ... and master of his business, and was ... to with deep interest for two hours ... large number of our most intelligent ... Should Mr. Hilborn give a lecture ... on any future occasion, we venture to ... will be a crowded house.

THE SHORTHAND PROFESSION IN CANADA.—The Shorthand profession is rapidly increasing in numbers and importance, and is represented by two Associations: one, called the Canadian Shorthand Writers' Association, of which Mr. Albert Horton, of the Hansard staff, is President, and the other, the Canadian Shorthand Society, of which Mr. Geo. R. Bailey, chief of the Hansard staff, is President, and Mr. Thos. Bengough, Secretary. There has been a discussion going on for some time in regard to the amalgamation of these two organizations and in Bengough's Monthly Story Shorthand Writer for March will be found a report of the discussion which took place in Ottawa, at a large and representative meeting of the profession. The Canadian Shorthand Society was organized last summer, and will receive as guests, on the 16th and 17th August next, the International Congress of Shorthand Writers for the United States and Canada. This meeting will, only for the most important that has ever been held in Canada, the number of delegates to be present being estimated between three and four hundred. The representatives from the United States are leading law and general stenographers in the various large centres. Delegates are also expected from Great Britain and the Continent. Hon Edward Blake has consented to deliver the Address of Welcome; and it is expected that the meetings will be held in Osgoode Hall, the Normal School, and the Legislative Chamber. Full particulars will be given, from month to month, in the Cosmopolitan Shorthand Monthly, published at Bengough's Shorthand Office, 11 King Street West, at $1 per annum.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

DEAR SIR—Having read a letter which appeared in your paper a few weeks ago, written by Thos. Kells, on Government benches, experimental farming, creameries and Government seed grain, I would beg leave to point out some of the fallacies of the position he takes.

"Government benches are very high and hard to climb up to." Perhaps they are, I suppose he speaks from experience. But, sir, the men who occupy, and who have occupied such positions on Government benches, have always been easy of approach, and always ready to assist the farmers, or any others, when their requests were at all reasonable and for the interests of the country generally, as proved by their willingness to assist in building railways, thereby giving us cheap and speedy facilities for exporting and importing what we have to sell and buy, thereby increasing our profits. Also, the appointment of the Agricultural Commission and Agricultural Bureau which has been of great benefit to the farming community. Then there is the Experimental Farm and College which he objects to so much, the benefits and usefulness of which he seems to be deplorably ignorant, as it can be easily proven from their reports that they have been and are a great benefit and credit to this country. The experiments tried, and the the results as published in their annual reports, have created an interest among the farmers, and a confidence in those experiments which has resulted in profit to the farmers of Ontario. But, sir, there is a class of men who will profit from no experience but their own, and are very slow to learn even from that, and perhaps your correspondent (T. K.) is one of them.

He then attacks the Government creameries, and what wonderful ideas he has of them. Hear him: "Creameries run with Newfoundland dogs, specific gravity, bottles, a lactometer and a barometer, people drawing milk from one end of the county to the other to get to the creameries." If there are many people in this enlightened age in this Province, who have no better knowledge of creameries than he seems to have, I think the Government perfectly justifiable in establishing a few of them, if for no other purpose than to enlighten such men and lift them out of their gross ignorance. The argument which he advances against the creameries if applied in the same way to agricultural societies would away with them, because every one in the country that takes prizes at the exhibitions held by these societies, does it follow that those who do not exhibit and take prizes are not benefitted in some way by said societies? How absurd. Yet this is the kind of logic used by T. K. against the creameries. If every farmer cannot get the ... to them there should be no creameries built. No one will undervalue the conditions necessary for the production of good butter, as stated by T. K.; but these parts of the country where creameries have been established are not particularly favored, as the province as a whole is well watered. Yet the creameries have been a decided success, realizing from 5 to 10cts per pound more than for store packed butter. It is stated on authority that there is 50,000,000 pounds of butter annually made in this Province: of which (to be moderate) there is say 30,000,000 lbs. marketed, which if increased in value, (by being of better quality) say 5 cents per lb., (the lowest estimate) would realize a profit to the farmers of Ontario of $1,500,000, without any additional expense of time or money on their part.

But T. K. wants the Government to assist the farmers (men) in getting a change of seed grain, but not to assist the women or lighten their labor in any way.

That a change of good and suitable seed grain from a country or place whose climate, soil, &c., are somewhat similar to ours has been, and is of great benefit in increasing the yield and quality of wheat and other grain are well known from past experiments. Some of the experiments at the Experimental Farm prove the same, while some others prove that farmers require to be careful from what place they get their seed grain, for some that will do well in one locality will not do so well in another. But, Mr. Editor, we do not agree with the directors of the Ag. Society or the president T. K. as to who should bring in the seed grain. They say the Government should. We will suppose they do, what then? To secure themselves and country from loss they would have to pass a law compelling every farmer to buy so much seed grain from them every year. Then what a howl there would be about centralization and tyranny. But if they bought anything like seed grain enough for the wants of the Province without such a law, the possibility is the half of it would not be sold—then the howl would be extravagant, incompetent, &c., Government. Again it would cost the government more to obtain suitable seed for all localities than if done by private enterprise. Then I think there is no necessity for the government doing at present more than it is doing in this respect, as they generally try any new kinds of seed grain at the model farm, Guelph, and report annually the results. And again, the different seeds men of the province are willing to send seed in any quantities (almost) to any one who is willing to buy from them.

Now, Sir, I think that any farmer who will not take advantage of and use the facilities that are within his reach to gain knowledge, seed grain or anything else he requires, would be displeased with any government that would force him into a better position.

Now, Sir, I think the best plan for the farmers to adopt in getting a change of seed grain is to let it be known what kinds they want or are most suitabl, for their respective localities, then let them unite or co operate and send for such grain as they require and they will do better, and obtain it cheaper than the government can. Or a good and safe plan is when they hear of any new kinds of grain that are doing well in any section of the country to give it a trial on a small scale, a bushel or two in its adaptability to their own neighborhood, if it does well they will soon have plenty, if it fails the loss will not be heavy.

These observations, if apparently lengthy, are as short as possible considering the nature and variety of the subjects dealt with.

Thanking you for so much of your valuable space.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
OBSERVER.

We give below the amount of revenue from the sale of postage stamps, &c., and salaries received by a few post offices in this County for the year ending 31st June, 1882, from the report of the Postmaster-General:—

REVENUE.		SALARY.
506 69	Chatsworth	146 00
588 03	Clarksburg	250 00
2210 38	Durham (35 qurt's.)	667 50
1002 00	Dundalk	267 50
1080 51	Flesherton	332 00
1234 66	Markdale	339 00
3113 04	Meaford	766 00
271 20	Maxwell	142 50
5501 24	Owen Sonud	1824 00
743 40	Priceville	186 00
995 20	Thornbury	395 00
221 90	Williamsford	42 00

TEN YEARS AGO TO-DAY.

"Och, Barney, me honey," ses Biddy Maloney,
"We are married togither jist ten years to-day."
Says Barney, so pleasant, "I'm in fur a present,
A bonnet, a dhress, or whativer ye say."
"Says Biddy til Barney, here none of yer blarney,
But take out some whate til the grist mill to-day;
An' on top ov yer grist ye can bring me a chist
AY THRIMBLE & WRIGHT'S NOTORIOUS TAY."

BIRTHS.

LACKEY.—In Euphrasia, on the 10th ult., the wife of Mr. James Lackey, of twins, boy and girl.

SPARLING.—In Artemesia, on March 31st, the wife of Mr. J. P. Sparling, of a son.

ROWE.—In Glenelg, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. W. J. Rowe, (Barhead Mills,) of a daughter.

DIED.

GALLOWAY.—In Port Elgin, on the 30th ult., Albert, only son of Rev. J. Galloway, aged 2 years, 9 months.

LACKEY.—In Euphrasia, on the 29th ult., infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. Jas Lackey, aged 4 weeks.

LUCAS.—In Markdale, on the 2nd inst., Wm. G. H. Infant son of Mr. Wm. Lucas (banker) aged 1 year 23 days.

BRYAN.—In Markdale, on the 26th March, Georgina, daughter of Mr. James Bryan, late of Shelburne, aged 4 years, 4 months and 14 days.

PILKEY.—In Glenelg, on the 2nd inst., Geo., son of Mr. George Pilkey, aged 27 years.

VANDEWATER.—In Allenford, on the 3rd inst., Lottie, beloved wife of Mr. M. W. Vandewater, and daughter of James Allen, Esq., ex Reeve of Amabel, aged 21 years.

FARM FOR SALE.

100 ACRES—being Lot 20, Con. 10, Glenelg. This farm is three miles from Markdale, with about 40 acres cleared, balance hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing the place. It is well watered with never failing stream of spring water. Young orchard, log house, and stables. Clear deed can be given. For price and terms apply to MRS. MIGHT, on the premises, Markdale P. O.—Also a farm waggon and fanning mill for sale 127-tf.

Land for Sale.

100 ACRES: about 30 of which is cleared, being composed of the E. half of Lot 19, in the 8th concession of the Township of Euphrasia. Apply at this office, or to ROBERT DUNLOP, Township Clerk of Euphrasia, Griersville P. O. 117-tf.

Farm for Sale.

100 ACRES, being lot 8, con. 10, Euphrasia; about 40 acres cleared, balance good hardwood; has a comfortable frame house 18x24 feet, a good well, young orchard, and is situated on a good road 4 miles from Markdale. The farm will be sold on reasonable terms. For particulars apply to Geo. Noble, Markdale, or to ANDREW KIRKWOOD, on the premises.

March 10th, 1883. 131-33.

WARNING!

There is great danger of taking cold from wet feet. If you want to Guard Against Sickness!

Keep your feet dry and warm by procuring your

BOOTS!

—FROM—

KAY & THOMAS.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Medicated Cork Soles, all sizes, kept on hand. Remember the place opposite the new STANDARD Office. 49

GEORGE NOBLE,

INSURANCE AND LAND AGENT,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

For the County of Grey.

AGENT for the following reliable Companies:
CITIZENS', of Montreal,
AGRICULTURAL, of Watertown, and
TRADE & COMMERCE, (Mutual) of Toronto.

A number of Choice Farms for sale, also Village Lots

Auction Sales conducted in Town or Country on Shortest Notice. Charges moderate, Bills, Blank Notes, and Stamps provided.

GEO. NOBLE.

MARKDALE MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.92 to $0.93; Spring $0.96 to $0 98; Barley, 55c; Peas, 72; Oats, 42c; Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, 7.50 to 7.75; Flour, $4.75 to $5 00; Grass Seed, $2.00 to $2.10

FLESHERTON MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $0.90 to $0.93; Spring, $0.95 to $0.97; Barley, 57c; Peas, 69c; Oats, 41c Butter, 18c; Eggs, 15c; Potatoes, 40 c; Hay, $12.00; Pork, $7.45 to $7 60.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Fall Wheat, $.0.97 to $0.98; Spring, $1.05 to $1.08; Barley, 55c to 73c; Oats, 45c to 50c Peas, 70c to 78c; Hogs, $8.00 to $8.25; Potatoes, per bag, 70c to 75c; Butter, dairy, 17c to 20c; eggs, 20c to 21c.

T. C. & B. RAILWAY.

TIME TABLE.

Change of Time.

On and after Monday, Nov. 20th, 1882, trains will run as follows:

GOING NTH.			GOING SOUTH
Read Down.			Read Up.
A.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.
7 30	4 25	TORONTO	10 45	9 10
9 05	6 00	CARDWELL JUNC.	9 05	7 31
9 55	6 45	ORANGEVILLE...	8 27	6 50
12 20	8 44	MOUNT FOREST..	6 30	4 30
2 25	10 15	TEESWATER	5 00	2 45
11 50	5.0	FLESHERTON	6 43	4 47
12 06	8 45	MARKDALE,.....	6 27	4 30
1 30	9 55	OWEN SOUND....	5 15	3 10
P.M.	P.M.		A.M.	P.M.

A Mixed Train will also run between Toronto and Owen Sound. See Time Table.

D. McNICOLL, Gen. Pass. Agt. EDMUND WRAGGE, General Manager.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

DEWSON vs. WILSON.

PURSUANT to an order of the Court of Chancery, made in this action, there will be sold with the approbation of Thomas Hodgins, Esq., Q. C., Master in Ordinary,

By TENDER,

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Proton, in the County of Grey, and being composed of the South West part of Lot number Two Hundred and Twenty, in the Second Concession South of the Toronto and Sydenham Road, excepting thereout the part occupied by the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, in the said Township of Proton, containing by admeasurement Fifty acres, more or less.

All tenders must be addressed to THOMAS HODGINS, Esq., Q.C., Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and be received not later than 2 p.m. of next. The highest or other Tender not necessarily accepted.

Thursday, 12th of April

Terms of Sale.—One-tenth of the purchase money shall be paid in cash when notice of accepted tender has been given to purchaser, and a sufficient amount within one month thereafter, without interest, to make together with the cash payment one-quarter of said purchase money, the balance to be secured by mortgage on the premises at six per cent per annum, in the three equal yearly payments. The other conditions of sale are the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery.

Further particulars can be had from Denison & Macklem, Solicitors, 15 Toronto Street; Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskin, Plumb & Creelman, Solicitors, Toronto.

(Signed) THOMAS HODGINS.
Dated the 14th March, 1883.

FROM THE AKRON COMMERCIAL, OHIO. OF NOV. 25TH, 1882.

Readers of the Commercial can not well forget that a large space has for years been taken up by Keudall's advertisements—especially of a certain Spavin Cure. We have had dealings with Dr. Kendall for many years, and we know of some large business houses in cities near by, who have also dealt with him for many years, and the truth is fully and faithfully proven, not only that he is a good honest man, and that his celebrated Spavin cure is not only all that it is recommended to be, but that the English language is not capable of recommending it too highly.

Kendall's Spavin Cure will cure spavins. There are hundreds of cases in which that has been proven to our certain knowledge, but, after all, if any person confines the usefulness of his celebrated medicine to curing spavins alone, they make a big mistake. It is the best medicine known as an outward application for rheumatism in the family. It is good for pains and aches, swellings and lameness, and is just as safely applied to men woman and children as it is to horses. We know that there are other good liniments, but we do believe this spavin cure to be far better than any ever invented. 133-36.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great Remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 6 ... S. G. RD., HOLLAND, ... cleared, well watered ... good log house and ... miles from Chatsworth. ... given will be given in the above ... For particulars apply to Geo. Noble, ..., or to Chas. King, Shelburne. 128-tf.

THOS. MATHEWS,

HarneSS Establishment

MARKDALE.

EVERYTHING IN OUR LINE KEPT ON HAND OR MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

LIVERY!

IN CONNECTION.

Flesherton Station

STEAM GRIST MILL

Is now giving General Satisfaction,

—o—

Chopping done every Working day,

—o—

CAN HAVE YOUR GRIST HOME THE SAME DAY.

GEO. MOORHOUSE.

125 15t.

Seeds, Seeds.

Our annual importations of

Field and Garden Seeds

to hand (per SS Erlking) from one of the best houses in Europe, and includes all the leading seeds.

Orders by mail will receive careful and prompt attention.

H. PARKER,
(SEEDSMAN.)
DURHAM.

March 27th, 1883. 133

SALE OF

Valuable Farm Prop'rties

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage made by SARAH PEARCE and HUSBAND, default having been made in payment thereof, will be sold

BY PUBLIC AUCTION

At the Grand Central Hotel, Collingwood,

ON SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1883,

At One o'clock p. m., the following properties:

Lots Nos. 28, 29 and 30 in the 16th Concession of Osprey, County of Grey. Chayhams: 160 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation; balance well timbered.

At the same time and place there will also be offered for sale Lots Nos. 18 and 19 in the 7th concession of Osprey. 100 acres cleared and balance of 190 acres well timbered with hardwood. The property is splendidly situated, being one and one-half miles from Maxwell, and on gravel road. Good buildings and young orchard.

TERMS.—The purchaser shall pay a deposit of $200 at the time of sale, the balance of one-third of the purchase money in three weeks thereafter; the remaining two-thirds in cash, or secured by a mortgage payable in from one to five years at the option of the purchasers.

For further particulars apply to

CREERAR & MUIR,
Vendors' Solicitors.
Hamilton, March 24th, 1883. 135d

GEORGE WILSON,

Wholesale and Retail

BUTCHER!

BEEF, PORK OR MUTTON SUPPLIED from a single pound to a whole carcass, at the lowest market prices.

FISH & FOWL IN THEIR SEASON

Farmers having Fat Cattle, Sheep, or Pigs to dispose of will do well to call at No. 3 Burns' Block, opposite the new Union Block.

Markdale, Oct. 25th, 1881

Farm for Sale.

A VERY desirable noroperty being 100 acres; Lots 111 and 112, 1st Range West of T. and S. Road, Artemesia, one mile from the town of Markdale, on the gravel road. 70 acres cleared, balance hardwood has a large stone dwelling house and log one, is well watered with never failing spring creek; splendid soil, and in a very desirable locality. Terms easy.

APPLY AT THIS OFFICE

Markdale, March 20th, 1883.

Single copies of the STANDARD 5 cents.

& Brown

r. Do is leaving Mark- go into the Whoesale Business in Toronto, ishing to leave Mark- ether,) he has entered nership with Mr. W. WN, late of Flesherton, practical watchmaker er of over 15 years ex- and comes with the best mendations from some of watchmakers in the wn will carry on the Markdale.

rk entrusted to him will a workmanlie man-will be guaranteed, is sold will be found ed, or money refund-

& Brown's,

Watchmakers & Jewellers

ill's Block,

MARKDALE ONLY.

and Other Items.

these columns intended to benefit Society will be charged ten the first insertion and five subsequent insertion.

—All those indebted to me call and settle the same at court day.—W. J. Rowe.

mble has purchased a fine ught stallion, 3 yrs. old, lbs., which will make the on in this neighborhood.

ster of most hideous mien, needs but to be seen; miliar with its face, then pity, then embrace."

rage Aid Association now and is rapidly increas- $250 to $5,000 at mar- Ryden is the agent here. 133-36.

g up a number of ac- e in Mr. Masson's hands at the next division who wish to save further ense to make an early —A. M Irvine.

ween Markdale and Mea- day 17th March. A pair ckles in a leather case. ining them will be suit- ed by leaving them at e Markdale.

'S ARNICA SALVE.

in the world for Cuts, , Salt Rheum, Fever l Hands, Chilblains, Skin Eruptions, and Positively guaranteed to give perfect money refunded. Price 25 For sale by A. Turner & Co

Agriculturist for April s predecessors in point of It has articles on a va- ects of interest to the ag- Its engravings are also rthy of notice. Price $1.- ram. Orange Judd Pub. Broadway New York.

belongin to J. M. Lazier, ere, drawn by two horses, into a crack in the ice from Belleville, on Sat- Lazier was thrown into and went under the ice, but The horses were also Herald Times.—The above Mrs. W. J. McFarland, ge.

—This wholesome amuse e into wholesale in some instance, one evening re- ber of young people about ed congregated on what is Hackays hill, which is situa- gentre of a farm now owned four miles South of and is about the shape of a e turned on the mouth. was clear, and the moon in all its beauty, the snow strong to cover all fences, the ciently hard to bear any weight, and nothing to to accent the buildings on the ing farms The handsleighs bob sleighs detached, on or a dozen could hang on. me a ride of a quarter of a e, a descent of about 200 at distance, before going ten ey had reached lightning pping in the barnyard of a s farmer. A jolly time

Rejuvenator Blood Bitters the best in use to be had at Smith the Barbers.

Oil Cake—A fresh supply at the Medical Hall.—A. Turner & Co.

Boots and Shoes.—A large spring stock—new, fresh and cheap—just to hand at Trimble & Wright's.

Saugeen Presbytery will meet in St. Andrew's church, Mount Forest, on the 17th of April, at 11 a. m.

The skating, which has been the chief evening amusement during this winter was closed on Saturday evening for the season, not for want of ice, however, as there is not any discount in that slippery article yet.

The Methodist Church of Paisley, put up cards in the sitting-rooms of the hotels and other public places, announcing the hours of the different services connected therewith. This is a good idea says the Busy Times, as no doubt many strangers are led to church through this means who would not otherwise attend

A Drummer Fenced.—A smart travelling man from Chicago tried to paralyze a dining room girl at a leading hotel here, during the snow blockade. At dinner one day he ordered "sponge soup," and "quail on fence." She went to the kitchen and got a quail and built a fence on the plate, out of kindling wood. Then she got a piece of sponge from the bathroom and put it in the soup, and served his order in the presence of several other travelling men, who gave him the grand laugh. The wise land lord charged him a dollar extra for serving articles not on the bill of fare, and it cost him six dollars for cigars and drinks, to keep the matter quiet.—Walkerton Telescope.

The largest and best assorted stock of spring and summer clothing ever brought into Markdale has arrived this week at Trimble & Wright's.

Sudden Death.—Our citizens were startled on Saturday evening by the news of the very sudden death of Mrs. Butchart, wife of our well known townsman, Mr. Robert Butchart, which took place that afternoon. In the mid of the day she had been seen on the street in her usual health, and about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, being alone in the house, she ran into a neighbor's bleeding at the mouth, having burst a blood vessel. Medical attendance was at once summoned, but it was of no avail, as she continued to sink, and died in a couple of hours. The deceased was in the prime of life, well known and respected by a large circle of acquaintances, by whom her sudden death is much regretted; whilst the sorrowing husband has the general sympathy of the community in his great bereavement. O. S. Times.

Social.—The social at the Methodist Church, on the town line, Lyons neighborhood on Friday evening was a grand success, the church was crowded to its utmost capacity, after the eatables (which were rich and abundant) were disposed of, Mr. J. Logan was called to the chair and an interesting programme gone through with. Rev. Mr. McDiarmid, the pastor spoke briefly, and Mr. Joseph Hawkens, Sr., made an interesting and humorous speech, Mr. Wm. L. Young, and Mr. G. S. Bowes of Markdale, gave readings, and a portion of Markdale choir which were present gave selections of music. There were between 20 and 30 from Markdale, (ye editor purposed going but "got left.") This was the most successful social of the season thus far notwithstanding the fears of certain parties to the contrary. Proceeds $25.15.

The next one will be held in Dufferin Hall, tomorrow (Friday,) evening, when a very enjoyable time is expected.

"Who made yer new boots Jim?" "Nobody made them Bob, I bought them for two dollars at Trimble & Wright's.

Sudden Death.—An old man named Patric Muldoon died suddenly in gaol yesterday. The deceased, who was 60 years of age, sat up in bed and ate his breakfast yesterday morning, but about half-past eight o'clock he was seized with hemorrage of the lungs, and shortly afterwards died. An inquest was held, and a verdict in accordance with the fact returnd.—O. S. Advertiser.

If you wish to subscribe, or renew your subscription for the daily or weekly Mail, or Globe, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers Advocate, Canada Farmer, American Agriculturist, or scientific American, hand your subscription to us at the Standard Office, we will forward it and run our own risk.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $3 to $20 a day can be earned, send address at once, on a postal, to H. C. Wilkinson & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York. 121-5m.

Flesherton.

(From our own Correspondent.)

New Church.—The Presbyterian congregation is busily engaged drawing stone and brick for the erection of a fine church. A "big" day may be expected when laying the corner stone. E. J. Lennox, of Toronto, is the architect. The committee informed us that the contract which is now advertised will be let on the 21st inst.

I. O. O. F. Social.—The I. C. O. F. will give one of their popular socials or reunions this Wednesday evening 4th inst., a good time is expected. The 4th of April is the Anniversary of the lodge, and the 26th of April is the Anniversary of the order in America. We will give full particulars next week.

New Music.—The editor of the Advance is a member of the Methodist Church choir, the Standard man is cordially invited to visit.

New Copy Books.—J. L. Robertson of W. J. Gage & Co., was in the village on Tuesday making an exchange of "Gages Revised Copy Book" for the "Old Beatty Copy Book" published by them, in order that book sellers would not be at any loss.

New Brick Block.—Mr. M. Richardson has teams busily engaged drawing brick and sand for the erection of a new brick block on the corner of Toronto and Sydenham Street.

Insurance.—W. J. Bellamy, Real Estate and Insurance agent, Flesherton, will be in Markdale at Rutledge's hotel every Thursday until further notice. Insurance at the lowest possible rates. Money to loan on Real Estate at 6 to 7 per cent per annum. Conveyancing in all its branches carefully and properly executed.

Orangeville.

The Ontario Annual Conference of the M. E. Church will be held in Orangeville on the 25th April.

Mr. Samuel Polley, of Melancthon, has sold his farm, and was presented with an easy chair and a large bible recently.

The American Hotel was sold at auction on Tuesday afternoon to Mr. W. H. Hunter, for $4,500.—Orangeville Advertiser.

Personals.

We are pleased to see the genial countenance of our respected townsman Mr. Black out again, after being confined to the house most of the winter owing to his feeble state of health, together with the severity of the weather.

Mrs. McIntyre, took her departure on Tuesday, for Winnipeg, where she will spend the summer with her friends.

Mrs. J. F. Sproule, took the morning train Tuesday last, to join her husband in Winnipeg, she having wintered in this place for her health.

Albert Rutledge and Oscar Wright are going to Owen Sound on Monday, where they will spend a term in the Northern Business College.

Edward S. Rutledge and Wm. Wright left on Tuesday for the North West.

Thos. Gamey, Esq., of Osprey, gave us a call on Tuesday.

Miss Hassin of Leeds Co., who has been visiting friends in this locality the past few weeks, left on Tuesday to join her brother in Winnipeg.

We have received a copy of a new paper called "The Evening Tribune" published in Hamilton, the first number of which appeared on Tuesday the 27th of March. The tribune is to be independent, but not neutral, in politics, and bids fair for success. Price 25cts a month.

Strayed.—Into the premises of Mrs. Cornwall a strange animal without feet, having on extra amount of frills and lace tucked all around it, how it got their without feet is a mystery. Owner can have it by proving property.

The social at Mr. Murrays, Glenelg on Tuesday evening was well attended, Mr. Murray's fine large house was filled to its utmost capacity. A very enjoyable time was spent. Proceeds $15. The thanks of the young people of Markdale, are cordially given to those persons who were so kind in providing a way of conveyance.

At Doll & Brown's just received, new Violins, Bridges, strings &c., steel and cat. All good; at reasonable prices, and as represented.

If you want your razor put in good order, take it to Smith the Barber.

Holland council met at Holland Centre, to-day (Thursday.)

Euphrasia council meets at Rocklyn, tomorrow (Friday.)

A house and lot for sale in Markdale, a very desirable place, apply at this office

Mr. C. Treadgold is agent for the celebrated Bell Organ and also for first class sewing machines. Parties wishing to purchase in his line of business will find it to their advantage to deal with him.

Smith the barber keeps the best stomach bitters in use.

Remember the Methodist social in Dufferin Hall, to-morrow evening (Friday). Every preparation is being made to make it a first class entertainment. Admission only 15ct. Be sure and go, the weather won't stop the fun.

Mr. Nodwell, who purchased Mount Royal Farm, is mooving in today.

Mr. Gilray, Reeve of Euphrasia, gave me a call today.

Mr. R. Gordon has been buying horses here, and shipped today 7 pair.

Jimmy tried to shave himself
His razor proved the nave,
So he went to Smith the Barber
And had a decent shave.

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Listen ye lovers of the cup that cheers.
In which are always smiles and never tears,
Quit buying rubbish advertised as cheap.
Unless you want to help a doctor keep.
Order the best, the cheapest, in the end,
Rely on Richardson as your true friend;
Try him but once and we are sure you'll find
Each pound of Tea exactly to your mind,
That his Tea leaves all other Teas behind.

A. HILL,

TAILOR.

Over McFarland's Store,
MARKDALE.

☞ Special attention to Cutting. ☜

If you want a Perfect Fit leave your Order with.

A. HILL.

September 20th 1882. 106.

J. G. IRVING,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all Kinds of

PUMPS.

Drop Valve, Cylinder, Force, and Cistern Pumps.

All kinds of

IRON - PUMPS

SUPPLIED.

TENDERS.

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned up to the 1st April, 1883, for the erection and completion of a School House in S. S. No. 17, Euphrasia. Plans and specification may be seen at the residence of Joseph Manarey, W. ½ lot 18, con. 10, Euphrasia, Harkaway P. O. Building to be complete by the 1st August, 1883, and paid for the 15th Jan., 1884. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

JOSEPH MANARY, Sec. Treas.

Euphrasia, March 9th, 1883. 131-4in.

Farm for Sale.

TO sell or rent, Lot S 1/2 14, con. 9, Euphrasia, 8 miles from Markdale and 3 from Rocklyn, containing 100 acres, 70 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, fit to run reaper and mower, and balance hardwood bush with sufficient cedar for fencing. Well watered with never failing spring only 10 rods from barn; has a young orchard, house, barn and stable. There is a new steam saw mill on next farm to it. Clear deed can be given. For particulars apply on the premises to

SAMUEL WRIGHT,
Rocklyn P. O.

Mansion House,

MARKDALE,

JAMES BRIEN, - - Proprietor.

HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE Hotel, and thoroughly overhauled and refurnished the same, I am now in a position to receive a share of public patronage. The choicest brands of liquors and cigars kept. Good meals; also good stabling.

Markdale, Mar. 14th, 1883. 131ly

EARS FOR THE MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as Carcharodon Rondeletii. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say:

It has performed a miracle in my case.
I have no unearthly noises in my head, and hear much better.
I have been greatly benefited.
My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to Haylock and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so."—Editor of Mercantile Review.

☞To avoid loss in the mails, please send money by Registered Letter.

Only imported by HAYLOCK & JENNEY, late Haylock & Co.,

Sole Agents for America. 7 Dey St New York

93-145.

$500 Reward!

We will pay the above reward for any case of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation or Costiveness we cannot cure with West's Vegetable Liver Pills, when the directions are strictly complied with. They are purely Vegetable, and never fail to give satisfaction. Sugar Coated, Large Boxes, containing 30 Pills, 25 cts. For sale by all Druggists. Beware of counterfeits and immitations. The genuine manufactured only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., "The Pill Makers," 81 & 83 King St. East, Toronto Ont. Free trial package sent by mail prepaid on receipt of a 3 cent stamp. For sale at Turner & Co. Drug Store.

MARKDALE Meat Market.

A constant supply of

Fresh Meats!

on hand, at the

Lowest Living Prices.

Orders solicited, and delivered free to all parts of the Town.

Farmers having fat stock to dispose of, will please leave their addresses.

TERMS, STRICTLY CASH.

FRED. SARJEANT.

Markdale March 23, 1882. 80-1y

THE

BEST AND CHEAPEST.

Coolness of temperament is a virtue, but the refreshing coolnesg of the

Preserved Meats, Fruits, and Vegetables,

—KEPT AT THE—

BELFAST HOUSE, MARKDALE,

beats all the icebergs ever floated down the Atlantic Ocean.

The Belfast House

Teas and Coffees!

give an exhilirating influence, not equalled in Markdale, except by Benson's

WHISKIES, BRANDIES, WINES,

&c. Those who relish the "pipe of peace" will find the

Tobaccos and Cigars

at the Belfast House unsurpassed north of Toronto. Cheese, Bologna Sausage, and Biscuit in endless variety, all from the best manufacturers, at the Belfast House. Apples, (green and dried,) Spices, Sweetmeats, &c. Toilet and Fancy Soaps, Essences, Perfumes, and Family Oils, of the purest quality. Flour, Potatoes, Pork, Herring, (dried and salt,) kept constantly on hand.

☞Our Bottled Gin is imported directly from the manufacturers, and our Bottled Wines are put up at the Vintage. Pickles in bottles, Mustard in cans, and in fact everything in the grocery trade. A recent addition to my finances will enable me to purchase in the head markets of Europe and America.

WILSON BENSON.

AN ACROSTIC.

Look out ye farmers and threshers all
And see that you buy for Spring, Summer and Fall
Right splendid good oil.
Don't be misled by statements bland,
Insist upon having the very best brand,
Now good as ever, in fact it is grand,
Everlasting wear without grit or sand.
Machines run smoothly, no jarring or noise,
And engines too in its use rejoice.
Carding also it suits, as you plainly see,
Heavy gristing cannot do without me.
In fact all machines are blessed by its use.
New or old it will save from wear and abuse,
Every man try it, we are sure it will please.
Our initials, when read, will give the cue
In looking for oil, the best and the true,
Long in the market, but ever new.

Manufactured solely by McColl Bros. & Co., Toronto. No connection with any other firm.

127-153.

Health is Wealth!

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death. Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary losses and Spermatorrhœa, caused by over-exertion of the brain, self abuse or over indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser a written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by A. Turner & Co., sole authorized Agent for Markdale Ont. John C. West & Co. sole proprietor, Toronto Ont.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Mill Filed on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Birch, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted Cash.

M. AKITT, Eugenia.

NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

FIVE MINUTES' SELECT READING.

Summary of Foreign, Domestic and War Items—Concise, Pithy, and Pointed.

DOMESTIC.

Great activity is observed in the Petrolia oil district.

It is stated that a permanent militia school is to be established at Montreal.

Mr. Tarte withdrew his action of $25,000 against Mr. Tardivel, proprietor of the Verite, for alleged libel.

General Lord Alexander Russel, C. B. will succeed General Sir Patrick L. McDougall in command of the Canadian forces.

James McFarlane, of West Nanticatte, Pa., formerly of Hamilton, Ont., has been murdered by parties unknown.

UNITED STATES.

The ravages of small pox still continue at Bogata.

The Apaches threaten to annihilate the white settlers in Grant County, Arizona.

Fifty whites have been murdered by Indians within four days in the Gila valley.

